o That is, money to buy possessions with: meaning, that it is detestable in the servants of God to have covetous mindes 27 The leprosie therefore of Naaman shall cleave unto thee, and to thy p seede for ever. And hee went out from his presence a leper white as snow.

CHAP. VI.

6 Elisha maketh yron to swimme aboue the water. 8 He discloseth the king of Syrias counsell to the king of Israel, 13 who sending to take him, were kept fast in Samaria. 24 Samaria is besieged, and endureth extreme famine.

A Nd the children of the Prophets said unto Elisha, Behold, we pray thee, the place where we dwell with thee, is too little for us.

2 Let us now goe to Iorden, that we may take thence every man a a beame, and make us a place to dwell in. And he answered, Goe.

a Or a piece of wood ne to build with.

3 And one said, Vouchsafe, I pray thee, to goe with thy servants. And he answered, I will goe.

4 So he went with them, and when they came to Iorden, they cut downe wood.

‖ Or, the axe head.

5 And as one was felling of a tree, the ‖ yron fell into the water: then he cryed, and said, Alas master, it was but borowed.

b God wrought this miraculously to confirme the authority of Elisha, to whom he had given such abundance of his Spirit.

6 And the man of God said, Where fell it? And he shewed him the place. Then he cut downe a piece of wood, and cast in thither, and he caused the yron to b swimme.

7 Then he sayd, Take it up to thee. And hee stretched out his hand, and tooke it.

c Meaning, that he would lie in ambush, and take the Israelites at mayares.

8 ¶ Then the king of Aram warred against Israel, and tooke counsell with his servants, and said, In c such and such a place shall be my campe.

9 Therefore the man of God sent unto the king of Israel, saying, Beware thou goe not over to such a place: for there the Aramites are come downe.

10 So the king of Israel sent to the place which the man of God told him, and warned him of, and d saved himselfe from thence, not once, nor twice.

d The wicked enquire nothing so craftily, but God can reveale it to his servants, and cause their counsell to be disclosed.

11 And the heart of the king of Aram was troubled for this thing: therefore hee called his servants, and said unto them, Will yee not shew me, which of us bewrayeth our counsell to the king of Israel?

12 The one of his servants said, None, my lord, O king, but Elisha the Prophet that is in Israel, telleth the king of Israel, even the wordes that thou speakest in thy e privie chamber.

e There is nothing so secret that thou canst goe about, but he knoweth it, and discovereth it unto his King 13 And he said, Goe and espie where he is, that I may send and fetch him. And one told him, saying, Behold, hee is in Dothan.

f Though it had bene nothing in mans iudgement to have taken Elisha, yet the wicked ever doubt, and thinke they are never able to prepare power enough, though it be but against one or a few.

14 ¶ So he sent thither horses, and charets, and a f mightie hoaste: and they came by night, and compassed the citie.

15 And when the servant of the man of God arose early to goe out, beholde, an hoaste compassed the city with horses and charets. Then his servant said unto him, Alas master, how shall wee doe?

16 And hee answered, g Feare not: for they that be with us, are moe then they that be with them.

g For he was assured of Gods helpe, and that millions of Angels camped about the godly to deliver them.

17 Then Elisha prayed, and said, Lord, I beseech thee, open his eyes, h that hee may see. And the Lord opened the eyes of the servant, and hee looked, and behold, the mountaine was full of horses and charets of fire round about Elisha.

* 1 Chron. 32. 7.

h That he may behold how thou hast prepared an armie to rescue us.

18 So i they came downe to him, but Elisha prayed unto the Lord, and said, Smite this people, I pray thee, with bindnesse. And hee smote them with blindnesse, according to the word of Elisha.

i Meaning, the Syrians his enemies.

19 And Elisha said unto them, This is not the way, neither is this the city: follow mee, and I will leade you to the man whom yee seeke. But he led k them to Samaria.

k That he did being led by the Spirit of God, and not because he fought his owne reverence, but onely to set forth the glory of God.

20 And when they were come to Samaria, Elisha said, Lord, open their eyes ẏ they may see. And the Lord opened their eyes, and they saw, and behold, they were in the middes of Samaria.

21 And the king of Israel said unto Elisha when he saw them, l My father, shall I smite them, shall I smite them?

l The wicked use reverent and grave wordes towards the servants of God, when they thinke to have any commoditie by them, though in their heart they cannot abide them.

22 And hee answered, Thou shalt not smite them: doest thou not smite them that thou hast taken with thy sword, and with thy bow? but set bread and water before them, that they may eate and drinke and goe to their master.

m For this gentle intreatie and the miracle wrought by the Prophet, did more prevaile for common quietnes, then if they had bin overcome in battell: for they returned no more at that time to fight against Israel, or in that Kings dayes.

23 And he made great preparation for them: and when they had eaten and drunken, hee sent them away: and they went to their master. So the bands of Aram came m no more into the land of Israel.

24 But afterward Ben-hadad king of Aram gathered all his hoaste, and went up and besieged Samaria.

n The Ebrewes write, that they burned it in the siege for lacke of wood.

25 So there was a great famine in Samaria: for loe, they besieged it untill an asses head was at foure score pieces of silver, and the fourth part of a kab of doves n doung at five pieces of silver.

26 And as the king of Israel was going upon the wall, there cryed a woman unto him, saying, Helpe, my lord, O King.

27 And he said, Seeing the Lord doeth not succour o Meaning, any kinde of victuals, as corne and wine, &c.

Deut. 28.53.57.

‖ Or, under his cloathes.

p Thus hypocrites when they feele Gods iudgements, thinke to please him with outward ceremonies whom in prosperity they wil not know.

q Meaning Iehoram Ahabs sonne, who killed the prophets, and caused Naboth to be stoned.

r So the wicked fall into a rage and desperation, if they finde not sudden remedie against their affliction.

a The godly are ever assured of Gods help in their necessities, but the times and houres are onely revealed by Gods Spirit.

b To whom the King gave the charge & oversight of things, as vers. 17.

c He mocked at the Prophets words, saying, that if God rained downe corne from heaven, yet this could not come to passe.

d Thy infidelity shalbe punished herein when thou shalt see this miracle, and yet not be partaker thereof.

e For it was commanded in the law that they should dwell apart, and not among their brethren. Levi. 13.46.

f Thus God needeth no great preparation to destroy the wicked, though they be never so many: for he can scatter them with a small noyse, or shaking of a leafe.

g The wicked made no greater enemie then their owne conscience to pursue them, courr thee, how should I helpe thee with the o barne, or with the winepresse?

28 Also the king said unto her, What ayleth thee? And she answered, This woman said unto me, Give thy sonne that we may eate him to day, and we will eate my sonne to morow.

29 * So we sod my sonne, and did eate him: and I said to her the day after, Give thy sonne, that we may eate him, but she hath hid her sonne.

30 And when the king had heard the words of the woman, he rent his cloathes, (and as he went upon the wall, the people looked, and behold, he had sackecloath ‖ within p upon his flesh)

31 And he said, God doe so to mee and more also, if the head of Elisha the sonne of Shaphat shall stand on him this day.

32 (Now Elisha sate in his house, and the Elders sate with him.) And the King sent a man before him: but before the messenger came to him, he said to the Elders, See ye not how this q murtherers sonne hath sent to take away mine head? take heede when the messenger commeth, and shut the doore, and handle him roughly at the doore: is not the sound of his masters feete behinde him.

33 While hee yet talked with them, behold, the messenger came downe unto him, and said, Behold, this evill commeth of the Lord: r should I attend on the Lord any longer?

CHAP. VII.

1 Elisha prophecieth plentie of victailes, and other things to Samaria. 6 The Syrians run away and have no man following them. 17 The prince that would not beleeve the word of Elisha, is troden to death.

a THen Elisha said, Heare yee the word of the Lord: thus saith the Lord, a To morow this time a measure of fine floure shallbe sold for a shekel, and two measures of barley for a shekel in the gate of Samaria.

2 Then a prince, on whose hand the king b leaned, answered the man of God, and said, Though the Lord would make c windowes in the heaven, could this thing come to passe? And hee said, Behold, thou shalt see it with thine eyes, but thou shalt not d eate thereof.

3 Now there were foure leprous men at the e entring in of the gate: and they said one to another, Why sit we here until we die?

4 If we say, We will enter into the citie, the famine is in the citie, and we shall die there: and if wee sit heere, we die also. Now therefore come, and let us fall into the campe of the Aramites: if they save our lives, we shall live: and if they kill us, we are but dead.

5 So they rose up in the twilight, to goe to the campe of the Aramites: and when they were come to the vtmost part of the campe of the Aramites, loe, there was no man there.

6 For the Lord had caused the campe of the Aramites to heare a f noise of charets, and a noise of horses, and a noise of a great armie, so that they said one to another, Beholde, The King of Israel hath hired against us the kings of the Hittites, and the kings of the Egyptians to come upon us.

7 Wherefore they arose, and fled in the twilight, and left their tents and their horses, and their asses, even the campe as it was, and g fled for their lives.

8 And when these lepers came to the vtmost part of the campe, they entred into one tent, and did eate and drinke, and caried thence silver and gold, and raiment, and went and hid it: after, they returned, and entred into another tent, and caried thence also, and went and hid it.

9 Then sayd one to another, Wee doe not well: this day is a day of good tidings, and wee hold our peace. If wee tarie till day light, some ‖ mischiefe will come upon us. Now therefore, come, let us goe, and tell the kings household.

‖ Or, we shall be punished for our fault.

10 So they came and called unto the porters of the citie, and told them, saying, We came to the campe of the Aramites, and loe, there was no man there, neither voyce of man, but horses tyed and asses tyed: and the tents are as they were.

11 And the porters cryed and declared to the kings house within.

12 Then the king arose in the night, and said unto his servants, h I will shew you now, what the Aramites have done unto us. They know that we are affamished, therefore they are gone out of the campe to hide themselves in the field, saying, When they come out of the citie, wee shall catch them alive, and get into the citie.

h He mistrusted the Prophets words, and therefore could beleeve nothing, as they which are more politike then godly ever cast more perils then needeth.

13 And one of his servants answered, and said, Let men take now five of the horses that remaine, and are left in the citie, (behold, they are even as all the i multitude of Israel that are left therein: behold, I say, they are as the multitude of the Israelites that are consumed) and we will send to see.

i There are no more left, but they or the rest are consumed with the famine, as the rest of the people.

14 So they tooke ‖ two charets of horses, and the king sent after the hoaste of the Aramites, saying, Goe and see.

‖ Or, two horses of the charet, which were accustomed to draw in the charet.

15 And they went after them unto Iorden, and lo, all the way was full of cloathes and vessels which the Aramites had cast from them in their haste: and the messengers returned, and told the king.

16 Then the people went out and spoiled the campe of the Aramites: so a measure of fine floure was at a shekel, and two measures of barley at a shekel k according to the word of the Lord.

k Which he spake by the mouth of Elisha, verse 1.

17 And the king gave the prince (on whose hand he leaned) the charge of the gate, and the people l trode upon him in the gate, and he died, as the man of God had said, which spake it, when the king came downe to him.

l As the people preased out of the gate to run to the Syrians tents, where they had heard was meate, and great spoile left.

18 And it came to passe, as the man of God had spoken to the king, saying, Two measures of barley at a shekel, and a measure of fine floure shall be at a shekel, to morow about this time in the gate of Samaria.

19 But the prince had answered the man of God, and said, Though the Lord would make windowes to the heaven, could it come so to passe? And he said, Behold, thou shalt see it with thine eyes, but thou shalt not eate thereof.

20 And so it came unto him: for the people trode upon him in the gate, and he died.

CHAP. VIII.

1 Elisha prophecieth unto the Shunammite the dearth of seven yeeres. 3 He prophecieth to Hazael, that hee shall be king of Syria. 15 He reigneth after Benhadad. 16 Iehoram reigneth over Iudah. 20 Edom falleth from Iudah. 25 Ahaziah succeedeth Iehoram.

* Chap. 4.35.

THen spake Elisha unto the woman, * whose sonne he had restored to life, saying, Vp, and goe, thou, and thine house, and soiourne where a thou canst soiourne: for the Lord hath called for a famine, and it commeth also upon the land seven yeeres.

a Where thou canst finde a commodious place to dwell, where as is plentie,

2 And

2 And the woman arose, and did after the saying of the man of God, and went both she and her household, and soiourned in the land of the Philistims seven yeeres.

3 ¶ And at the seven yeeres end, the woman returned out of the land of the Philistims, and went out [b] to call upon the king for her house and for her land.

4 And the King talked with Gehazi the servant of the man of God, saying, Tell me, I pray thee, all the great acts that Elisha hath done.

5 And as he told [c] the king, how he had restored one dead to life, behold, the woman, whose sonne hee had raised to life, called upon the king for her house and for her land. Then Gehazi said, My lord, O King, this is the woman, and this is her sonne, whom Elisha restored to life.

6 And when the king asked the woman, she told him: so the King appointed her an Eunuch, saying, Restore thou all that are hers, and all the [d] fruits of her land since the day that she left the land, even vntill this time.

7 ¶ Then Elisha came to Damascus, and Benhadad the king of Aram was sicke: and one told him, saying, The man of God is come hither.

8 And the king said unto Hazael, Take a present in thine hand, and goe meet the man of God, that thou maiest enquire of the Lord by him, saying, Shall I recover of this disease?

9 So Hazael went to meet him, and tooke the present in his hand, and of every [e] good thing of Damascus, even the burden of fourtie camels, and came and stood before him, and saide, Thy sonne Ben-hadad king of Aram hath sent mee to thee, saying, Shall I recover of this disease?

10 And Elisha said to him, Goe, and say unto him, Thou shalt [f] recover: howbeit the Lord hath shewed me, that hee shall surely die.

11 And hee looked upon him stedfastly, till Hazael was ashamed, and the man of God wept.

12 And Hazael said, Why weepeth my lord? And hee answered, because I know the evill that thou shalt doe unto the children of Israel: for their strong cities shalt thou set on fire, and their yong men shalt thou slay with the sword, and shalt dash their infants against the stones, and rent in pieces their women with child.

13 Then Hazael said What? is thy servant [g] a dogge, that I should doe this great thing? And Elisha answered, The Lord hath shewed mee, that thou shalt be king of Aram.

14 ¶ So he departed from Elisha, and came to his master, who said to him, What said Elisha to thee? And he answered, Hee tolde mee that thou shouldest recover.

15 And on the morowe hee tooke a thicke cloath and dipt it in water, and [h] spread it on his face, and hee died: and Hazael reigned in his steade.

16 ¶ * Now in the first yeere of Ioram the sonne of Ahab king of Israel, and of Iehoshaphat King of Iudah, [i] Iehoram the sonne of Iehoshaphat king of Iudah began [k] to reigne.

17 Hee was two and thirtie yeere old, when hee began to reigne: and he reigned eight yeere in Ierusalem.

18 And he walked in the wayes of the Kings of Israel, as did the house of Ahab: for the [l] daughter of Ahab was his wife, and he did evill in the sight of the Lord.

19 Yet the Lord would not destroy Iudah, for Dauid his servants sake, * as he had promised him to give him a light, and to his children for ever.

20 ¶ In those dayes Edom [m] rebelled from vnder the hand of Iudah, and made a King over themselves.

21 Therefore Ioram went to Zair, and all his charets with him, and he arose by night, and smote the Edomites which were about him, with the captaines of the charets, and the people fled into their tents.

22 So Edom rebelled from vnder the hand of Iudah unto this day: then [n] Libnah rebelled at that same time.

23 Concerning the rest of the actes of Ioram and all that he did, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the kings of Iudah?

24 And Ioram slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David. And * Ahaziah his sonne reigned in his stead.

25 ¶ In the twelfth yeare of Ioram the sonne of Ahab King of Israel, did Ahaziah the sonne of Iehoram king of Iudah begin to reigne.

26 [o] Two and twentie yeare old was Ahaziah when he began to reigne, and he reigned one yeare in Ierusalem, and his mothers name was Athaliah the daughter of Omri king of Israel.

27 And he walked in the way of the house of Ahab, and did evill in the sight of the Lord, like the house of Ahab: for he was the sonne in law of the house of Ahab.

28 And he went with Ioram the sonne of Ahab to warre against Hazael king of Aram in [p] Ramoth Gilead, and the Aramites smote Ioram.

29 And king Ioram returned to be healed in [q] Izreel of the wounds which the Aramites had given him at Ramah, when he fought against Hazael king of Aram. And Ahaziah the sonne of Iehoram king of Iudah went downe to see Ioram the sonne of Ahab in Izreel, because he was sicke.

THen Elisha the Prophet called one of the children of the Prophets, and said unto him, * a Gird thy loynes, and take this boxe of oyle in thine hand, and get thee to Ramoth Gilead.

2 And when thou commest thither, looke where is Iehu the sonne of Iehoshaphat, the sonne of Nimshi, and goe, and make him arise up from among his brethren, and leade him [†] to a secret chamber.

3 Then take the boxe of oyle and powre it on his head, and say, Thus saith the Lord, I have anoynted thee for king over Israel: then open the doore, and flee without any tarying.

4 So the servant of the Prophet gate him up to Ramoth Gilead.

5 And when he came in, behold, the captaines of the armie were sitting. And hee said, I have a message to thee, O captaine. And Iehu said, Unto which of all us? And he answered, To thee, O captaine.

6 And he arose, and went into the house, and he powred the oyle on his head, and said unto him, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, I have [b] anoynted thee for king over the people of the Lord, even over Israel.

d In this eſtimation the world hath the miniſters of God: notwithſtanding foraſmuch as the world hath ever ſlandred the children of God (yea they called the Sonne of God a deceiver, and ſaid he had the devill) therefore they ought not to be diſcouraged.

13 Then they made haſte, and tooke every man his garment, and put it vnder him on the top of the ſtaires, and blew the trumpet, ſaying, Iehu is King.
14 So Iehu the ſonne of Iehoſhaphat the ſonne of Nimſhi conſpired againſt Ioram: (Now Ioram kept Ramoth Gilead, hee and all Iſrael, becauſe of Hazael king of Aram.

e God had thus ordeined, as is read, 2.Chron 22.7. that this wicked and idolatrous King, who was more ready to graſpe wicked Ioram, then to obey the will of God, ſhould periſh with him, by whoſe meanes he thought to have beene ſtronger.

21 ¶ Then Iehoram ſaid, Make ready: and his charet was made ready. And Iehoram king of Iſrael, and Ahaziah king of Iudah went out either of them in his charet againſt Iehu, and met him in the field of Naboth the Izreelite.

23 Then Iehoram turned his hand, and fled, and ſaid to Ahaziah, O Ahaziah, there is treaſon.

h By this place it is evident, that Iezebel caused both Naboth and his ſonnes to be put to death, that Ahab might enjoy his vineyard more quietly: for els his children might have claimed poſſeſſion.

‖ Or, chief ſervants, 32 And he lift up his eyes to the window, and ſaid, Who is on my ſide, who? Then two or three of her ‖ Eunuches looked unto him.
n This he did by the motion of the Spirit of God, that her blood ſhould be ſhed, that had ſhed the blood of innocents, to be a ſpectacle and example of Gods judgements to all tyrants.
33 And he ſaid, Caſt her downe: and they caſt her downe, n and he ſprinkled of her blood upon the wall, and upon the horſes, and he trode her under foote.
o To wit, of the king of Zidon, 1 King.16,31.

p Thus Gods judgements appeare even in this world againſt them that ſuppreſſe his word and perſecute his ſervants. 36 Wherefore they came againe and told him. And he ſaid, This is the word of the Lord, which he ſpake † by his ſervant Elijah the Tiſhbite, ſaying, * In the field of Izreel ſhall the dogs eate the fleſh of Iezebel.

CHAP. X.

6 Iehu cauſeth the ſeventie ſonnes of Ahab to be ſlaine, 14 And after that fourtie and two of Ahaziahs brethren. 25 He killeth alſo all the Prieſts of Baal. 35 After his death his ſonne reigneth in his ſtead.

A Hab had now ſeventie a ſonnes in Samaria. And Iehu wrote letters, and ſent to Samaria unto the rulers of Izreel, and to the Elders, and to the bringers up of Ahabs children, to this effect, a The Scripture vſeth to call them ſonnes, which are either children or nepheves.
2 Now when this letter commeth to you, (for yee have with you your maſters ſonnes, yee have with you both charets and horſes, and a defenced city, and armour)
3 Conſider therefore which of your maſters ſonnes is beſt and moſt meete, and b ſet him on his fathers throne, and fight for your maſters houſe.
b Hee wrote this to proove them whether they would take his part or no.
4 But they were exceedingly afraid, and ſaid, Behold, two kings could not ſtand before him, how ſhall we then ſtand?

5 And

5 And he that was governour of Ahabs houſe, and he that ruled the city, and the Elders, and the bringers up of the children ſent to Iehu, ſaying, We are thy ſeruants, and will do all that thou ſhalt bid us: we will make no king: do what ſeemeth good to thee.

6 ¶ Then hee wrote another letter to them, ſaying, If yee be mine, and will obey my voyce, [c] take the heads of the men that are your maſters ſonnes, and come to me to Izreel by to morowe this time. (Now the kings ſonnes, even ſeuentie perſons were with the great men of the city, which brought them up.)

c God as a juſt Iudge puniſheth the wicked children of wicked parents unto the third and fourth generation.

7 And when the letter came to them, they tooke the Kings ſonnes, and ſlewe the ſeuentie perſons, and layd their heads in baskets, and ſent them unto him to Izreel.

8 ¶ Then there came a meſſenger and tolde him, ſaying, They have brought the heads of the Kings ſonnes. And he ſaid, Let hem lay them on two heapes at the entring in of the gate untill the morning.

9 And when it was day he went out, and ſtood and ſaid to all the people, Ye be [d] righteous: behold, I conſpired againſt my maſter, and ſlewe him: but who ſlewe all theſe?

d Ye cannot juſtly condemne me for the kings death, ſeeing ye have done the like to his poſteritie: for the Lord commanded me, and mooved you to execute this his judgement.

10 Knowe now that there ſhall fall unto the earth nothing of the word of the Lord, which the Lord ſpake concerning the houſe of Ahab: for the Lord hath brought to paſſe the things that he ſpake † by his ſervant * Elijah.

* 1. King. 21. 25.

11 So Iehu ſlew all that remained of the houſe of Ahab in Izreel, and all that were great with him, and his familiars, and his [e] prieſts, ſo that he let none of his remaine.

e Meaning, which were the idolatrous prieſts.

12 ¶ And he aroſe, and departed, and came to Samaria. And as Iehu was in the way by an houſe where the ſhepherds did ſheare, 13 He met with the brethren of Ahaziah king of Iudah, and ſaid, Who are ye? And they anſwered, We are the brethren of Ahaziah, and go downe to ſalute the children of the King and the children of the Queene.

14 And he ſaid, Take them alive. And they tooke them alive, and ſlew them at the well beſide the houſe where the ſheepe are ſhorne, even two and fourtie men, and he [f] left not one of them.

f Thus Gods vengeance is upon them that have any part or familiaritie with the wicked.

15 ¶ And when he was departed thence, hee met with Iehonadab the ſonne of Rechab comming to meete him, and hee [g] ‖ bleſſed him, and ſaid to him, Is thine heart upright, as mine heart is toward thine? And Iehonadab anſwered, Yea, doubtleſſe. Then give me thine hand. And when he had given him his hand, hee tooke him up to him into the charet.

g For he feared God, and lamented the wickednes of thoſe times: therefore Iehu was glad to joyne with him: of Rechab reade Ierem. 35. 2.

‖ Or, prayſed God for him.

16 And he ſaid, Come with mee, and ſee the zeale that I have for the Lord: ſo they made him ride in his charet.

17 And when he came to Samaria, he ſlewe all that remained unto Ahab in Samaria, till he had deſtroyed him, according to the word of the Lord, which he ſpake to Elijah.

18 Then Iehu aſſembled all the people, and ſayd unto them, Ahab ſerved [h] Baal a little, but Iehu ſhall ſerve him much more.

h Here Baal is taken for Aſhtaroth the idole of the Zidonians, which Iezebel cauſed to be worſhipped, as it is alſo uſed. 1 King. 16. 32. and 22. 53.

19 Now therefore call unto mee all the prophets of Baal, all his ſervants, and all his prieſts, and let not a man be lacking: for I have a great ſacrifice for Baal: whoſoever is lacking, he ſhall not live. But Iehu did it by a ſubtilitie to deſtroy the ſervants of Baal, 20 And Iehu ſaid, † Proclaime a ſolemne aſſembly for Baal. And they proclaimed it.

21 So Iehu ſent unto all Iſrael, and all the ſervants of Baal came, and there was not a man left that came not. And they came into the houſe of Baal, and the houſe of Baal was full from ende to ende.

22 Then hee ſaid unto him that had the charge of the veſtry, Bring forth veſtments for all the ſervants of Baal. And hee brought them out veſtments.

23 And when Iehu went, and Iehonadab the ſonne of Rechab into the houſe of Baal, he ſaid unto the ſervants of Baal, Search diligently, and look, leaſt there be here with you any of the [i] ſervants of the Lord, but the ſervants of Baal onely.

i Thus God would have his ſervants preſerved, and idolaters deſtroyed, as in his law he giveth expreſſe commandement. Deut. 13.

24 And when they went in to make ſacrifice and burnt-offering, Iehu appointed foureſcore men without, and ſayd, If any of the men whom I have brought into your hands, eſcape, ‖ his ſoule ſhall be for his ſoule.

‖ Or, he ſhal die for him.

25 And when hee had made an ende of the burnt-offering, Iehu ſayd to the guard, and to the captaines, Goe in, ſlay them, let not a man come out. And they ſmote them with the edge of the ſword. And the guard, and the captaines caſt them out, and went into the [k] city, were the temple of Baal.

k Which city was neare to Samaria.

26 And they brought out the images of the temple of Baal, and burnt them.

27 And they deſtroyed the image of Baal, and threw downe the houſe of Baal, and made a jakes of it unto this day.

28 So Iehu deſtroyed Baal out of Iſrael.

29 But from the ſinnes of Ieroboam the ſonne of Nebat which made Iſrael to ſinne, Iehu departed not from them, neither from the golden calves that were in Beth-el and that were in Dan.

30 ¶ And the Lord ſayd unto Iehu, Becauſe thou haſt diligently executed that which was right in mine eyes, and haſt done unto the houſe of Ahab according to all things that were in mine heart, therefore ſhall thy [l] ſonnes unto the fourth generation ſit on the throne of Iſrael.

l Thus God approoveth and rewardeth his zeale, in executing Gods judgement, albeit his wickednesſe was afterward puniſhed.

31 But Iehu regarded not to walke in the law of the Lord God of Iſrael with all his heart: for hee departed not from the ſinnes of Ieroboam, which made Iſrael to ſinne.

32 In thoſe dayes the Lord began to ‖ loathe Iſrael, and Hazael ſmote them in all the coaſts of Iſrael.

‖ Or, to cut them off.

33 From Iorden Eaſtward, even all the land of Gilead, the Gadites, and the Reubenites, and them that were of Manaſſeh, from Aroer (which is by the river Arnon) and Gilead and Baſhan.

34 Concerning the reſt of the actes of Iehu, and all that he did, and all his valiant deedes, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the kings of Iſrael?

35 And Iehu ſlept with his fathers, and they buried him in Samaria, and Iehoahaz his ſonne reigned in his ſtead.

36 And the time that Iehu reigned over Iſrael in Samaria is eighth and twentie yeares.

2 But Iehosheba the daughter of king Ioram, and sister to Ahaziah b tooke Ioash the sonne of Ahaziah, and stale him from among the Kings sonnes that should be slaine, both him and his nource, keeping them in c the bed-chamber, and they hid him from Athaliah, soo that hee was not slaine.

3 And hee was with her hid in the house of the Lord sixe yeare, and Athaliah did reigne over the land.

4 ¶ * And the seventh yeere d Iehoiada sent and tooke the captaines over hundreth, with other captaines and them of the guard, and caused them to come unto him into the house of the Lord, and made a covenant with them, and tooke an oathe of them in the house of the Lord, and shewed them the Kings sonne.

5 And he commanded them, saying, This is it that yee must doe, The third part of e you that commeth on the Sabbath, shall f ward toward the Kings house:

6 And another third part in the gate of g Sur: and another third part in the gate behind them of the guard: and ye shall keepe watch ‖ in the house of Massah.

7 And two parts of you, that is, all that h goe out on the Sabbath-day, shall keepe the watch of the house of the Lord about the king.

8 And yee shall compasse the King round about, every man with his weapon in his hand, and whosoever commeth within the ranges, let him be slaine: be you with the King, as he goeth out and in.

9 ¶ And the captaines of the hundreths did according to all that Iehoiada the Priests commanded, and they tooke every man his men that entred in to their charge on the i Sabbath, with them that went out of it on the Sabbath, and came to Iehoiada the Priest.

10 And the k Priest gave to the captaines of hundreths the speares and the shields that were king Davids, and were in the house of the Lord.

11 And the guard stood, every man with his weapon in his hand, from the right side of the house to the left side, about the altar and about the house, round about the king.

12 Then he brought out l the kings sonne, and put the crowne upon him, and gave him m the Testimony, and they made him king, also they anointed him, and clapt their hands, and said, God save the King.

13 ¶ And when Athaliah heard the noise of the running of the people, she came in to the people in the house of the Lord,

14 And when shee looked, behold, the King stood by a n pillar, as the manner was, and the princes and the trumpetters by the King, and all the people of the land reioyced, and blew with trumpets: Then Athaliah rent her cloathes, and cryed, Treason, treason.

15 But Iehoiada the Priest commanded the captaines of the hundreths that had the rule of the hoste, and said unto them, Have her ‖ forth of the ranges, and he that o followeth her, let him die by the sword: for the Priest had said, Let her not be slaine in the house of the Lord.

16 Then they layd hands on her, and she went by the way, by the which the horses goe to the house of the King, and there was she slaine.

17 And Iehoiada made a covenant betweene the Lord, and the P King and the people, that they should be the Lords people: likewise betweene the q King and the people.

18 Then all the people of the land went into the house of Baal, and destroyed it with his altars, and his images brake they downe couragiously, and slewe Mattan the Priests of Baal before the r altars: and the f Prieſt set a guard over the house of the Lord.

19 Then he tooke the captaines of hundreths, and the other captaines, and the guard, and all the people of the lande: and they brought the King from the house of the Lord, and came by the way of the gate of the guard to the Kings house: and hee sate him downe on the throne of the kings.

20 And all the people of the land rejoyced, and the city was in quiet: t for they had slaine Athaliah with the sword beside the kings house.

21 Seven yeare old was Iehoash when he began to reigne.

CHAP. XII.

6 Iehoash maketh provision for the repairing of the Temple. 16 He stayeth the king of Syria by a present from comming against Ierusalem. 20 He is killed by two of his servants.

IN * the seventh yeare of Iehu Iehoash began to reigne, and reigned fourty yeares in Ierusalem, and his mothers name was Zibiah of Beer-sheba.

2 And Iehoash did that which was good in the sight of the Lord all his time that a Iehoiada the Priest taught him.

3 But b the hie places were not taken away: for the people offered yet and burnt incense in the hie places.

4 ¶ And Iehoash said to the Priests, All the silver of dedicate things that be brought to the house of the Lord, that is, the money of them that are under the c count, the money that every man is set at, and all the money that one offereth willingly, and bringeth into the house of the Lord,

5 Let the Priests take it to them, every man of his acquaintance: and they shall repaire the d broken places of the house, whereſoever any decay is found.

6 ¶ Yet in the three and twentieth yeare of king Iehoash the Priests had not mended that which was decayed in the Temple.

7 Then king Iehoash called for Iehoiada the Prieſt, and the other Priests, and said unto them, Why repaire yee not the ruines of the Temple? now therefore e receive no more money of your acquaintance, except yee deliver it to repaire the ruines of the Temple.

8 So the Priests consented to receive no more money of the people, neither to repaire the decayed places of the Temple.

9 Then Iehoiada the Prieſt tooke a chest and bored an hole in the lid of it, and set it beside the altar, on the f right side, as every man commeth into the Temple of the Lord. And the Priests that kept the ‖ doore, put therein all the money that was brought into the house of the Lord.

10 And when they saw there was much money in the chest, the kings secretary came up and the hie Prieſt, and put it up after that they had tolde the money that was found in the house of the Lord.

11 And they gave the money made ready into the hands of them, g that undertooke the worke, h For these men had only the charge of the reparation of the Temple, and the rest of the money was brought to the king, who caused these afterward to be made, 2. Chron. 24, 14.

13 Howbeit there was h not made for the house of the Lord bowles of silver, instruments of musicke, basons, trumpets, nor any vessels of gold, or vessels of silver of the money that was brought into the house of the Lord.

14 But they gave it to the workemen, which repaired therewith the house of the Lord.

15 Moreover, they reckoned not with the men, into whose handes they delivered that money to be bestowed on workemen: for they dealth faithfully.

16 The money of the tresspasse-offring, and the money of the sinne-offrings was not brought into the house of the Lord: for it was the Priests.

17 ¶ Then came up Hazael king of Aram, and fought against Gath, and tooke it, and Hazael set his face to goe up to Ierusalem.

i After the death of Iehoiada, Ioash fell to idolatry: therefore God rejected him, and stirreth up his enemie against him, whom he pacified with the treasures of the Temple: for God would not be served with those gifts, seeing the kings heart was wicked.

18 And Iehoash king of Iudah tooke all the i hallowed things that Iehoshaphat, and Iehoram, and Ahaziah, his fathers kings of Iudah, had dedicated, and that hee himselfe had dedicated, and all the gold that was found in the treasures of the house of the Lord, and in the kings house, and sent it to Hazael king of Aram, and he departed from Ierusalem.

3 Iehoahaz the sonne of Iehu is delivered into the handes of the Syrians. 4 Hee prayeth unto God, and is delivered. 9 Ioash his sonne reigneth in his stead. 20 Elisha dieth. 24 Hazael dieth.

IN the three and twentieth yeere of Ioash the sonne of Ahaziah king of Iudah, Iehoahaz the sonne of Iehu began to reigne over Israel in Samaria, and he reigned seventeene yeere.

2 And hee did evill in the sight of the Lord, and followed the sinnes of Ieroboam the sonne of Nebat, which made Israel to a sinne, and departed not therefrom.

a By worshipping the calves which Ieroboam did erect in Israel.

3 And the Lord was angry with Israel, and delivered them into the hand of Hazael king of Aram, and into the hand of Ben-hadad the sonne of Hazael, all b his dayes.

4 And Iehoahaz besought the Lord, and the Lord heard him: for he saw the trouble of Israel, wherewith the king of Aram troubled them.

c To wit, Ioash the sonne of Iehoahaz. d Safely and without danger. † Ebr. as yesterday and before yesterday.

5 (And the Lord gave Israel a c deliverer, so that they came out from under the subiection of the Aramites. And the children of Israel d dwelt in their tents as † beforetime.

6 Nevertheless, they departed not from the sinnes of the house of Ieroboam which made Israel sinne, but walked in them, even the e grove also remained still in Samaria)

e Wherein they did commit their idolatrie, and which the Lord had commanded to be destroyed, Deut. 16. 21.

7 For hee had left of the people to Iehoahaz but fiftie horsmen, and ten charets, and ten thousand footmen, because the king f of Aram had destroyed them, and made them like dust beaten to powder.

f That is, Hazael and Benhadad his sonne, as verse 3. Reade of Hazael, Chap. 8. 12.

8 Concerning the rest of the acts of Iehoahaz and all that hee did, and his valiant deeds, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel?

9 And Iehoahaz slept with his fathers, and they buried him in Samaria, and Ioash his sonne reigned in his stead.

10 ¶ In the seven and thirtieth yeere of Ioash king g of Iudah began Iehoash the sonne of Iehoahaz to reigne over Israel in Samaria, and reigned sixteene yeere.

g His chiefe purpose is to describe the kingdome of Iudah, and how God performed his promise made to the house of David: but by the way he sheweth how Israel was afflicted and punished for their great idolatry, who though they had now degenerate, yet God both by sending them sundry Prophets and divers punishments, did call them unto him againe.

11 And did evill in the sight of the Lord: for he departed not from all the sinnes of Ieroboam the sonne of Nebat that made Israel to sinne, but he walked therein.

12 Concerning the rest of the actes of Ioash, and all that hee did, and his valiant deedes, and how hee fought against Amaziah king of Iudah, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel?

13 And Ioash slept with his fathers, and Ieroboam sate upon his seate: and Ioash was buried in Samaria among the kings of Israel.

14 ¶ When Elisha fell sicke of his sickenesse whereof hee died, Ioash the king of Israel came downe unto him, and wept upon his face, and said, h Oh my father, my father, the charet of Israel, and the horsemen of the same.

h Thus they used to call the Prophets and servants of God, by whom God blesseth his people, as Chap. 2. 12.

15 Then Elisha said unto him, Take a bowe and arrowes. And hee tooke unto him bow and arrowes.

16 And hee said unto the king of Israel, Put thine hand upon the bow. And he put his hand upon it. And Elisha put his hands upon the kings hands, meaning that by their prayers they did more prosper their countrey then by force of armes.

17 And said, Open the window i Eastward. And when hee had opened it, Elisha said, Shoote. And hee shot. And he said, Behold, the arrow of the Lords deliverance, and the arrow of deliverance against Aram: for thou shalt smite the Aramites in Aphek, till thou hast consumed them.

i That is, toward Syria: so that he did not onely prophecie with words, but also confirmed him by these signes that hee should have the victorie.

18 Againe he said, Take the arrowes. And hee tooke them. And hee said unto the king of Israel, Smite the ground. And hee smote thrise, and ceased.

19 Then the man of God was k angrie with him, and said, Thou shouldest have smitten five or sixe times, so thou shouldest have smitten Aram, till thou hadst consumed it, where now thou shalt smite Aram but thrise.

k Because hee seemed content to have victorie against the enemies of God for twise or thrise, and had not a zeale to overcome them continually, and to destroy them utterly.

20 ¶ So Elisha died, and they buried him. And certaine bandes of the Moabites came into the land that yeere.

21 And as they were burying a man: behold, they saw the souldiers: therefore they cast ỹ man into the sepulchre of Elisha. And when the man was downe, and touched the bones of Elisha, * he l revived, and stood upon his feete.

* Eccius. 48. 14.

l By this miracle God confirmed the authoritie of Elisha, whose doctrine in his life they contemned, that at this sight they might returne and imbrace the same doctrine.

22 ¶ But Hazael king of Aram vexed Israel all the dayes of Iehoahaz.

23 Therefore the Lord had mercie on them and pitied them, & had respect unto them, because of his covenant with Abraham, Izhak, and Iaakob, and would not destroy them, neither cast he them from him as m yet.

24 So Hazael the king of Aram died, and Ben-hadad his sonne reigned in his stead.

25 Therefore Iehoash the sonne of Iehoahaz returned, and tooke out of the hand of Ben-hadad the sonne of Hazael the cities which hee had taken away by warre out of the hand of Iehoahaz his father: for three times did Ioash beate him, and restored the cities unto Israel.

CHAP. XIIII.

1 Amaziah the king of Iudah putteth to death them that slew his father. 7 and after smiteth Edom. 15 Ioash dieth, and Ieroboam his sonne succeedeth him. 29 and after him reigneth Zachariah.

THe second yeere of Ioash sonne of Iehoahaz king of Israel, reigned * Amaziah the sonne of Ioash king of Iudah.

2 He was five and twentie yeere old when he began to reigne, and reigned nine and twentie yeere in Ierusalem, and his mothers name was Iehoaddan of Ierusalem.

3 And hee did a uprightly in the sight of the Lord, yet not like David his father, but did according to all that Ioash his father had done.

4 Notwithstanding the high places were not taken away: for as yet the people did sacrifice, and burnt incense in the high places.

5 ¶ And when the kingdome was confirmed in his hand, he slew his servants which had * killed the king his father.

6 But the children of those that did slay him, he b slew not according unto that that is written in the booke of the Law of Moses, wherein the Lord commanded, saying, * The fathers shall not be put to death for the children, nor the children put to death for the fathers: but every man shall be put to death for his owne sinne.

7 He slew also of c Edom in the valley of salt, ten thousand, and tooke ‖ the citie of Sela by warre, and called the name thereof Ioktheel vnto this day.

8 ¶ Then Amaziah sent messengers to Iehoash the sonne of Iehoahaz, sonne of Iehu king of Israel, saying, Come, d let vs see one another in the face.

9 Then Iehoash the king of Israel sent to Amaziah king of Iudah, saying, The thistle that is in Lebanon, sent to the e Cedar that is in Lebanon, saying, Give thy daughter to my sonne to wife: and the wilde beast that was in Lebanon, went and trode downe the thistle.

10 Because thou hast smitten Edom, thine heart hath made thee proude, f bragge of glory, and tary at home. Why doest thou provoke to thine hurt, that thou shouldest fall, and Iudah with thee?

11 But Amaziah would not heare: therefore Iehoash king of Israel went up: and he and Amaziah king of Iudah saw one another in the face at Beth-shemesh which is in Iudah.

12 And Iudah was put to the worse before Israel, and they fled every man to their tents.

13 But Iehoash king of Israel tooke Amaziah king of Iudah, the sonne of Iehoash the sonne of Ahaziah at Beth-shemesh, and ‖ came to Ierusalem, and brake downe the wall of Ierusalem from the gate of Ephraim to the corner gate, foure hundreth cubites.

14 And hee tooke all the gold and silver, and all the vessels that were found in the house of the Lord, and in the treasures of the kings house, and the children that were in g hostage, and returned to Samaria.

15 Concerning the rest of the acts of Iehoash which he did, and his valiant deeds, and how hee fought with Amaziah king of Iudah, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel?

16 And Iehoash slept with his fathers, and was buried at Samaria among the kings of Israel: and Ieroboam his sonne reigned in his stead.

17 ¶ And Amaziah the sonne of Ioash king of Iudah, lived after the death of Iehoash sonne of Iehoahaz king of Israel, fifteene yeere.

18 Concerning the rest of the acts of Amaziah, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the kings of Iudah?

19 But they * wrought treason against him in Ierusalem, and he fled to h Lachish, but they sent after him to Lachish, and slew him there.

20 And they brought him on horses, and hee was buried at Ierusalem with his fathers in the citie of David.

21 Then all the people of Iudah tooke i Azariah which was sixteene yeere old, and made him king for his father Amaziah.

22 Hee built k Elath, and restored it to Iudah, after that that the king slept with his fathers.

23 ¶ In the fifteenth yeere of Amaziah the sonne of Ioash king of Iudah, was Ieroboam the sonne of Ioash made king over Israel in Samaria, and reigned one and fourtie yeere.

24 And hee did evill in the sight of the Lord, for he departed not from all the l sinnes of Ieroboam the sonne of Nebat, which made Israel to sinne.

25 Hee restored the coast of Israel, from the entring of Hamath, unto the sea of the wilderneſse, according to the word of the Lord God of Israel, which he spake † by his servant Ionah the sonne of Amittai the Prophet, which was of Gath Hepher.

26 For the Lord saw the exceeding bitter affliction of Israel, so that there was none m shut up, nor any left, neither yet any that could helpe Israel.

27 Yet the Lord † had not decreed to put out the name of Israel from under the heaven: therefore he preserved them by the hand of Ieroboam the sonne of Ioash.

28 Concerning the rest of the acts of Ieroboam, and all that he did, and his valiant deeds, and how he fought, and how hee restored Damascus, and n Hamath to Iudah in Israel, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel?

29 So Ieroboam slept with his fathers, even with the kings of Israel, and Zachariah his sonne reigned in his stead.

7 So Azariah ſlept with his fathers, and they buried him with his fathers in the Citie of David, and Iotham his ſonne reigned in his ſtead.

8 † In the eight and thirtieth yeere of Azariah king of Iudah, did Zachariah the ſonne of Ieroboam reigne over Iſrael in Samaria ſixe [d] moneths.

9 And did evill in the ſight of the Lord, as did his fathers: for hee departed not from the ſinnes of Ieroboam the ſonne of Nebat, which made Iſrael to ſinne.

10 And Shallum the ſonne of Iabeſh conſpired againſt him, and ſmote him in the ſight of the people, and [e] killed him, and reigned in his ſtead.

11 Concerning the reſt of the actes of Zachariah, behold, they are written in the booke of the Chronicles of the kings of Iſrael.

12 This was the * word of the Lord, which he ſpake vnto Iehu, ſaying, Thy ſonnes ſhall ſit on the throne of Iſrael vnto the fourth generation after thee. And it came ſo to paſſe.

13 ¶ Shallum the ſonne of Iabeſh began to reigne in the nine and thirtieth yeere of Uzziah King of Iudah: and he reigned the ſpace of a moneth in Samaria.

14 For Menahem the ſonne of Gadi went vp from Tirzah, and came to Samaria, and ſmote Shallum the ſonne of Iabeſh in Samaria, and ſlew him, and reigned in his ſtead.

15 Concerning the reſt of the actes of Shallum, and the treaſon which he wrought, behold, they are written in the booke of the Chronicles of the Kings of Iſrael.

16 ¶ Then Menahem deſtroyed [f] Tiphſah, and all that were therein, and the coaſts thereof from Tirzah, becauſe they opened not to him, and hee ſmote it, and ript vp all their women with child.

17 The nine and thirtieth yeere of Azariah king of Iudah, began Menahem the ſonne of Gadi to reigne over Iſrael, and reigned ten yeeres in Samaria.

18 And hee did evill in the ſight of the Lord, and departed not all his dayes from the ſinne of Ieroboam the ſonne of Nebat which made Iſrael to ſinne.

19 ¶ Then Pul the king of Aſſhur came againſt the [g] land: and Menahem gave Pul a thouſand [h] talents of ſilver, that his hand might be with him, and eſtablith the kingdome in his hand.

20 And Menahem exacted the money in Iſrael that all men of ſubſtance ſhould give the king of Aſſhur fiftie ſhekels of ſilver a piece: ſo the king of Aſſhur returned, and taried not there in the land.

21 Concerning the reſt of the actes of Menahem, and all that he did, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the kings of Iſrael?

22 And Menahem ſlept with his fathers, and Pekahiah his ſonne did reigne in his ſtead.

23 ¶ In the fiftieth yeere of Azariah king of Iudah, began Pekahiah the ſonne of Menahem to reigne over Iſrael in Samaria, and reigned two yere.

24 And hee did evill in the ſight of the Lord: for he departed not from the ſinnes of Ieroboam the ſonne of Nebat which made Iſrael to ſinne.

25 And Pekah the ſonne of Remaliah, his captaine conſpired againſt him, and ſmote him in Samaria in the place of the kings palace with [i] Argob and Arieh, and with him fifty men of the Gileadites, ſo he killed him, and reigned in his ſtead.

26 Concerning the reſt of the actes of Pekahiah, and all that he did, behold, they are written in the booke of the Chronicles of the kings of Iſrael.

27 ¶ In the two and fiftieth yeere of Azariah King of Iudah, began Pekah the ſonne of Remaliah to reigne over Iſrael in Samaria, and reigned twentie yeere.

28 And he did evill in the ſight of the Lord: for he departed not from the ſinnes of Ieroboam the ſonne of Nebat that made Iſrael to ſinne.

29 In the dayes of Pekah king of Iſrael [k] came Tiglath Pileſer king of Aſſhur, and tooke Iion, and Abel-Beth-maachah, and Ianoah, and Kedeſh, and Hazor, and Gilead, and Galilah, and all the land of Naphtali, and caried them away to Aſſhur.

30 And Hothea the ſonne of Elah wrought treaſon againſt Pekah the ſonne of Remaliah, and ſmote him, and ſlew him, and reigned in his ſtead in the twentieth yeere of Iotham the ſonne of Uzziah.

31 Concerning the reſt of the actes of Pekah, and all that he did, behold, they are written in the booke of the Chronicles of the kings of Iſrael.

5 * Then Rezin King of Aram and Pekah sonne of Remaliah king of Israel came up to Ierusalem, to fight: and they besieged Ahaz, but could not overcome c him.

6 At the same time Rezin king of Aram restored d Elath to Aram, and drove the Iewes from Elath: so the Aramites came to Elath, and dwelt there unto this day.

7 Then Ahaz sent e messengers to Tiglath Pileser king of Asshur, saying, I am thy servant and thy sonne: come up, and deliver mee out of the hand of the king of Aram, and out of the hand of the king of Israel which rise up against me.

8 And Ahaz tooke the silver and the golde that was found in the f house of the Lord, and in the treasures of the kings house, and sent a present unto the king of Asshur.

9 And the king of Asshur consented unto him: and the king of Asshur went up against Damascus. And when he had taken it, he caried the people away to Kir, and slew Rezin.

10 And king Ahaz went unto Damascus to meete Tiglath Pileser king of Asshur: and when king Ahaz saw the altar that was at Damascus, he sent to Urijah the Priest the paterne of the altar, and the fashion of it, and all the workemanship thereof.

11 And Urijah the Priest made an altar g in all points like to that which King Ahaz had sent from Damascus, so did Urijah the Priest against king Ahaz came from Damascus.

12 So when the king was come from Damascus, the king saw the altar: and the king drew neere to the altar, and offered h thereon.

13 And hee burnt his burnt offering, and his meate-offering, and powred his drinke-offring, and sprinkled the blood of his peace-offerings besides the altar.

14 And set it by the brasen altar which was before the Lord, and brought it in further before the house betweene the altar and the house of the Lord, and set it on the i Northside of the altar.

15 And king Ahaz commaunded Urijah the Priest, and said, Upon the great altar set on fire in the morning the burnt-offering, and in the even the meate-offering, and the kings burnt-offering and his meat-offering, with the burnt-offering of all the people of the land, and their meate-offering, and their drinke-offerings: and powre thereby all the blood of the burnt-offering, and all the blood of the sacrifice, and the k brasen altar shall be for me to enquire of God.

16 And Urijah the Priest did according to all that King Ahaz had commanded.

17 And King Ahaz brake the borders of the bases, and tooke the caldrons from off them, and tooke downe the sea from the brasen oxen that were under it, & put it upon a pavement of stones.

18 And the l vaile for the Sabbath (that they had made in the house) and the kings entry without turned he to the house of the Lord, m because of the king of Asshur.

19 Concerning the rest of the actes of Ahaz, which he did, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the Kings of Iudah?

3 Hoshea King of Israel is taken, 4 And bet and all his realme brought to the Assyrians, 18 for their idolatrie. 25 Lions destroy the Aigrians that dwelt in Samaria. 29 Every one worshippeth the god of his nation, 35 Contrary to the commandement of God.

IN the twelft yeere of Ahaz king of Iudah began Hoshea the sonne of Elah to reigne in Samaria over Israel, and reigned nine yeeres.

2 And hee did evill in the sight of the Lord, a but not as the kings of Israel, that were before him.

a Though he invented no new idolatry or impietie as others did, yet he sought for helpe at the Egyptians, which God had forbidden.

3 And Shalmaneser king of Asshur came up against him, and Hoshea became his servant, and gave him presents.

4 And the king of Asshur found treason in Hoshea: for he had sent messengers to So king of Egypt, and brought no present unto the king of Asshur, b as he had done yeerely: therefore the king of Asshur shut him up, and put him in prison.

b For hee had payd tribute for the space of eight yeere.

5 Then the king of Asshur came up throughout all the land, and went against Samaria, and besieged it three yeere.

6 ¶ * In the ninth yeere of Hoshea, the king of Asshur tooke Samaria, and caried Israel away unto Asshur, and put them in Halah, and in Habor by the river of Gozan, and in the cities of the c Medes.

* Chap. 18. 10.

c For at this time the Medes and Persians were subiect to the Assyrians.

7 For when the children of Israel d sinned against the Lord their God, which had brought them out of the land of Egypt, from under the hand of Pharaoh king of Egypt, and feared other gods, d Hee setteth forth at length the cause of this great plague and perpetuall captivitie, to admonish all people and nations to cleave to the Lord God, and onely worship him for feare of like judgement.

8 And walked according to the fashions of the Heathen, whom the Lord had cast out before the children of Israel, and after the maners of the kings of Israel, which they used.

9 And the children of Israel had done secretly things that were not upright before the Lord their God, and throughout all their cities had built hie places, both from the tower e of the watch, to the defenced citie, e Meaning, throughout all their bordes.

10 And had made them image and groves upon every hie hill, and under every greene tree,

11 And there burnt incense in all the hie places, as did the heathen, whom the Lord had taken away before them, and wrought wicked things to anger the Lord,

12 And served idoles: whereof the Lord had said unto them, * Ye shall doe no such thing.

* Deut. 4. 19.

13 Notwithstanding the Lord testified to Israel, and to Iudah † by all the Prophets, and by all the Seers, saying, * Turne from your evill wayes, and keepe my commandements, and my statutes, according to all the Law, which I commaunded your fathers, and which I sent to you by my servants the Prophets.

14 Nevertheless they would not obey, * but hardened their neckes, like to the neckes of their f fathers, that did not beleeve in the Lord their God.

* Deut. 31. 27.

f So that to alledge the authoritie of our fathers, or great antiquity except we can proove that they were godly, is but to declare that we are the children of the wicked.

15 And they refused his statutes and his covenant, that he made with their fathers, and his testimonies (wherewith he witnessed unto them) and they followed vanitie, and became vaine, and followed the heathen that were round about them: concerning whom the Lord had charged them, that they should not doe like them.

16 Finally they left all the commandements of the Lord their God, and made them molten images, * even two calves, and made a grove, and worshipped all the g hoste of heaven, and served Baal.

17 And they made their sonnes and their daughters h passe thorowe the fire, and vsed witchcraft and inchantments, yea, i sold themselves to doe evill in the sight of the Lord, to anger him.

18 Therefore the Lord was exceeding wroth with Israel, and put them out of his sight, and none was left but the tribe of Iudah k onely.

19 Yet Iudah kept not the commandements of the Lord their God, but walked according to the fashion of Israel, which they vsed.

20 Therefore the Lord cast of all the seede of Israel, and afflicted them, and delivered them into the hands of l poylers, vntill hee had cast them out of his l sight.

21 m For hee cut off Israel from the house of David, and they made Ieroboam the sonne of Nabat king: and Ieroboam drewe Israel away from following the Lord, and made them sinne a great sinne.

22 For the children of Israel walked in all the sinnes of Ieroboam, which he did, and departed not therefrom, 23 Vntill the Lord put Israel away out of his sight, as he had said ‖ by all his servants the * Prophets, and caried Israel away out of their land to Asshur vnto this day.

24 And the king of Asshur brought folke from Babel, and from n Cuthah, and from Ava, and from Hamath, and from Sepharuaim, and placed them in the cities of Samaria in stead of the children of Israel: so they possessed Samaria, and dwelt in the cities thereof.

25 ¶ And at the beginning of their dwelling there, they o feared not the Lord: therefore the Lord sent Lions among them, which slewe them.

26 Wherefore they spake to the king of Asshur, saying, The nations which thou hast remooved and placed in the cities of Samaria, know not the manner of the God of the land: therefore he hath sent Lions among them, and behold, they slay them, because they know not the manner of the God of the land.

27 Then the king of Asshur commanded, saying, Carrie thither one of the Priests whom yee brought thence, and let him goe and dwell there, and teach them the manner of the God p of the countrey.

28 So one of the Priests which they had caried from Samaria, came and dwelt in Beth-el, and taught them how they should feare the Lord.

29 Howbeit, every nation made their gods, and put them in the houses of the hie places, which the Samaritans had made, every nation in their cities wherein they dwelt.

30 For the men of Babel made q Succoth Benoth: and the men of Cuth made Nergal, and the men of Hamath made Ashima, 31 And the Auims made Nibhaz, and Tartak: and the Sepharuaims burnt their children in the fire to Adrammelech, and Anammelech the gods of Sepharuaim.

32 Thus they feared the Lord, and appointed out Priests out of themselves for the hie places, who prepared for them sacrifices in the houses of the hie places:

33 * They r feared the Lord, but served their gods after the manner of the nations whom they caried thence.

34 Vnto this day they do after the old maner: they neither feare God, neither doe after l their ordinances, nor after their customes, nor after the Law, nor after the commandement, which the Lord commanded the children of Iaakob * whom he named Israel.

35 And with whom the Lord had made a covenant, and charged them, saying, * Feare none other gods, nor bowe your selves to them, nor serve them, nor sacrifice to them:

36 But feare the Lord which brought you out of the land of Egypt with great power, and a stretched out arme: him feare yee, and worship him and sacrifice to him.

37 Also keepe yee diligently the statutes and the ordinances and the lawe, and the commandement, which he wrote for you, that yee doe them continually, and feare not other gods, 38 And forget not the covenant that I have made with you, neither feare ye other gods.

39 But feare the Lord your God, and hee will deliver you out of the handes of all your enemies.

40 Howbeit they obeyed not, but did after their old customs.

41 So these t nations feared the Lord, and served their images also: so did their children, and their childrens children: as did their fathers, so doe they vnto this day.

ſonne of Elah king of Iſrael Shalmaneſer king of Aſſhur came up againſt Samaria, and beſieged it,

10 And after three yeares they tooke it, even in the ſixth yeare of Hezekiah: that is, * the ninth yeare of Hoſhea king of Iſrael was Samaria taken.

11 Then the king of Aſſhur did carie away Iſrael vnto Aſſhur, and put them in Halah and in Habor by the river of Gozan, and in the cities of the Medes.

12 Becauſe they would not obey the voyce of the Lord their God, but tranſgreſſed his covenant; that is, all that Moſes the ſervant of the Lord had commanded, and would neither obey nor doe them.

13 ¶ * Moreover, in the foureteenth yeare of king Hezekiah, Sanecherib king of Aſſhur came up againſt all the ſtrong cities of Iudah, and tooke them.

14 Then Hezekiah king of Iudah ſent vnto the king of Aſſhur to Lachiſh, ſaying, d I have offended: depart from me, and what thou layeſt vpon me, I will beare it. And the king of Aſſhur appoynted vnto Hezekiah king of Iudah three hundreth talents of ſilver, and thirtie talents of golde.

15 Therefore Hezekiah gave all the ſilver that was found in the houſe of the Lord, and in the treaſures of the kings houſe.

16 At the ſame ſeaſon did Hezekiah pull off the plates of the doores of the Temple of the Lord, and the pillars (which the ſayd Hezekiah king of Iudah had covered over) and gave them to the king of Aſſhur.

17 ¶ And the king of Aſſhur ſent e Tartan, and Rab-ſaris, and Rabſhakeh from Lachiſh to king Hezekiah with a great hoaſte againſt Ieruſalem. And they went up, and came to Ieruſalem, and when they were come up, they ſtood by the conduit of the vpper poole, which is by the path of the fullers field, 18 And called to the king. Then came out to them Eliakim the ſonne of Hilkiah, which was ſteward of the houſe, and Shebnah the chanceller, and Ioah the ſonne of Aſaph the ‖ recorder.

19 And Rabſhakeh ſayd vnto them, Tell yee Hezekiah, I pray you, Thus ſaith the great king, even the great king of Aſſhur, What confidence is this wherein thou truſteſt?

20 Thou thinkeſt, Surely I have † eloquence, ſ but counſell and ſtrength are for the warre. On whom then doeſt thou truſt, that thou rebelleſt againſt mè?

21 Loe, thou truſteſt now in this broken ſtaffe of reede, to wit, on g Egypt, on which if a man leane, it will goe into his hand, and pierce it: ſo is Pharaoh king of Egypt vnto all that truſt on him.

22 But if ye ſay vnto me, We truſt in the Lord our God, is not that hee whoſe hie places, and whoſe altars Hezekiah hath h taken away, and hath ſayd to Iudah and Ieruſalem, Ye ſhall worſhip before this altar in Ieruſalem?

23 Now therefore give i hoſtages to my lord the king of Aſſhur, and I will give thee two thouſand horſes, if thou be able to ſet riders vpon them.

24 For how canſt thou deſpiſe any captaine of the leaſt of my maſters ſervants, and put thy truſt on Egypt for charets and horſemen?

25 Am I now come vp without the k Lord to this place, to deſtroy it? the Lord ſaid to me, Goe vp againſt this land, and deſtroy it.

26 Then Eliakim the ſonne of Hilkiah, and Shebnah, and Ioah ſaid vnto Rabſhakeh, Speake I pray thee, to thy ſervants in the ‖ Aramites language, for we vnderſtand it, and talke not with vs in the Iewes tongue, in the audience of the people that are on the wall.

27 But Rabſhakeh ſayd vnto them, Hath my maſter ſent me to thy maſter and to thee to ſpeake theſe words, and not to the men which ſit on the wall, that they may eat their owne doung, and drinke † their owne piſſe with you?

28 So Rabſhakeh ſtood, and cried with a loude voyce in the Iewes language, and ſpake, ſaying, Heare the words of the great king, of the king of Aſſhur.

29 Thus ſaith the king, Let not Hezekiah deceive you: for he ſhall not be able to deliver you ‖ out of mine hand.

30 Neither let Hezekiah make you to truſt in the Lord, ſaying, The Lord will ſurely deliver vs, and this citie ſhall not be given over into the hand of the king of Aſſhur.

31 Hearken not vnto Hezekiah: for thus ſaith the king of Aſſhur, Make † appointment with me, and come out to me, that every man may eat of his owne vine, and every man of his owne figtree, and drinke every man of the water of his owne well.

32 Till I I come and bring you to a land like your owne land, even a land of wheat and wine, a land of bread and vineyards, a land of olives, oyle, and hony, that ye may live and not die: and obey not Hezekiah, for he deceiveth you, ſaying, The Lord will deliver vs.

33 Hath any of the gods of the nations delivered his land out of the hand of the king of Aſſhur?

34 Where is the God of Hamath, and of Arpad? where is the god of Sepharuaim, Hena and Iuah? how have they delivered Samaria out of mine hand?

35 Who are they among all the gods of the nations, that have delivered their land out of mine hand, that the m Lord ſhould deliver Ieruſalem out of mine hand.

36 But the people held their peace and anſwered him not a word: for the kings commandement was, ſaying, Anſwere ye him not.

37 Then Eliakim the ſonne of Hilkiah which was ſteward of the houſe, and Shebnah the chanceller, and Ioah the ſonne of Aſaph the recorder came to Hezekiah with their cloathes rent, and told him the words of Rabſhakeh.

13 Where is the king of Hamath, and the king of Arpad, and the king of the citie of Sepharuaim, Hena and Iuah?

14 ¶ So Hezekiah received the letter of the hand of the meſſengers, and read it: and Hezekiah went vp into the houſe of the Lord, and Hezekiah ſpread it before the h Lord.

h Before the Arke of the covenant.

15 And Hezekiah i prayed before the Lord, and ſaid, O Lord God of Iſrael, which dwelleſt betweene the Cherubims, thou art very God alone ouer all the kingdomes of the earth: thou haſt made the heauen and the earth.

20 ¶ Then Iſaiah the ſonne of Amoz ſent to Hezekiah, ſaying, Thus ſaith the Lord God of Iſrael, I haue heard that which thou haſt prayed me, concerning Saneherib king of Aſſhur.

21 This is the word that the Lord hath ſpoken againſt him, O n Virgin daughter of Zion, he hath deſpiſed thee, and laughed thee to ſcorne: O daughter of Ieruſalem, he hath ſhaken his head at thee.

Amoz came to him, and sayd unto him, Thus saith the Lord, Put thine house in an order: for thou shalt die and not live.

2 Then he turned his face to the [a] wall, and prayed to the Lord, saying,

3 I beseech thee, O Lord, Remember now, how I have walked before thee in trueth and with a [b] perfit heart, and have done that which is good in thy sight: and Hezekiah [c] wept sore.

4 ¶ And afore Isaiah was gone out into the middle of the court, the word of the Lord came to him, saying,

5 Turne againe, and tell Hezekiah the captaine of my people, Thus saith the Lord God of David thy father, I have heard thy [d] prayer, and seene thy teares: behold, I have healed thee, and the third day thou shalt goe up to the [e] house of the Lord.

6 And I will adde unto thy dayes fifteene yeere, and will deliver thee and this city out of the hand of the king of Asshur, and will defend this citie for mine owne sake, and for David my servants sake.

7 Then Isaiah sayd, Take a [f] lumpe of drie figs. And they tooke it, and laid it on the boile, and he recovered.

8 ¶ For Hezekiah had said unto Isaiah, What shalbe the signe that the Lord will heale mee, and that I shall goe up into the house of the Lord the third day?

9 And Isaiah answered, This signe shalt thou have of the Lord, that the Lord will doe that hee hath spoken, Wilt thou that the shadow goe forward ten degrees, or * goe backe ten degrees?

10 And Hezekiah answered, It is a light thing for the shadow to passe forward ten degrees: not so then, but let the shadow [g] go backe ten degrees.

11 And Isaiah the Prophet called vnto the Lord, and he brought againe the shadow ten degrees backe by the degrees whereby it had gone downe in the [h] diall of Ahaz.

12 * The same season Berodach Baladan the sonne of Baladan king of Babel sent letters and a [i] present to Hezekiah: for he had heard how that Hezekiah was sicke.

13 And Hezekiah heard them, and shewed them all his treasure house, to vvit, the silver, and the gold, and the spices, and the precious ointment, and all the houses of his armour, and all that was found in his treasures: there was nothing in his house, and in all his [k] realme, that Hezekiah shewed them not.

14 Then Isaiah the Prophet came unto King Hezekiah, and sayd unto him, What said these men? and from whence came they to thee? And Hezekiah said, They be come from a farre countrey, even from Babel.

15 Then sayd hee, What have they seene in thine house? And Hezekiah answered, All that is in mine house have they seene: there is nothing among my treasures, that I have not shewed them.

16 And Isaiah said unto Hezekiah, Heare the word of the Lord.

17 Behold, the dayes come, that all that is in thine house, and whatsoever thy fathers have layed up in store unto this day, * shall be caried into Babel: Nothing shall be left, saith the Lord.

18 And of thy sonnes, that shall proceede out of thee, and which thou shalt beget, shall they take away, and they shalbe eunuches in the palaces of the king of Babel.

19 Then Hezekiah said unto Isaiah, The word of the Lord, which thou hast [l] spoken, is good: for said he, Shall it not be good if in peace and trueth be in my dayes?

20 Concerning the rest of the actes of Hezekiah, and all his valiant deedes, and how hee made a poole and a conduit, and brought water into the citie, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the kings of Iudah?

2 And hee did evill in the sight of the Lord after the abomination of the heathen, whom the * Lord had cast out before the children of Israel.

3 For he went backe and built the hie places, * which Hezekiah his father had destroyed: and he erected up altars for Baal, and made a grove, as did Ahab king of Israel, and worshipped all the hoste of heaven and served them.

4 Also hee * built altars in the house of the Lord, of the which the Lord said, * In Ierusalem will I put my Name.

5 And he built altars for all the hoast of the heaven in the two courts of the house of the Lord.

6 And he caused his sonnes [a] to passe through the fire, and gave himselfe to witchcraft and sorcerie, and hee used them that had familiar spirits and were soothsayers, and did much evill in the sight of the Lord to anger him.

7 And hee set the image of the grove, that hee had made in the house, whereof the Lord had said to David and to Salomon his sonne, * In this house and in Ierusalem, which I have chosen out of all the tribes of Israel, will I put my Name for ever.

8 Neither will I make the feete of Israel moove any more out of the land, which I gave their fathers; so that they will [b] observe and doe all that I have commanded them, and according to all the Law that my servant Moses commanded them.

9 Yet they obeyed not, but Manasseh ledde them out of the way, to doe more wickedly then did the heathen people, whom the Lord destroyed before the children of Israel.

10 Therefore the Lord spake by his servants the Prophets, saying,

11 * Because that Manasseh king of Iudah hath done such abominations, and hath wrought more wickedly then all that the Amorites (which were before him) did, and hath made Iudah sinne also with his idoles.

12 Therefore thus saith the Lord God of Israel, Behold, I will bring an evill upon Ierusalem and Iudah, that who so heareth of it, both his * eares shall [c] tingle.

13 And I will stretch over Ierusalem the line [d] of Samaria, and the plummet of the house of Ahab: and I will wipe Ierusalem, as a man wipeth a [e] dish, which he wipeth, and turneth it upside downe.

3 ¶ And in the eighteenth yeere of King Iosiah, the king sent Shaphan the sonne of Azaliah the sonne of Meshullam the chaunceller, to the house of the Lord, saying,

4 Goe vp to Hilkiah the hie Priest, that hee may ‖ summe the silver which is brought into the house of the Lord, which the keepers of the ‖ b doore have gathered of the people.

5 And let c them deliver it into the hand of them that doe the worke, and have the oversight of the house of the Lord, let them give it to them that worke in the house of the Lord, to repaire the decayed places of the house:

6 To wit, vnto the artificers and carpenters, and masons, and to buy timber, and hewed stone to repaire the house,

7 Howbeit, let no reckoning be made with them of the money, that is delivered into their hand: for they deale d faithfully.

8 And Hilkiah the high Priest said vnto Shaphan the chaunceller, I have found the e booke of the Law in the house of the Lord: and Hilkiah gave the booke to Shaphan, and hee read it.

9 So Shaphan the chaunceller came to the king, and brought him word againe, and sayd, Thy servants have † gathered the money that was found in the house, and have delivered it vnto the hands of them that doe the worke, and have the oversight of the house of the Lord.

10 Also Shaphan the chaunceller shewed the king, saying, Hilkiah the Priest hath delivered me a booke. And Shaphan read it before the King.

11 And when the king had heard the wordes of the booke of the Law, he rent his cloathes.

12 Therefore the king commanded Hilkiah the Priest, and Ahikam the sonne of Shaphan, and Achbor the sonne of Michaiah, and Shaphan the Chancellor, and Asahiah the kings servant, saying,

13 Goe ye and f inquire of the Lord for me and for the people, and for all Iudah concerning the wordes of this booke that is found: for great is the wrath of the Lord that is kindled against vs, because our fathers have not obeyed the wordes of this booke, to doe according vnto all that which is written therein for vs.

14 ¶ So Hilkiah the Priest, and Ahikam, and Achbor, and Shaphan, and Asahiah went vnto Huldah the Propheteſſe the wife of Shallum, the sonne of Tikuah, the sonne of Harhas keeper of the wardrobe: (and she dwelt in Ierusalem in the g colledge) and they communed with her.

15 And shee answered them, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, Tell the man that sent you to me, 16 Thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will bring evill vpon this place, and on the inhabitants thereof, even all the wordes of the booke which the king of Iudah hath read.

17 Because they have forsaken mee, and have burnt incense vnto other gods, to anger me with all the h workes of their hands: my wrath also shall be kindled against this place, and shall not be quenched,

18 But to the king of Iudah, who sent you to inquire of the Lord, so shall ye say vnto him, Thus sayth the Lord God of Israel, The words that thou hast heard, shall come to passe.

19 But because thine heart did i melt, and thou hast humbled thy selfe before the Lord when thou heardest what I spake against this place, and against the inhabitants of the same, to wit, that it should be destroyed and accursed, and hast rent thy cloathes, and wept before mee, I have also heard it, saith the Lord.

20 Behold therefore, I will gather thee to thy fathers, and thou shalt be put in thy grave in k peace, and thine eyes shall not see all the evill which I will bring vpon this place. Thus they brought the king word againe.

THen * the king a sent, and there gathered vnto him all the Elders of Iudah and of Ierusalem.

2 And the king went vp into the house of the Lord, with all the men of Iudah, and all the inhabitants of Ierusalem with him, and the Priests and Prophets, and all the people both small and great: and he read in their eares all the words of the booke of the couenant, which was found in the house of the Lord.

3 And the king stood by b the pillar, and made a c couenant before the Lord, that they should walke after the Lord, and keepe his commaundements, and his testimonies, and his statutes, with all their heart, and with all their soule, that they might accomplish the wordes of this couenant written in this booke. And all the people stood to the covenant.

4 Then the king commanded Hilkiah the hie Priest, and the d Priests of the second order, and the keepers of the doore, to bring out of the temple of the Lord all the vessels that were made for Baal, and for the groue, and for all the hoaste of heaven, and hee burnt them without Ierusalem in the fields of Kedron, and caried e the powder of them into Beth-el.

5 And he put downe the f Chemarims, whom the kings of Iudah had founded to burne incense in the hie places, and in the cities of Iudah and about Ierusalem, and also them that burnt incense vnto Baal, to the sunne and to the moone, and to the planets, and to all the hoaste of heaven.

6 And he brought out the g groue from the Temple of the Lord, without Ierusalem vnto the valley of Kedron, and burnt it in the valley Kedron, and stampt it to powder, and cast the dust thereof vpon the h graues of the children of the people.

7 And hee brake downe the houses of the Sodomites, that were in the house of the Lord, where the women woue hangings for the groue.

8 Also hee brought all the Priests out of the cities of Iudah, and defiled the places where the Priests had burnt incense, euen from Geba to Beer-sheba, and destroyed the hie places of the gates, that were in the entring in of the gate of Ioshua the gouernour of the citie, which was at the left hand of the gate of the citie.

9 Neuertheleſſe the Priestes of the hie places i came not vp to the altar of the Lord in Ierusalem, saue onely they did eate of the vnleauened bread among their brethren.

10 Hee defiled also k Topheth, which was in the valley of the children of Hinnom, that no man should make his sonne or his daughter to passe thorow the fire to Molech.

11 Hee put downe also the l horses that the Kings of Iudah had given to the sunne at the entring in of the house of the Lord, by the chamber of Nethan-melech the eunuch, which was ruler of the suburbs, and burnt the charets of the sunne with fire.

12 And the altars that were on the top of the chamber of Ahaz, which the kings of Iudah had made, and the altars which Manasseh had made in the two courts of the house of the Lord did the King breake downe, and hasted thence, and cast the dust of them in the ‖ brooke Kedron.

13 Moreover the King defiled the hie places that were before Ierusalem, and on the right hand of the m mount of corruption (which * Salomon the king of Israel had built for Ashtoreth the idole of the Zidonians, and for Chemosh the idole of the Moabites, and for Milchom the abomination of the children of Ammon.)

m That was the mount of olives, so called because it was full of idols. * 1. King. 11. 7.

14 And he brake the images in pieces, and cut downe the groves, and filled their places with the bones of men.

15 Furthermore n the altar that was at Bethel, and the hie place made by Ieroboam the sonne of Nebat, which made Israel to sinne, both this altar, and also the hie place, brake he downe, and burnt the hie place, and stampt it to powder, and burnt the grove.

o According to the prophecie of Iaddo, 1. King. 13. 2.

17 Then he said, What title is that which I see? And the men of the city sayd vnto him, It is the sepulchre of the man of God, which came from Iudah, and told these things that thou hast done to the altar of Beth-el.

18 Then said he, Let him alone: let none remoue his bones. So his bones were saued with the bones of the p Prophet that came from Samaria.

p Meaning, the Prophet which came after him, and caused him to eate contrary to the commandement of the Lord, which were both two buried in one grave, 1. King. 13. 31.

19 Iosiah also tooke away all the houses of the hie places, which were in the cities of Samaria, which the kings of Israel had made to anger the Lord, and did to them according to all the facts that he had done in Beth-el.

20 And hee sacrificed all the Priests of the hie places that were there, vpon the altars, and burnt mens bones vpon them, and returned to Ierusalem.

21 ¶ Then the king commanded all the people, saying, * Keepe the Passeover vnto the Lord your God, * as it is written in the booke of this covenant.

q For the multitude and zeale of the people with the great preparation.

23 And in the eighteenth yeere of King Iosiah was this Passeover celebrated vnto the Lord in Ierusalem.

24 Iosiah also tooke away them that had familiar spirits, and the soothsayers, and the images, and the idoles, and all the abominations that were espied in the land of Iudah and in Ierusalem, to performe the words of the * Law, which were written in the booke that Hilkiah the Priest found in the house of the Lord.

26 Notwithstanding the Lord turned not from the r fiercenesse of his great wrath wherewith he was angry against Iudah, because of all the prouocations wherewith Manasseh had prouoked him.

r Because of the wicked heart of the people, which would not turne vnto him by repentance.

7 And they slew the sonnes of Zedekiah before his eyes, and put out the eyes of Zedekiah, and bound him in chaines, & caried him to Babel.

11 And the rest of the people that were left in the citie, and those that were fled and g fallen to the king of Babel, with the remnant of the multitude, did Nebuzar-adan chiefe steward cary away captiue.

20 And Nebuzar-adan the chiefe steward tooke them, and brought them to the king of Babel to Riblah.

21 And the king of Babel smote them, and slew them at Riblah in the land of Hamath. So Iudah was caried away captiue out of his owne land.

22 * Howbeit, there remained people in the land of Iudah, whom Nebuchad-nezzar king of Babel left, and made Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikam the sonne of Shaphan ruler over them.

23 Then when all the captaines of the hoaste and their men heard, that the king of Babel had made Gedaliah gouernour, they came to Gedaliah to Mizpah, to wit, Ishmael the sonne of Methaniah, and Iohanan the sonne of Kareah, and Seraiah the sonne of Tanhumeth the Netophatite, and Iaazaniah the sonne of Maachathi, they and their men.

24 And Gedaliah l sware to them, and to their men, and said vnto them, Feare not to be the servants of the Caldeans: dwell in the land, and serve the king of Babel, and ye shall be well.

25 * But in the seventh moneth Ishmael the sonne of Nethaniah the sonne of Elishama, of the kings seede, came, and ten men with him, & smote Gedaliah, and he died, and so did hee the Iewes, and the Caldees that were with him at Mizpah.

THE ARGUMENT.

THe Iewes comprehend both these bookes in one, vvhich the Grecians because of te length, divide into tvvo: and they are called Chronicles: because they note briefly the histories from Adam to the returne from their captivitie in Babylon. But these are not those bookes of Chronicles, vvhich are so oft mentioned in the bookes of the Kings of Iudah and Israel, vvhich did at large set forth the storie of both the kingdomes, and aftervvard perished in the captivitie but an abridegement of the same, and vvere gathered by Ezra, as the Iewes vvrite, after their returne from Babylon. This first conteineth a briefe rehearsall of the children of Adam unto Abraham, Izhak, Iaakob and the tvvelve Patriarches, chiefly of Iudah, and the reigne of David, because Christ came of him according to the flesh. And therefore it setteth forth more amply his actes both concerning civill governement, and also the administration and care of things concerning religion, for the good successe vvhereof he reioyceth and giveth thankes to the Lord.

4 The sonnes of Ioel, Shemaiah his sonne, Gog his sonne, and Shimei his sonne, 5 Michah his sonne, Reaiah his sonne, and Baal his sonne.

6 Beerah his sonne: whom Tilgath Pilneeser king of Asshur c caried away, he was a prince of the Reubenites.

c To wit, in the time of Vzziah King of Israel, 2 King.15.23.

7 And when his brethren in their families reckoned the genealogie of their generations, Ieiel and Zechariah were the chiefe,

8 And Bela the sonne of Azaz, the sonne of Shema, the sonne of Ioel, which dwelt in d Aroer even vnto Nebo and Baalmeon.

d These places were beyond Iorden toward the East in the land given to the Reubenites.

9 Also Eastward hee inhabited vnto the entring in of the wildernes from the riuer ‖ Perath: for they had much cattel in the land of Gilead.

‖ Or, Euphrates.

10 And in the dayes of Saul they warred with the e Hagarims, which fell by their hands: and they dwelt in their tents in all the East parts of Gilead.

e The Ishmaelites that came of Hagar Abrahams concubine.

11 ¶ And the children of Gad dwelt over against them in the land of Bashan, vnto Salchah.

12 Ioel was the chiefest, and Shapham the second, but Iaanai and Shaphat were in Bashan.

13 And their brethren of the house of their fathers were Michael, and Meshullam, and Sheba, and Sorai, and Iacan, and Zia, and Eber, seuen.

14 These are the children of Abihail, the sonne of Huri, the sonne of Iaroah, the sonne of Gilead, the sonne of Michael, the sonne of Ieshishai, the sonne of Iahdo, the sonne of Buz.

15 Ahi the sonne of Abdiel, the sonne of Guni was chiefe of the houshold of their fathers.

16 And they dwelt in Gilead in f Bashan, and in the townes thereof, and in all the suburbs of Sharon by their borders.

f Both the whole countrey and one peculiar city were called by this name Bashan.

17 All these were reckoned by genealogies in the dayes of Ieroboam king of Iudah, and in the dayes of Ieroboam king of Israel.

18 ¶ The sonnes of Reuben and of Gad, and of halfe the tribe of Manasseh of those that were valiant men, able to beare shield and sword, and to draw a bow exercised in warre, were foure and fortie thousand, seven hundreth and threescore, that went out to the warre.

19 And they made warre with the Hagarims, with g Ietur, and Naphish, and Nodab.

g The twaine were the sonnes of Ishmael, Gen.25.15.

20 And they were h holpen against them, and the Hagarims were delivered into their hand, and all that were with them: for they cryed to God in the battell, and hee heard them, because they trusted in him.

h To wit, by the Lord that gave them the victorie.

21 And they led away their cattell, even their camels fiftie thousand, and two hundreth and fiftie thousand sheepe, and two thousand asses, and of † persons an hundreth thousand.

22 For many fell downe wounded, because the warre was of God. And they dwelt in their steads vntill the i captiuitie.

i Meaning, the captivitie of the ten tribes vnder Tilgath Pilneeser.

23 And the children of the halfe tribe of Manasseh dwelt in the land, from Bashan vnto k Baal Hermon, and Semir, and vnto mount Hermon: for they increased.

k Otherwise called Baal-gad.

24 And these were the heads of the housholds of their fathers, even Epher and Ishi, and Eliel and Azriel, and Ieremiah, and Hodauiah, and Iahdiel, strong men, valiant and famous, heads of the houshold of their fathers.

25 But they transgressed against the God of their fathers, and went a whoring after the gods of the people of the land, whom God had destroyed before them.

26 And the God of Israel l stirred vp the spirit of Pul king of Asshur, and the spirit of Tilgath Pilneeser king of Asshur, and he caried them away: even the Reubenites, and the Gadites, and the halfe tribe of Manasseh, and brought them vnto * Halah & Habor, and Hara, and to the riuer Gozan, vnto this day.

l Thus God stirred up the wicked and vsed them as instruments to execute his iust iudgement against sinners, although they were led with malice and ambition.

CHAP. IX.

1 All Iſrael and Iudah numbred. 10 Of the Prieſts and Levites, 11, 18 And of their offices.

THus all Iſrael were numbred by their genealogies: and behold, they are written in the booke of the Kings of Iſrael and of Iudah, and they were a caried away to Babel for their tranſgreſſion.

18 For they were porters to this time by companies of the children of Levi unto the e Kings gate Eaſtward.

e So called becauſe the king came into the Temple thereby, and not the common people.

19 And Shallum the ſonne of Core the ſonne of Ebiaſaph the ſonne of Korah, and his brethren the Korathites (of the houſe of their fathers) were over the worke, and office to keepe the gates of the f Tabernacle: ſo their families were over the hoaſte of the Lord keeping the entrie.

CHAP. X.

1 The battell of Saul againſt the Philiſtims. 4 In which he dieth. 6 And his ſonnes alſo. 13 The cauſe of Sauls death.

NOw * the Philiſtims fought againſt Iſrael, and the men of Iſrael fledde before the Philiſtims, and fell owne ſlaine in mount Gilboa.

* 1. Sam. 31. 1.

2 And the Philiſtims purſued after Saul and after his ſonnes, and ſ Philiſtims ſmote Ionathan, and and Abinadab, and Malchishua the sonnes of Saul.

3 And the battell was sore against Saul, and the archers † hit him, and he was wounded of the archers.

† Ebr. found.

4 Then said Saul to his armour-bearer, Draw out thy sword, and thrust me thorow therewith, least these uncircumcised come and mocke at me: but his armour-bearer would not, for he was sore afraid: therefore Saul tooke the sword, and fell upon it.

5 And when his armour-bearer saw that Saul was dead, hee fell likewise upon the sword, and died.

6 So Saul died, and his three sonnes, and all his house, they died together.

7 And when all the men of Israel that were in the valley, saw how they fled, and that Saul and his sonnes were dead, they forsooke their cities and fled away, and the Philistims came and dwelt in them.

8 And on the morrow when the Philistims came to spoyle them that were slaine, they found Saul and his sonnes † lying in mount Gilboa.

† Ebr. fallen.

9 And when they had stript him, they tooke his head and his armour, and sent them into the land of the Philistims round about, to publish it unto their idols, and to the people.

10 And they layed up his armour in the house of their god, and set up his head in the house of a Dagon.

a Which was the idole of the Philistims, and from the belly downeward had the forme of a fish, and upward of a man.

11 ¶ When all they of Iabesh Gilead heard all that the Philistims had done to Saul, 12 Then they arose (all the valiant men) and tooke the body of Saul, and the bodies of his sonnes, and brought them to Iabesh, and buried the bones of them under an oake in Iabesh, and fasted seven dayes.

13 So Saul died for his transgression that hee committed against the Lord, * even against the word of the Lord which he kept not, and in that he sought and asked counsell of a ‖ * familiar spirit,

* 1. Sam. 15, 23.

‖ Or, witch, and sorceresse.

* 1. Sam. 28. 8.

14 And asked not of the Lord: therefore hee slew him, and turned the kingdome unto Dauid the sonne of Ishai.

CHAP. XI.

§ After the death of Saul David is anoynted in Hebron. 3 The Iebusites rebell against David, from whom he taketh the tower of Zion. 6 Ioab is made captaine. 10 His valiant men.

THen * all Israel a gathered themselves to David unto Hebron, saying, Behold, we are thy bones and thy flesh.

* 2. Sam. 5, 1.

a This was after the death of Ishbosheth Sauls sonne, when David had reigned over Iudah seven yeares and sixe moneths in Hebron, 2. Sam. 5, 5.

2 And in time past, even when Saul was king, thou leddest Israel out and in: and the Lord thy God said unto thee, Thou shalt feed my people Israel, and thou shalt be captaine over my people Israel.

3 So came all the Elders of Israel to the King to Hebron, and David made a covenant with them in Hebron before the Lord. And they anoynted David king over Israel, * according to the word of the Lord, by the hand of Samuel.

* 2. Sam. 16, 13.

4 ¶ And David and all Israel went to Ierusalem: which is Iebus, where were the Iebusites, the inhabitants of the land.

5 And the inhabitants of Iebus sayd to David, Thou shalt not come in hither. Nevertheless David tooke the tower of Zion, which is the city of David.

6 And David sayd, * Whosoever smiteth the Iebusites first, shalbe the chiefe and captaine. So Ioab the sonne of Zeruiah went first up, and was captaine.

* 2. Sam. 5, 8.

7 And David dwelt in the tower: therefore they called it the city of David.

8 * And he built the city on every side, from Millo even round about: and Ioab repaired the rest of the city.

* 2. Sam. 5, 9.

9 And David prospered and grew: for the Lord of hosts was with him.

10 ¶ * These also are the chiefe of the valiant men that were with David, and joyned their force with him in his kingdome with all Israel, to make him king over Israel, according to the word of the Lord.

* 2. Sam. 23, 8.

11 And this is the number of the valiant men whom David had, Iashobeam the sonne of Hachmoni, the b chiefe among thirtie: he lift up his speare against three hundreth, whom hee slew at one time.

b Meaning, the most excellent and best esteemed for his valiantnesse: some reade, the chief of the princes.

12 And after him was Eleazar the sonne of ‖ Dodo the Ahohite, which was one of the three valiant men.

‖ Or, his uncle.

13 He was with David at Pas-dammim, and there the Philistims were gathered together to battell: and there was a parcell of ground full of barley, and the people fled before the Philistims.

14 And they stood in the middes of the field, c and saved it, and slewe the Philistims: so the Lord gave a great victory.

c This acte is referred to Shammah, 2. Sam 23, 11.

15 ¶ And three of the d thirtie captaines went to a rocke to David, into the cave of Adullam. And the armie of the Philistims camped in the valley of Rephaim.

d That is, Eleazar and his two companions.

16 And when David was in the hold, the Philistims garison was at Beth-lehem.

17 And David longed, and said, * Oh, that one would give me to drinke of the water of the well of Beth-lehem that is at the gate.

* 2. Sam. 23, 15.

18 Then these three brake thorow the hoaste of the Philistims, and drew water out of the well of Beth-lehem that was by the gate, and tooke it, and brought it to David: but David would not drinke of it, but powred it for an oblation to the Lord,

19 And said, Let not my God suffer me to doe this: should I drinke the e blood of these mens lives? for they have brought it with the jeopardie of their lives: therefore he would not drinke it: these things did these three mightie men.

e That is, this water, for the which they ventured their blood.

20 ¶ And Abishai the brother of Ioab, he was chiefe of the three, and hee lift up his speare against three hundreth, and slew them, and had the name among the three.

21 Among the three he was more honourable then the two, and he was their captaine: * but he attained not unto the first three.

* 2. Sam. 23, 18.

22 Benaiah the sonne of Iehoiada (the sonne of a valiant man) which had done many actes, and was of Kabzeel, hee slew two ‖ strong men of Moab, hee went downe also and slewe a Lion in the middes of a pit in time of snow.

‖ Or, lions.

23 And hee slew an Egyptian, a man of great stature, even five cubites long, and in the Egyptians hand was a speare like a weavers beame: and hee went downe to him with a staffe, and plucked the speare out of the Egyptians hand, and slewe him with his owne speare.

24 These things did Benaiah the sonne of Iehoiada, and had the name among the three worthies.

25 Behold, he was honourable among thirty, but he attained not unto the f firſt three. * And David made him of his counſell.

f Meaning, thoſe three which brought the water to David. * 2. Sam. 23. 23.

CHAP. XIII.

1 The Arke is brought againe from Kiriath-iearim to Ierusalem. 6 Vzza dieth because he toucheth it.

AND David counselled with the captaines of thousands and of hundreths, and with all the governours,

2 And David said to all the Congregation of Israel, If it seeme good to you, and that it proceedeth of the Lord our God, wee will send to and fro unto our brethren, that are left in all the land of Israel (for with them are the Priests and the Levites in the cities and their suburbes) that they may assemble themselves unto us.

3 And we will bring againe the a Arke of our God to us: for we sought not unto it in the dayes of Saul.

a His first care was to restore religion, which had in Sauls dayes been corrupted and neglected.

4 And all the Congregation answered, Let us doe so: for the thing seemed good in the eyes of all the people.

5 ¶ * So David gathered all Israel together from ‖ Shihor in Egypt, even unto the entring of Hamath, to bring the Arke of God from b Kiriath-jearim.

b That is, from Gibea, where the inhabitants of Kiriath-jearim had placed it in the house of Abinadab. 2. Sam. 6, 3.

6 And David went up and all Israel to ‖ Baalath in Kiriath-jearim, that was in Iudah, to bring up from thence the Arke of God the Lord that dwelleth betweene the Cherubims, where his Name is called on.

‖ Or, Baale, reade 2. Sam. 6, 2.

7 And they caried the Arke of God in a new cart of the house of Abinadab: and Vzza and Ahio c guided the cart.

c The sonnes of Abinadab.

8 And David and all Israel played before d God with all their might, both with songs and with harps, and with viols, and with timbrels, and with cymbals, and with trumpets.

d That is, before the Arke, where God shewed himself: so that the signe is taken for the thing signified, which is common to all sacraments both in the old and new Testament.

9 ¶ And when they came unto the threshing-floore of e Chidon, Vzza put foorth his hand to hold the Arke, for the oxen did shake it.

e Called also Nachon. 2. Sam. 6. 6.

10 But the wrath of the Lord was kindled against Vzza, and he smote him, because he layed his hand upon the Arke: so he died there f before God.

f Before the Arke for usurping that which did not appertaine to his vocation: for this charge was given to the Priests. Num. 4. 15. so that here all good intentions are condemned, except they be commanded by the word of God.

11 And David was angry, because the Lord had made a breach in Vzza, and he called the name of that place, Perez-Vzza unto this day.

12 And David feared God that day, saying, How shall I bring in to me the Arke of God?

13 Therefore David brought not the Arke to him into the city of David, but caused it to turne into the house of g Obed Edom the Gittite.

g Who was a Levite, and called 2. Gittite, because he had dwelt as Gath.

14 So the Arke of God remained in the house of Obed Edom, even in his house three moneths: and the Lord blessed the house of Obed Edom, and all that he had.

CHAP. XIIII.

1 Hiram sendeth wood and workemen to David. 4 The names of his children. 8, 14 By the counsell of God he goeth against the Philistims, and overcommeth them. 15 God fighteth for him.

THen * send Hiram the king of † Tyrus messengers to David, and Cedar-trees, with masons and carpenters to build him an house.

* 2. Sam. 5, 11.
† Ebr. Zor.

2 Therefore David knew that the Lord had confirmed him King over Israel, and that his kingdome was lift up on hie, because of his a people Israel.

a Because of Gods promise made to the people of Israel.

3 ¶ Also David tooke moe wives at Ierusalem, and David begate moe sonnes and daughters.

4 And these are the names of the children which he had at Ierusalem, Shammua, and Shobab, Nathan and Salomon,

5 And Ibhar, and Elishua, and b Elpalet, b Elpalet and Nogah are not mentioned, 2. Sam. 5, 14. so there are but eleven, and here thirteene.

6 And Nogah, and Nepheg, and Iaphia,

7 And Elishama, and ‖ Beeliada, and Eliphalet.

‖ Or, Eliada.

8 But when the Philistims heard that David was anoynted King over Israel, all the Philistims came up to seeke David. And when David heard, he went out against them.

9 And the Philistims came, and spread themselves in the valley of Rephaim.

10 Then David asked counsell at God, saying, Shall I go up against the Philistims, and wilt thou deliver them into mine hand? And the Lord said unto him, Goe up: for I will deliver them into thine hand.

11 So they came up to Baal-perazim, and David smote them there: and David said, God hath divided divided mine enemies with mine hand, as waters are divided: therefore they called the name of that place, c Baal-perazim.

c That is, the valley of divisions, because the enemies were disperſed there like waters.

12 And there they had left their gods: and David ſaid, Let them be even burnt with fire.

13 Againe the Philiſtims came and ſpread themſelves in the valley.

14 And when David asked againe counſell at God, God ſaid to him, Thou ſhalt not goe up after them, but turne away from them, that thou mayeſt come upon them over againſt the mulberie trees.

15 And when thou heareſt the noyſe of one going in the tops of the mulbery trees, then goe out to battell: for God is gone forth before thee, to ſmite the hoaſte of the Philiſtims.

16 So David did as God had commanded him: and they ſmote the hoaſte of the Philiſtims from Gibeon even to Gezer.

17 And the fame of David went out into all lands; and the Lord brought the feare of him upon all nations.

CHAP. XV.

1 David prepareth an houſe for the Arke. 4 The number and order of the Levites. 16 The ſingers are choſen out among them. 25 They bring againe the Arke with ioy. 29 David dancing before it, is deſpiſed of his wife Michal.

AND David made him houſes in the a citie of David, and prepared a place for the Arke of God, and pitched for it a tent.

a That was in the place of the citie, called Zion, 2.Sam.5,7.9. * Num.4,2,2,10.

2 Then David ſaid, * None ought to cary the Arke of God, but the Levites: for the Lord hath choſen them to beare the Arke of the Lord, and to miniſter unto him for ever.

3 ¶ And David gathered all Iſrael together to Ieruſalem to bring up the b Arke of the Lord upon his place, which he had ordained for it.

b From the houſe of Obed Edom, 2.Sam.6,10,12.

4 And David aſſembled the ſonnes of Aaron, and the Levites.

5 Of the ſonnes of Kohath, Vriel the chiefe, and his ‖ brethren fixeſcore,

6 Of the ſonnes of Merari, Aſaiah the chiefe, and his brethren two hundreth and twentie.

7 Of the ſonnes of Gerſhon, Ioel the chiefe, and his brethren an hundreth and thirtie.

8 Of the ſonnes of e Elizaphan, Shemaiah the chiefe, and his brethren two hundreth.

e Who was the ſonne of Vzziel, the fourth ſonne of Kohath, Exod.6. 18,22. and Numb. 3.30.

9 Of the ſonnes of d Hebron, Eliel the chiefe, and his brethren foureſcore.

d The third ſonne of Kohath, Exod. 6,18.

10 Of the ſonnes of Vzziel, Amminadab the chiefe, and his brethren an hundreth and twelve.

11 ¶ And David called Zadok and Abiathar the Prieſt, and of the Levites, Vriel, Aſaiah and Ioel, Shemaiah and Eliel, and Aminadab.

12 And he ſaid unto them, Yee are the chiefe fathers of the Levites: e ſanctifie your ſelves, and your brethren, and bring up the Arke of the Lord God of Iſrael unto the place that I have prepared for it.

e Prepare your ſelves and be pure, abſtaine from all things whereby ye might be polluted, and ſo not able to come to the Tabernacle. * Chap.13.10.

13 For * becauſe ye were not there at the firſt, the Lord our God made a breach among us: for we ſought him not after due f order.

f According as he hath appointed in the law.

14 So the Prieſts and the Levites ſanctified themſelves to bring up the Arke of the Lord God of Iſrael.

15 ¶ And the ſonnes of the Levites bare the Arke of God upon their ſhoulders with the barres as Moſes had commanded, * according to the word of the Lord.

* Exod.25,14,15.

16 And David ſpake to the chiefe of the Levites, that they ſhould appoint certaine of their brethren to ſing with g inſtruments of muſicke, with violes and harpes, and cymbals, that they might make a ſound, and lift up their voyce with ioy.

g These inſtruments and other ceremonies, which they obſerved, were inſtructions of their infancie, which continued to the comming of Chriſt.

17 So the Levites appointed Herman the ſonne of Ioel, and of his brethren Aſaph the ſonne of Berechiah, and of the ſonnes of Merari their brethren, Ethan the ſonne of Kuſhaiah, 18 And with them their brethren in the h ſecond degree, Zechariah, Ben, and Iaaziel, and Shemiramoth, and Iehiel, and Vnni, Eliab, and Benaiah, and Maaſeiah, and Mattithiah, and Eliphelech, and Mikneah, and Obed Edom, and Ieiel the porters.

h Which were inferiour in dignitie.

19 So Heman, Aſaph, and Ethan, vvere ſingers to make a ſound with cymbals of braſſe, 20 And Zechariah, and Aziel, and Shemiramoth, and Iehiel, and Vnni, and Eliab, and Maaſeiah and Benaiah, with viols on i Alamoth, i This was an inſtrument of muſicke, or a certaine tune, whereunto they accuſtomed to ſing Pſalmes.

21 And Mattithiah, and Elipheleh, and Mikneah, and Obed Edom, and Ieiel, and Azaziah, with harpes upon k Sheminith Ienazzeah.

k Which was the eighth tune, over the which he that was moſt excellent had charge.

22 But Chenaniah the chiefe of the Levites had the l charge bearing the burden in the charge, for he was able to inſtruct.

l To wit, to appoint Pſalmes, and ſongs to them that ſung.

23 And Berechiah and Elkanah were porters for the Arke.

24 And Shecaniah, and Iehoſhaphat, and Nethaneel, and Amaſai, and Zechariah, and Benaiah, and Eliezer the Prieſts did blowe with trumpets before the Arke of God, and Obed Edom, and Ieiiah vvere porters m for the Arke.

m With Berechiah and Elkanah, verſ. 23.

25 * So David and the Elders of Iſrael and the captains of thouſands went to bring up the Arke of the Covenant of the Lord from the houſe of Obed Edom with ioy.

* 2.Sam.6,12.

26 And becauſe that God n helped the Levites that bare the Arke of the Covenant of the Lord, they offered o ſeven bullockes and ſeven rammes.

n That is, gave them ſtrength to execute their office.

o Beſides the bullocke and the fat beaſt which David offered at every ſixth pace, 2.Sam. 6,13.

27 And David had on him a linnen garment, as all the Levites that bare the Arke, and the ſingers, and Chenaniah that had the chiefe charge of the ſingers: and upon David vvas a linnen p Ephod.

p Reade 2.Sam.6, 14.

28 Thus all Iſrael brought up the Arke of the Lords covenant with ſhouting, and ſound of cornet, and with trumpets, and with cymbals, making a ſound with violes and with harpes.

29 And when the Arke of the q covenant of the Lord came into the city of David, Michal the daughter of Saul looked out at a window, and ſaw king David dancing and playing, and * ſhee deſpiſed him in her heart.

q It was ſo called becauſe it put the Iſraelites in remembrance of the Lords covenant made with them. * 2,Sam,6,16.

CHAP. XVI.

1 The Arke being placed, they offer ſacrifices. 4 David ordaineth, Aſaph and his brethren to miniſter before the Lord. 8 Hee appointed a notable Pſalme to be ſung in praiſe of the Lord.

SO * they brought in the Arke of God, and ſet it in the midſt of the Tabernacle that David had pitched for it, and they offered burnt-offerings and peace-offerings before God.

* 2.Sam.6,17.

2 And when David had made an end of offering the burnt-offering and the peace-offerings, he a bleſſed the people in the Name of the Lord.

a He called upon the Name of God, deſiring him to proſper the people, and give good ſucceſſe to their beginnings.

3 And

3 And hee dealt to every one of Iſrael both man and woman, to every one a cake of bread, and a piece of fleſh, and a bottell of wine.

4 And hee appointed certaine of the Levites to miniſter before the Arke of the Lord, and to b rehearſe and to thanke and praiſe the Lord God of Iſrael:

b To wit, Gods benefits toward his people.

5 Aſaph the chief, and next to him Zechariah, Ieiel, and Shemiramoth, and Iehiel, and Mattithiah, and Eliab, and Benaiah, and Obed-Edom, even Ieiel with inſtruments, violes, and harpes, and Aſaph to make a ſound with cymbals,

6 And Benaiah and Iehaziel Prieſtes, with trumpets continually before the Arke of the Conenant of God.

c David gave them this Pſalme to praiſe the Lord, ſignifying, that in all our enterprises the Name of God ought to be praiſed and called upon.
* Iſai. 26, 1. Iſa. 12. 4.

7 Then at that time David did c appoynt at the beginning to give thankes to the Lord by the hand of Aſaph and his brethren.

8 * Praiſe the Lord, and call vpon his Name: declare his d workes among the people.

d Whereof this is the chiefeſt, that hee hath choſen himſelfe a Church to call upon his Name.

9 Sing vnto him, ſing prayſe vnto him, and talke of all his e wonderfull workes.

e Who of his wonderfull providence hath choſen a few of the ſtocke of Abraham to be his children.

10 Reioyce in his holy Name: let the hearts of them that ſeeke the Lord, reioyce.

11 Seeke the Lord and his ſtrength: ſeeke his face continually.

12 Remember his marueilous workes that he hath done, his wonders, and the f iudgements of his mouth, f In overcomming Pharaoh, which iudgements were declared by Gods mouth to Moſes.

13 O ſeed of Iſrael his ſervant, O the children of Iaakob his g choſen.

g Meaning hereby that the promiſe of adoption onely appertaineth to the Church.

14 Hee is the Lord our God: his iudgements are throughout all the earth.

15 Remember his Covenant for ever, and the word, which he commanded to a thouſand generations:

* Gen. 22. 16. 17. 18. Luke 1. 73. Heb. 6. 17.

16 * Which hee made with Abraham, and his oathe to Izhak:

† Gr. coard, whereby parcels of land were meaſured.

17 And hath confirmed it to Iaakob for a Law, and to Iſrael for an everlaſting Covenant, 18 Saying, To thee will I give the land of Canaan, the † lot of your inheritance.

h Meaning from the time that Abraham entred into Canaan, vntil the time that Iaakob went into Egypt for famine.

19 When ye were h few in number, yea, a very few, and ſtrangers therein,

20 And walked about from nation to nation, and from one kingdome to another people, i As Pharaoh and Abimelech.

21 Hee ſuffered no man to doe them wrong, but rebuked i Kings for their ſakes, ſaying, k Mine elect people and them whom I have ſanctified.

22 Touch not mine k anoynted, and doe my l Prophets no harme.

l To whom God declared his word, and they declared it to their poſteritie.

* Pſal. 95. 1.

23 * Sing vnto the Lord all the earth: declare his ſaluation from day to day.

24 Declare his glory among the nations, and his wonderfull workes among all people.

m His ſtrong faith appeareth herein, though all the world would follow idoles, yet he would cleave to the liuing God.

25 For the Lord is great and much to be praiſed, and he is to be feared above all gods.

26 For all the gods of the people are m idoles, but the Lord made the heavens.

27 Praiſe and glory are before him: power and beautie are in his place.

28 Give vnto the Lord, ye families of the people: give vnto the Lord glory and power.

29 Give vnto the Lord the glory of his Name: bring an offering, and come before him, and worſhip the Lord in the glorious Sanctuarie.

n Humble your ſelves under the mightie hand of God.

30 n Tremble ye before him all the earth, ſurely the world ſhalbe, and not moove.

o Hee exhorteth the dumbe creatures to reioyce with him in conſidering the greatneſſe of the grace of God, 31 Let the o heavens reioyce, and let the earth be glad, and let them ſay among the nations, The Lord reigneth.

32 Let the ſea roare, and all that therein is: let the field be ioyfull and all that is in it.

33 Let the trees of the wood then reioyce at the preſence of the Lord: for hee commeth to p iudge the earth.

p To reſtore all things to their eſtate.

34 Praiſe the Lord for he is good, for his mercie endureth for ever.

q Hee eſteemeth this to be the chiefeſt felicitie of man.

35 And ſay ye, Save vs, O God, our ſaluation, and gather vs, and deliver vs from the heathen, that we may praiſe thine holy Name, and q glory in thy praiſe.

r Hee willeth all the people both in heart and mouth to conſent to theſe praiſes.

36 Bleſſed be the Lord God of Iſrael for ever and ever: and let all the people ſay, r So be it, and praiſe the Lord.

37 ¶ Then he left there before the Arke of the Lords Covenant Aſaph and his brethren to miniſter continually before the Arke, that which was to be done every day:

38 And Obed Edom and his brethren, threeſcore and eight: and Obed Edom the ſonne of Ieduthun, and Hoſah were porters.

39 And Zadok the Prieſt and his brethren the Prieſts were before the Tabernacle of the Lord, in the hie place that was at Gibeon, 40 To offer burnt offerings vnto the Lord vpon the burnt offering altar continually, in the morning and in the evening, even according vnto all that is written in the Law of the Lord, which he commanded Iſrael.

41 And with f them were Heman, and Ieduthun, and the reſt that were choſen (which were appoynted by names) to praiſe the Lord, becauſe his mercy endureth for ever.

f With Zadok and the reſt of the Prieſts.

42 Even with them were Heman and Ieduthun, to make a ſound with the cornets and with the cymbals, with excellent inſtruments of muſicke: and the ſonnes of Ieduthun were at the gate.

t Declaring that after our duety to God we are chiefly bound to our owne houſe, for the which as for all other things wee ought to pray vnto God, and inſtruct our families to praiſe his Name.

43 And all the people departed, every man to his houſe: and David returned to t bleſſe his houſe.

CHAP. XVII.

3 David is forbidden to build an houſe vnto the Lord. 12 Chriſt is promiſed vnder the figure of Salomon. 18 David giueth thankes, 23 and prayeth vnto God.

* 2. Sam. 7. 2.

NOw * afterward when David dwelt in his houſe, hee ſaid to Nathan the Prophet, Behold, I dwell in an houſe of a cedar trees, but the Arke of the Lords Covenant remaineth vnder b curteines.

a Well built and faire.

b That is, in tents covered with skinnes.

2 Then Nathan ſaid to David, Doe c all that is in thine heart: for God is with thee.

c As yet God had not revealed to the Prophet what hee purpoſed concerning David: therefore ſeeing God favoured David, hee ſpake what hee thought.

3 And the ſame d night even the word of God came to Nathan, ſaying, d After that Nathan had ſpoken to David.

4 Goe, and tell David my ſervant, Thus ſaith the Lord, Thou ſhalt not build me an houſe to dwell in:

e That is, in a tent which removed to and fro.

5 For I have dwelt in no houſe ſince the day that I brought out the children of Iſrael vnto this day, but I have beene from e tent to tent, and from habitation to habitation.

f Meaning, wherefoever his Arke went, which was a ſigne of his preſence.

6 Wherefore I have f walked with all Iſrael, ſpake I one word to any of the Iudges of Iſrael (whom I commanded to feede my people) ſaying, Why have ye not built me an houſe of cedar trees?

g Of a ſhepheard of theeues I made thee a chiefe head of men: ſo that thou canſt not to his dignitie through thine owne merits, but by my free grace.

7 Now therefore thus ſhalt thou ſay vnto my ſervant David, Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſtes, I tooke thee from the ſheepcoat, g and from following the ſheepe, that thou ſhouldeſt be a prince over my people Iſrael,

8 And

8 And I have beene with thee whitherſoever thou haſt walked, and have deſtroyed all thine enemies out of thy ſight, and have ‖ made thee a name, like the name of the great men that are in the earth.

‖ Or, gotten thee fame.

9 (Alſo I will appoint a place for my people Iſrael, and will [b] plant it, that they may dwell in their place, and moone no more: neither ſhall the † wicked people ‖ vexe them any more, as at the beginning,

b Make them ſure that they ſhall not remoove.
† Ebr. ſonnes of iniquitie.
‖ Or, conſume.

10 And ſince the time that I commaunded Iudges over my people Iſrael) And I will ſubdue all thine enemies: therefore I ſay vnto thee, that the Lord will [i] build thee an houſe.

i will give thee great poſteritie.

11 And when thy dayes ſhalbe fulfilled to go with thy fathers, then will I raiſe vp thy ſeede after thee, which ſhalbe of thy ſonnes, and will eſtabliſh his kingdome.

12 He ſhall build me an houſe, and I will eſtabliſh his throne for [k] ever.

k That is, vnto the comming of Chriſt: for then theſe figures ſhould ceaſe.

13 I will be his father, and hee ſhall be my ſonne, and I will not take my mercy away from him, as I tooke it from him that was before [l] thee.

l Which was Saul.

14 But I will eſtabliſh him in mine houſe, and in my kingdome for ever, and his throne ſhall be ſtabliſhed for ever.

15 According to all theſe words, and according to all this viſion, ſo Nathan ſpake to David.

16 ¶ And David the king [m] went in and ‖ ſate before the Lord, and ſaid, Who [n] am I, O Lord God, and what is mine houſe, that thou haſt brought me [n] hitherto?

m Hee went into the tent where the Arke was, ſhewing what we ought to doe when we receiue any benefits of the Lord.
‖ Or, remained.
n Meaning, to this kingly eſtate.

17 Yet thou eſteeming this a ſmall thing, O God, haſt alſo ſpoken concerning the houſe of thy ſervant for a great while, and haſt regarded me according to the eſtate of a man of [o] hie degree, O Lord God.

o Thou haſt promiſed a kingdome that ſhall continue to me and my poſteritie, and that Chriſt ſhall proceed of me.

18 What can David deſire more of thee for the honour of thy ſervant? for thou knoweſt thy ſervant, 19 O Lord, for thy ſervants ſake, even according to thine [p] heart haſt thou done all this great thing to declare all magnificence.

p Freely and according to the purpoſe of thy will, without any deſerving.

20 Lord, there is none like thee, neither is there any God beſides thee according to all that wee have heard with our eares.

21 Moreover what one nation in the earth is like thy people Iſrael, whoſe God went to redeeme them to be his people, and to make thy ſelfe a Name, and to doe great and terrible things by caſting out Nations from before thy people, whom thou haſt delivered out of Egypt?

22 For thou haſt ordeined thy people Iſrael to be thine owne people for ever, and thou Lord art become their God.

23 Therefore now Lord, let the thing that thou haſt ſpoken concerning thy ſervant, and concerning his houſe, be confirmed for ever, and doe as thou haſt ſaid, 24 And let thy Name be ſtable and magnified for ever, that it may be ſaid, The Lord of hoaſtes, God of Iſrael, is the God of [q] Iſrael, and let the houſe of David thy ſervant be eſtabliſhed before thee.

q That is, he ſheweth himſelfe in deed to be their God, by deliuering them from dangers, and preſeruing them.

25 For thou, O my God, haſt [r] reuealed vnto the eare of thy ſervant, that thou wilt build him an houſe: therefore thy ſervant hath † bene bold to pray before thee.

r Thou haſt declared vnto me by Nathan the prophet.
† Ebr. hath found.

26 Therefore now Lord (for thou art [s] God, and haſt ſpoken this goodneſſe vnto thy ſervant,) s And canſt not breake promiſe.

27 Now therefore it hath pleaſed thee to bleſſe the houſe of thy ſervant, that it may be before thee for ever: for thou, O Lord, haſt bleſſed it, and it ſhalbe bleſſed for ever.

CHAP. XVIII.

1 The battell of Dauid againſt the Philiſtims, 2 And againſt Moab, 3 Zobah, 5 Aram, 12 And Edom.

A Nd after this, David ſmote the Philiſtims, and ſubdued them, and tooke [a] Gath, and the villages thereof out of the hand of the Philiſtims.

a Which 2. Sam. 8. 1. is called the bridle of bondage, becauſe it was a ſtrong towne, and kept the countrey round about in ſubiection.

2 And he ſmote Moab, and the Moabites became Dauids ſervants, and ‖ brought gifts.

‖ Or, payed tribute.

3 ¶ And David ſmote ‖ Hadarezer King of Zobah vnto Hamath, as hee went to eſtabliſh his border by the river ‖ Perath.

† Or, Hadadezer.
‖ Or, Euphrates.

4 And David tooke from him a thouſand charets, and ſeven thouſand horſemen, and twentie thouſand footmen, and * deſtroyed all the charets, but he reſerued of them an hundreth charets.

* 2. Sam. 8. 4.

5 ¶ Then came the Aramites of Damaſcus to ſuccour Hadarezer king of Zobah, but David ſlew of the Aramites two and twentie thouſand.

6 And David put a gariſon in Aram of ‖ Damaſcus, and the Aramites became Davids ſervants, and brought gifts: and the Lord [b] preſerued David whereſoever he went.

‖ Or, Darmeſeck.
b That is, in all things that he enterpriſed.

7 And Dauid tooke the ſhields of golde that were of the ſervants of Hadarezer, and brought them to Ieruſalem.

8 And from [c] Tibhath, and from Chun (cities of Hadarezer) brought David exceeding much braſſe, wherewith Salomon made the braſen * Sea, and the pillars and the veſſels of braſſe.

c which 2. Sam. 8. 8. are called Berah and Berothai.
* 1 King. 7. 23. Ierem. 52. 20.

9 ¶ Then Tou king of Hamath heard how Dauid had ſmitten all the hoaſt of Hadarezer king of Zobah:

10 Therefore he ſent [d] Hadoram his ſonne to king David, to ſalute him, and to reioyce with him, becauſe hee had fought againſt Hadarezer and beaten him (for Tou had warre with Hadarezer) who brought all veſſels of gold and ſilver and braſſe.

d Called alſo Ioram. 2. Sam. 8. 10.

11 And king Dauid did dedicate them vnto the Lord, with the ſilver and gold that he brought from all the nations, from [e] Edom, and from Moab, and from the children of Ammon, and from the Philiſtims, and from Amalek.

e Becauſe the Edomites & the Syrians ioyned their power together, it is ſaid, 2. Sam. 8. 12. that the Aramites were ſpoiled.

12 ¶ And Abiſhai the ſonne of Zeruiah ſmote of Edom in the ſalt valley [f] eighteene thouſand.

f Which is vnderſtood that Ioab ſlew twelve thouſand, as is in the title of threeſcore Pſal. and Abiſhai the reſt.

13 And he put a gariſon in Edom, and all the Edomites became Davids ſervants: and the Lord preſerved David whereſoever he went.

14 So David reigned over Iſrael, and executed iudgement and iuſtice to all his people.

15 And Ioab the ſonne of Zeruiah was over the hoaſte, and Iehoſhaphat the ſonne of Ahilud Recorder.

16 And Zadok the ſonne of Ahitub, and Abimelech the ſonne of Abiathar were the Prieſtes, and ‖ Shauſha the Scribe,

2 And David said, I will shew kindnesse unto Hanun the sonne of Nahash, because his a father shewed kindnesse unto mee. And David sent messengers to comfort him for his father. So the servants of David came into the land of the children of Ammon to Hanun, to comfort him.

a Because Nahash received David and his company, when Saul persecuted him, he would now shew pleasure to his sonne for the same.

3 And the princes of the children of Ammon said to Hanun, Thinkest thou that David doeth honour thy father, that hee hath sent comforters unto thee? Are not his servants come to thee to b search, to seeke and to spie out the land?

b Thus the malicious ever interprete the purpose of the godly in the worst sense.

4 Wherefore Hanun tooke Davids servants, and c shaved them, and cut of their d garments by the halfe unto the buttockes, and sent them away.

c They shaved off the halfe of their beards, 2. Sam. 10. 4 d To put them to shame and villeny, whereas the ambassadours ought to have bene honoured: and because the Iewes used to weare side garments and beards, they thus disfigured them, to make them odious to others.

5 And there went certaine and tolde David concerning the men, and hee sent to meet them (for the men were exceedingly ashamed) and the King said, Tarie at Iericho, vntill your beards be growen: then returne.

6 ¶ When the children of Ammon sawe that they ‖ stanke in the sight of David, then sent Hanun and the children of Ammon a thousand talents of silver, to hire them charets and horsemen out * of Aram Naharaim, and out of Aram Maachah, and out of e Zobah.

e Which were five in all.

7 And they hired them two and thirtie thousand charets, and the king of Maachah and his people, which came and pitched before f Medeba: and the children of Ammon gathered themselves together from their cities, and came to the battell.

f Which was a city of the tribe of Reuben beyond Iorden.

8 ¶ And when David heard it, hee sent Ioab and all the hoaste of the valiant men.

9 And the children of Ammon came out, and set their battell in aray at the gate of the citie. And the kings that were come, were by themselves in the field.

10 When Ioab sawe that the front of the battell was against him before and behind, then hee chose out of all the choise of Israel, and set himselfe in aray to meete the Aramites.

11 And the rest of the people hee delivered unto the hand of Abishai his brother, and they put themselves in aray against the children of Ammon.

12 And he said, If Aram be too strong for me, then thou shalt succour me: and if the children of Ammon prevaile against thee, then I will succour thee.

13 Be strong, and let vs shew our selves valiant for our g people, and for the cities of our God, and let the Lord doe that which is good in his owne sight.

g He declareth that where the cause is evill, the courage cannot be valiant, and that in good causes men ought to be courageous, and commit the successe to God.

14 So Ioab and the people that was with him, came neere before the Aramites unto the battell, and they fled before him.

15 And when the children of Ammon sawe that the Aramites fled, they fled also before Abishai his brother, and entred into the citie: so Ioab came to Ierusalem.

16 ¶ And when the Aramites sawe that they were discomfited before Israel, they sent messengers, and caused the Aramites to come forth that were beyond the h river: and Shophach the captaine of the hoast of Hadarezer went before them.

h Tirat is, Euphrates.

17 And when it was shewed David, hee gathered all Israel, and went over Iorden, and came unto them, and put himselfe in aray against them: And when David had put himselfe in battell aray to meet the Aramites, they fought with him.

18 But the Aramites fled before Israel, and David destroyed of the Aramites i seven thousand charets, and fourtie thousand footmen, and killed Sophach the captaine of the hoaste.

i For this place, reade 2 Sam. 10. 18.

19 And when the servants of Hadarezer sawe that they fell before Israel, they made peace with David, and served him. And the Aramites would no more succour the children of Ammon.

CHAP. XXI.

1 David causeth the people to be numbred, 14 and there dieth seventie thousand men of the pestilence.

AND a Satan stood up against Israel, and provoked David to number Israel.

a He temped David, in setting before his eyes his excellencie and glory, his power and victories, reade 2. Sam 24 1.

2 Therefore David sayd to Ioab, and to the rulers of the people, goe and number Israel from b Beersheba even to Dan, and bring it to me, that I may know the number of them.

b That is from South to North.

3 And Ioab answered, The Lord increase his people an hundreth times so many as they be, O my lord the king: are they not all my lords servants? wherefore doth my lord require this thing, why should he be a cause of c trespasse to Israel?

c It was a thing indifferent and usuall to number the people, but because he did it of an ambitious minde, as though his strength stood in his people, God punished him.

4 Nevertheless, the kings word prevaile against Ioab. And Ioab departed and went thorow all Israel, and returned to Ierusalem.

5 And Ioab gave the number and summe of the people unto David, and all Israel were d eleven hundreth thousand men that drewe sword, and Iudah was e foure hundreth and seventie d Ioab partly for griefe, and partly through negligence, gathered not the whole summe as it is here declared.

e In Samuel is mentioned thirtie thousand more, which was either by joyning to them some of the Benjamites which were mixed with Iudah, or as the Hebrewes write, here the chiefe and princes are left out.

thousand men that drew sword.

6 But the Levites and Benjamin counted hee not among them: for the Kings word was abominable to Ioab.

7 ¶ And God was displeased with this thing: therefore he smote Israel.

8 Then David said unto God, I have sinned greatly, because I have done this thing: but now, I beseech thee, remoove the iniquitie of thy servant: for I have done very foolishly.

‖ Or, Prophet.

9 And the Lord spake unto Gad Davids ‖ Seer, saying,

10 Goe and tell David, saying, Thus sayth the Lord, I offer thee three things: chuse thee one of them, that I may doe it unto thee.

11 So Gad came to David and said unto him, Thus saith the Lord, Take to thee.

12 Either three yeeres famine, or three moneths to be destroyed before thine adversaries, and the sword of thine enemies ‖ to take thee, or else the sword of the Lord and pestilence in the land three dayes, that the Angel of the Lord may destroy through all the coasts of Israel: now therefore advise thee, what word I shall bring againe to him that send me.

13 And David said unto Gad, I am in a wonderfull strait, let me now fall into the hand of the Lord: for his mercies are exceeding great, and let me not fall into the hand of man.

14 So the Lord send a pestilence in Israel, and there fell of Israel seventie thousand men.

15 ¶ And God sent the Angel into Ierusalem to destroy it. And [f] as he was destroying, the Lord behelde, and [g] repented of the evill, and sayd to the Angel that destroyed, It is now enough, let thine hand cease. Then the Angel of the Lord stood by the threshing-floore of ‖ Ornan the Iebusite.

f Reade 2. Sam 24. 16.

g When God draweth backe his plagues, he seemeth to repent, reade Gen 6,6.

‖ Or, Araunah.

16 And David lift up his eyes, and sawe the Angel of the Lord stand betweene the earth and the heaven, with his sword drawen in his hand and stretched out toward Ierusalem. Then David and the Elders of Israel which were cloathed in sacke, fell upon their faces.

17 And David said unto God, Is it not I that commanded to number the people? It is even I that have sinned and have committed evill, but these sheepe, what have they done? O Lord my God, I beseech thee, let thine hand be on me and on my fathers house, and not on [h] thy people for their destruction.

h Thus he both sheweth a true repentance and a fatherly care toward his people, which desireth God to spare them, and to punish him and his.

18 ¶ Then the Angel of the Lord commanded Gad to say to David, that David should goe up, and set up an altar unto the Lord in the threshing-floore of Ornan the Iebusite.

19 So David went up according to the saying of Gad, which hee had spoken in the Name of the Lord.

20 And Ornan turned about and saw the Angel, and his foure sonnes that were with him, [i] hid themselves, and Ornan threshed wheat.

i If man hide himself at the sight of an Angel which is a creature, how much lesse is a sinner able to appeare before the face of God?

21 And as David came to Ornan, Ornan looked and saw David, and went out of the threshing-floore, and bowed himself to David with his face to the ground.

22 And David said to Ornan, Give mee the place of thy threshing-floore, that I may build an [k] altar therein unto the Lord: give it mee for sufficient money, that the plague may be stayed from the people.

k Thus he did by the commandement of God, as verse 28. for else it had bene abominable, except hee had either Gods word, or revelation.

23 Then Ornan said unto David, Take it to thee, and let my lord the king doe that which seemeth him good: loe, I give thee bullocks for burnt-offerings, and threshing instruments for wood, and wheate for meate-offering, I give it all.

24 And King David sayd to Ornan, Not so: but I will buy it for sufficient [l] money: for I will not take that which is thine for the Lord, nor offer burnt-offerings without cost.

l That is, as much as it is worth: for having enough of his owne, and yet to have taken of another mans goods to offer unto the Lord, it had bene theft and not acceptable to God. in Reade 2. Sam. 24.24.

25 So David gave to Ornan for that place [m] six hundreth shekels of gold by weight.

m God declared that he heard his request, in that he send downe fire from heaven: for els they might vse no fire in sacrifice, but of that which was reserved still upon the altar, Levit. 6,13. and came downe from heaven, Levit. 9.24. as appeared by the punishment of Nadab and Abihu, Levit. 10,1.

26 And David built there an altar unto the Lord, and offered burnt-offerings, and peace-offerings, and called upon the Lord, and hee [n] answered him by fire from heaven upon the altar of burnt-offering.

27 And when the Lord had spoken to the Angel, hee put up his sword againe into his sheath.

28 At that time when David saw that the Lord had heard him in the threshing-floore of Ornan the Iebusite, then he sacrificed there.

29 (But the Tabernacle of the Lord which Moses had made in the wilderneſſe, and the altar of burnt-offering were that season in the high place at Gibeon.

30 And David could not goe before it to aske counsell at God: for hee was afraid of the sword of the Angel of the Lord.)

CHAP. XXII.

2 David prepareth things necessary for the building of the Temple. 6 He commandeth his sonne Salomon to build the Temple of the Lord, which thing hee himself was forbidden to doe. 9 Vnder the figure of Salomon Christ is promised.

AND David sayd, This is the [a] house of the Lord God, and this is the altar for the burnt-offering of Israel.

a That is, the place wherein he will be worshipped.

2 And David commanded to gather together the [b] strangers that were in the land of Israel, and hee set masons to hew and polish stones to build the house of God.

b Meaning, conning men of other nations which dwelt among the Iewes.

3 David also prepared [c] much yron for the nailes of the doores and of the gates, and for the joynings, and abundance of brasse passing weight, c To wit, which weighed fiftie thousand shekels of gold, 1. Chron. 3.9.

4 And cedar-trees without number: for the Zidonians and they of Tyrus brought much cedar-wood to David.

5 And David said, Salomon my sonne is young and tender, and wee must build an house for the Lord, magnificall, excellent and of great fame and dignitie throughout all countreys: I will therefore now prepare for him. So David prepared very much before his death.

6 Then hee called Salomon his sonne, and charged him to build an house for the Lord God of Israel.

7 And David said to Salomon, * My sonne, I purposed with my self to build an house to the Name of the Lord my God.

* 2. Sam. 7,13.

8 But the word of the Lord came to mee, saying, * [d] Thou hast shed much blood, and hast made great battels: thou shalt not build an house unto my name: for thou hast shed much blood upon the earth in my sight.

* Chap 28,3.

d This declareth how greatly God detesteth the shedding of blood, seeing David for this cause is stayed to build the Temple of the Lord, albeit he enterprised no warre, but by Gods commandement and against his enemies.

9 Behold, a sonne is borne to thee, which shall be a man of rest, for I will give him rest from all his enemies round about: therefore his name is Salomon: and I will send peace and quietnesse upon Israel in his dayes,

10 * Hee

10 * He ſhall build an houſe for my Name, and he ſhall be my ſonne, and I will be his father, and I will eſtabliſh the throne of his kingdome vpon Iſrael for ever.

11 Now therefore my ſonne, the Lord ſhalbe with thee, and thou ſhalt e proſper, and thou ſhalt build an houſe to the Lord thy God, as hee hath ſpoken of thee.

12 Onely the Lord give thee f wiſedome and vnderſtanding, and give thee charge over Iſrael, even to keepe the Law of the Lord thy God.

13 Then thou ſhalt proſper, if thou take heede to obſerve the ſtatutes and the iudgements, which the Lord commanded Moſes for Iſrael: be ſtrong and of good courage: feare not, neither be afraid.

14 For behold, according to my g povertie have I prepared for the houſe of the Lord an hundreth thouſand talents of gold, and a thouſand thouſand talents of ſilver, and of braſſe and of yron paſſing weight: for there was abundance: I have alſo prepared timber and ſtone, and thou mayeſt prouide more thereto.

15 Moreover thou haſt workemen with thee enough, ‖ hewers of ſtone, and workemen of timber, and all men expert in every worke.

16 Of gold, of ſilver, and of braſſe, and of yron there is no number: h Vp therefore, and be doing, and the Lord will be with thee.

17 David alſo commaunded all the princes of Iſrael to helpe Salomon his ſonne, ſaying, 18 Is not the Lord your God with you, and hath given you reſt on every ſide? for he hath given the i inhabitants of the land into mine hand, and the land is ſubdued before the Lord, and before his people.

19 Now ſet k your hearts and your ſoules to ſeeke the Lord your God, and ariſe, and build the Sanctuary of the Lord God, to bring the Arke of the Couenant of the Lord, and the holy veſſels of God into the houſe built for the Name of the Lord.

1 Dauid being olde, ordeineth Salomon King. 3 He cauſeth the Leuites to be numbred, 4 and aſſigneth them to their offices. 13 Aaron and his ſonnes are for the high Prieſt. 14 The ſonnes of Moſes.

SO when Dauid was old and full of dayes, * he made Salomon his ſonne King ouer Iſrael.

2 And he gathered together all the princes of Iſrael with the Prieſts and the Leuites.

3 And the Leuites were numbred from the age of thirtie yeere and above, and their number according to their ſumme was eight and thirtie thouſand men.

4 Of theſe foure and twentie thouſand were ſet to ‖ aduance the worke of the houſe of the Lord, and ſixe thouſand were ouer-ſeers and iudges.

5 And foure thouſand were porters, and foure thouſand prayſed the Lord with inſtruments which † he made to prayſe the Lord.

6 * So Dauid diuided offices vnto them, to wit, to the ſonnes of Leui, to * Gerſhon, Kohath, and Merari.

7 Of the Gerſhonites were ‖ Laadan and Shimei.

8 The ſonnes of Laadan, the chiefe was Iehiel, and Zetham and Ioel, three.

9 The ſonnes of Shimei, Shelomith, and Haziel, and Haram, three: theſe were the chiefe fathers of Laadan.

10 Alſo the ſonnes Shimei were Iahath, Zina, Ieuſh, and Beriah: theſe foure were the ſonnes of Shimei.

11 And Iahath was the chiefe, and ‖ Zizah the ſecond, but Ieuſh and Beriah had not many ſonnes, therefore they were in the families of their father, counted but as one.

15 The ſonnes of Moſes were Gerſhom, and Eliezer.

16 Of the ſonnes of * Gerſhom was Shebuel the chiefe.

17 And the ſonne of Eliezer was Rehabiah the c chiefe: for Eliezer had none other ſonnes: but the ſonnes of Rehabiah were very many.

19 The ſonnes of Hebron were Ieriah the firſt, Amariah the ſecond, Iahaziel the third, and Iekamiam the fourth.

20 The ſonnes of Vzziel were Michah the firſt, and Iſshaiah the ſecond.

21 ¶ The ſonnes of Merari were Mahli and Muſhi. The ſonnes of Mahli, Eleazar and Kiſh.

22 And Eleazar died, and had no ſonnes, but daughters, and their d brethren the ſonnes of Kiſh tooke them.

23 The ſonnes of Muſhi were Mahli, and Eder, and Ierimoth, three.

24 Theſe were the ſonnes of Leui according to the houſe of their fathers, even the chiefe fathers according to their offices, according to the number of names, and their ſumme that did the worke for the ſeruice of the houſe of the Lord from the age of e twintie yeeres and above.

25 For Dauid ſaid, The Lord God of Iſrael hath given reſt vnto his people, that they may dwell in Ieruſalem for ever.

26 And alſo the Leuites ſhall no more beare the Tabernacle and all the veſſels for the ſeruice thereof.

27 Therefore according to the laſt words of Dauid, the Leuites were numbred from twintie yeere and aboue,

28 And their office was vnder the hand of the ſonnes of Aaron, for the ſeruice of the houſe of the Lord in the courts, and chambers, and in the f purifying of all holy things, and in the worke of the ſeruice of the houſe of God,

David aſſigneth offices to the ſonnes of Aaron.

THeſe are alſo the * diviſions of the ſonnes of Aaron : The ſonnes of Aaron vvere Nadab, and Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar.

2 But Nadab and Abihu died [a] before their father, and had no children : therefore Eleazar and Ithamar executed the Prieſts office.

3 And David diſtributed them, even Zadok of the ‖ ſonnes of Eleazar, and Ahimelech of the ſonnes of Ithamar according to their offices in their miniſtration.

4 And there were found moe of the ſonnes of Eleazar by the † number of men, then of the ſonnes of Ithamar, and they divided them, to vvit, among the ſonnes of Eleazar, ſixteene heads, according to the houſhold of their fathers, and among the ſonnes of Ithamar, according to the houſhold of their fathers eight.

3 But God ſaid vnto mee, * Thou ſhalt not build an houſe for my Name, becauſe thou haſt bene a man of warre, and haſt ſhed blood.

4 Yet as the Lord God of Iſrael choſe me before all the houſe of my father, to be King over Iſrael for ever (from in Iudah would hee chuſe a prince, and of the houſe of b Iudah is the houſe of my father, and among the ſonnes of my father he delighted in me to make me king over Iſrael.)

b According to the prophecie of Iaakob, Gen. 49. 8, * Wiſd. 9, 7.

5 * So of all my ſonnes (for the Lord hath given me many ſonnes, he hath even choſen Salomon my ſonne to ſit vpon the throne of the kingdome of the Lord over Iſrael.

6 And he ſayd vnto mee, Salomon thy ſonne, he he ſhall build mine houſe and my courts: for I have choſen him to be my ſonne, & I will be his father.

7 I will eſtabliſh therefore his kingdome for ever, if he endevour himſelfe to doe my commandements, and my iudgements, as [c] this day.

c If he be continue to keepe the law and depart not therefrom as he doeth hitherto.

8 Now therefore in the ſight of all Iſrael the congregation of the Lord, and in the audience of our God, keepe and ſeeke for all the commaundements of the Lord your God, that ye may poſſeſſe this [d] good land, and leave it for an inheritance for your children after you [e] for ever.

d To wit, of Canaan.

e He declareth that nothing can ſeparate them from the commodity of this land, both for themſelves and their poſteritie, but their ſinnes and iniquitie.

9 And thou Salomon my ſonne, know thou the God of thy father, and ſerve him with a perfit heart, and with a willing mind: * For the Lord ſearcheth all hearts, and vnderſtandeth all the imaginations of thoughts: if thou ſeeke him, hee will be found of thee, but if thou forſake him, hee will caſt thee off for ever.

18 And for the altar of inceníe, pure gold by weight, and gold for the paterne of [i] the charet of the Cherubs that ſpred themſelves, and covered the Arke of the covenant of the Lord:

CHAP. XXIX.

a The offering of David and of the princes for the building of the Temple. 10 David giveth thankes to the Lord. 20 He exhorteth the people to doe the ſame. 22 Salomon is created king. 28 David dieth, and Salomon his ſonne reigneth in his ſtead.

MOreover, David the King ſayde vnto all the Congregation, God hath choſen Salomon mine onely ſonne, yong and tender, and the worke is great: for this houſe is not for man, but for the [a] Lord God.

a And therefore it thought to be excellent in all points.

2 Now I have prepared with all my power for the houſe of my God, gold for veſſels of gold, and ſilver for them of ſilver, and braſſe for things of braſſe, yron for things of yron, and wood for things of wood, and ony x ſtones, and ſtones to be ſet, and carbuncle ſtones, and of divers colours, and all precious ſtones, and marble ſtones in abundance.

3 Moreover, becauſe I have [b] delight in the houſe of my God, I have of mine owne gold and ſilver, which I have given to the houſe of my God beſide all that I have prepared for the houſe of the Sanctuarie, b His great zeale toward the furtherance of the Temple made him to ſpare no expenſes, but to beſtowe his owne peculiar treaſure.

4 Even [c] three thouſand talents of gold of the gold of Ophir, and ſeven thouſand talents of fined ſilver to overlay the walles of the houſes, c He ſheweth what he had of his owne ſtore for the Lords houſe.

5 The golde for the things of golde, and the ſilver for things of ſilver, and for all the worke by the hands of artificers: and who is [d] willing ‖ to fill his hand to day vnto the Lord?

d He was not onely liberall himſelfe, but provoked others to ſet foorth the worke of God.

‖ Or, to offer.

6 So the princes of the families, and the princes of the tribes of Iſrael, and the captaines of thouſands and of hundreds, with the rulers of the kings worke, offered willingly,

7 And they gave for the ſervice of the houſe of God, five thouſand talents of gold, and ten thouſand pieces, and ten thouſand talents of ſilver, and eighteen thouſand talents of braſſe, and one hundred thouſand talents of yron.

8 And they with whom precious ſtones were [e] found, gave them to the treaſure of the houſe of the Lord by the hand of Iehiel the Geerſhunite.

e Meaning, them that had any.

9 And the people reioyced when they offered willingly: for they offered willingly vnto the Lord, with a [f] perfit heart. And David the king alſo * reioyced with great ioy.

f That is, with a good courage and without hypocriſie.

* Pſalm.122.1.

10 Therefore David bleſſed the Lord before all the Congregation, and David ſaid, Bleſſed be thou, O Lord God of [g] Iſrael our father, for ever and ever.

g Which diddeſt reveale thy ſelfe to our father Iaakob.

11 Thine, O Lord, is greatneſſe and power and glory and victorie, and prayſe: for all that is in heaven & in earth is thine: thine is the kingdome, O Lord, and thou exalteſt as head over all.

12 Both riches and honour come of thee, and thou reigneſt over all, and in thine hand is power and ſtrength, and in thine hand it is to make great, and to give ſtrength vnto all.

13 Now therefore, our God, we thanke thee, and prayſe thy glorious name.

14 But who am I, and what is my people, that wee ſhould be able to offer willingly after this ſort? for all things [h] come of thee: and of thine owne hand we have given thee.

h We gave thee nothing of our owne, but that which wee have received of thee: for whether the gifts be corporall or ſpirituall, wee receive them all of God, and therefore muſt give him the glory.

15 For wee are [i] ſtrangers before thee, and ſoiourners like all our fathers: our dayes are like the ſhadowe vpon the earth, and there is none † abiding.

i And therefore have this land but lent to us for a time.

† Ebr. waiting for them to returne.

16 O Lord our God, all this abundance that wee have prepared to builde thee an house for thine holy Name, is of thine hand, and all is thine.

* 1. Sam. 16, 7. Chap. 28, 9.

17 I know also my God, that thou * triest the heart, and hast pleasure in righteousnesse: I have offered willingly in the vprightnes of mine heart all these things: now also have I seene thy people which are found here, to offer vnto thee willingly with ioy.

k Continue them in his good mind, that they may serve hee willingly.

18 O Lord God of Abraham, Izhak, and Israel our fathers, keepe this for evet in the k purpose, and the thoughts of the heart of thy people, and prepare their hearts vnto thee.

19 And give vnto Salomon my sonne a perfect heart to keepe thy commandements, thy testimonies, and thy statutes, and to do all things, and to build the house which I have prepared.

20 ¶ And David said to all the congregation, Now blesse the Lord your God. And all the Congregation blessed the Lord God of their fathers, and bowed downe their heads, and worshipped the Lord and the l king.

l That is, did reverence the king.

21 And they offered sacrifices vnto the Lord, and on the morrow after that day, they offered burnt offerings vnto the Lord, even a thousand yong bullocks, a thousand rams, and a thousand sheepe, with their m drinke offerings, and sacrifices in abundance for all Israel.

m Meaning, all kind of licour which they mingled with their sacrifices, as wine, oyle, &c.

22 And they did eate and drinke before the Lord the same day with great ioy, and they made Salomon the sonne of David king the second time, and anoynted him prince before the Lord, and Zadok for the high Priest.

23 So Salomon sate on the n throne of the Lord, as king in steade of David his father, and prospered: and all Israel obeyed him.

n This declareth that the Kings of Iudah were figures of Christ, who was the true anoynted, and to whom God gave the chiefe government of all thing.

24 And all the princes and men of power, and all the sonnes of king David † submitted themselves vnder king Salomon.

† Ebr. gave the hand.

25 And the Lord magnified Salomon in dignitie, in the sight of all Israel, and gave him so glorious a kingdome, as no king had before him in Israel.

26 ¶ * Thus David the sonne of Ishai reigned over all Israel.

* 1. King. 2, 11.

27 And the space that hee reigned over Israel, was fortie yeere: seven yeere reigned hee in Hebron, and three and thirtie yeere reigned he in Ierusalem.

28 And he died in a good age, full of dayes, riches and honour, and Salomon his sonne reigned in his stead.

29 Concerning the actes of David the king, first and last, behold they are written in the booke of Samuel the Seer, and in the booke of o Nathan the Prophet, and in the booke of Gad the Seer, o The bookes of Nathan and Gad are thought to have be lost in the captivitie.

30 With all his reigne and his power, and p times that went over him, and over Israel, and over all the kingdomes of the earth.

p Meaning, the troubles and griefes.

THE SECOND BOOKE OF THE CHRONICLES.

THE ARGUMENT.

THis second booke containeth briefly in effect that, vvhich is comprehended in the two bookes of the Kings: that is, from the reigne of Salomon to the destruction of Ierusalem, and the carying away of the people captive into Babylon. In this storie are certaine things declared and set foorth more copiously then in the booke of the Kings, and therefore serve greatly to the understanding of the Prophets. But three things are here chiefly to be considered. First, that the godly Kings vvhen they savv the plagues of God prepared against their countrey for sinne, had recourse to the Lord, and by earnest prayer vvere heard, and the plagues removed. The second, hovv it is a thing that greatly offendeth God, hovv the good rulers ever loved the Prophets of God, and vvere very zelous to set foorth his religion throughout all their dominions, and contrariwise, the vvicked hated his ministers, deposed them, and for the true religion and vvord of God, set up idolatrie, and served God according to the fantasie of men. Thus have vvee hitherto the chiefe acts from the beginning of the vvorld to the building againe of Ierusalem, vvhich vvas the two and thirtieth yeere of Darius, and containe in the vvhole, three thousand, five hundred, threescore and eighteene yeeres, and sixe moneths.

CHAP. I.

1 The offering of Salomon at Gibeon. 8 Hee prayeth vnto God to give him wisedome: 11 Which he giveth him, and more. 14 The number of his charets and horsemen, 15 and of his riches.

‖ Or, stablished, and strong, reade 2. King. 2, 46.

THen Salomon the sonne of David was ‖ confirmed in his kingdome: and the Lord his God vvas with him, and magnifieth him highly.

a That is, hee proclaimed a solemne sacrifice, and commanded that all should be at the same.

2 And Salomon a spake unto all Israel, to the captaines of thousands, and of hundreds, and to the iudges, and to the governours in all Israel, even the chiefe fathers.

b Reade 1. King. 3, 4.

3 So Salomon and all the Congregation with him went to the high place that was at b Gibeon: for there was the Tabernacle c of the Congregation of God which Moses the servant of the Lord had made in the wilderneſse.

c So called, because that God thereby shewed certaine signes to the congregation of his presence.

4 But the Arke of God had David brought up from Kiriath-iearim, when David had made preparation for it: for he had pitched a tent for it in Ierusalem.

5 Moreover, the d brasen altar * that Bezaleel the sonne of Uri, the sonne of Hur had made, did the set before the Tabernacle of the Lord: and Salomon and the Congregation sought it.

d Which was for the burnt-offerings, Exod. 27, 1. * Exod. 38, 1, 2.

6 And Salomon offered there before the Lord upon the brasen altar that was in the Tabernacle of the Congregation: * even a thousand burnt offerings offered he upon it.

* 2. King. 3, 4.

7 ¶ The same night did God appeare vnto Salomon, and said unto him, Aske what I shall shall give thee.

8 And Salomon said unto God; Thou hast shewed great mercy unto David my father, and hast made me to reigne in his stead.

9 Now therefore, O Lord God, let thy promise unto David my father be e true: for thou hast made mee King over a great people, like to the dust of the earth.

10 Give me now wisedome and knowledge, that I may f go out and go in before this people: for who can iudge this thy great people?

11 And God saith to Salomon, Because this was in thine heart, and thou hast not asked riches, treasures nor honour, nor the g lives of thine enemies, neither yet hast asked long life, but hast asked for thee wisedome and knowledge, that thou mightest judge my people, over whom I have made thee King,

12 Wisedome and knowledge is granted unto thee, and I will give thee riches and treasures and honour, so that there hath not bene the like among the kings which were before thee, neither after thee shall there be the like.

13 Then Salomon came from the high place that was in Gibeon, to Ierusalem from before the Tabernacle of the Congregation, and reigned over Israel.

14 * And Salomon gathered the charets and horsemen: and he had a thousand and foure hundreth charets, and twelve thousand horsemen, whom he placed in the h charet cities, and with the King at Ierusalem.

15 And the king gave gold and silver at Ierusalem as i stone, and gave cedar-trees as the wild figtrees, that are abundantly in the plaine.

16 Also Salomon had horses brought out of Egypt, and * fine linnen: k the Kings marchants received the fine linnen for a price.

17 They came up also and brought out of Egypt some charet, worth six hundreth shekels of silver, that is an horse for an hundreth and fiftie: and thus they brought horses to all the kings of the Hittites, and to the kings of Aram by their † meanes.

e Perfourne thy promise made to my father concerning me.

f That I may governe this people, reade 1 Chro. 27, 1. and 1. King. 3, 7.

g That is, to be revenged on thine enemies.

1. King. 10, 26.

h Which were cities appointed to keepe and maintaine the charets.

i Hee caused so great plentie, that it was no more esteemed then stones.

CHAP. II.

2 The number of Salomons workemen to build the Temple.
3 Salomon sendeth to Huram the King of Tyrus for wood and workemen.

THen Salomon determined to build an house for the Name of the Lord, and an ‖ house for his kingdome.

‖ Or, Palace.

2 And Salomon tolde out seventie thousand that bare burdens, and fourescore thousand men to hewe stones in the mountaine, and three thousand, and a six hundreth to oversee them.

a Which is to be vnderstood of all sorts of officers and overseers: for els the chiefe officers were but 3300, as 1. King. 5, 16.

3 And Salomon sent to ‖ Huram the king of Tyrus, saying, As thou hast done to David my father, and didst * send him cedar-trees to build him an house to dwell in, so doe to me.

* 2. Sam. 5, 11.

4 Beholde, I build an house unto the Name of the Lord my God, to sanctifie it unto him, and to burne sweete incense before him, and for the continuall shewbread, and for the burnt-offerings of the morning and evening, on the Sabbath-dayes, and in the new moneths, and in the solemne feasts of the Lord our God: this is a perpetuall thing for Israel.

5 And the house which I build, is great: for great is our God above all gods.

6 Who is hee then that can be able to build him an house, when the heaven and the heaven of heavens cannot containe him? who am I then that I should build him an house? but I doe it to burne b incense before him.

b That is, to doe the service which he hath commanded, signifying that none is able to honour and serve God in that perfection as his majesty deserveth.

7 Send me now therefore a cunning man that can worke in gold, in silver, and in brasse, and in yron, and in purple, and in ‖ crimosin and blue silke, and that can grave in graven worke with the cunning men that are with me in Iudah and in Ierusalem, whom David my father hath prepared.

8 Send mee also cedar-trees, fire-trees and c ‖ Algummim-trees from Lebanon: for I know that thy servants can skill to hew timber in Lebanon: and beholde, my servants shall be with thine, c Some take it for Brasil, or the wood called Ebenum, others for coral.

‖ Or, Almuggim.

9 That they may prepare me timber in abundance: for the house which I doe build, is great and wonderfull.

10 And behold, I will give to thy servants the cutters and the hewers of timber twentie thousand † measures of beaten wheate, and twentie thousand measures of barley, and twenty thousand baths of wine, and twentie d thousand baths of oyle.

d Of Bath reade 1. King. 7, 26. it is called also Epha, but Epha is to measure drie things, as Bath is a measure for liquours.

11 Then Huram king of Tyrus answered in writting which he send to Salomon, Because the Lord hath loved his people, he hath made thee King over them.

12 Huram said moreover, Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, which made the heaven and the earth, and that hath given unto David the King a e wise sonne, that hath discretion, prudence and vnderstanding to build an house for the Lord, and a palace for his kingdome.

e The very heaven confessed that it was a singular gift of God, when hee gave to any nation a King that was wise and of vnderstanding, albeit it appeareth that this Hiram had the true knowledge of God.

13 Now therefore I have sent a wise man, and of vnderstanding of my father Hurams, 14 The sonne of a woman, of the f daughters of Dan: and his father was a man of Tyrus, and he can skill to worke in gold, in silver, in brasse, in yron, in stone, and in timber, in purple, in blue silke, and in fine linnen, and in crimosin, and can grave in all graven workes, and broyder in all broydered works that shalbe given him, with thy cunning men, and with the cunning men of my lord David thy father.

f It is also written that she was of the tribe of Naphtali, 1. King. 7, 14. which may be vnderstood that by reason of the confusion of tribes, which then began to be, they maried in divers tribes, so that by her father she might be of Dan, and by her mother of Naphtali.

15 Now therefore the wheate and the barley, the oyle and the wine, which my lord hath spoken of, let him send unto his servants.

16 And we will cut wood in Lebanon as much as thou shalt neede, and will bring it to thee in ‖ rafts by the sea to ‖ Iapho, so thou mayest cary them to Ierusalem.

‖ Or, Ioppe.

17 ¶ And Salomon numbred all the strangers that were in the land of Israel, after the numbring that his father David had numbred them: and they were found an hundreth and three and fiftie thousand, and six hundreth.

18 And hee set seventie thousand of them to the burden, and fourescore thousand to hew stones in the mountaine, and three thousand and six hundreth overseers to cause the people to worke.

CHAP. III.

1 The Temple of the Lord, and the porch are builded, with other things thereto belonging.

SO * Salomon began to build the house of the Lord in Ierusalem, in mount a Moriah which had beene declared unto David his father, in the place that David prepared in the threshing-floore of * Ornan the Iebusite.

* 1. King. 6, 1.

a Which is the mountaine where Abraham thought to have sacrificed his sonne, Gen. 22, 2.

* 2. Sam. 24, 16, 24.

2 And hee beganne to build in the second moneth and the ſecond day, in the fourth yeare of his reigne.

3 And theſe are the meaſures vvhereon Salomon grounded to build the houſe of God: the length of cubits after the firſt [b] meaſure vvas threeſcore cubites, and the breath twenty cubites:

4 And the porch that was before the length in the front [c] of the breadth, vvas twenty cubites, and the height vvas an [d] hundreth and twentie, and he overlaid it within with pure gold.

5 And the greater houſe he ſieled with firre-tree which he overlaid with good gold, and graved thereon palme-trees and chaines.

6 And hee overlaide the houſe with precious ſtone for beautie: and the gold vvas gold of [e] Paruaim.

7 The houſe, I ſay, the beames, poſtes, and walles thereof and the doores thereof overlaide hee with gold, and graved Cherubims upon the walles.

8 ¶ He made alſo the houſe of the moſt holy place: the length thereof vvas in the front of the breadth of the houſe, twenty cubites, and the breadth thereof twenty cubites: and hee overlaid it with the beſt gold, of ſixe hundreth talents.

9 And the weight of the nailes vvas fiftie ſhekels of gold, and he overlayd the chambers with gold.

10 ¶ And in the houſe of the moſt holy place he made two Cherubims wrought like children, and overlayd them with gold.

11 * And the wings of the Cherubims vvere twenty cubites long: the one wing vvas five cubites, reaching to the wall of the houſe, and the other wing five cubites, reaching to the wing of the other Cherub.

12 Likewiſe the wing of the other Cherub was five cubits, reaching to the wall of the houſe, and the other wing five cubites, joyning to the wing of the other Cherub.

13 The wings of theſe Cherubims were ſpread abroad twenty cubites, they ſtood on their feete, and their faces vvere toward the houſe.

14 ¶ He made alſo the [f] vaile of blue ſilke and purple, and crimoſin, and fine linnen, and wrought Cherubims thereon.

15 ¶ And he made before the houſe two pillars [g] of five and thirty cubits high: and the chapiter that was upon the top of each of them vvas five cubites.

16 Hee made alſo chaines for the Oracle, and put them on the heads of the pillars, and made an [h] hundreth pomegranates, and put them among the chaines.

17 And hee ſet up the pillars before the Temple, one on the right hand, and the other on the left, and called that on the right hand Iachin, and that on the left hand Boaz.

CHAP. IV.

1 The Altar of braſſe. 2 The molten ſea. 6 The caldrons. 7 The candleſticks, &c.

AND hee made an altar of braſſe twentie cubites long, and twentie cubites broad, and ten cubites high.

2 And he made a molten [a] Sea of ten cubites from brim to brim, round in compaſſe, and five cubites high: and a line of thirty cubits did compaſſe it about.

3 And vnder [b] it was the faſhion of oxen, which did compaſſe it round about, [c] tenne in a cubite compaſſing the Sea about: two rowes of oxen were caſt when it was molten.

4 It ſtood upon twelue oxen: three looked toward the North, and three looked toward the Weſt, and three looked toward the South, and three looked toward the Eaſt, and the Sea ſtood above upon them, and all their hinder parts were inward.

5 And the thickeneſſe thereof vvas an hand breadth, and the brim thereof vvas like the worke of the brim of a cup, with floures of ‖ lilies: it conteined [d] three thouſand baths.

6 ¶ He made alſo ten caldrons, and put five on the right hand, and five on the left, to waſh in them, and to cleanſe in them that which appertained to the burnt-offrings: but the Sea vvas for the Prieſts to waſh in.

7 ¶ And hee made ten candleſtickes of gold (according to [e] their forme) and put them in the Temple, five on the right hand, and five on the left.

8 ¶ And he made ten tables, and put them in the Temple, five on the right hand, and five on the left: and he made an hundreth baſins of gold.

9 And hee made the court of the Prieſts, and the great [f] court and doores for the court, and overlaid the doores thereof with braſſe.

10 And hee ſet the ſea on the right ſide Eaſtward toward the South.

11 And Huram made ‖ pots and beſoms and baſins, and Huram finiſhed the worke that hee ſhould made for King Salomon for the houſe of God,

12 To vvit, two pillars, and the bowles and the chapiters on the top of the two pillars, and two grates to cover the two bowles of the chapiters which were upon the top of the pillars:

13 And foure hundreth pomegranates for the two grates, two rowes of pomegranates for every grate to cover the two bowles of the chapiters, that were upon the pillars.

14 Hee made alſo baſes, and made caldrons upon the baſes:

15 And a Sea, and twelve buls vnder it:

16 Pots alſo and beſoms, and fleſhhookes, and alll theſe veſſels made Huram [g] his father to King Salomon for the houſe of the Lord of thining braſſe.

17 In the plaine of Iorden did the King caſt them in clay betweene Succoth and Zeredathah.

18 And Salomon made all theſe veſſels in great abundance: for the weight of braſſe could not be reckoned.

19 And Salomon made all the veſſels that were for the houſe of God: the golden altar alſo and the tables, whereon the [h] ſhewbread ſtood.

20 Moreover, the candleſtickes with their lampes, to burne them afrer the manner before the Oracle, of pure gold.

21 And the floures and the lampes, and the ſnuffers of gold, which was fine gold.

22 And the ‖ hookes, and the baſins, and the ſpoones, and the aſhpans of pure gold: the entry alſo of the houſe and doores thereof within, even of the moſt holy place: and the doores of the houſe, to vvit, of the Temple vvere [i] of gold.

brought in the things that David his father had dedicated, with the silver and the gold, and all the vessels, and put them among the treasures of the house of God.

2 Then Salomon assembled the Elders of Israel, and all the heads of the tribes, the chiefe fathers of the children of Israel vnto Ierusalem, to bring vp the Arke of the covenant of the Lord from the [a] city of David, which is Zion.

3 And all the men of Israel assembled vnto the king at the [b] feast: it was in the seventh [c] moneth.

4 And all the Elders of Israel came, and the Levites tooke vp the Arke.

5 And they carried vp the Arke and the Tabernacle of the Congregation: and all the holy vessels that were in the Tabernacle, those did the Priests and Levits bring vp.

6 And king Salomon and all the Congregation of Israel that were assembled vnto him, were before the Arke, offering sheepe and bullockes, which could not be told nor numbred for multitude.

7 So the Priests brought the Arke of the covenant of the Lord vnto his place, into the Oracle of the house, into the most Holy place, even vnder the wings of the Cherubims.

8 For the Cherubims stretched out their wings over the place of he Arke, and the Cherubims covered the Arke and the barres thereof above.

9 And they drew out the barres, that the ends of the barres might be seene out of the Arke before the Oracle, but they were not seene ‖ without: and there they are vnto this day.

10 Nothing was in the Arke, save [d] the two Tables, which Moses gave at Horeb, where the Lord made a covenant with the children of Israel when they came out of Egypt.

11 And when the Priests were come out of the Sanctuarie (for all the Priests that were present, were [e] sanctified and did not wait by course.

12 And the Levites the singers of all sorts, as of Asaph, of Heman, of Ieduthun, and of their sonnes and of their brethren, being clad in fine linnen, stood with cymbals, and with violes, and harps at the East end of the Altar, and with them an hundreth and twentie Priests blowing with trumpets.

13 And they were [f] as one, blowing trumpets, and singing, and made one sound to be heard in praysing and thanking the Lord, and when they lift vp their voyce with trumpets, and with cymbals, and with instruments of musicke, and when they praysed the Lord, singing, [g] For he is good, because his mercy lasteth for ever) then the house, even the house of the Lord was filled with a cloud,

CHAP. VI.

Salomon blesseth the people. 4 He praiseth the Lord. 14 Hee prayeth vnto God for those that shall pray in the Temple.

* 1. King. 8. 12.
a After that hee had serve the glory of the Lord in the cloude,

THen * Salomon [a] said, The Lord hath said that he would dwell in the darke cloud:

2 And I have built thee an house to dwell in, an habitation for thee to dwell in for ever.

3 And the King turned his face, and blessed all the Congregation of Israel (for all the Congregation of Israel stood there.)

4 And he said, Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, who spake with his mouth vnto David my father, and hath with his ‖ hand fullfilled it, saying,

5 Since the day that I brought my people out of the land of Egypt, I chose no city of all the tribes of Israel to build an ‖ house, that my Name might be there, neither chose I any man to be a ruler over my people Israel:

‖ Or, Temple.

6 But I have chosen Ierusalem, that my Name might be there, and have chosen David to be over my people Israel.

7 * And it was in the heart of David my father to build an house vnto the Name of the Lord God of Israel.

* 2. Sam. 7. 5.

8 But the Lord sayd to David my father, Whereas it was in thine heart to build an house vnto my Name, thou diddest well, that † thou wast so minded.

† Ebr. that it was in thine heart.

9 Notwithstanding, thou shalt not build the house, but thy sonne, which shall come out of thy loynes, he shall build an house vnto my Name.

10 And the Lord hath performed his word that hee spake: and I am risen vp in the roume of David my father, and am set on the throne of Israel as the Lord promised, and have built an house to the Name of the Lord God of Israel.

11 And I have set the Arke there, wherein is the [b] covenant of the Lord, that he made with the children of Israel.

b Meaning the two Tables, wherein is conteined the effect of the covenant that God made with our fathers.

12 And the [c] king stood before the altar of the Lord, in the presence of all the Congregation of Israel, and stretched out his hands.

c On a scaffold that was made for that purpose, that hee praying for the whole people might be heard of all, as 1 King. 8, 22.

13 (For Salomon had made a brasen scaffold, and set it in the middes of the court, of five cubits long, and five cubites broad, and three cubites of height, and vpon it he stood, and kneeled downe vpon his knees before all the Congregation of Israel, and [d] stretched out his handes toward heaven.)

d Both to give thankes for the great benefits of God bestowed upon him, and also to pray for the perseverance and prosperitie of his people.

14 And said, O Lord God of Israel, * there is no God like thee in heaven nor in earth which keepest covenant and mercie vpon thy servants, that walke before thee with all their heart.

* 2. Mac. 2, 8.

15 Thou that hast kept with thy servant David my father, that thou hast promised him: for thou spakest with thy mouth, and hast fulfilled it with thine ‖ hand, as appeareth this day.

‖ Or, in effect, or by thy power.

16 Therefore now, Lord God of Israel, keepe with thy servant David my father, that thou hast promised him, saying, Thou † shalt not want a man in my sight, that shall sit vpon the throne of Israel, so that thy sonnes take heed to their wayes to walke in my Law, as thou hast walked before mee.

17 And now, O Lord God of Israel, let thy word be verified, which thou spakest vnto thy servant David.

18 (Is it true in deed, that God will dwell with man on earth? behold, the * heavens, and the heavens of heavens are not able to containe thee: how much more unable is this house which I have built?

* 1. King. 8. 27.

19 But have thou respect to the prayer of thy servant, and to his supplication, O Lord my God, to heare the cry and prayer which thy servant prayeth before thee.

20 That thine [e] eyes may be open toward this house day and night, even toward the place, whereof thou hast said, that thou wouldest put thy Name there, that thou mayest hearken vnto the prayer, which thy servant prayeth in this place.

e That thou mayest declare in effect that thou hast a continuall care over this place.

21 Heare thou therefore the ſupplication of thy ſervant, and of thy people Iſrael, which they pray in this place: and heare thou in the place of thine habitation, even in heaven, and when thou heareſt, be mercifull.

22 ¶ * When a man ſhall ſinne againſt his [f] neighbour, and he lay vpon him an oath to cauſe him to ſweare, and the * ſweare ſhall come before thine altar in this houſe,

23 Then heare thou in heaven, and doe, and iudge thy ſervants, in recompenſing the wicked to bring his way [g] vpon his head, and in iuſtifying the righteous, to give him according to his righteouſneſſe.

24 ¶ And when thy people Iſrael ſhalbe overthrowen before the enemie, becauſe they have ſinned againſt thee, and turne againe, and ‖ confeſſe thy Name, and pray, and make ſupplication before thee in this houſe, 25 Then heare thou in heaven, and be mercifull vnto the ſinne of thy people Iſrael, and bring them againe vnto the land which thou gaueſt to them and to their fathers.

26 When heaven ſhall be ſhut vp, and there ſhall be no raine, becauſe they have ſinned againſt thee, and ſhall pray in this place and confeſſe thy Name, and ‖ turne from their ſinne, when thou doeſt afflict them,

27 Then heare thou in heaven, and pardon the ſinne of thy ſervants, and of thy people Iſrael (when thou haſt taught them the good way wherein they may walke) and give raine vpon thy land, which thou haſt given vnto thy people for an inheritance.

28 ¶ * When there ſhall be famine in the land, when there ſhall be peſtilence, blaſting, or mildew, when there ſhall be graſhopper, or caterpiller, when their enemie ſhall beſiege them † in the cities of their land, or any plague or any ſickeneſſe,

29 Then what prayer and ſupplication ſo ever ſhall be made of any man, or of all thy people Iſrael, when every one ſhall know his owne plague, and his owne diſeaſe, and ſhall ſtretch forth his hands toward this houſe,

30 Heare thou then in heaven, thy dwelling place, and be mercifull, and give every man according vnto all his wayes, as thou doeſt know his [h] heart (for thou onely knoweſt the hearts of the children of men,)

31 That they may feare thee, and walke in thy wayes, as long as they live in the land which thou gaveſt vnto our fathers.

32 ¶ Moreover, as touching the ſtranger which is not of thy people Iſrael, who ſhall come out of a farre countrey for thy great Names ſake, and thy mighty hand, and thy ſtretched out arme: when they ſhall come and [i] pray in this houſe, 33 Heare thou in heaven, thy dwelling place, and doe according to all that the ſtranger calleth for vnto thee, that all the people of the earth may know thy Name, and feare thee like thy people Iſrael, and that they may know that thy Name is called vpon in this houſe which I have built.

34 ¶ When thy people ſhall goe out to battell againſt their enemies, by the way that [k] thou ſhalt ſend them, and they pray to thee, ‖ in the way toward this citie, which thou haſt choſen, even toward the houſe which I have built to thy Name,

35 Then heare thou in heaven their prayer and their ſupplication, and iudge the cauſe,

36 If they ſinne againſt thee (* for there is no man that ſinneth not) and thou be angry with them, and deliver them vnto the enemies, and they take them and cary them away captive vnto a land farre or neere,

37 If they ‖ turne againe to their heart in the land whither they be caried in captiues, and turne and pray vnto thee in the land of their captiuity, ſaying, We have ſinned, we have tranſgreſſed and have done wickedly,

CHAP. IX.

1,9 The Queene of Sheba commeth to see Salomon, and bringeth gifts. 13 His yearely revenues. 30 The time of his reigne. 31 His death.

A Nd * when the Queene of Sheba heard of the fame of Salomon, she came to a proove Salomon with hard questions at Ierusalem, with a very great traine, and camels that bare sweete odours and much gold, and precious stones: and when shee came to Salomon, she communed with him of all that was in her heart.

2 And Salomon declared her all her questions, and there was b nothing hid from Salomon, which he declared not vnto her.

3 Then the Queene of Sheba saw the wisedome of Salomon, and the house that hee had built,

4 And the meate of his table, and the sitting of his servants, and the order of his waiters, and their apparell, and his butlers, and their apparell, and his ‖ burnt offerings which he offered in the house of the Lord, and she was greatly † astonied.

5 And she sayd to the King, It was a true word which I heard in mine owne land of thy ‡ sayings, and of thy wisedome:

6 Howbeit, I beleeved not their report, vntill I came, and mine eyes had seene it: and behold, the one halfe of thy great wisedome was not told me: for thou exceedest the fame that I heard.

7 Happy are thy men, and happy are these thy servants, which stand before thee alway, and heare thy wisedome.

8 Blessed be the Lord thy God, which loved thee, to set thee on his c throne as king, in the stead of the Lord thy God: because thy God loveth Israel, to establish it for ever, therefore hath hee made thee king over them, to execute iudgements and iustice.

9 Then she gave the King sixescore talents of gold, and of sweete odours exceeding much, and precious stones: neither was there such sweete odours since, as the Queene of Sheba gave unto King Salomon.

10 And the servants also of Huram, and the servants of Salomon which brought golde from Ophir, brought d Algummim wood and precious stones, 11 And the King made of the Algummim wood e staires in the house of the Lord, and in the kings house, and harpes and violes for singers: and there was no such seene before in the land of Iudah.

12 And King Salomon gave to the Queene of Sheba every pleasant thing that shee asked, f besides for that which shee had brought unto the king: so shee returned and went to her owne countrey, both she, and her servants.

13 ¶ Also the weight of gold that came to Salomon in one yeere, was sixe hundreth threescore and sixe talents of gold, 14 Besides that which chapmen and merchants brought: and all the Kings of Arabia, and the princes of the countrey brought gold and silver to Salomon.

15 And King Salomon made two hundreth targets of beaten gold, and g sixe hundreth shekels of beaten gold went to one target.

16 And three hundreth shields of beaten gold: three hundreth h shekels of gold went to one shield, and the king put them in the house of the wood of Lebanon.

17 And the king made a great throne of yvorie, and overlaid it with pure gold.

18 And the throne had sixe steps, with a foote stoole of gold i fastened to the throne, and stayes on either side on the place of the seate, and two lions standing by the k stayes.

19 And twelve lions stood there on the sixe steps on either side: there was not the like made in any kingdome.

20 And all King Salomons drinking vessels vvere of golde, and all the vessels of the house of the wood of Lebanon vvere of pure golde: for silver was nothing esteemed in the dayes of Salomon.

21 For the kings ships went to Tarshish with the servants of Huram, every three yeere once came the ships of l Tarshish, and brought golde, and silver, yuorie, and apes, and peacocks.

22 So king Salomon excelled all the kings of the earth in riches and wisedome.

23 And all the Kings of the earth sought the presence of Salomon, to heare his wisedome that God had put in his heart.

24 And they brought every man his present, vessels of silver, and vessels of golde, and raiment, armour, and sweet odours, horses, and mules, from yeere to yeere.

25 And Salomon had m foure thousand stalles of horses, and charets, and twelve thousand horsemen, whom he bestowed in the charet cities, and with the king at Ierusalem.

26 And hee reigned over all the kings from the ‖ River even vnto the land of the Philistims, and to the border of Egypt.

27 And the king gave silver in Ierusalem, n as stones, and gave cedar-trees as the wilde figtrees, that are abundant in the plaine.

28 And they brought vnto Salomon horses out of Egypt, and out of all lands.

29 Concerning the rest of the actes of Salomon first and last, are they not written in the booke of Nathan the Prophet, and in the prophecie of Ahijah the Shilonite, and in the visions of ‖ Ieedo the Seer o against Ieroboam the sonne of Nebat?

7 And when the Lord ſawe that they humbled themſelves, the word of the Lord came to Shemaiah, ſaying, They have humbled themſelves, therefore I will not deſtroy them, but I will ſend them deliverance ſhortly, and my wrath ſhall not † be powred out upon Ieruſalem by the hand of Shiſhak.

8 Nevertheleſſe they ſhall be his ſervants: ſo ſhall they know my [e] ſervice, and the ſervice of the kingdomes of the earth.

9 ¶ Then Shiſhak king of Egypt came up againſt Ieruſalem, and tooke the treaſures of the houſe of the Lord, and the treaſures of the Kings houſe: he tooke even all, and he caried away the ſhields of gold, * which Salomon had made.

10 In ſtead whereof king Rehoboam made ſhields of braſſe, and committed them to the hands of the chiefe of the guard, that waited at the doore of the kings houſe.

11 And when the king entred into the houſe of the Lord, the guard came and bare them and brought them againe unto the guard-chamber.

12 And becauſe hee [f] humbled himſelfe, the wrath of the Lord turned from him, that he would not deſtroy all together. And alſo in Iudah the things proſpered.

13 * So king Rehoboam was ſtrong in Ieruſalem and reigned: for Rehoboam was one and fourtie yeere old, when hee began to reigne, and reigned [g] ſeventeene yeeres in Ieruſalem, the citie which the Lord had choſen out of all the tribes of Iſrael to put his Name there. And his mothers name was Naamah an Ammoniteſſe.

14 And he did evill: for hee prepared not his heart to ſeeke the Lord.

15 The actes alſo of Rehoboam, firſt and laſt, are they not written in the † booke of Shemaiah the Prophet, and Iddo the Seer, in rehearſing the genealogie? and there vvas warre alway betweene Rehoboam and Ieroboam.

16 And Rehoboam ſlept with his fathers, and was buried in the citie of David, and ‖ Abiiah his ſonne reigned in his ſtead.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Abiiah maketh warre againſt Ieroboam. 4 He ſheweth the occaſion. 12 Hee truſteth in the Lord and overcometh Ieroboam. 21 Of his wives and children.

IN the eighteenth yeere of King Ieroboam, began Abiiah to reigne over [a] Iudah.

2 Hee reigned three yeere in Ieruſalem: (his mothers name alſo was [b] Michaiah the daughter of [c] Vriel of Gibea) and there was warre betweene Abiiah and Ieroboam.

3 And Abiiah ſet the battell in aray with the armie of valiant men of warre, even foure hundreth thouſand choſen men. Ieroboam alſo ſet the battell in aray againſt him with eight hundreth thouſand choſen men which were ſtrong and valiant.

4 And Abiiah ſtood up upon mount [d] Zemaraim, which is in mount Ephraim, and ſaid, O Ieroboam, and all Iſrael, heare you me.

5 Ought you not to know that the Lord God of Iſrael hath given the kingdome over Iſrael to [e] David for ever, even to him and to his ſonnes by a covenant † of ſalt?

6 And Ieroboam the ſonne of Nebat the ſervant of Salomon the ſonne of David is riſen up, and hath * rebelled againſt his lord:

7 And there are gathered to him [g] vaine men and † wicked, and made themſelves ſtrong againſt Rehoboam the ſonne of Salomon: for Rohoboam was [h] but a childe and ‖ * tender hearted, and could not reſiſt them.

8 Now therefore ye thinke that yee be able to reſiſt againſt the kingdome of the Lord, vvhich is in the hands of the ſonnes of David, and ye be a great multitude, and the golden calves are with you which Ieroboam made you for gods.

9 * Have yee not driven away the Prieſtes of the Lord the ſonnes of Aaron and the Levites, and have made you Prieſts like the people of other countreyes? whoſoever commeth to † conſecrate with a [i] yong bullocke and ſeven rams, the ſame may be a Prieſt of them that are no gods.

10 But wee belong unto the Lord our God, and have not forſaken him, and the Prieſts the ſonnes of Aaron miniſter unto the Lord, and the Levites in their office.

11 And they burne unto the Lord every [k] morning and every evening burnt offrings and ſweete incenſe, and the bread is ſet in order upon the pure table, and the candleſticke of gold with the lamps thereof, to burne every evening: for wee keepe the watch of the Lord our God: but ye have forſaken him.

12 And behold, this God is ‖ with vs a captaine, and his Prieſts with the ſounding trumpets to cry an alarme againſt you, O ye children of Iſrael, fight not againſt the Lord God of your fathers: for ye ſhall not proſper.

13 ¶ But Ieroboam cauſed an ambuſhment [m] to compaſſe, and come behind them, when they were before Iudah, and the ambuſhment behinde them.

14 Then Iudah looked, and behold, the battell vvas before and behinde them, and they cryed unto the Lord, and the Prieſtes blew with the trumpets.

15 And the men of Iudah gave a ſhoute: and even as the men of Iudah ſhouted, God ‖ ſmote Ieroboam and alſo Iſrael before Abiiah and Iudah.

16 And the children of Iſrael fled before Iudah, and God delivered them into their hand.

17 And Abiiah and his people ſlew a great ſlaughter of them, ſo that there fell downe wounded of Iſrael fiue hundreth thouſand choſen men.

18 So the children of Iſrael were brought vnder at that time: and the children of Iudah prevailed, [n] becauſe they ſtayed upon the Lord God of their fathers.

19 And Abiiah purſued after Ieroboam, and tooke

CHAP. XIIII.

3 Aſa deſtroyeth idolatry, and commandeth his people to ſerve the true God. 11 Hee prayed unto God when hee ſhould goe to fight. 12 Hee obteineth the victorie.

* 1. King. 15. 8. SO * Abijah ſlept with his fathers, and they buried him in ſ citie of David, and Aſa his ſonne reigned in his ſtead: in whoſe dayes the land was quiet ten yeere.

2 And Aſa did that was good and right in the eyes of the Lord his God.

3 For he tooke away the altars of the ſtrange gods, and the hie places, and brake down the images, and cut downe the a groves.

a Which were planted contrary to the Law, Deut. 16, 21.

4 And commanded Iudah to ſeeke the Lord God of their fathers, and to doe according to the Law and the Commandement.

5 And hee tooke away out of all the cities of Iudah the high places, and the images: therefore the Kingdome was b quiet before him.

b Hee ſheweth that the reſt and quietneſſe of kingdomes ſtandeth in aboliſhing idolatrie, and advancing true religion.

6 Hee built alſo ſtrong cities in Iudah, becauſe the land was in reſt, and hee had no warre in thoſe yeeres: for the Lord had given him reſt.

7 Therefore hee ſayd to Iudah, Let vs build the cities, and make walles about, and towers, gates, and barres, while the land is c before vs: becauſe wee have ſought the Lord our God, wee have ſought him, and hee hath given us reſt on every ſide: ſo they built and proſpered.

c Whiles we have the full government thereof.

8 And Aſa had an armie of Iudah, that bare ſhields and ſpeares, three hundreth thouſand, and of Beniamin that bare ſhields and drew bowes, two hundreth and foureſcore thouſand: all theſe were valiant men.

d The king of Ethiopia, or Egypt.
e Which was a citie in Iudah, Ioſh. 15. 44. where Michaiah the Prophet was borne.

9 ¶ And there came out againſt him Zerah d of Ethiopia, with an hoaſt of then hundreth thouſand, and three hundreth charets, and came unto e Mareſhah.

* 1. Sam. 14, 6. ‖ Or, againſt many, without power.

10 Then Aſa went out before him, and they ſet the battell in aray in the valley of Zephathah, beſide Mareſhah.

11 And Aſa cried unto the Lord his God, and ſayd, Lord, * it is nothing with thee to helpe ‖ with many, or with no power: helpe us, O Lord our God: for wee reſt on thee, and in thy Name are wee come againſt this multitude: O Lord, thou art our God, f let not man prevaile againſt thee.

f Thus the children of God neither truſt in their owne power or police, neither feare the ſtrength and ſubtilties of their enemies, but conſider the cauſe and ſee whether their enterpriſes tend to Gods glory, and thereupon aſſure themſelves of the victory by him, which is only Almighty, & can turne all fleſh into duſt with the breath of his mouth.

12 ¶ So the Lord ſmote the Ethiopians before Aſa and before Iudah, and the Ethiopians fled.

13 And Aſa and the people that was with him, purſued them unto Gerar. And the Ethiopians hoaſt was overthrowen, ſo that there was no life in them: for they were deſtroyed before the Lord and before his hoſt: and they caried away a mightie great ſpoile.

g The Lord had ſtricken them with feare,

14 And they ſmote all the cities round about Gerar; for the g feare of the Lord came upon them, and they ſpoiled all the cities, for there was exceeding much ſpoile in them.

15 Yea, and they ſmote the tents of cattell, and caried away plenty of ſheepe and camels, and returned to Ieruſalem.

CHAP. XV.

1 The exhortation of Azariah. 3 Aſa purgeth his countrey of idolatry. 11 He ſacrificeth with the people. 14 They ſweare together to ſerve the Lord. 16 Hee depoſeth his mother for her idolatry.

THen the Spirit of God came upon a Azariah the ſonne of Obed.

a Who was called Obed. as his father was, verſ. 8.

2 And he went out to meete Aſa, and ſaid unto him, O Aſa, and all Iudah and Beniamin, heare ye me, The Lord is with you, while ye be with him: and if ye ſeeke him, he will be found of you, but if ye forſake him, he will forſake you.

3 Now for a long ſeaſon Iſrael hath bene without the b true God, and without Prieſt to teach, and without law.

b For the ſpace of twelve yeeres vnder Rehoboam, & three yeeres vnder Abiiah, religion was neglected, and idolatry planted.

4 But vvhoſoever returned in his affliction to the Lord God of Iſrael, and ſought him, he c was found of him.

c Hee ſheweth, that notwithſtanding the wickednes of tyrants and their rage, yet God hath his, whom he heareth in their tribulation, as he delivered his from Zerah king of the Ethiopians, Cha. 14, 9. 12. and out of all other dangers, when they called upon the Lord.

5 And in that time there vvere no peace to him, that did goe out and goe in: but great troubles vvere to all inhabitants of the earth.

6 For nation was deſtroyed of nation, and citie of citie: for God troubled them with all adverſitie.

d Your confidence and truſt in God ſhall not be fruſtrate.

7 Bee yee ſtrong therefore, and let not your hands bee weake: for your d worke ſhall have a reward.

8 ¶ And when Aſa heard theſe words, and the prophecie of Obed the Prophet, he was encouraged, and tooke away the abominations out of all the land of Iudah and Beniamin, and out of the cities which hee had taken of mount Ephraim, and hee renewed the altar of the Lord, that was before the porch of the Lord.

9 And hee gathered all Iudah and Beniamin, and the ſtrangers with them out of Ephraim, and Manaſſeh, and out of Simeon: for there fell many to him out of Iſrael, when they ſaw that the Lord his God vvas with him.

e Called Shiuan, conteining part of May, and part of Iune.

10 So they aſſembled to Ieruſalem in the e third moneth, in the fifteenth yeere of the reigne of Aſa.

11 And they offered unto the Lord the ſame time of the f ſpoile vvhich they had brought, even ſeven hundreth bullockes, and ſeven thouſand ſheepe.

f Which they had taken of the Ethiopians.

12 And they made a covenant to ſeeke the Lord God of their fathers, with all their heart, and with all their ſoule.

g Theſe were the words of their covenant, which commanded all idolaters to be put to death, according to the Law of God, Deut. 13. 5. 9. 15.

13 And g whoſoever will not ſeeke the Lord God of Iſrael, ſhall be ſlaine, whether hee were ſmall or great, man or woman.

h So long as they ſerved him aright, ſo long did he preſerve and proſper them.

14 And they ſware unto the Lord with a loud voyce, and with ſhouting, and with trumpets, and with cornets.

* 1. King. 15. 13.

15 And all Iudah reioyced at the oathe: for they had ſworne unto the Lord with all their heart, and ſought him with a whole deſire, and he was h found of them. And the Lord gave them reſt round about.

i Or grand-mother: and herein be ſhewed that he lacked zeale, for he ought to have died both by the covenant, as verſ. 13. and by the Law of God: but he gave place and would alſo ſeeme after a ſort to ſatisfie the Law.

16 ¶ And king Aſa depoſed * Maachah his i mother from her regencie, becauſe ſhe had made an idole in a grove: and Aſa brake downe her idole, and ſtamped it, and burnt it at the brooke Kidron.

17 But

17 But the high places were not k taken away out of l Iſrael: yet the heart of Aſa was m perfite all his dayes.

18 Alſo he brought into the houſe of God the things that his father had dedicate, and that hee had dedicate, ſilver, and gold, and veſſels.

19 And there was no warre unto the five and thirtieth yeere of the reigne of Aſa.

k Which partly came through lacke of zeale in him, partly through the negligence of his officers, and partly by the ſuperſtition of the people, that all were not taken away.

l Becauſe that God was called the God of Iſrael, by reaſon of his promiſe to Iaakob: therefore Iſrael is ſometime taken for Iudah, becauſe Iudah was his chiefe people.

m In reſpect of his predeceſſors.

CHAP. XVI.

a Aſa for feare of Baaſha king of Iſrael, maketh a covenant with Ben-hadad king of Aram. 7 Hee is reproved by the Prophet. 10 Whom hee putteth in priſon. 12 His ſickneſſe. 13 His death.

IN the ſixe and thirtieth yeere of the reigne of Aſa, came a * Baaſha king of Iſrael up againſt Iudah, and built b Ramah, to let none paſſe out or go in to Aſa king of Iudah.

a Who reigned after Nadab the ſonne of Ieroboam.

* 1. King. 15. 17.

b He fortified it with walles and ditches: it was a citie in Beniamin neere to Gibeon.

‖ Or, Darmeſek.

2 Then Aſa brought out ſilver and gold out of the treaſures of the houſe of the Lord, and of the kings houſe, and ſent to Benhadad king of Aram that dwelt at ‖ Damaſcus, ſaying,

3 There is a covenant betweene me and thee, and betweene my father and thy father: behold, I have ſent thee ſilver and golde: come, c breake thy league with Baaſha king of Iſrael, that hee may depart from me.

c He tought to repulſe his adverſarie by an vnlawfull meanes, that is, by ſeeking helpe of infidels, as they that ſeeke the Turks amity, thinking thereby to make themſelves more ſtrong.

4 And Benhadad hearkened unto king Aſa, and ſent the captaines of the armie which hee had, againſt the cities of Iſrael. And they ſmote Iion, and Dan, and Abel-maim, and all the ſtore cities of Naphtali.

5 And when Baaſha heard it, he left building of Ramah, and let his worke ceaſe.

6 Then Aſa the king tooke all Iudah, and caried away the ſtones of Ramah and the timber thereof, wherewith Baaſha did built, and he build therewith Geba and Mizpah.

7 ¶ And at that ſame time Hanani the ‖ Seer came to Aſa king of Iudah, and ſaid unto him, Becauſe thou haſt reſted upon the king of Aram, and not reſted in the Lord thy God, therefore is the hoſt of the king af Aram eſcaped out of thine hand.

e God plagued his rebellion, & hereby declareth that it is nothing to begin well, except we ſo conteinue to the ende, that is zealous of Gods glory, and put our whole truſt in him.

8 * The Ethiopians and the Lubims, were they not a great hoaſte with charets and horſemen, exceeding many, yet becauſe thou diddeſt reſt upon the Lord, he delivered them into thine hand.

9 * For the eyes of the Lord behold all the earth, to ſhew himſelfe ſtrong with them that are of perfit heart toward him: thou haſt then done foolithly in this: therefore from henceforth thou ſhalt have warres.

10 Then Aſa was wroth with the Seer, and put him into a † priſon: for he was d diſpleaſed with him, becauſe of this thing. And Aſa oppreſſed certaine of the people at the ſame time.

11 And behold, the actes of Aſa firſt and laſt, loe, they are written in the booke of the Kings of Iudah and Iſrael.

12 ¶ And Aſa in the nine and thirtieth yeere of his reigne was ‖ * diſeaſed in his feete, and his diſeaſe was ‖ e extreme: yet hee ſought not the Lord in his diſeaſe, but to the f Phyſicians.

f He ſheweth that it is in vaine to ſeeke to the Phyſicians, except we firſt ſeeke to God to purge our ſinnes, which are the chiefe cauſe of all our diſeaſes, and after vſe the helpe of the Phyſician, as a meane by whom God worketh.

13 So Aſa ſlept with his fathers, and died in the one and fourtieth yeere of his reigne.

14 And they buried him in one of his ſepulchres, which he had made for himſelfe in the city of David, and layed him in the bed, which they had filled with ſweete odours and divers kindes of ſpices made by the arte of the Apothecary: and they burnt odours for him with an exceeding great fire.

CHAP. XVII.

1 Ieho∫haphat truſting in the Lord, proſpereth in riches and honour. 6 Hee aboliſheth idolatrie, 7 and cauſeth the people to be taught. 11 Hee receiveth tribute of ſtrangers. 13 His munitions, and men of warre.

AND Iehoſhaphat his ſonne reigned in his ſtead, and prevailed againſt Iſrael.

2 And he put gariſons in all the ſtrong cities of Iudah, and ſet bands in the land of Iudah and in the cities of Ephraim, which Aſa his father had taken.

3 And the Lord was with Iehoſhaphat, becauſe hee walked in the a firſt wayes of his father Dauid, and ſought not b Baalim, a That is, his vertues: meaning, before he had committed with Bathſheba, and againſt Vriah.

b Sought not help at ſtrange Gods.

4 But ſought the Lord God of his father, and walked in his commandement, and not after the † trade of Iſrael.

5 Therefore the Lord ſtabliſhed the kingdome in his hand, and all Iudah brought preſents to Iehoſhaphat, ſo that he had of riches and honour in abundance.

6 And he c lift up his heart unto the wayes of the Lord, and he tooke away moreover the high places and the groves out of Iudah.

c He gave himſelfe wholly to ſerve the Lord.

7 ¶ And in the third yeere of his reigne hee ſent his princes, Ben-hail, and Obadiah, and Zechariah, and Nethaneel, and Michaiah, that they ſhould d teach in the cities of Iudah,

8 And with them Levites, Shemaiah, and Nethaniah, and Zebadiah, and Aſahel, and Shemiramoth, and Ionathan, and Adonijah, and Tobijah, and Tob-adonijah, Levites, and with them Eliſhama and Ieboram Prieſts, d He knew it was in vaine to profeſſe religion, except ſuch were appointed which could inſtruct the people in the ſame, and had authoritie to put away all idolatry.

9 And they taught in Iudah, and had the booke of the Law of the Lord with them, and went about throughout all the cities of Iudah, and taught the people.

10 And the feare of the Lord fell upon all the kingdomes of the lands that were round about Iudah, and they e fought not againſt Iehoſhaphat.

e Thus God proſpereth all ſuch that with a pure heart ſeeke his glory, and keepeth their enemies in feare, that they cannot be able to execute their rage againſt them.

11 Alſo ſome of the Philiſtims brought Iehoſhaphat gifts and tribute ſilver, and the Arabians brought him flockes, ſeven thouſand and ſeven hundreth rammes, and ſeven thouſand and ſeven hundreth hee goats.

12 So Iehoſhaphat proſpered and grew up on high, and he built in Iudah palaces and cities of ſtore.

13 And hee had great workes in the cities of Iudah, and men of warre, and valiant men in Ieruſalem.

2 And after certaine b yeeres hee went downe to Ahab to Samaria: and Ahab ſlewe ſheepe and oxen for him in great number, and for the people that hee had with him, and entiſed him to goe up vnto c Ramoth Gilead.

b That is, the third yeere, 1. King. 22. 2.

c To recover it out of the hands of the Syrians.

3 And Ahab king of Iſrael ſaid vnto Iehoſhaphat king of Iudah, Wilt thou go with mee to Ramoth Gilead? And hee anſwered him, I am as thou art, and my people as thy people, and we will ioyne with thee in warre.

4 And Iehoſhaphat ſaid vnto the king of Iſrael, Aske counſell, I pray thee, at the d word of the Lord this day.

d Heare the adviſe of ſome Prophet, to know whether it be Gods will.

5 Therefore the King of Iſrael gathered of e Prophets foure hundreth men, and ſaid vnto them, Shall we goe to Ramoth Gilead to battell, or ſhall I ceaſe? And they ſaid, Goe vp: for God ſhall deliver it vnto the kings hand.

e Which were the prophets of Baal, ſignifying that the wicked eſteeme none but flatterers, and ſuch as will beare with their inordinate affections.

6 But Iehoſhaphat ſaid, Is there here never a Prophet more of the Lord, that we might enquire of him?

7 And the king of Iſrael ſaid vnto Iehoſhaphat, There is yet one man by whom we may aske counſell of the Lord: but I f hate him: for hee doeth not prophecie good vnto mee, but alway evill: it is Michaiah the ſonne of Imla. Then Iehoſhaphat ſaid, Let not the king ſay g ſo.

f Yet the true miniſters of God ought not to ceaſe to do their duety, though the wicked magiſtrates cannot abide them to ſpeake the trueth.

g Meaning, that he ought not to refuſe to heare any that was of God.

8 And the king of Iſrael called an eunuch, and ſaid, Call quickly Michaiah the ſonne of Imla.

9 ¶ And the king of Iſrael and Iehoſhaphat King of Iudah ſate either of them on his throne cloathed in their h apparell: they ſate even in the threeſhing floore at the entring in of the gate of Samaria: and all the Prophets prophecied before them.

h That is, in their maieſtie and royall apparell.

10 And Zidkiah the ſonne of Chenaanah made him i hornes of yron, and ſayd, Thus ſaith the Lord, With theſe ſhalt thou puſh the Aramites vntill thou haſt conſumed them.

i Reade 1. King. 22. 11.

11 And all the Prophets prophecied ſo, ſaying, Goe vp in Ramoth Gilead, and proſper: for the Lord ſhall deliuer it vnto the hand of the king.

12 ¶ And the meſſenger that went to call Michaiah, ſpake to him, ſaying, Behold, the words of the Prophets declare good to the king with one k accord: let thy word therefore, I pray thee, be like one of theirs, and ſpeake thou good.

k Thinking, that whereas foure hundreth prophets had agreed in one thing, that he being but one man and in leaſt eſtimation, durſt not gainſay it.

13 And Michaiah ſaid, As the Lord liveth, whatſoever my God ſaith, that will I ſpeake.

14 ¶ So hee came to the king, and the King ſaid vnto him, Michaiah, ſhall we goe to Ramoth Gilead to battell, or ſhall I leave off? And he ſaid, l Goe ye vp, and proſper, and they ſhall be deliuered into your hand.

l Hee ſpake this by deriſion of the falſe prophets, as the King well perceived.

15 And the King ſaid vnto him, How oft ſhall I charge thee, that thou tell me nothing but the trueth in the Name of the Lord?

16 Then he ſaid, I ſaw all Iſrael ſcattered in the mountaines, as ſheepe that have no ſheepheard: and the Lord ſaid, m Theſe have no maſter: let them returne every man to his houſe in peace.

m Hee prophecieth how the people ſhould be diſperſed and Ahab ſlaine.

17 And the King of Iſrael ſaid to Iehoſhaphat, Did I not tell thee, that hee would not prophecie good unto me, but evill?

18 Againe hee ſaid, Therefore heare yee the word of the Lord: I ſaw the Lord ſit vpon his throne, and all the n hoaſte of heaven ſtanding at his right hand, and at his left.

n Meaning, his Angels.

19 And the Lord ſaid, Who ſhall ‖ perſwade Ahab King of Iſrael, that he may goe vp, and fall at Ramoth Gilead? And one ſpake and ſaid thus, and another ſaid that.

‖ Or, deceive.

20 Then there came foorth a ſpirit and ſtood before the Lord, and ſaid, I will perſwade him. And the Lord ſaid vnto him, Wherein?

21 And he ſaid, I will goe out, and be a falſe ſpirit in the mouth of all his Prophets. And o hee ſaid, Thou ſhalt perſwade, and ſhalt alſo prevaile: goe forth and doe ſo.

o That is, the Lord.

22 Now therefore behold, the Lord hath put a p falſe ſpirit in the mouth of theſe thy Prophets, and the Lord hath determined evill againſt thee.

p To them that will not beleeve the trueth, God ſendeth ſtrong deluſion that they ſhould beleeve lies, 2. Theſſ. 2. 10.

23 Then Zedkiah the ſonne of Chenaanah came neere & ſmote Michaiah vpon the q cheeke, and ſayd, By what way went the Spirit of the Lord from me, to ſpeake with thee?

q By this cruelty, his ambition and hypocriſie was diſcovered: thus the hypocrites boaſt of the Spirit which they have not, and declare their malice againſt them in whom the true Spirit is.

24 And Michaiah ſaid, Behold, thou ſhalt ſee that day when thou ſhalt goe from chamber to chamber to hide thee.

25 And the King of Iſrael ſaid, Take yee Michaiah, and cary him to Amon the governour of the citie, and to Ioaſh the kings ſonne, 26 And ſay, Thus ſaith the king, Put this man in the priſon houſe, and feede him with bread of r affliction and with water of affliction, untill I returne in peace.

r Keepe him ſtreightly in priſon, and let him feele hunger and thirſt.

27 And Michaiah ſayde, If thou returne in peace, the Lord hath not ſpoken by me. And ‖ he ſaid, Heare all ye people.

‖ Or, Michaiah.

28 So the King of Iſrael and Iehoſhaphat the King of Iudah went vp to Ramoth Gilead.

29 And the King of Iſrael ſaid vnto Iehoſhaphat, I will ſ change my ſelfe, and enter into the battell: but put thou on thine apparell. So the king of Iſrael changed himſelfe, and they went into the battell.

ſ Thus the wicked thinke by their owne ſubtilitie to eſcape Gods iudgements which hee threatneth by his word.

30 And the king of Aram had commanded the captaines of the charets that were with him, ſaying, Fight yon not with ſmall nor great, but againſt the king of Iſrael onely.

31 And when the captaines of the charets ſaw Iehoſhaphat, they ſaid, It is the king of Iſrael: and they compaſſed about him to fight. But Iehoſhaphat t cried, and the Lord helped him and mooued them to depart from him.

t Hee cryed to the Lord by acknowledging his faults in going with this wicked King to warre againſt the word of the Lord by his Prophet, and alſo by deſiring mercy for the ſame.

32 For when the captaines of the charets ſaw that hee was not the King of Iſrael, they turned backe from him.

33 Then a certaine man drew a bow † mightily, and ſmote the King of Iſrael betweene the ioynts ‖ of his brigandine: therefore he ſaid to his charetman, Turne thine hand, and ... y me out of the hoaſte; for I am hurt.

† Ebr. in his ſimplicitie, or ignorantly.

34 And

34 And the battell increased that day: and the king of Israel [u] stoode still in his charet against the Aramites vntill even, and died at the time of the sunne going downe.

[u] Hee dissembled his hurt that his souldiers might fight more courageously.

CHAP. XIX.

4 After Iehoshaphat was rebuked by the Prophet, he called againe the people to the honouring of the Lord. 5 He appointed Iudges and ministers, 9 and exhorteth them to feare God.

AND Iehoshaphat the king of Iudah returned † safe to his house in Ierusalem.

2 And Iehu the sonne of Hanani the Seer went out to meete them, and said to king Iehoshaphat, [a] Wouldest thou helpe the wicked, and love them that hate the Lord? therefore for this thing the wrath † of the Lord is vpon thee.

[a] Hee declareth that the wrath and iudgement of God is over all such that support the wicked, and rather shew not in deed that they are enemies to all such as hate the Lord.

3 Neverthelesse good things are found in thee, because thou hast take away the groves out of the land, and hast prepared thine heart to seeke God.

4 ¶ So Iehoshaphat dwelt at Ierusalem, and returned and went [b] through the people from Beer-sheba to mount Ephraim, and brought them againe vnto the Lord God of their fathers.

[b] Hee visited all his countrey, and brought his people from idolatry to the knowledge of the true God.

5 And hee set iudges in the land throughout all the strong cities of Iudah, citie by citie,

6 And said to the iudges, Take heed what yee doe: for yee execute not the iudgements of man, but of the Lord, and hee vvill be [c] with you in the cause and iudgement.

[c] Both to preserve you, if you do iustly, or to punish you, if you do the contrary.

7 Wherefore now let the feare of the Lord be vpon you: take heede, and doe it: for there is no [d] iniquitie with the Lord our God, neither * respect of persons, nor receiuing of reward.

[d] He will declare by the sharpenesse of the punishment, that he hateth all iniquity.

* Deute. 10, 17. Iob 34. 19. Acts. 10, 34. Rom. 2, 11. Gal. 2, 6. ephe. 6, 9. col. 3, 25. 1. Pet. 1. 17.

8 Moreover in Ierusalem did Iehoshaphat set of the Levites, and of the Priests and of the chiefe of the families of Israel, for the iudgement and cause of ỹ Lord: and they [e] returned to Ierusalem.

[e] The Priests and Levites, which should iudge matters according to the word of the Lord.

9 And he charged them, saying, Thus shall ye doe in the feare of the Lord faithfully and with a perfit heart.

10 And in every cause that shall come to you of your brethren that dwell in your cities, betweene [i] blood and blood, betweene law and precept, statutes and iudgements, yee shall iudge them and admonish them that they trespasse not against the Lord, that [g] wrath come not vpon you and vpon your brethren. This shall ye doe and trespasse not.

[f] That is, to try whether the murther was done at vnawares, or else on set purpose, Numb. 35. 11. Deut. 4 41.

[g] Meaning, that God would punish them most sharpely, if they would not execute iustice aright.

11 And behold, Amariah the Priest shall be the chiefe over you in all matters of the Lord, and Zebadiah the sonne of Ishmael, a ruler of the house of Iudah shall be for all the [h] Kings affaires, and the Levites shall be officers [i] before you. Be of courage, and doe it, and the Lord shall be with the [k] good.

[h] Shallbe chiefe overseer of the publike affaires of the Realme.

[i] They shall have the handling of inferiour causes.

[k] God will assist them that doe iustice.

CHAP. XX.

3 Iehoshaphat and the people pray vnto the Lord. 22 The marueilous victory that the Lord gaue him against his enemies. 30 His reigne and actes.

AFter this also came the children of Moab and the children of Ammon, and with them of the [a] Ammonites against Iehoshaphat to battell.

[a] That is, which counterfeyted the Ammonites in language and apparel. The Hebrewes thinke that they were the Amalekites, but as may appeare by the tenth verse they were the Idumeans of mount Seir.

2 Then there came that tolde Iehoshaphat, saying, There commeth a great multitude against thee from beyond the [b] Sea, out of Aram: and beholde, they be in Hazzon Tamar, which is Engedi.

[b] Called the dead Sea, where God destroyed the five cities for sinne.

3 And Iehoshaphat feared, and set himselfe [c] to seeke the Lord, and proclaimed a fast throughout all Iudah.

[c] This declareth what the feare of the godly is, which is as the pricke to stirre them to prayer, and to depend on the Lord, whereas it moueth the wicked either to seeke after worldly meanes and policies, or els to fall into despaire.

4 And Iudah gathered themselves together to aske counsell of the Lord: they came even out of all the cities of Iudah to inquire of the Lord.

5 And Iehoshaphat stood in the Congregation of Iudah and Ierusalem in the house of the Lord before the new court.

6 And sayd, O Lord God of our fathers, art not thou God in heaven? and reigneſt not thou on all the kingdomes of the heathen? and in thine hand is power and might, and none is able to withstand thee.

7 Diddest not thou our God cast out the inhabitants of this land before thy people Israel, and [d] gauest it to the seed of Abraham thy friend for ever?

[d] Hee groundeth his prayer vpon Gods power, whereby he is able to helpe, and also on his mercy, which he will continue toward his, forasmuch as he hath once chosen them and began to shew his graces toward them.

8 And they dwelt therein, and have built thee a Sanctuary therein for thy Name, saying,

9 * If evill come vpon vs, as the [e] sword of iudgement, or pestilence, or famine, we will stand before this house & in thy presence (for thy name [f] is in this house) and will cry vnto thee in our tribulation, and thou wilt heare and helpe.

* 1 King. 8. 37. chap. 6. 28.

[e] Meaning warre which commeth by Gods iust iudgements for our sinnes.

[f] That is, it is here called upon, and thou declarest thy presence and favour.

10 And now, behold, the children of * Ammon and Moab, and mount Seir, by whom thou wouldest not let Israel goe, when they came out of the land of Egypt: but they turned aside from them, and destroyed them not:

* Deute. 2, 9. Nehem. 13, 1.

11 Behold, I say, they reward vs, in comming to cast vs out of thine inheritance, which thou hast caused vs to inherite:

12 O our God, wilt thou not iudge them? for there is no strength in vs to stand before this great multitude that commeth against vs, neither doe we know what to doe: but our eyes [g] are toward thee.

[g] We onely put our trust in thee, and wait for our deliverance from heaven.

13 And all Iudah stood [h] before the Lord with their yong ones, their wives, and their children.

[h] That is, before the Arke of the Covenant.

14 And Iahaziel the sonne of Zechariah, the sonne of Benaiah, the sonne of Ieiel, the sonne of Mattaniah, a Levite of the sonnes of Asaph, vvas there, vpon whom came [i] the Spirit of the Lord, in the middes of the Congregation.

[i] Which was mooved by the Spirit of God to prophecie.

15 And he sayd, Hearken yee all Iudah, and ye inhabitants of Ierusalem, and thou, King Iehoshaphat: thus saith the Lord vnto you, Feare you not, neither be afraid for this great multitude: for the [k] battell is not yours, but Gods.

[k] They fight against God and not against you, therefore he will fight for you.

16 To morrow goe ye downe against them: behold, they come vp by the cleft of Ziz, and yee shall finde them at the ende of the brooke before the wilderneſſe of Ieruel.

17 Yee shall not neede to fight in this battell: * stand still, moove not, and behold the [l] saluation of the Lord towards you: O Iudah, and Ierusalem, feare yee not, neither be afraid: to morrow goe out against them, and the Lord vvill be with you.

* Exod. 14. 13. 14.

18 ¶ Then Iehoshaphat [l] bowed downe with his face to the earth, and all Iudah and the inhabitants of Ierusalem fell downe before the Lord, worshipping the Lord.

[l] Declaring his faith and obedience to the word of the Lord, and giving thankes for the deliverance promised.

19 ¶ And the Levites of the children of the Kohathites, and of the children of the Corhites stood vp to prayse the Lord God of Israel with a loude voyce on high.

20 And when they arose early in the morning, they went forth to the wildernes of Tekoa: and as they departed, Iehoshaphat stood and said, Heare

Heare ye me, O Iudah, and ye inhabitants of Ieruſalem: put your truſt in the Lord your God, and ye ſhalbe aſſured: beleeve his [m] Prophets, and ye ſhall proſper.

[m] Give credit to their words and doctrine.

21 And when he had conſulted with the people, and appointed ſingers unto the Lord, and them that ſhould praiſe him that is in the beautifull Sanctuary, in going foorth before the men of armes, and ſaying, [n] Praiſe yee the Lord, for his mercy laſteth for ever.

[n] This was a Pſalme of thankſgiving which they uſed commonly to ſing when they prayſed the Lord for his benefits, and was made by David, Pſal. 136.

22 And when they began to ſhoute, and to praiſe, the Lord laide ambuſhments againſt the children of Ammon, Moab, and [o] mount Seir, which were come againſt Iudah, and they ſlewe one another.

[o] Meaning, the Idumeans which dwelt in mount Seir.

23 For the children of Ammon and Moab roſe againſt the inhabitants of mount Seir, to ſlay and to deſtroy them: and when they had made an end of the inhabitants of Seir, every one helped to [p] deſtroy one another.

[p] Thus the Lord according to Iehoſhaphats prayer declared his power, when he delivered his by cauſing their enemies to kill one another.

24 And when Iudah came toward Mizpah in the wilderneſſe, they looked unto the multitude: and behold, the carkeiſes were fallen to the earth, and none eſcaped.

25 And when Iehoſhaphat and his people came to take away the ſpoile of them, they found among them in abundance both of ſubſtance and alſo of bodies laden with precious iewels, which they tooke for themſelves, till they could cary no more: they were three dayes in gathering of the ſpoile: for it was much.

26 And in the fourth day they [q] aſſembled themſelves in the valley of Berachah: for there they bleſſed the Lord: therefore they called the name of that place, The valley of Berachah unto this day.

[q] To give thanks to the Lord for the victory: and therefore the valley was called Berachah, that is, bleſſing, or thankſgiving which was alſo called the valley of Iehoſhaphat, Ioel 3,2,12. becauſe the Lord iudged the enemies according to Iehoſhaphats prayer.

27 Then every man of Iudah and Ieruſalem returned with Iehoſhaphat their head to goe againe to Ieruſalem with ioy: for the Lord had made them to reioyce over their enemies.

28 And they came to Ieruſalem with violes, and with harps, and with trumpets, even unto the houſe of the Lord.

29 And the [r] feare of God was upon all the kingdomes of the earth, when they had heard that the Lord had fought againſt the enemies of Iſrael.

[r] Hee declareth hereby, that the works of God bring ever comfort or deliverance to his, and feare or deſtruction to his enemies.

30 So the kingdome of Iehoſhaphat was quiet, and his God gave him reſt on every ſide.

31 ¶ And * Iehoſhaphat reigned over Iudah, and was five and thirty yeere old, when he began to reigne: and reigned five and twenty yeere in Ieruſalem, and his mothers name was Azubah the daughter of Shilhi.

* 1. King. 22, 42.

32 And he walked in the way of [s] Aſa his father, and departed not therefrom, doing that which was right in the ſight of the Lord.

[s] Meaning, in his vertues, and thoſe wayes wherein he followed God.

33 Howbeit the hie places were [t] not taken away: for the people had not yet prepared their hearts unto the God of their fathers.

[t] If the great care and diligence of this good king was not able utterly to abolish all ſuperſtition of this people, but that they would ſtill retaine their, how much leſſe are they able to reforme evill, which either have little zeale, or not ſuch as hee had: though here he was not to be excuſed?

34 Concerning the reſt of the actes of Iehoſhaphat firſt and laſt, behold, they are written in the booke of Iehu the ſonne of Hanai, which * is mentioned in the booke of the kings of Iſrael.

* 1. King 16, 1.

35 ¶ Yet after this did Iehoſhaphat king of Iudah ioyne himſelfe with Ahaziah king of Iſrael, who was given to doe evill.

36 And hee ioyned with him to * make ſhips to goe to Tarſhiſh: and they made the ſhips in Ezion Gaber.

* 3. King. 22, 48, 49.

37 Then Eliezer the ſonne of Dodavah of Mareſhah prophecied againſt Iehoſhaphat, ſaying, Becauſe thou haſt [u] ioyned thy ſelfe with Ahaziah, the Lord hath broken thy workes: and the ſhips were broken, that they were not able to goe to Tarſhiſh.

[u] Thus God would not have his to ioyne in ſocietie with idolaters and wicked men.

CHAP. XXI.

1 Iehoſhaphat died. 3 Iehoram ſucceedeth him. 4 which killeth his brethren. 6 Hee was brought to idolatry. 11 and ſucceedeth the people. 16 Hee is oppreſſed of the Philiſtims. 18 His miſerable end.

IEhoſhaphat then ſlept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David: and Iehoram his ſonne reigned in his ſtead.

2 And he had brethren the ſonnes of Iehoſhaphat, Azariah, and Iehiel, and Zechariah, and Azariah, and Michael, and Shephatiah. All theſe were the ſonnes of Iehoſhaphat king of [a] Iſrael.

[a] Read Chap. 15, 17. how by Iſrael, is meant Iudah.

3 And their father gave them great giftes of ſilver and of gold, and of precious things, with ſtrong cities in Iudah, but the kingdome gave he to Iehoram: for he was the eldeſt.

4 * And Iehoram roſe up upon the kingdome of his father, and made himſelfe ſtrong, and [b] ſlew all his brethren with the ſword, and alſo of the princes of [c] Iſrael.

* 2. King. 8, 16.

[b] Becauſe the wicked live ever in feare, and alſo are ambitious, they become cruell, and ſpare not to murther them, whom by nature they ought moſt to cherish and defend.

[c] Meaning of Iudah and Beniamin.

5 Iehoram was two and thirtie yeere old, when he began to reigne, and hee reigned eight yeeres in Ieruſalem.

6 And he walked in the way of the kings of Iſrael, as the houſe of Ahab had done: for he had the daughter of Ahab to [d] wife, and he wrought evill in the eyes of the Lord.

[d] So that we ſee how it cannot be that we ſhould ioyne with the wicked, and ſerve God.

7 Howbeit the Lord would not deſtroy the houſe of David, becauſe of the * covenant that he had made with David, and becauſe he had promiſed to give a light to him, and to his ſonnes for ever.

* 2. Sam. 7, 12, 16. 1. King. 2, 4. and 9, 5. 2. King. 8, 19. chap. 6, 16.

8 ¶ In his dayes Edom rebelled from under the hand of Iudah, and made a king over them.

9 And Iehoram went forth with his princes, and all his charets with him: and hee roſe up by night, and ſmote Edom, which had compaſſed him in, and the captaines of the charets.

10 But Edom rebelled from under the hand of Iudah unto this day. Then did [e] Libnah rebell at the ſame time from under his hand, becauſe he had forſaken the Lord God of his fathers.

[e] Reade 2. king. 8, 22.

11 ¶ Moreover he made high places in the mountaines of Iudah, and cauſed the inhabitants of Ieruſalem to commit [f] fornication, and compelled Iudah thereto.

[f] Meaning, idolatry, becauſe that the idolaters breaketh promiſe with God, as doeth the adultereſſe to her husband.

12 And there came a writing to him from [g] Eliah the Prophet, ſaying, Thus ſaith the Lord God of David thy father, Becauſe thou haſt not walked in the wayes of Iehoſhaphat thy father, nor in the wayes of Aſa king of Iudah, [g] Some thinke that this was Eliſha, ſo called becauſe he had the Spirit in abundance as had Eliiah.

13 But haſt walked in the way of the kings of Iſrael, and haſt made Iudah and the inhabitants of Ieruſalem to goe a whoring, as the houſe of Ahab went a whoring, and haſt alſo ſlaine thy brethren of thy fathers houſe, which were better then thou.

14 Behold, with a great plague will the Lord ſmite thy people, and thy children, and thy wives, and all thy ſubſtance.

[h] We ſee this example dayly practiſed upon them that fall away from God: and become idolaters and murtherers of their brethren.

15 And thou ſhalt be in great diſeaſes in the diſeaſe of thy bowels, untill [h] thy bowels fall out for the diſeaſe, day by day.

16 ¶ So the Lord ſtirred up againſt Iehoram the ſpirit of the Philiſtims, and the Arabians that were beſide the [i] Ethiopians.

[i] There were other Arabians in Africa Southward toward Egypt.

17 And they came up into Iudah, and brake into it, and caried away all the substance that was found in the kings house, and his sonnes also, and his wives, so that there was not a sonne left him, save k Iehoahaz the yongest of his sonnes.

18 And after all this, the Lord smote him in his bowels with an incurable disease.

19 And in processe of time, even after the end of two yeeres, his guts fell out with his disease: so he died of sore diseases: and his people made no burning for him like the burning of his fathers.

20 When he began to reigne, he was two and thirtie yeare old, and reigned in Ierusalem eight yeare, and lived without being desired: yet they buried him in the citie of David, but not among the sepulchres of the Kings.

k Called also Ahaziah, as Chap 22,1. or Azariah, vers. 6. following.

l That is, as some write he was not regarded, but despised for his wickednes, & idolatry: so that his sonne reigned 22 yeeres (his father yet living) without honour, and after his fathers death he was confirmed to reigne still, as Chap. 22, 2.

CHAP. XXII.

2 Ahaziah reigneth after Iehoram. 9 Iehu king of Israel killeth Ahaziah. 10 Athaliah putteth to death all the Kings linage. 11 Ioash escapeth.

AND * the inhabitants of Ierusalem made Ahaziah his yongest sonne King in his stead: for the armie that came with a the Arabians to the campe, had slaine all the eldest: therefore Ahaziah the sonne of Iehoram king of Iudah reigned.

* 2. King 8, 24.

a Meaning, the Philistims.

2 Two and b fourtie yeere old was Ahaziah when hee began to reigne, and hee reigned c one yeere in Ierusalem. And his mothers name was Ataliah the daughter d of Omri.

b Rede Chap. 22, 20.

c That is, after the death of his father.

d She was Ahabs daughter, who was the sonne of Omri.

3 Hee walked also in the wayes of the house of Ahab: for his mother counselled him to doe wickedly.

4 Wherefore hee did evill in the sight of the Lord, like the house of Ahab: for they were his e counsellers after the death of his father, to his destruction.

e Hee sheweth that it must needs follow that the rulers are such as their counsellers be, and that there cannot be a good King that suffereth wicked counsellers.

5 And hee walked after their counsell, and went with Iehoram the sonne of Ahab king of Israel to fight against Hazael king of Aram at Ramoth Gilead: and the Aramites smote Ioram.

6 ¶ And hee returned to be healed in Izreel, because of the woundes wherewith they had wounded him at Ramah, when hee fought with Hazael king of Aram. Now Azariah the sonne of Iehoram king of Iudah went downe to see Iehoram the sonne of Ahab at Izreel, because he was diseased.

f Hereby we see how nothing can come to any but by Gods providence and as he hath appointed, and wherefore becauseth all meanes to serve to his will.

7 And the destruction of Ahaziah f came of God, in that he went to Ioram: for when he was come, he went foorth with Iehoram against Iehu the sonne of Nimshi, * whom the Lord had anoynted to destroy the house of Ahab.

* 2. Kings. 9, 7.

8 Therefore when Iehu ‖ executed iudgement upon the house of Ahab, and found the princes of Iudah and the sonnes of the brethren of Ahaziah that waited on Ahaziah, he slew them also.

9 And hee sought Ahaziah, and they caught him where he was hid in Samaria, and brought him to Iehu, and slewe him and buried him, because said they, Hee is the sonne of g Iehoshaphat, which sought the Lord with all his heart. So the house of Ahaziah was not able to retaine the kingdome.

g This was the iust plague of God, because he ioyned himselfe with Gods enemies: yet God to declare the worthines of Iehoshaphat his grandfather, moeved them to give him the honour of burial.

10 ¶ * Therefore when Athaliah the mother of Ahaziah saw that her sonne was dead, shee arose and h destroyed all the kings seede of the house of Iudah.

* 2. King 11, 1.

h To the intent that there should be none to make title to the crowne, and so she might usurpe the government.

11 But Iehoshabeath the daughter of the king, tooke Ioash the sonne of Ahaziah, and stale him from among the kings sonnes, that should be slaine, and put him and his nourse in the bedde chamer: so Iehoshabeath the daughter of king Iehoram the wife of Iehoiada the Priest (for shee was the sister of Ahaziah) hid him from Athaliah: so she slew him not.

i Meaning, in the chamber where the Priests and Levites slept, which kept their course weekely in the Temple.

12 And hee was with them hid in the i house of God sixe yeeres, whiles Athaliah reigned over the k land.

k To wit, of Iudah.

CHAP. XXIII.

1 Ioash the sonne of Ahaziah is made king. 15 Athaliah is put to death. 17 The temple of Baal is destroyed. 18 Iehoiada appointeth ministers in the Temple.

AND * in the seventh yeere Iehoiada waxed bold, and tooke the captaines of hundreths, to wit, Azariah the sonne of Iehoram, and Ishmael the sonne of Iehohanan, and Azariah the sonne of Obed, and Maasiah the sonne of Adaiah, and Elishaphat the sonne of Zichri in covenant with him.

* 2. King 11, 4.

a Of the reigne of Athaliah, or after the death of Ahaziah.

2 And they went about in Iudah and gathered the Levites out of all the cities of Iudah, and the b chiefe fathers of Israel: and they came to Ierusalem.

b Meaning, of Iudah and Beniamin: reade why they are called Israel, Chap. 15, 17.

3 And all the congregation made a covenant with the King in the house of God: and he said unto them, Behold, the Kings sonne must reigne, * as the Lord hath said of the sonnes of David.

4 This is it that ye shall do, The third part of you that come on the Sabbath of the Priests, and the Levites, shall be porters of the doores.

5 And another third part toward the Kings house, and another third part at the * gate of the c foundation, and all the people shall be in the courts of the house of the Lord.

* 2. King. 11, 6.

c Which was the chiefe gate of the Temple toward the East.

6 But let none come into the house of the Lord, save the Priests, and the Levites that minister, they shall goe in, for they are holy: but all the people shall keepe the watch of the Lord.

7 And the Levites shall compasse the King round about, and every man with his weapon in his hand, and he that entreth d into the house, shall be slaine, and be you with the king, when hee commeth in, and when he goeth out.

d Meaning, to make any tumults or to hinder their enterprise.

16 ¶ And Iehoiada made a [k] covenant betweene him and all the people, and the king, that they would be the Lords people.

17 And all the people went to the houſe of Baal, and [l] deſtroyed, and brake his altar, and his images, and ſlew [m] Mattan the prieſt of Baal before the altars.

18 And Iehoiada appointed officers for the houſe of the Lord, vnder the [‖] hands of the Prieſts and Levites, whom David had diſtributed for the houſe of the Lord, to offer burnt offerings vnto the Lord, * as it is written in the Law of Moſes, with reioycing and ſinging by the appointment of David.

CHAP. XXIIII.

4 Ioaſh repaireth the houſe of the Lord. 17 After the death of Iehoiada he falleth to idolatrie. 21 He ſloneth to death Zachariah the Prophet. 25 Ioaſh is killed of his owne ſeruants. 27 After him reigneth Amaziah.

IOaſh * was ſeuen yeere old when he began to reigne, and hee reigned fortie yeere in Ieruſalem: and his mothers name was Zibiah of Beerſheba.

2 And Ioaſh did vprightly in the ſight of the Lord all the dayes of [a] Iehoiada the Prieſt.

3 And Iehoiada [‖] tooke him two wives, and he begate ſonnes and daughters.

4 ¶ And afterward it came into Ioaſh minde to renew the houſe of the Lord.

5 And hee aſſembled the Prieſtes and the Levites, and ſaid to them, Goe out vnto the cities of Iudah, and gather of all [b] Iſrael money to repaire the houſe of your God, from yeere to yeere, and haſte the thing, but the Levites haſted not.

6 Therefore the king called Iehoiada the [c] chiefe, and ſaid vnto him, Why haſt thou not required of the Levites to bring in out of Iudah and Ieruſalem * the taxe of Moſes the ſervant of the Lord, and of the Congregation of Iſrael, for the Tabernacle of the teſtimonie?

7 For [d] wicked Athaliah, and her children brake vp the houſe of God: and all the things that were dedicated for the houſe of the Lord, did they beſtow vpon Baalim.

8 Therefore the king commanded, * and they made a cheſt, and ſet it at the gate of the houſe of the Lord without,

9 And they made proclamation thorow Iudah and Ieruſalem, to bring vnto the Lord * the taxe of Moſes the ſervant of God, laid vpon Iſrael in the wilderneſſe.

10 And all the princes and all the people reioyced, and brought in, and caſt into the cheſt, vntill they had finiſhed.

11 And when it was time, [e] they brought the cheſt vnto the Kings officer by the hand of the Levites: and when they ſaw that there was much ſilver, then the Kings Scribe, (and one appointed by the high Prieſt) came and emptied the cheſt, and tooke it, and caried it to his place againe: thus they did day by day, and gathered ſilver in abundance.

12 And the King and [f] Iehoiada gaue it to ſuch as did the labour and worke in the houſe of the Lord, and hired maſons and carpenters to repaire the houſe of the Lord: they gaue it alſo to workers of yron and braſſe, to repaire the houſe of the Lord.

13 So the workemen wrought, and the worke † amended through their hands: and they reſtored the houſe of God to his ſtate, and ſtrengthened it.

14 And when they had finiſhed it, they brought the reſt of the ſilver before the king and Iehoiada, and hee made thereof [g] veſſels for the houſe of the Lord, even veſſels to miniſter, both morters and incenſe cups, and veſſels of gold, and of ſilver: and they offered burnt offerings in the houſe of the Lord continually all the dayes of Iehoiada.

15 ¶ But Iehoiada waxed old and was full of dayes, and died. An hundreth and thirtie yeere old was he when he died.

16 And they buried him in the citie of David with the [h] kings, becauſe he had done good in Iſrael, and toward God and his houſe.

17 ¶ And after the death of Iehoiada, came the [i] princes of Iudah, and did reverence to the king, and the king hearkened vnto them.

18 And they left the houſe of the Lord God of their fathers, and ſerved groved and idoles: and wrath came vpon Iudah and Ieruſalem, becauſe of this their treſpaſſe.

19 And God ſent Prophets among them, to bring them againe vnto the Lord: and they [k] made proteſtation among them, but they would not heare.

20 And the Spirit of God came vpon Zechariah the ſonne of Iehoiada the Prieſt, which ſtood [l] above the people, and ſaid vnto them, Thus ſaith God, Why tranſgreſſe yee the commandements of the Lord? ſurely yee ſhall not proſper: becauſe yee have forſaken the Lord, hee alſo hath forſaken you.

21 Then they conſpired againſt him, and ſtoned him with ſtones at the [m] commandement of the king, in the court of the houſe of the Lord.

22 Thus Ioaſh the king remembred not the kindneſſe which Iehoiada his father had done to him, but ſlew his ſonne. And when hee died, hee ſaid, The Lord [n] looke vpon it and require it.

23 ¶ And when the yeere was out, the hoaſt of Aram came vp againſt him, and they came againſt Iuda and Ieruſalem, and deſtroyed all the princes of the people from among the people, and ſent all the ſpoyle of them vnto the king of Damaſcus.

k Called also Ahaziah, 21. Chap 22,1. or Azariah, vers. 6. following.

18 And after all this, the Lord smote him in his bowels with an incurable disease.

19 And in processe of time, even after the end of two yeeres, his guts fell out with his disease: so he died of sore diseases: and his people made no burning for him like the burning of his fathers.

l That is, as some write he was not regarded, but despised for his wickednes & idolatry: so that his sonne reigned 22 yeeres (his father yet living) without honour, and after his fathers death he was confirmed to reigne still, as Chap. 22,2.

2 Ahaziah reigneth after Iehoram. 9 Iehu king of Israel killeth Ahaziah. 10 Athaliah putteth to death all the Kings linage. 11 Ioash escapeth.

2 Two and b fourtie yeere old was Ahaziah when hee began to reigne, and hee reigned c one yeere in Ierusalem. And his mothers name was Ataliah the daughter d of Omri.

3 Hee walked also in the wayes of the house of Ahab: for his mother counselled him to doe wickedly.

4 Wherefore hee did evill in the sight of the Lord, like the house of Ahab: for they were his e counsellers after the death of his father, to his destruction.

e Hee sheweth that it must needs follow that the rulers are such as their counsellers be, and that there cannot be a good King that suffereth wicked counsellers.

5 And hee walked after their counsell, and went with Iehoram the sonne of Ahab king of Israel to fight against Hazael king of Aram at Ramoth Gilead: and the Aramites smote Ioram.

6 ¶ And hee returned to be healed in Izreel, because of the woundes wherewith they had wounded him at Ramah, when hee fought with Hazael king of Aram. Now Azariah the sonne of Iehoram king of Iudah went downe to see Iehoram the sonne of Ahab at Izreel, because he was diseased.

7 And the destruction of Ahaziah f came of God, in that he went to Ioram: for when he was come, he went foorth with Iehoram against Iehu the sonne of Nimshi, * whom the Lord had anoynted to destroy the house of Ahab.

f Hereby we see how nothing can stande to any but by Gods providence and as he hath appointed, and wherefore he causeth all meanes to serve to his will.
* 2. King. 9,7.

8 Therefore when Iehu ‖ executed iudgement upon the house of Ahab, and found the princes of Iudah and the sonnes of the brethren of Ahaziah that waited on Ahaziah, he slew them also.

9 And hee sought Ahaziah, and they caught him where he was hid in Samaria, and brought him to Iehu, and slewe him and buried him, because said they, Hee is the sonne of g Iehoshaphat, which sought the Lord with all his heart. So the house of Ahaziah was not able to retaine the kingdome.

g This was the iust plague of God, because he ioyned himselfe with Gods enemies: yet God to declare the worthines of Iehoshaphat his grandfather, moeved them to give him the honour of burial.

11 But Iehoshabeath the daughter of the king, tooke Ioath the sonne of Ahaziah, and stale him from among the kings sonnes, that should be slaine, and put him and his nourse in the bedde chamer: so Iehoshabeath the daughter of king Iehoram the wife of Iehoiada the Priest (for shee was the sister of Ahaziah) hid him from Athaliah: so she slew him not.

i Meaning, in the chamber where the Priests and Levites slept, which kept their courses weekely in the Temple.

CHAP. XXV.

3 Amaziah putteth him to death which slew his father.
10 Hee sendeth backe them of Israel. 11 Hee overcommeth the Edomites. 14 Hee falleth to idolatry. 17 And Ioash king of Israel overcommeth Amaziah. 27 He is slaine by a conspiracie.

AMaziah was five and twentie yeere old when he began to reigne, and he reigned nine and twentie yeere in * Ierusalem, & his mothers name was Iehoaddan of Ierusalem.

* 2. King. 14. 2.

2 And hee did a vprightly in the eyes of the Lord, but not with a perfit heart.

a Meaning, in respect of his predecessours, albeit he had his imperfections.

3 And when the kingdome was established vnto him, he slew his servants, that had slaine the king his father.

4 But he slew not their children, but did as it is written in the Law, and in the booke of Moses, where the Lord commanded, saying, * The fathers shall not die for the b children, neither shall the children die for the fathers, but every man shall die for his owne sinne.

* Deut. 24. 16. 2. King. 14. 6. Ierem. 31. 30. Ezek. 18. 20.
b That is, for that fault wherefore the child is punished, except he be culpable of the same.

5 ¶ And Amaziah assembled Iudah, and made them captaines over thousands, and captaines over hundreths, according to ſ houses of their fathers, thorowout all Iudah and Beniamin: and hee numbred them from c twentie yeere olde and above, and found among them three hundreth thousand chosen men, to goe forth to the warre, and to handle speare and shield.

c So many as were able men to beare weapons and goe to the warre.

6 Hee hired also an hundreth thousand valiant men d out of Israel for an hundred talents of silver.

d That is, out of the tenne tribes, which had separated themselves before both from God and their true king.

7 But a man of God came vnto him, saying, O king, let not the armie of Israel go with thee: for the Lord is not e with Israel, neither with all the house of Ephraim.

e And therefore to thinke to have helpe of them, whom the Lord favoureth not, is to cast off the helpe of the Lord.

8 If f not, goe thou on, doe it, make thy selfe strong to the battell, but God shall make thee fall before the enemie: for God hath power to helpe, and to cast downe.

f If thou wilt not give credite to my words.

9 And Amaziah said to the man of GOD, What shall wee doe then for the hundreth talents, which I have given to the hoaste of Israel? Then the man of God answered, The Lord is able to g give thee more then this.

g He sheweth that if we depend onely vpon God, we shall not neede to be troubled with these worldly respects, for hee will give at all times that which shalbe necessarie, if we obey his Word.

10 So Amaziah separated them, to wit, the armie that was come to him out of Ephraim, to returne to their place: wherefore their wrath was kindled greatly against Iudah, and they returned to their places with great anger.

11 Then Amaziah was encouraged, and led forth his people, and went to the salt valley, and smote of the children of h Seir, ten thousand.

h For the Idumeans whom David had brought to subiection, rebelled under Iehoram Iehoshaphats sonne.

12 And other ten thousand did the children of Iudah take alive, and caried them to the top of a i rocke, and cast them downe from the top of the rocke, and they all burst to pieces.

i In the 2 Kings 4. 7. this rocke is called the citie Sela.

13 But the men of the k armie, which Amaziah sent away, that they should not goe with his people to battell, fell vpon the cities of Iudah from Samaria vnto Beth-horon, and smote three thousand of them, and tooke much spoyle.

k That is, the hundreth thousand of Israel.

14 Now after that Amaziah was come from the slaughter of the Edomites, hee brought the gods of the children of Seir, and set them vp to be his gods, and l worshipped them, and burned incense vnto them:

l Thus where he should have given the praise to God for his benefits, and great victorie, he fell from God, and did most vilely dishonour him.

15 Wherefore the Lord was wroth with Amaziah, and sent vnto him a Prophet, which said vnto him, Why hast thou sought the gods of the people, which were not able to m deliver their owne people out of thine hand?

m Hee prooveth that whatsoever cannot save himselfe nor his worshippers, is no God but an idol.

16 And as he talked with him, n he said vnto him, Have they made thee the Kings counseller? cease thou: why should they o smite thee? And the Prophet ceased, but sayd, I know that God hath determined to destroyed thee, because thou hast done this, and hast not obeyed my counsell.

n Meaning, the King.
o So hard it is, for the carnall man to be admonished of his fault, that hee contemneth, mocketh, and threateneth him that warneth him: yea, imprisoneth him and putteth him to death, as Chap. 16. 10. and 18, 26. and 24, 21.

17 ¶ Then Amaziah King of Iudah tooke counsell, and sent to Ioash the sonne of Iehoahaz, the sonne of Iehu king of Israel, saying, Come p let vs see one another in the face.

p That is, let us trie the matter hand to hand: for hee was offended, that the armie of the Israelites, whom hee had in wages, and dismissed by the counsell of the Prophet, had destroyed certaine of the cities of Iudah.

18 But Ioash king of Israel sent to Amaziah king of Iudah, saying, The thistle that is in Lebanon, sent to the cedar that is in Lebanon, saying, * Give thy daughter to my sonne to wife: and the wilde beast that was in Lebanon went and trode downe the thistle.

* 2. King. 14. 9.

19 Thou thinkest: loe, thou hast smitten Edom, and thine heart lifteth thee vp to bragge: abide now at home: why doest thou proucke to thine hurt, that thou shouldest fall, and Iudah with thee?

20 But Amaziah would not heare: for q it was of God, that he might deliver them into his hand, because they had sought the gods of Edom.

q Thus God oft times plagueth by those meanes where in men must trust, to teach them to have their recourse onely to him, and to shew his iudgements, mooveth their hearts to follow that which shall be their destruction.

21 So Ioash the king of Israel went vp: and he and Amaziah king of Iudah sawe one another in the face at Beth-shemesh, which is in Iudah.

22 And Iudah was put to the worse before Israel, and they fled every man to his tents.

23 But Ioash the king of Israel tooke Amaziah king of Iudah, the sonne of Ioash, the sonne of Iehoahaz, in Beth-shemesh, and brought him to Ierusalem, and brake downe the wall of Ierusalem, from the gate of Ephraim vnto the corner gate, foure hundreth cubites.

24 And he tooke all the gold and the silver, and all the vessels that were found in the house of God with r Obed Edom, and in the treasures of the kings house, and the children that were in hostage, and returned to Samaria.

r Meaning, the successours of Obed Edom: for the house bare the name of the chiefe father.

25 ¶ And Amaziah the sonne of Ioash king of Iudah lived after the death of Ioash sonne of Iehoahaz king of Israel, fifteene yeere.

26 Concerning the rest of the acts of Amaziah first and last, are they not written in the booke of the kings of Iudah and Israel?

27 Now after the time that Amaziah did turne away from the Lord, * they wrought treason against him in Ierusalem: and when hee was fled to Lachish, they sent to Lachish after him, and slew slew him there.

* 2. King. 14. 18.

18 And they brought him upon horses, and buried him with his fathers in the city of Iudah.

CHAP. XXVI.

1,5 Vzziah obeying the Lord, prospereth in his enterprises. 16 Hee waxeth proud and usurpeth the Priestes office. 19 The Lord plagueth him. 20 The Priests drive him out of the Temple, and exclude him out of the Lords house. 23 His buriall, and his successour.

THen all * the people of Iudah tooke a Uzziah which was sixteene yeare old, and made him king in the stead of his father Amaziah.

2 Hee built b Eloth, and restored it to Iudah, after that the king slept with his fathers.

3 * Sixteene yeare old was Uzziah, when he began to reigne, and he reigned two and fiftie yeare in Ierusalem, and his mothers name was Iecoliah of Ierusalem.

4 And he did uprightly in the sight of the Lord, according to all that his father Amaziah did.

5 And hee sought God in the dayes of c Zechariah (which understood the visions of God) and when as d he sought the Lord, God made him to prosper.

6 For he went foorth and fought against the Philistims, and brake downe the wall of Gath, and the wall of Iabneth, and the wall of Ashdod, and built cities in Ashdod, and among the Philistims.

7 And God helped him against the Philistims, and against the Arabians that dwelt in Gur-baal, and Hammeunim.

8 And the Ammonites gave e gifts to Vzziah, and his name spred to the entring in of Egypt: for he did most valiantly.

9 Moreover Vzziah built towers in Ierusalem at the corner-gate, and at the valley-gate, and at the * turning, and made them strong.

10 And he built towers in the wilderneſse, and digged many ‖ cisternes: for he had much cattell both in the valleys and plaines, plowmen, and dressers of vines in the mountaines, and in g Carmel: for he loved husbandry.

11 Vzziah also had an hoast of fighting-men that went out to warre by bands, according to the count of their number under the hand of Ieiel the Scribe, and Maaseiah the ruler, and under the hand of Hananiah, one of the Kings captaines.

12 The whole h number of the chiefe of the families of the valiant men were two thousand and sixe hundreth.

13 And under their hand was the armie for warre, three hundreth and seven thousand, and five hundreth that fought valiantly to helpe the King against the enemy.

14 And Vzziah prepared them throughout all the hoaste, shields, and speares, and helmets, and brigandines, and bowes, and stones to sling.

15 He made also very † artificiall engins in Ierusalem, to be upon the towers and upon the corners, to shoote arrowes and great stones: and his name spread farre abroad, because God did helpe him marvellously till he was mighty.

16 ¶ But when he was strong, his heart i was lift up to his destruction: for hee transgressed against the Lord his God, and went into the Temple of the Lord to burne incense upon the altar of incense.

17 And Azariah the Priest went in after him: and with him fourescore Priests of the Lord, valiant men.

18 And they withstood Vzziah the King, and said unto him, * It perteineth not to thee, Vzziah, to burne incense unto the Lord, but to the Priests the sonnes of Aaron, that are consecrated for to offer incense: k goe forth of the Sanctuarie: for thou hast transgressed: and thou shalt have none honour of the Lord God.

19 Then Vzziah was wroth, and had incense in his hand to burne it: and while he was wroth with the Priests, the leprosie rose up in his forehead before the Priests in the house of the Lord beside the incense altar.

20 And when Azariah the chiefe Priests with all the Priests looked upon him, behold, hee was leprous in his forehead, and they caused him hastily to depart thence: and he was even compelled to goe out, because the Lord had smitten him.

21 * And Vzziah the King was a leper unto the day of his death, and dwelt as a leper in an l house apart, because he was cut off from the house of the Lord: and Iotham his sonne ruled over the Kings house, and judged the people of the land.

22 Concerning the rest of the acts of Vzziah, first and last, did Isaiah the Prophet the sonne of Amoz write.

23 So Vzziah slept with his fathers, and they buried him with his fathers in the field of the buriall, which perteined to the Kings: for they said, He m is a leper. And Iotham his sonne reigned in his stead.

a Called also Azariah.

b He fortified it and made it strong: this city was also called Elath and Elanon neare to the red Sea.

CHAP. XXVII.

1 Iotham reigned, and overcommeth the Ammonites. 3 His reigne and death. 9 Ahaz his sonne reigneth in his stead.

IOtham * was five and twenty yeare old when he began to reigne, and reigned sixteene yeare in Ierusalem, and his mothers name was Ierushah the daughter of Zadok.

2 And hee did uprightly in the sight of the Lord, according to all that his father Vzziah did, save that he entred not into the a Temple of the Lord, and the people did yet b corrupt their wayes.

3 Hee built the hiec gate of the house of the Lord, and hee built very much on the wall of the castle.

4 Moreover he built cities in the mountaines of Iudah, and in the forrests he built palaces and towers.

5 And he fought with the kings of the children of Ammon, and prevailed against them. And the children of Ammon gave him the same yeare an hundreth talents of silver, and ten thousand † measures of wheate, and ten thousand of barley: this did the children of Ammon give him ‖ both in the second yeare and the third.

6 So Iotham became mighty, d because hee directed his way before the Lord his God.

7 Concerning the rest of the acts of Iotham and all his warres and his wayes, loe, they are written in the booke of the Kings of Israel, and Iudah.

8 He was five and twentie yeare old, when he began to reigne, and reigned sixteene yeare in Ierusalem.

9 And Iotham slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of David: and Ahaz his sonne reigned in his stead.

n Kin.16,7.

A Haz * was twentie yeare old when hee began to reigne, and reigned ſixteene yeere in Ieruſalem, and did not uprightly in the ſight of the Lord, like David his ‖ father.

2 But a he walked in the wayes of the kings of Iſrael, and made even molten images for b Baalim.

3 Moreover he burnt incenſe in the valley of Ben-hinnom, and ‖ burnt his ſonnes with fire, after the abominations of the heathen whom the Lord had caſt out before the children of Iſrael.

4 Hee ſacrificed alſo and burnt incenſe in the high places, and on hils, and under every greene tree.

5 Wherefore the Lord his God delivered him into the hand of the king of the Aramites, and they ſmote him, and tooke of his † many priſoners, and brought them to Damaſcus: and he was alſo delivered into the hand of the king of Iſrael, which ſmote him with a great ſlaughter.

6 For c Pekah the ſonne of Remaliah ſlew in Iudah ſixeſcore thouſand in one day, all † valiant men, becauſe they had forſaken the Lord God of their fathers.

7 And Zichri a ‖ mighty man of Ephraim ſlew Maaſeiah the kings ſonne, and Azrikam the governour of the houſe, and Elkanah the ſecond after the king.

8 And the children of Iſrael tooke priſoners of their brethren, d two hundreth thouſand of women, ſonnes and daughters, and caried away much ſpoile of them, and brought the ſpoile to Samaria.

9 ¶ But there was a Prophet of the Lord, (whoſe name was Obed) and hee went out before the hoaſt that came to Samaria, and ſaid unto them, Behold, e becauſe the Lord God of your fathers is wroth with Iudah, hee hath delivered them into your hand, and ye have ſlaine them in a rage, that reacheth up to heaven.

10 And now yee purpoſe to keepe under the children of Iudah and Ieruſalem, as ſervants and handmaides unto you, but are not you ſuch that f ſinnes are with you before the Lord your God?

11 Now therefore heare mee, and deliver the captives againe, which yee have taken priſoners of your brethren: for the fierce wrath of the Lord is toward you.

12 Wherefore certaine of the chiefe of the children of g Ephraim, Azariah the ſonne of Iehohanan, Berechiah the ſonne of Meſhillemoth, and Iehizkiah the ſonne of Shallum, and Amaſa the ſonne of Hadlai, ſtood up againſt them that came from the warre, 13 And ſaid unto them, Bring not into the captives hither: for this ſhall be h a ſinne upon us againſt the Lord: yee intend to adde more to our ſinnes and to our treſpaſſe, though our treſpaſſe be great, and the fierce wrath of God is againſt Iſrael.

14 So the army left the captives and the ſpoile before the princes and all the Congregation.

15 And the men that were i named by name, roſe up and tooke the priſoners, and with the ſpoile cloathed all that were naked among them, and arayed them, and ſhod them, and gave them meate, and gave them drinke, and k anoynted them, and caried all that were feeble of them upon aſſes, and brought them to Iericho the city of Palme-trees to their ‖ brethren: ſo they returned to Samaria.

16 ¶ At that time did king Ahaz ſend unto the m kings of Aſſhur to helpe him.

17 (For the Edomites came moreover, and ſlew of Iudah, and caried away captives.

18 The Philiſtims alſo invaded the cities in the low-countrey, and toward the South of Iudah, and tooke Bethſhemeſh, and Aialon, and Gederoth, and Shocho, with the villages thereof, and Timnah, with her villages, and Gimzo, with her villages, and they dwelt there.

19 For the Lord had humbled Iudah, becauſe of Ahaz king of n Iſrael, for he had brought vengeance upon Iudah, and had grievouſly tranſgreſſed againſt the Lord.)

n Hee meaneth Iudah, becauſe Ahaz forſooke the Lord and ſought helpe of the infidels. Reade of Iſrael taken for Iudah. Chap.15.17.

20 And Tilgath Pilneeſer king of Aſſhur came unto him, who troubled him and did not ſtrengthen him.

† Ebr. divided.

21 For Ahaz † tooke a portion * out of the houſe of the Lord, and out of the kings houſe and of the princes, and gave unto the king of Aſſhur: yet it helped him not.

* 2.King.16,8.

22 And in the time of his tribulation did hee yet treſpaſſe more againſt the Lord, (this is king Ahaz)

23 For hee ſacrificed unto the gods of Damaſcus, which o plagued him, and he ſaid, Becauſe the gods of the kings of Aram helped them, I will ſacrifice unto them, and they will p helpe mee: yet they were his ruine, and of all ‖ Iſrael.

o As he falſly ſuppoſed.

p Thus the wicked meaſure Gods favour by proſperitie and adverſity: for if idolaters proſper, they make their idoles gods, not conſidering that God puniſheth them oft times whom he loveth, and giveth his enemies good ſucceſſe for a time, whom afterward he will deſtroy.

‖ Or, Iudah and Beniamin.

24 And Ahaz gathered the veſſels of the houſe of God, and brake the veſſels of the houſe of God, and ſhut up the doores of the houſe of the Lord, and made him altars in every corner of Ieruſalem.

25 And in every city of Iudah he made high places to burne incenſe unto other gods, and provoked to anger the Lord God of his fathers.

26 Concerning the reſt of his acts, and all his wayes firſt and laſt, behold, they are written in the booke of the Kings of Iudah, and Iſrael.

‖ Or, in Ieruſalem.

14 And of the ſonnes of Heman, Iehiel, and Shimei: and of the ſonnes of Ieduthun, Shemaiah and Vzziel.

15 And they gathered their brethren, and ſanctified themſelves, & came according to the commandement of the king, and ‖ by the words of the Lord, for to cleanſe the houſe of the Lord.

16 And the Prieſts went into the inner partes of the houſe of the Lord, to f cleanſe it, & brought out all the vncleannesse that they found in the Temple of the Lord, into the court of the houſe of the Lord: and the Levites tooke it, to carie it out vnto the brooke Kidron.

17 They began the firſt day of the g firſt moneth to ſanctifie it, and the eight day of the moneth came they to the porch of the Lord: ſo they ſanctified the houſe of the Lord in eight dayes, and in the ſixteenth day of the firſt moneth, they made an end.

18 ¶ Then they went in to Hezekiah the king, and ſaid, Wee have cleanſed all the houſe of the Lord, and the altar of burnt-offering, with all the veſſels thereof, and the ‖ ſhewbread table, with all the veſſels thereof:

19 And all the veſſels which King Ahaz had caſt aſide when he reigned, and tranſgreſſed, have we prepared and ſanctified: and behold, they are before the altar of the Lord.

20 ¶ And Hezekiah the king h roſe early, and gathered the princes of the citie, and went vp to the houſe of the Lord.

21 And they brought ſeven bullockes, and ſeven rammes, and ſeven lambs, and ſeven hee-goats for a * ſinne offering for the kingdome, and for the ſanctuary, and for Iudah. And he commanded the Prieſts the ſonnes of Aaron, to offer them on the altar of the Lord.

22 So they ſlew the bullocks, and the Prieſtes received the blood, and i ſprinkled it upon the altar: they ſlew alſo the rammes, and ſprinkled the blood upon the altar, and they ſlewe the lambes, and they ſprinkled the blood upon the altar.

23 Then they brought the hee-goates for the ſinne offering before the king and the Congregation, k and they layd their hands upon them.

24 And the Prieſtes ſlewe them, and with the blood of them they cleanſed the altar to reconcile all Iſrael: for the king had commanded for all Iſrael the burnt-offring, and the ſinne offring, 25 He appointed alſo the Levites in the houſe of the Lord with cymbals, with violes, and with harpes, * according to the commandement of David, and Gad the kings Seer, and Nathan the Prophet: for the l commandement was by the hand of the Lord, and by the hand of his Prophets.

26 And the Levites ſtood with the inſtruments of David, and the prieſts with the trumpets.

27 And Hezekiah commanded to offer the burnt offring vpon the altar: and when the burnt offering began, the ſong of the m Lord began with the trumpets, and the inſtruments n of David king of Iſrael.

28 And all the congregation worſhipped, ſinging a ſong, and they blew the trumpets: all this continued vntill the burnt-offering was finiſhed.

29 And when they had made an ende of offering, the king and all that were preſent with him, bowed themſelves, and worſhipped.

30 ¶ Then Hezekiah the king and the princes commaunded the Levites to prayſe the Lord with the o words of David, and of Aſaph the Seer. So they prayſed with ioy, and they bowed themſelves, and worſhipped.

31 And Hezekiah ſpake, and ſayd, Now yee have † conſecrate your ſelves to the Lord: come neere and bring the ſacrifices and offerings of prayſe into the houſe of the Lord. And the Congregation brought ſacrifices and offerings of praiſes, and every man that was willing in heart offred burnt offrings.

32 And the number of the burnt-offerings, which the Congregation brought, was ſeventy bullockes, an hundreth rammes and two hundreth lambs: all theſe were for a burnt-offering to the Lord:

33 And for p ſanctification ſixe hundreth bullockes, and three thouſand ſheepe.

34 But the Prieſts were to few, and were not able to ſlay all the burnt offrings: therefore their brethren the Levites did helpe them, till they had ended the worke, and vntill other Prieſtes were ſanctified: for the Levites were q more upright in heart to ſanctifie themſelves then the Prieſtes.

35 And alſo the burnt offrings were many, with the * fat of the peace offrings and the drinke offerings for the burnt offering: ſo the ſervice of the houſe of the Lord was ſet in order.

36 Then Hezekiah reioyced, and all the people, that God had made the people ſo r ready: for the thing was done ſuddenly.

A Nd Hezekiah ſent to all Iſrael and Iudah, and alſo wrote letters to a Ephraim and Manaſſeh, that they ſhould come to the houſe of the Lord at Ieruſalem, to keep the Paſſeover vnto the Lord God of Iſrael.

2 And the king and his princes and all the Congregation had taken counſell in Ieruſalem to keepe the Paſſeover in the b ſecond moneth.

3 For they could not keepe it at this time, becauſe there were not Prieſts enough ſanctified, neither was the people gathered to Ieruſalem.

4 And the thing pleaſed the king, and all the Congregation.

5 And they decreed to make proclamation thorowout all Iſrael from c Beerſheba even to Dan, that they ſhould come to keepe the Paſſeover unto the Lord God of Iſrael at Ieruſalem: for they had not done it of a great time, d as it was written.

6 ¶ So the poſtes went with letters by the commiſſion of the King and his Princes, thorowout all Iſrael and Iudah, and with the commandement of the King, ſaying, Ye children of Iſrael, turne againe unto the Lord God of Abraham, Izhak, and Iſrael, and e hee will returne to the remnant that are eſcaped of you, out of the hands of the kings of Aſſhur.

7 And be not yee like your fathers, and like your brethren, which treſpaſſed againſt the Lord God of their fathers: and therefore he made them deſolate, as yee ſee.

8 Be not yee now ſtiffenecked like your fathers, but f give the hand to the Lord, and come into his Sanctuarie, which he hath ſanctified for ever, and ſerve the Lord your God, and the fiercenеſſe of his wrath ſhall turne away from you.

9 For if yee returne unto the Lord, your brethren and your children ſhall finde mercie before them that led them captives, and they ſhall g returne unto this land: for the Lord your God is gracious and mercifull, and will not turne away his face from you, if yee convert unto him.

10 ¶ So the poſts went from city to city thorow the land of Ephraim and Manaſſeh, even unto Zebulun: but they h laughed them to ſcorne and mocked them.

11 Nevertheleſſe, divers of Aſher, and Manaſſeh, and of Zebulun, ſubmitted themſelves, and came to Ieruſalem.

12 And the hand of God was in Iudah, ſo that he gave them one i heart to doe the commandement of the king, and of the rulers, according to the word of the Lord.

13 And there aſſembled to Ieruſalem much people, to keepe the feaſt of the unleavened bread in the ſecond moneth, a very great aſſembly.

14 ¶ And they aroſe, and tooke away the k altars that were in Ieruſalem, and all thoſe for incenſe tooke they away, and caſt them into the brooke Kidron.

15 Afterward they ſlewe the paſſeover the fourteenth day of the ſecond moneth: and the Prieſts and Levites were l aſhamed, and ſanctified themſelves, and brought the burnt-offerings into the houſe of the Lord.

16 And they ſtood in their place after their maner, according to the Law of Moſes the man of God: and the Prieſts ſprinkled the m blood received of the hands of the Levites.

17 Becauſe there were many in the Congregation that were not ſanctified, therefore the Levites had the charge of the killing of the Paſſeover for all that were not cleane, to ſanctifie it to the Lord.

18 For a multitude of the people, even a multitude of Ephraim, and Manaſſeh, Iſſachar and Zebulun had not cleanſed themſelves, yet did eate the Paſſeover, but not as it was written: wherefore Hezekiah prayed for them, ſaying, The n good Lord be mercifull toward him, 19 That prepareth his whole heart to ſeeke the Lord God, the God of his fathers, though hee be not cleanſed, according to the purification of the Sanctuarie.

20 And the Lord heard Hezekiah, and o healed the people.

21 And the children of Iſrael that were preſent at Ieruſalem, kept the feaſt of the unleavened bread ſeven dayes with great joy, and the Levites, and the prieſts prayſed the Lord day by day, ſinging with loud inſtruments unto the Lord.

22 And Hezekiah † ſpake comfortably unto all the Levites that had good knowledge to ſing unto the Lord: and they did eate in that feaſt ſeven dayes, and offered peace-offerings, and praiſed the Lord God of their fathers.

23 And the whole aſſembly tooke counſell to keepe it other ſeven dayes. So they kept it ſeven dayes with joy.

24 For Hezekiah king of Iudah had given to the Congregation a p thouſand bullockes, and ſeven thouſand ſheepe. And the princes had given to the Congregation a thouſand bullockes, and ten thouſand ſheepe: and many Prieſts were ſanctified.

25 And all the Congregation of Iudah rejoyced with the Prieſts and the Levites, and all the Congregation that came out of Iſrael, and the ſtrangers that came out of the land of Iſrael, and that dwelt in Iudah.

26 So there was great joy in Ieruſalem: for ſince the time of Salomon the ſonne of David king of Iſrael there was not the like thing in Ieruſalem.

27 Then the Prieſts and the Levites aroſe, and q bleſſed the people, and their voyce was heard, and their prayer came up unto heaven, to his holy habitation.

CHAP. XXXI.

1 The people deſtroy idolatrie. 2 Hezekiah appointeth Prieſts and Levites, 4 And provideth for their livings. 13 He ordaineth overſeers to diſtribute every one his portion.

NOw when all theſe things were finiſhed, all Iſrael, that were found in the cities of Iudah, went out and a brake the images, and cut downe the groves, and brake downe the high places, and the altars thorowout all Iudah and Benjamin, in Ephraim alſo and Manaſſeh, untill they had made an end: afterward all the b children of Iſrael returned every man to his poſſeſſion, into their owne cities.

2 And Hezekiah appointed the courſes of the Prieſts and Levites by their turnes, every man according to his office, both Prieſts and Levites for the burnt-offering and peace-offerings, to miniſter and to give thanks, and to prayſe in the gates of the c tents of the Lord.

3 (And the kings portion was of his owne ſubſtance for the burnt-offerings, even for the burnt-offrings of the morning and of the evening, and the burnt-offerings for the Sabbaths, and for the new moones and for the ſolemne feaſtes, * as it is written in the Law of the Lord)

4 Hee commanded alſo the people that dwelt in Ieruſalem, to give a d part to the Prieſts and Levites, that they might be e encouraged in the law of the Lord.

5 ¶ And when the commandement was f ſpread, the children of Iſrael brought abundance of firſt fruits, of corne, wine, and oyle, and hony, hony, and of all the increase of the field, and the tithes of all things brought they abundantly.

6 And the children of Israel and Iudah that dwelt in the cities of Iudah, they also brought the tithes of bullockes and sheepe, and the holy tithes f which were consecrate unto the Lord their God, and layd them on g many heapes.

f which they had dedicated to the Lord by a vowe.

7 In the third moneth they began to lay the foundation of the heaps, and finished them in the seventh moneth.

8 ¶ And when Hezekiah and the princes came, and saw the heapes, they h blessed the Lord and his people Israel.

g For the relieſe of the Priests, Levites, widowes, pupils, fatherlesse, strangers, and such as were in necessitie.

h They prayſed the Lord and prayed for all prosperity to his people.

9 And Hezekiah questioned with the Priests and the Levites concerning the heapes.

10 And Azariah the chiefe Priest of the house of Zadok answered him, and said, Since the people began to bring the offerings into the house of the Lord, wee have i eaten, and have beene satisfied, and there is left in abundance: for the Lord hath blessed his people, and this abundance that is left.

i He sheweth that this plenteous liberality is expedient for the maintenance of the ministers, and that God therefore prospereth his people, and increaseth by his blessing that which is given.

11 ¶ And Hezekiah commanded to prepare chambers in the house of the Lord: and they prepared them, 12 And caried in the first fruits, and the tithes, and the dedicate things faithfully: and over them was Conaniah the Levite the chiefe, and Shemei his brother the second.

13 And Iehiel, and Azariah and Nahath, and Asahel, and Ierimoth, and Iozabad, and Eliel, and Ismachiah, and Mahath, and Benaiah were overseers † by the appointment of Conaniah, and Shimei his brother, and by the commandement of Hezekiah the King, and of Azariah the chiefe of the house of God.

14 And Kore the sonne of Imnah the Levite, porter toward the East, was over the things that were willingly offered vnto God, to distribute the oblations of the Lord, and the holy things that were consecrate.

15 And at his hand were Eden, and Miniamin, and Iesua, and Shemaiah, Amariah, and Shechaniah, in the cities of the Priests, to distribute with fidelitie to their brethren by courses, both to the great and small,

16 Their dayly portion: beside their generation, being males k from three yeare old and above, even to all that entred into the house of the Lord to their office in their charge, according to their courses:

k Who had also a portion and allowance in this distribution.

17 Both to the generation of the Priests after the house of their fathers, and to the Levites from twenty yeare old and above, according to their charge in their courses.

18 And to the generation of all their children, their wives, and their sonnes, and their daughters throughout all the Congregation: for by their l fidelitie are they partakers of the holy things.

l Meaning, that wither by the faithfull distributions of the officers, every one had their part in the things that were offered, or els that their wives and children were relieved, becauſe the Leuites were faithfull in their office, and so depended on them.

19 Also to the sonnes of Aaron, the Priestes, which were in the fields and suburbs of their cities, in every city the men that were appointed by names, should give portions to all the males of the Priests, and to all the generation of the Levites.

20 And thus did Hezekiah throughout all Iudah, and did well, and vprightly, and truely before the Lord his God.

21 And in all the worke that he began for the service of the house of God, both in the Law and in the commandements, to seeke his God, hee did it with all his heart, and prospered.

CHAP. XXXII.

1 Saneherib inuadeth Iudah. 3 Hezekiah prepareth for the warre. 7 He exhorteth the people to put their trust in the Lord. 9 Saneherib blasphemeth God. 20 Hezekiah prayeth. 21 The Angel destroyeth the Assyrians and the king is slaine. 25 Hezekiah is not thankfull toward the Lord. 33 His death.

5 And † he tooke courage, and built all the broken wall, and made up the towers, and another wall without, and repaired a Millo in the b city of David, and made many c darts and shields.

6 And he set captaines of warre over the people, and assembled them to him in the broad place of the gate of the city, and † spake comfortably vnto them, saying.

† Ebr. he spake to their heart.

7 Be strong and couragious: feare not, neither be afraid for the king of Asshur, neither for all the multitude that is with him: * for there be more with vs, then is with him.

* 2. King. 6. 16.

8 With him is an d arme of flesh, but with vs is the e Lord our God for to helpe vs, and to fight our battels. Then the people were confirmed by the words of Hezekiah king of Iudah.

d That is, the power of man.

e This declareth that Hezekiah did ever put his trust in God, and yet made himselfe strong and used lawfull meanes, least he should seeme to tempt God.

9 * After this did Saneherib king of Asshur send his servants to Ierusalem (while he was f a-gainst Lachish, and all his dominion with him) vnto Hezekiah king of Iudah, and vnto all Iudah that were at Ierusalem, saying,

* 2. King. 18. 17.

f While he besieged Lachish.

10 Thus saith Saneherib the king of Asshur, Wherein doe ye trust, that ye will remaine in Ierusalem, during the siege?

11 Doeth not Hezekiah entise you to give over your selves unto death by famine and by thirst, saying, The Lord our God shall deliver vs out of the hand of the king of Asshur?

g Thus the wicked put no difference betweene true religion and false God and idoles: for Hezekiah onely destroyed idolatry, and placed true religion. Thus the Papists slander the servants of God: for when they destroy idolatry, they say that they abolish religion.

12 Hath not the same Hezekiah taken away his hie places, and his g altars, and commanded Iudah, and Ierusalem, saying, Ye shall worship before one altar, and burne incense vpon it?

13 Know yee not what I and my fathers have done vnto all the people of other c-untreys? were the gods of the nations of other lands able to deliver their land out of mine hand?

14 Who is hee of all the h gods of those nations (that my fathers have destroyed) that could deliver his people out of mine hand, that your God should be able to deliver you out of mine hand?

h This is his blasphemie, that hee will compare the living God to vile idoles.

15 Now therefore let not Hezekiah deceive you, nor seduce you after this sort, neither beleeve ye him: for none of all the gods of any nation or kingdome was able to deliver his people out of i mine hand, and out of the hand of my fathers: how much lesse shall your gods deliver you out of mine hand?

i Whereman hath prosperity, hee swelleth in pride, and thinked himselfe able to resist and overcome even God himselfe.

16 And

16 And his ſervants ſpake yet more againſt the Lord God, and againſt his k ſervant Hezekiah.

17 Hee wrote alſo letters, blaſpheming the Lord God of Iſrael, and ſpeaking againſt him, ſaying, As the gods of the nations of other countries could not deliver their people out of mine hand, ſo ſhall not the God of Hezekiah deliver his people out of mine hand.

18 Then they l cryed with a loud voyce in the Iewes ſpeach vnto the people of Ieruſalem that were on the wall, to feare them and to aſtoniſh them, that they might take the citie.

19 Thus they ſpake againſt the God of Ieruſalem, as againſt the gods of the people of the earth, even the m works of mans hands.

20 But Hezekiah the King, and the Prophet Iſaiah the ſonne of Amoz n prayed againſt this and cryed to heaven.

21 And the Lord ſent an Angel, which deſtroyed all the valiant men, and the princes and o captaines of the hoſte of the king of Aſſhur: ſo he returned † with ſhame to his owne land. And when he was come into the houſe of his god, they that came forth of his P owne bowels, ſlew him there with the ſword.

22 So the Lord ſaved Hezekiah and the inhabitants of Ieruſalem from the hand of Saneherib king of Aſſhur, and from the hand of all other, and ‖ maintained them on every ſide.

23 And many brought offrings vnto the Lord to Ieruſalem, and preſents to Hezekiah king of Iudah, ſo that hee was q magnified in the ſight of all nations from thenceforth.

24 * In thoſe dayes Hezekiah was ſicke vnto the death, and prayed vnto the Lord, who ſpake vnto him, and gave him r a ſigne.

25 But Hezekiah did not render according to the reward beſtowed vpon him: for his heart l was lift vp, and wrath came vpon him, and vpon Iudah and Ieruſalem.

26 Notwithſtanding Hezekiah humbled himſelfe (after that his heart was lifted vp) he and the inhabitants of Ieruſalem, and the wrath of the Lord came not vpon them in the dayes of Hezekiah.

27 Hezekiah alſo had exceeding much riches and honour, and he gate him treaſures of ſilver and of golde, and of precious ſtones, and of ſweete odours, and of ſhields, and of all pleaſant veſſels:

28 And of ſtore houſes for the increaſe of wheate and wine and oyle, and ſtalles for all beaſts, and ‖ rowes for the ‖ ſtables.

29 And he made him cities, and had poſſeſſion of ſheepe and oxen in abundance: for God had given him ſubſtance exceeding much.

30 The ſame Hezekiah alſo ſtopped the vpper water ſprings of t Gihon, and let them ſtreight vnderneath toward the city of David Weſtward: ſo Hezekiah proſpered in all his works.

31 But becauſe of the ambaſſadours of the princes of Babel, which ſent vnto him to enquire of the wonder that was done in the land, God left him to u trie him, and to know all that was in his heart.

32 Concerning the reſt of the actes of Hezekiah, and his goodneſſe, behold, they are written in the viſion of Iſaiah the Prophet the ſonne of Amoz, in the booke of the kings of Iudah and Iſrael.

33 So Hezekiah ſlept with his fathers, and they buried him in the higheſt ſepulchre of the ſonnes of David: and all Iudah and the inhabitants of Ieruſalem did him honour at his dead, and Manaſſeh his ſonne reigned in his ſtead.

9 So Manaſſeh made Iudah and the inhabitants of Ieruſalem to erre, and to doe worſe then the heathen, whom the Lord had deſtroyed before the children of Iſrael.

10 ¶ And the Lord ſpake c to Manaſſeh and to his people, but they would not regard. c Meaning, by his Prophets, but their hearts were not touched to beleeve and repent, without the which the preaching of the word taketh no place.

11 Wherefore the Lord brought vpon them the captaines of the hoaſte of the king of Aſſhur, which tooke Manaſſeh and put him in fetters, and bound him in chaines, and caried him to Babel.

12 And when hee was in tribulation, he prayed to the Lord his God, and humbled himſelfe greatly before the God, of his fathers.

13 And prayed vnto him: and God was d entreated of him, and heard his prayer, and brought him againe to Ieruſalem into his kingdome: then Manaſſeh knew that the Lord was God. d Thus affliction giveth vnderſtanding: for he that hated God in his proſperity, now in his miſerie he ſeeketh vnto him.

14 Now after this hee built a wall without the citie of David, on the Weſt ſide of e Gihon in the valley, even at the entry of the fiſh gate, and compaſſed about f Ophel, and raiſed it very high, and put captaines of warre in all the ſtrong cities of Iudah. e Reade Chap. 32. 30. f Reade Chap. 27.3.

20 So Manasseh slept with his fathers, and they buried him in his owne k house: and Amon his sonne reigned in his stead.

k Because he had so horribly offended against the Lord, they did not bury him in the sepulchres of the Kings, but in the garden of the Kings house.

21 ¶ Amon vvas two and twentie yeere olde, when he began to reigne, and reigned two yeere in Ierusalem.

22 But he did evill in the sight of the Lord, as did Manasseh his father: for Amon sacrificed to all the images, which Manasseh his father had made, and served them.

23 And hee humbled not himselfe before the Lord, as Manasseh his father had humbled himselfe: but this Amon trespassed more and more.

24 And his servants * conspired against him, and slew him in his owne house.

* 2. King. 21, 23.

25 But the people of the land slewe all them that had conspired against King Amon: and the people of the land made Iosiah his sonne King in his stead.

CHAP. XXXIV.

1 Iosiah destroyeth the idoles. 8 And reformeth the Temple. 14 The booke of the Law is found. 21 Hee sendeth to Huldah the Prophetesse for counsell. 27 God heareth his prayer. 31 He maketh a covenant with God.

* 2. King. 22, 1.

IOsiah * vvas eight yeere old when he began to reigne, and hee reigned in Ierusalem one and thirtie yeere.

a He followed David in all points that he followed the Lord.

2 And hee did vprightly in the sight of the Lord, and walked in the wayes of a David his father, and bowed neither to the right hand nor to the left.

b When he was but sixteene yeere old he shewed himselfe zealous of Gods glory, and at twentie yeere olde he abolished idolatry, and restored y^e true religion.

3 And in the eight yeere of his reigne (when he was yet a b childe) he began to seeke after the God of David his father: and in the twelft yeere he began to purge Iudah, and Ierusalem from the hie places, and the groves, and the carved images, and molten images.

c Which sheweth that hee would see the reformation with his owne eyes.

4 And they brake downe c in his sight the altars of Baalim, and he caused to cut downe the images that were on high upon them: hee brake also the groves, and the carved images and the molted images, and stampt them to powder, and strowed it upon the graves of them that had sacrificed unto them.

d Reade 2 King. 23, 16.

5 Also hee burnt the d bones of the Priestes upon their altars, and purged Iudah and Ierusalem.

6 And in the cities of Manasseh, and Ephraim and Simeon, even unto Naphtali, with their maules they brake all round about.

e This great zeale of this godly King the holy Ghost setteth forth as an example and patterne to other kings and rulers, to teach them what God requireth of them.

7 And when he had e destroyed the altars, and the groves, and had broken and stamped to pouder the images, and had cut downe all the idoles throughout all the land of Israel, he returned to Ierusalem.

8 ¶ * Then in the eighteenth yeere of his reigne, when he had purged the land and the temple, he sent Shaphan the sonne of Azaliah and Maaseiah the governour of the citie, and Ioah the sonne of Ioahaz the Recorder to repaire the house of the Lord his God.

* 2. Kings 22, 3.

9 And when they came to Hilkiah the hie Priest, they delivered the money that was brought into the house of God, which the Levites that kept the doore, had gathered at the hand of Manasseh, and Ephraim, and of all the residue of Israel, and of all Iudah and Benjamin, and ‖ of the inhabitants of Ierusalem.

‖ Or, they returned to Ierusalem.

10 And they put it in the hands of them that e should do the worke, and had the oversight in the house of the Lord: and they gave it to the workemen that wrought in the house of the Lord to repaire and amend the house.

e Meaning Shaphan, &c.

11 Even to the workemen and to the builders gave they it to buy hewed stone and timber for couples, and for beames of the f houses, which the kings of Iudah had destroyed.

f For there were many portions and pieces annexed to the Temple.

12 And the men did the worke g faithfully, and the overseers of them vvere Iahath and Obadiah the Levites, of the children of Merari, and Zechariah, and Methullam, of the children of the Kohathites to set it forward: and of the Levites all that could skill of instruments of musicke.

g Meaning, that they were in such credite for their fidelitie, that they made none accounts of that which they received. 2. King. 22, 7. 9.

13 And they vvere over the bearers of burdens, and them that set forward all the workemen in every worke: and of the Levites vvere scribes, and officers and porters.

14 ¶ And when they brought out the money that was brought into the house of the Lord, Hilkiah the Priest found the h booke of the Law of the Lord given by the hand of Moses.

h Reade 2. king. 22, 8.

15 Therefore Hilkiah answered and said to Shaphan the chanceller, I have found the booke of the Law in the house of the Lord: and Hilkiah gave the booke to Shaphan.

16 And Shaphan caried the booke to i the King, and brought the King word againe, saying, All that is committed to the hand of thy servants, that doe they.

i For the king was commanded to have continually a copie of this booke, and to reade therein day and night, Deut. 17, 18.

17 For they have gathered the money that was found in the house of the Lord, and have delivered it into the hands of the overseers, and to the hand of the workemen.

18 Also Shaphan the chanceller declared to the King, saying, Hilkiah the Priest hath given me a booke, and Shaphan read it before the King.

19 And when the King had heard the wordes of the Law, he k tare his cloathes.

k For sorow that the word of God had bene so long suppressed and the people kept in ignorance considering also the curses conteined therein against the transgressours.

20 And the King commaunded Hilkiah and Ahikam the sonne of Shaphan, and Abdon the sonne of Micah, and Shaphan the chanceller, and Asaiah the kings servant, saying,

21 Goe and enquire of the Lord for mee, and for the rest in Israel and Iudah, concerning the wordes of this booke that is found: for great is the wrath of the Lord that is fallen upon vs, because our l fathers have not kept the worde of the Lord, to doe after all that is written in this booke.

l Thus the godly doe not onely lament their owne sinnes, but also that their fathers and predecessours have offended God,

22 Then Hilkiah and they that the king had appointed went to Huldah the propheteſſe the wife of Shallum, the sonne of ‖ Tokhath, the sonne of

‖ Or, Tikvah. ‖ Hasrah

‖ Hasrah keeper of the m wardrobe (and she dwelt in Ierusalem within the n colledge) and they communed hereof with her.

23 And she answered them, Thus sayeth the Lord God of Israel, Tell ye o the man that sent you to me,

24 Thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will bring evill upon this place, and upon the inhabitants thereof, even all the curses, that are written in the booke which they have read before the King of Iudah:

25 Because they have forsaken mee, and burnt incense unto other gods, to anger me with all the works of their p hands, therefore shall my wrath fall upon this place, and shall not be quenched.

26 But to the king of Iudah, who sent you to enquire of the Lord, so shall ye say unto him, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, The wordes which thou hast heard, shall come to passe.

27 But because thine heart did q melt, and thou diddest humble thy selfe before God, when thou heardest his words against this place, and against the inhabitants thereof, and humblest thy selfe before mee, and tarest thy cloathes, and wepteſt before mee, I have also heard it, saith the Lord.

28 Behold, I will gather thee to thy fathers, and thou shalt be put in thy grave to peace, and thine eyes shall not see all the evill, which I will bring upon this r place, and upon the inhabitants of the same. Thus they brought the King word againe.

29 ‖ Then the King sent and gathered all the Elders of Iudah and Ierusalem.

30 And the King went up into the house of the Lord, and all the men of Iudah, and the inhabitants of Ierusalem, and the Priestes and the Levites, and all the people from the greatest to the s smallest, and he read in their eares all the words of the booke of the Covenant that was found in the house of the Lord.

31 And the King stood by his pillar, and made a covenant before the Lord, to walke after the Lord, and to keepe his commandement, and his testimonies, and his statutes with all his heart, and with all his soule, and that he would accomplish the words of the Covenant written in the same booke.

32 And he caused all that were found in Ierusalem, and Beniamin to stand to it: and the inhabitants of Ierusalem did according to the Covenant of God, even the God of their fathers.

33 So Iosiah tooke away all the abominations out of all the countreys that perteined to the children of Israel, and compelled all t that were found in Israel, to serve the Lord their God: so all his dayes they turned not backe from the Lord God of their fathers.

CHAP. XXXV.

1 Iosiah keepeth the Passeover. 3 He setteth forth Gods service. 20 He fighteth against the King of Egypt, and dieth. 24 The people bewaile him.

MOreover, * Iosiah kept a Passeover unto the Lord in Ierusalem, and they slew the a Passeover in the fourteenth day of the first moneth.

2 And he appointed the Priests to their charges, and encouraged them to the service of the house of the Lord,

3 And he sayd unto the Levites that b taught all Israel and were sanctified unto the Lord, Put the holy Arke in the house which Salomon the sonne of David King of Israel did build: it shall be no more a c burden upon your shoulders: serve now the Lord your God, and his people Israel,

4 And prepare your selves by the houses of your fathers according to your courses, as * David the king of Israel hath written, and according to the writing of Salomon his sonne,

5 And stand in the Sanctuary according to the division of the families of your brethren ‖ the children of the people, and after the division of the familie of the Levites:

6 So kill the Passeover, and sanctifie your selves, and d prepare your brethren that they may doe according to the worde of the Lord by the hand of Moses.

7 Iosiah also gave to the † people sheepe, lambs and kidds, all for the Passeover, even to all that were present, to the number of thirtie thousand, and three thousand bullockes: these were of the Kings substance.

8 And his princes offred willingly unto the people, to the Priests and to the Levites: Hilkiah, and Zechariah, and Iehiel, rulers of the house of God gave unto the Priests for the Passeover, even two thousand and sixe hundreth sheepe, and three hundreth bullocks.

9 e Conaniah also and Seemiah and Nethaneel his brethren, and Hashabiah and Ieiel, and Iozabad, chiefe of the Levites gave unto the Levites for the Passeover, five thousand sheepe, and siue hundreth bullocks.

10 Thus the sevice was prepared, and the Priests stood in their places, also the Levites in their orders, according to the kings commandement:

11 And they slewe the Passeover, and the Priests f sprinkled the blood with their hands, and the Levites flayed them.

12 And they tooke away from the g burnt offering to give it according to the divisions of the families of the children of the people, to offer unto the Lord, as it is written in the booke of Moses, and so of the bullocks.

13 And * they rosted the Passeover with fire, according to the custome, but the sanctified things they sod in pots, pannes, and cauldrons, and distributed them quickly to all the people.

14 Afterward also they prepared for themselves and for the Priests: for the Priestes the sonnes of Aaron were occupied in offring of burnt offerings, and the fat until night: therefore the Levites prepared for themselves, and for ŷ Priests the sonnes of Aaron.

15 And the singers the sonnes of Asaph stood in their standing * according to the commandement of David, and Asaph, and Heman, and Ieduthun the kings h Seer: and the porters at every gate, who might not depart from their service: therefore their brethren the Levites prepared for them.

16 So all the service of the Lord was prepared the same day to keepe the Passeover, and to offer burnt-offrings upon the altar of the Lord, according to the commaundement of King Iosiah.

17 And the children of Israel that were present, kept the Passeover the same time, and the feasts of the vnleavened bread seven dayes.

18 And there was no Passeover kept like that in Israel, from the dayes of Samuel the Prophet: neither r It may appeare that very fewe were touched with true repentance, seeing that God spared them for a time onely for the kings sake.

s Forasmuch as neither yong nor old could be exempted from the curses conteined therein, if they did transgresse, he knew it perteined to all, and was his duetie to see it read to all sorts, that every one might learne to avoyd those punishments by serving God aright.

t Because he had charge over all, and must answere for every one that perished: he thought it his duetie to see that all should make profession to receive the word of God.

l That is, armed himselfe, or disguised himselfe, because hee might not be knowen.

23 And the shooters shot at king Iosiah: then the king said unto his servants, Cary me away, for I am very sicke.

24 So his servants tooke him out of that charet, and put him in the second charet which hee had, and when they had brought him to Ierusalem, he died, and was buried in the sepulchres of his fathers: and all Iudah and Ierusalem m mourned for Iosiah.

m The people so much lamented the losse of this good king, that after when there was any great lamentation this was spoken of as a proverbe, reade Zach. 12. 11.

14 All the chiefe of the Priests also and of the people trespassed wonderfully, according to all the abominations of the heathen, and polluted the house of the Lord which hee had sanctified in Ierusalem.

The prayer of Manaſſeh King of the Iewes.

This prayer is not in the Ebrew, but tranſlated out of the Greeke.

O Lord almighty, God of our fathers, Abraham, Iſaac, and Iacob, and of their righteous ſeed, which haſt made heaven and earth with all their ornament, which haſt bound the ſea by the word of thy commandement, which haſt ſhut up the depth, and ſealed it by thy terrible and glorious Name, whom all doe feare, and tremble before thy power: for the Majeſtie of thy glory cannot be borne, and thine angry threatning toward ſinners is importable, but thy mercifull promiſe is vnmeaſurable and vnſearchable. For thou art the moſt high Lord, of great compaſſion, long ſuffering, and moſt mercifull, and repenteſt for mans miſeries. Thou, O Lord, according to thy great goodneſſe haſt promiſed a repentance and forgiveneſſe to them that ſinne againſt thee, and for thine infinite mercies haſt appointed repentance unto ſinners that they may be ſaved. Thou therefore, O Lord, that art the God of the juſt, haſt not appointed repentance to the juſt, as to Abraham, and Iſaac and Iacob, which have not b ſinned againſt thee, but thou haſt appointed repentance unto me that am a ſinner: for I have ſinned above the number of the ſand of the ſea. My tranſgreſſions, O Lord, are multiplied: my tranſgreſſions are exceeding many: and I am not worthy to behold and ſee the height of the heavens for the multitude of mine vnrighteouſnes, I am bowed downe with many yron bands, that I cannot lift up mine head, neither have any releaſe. For I have provoked thy wrath, and done evill before thee, I did not thy will, neither kept I thy commandements. I have ſet up abominations, and have multiplied offences. Now therefore I bowe the knee of mine heart, beſeeching thee of grace. I have ſinned, O Lord, I have ſinned, and I acknowledge my tranſgreſſions: but I humbly beſeech thee, forgive me: O Lord, forgive me, and deſtroy me not with my tranſgreſſions. Be not angry with me for ever by reſerving evill for me, neither condemne me into the lower parts of the earth. For thou art the God, even the God of them that repent: and in me thou wilt ſhew all thy goodnes: for thou wilt ſave mee that am vnworthy, according to thy great mercy: therefore I will prayſe thee for ever all the dayes of my life: for all the power of the heavens prayſe thee, and thine is the glory for ever and ever. Amen.

a Thou haſt promiſed that repentance ſhalbe the way for them to returne to thee.
b Hee ſpeaketh this in compariſon of himſelfe, and thoſe holy fathers which have their commendation in the Scriptures, ſo that in reſpect of himſelf, he calleth [illegible] nothing, but attributeth unto [illegible] righteouſnes.

THE ARGUMENT.

AS the Lord is ever mercifull unto his Church, and doeth not puniſh them, but to the intent they ſhould ſee their owne miſeries, and be exerciſed under the croſſe, that they might contemne the world, and aſpire unto the heavens: ſo after that hee had viſited the Iewes, and kept them now in bondage ſeventie yeares in a ſtrange countrey among infidels and idolaters, hee remembred his tender mercies and their infirmities, and therefore for his owne ſake raiſed them up a deliverer, and moved both the heart of the chiefe ruler to pitie them, and alſo by him puniſhed ſuch, which had kept them in ſervitude. Notwithſtanding, leaſt they ſhould growe into a contempt of Gods great benefites, hee keepeth them ſtill in exerciſe, and raiſeth domeſticall enemies, which endevour as much as they can to hinder their moſt worthy enterpriſes: yet by the exhortation of the Prophet they went forward by little and little, till their worke was finiſhed. The author of this booke was Ezra, who was Prieſt and Scribe of the Law, as Chap. 7. 6. Hee returned to Ieruſalem the ſixth yeare of Darius, who ſucceeded Cyrus, that is, about fiftie yeares after the returne of the firſt under Zerubbabel, when the Temple was built. Hee brought with him a great company and much treaſures, with letters to the Kings officers for all ſuch things as ſhould be neceſſary for the Temple: and at his comming hee redreſſed that which was amiſſe, and ſet things in good order.

* 1. Eſdr. 5. 47.
a Called Tiſhri which anſwereth to part of September and part of October,

BUt a the adverſaries of Iudah and Beniamin heard, that the children of the captivitie builded the Temple unto the Lord God of Iſrael.

2 And they came to Zerubbabel, and to the chiefe fathers, and ſaid unto them, We will build with you: for we ſeeke the Lord your God as yee doe, and we have ſacrificed unto him ſince the time of Eſar Haddon king of Aſſhur, which brought us up hither.

3 Then Zerubbabel, and Ieſhua, and the reſt of the chiefe fathers of Iſrael ſaid unto them, It is not for you, but for vs to build the houſe unto our God: b for wee our ſelves together will build it unto the Lord God of Iſrael, as king Cyrus the king of Perſia hath commanded us.

4 Wherefore the people of the land † diſcouraged the people of Iudah, and troubled them in building.

5 And they c hired counſellers againſt them, to hinder their deviſe all the dayes of Cyrus king of Perſia, even vntill the reigne of Darius king of Perſia.

6 And in the reigne of d Ahaſhueroſh (in the beginning of his reigne) wrote they an accuſation againſt the inhabitants of Iudah and Ieruſalem.

7 And in the dayes of e Artahſhaſhte, Mithredath, Tabeel, and the reſt of their companions wrote when it was peace, unto Artahſhaſhte king of Perſia, and the writing of the letter was the Aramites writing, and the thing declared vvas in the language of the Aramites.

8 Rehum the ‖ chancellour, and Shimſhai the ſcribe wrote a letter againſt Ieruſalem to Artahſhaſhte the king, in this ſort.

9 Then vvrote Rehum the chancellour, and Shimſhai the ſcribe, and their companions f Dinaie, and Apharſathcaie, Tarpelai, Apharſaie, Archevaie, Bablaie, Shuſhanchaie, Dehave, Elmaie,

10 And the reſt of the people whom the great and noble g Aſnappar brought over, and ſet in the cities of Samaria, and other that are beyond the h River and i Cheeneth.

11 ¶ This is the copie of the letter that they ſent unto King Artahſhaſhte. THY SERVANTS the men byond the River and Cheeneth, ſalute thee.

12 Be it knowen unto the King that the Iewes, which came up from thee to vs, are come unto Ieruſalem (a citie rebellious and wicked) and build, and lay the foundations of the walles, and have ioyned the foundations.

13 Be it knowen now unto the king, that if this citie be built, and the foundations of the wals layd, they will not give tolle, tribute, nor k cuſtome: ſo ſhall thou hinder the kings tribute.

14 Now therefore becauſe † wee have beene brought up in the Kings palace, it was not meete for vs to ſee the Kings diſhonour: for this cauſe have we ſent and certified the King,

15 That one may ſearch in the booke of the Chronicles of thy fathers, and thou ſhalt finde in the booke of the Chronicles, and perceive that this citie is rebellious and noyſome unto kings and provinces, and that they have mooved ſedition of old time, for the which cauſe this citie was deſtroyed.

16 We certifie the king therefore, that if this citie be builded, and the foundation of the walles laid, by this meanes the portion beyond the River ſhall not be thine.

17 ¶ The King ſent an anſwere unto Rehum the chancellour, and Shimſhai the ſcribe, and to the reſt of their companions that dwelt in Samaria, and unto the other beyond the River l Shelam and m Cheeth.

18 ¶ The letter which yee ſent unto us, hath bene openly read before me, 19 And I have commanded and they have ſearched, and found, that this citie of olde time hath made inſurrection againſt kings, and hath rebelled, and rebellion hath beene committed therein.

20 There have bene mightie kings alſo over Ieruſalem, which have ruled over all beyond the River, and tolle, tribute and cuſtome was given unto them.

21 Make ye now a decree that thoſe men may ceaſe, and that the citie be not built, till I have given another commandement.

22 Take heed now that yee faile not to doe this: why ſhould domage grouw to hurt the king?

23 When the copy of king Artahſhaſhtes letter was read before Rehum and Shimſhai the ſcribe, and their companions, they went up in all the haſte to Ieruſalem unto the Iewes, and cauſed them to ceaſe by force and power.

24 Then n ceaſed the work of the houſe of God, which was in Ieruſalem, and did ſtay unto the ſecond yeere of Darius king of Perſia.

THen ‖ * Haggai a Prophet, and Zechariah the ſonne of Iddo a Prophet prophecied unto the Iewes that were in Iudah, and Ieruſalem, in the Name of the God of Iſrael, even unto them.

2 Then Zerubbabel the ſonne of Shealtiel, and Ieſhua the ſonne of Iozadak aroſe, and began to build the houſe of God at Ieruſalem, and with them vvere the Prophets of God, which a helped them.

3 ¶ At the ſame time came to them Tatnai which was captaine beyond the River, and Shether-boznai, and their companions, and ſaid this unto them, Who hath given you commaundement to build this houſe, and to lay the foundations of theſe walles?

4 b Then ſaid we unto them after this maner, What are the names of the men that build this building?

5 But the c eye of their God was upon the Elders of the Iewes, that they could not cauſe them to ceaſe, till the matter came to Darius: and then they anſwered by letters thereunto.

8 Be it knowen unto the king, that we went into the province of Iudea, to the houſe of the great God, which is builded with ‖ great ſtones, and beames are laid in the walles, and this worke is wrought ſpeedily, and proſpereth in their hands.

9 Then asked we thoſe Elders, and ſayd unto them thus, Who hath given you commandement to build this houſe, and to lay the foundation of theſe walles?

10 We asked their names also that we might certifie thee, and that we might write the names of the men that were their rulers.

11 But they answered vs thus and said, We are the seruants of the God of heauen and earth, and build the house that was build of old and many yeeres agoe, which a[d] great king of Israel * builded, and founded it.

12 But after that our fathers had prouoked the God of heauen vnto wrath, * hee gaue them ouer into the hand of Nebuchad-nezzar king of Babel the Caldean, and he destroyed this house, and caried the people away captiue vnto Babel.

13 But in the [e] first yeere of Cyrus king of Babel, King Cyrus made a decree to build this house of God:

14 And the vessels of golde and siluer of the house of God, which Nebuchadnezzar tooke out of the Temple that was in Ierusalem, and brought them into the Temple of Babel, those did Cyrus the king take out of the Temple of Babel, and they gaue them vnto one [f] Sheshbazzar by his name, whom he had made captaine.

15 And he said vnto him, Take these vessels and go thy way, and put them in the Temple that is in Ierusalem, and let the house of God be built in his place.

16 Then came the same Sheshbazzar and layd the foundation of the house of God, which is in Ierusalem, and since that time euen vntill now, hath it beene in building, yet is it not finished.

17 Now therefore if it please the king, let there be search made in the house of the kings [g] treasures, which is there in Babel, whether a decree hath bin made by king Cyrus, to build this house of God in Ierusalem, and let the King send his minde concerning this.

CHAP. VI.

At the commandement of Darius king of Persia, after the Temple was builded and dedicate, the children of Israel keepe the feast of vnleauened bread.

THen * king Darius gaue commandement, and they made search in the † library of the treasures, which were there laid up in Babel.

2 And there was found in a [n] coffer (in the place that was in the province of the Medes) a volume, and therein was it thus written, as a memoriall.

3 IN THE FIRST yeere of king Cyrus, King Cyrus made a decree for the house of God in Ierusalem, Let the house be built, euen the place where they offered sacrifices, and let the walles thereof be ioyned togethet: let the height thereof be threescore cubites, and the breadth thereof threescore cubites.

4 Three ‖ orders of ‖ great stones, and one order of timber, and let the expences be given of the kings house.

5 And also let them render the vessels of the house of God (of golde and silver, which Nebuchad-nezzar tooke out of the Temple, which was in Ierusalem, and brought vnto Babel) and let [b] him goe vnto the Temple that is in Ierusalem to his place, and put them in the house of God.

6 Therefore Tatnai captaine beyond the river, and Shathar-boznai, (and their companions Apharsecaie, which are beyond the River) be yee farre [c] from thence.

7 Suffer yee the worke of this house of God, that the captaine of the Iewes and the Elders of the Iewes may builde this house of God in his place.

8 For I haue given a commandement what ye shall doe to the Elders of these Iewes, for the building of this house of God, that of the reuenues of the King, which is of the tribute beyond the River, there be incontinently expenses given vnto these men that they [d] cease not.

9 And that which they shall haue neede of, let it be given vnto them day by day, whether it be yong bullocks, or rammes, or lambes for the burnt-offrings of the God of heaven, wheat, salt, wine and oyle, according to the appoyntment of the Priests that are in Ierusalem, that there be no fault.

10 That they may haue to offer sweet odours vnto the God of heaven, and pray for the Kings life, and for his sonnes.

11 And I haue made a decree, that whosoeuer shall alter this sentence, the wood shall be pulled downe from his house, and shall be set up, and he shall be hanged thereon, and his house shall be made a dungill for this:

12 And the God that hath caused his Name [e] to dwell there, destroy all kings and people that put to their hand to alter and to destroy this house of God, which is in Ierusalem. I Darius haue made a decree, let it be done with speed.

13 ¶ * Then Tatnai the Captaine beyond the River, and Shethar Boznai and their companions, according to that which Darius had sent, so they did speedily.

14 So the elders of the Iewes builded, and they prospered by the prophecying of [f] Haggai ♆ Prophet, and Zechariah the sonne of Iddo, and they builded and finished it, by the appoyntment of the God of Israel, and by the commandement of Cyrus and Darius, and Artahshashte king of Persia.

15 And this house was finished the third day of the moneth g Adar, which was [h] the sixt yeere of the regine of King Darius.

16 ¶ And the children of Israel, the Priests, and the Levites, and the residue of the children of the captivitie kept the dedication of this house of God with ioy.

17 And offered at the dedication of this house of God an hundreth bullocks, two hundreth rams, foure hundreth lambes, and twelve goats, for the sinne of all Israel, according to the number of the tribes of Israel.

18 And they set the Priests in their order, and the Levites in their courses over the service of God in Ierusalem, as it is written in the * booke of Moses.

19 And the children of the captivitie kept the Passeover on the fourteenth day of the first moneth.

20 (For the Priests and the Levites were purified altogether) and they killed the Passeover for all the children of the captivitie, and for their brethren the Priests, and for themselves.

21 So the children of Israel which were come againe out of captivity, and all such as had [i] separated themselves unto them, from the filthinesse of the Heathen of the land to seeke the Lord God of Israel, did eate.

22 And they kept the feast of vnleavened bread seven dayes with ioy: for the Lord had made them glad, and turned the heart of the king of [k] Asshur unto them, to † incourage them in the worke of the house of God, even the God of Israel.

23 So wee faſted, and beſought our God for this: and he was intreated of vs.

24 Then I ſeparated twelue of the chiefe of the Prieſts, Sherebiah and Haſhabiah, and ten of their brethren with them.

25 And weighed them the ſiluer and the gold and the veſſels, euen the offering of the houſe of our God, vvhich the king and his counſellers and his Princes, and all Iſrael that were preſent had offered.

26 And I weighed vnto their hand ſixe hundreth and fiftie h talents of ſiluer, and in ſiluer veſſell an hundreth talents, and in golde, an hundreth talents.

27 And twentie baſons of gold, of a thouſand i drammes, and two veſſels of ſhining braſſe very good, and precious as golde.

28 ¶ And I ſaid vnto them, Yee are conſecrate vnto the Lord, and the veſſels are conſecrate, and the gold and the ſiluer are freely offered vnto the Lord God of your fathers.

29 Watch yee, and keepe them vntill ye weight them before the chiefe Prieſtes and the Leuites, and the chiefe fathers of Iſrael in Ieruſalem in the chambers of the houſe of the Lord.

30 So the Prieſts and the Leuites receiued the weight of the ſiluer, and of the gold, and of the veſſels to bring them to Ieruſalem, vnto the houſe of our God.

31 ¶ Then we departed from the riuer of Ahaua on the twelfth day of the firſt moneth, to go vnto Ieruſalem, and the hand of our God was vpon vs, and deliuered vs from the hand of the enemie, and of ſuch as laid k wait by the way.

32 And we came to Ieruſalem, and aboade there three dayes.

33 And on the fourth day was the ſiluer weighed, and the gold, and the veſſell, in the houſe of our God, by the hand of Meremoth the ſonne of Vriah the Prieſt, and with him vvas Eleazar the ſonne of Phinehaz, and with them vvas Iozabad the ſonne of Ieſhua, and Noadiah the ſonne of Binnui the l Leuites, 34 By number and by weight of euery one, and all the weight was written at the ſame time.

35 Alſo the children of the captiuitie, which were come out of captiuitie, offred burnt offrings vnto the God of Iſrael, twelue bullocks for all Iſrael, ninetie and ſixe rammes, ſeuentie and ſeuen lambes, and twelue hee goates for ſinne: all vvas a burnt offering of the Lord.

36 And they deliuered the Kings commiſſion vnto the Kings officers, and to the captaines beyond the riuer: and they promoted the people, and the houſe of God.

2 For they have taken their daughters to themſelues, and to their ſonnes, and they have mixed the holy ſeed with the people of he lands, and the hand of the b Princes and rulers have bene chiefe in this treſpaſſe.

3 But when I heard this ſaying, I rent my cloathes and my garment, and pluckt off the haire of mine head, and of my beard, and ſate downe c aſtonied.

4 And there aſſembled vnto mee all that feared the words of the God of Iſrael, becauſe of the tranſgreſſion of them of the captiuitie. And I ſate downe aſtonied vntill the * euening ſacrifice.

5 And at the euening ſacrifice I roſe vp from mine heauineſſe, and when I had rent my cloathes and my garment, I fell vpon my knees, and ſpread out mine hands vnto the Lord my God,

CHAP. X.

1 The people repent and turne, and put away their ſtrange wiues.

WHiles * Ezra prayed thus, and a confeſſed himſelfe weeping, and falling downe before the houſe of God, there aſſembled vnto him of Iſrael a very great Congregation of men and women and children: for the people wept with a great lamentation.

2 Then Shechaniah the ſonne of Iehiel one of the ſonnes of Elam anſwered, and ſaid to Ezra, We haue treſpaſſed againſt our God, and haue taken ſtrange wiues of the people of the land, yet now there is b hope in Iſrael concerning this.

3 Now therefore let vs make a couenant with our God, to put away c all the wiues (and ſuch as are borne of them) according to the counſell of the Lord, and of thoſe that feare the commandements of our God, and let it be done according to the Law.

4 Ariſe: for the matter d belongeth vnto thee: wee alſo wil be with thee: be of comfort & doe it.

5 ¶ Then aroſe Ezra, and cauſed the chiefe Prieſts, the Leuites, and all Iſrael, to ſweare that they would doe according to this word. So they ſware.

6 * And Ezra roſe vp from before the houſe of God, and went into the chamber of Iohanan the ſonne of Eliaſhib: hee went even thither, but he did eat neither bread nor drunke water: for he mourned, becauſe of the tranſgreſſion of them of the captiuitie.

7 And they cauſed a proclamation to goe throughout Iudah and Ieruſalem, vnto † all them of the captiuitie, that they ſhould aſſemble themſelues vnto Ieruſalem.

8 And whoſoeuer would not come within three dayes according to the counſell of the Princes and Elders, all his ſubſtance ſhould be ‖ forfeit, and he ſhould be ſeparate from the Congregation of them of the captiuitie.

9 ¶ Then all the men of Iudah and Beniamin aſſembled themſelues vnto Ieruſalem within three dayes, which was the twintieth day of the e ninth moneth, and all the people ſate in the ſtreete of the houſe of God, trembling for this matter, and for the f raine.

10 And Ezra the Prieſt ſtood up, and ſaid vnto them, Ye haue tranſgreſſed and haue taken ſtrange wiues, to g increaſe the treſpaſſe of Iſrael.

11 Now therefore h giue praiſe vnto the Lord God of your fathers, and doe his will, and ſeparate your ſelues from the people of the land, and from the ſtrange wiues.

12 And all the Congregation anſwered, and ſaid with a loud voyce, So will we doe according to thy words vnto us.

13 But the people are many, and it is a raynie weather, and wee are not able to ſtand without, neither is it the worke of one day or two: for we are many that haue offended in this thing:

14 Let our rulers ſtand therefore i before all the Congregation, and let all them which haue taken ſtrange wiues in our cities, come at the time appoynted, and with him the Elders of euery city and the iudges thereof, till the fierce wrath of our God for this matter turne away from vs

15 Then were appointed Ionathan the ſonne of Aſah-el, and Iahaziah, the ſonne of Tikuah ouer this matter, and Meſhullam and Shabbethai the Leuites helped them.

16 And they of the captiuitie did ſo, and k departed, euen Ezra the Prieſt, and the men that were chiefe fathers to the family of their fathers by name, and ſate downe in the firſt day of the tenth moneth to examine the matter.

17 And vntill the firſt day of the firſt moneth they were finiſhing the buſineſſe with all the men that had taken ſtrange wiues.

18 And of the ſonnes of the Prieſt there were men found, that had taken ſtrange wiues, to wit, of the ſonnes of Ieſhua, the ſonne of Iozadak, and of his brethren, Maaſeiah, Aeliezer, and Iarib, and Gedaliah.

CHAP. I.

4 Nehemiah bewaileth the calamitie of Ieruſalem. 5 Hee confeſſeth the ſinnes of the people, and praiſeth God for them.

o Which conteineth part of Nouember and part of December, and was their ninth moneth.

THe words of Nehemiah the ſonne of Hachaliah. In the moneth a Chiſleu, in the twentieth yeere, as I was in the palace of Shuſhan, b A Iew as I was.

2 Came Hanani, one of my b brethren, hee and the men of Iudah, and I asked them concerning the Iewes that were deliuered, which were of the reſidue of the captiuitie, and concerning Ieruſalem.

a Meaning, in Iudea.

3 And they ſaid vnto me, The reſidue that are left of the captiuitie there in the c prouince, are in great affliction and in reproach, and the wall of Ieruſalem is broken downe, and the gates thereof are burnt with fire.

4 And when I heard theſe words, I ſate downe and wept, and mourned certaine dayes, and I faſted and prayed before the God of heaven,

* Dan. 9 4.

5 And ſaid, * O Lord God of heaven, the great and terrible God, that keepeth couenant and mercie for them that loue him, and obſerue his commandements,

6 I pray thee let thine eares be attent, and thine eyes open, to heare the prayer of thy ſeruant, which I pray before thee daily, day and night for the children of Iſrael thy ſeruants, and confeſſe the ſinnes of the children of Iſrael, which wee haue ſinned againſt thee, both I and my fathers houſe haue ſinned:

7 Wee haue ‖ grieuouſly ſinned againſt thee, and haue not kept the commandements, nor the ſtatutes, nor the iudgements, which thou commandedſt thy ſeruant Moſes.

8 I beſeech thee, remember the worde that thou commandedſt thy ſeruant Moſes, ſaying, Yee will tranſgreſſe, and * I will ſcatter you abroad among the people.

* Deut 29.21.28.

9 But if yee returne vnto mee, and keepe my commandements, and doe them, * though your ſcattering were to the vttermoſt part of the heauen, yet will I gather you from thence, and will bring you vnto the place that I haue choſen to place my Name there.

* Deut. 30 4.

10 Now theſe are thy ſeruants and thy people whom thou haſt redeemed by thy great power, and by thy mightie hand.

11 O Lord, I beſeech thee, let thine eare now hearken to the prayer of thy ſeruant, and to the prayer of thy ſeruants, who deſire to d deſare thy Name, and I pray thee, cauſe thy ſeruant to proſper this day, and giue him fauour in the preſence of e this man: for I was the kings butler.

d That is, to worſhip thee.

e To, wit, the king Artahſhaſhte.

CHAP. II.

1 After Nehemiah had obtained letters of Artaxerxes. 11 hee came to Ieruſalem, 17 and builded the walles.

NOw in the moneth a Niſan in the twentieth yeere of king b Artahſhaſhte, the wine ſtoode before him, and I tooke vp the wine, and gaue it vnto the king, Now I was not beforetime ſadde in his preſence.

a Which was the firſt moneth of the yeere, and conteineth part of March and part of Aprill.

b Who is alſo called Darius, read Ezra 7.1. and was the ſonne of Hyſtaſpis.

2 And the king ſayd vnto mee, Why is thy countenance ſad ſeeing thou art not ſicke? this is nothing, but ſorow of heart. Then was I fore afraid,

3 And I ſaid to the King, God ſaue the king for ever: why ſhould not my countenance be ſad, when the citie and houſe of the ſepulchres of my fathers lieth waſte, and the gates thereof are deuoured with fire?

4 And the king ſaid vnto me, For what thing doeſt thou require? Then I prayed c to the God of heaven, c I deſired God in mine heart to proſper mine enterpriſe.

5 And

5 And ſaid vnto the king, If it pleaſe the king, and if thy ſeruant haue found fauour in thy ſight, I deſire that thou wouldeſt ſend me to Iudah vnto the citie of the ſepulchres of my fathers, that I may build it.

6 And the King ſaid vnto mee, (the Queene alſo ſitting by him:) How long ſhall thy iourney be? and when wilt thou come againe? So it pleaſed the king, and he ſent me, and I ſet him a time.

7 After, I ſaid vnto the King, If it pleaſed the kings, let him give me letters to the captaines beyong the ‖ River, that they may conuey me ouer, till I come into Iudah.

‖ Or, Euphrates.

8 And letters vnto Aſaph the keeper of the kings ‖ parke, that hee may give mee timber to build the gates of the palace (which appertained to the houſe) and for the walles of the citie, and for the houſe that I ſhall enter into. And the king gave mee according to [d] the good hand of my God vpon me.

‖ Or, Paradiſe.

d As God mooued me to aske, and as he gave me good ſucceſſe therein.

9 ¶ Then came I to the captaines beyond the River, and gave them the kings letters, And the king had ſent captaines of the armie and horſemen with me.

10 But [e] Sanballat the Horonite, and Tobiah a ſeruant an Ammonite heared it, and it grieued them ſore, that there was come a man which ſought the wealth of the children of Iſrael.

e Theſe were great enemies to ỹ Iewes, and laboured alwayes both by force and ſubtilty to ouercome them, and Tobiah, becauſe his wife was a Iewesſe, had aduertiſſement ever of their affaires, and ſo wrought them great trouble.

11 So I came to Ieruſalem, and was there three dayes.

12 And I roſe in the night, I, and a few men with mee: for I told no man, what God had put in mine heart to doe at Ieruſalem, and there was not a beaſt with mee, ſaue the beaſt whereon I rode.

13 And I went out by night by the gate of the valley, and came before the dragon well, and to the dung port, and viewed the walles of Ieruſalem, how they were broken downe, and the portes thereof deuoured with the fire.

14 Then I went foorth vnto the gate of the ‖ fountaine, and to the kings fiſhpoole, and there was no roume for the beaſt that was vnder me to paſſe.

‖ Or, tombe it.

15 Then went I vp in the night by the brooke, and viewed the wall, and turned backe, and comming back, I entred by the gate of the valley, and returned.

16 And the rulers knew not whither I was gone, nor what I did, neither did I ask, yet tell it vnto the Iewes, nor to the prieſts, nor to the noble men, nor to the rulers, nor to the reſt that laboured in the worke.

f That is, contemned of other nations, as though God had forſaken vs.

g They were encouraged, and gave themſelves to doe well, and to trauell in this worthy enterpriſe.

h Theſe were three chiefe gouernours vnder the King of Perſia beyond Euphrates.

i Thus the wicked when they will hurt the children of God, euer lay treaſon vnto their charge, both becauſe it maketh them moſt odious to the world, and alſo ſtirreth the hatred of princes moſt againſt them.

17 Afterward I ſaid vnto them, Ye ſee the miſerie that wee are in, how Ieruſalem lieth waſte, and the gates thereof are burnt with fire: come, and let vs build the wall of Ieruſalem, that we be no more [f] a reproach.

18 Then I told them of the hand of my God, (which was good over me) and alſo of the kings wordes that he had ſpoken vnto mee. And they ſaid, Let vs riſe, and build, So they [g] ſtrengthened their hand to good.

19 But when Sanballat the Horonite, and Tobiah the ſeruant an Ammonite, and [h] Geſhem the Arabian heard it, they mocked vs, and deſpiſed vs, and ſayd, What a thing is this that yee doe? Will yee rebell againſt the king?

20 Then anſwered I them, and ſayd to them, The God of heauen, he will proſper vs, and we his ſeruants will riſe vp and build: but as for you, yee have no portion, nor right, nor [k] memoriall in Ieruſalem.

k Neither are ye of the number of the children of God (to whom hee hath appointed this citie onely) neither did any of your [l] predeceſſors euer feare God.

2 And next vnto him builded the men of Iericho, and beſide him Zaccur the ſonne of Imir.

3 But the fiſhport did the ſonnes of Senaah build, which alſo layd the beames thereof, and ſet on the doores thereof, the lockes thereof, and the barres thereof.

13 The valley gate fortified Hanum, and the inhabitants of Zanuah: they build it, and ſet on the doores thereof, the lockes there of, and the barres thereof, even a thouſand cubits on the wall vnto the dung port.

14 But the dungport fortified Malcaiah the ſonne of Rechab, the ruler of the fourth part of Beth-haccarem: hee built it, and ſet on thy doores thereof, the locks thereof, and the barres thereof.

15 But the gate of the fountaine fortified Shallum the ſonne of Col-hozeh, the ruler of the fourth part of Mizpah: hee builded it, and couered it, and ſet on the doores thereof, the lockes thereof, and the barres thereof, and the wall vnto the fiſhpoole of ‖ Shelah by the kings garden, and vnto the ſteps that goe downe from the citie of Davíd.

17 After him fortified the Leuites, Rehum the ſonne of Bani, and the next vnto him fortified Haſhabiah the ruler of the halfe part of Keilah in his quarter.

18 After him fortified their brethern: Banai, the ſonne of Henadad the ruler of the halfe part of Keilah:

19 And next vnto him fortified Ezer, the ſonne of Ieſhua the ruler of Mizpah, the other portion over againſt the going vp to the [d] corner of the armour.

31 After him fortified Malachiah the goldſmiths ſonne, vntill the houſe of the Nethinims, and of the Merchants over againſt the gate [h] Miphkad, and to the chamber in the corner.

CHAP. IIII.

7 The building of Ieruſalem is hindered, 15 but God breaketh their enterpriſe. 17 The Iewes build with one hand, and holde their weapons in the other.

BUt when Sanballat heard that wee builded the wall, then was he wroth and ſore grieved, and mocked the Iewes,

2 And ſaid before his [a] brethren and the armie of Samaria, thus hee ſaid, What doe theſe [b] weake Iewes? will they fortifie themſelves? will they ſacrifice? will they finiſh it in a day? will they make the ſtones whole againe out of the heapes of duſt, ſeeing they are burnt?

a Of his companions that dwelt in Samaria, b Thus the wicked that conſider not that Gods power is euer in a readineſſe for the defence of his, mocke them as though they were weake and feeble.

3 And Tobiah the Ammonite was beſide him, and ſaid, Although they build, yet if a foxe goe vp, he ſhall even breake downe their ſtonie wall.

4 [c] Heare, O our God (for wee are diſpiſed) and turne their ſhame vpon their owne head, and giue them vnto a pray [d] in the land of their captiuitie, c This is the remedie that the children of God haue againſt the deriſion and threatenings of their enemies, to flee to God by prayer.

d Let them be ſpoyled and led away captiue.

5 And couer not their [e] iniquitie, neither let their ſinne be put out in thy preſence, for they haue prouoked vs before the builders.

e Let the plagues declare to the world that they ſet themſelues againſt thee, and againſt thy Church: thus he prayeth onely hauing reſpect to Gods glory & not for any priuate affection, or grudge.

6 So we built the wall, and all the wall was ioyned vnto the ‖ halfe thereof, and the heart of the people was to worke.

‖ Or, halfe height. Ebr make to ſtay, meaning the people.

7 ¶ But when Sanballat, and Tobiah, and the Arabians, and the Ammonites, and the Aſhdodims heard that the walles of Ieruſalem were repaired, (for the breaches began to be ſtopped) then they were very wroth,

8 And conſpired altogether to come and to fight againſt Ieruſalem, and to [f] hinder them.

f That is, oftentimes.

9 Then wee prayed vnto our God, and ſet watchmen by them, day and night, becauſe of them.

10 And Iudah ſaid, The ſtrength of the bearers is weakened, and there is much earth, ſo that we are not able to build the wall.

11 Alſo our aduerſaries had ſaid, They ſhall not know, neither ſee, till we come into the mids of them, and ſlay them, and cauſe the worke to ceaſe, 12 But when the Iewes (which dwelt beſide them) came, they told vs [g] ten times, From all places, whence yee ſhall returne, they will be vpon vs.

g They which brought the tidings, ſayd thus, When you leaue your worke, and goe either to eate or to reſt, your enemies will aſſaile you.

13 Therefore ſet I in the lower plaſes behind the wall vpon the tops of the ſtones, and placed the people by their families, with their ſwordes, their ſpeares, and their bowes.

14 Then I beheld, and roſe vp, and ſaid vnto the princes, and to the rulers, and to the reſt of the people, Be not afraid of them: [h] remember the great Lord, and fearefull, and fight for your brethren, your ſonnes, and your daughters, your wiues, and your houſes.

h Who is euer at hand to deliuer his out of danger: and therefore ſeeing they ſhould fight for the maintenance of Gods glory, and for the preſeruation of their owne liues and of theirs, hee encourageth them to play the valiant men.

15 And when our enemies heard that it was knowen vnto vs, then God brought their counſell to nought, and wee turned all againe to the wall every one vnto his worke.

16 And from that day halfe of the yong men did the labour, and the other halfe part of them held the ſpeares, and ſhields, and bowes, and habergions: and the Rulers ſtood [i] behinde all the houſe of Iudah.

i To ouerſee them and to encourage them to their worke.

17 They that builded on the wall, and they that bare the burdens, and they that laded, did the worke with one hand, and with the other helde the ſword.

18 For every one of the builders had his ſword girded on his loynes, and ſo builded: and he that blew the trumpet, was behinde me.

19 Then ſaid I vnto the Princes, and to the rulers, and to the reſt of the people, The worke is great and large, and wee are ſeparated vpon the wall, one farre from another, 20 In what place therefore ye heart the ſound of the trumpet, k reſort yee thither vnto vs: our God ſhall fight for vs.

k Meaning, to reſiſt their enemies, if need required.

21 So wee laboured in the worke, and halfe of them held the ſpeares, from the appearing of the morning, till the ſtarres came foorth.

22 And at the ſame time ſaid I vnto the people, Let every one with his ſervant lodge within Ieruſalem, that they may be a watch for vs in the night, and labour in the day.

23 So neither I, nor my brethren, nor my ſervants, nor the men of the ward (which followed me) none of vs did put off our cloathes, ſaue every one put them off l for waſhing.

l That is, when they purified themſelues, or els when they waſhed their cloathes.

CHAP. V.

1 The people are oppreſſed and in neceſſity. 6 Nehemiah remedieth it. 14 He tooke not the portion of others that had ruled before, leaſt he ſhould grieue the people.

NOw there was a great crie of the people, and of their wiues a againſt their brethren the Iewes.

a Againſt the rich which oppreſſed them.

2 For there were that ſaid, We, our ſonnes and our daughters are many, therefore wee take vp b corne, that we may eate and liue.

b This is the complaint of the people, ſhewing to what extremity they were brought vnto.

3 And there were that ſaid, We muſt gage out lands, and out vineyards, and our houſes, and take vp corne for the famine.

4 There were alſo that ſaid, We haue borowed money for the kings c tribute vpon our lands and our vineyards.

c To pay our tribut to the king of the Perſians, which was exacted yeerely of vs.

5 And now our fleſh is as d the fleſh of our brethren, and our ſonnes as their ſonnes: and loe, wee bring into ſubiection our ſonnes and our daughters, as ſeruants, and there be of our daughters now in ſubiection, and there is no power e in our hands: for other men haue our lands and our vineyards.

d By nature the rich is no better then the poore.

e We are not able to redeeme them, but for pouerty are conſtrained to bi rethem to others.

6 Then was I very angry when I heard their crie and theſe words.

7 And I thought in my minde, and I rebuked the princes, and the rulers, and ſayd vnto them, You lay f burthens euery one vpon his brethren: and I ſet a great g aſſembly againſt them.

f You preſſe them with vſury, and ſeeke how to bring all things into your hands.

g Both becauſe they ſhould be moued with pitie, ſeeing how many were by them oppreſt, and alſo heare the iudgement of others, which ſhould be as it were witneſſes of their dealing toward their brethren.

8 And I ſaid vnto them, Wee (according to our ability) haue redeemed our brethren the Iewes, which were ſold vnto the heathen: and will you ſell your brethren againe, or ſhall they bee h ſold vnto vs? Then held they their peace, and could not anſwere.

h Seeing God hath once deliuered them from the bondage of the heathen ſhall we make them our ſlaues?

9 i I ſaid alſo, That which ye do, is not good, Ought yee not to walke in the feare of our God, for the k reproach of the heathen our enemies?

i Meaning, Nehemiah.

k Who by this occaſion will blaſpheme the Name of God, ſeeing that our acts are no better then theirs.

10 For euen I, my brethren, and my ſeruants do lend them money and corne: I pray you, let vs leaue off this ‖ burden.

l Which ye take of them for the loane.

11 Reſtore, I pray you, vnto them this day their lands, their vineyards, their oliues, and their houſes, and remit the hundreth part of the ſiluer and of the corne, of the wine, and of the oyle l that ye exact of them.

12 Then ſaid they, We will reſtore it, and will not require it of them: we will doe as thou haſt ſaid. Then I called the Prieſt, and cauſed them to ſweare, that they ſhould doe according to this promiſe.

13 So I ſhooke my lappe, and ſayd, So let God ſhake out every man that will not performe this promiſe, from his houſe, and from his labour: even thus let him be ſhaken out and emptied. And all the Congregation ſaid, Amen, & praiſed the Lord: and the people did according to this promiſe.

14 And from the time that the King gaue me charge to be gouernour in the land of Iudah, from the twentieth yeere, euen vnto the two and thirtieth yeere of King Artahſhaſhte, that is, twelue yeere, I, and my brethren haue not eaten the m bread of the gouernour.

m I receiued not that portion and diet, which the gouernours that were before mee exacted, wherein he declareth that he rather ſought the wealth of the people then his owne commodity.

15 For the former gouernours that were before me, had beene chargeable vnto the people, and had taken of them bread and wine, beſides forty ſhekels of ſiluer: yea, and their ſervants bare rule over the people: but ſo did not I, becauſe of the feare of God.

16 But rather I fortified a portion in the worke of this wall, and we bought no land, and all my ſervants came thither together vnto the worke.

17 Moreover there were at my table an hundreth and fifty of the Iewes, and rulers, which came vnto vs from among the heathen that are about vs.

18 And there was prepared dayly an oxe, and ſixe choſen ſheepe, and birds were prepared for me, and ‖ within ten dayes wine for all n in abundance. Yet for all this I required not the bread of the gouernour: for the bondage was grieuous vnto this people.

‖ Or, once in ten dayes.

n Whereas at other times they had by meaſure, at this time they had moſt liberally.

19 Remember me, O my God, in goodnes, according to all that I haue done for this people.

CHAP. VI.

1 Nehemiah anſwereth with great wiſedome and zeale to his aduerſarie. 11 He is not diſcouraged by the falſe Prophets.

ANd when Sanballat, and Tobiah, and Geſhem the Arabian, and the reſt of our enemies heard that I had build the wall, and that there were no moe a breaches therein (though at that time I had not ſet vp the doores vpon the gates) a That is, that they were ioyned together, as Chap. 4. 6.

2 Then ſent Sanballat and Geſhem vnto mee, ſaying, come thou that we may meet together in the villages in the plaine of Ono: & they thought to doe me euill.

3 Therefore I ſent meſſengers vnto them, ſaying, I haue a great worke to do, & I cannot come downe: b why ſhould the worke ceaſe, whiles I leaue it and come downe to you?

b Meaning, that if he ſhould obey their requeſt, the worke which God had appointed, ſhould ceaſe: ſhewing hereby that we ſhould not commit our ſeruice to the hands of ỹ wicked.

4 Yet they ſent vnto mee foure times after this ſort. And I Anſwered them after the ſame maner.

5 Then ſent Sanballat his ſervant after this ſort vnto me the fifth time, with an open letter in his hand,

6 Wherein was written, It is reported among the heathen, and ‖ Gaſhmu hath ſaid it, that thou and the Iewes thinke to rebell, for the which cauſe thou buildeſt the wall, and thou wilt be their king according to theſe c words.

‖ Or, Geſhem.

c As the ſame goeth.

7 Thou haſt alſo ordained d the Prophets to preach of the at Ieruſalem, ſaying, There is a King in Iudah: and now according to theſe wordes it ſhall come to the Kings eares: come now therefore, and let vs take counſell together.

d Thou haſt bribed and ſet vp falſe prophets, to make thy ſelfe king, and ſo to defraud the king of Perſia of that ſubiection which you owe vnto him.

8 Then I ſent vnto him, ſaying, It is not done according to theſe wordes that thou ſayeſt: for thou faineſt them of thine owne heart.

† Or, ſtrengthen thou mine hand.

9 For all they afrayed vs, ſaying, their hands ſhalbe weakened from the worke, and it ſhall not be done: now therefore † encourage thou me.

e As though hee would be ſecret, to the intent that hee might pray vnto God with greater liberty, and receiue ſome reuelation, which in him was but hypocriſie,

10 ¶ And I came to the houſe of Shemiah the ſonne of Delaiah the ſonne of Mehetabeel, and hee was e ſhut vp, and hee ſayd, Let vs come together into the houſe of God in the middes of the Temple, and ſhut the doores of the Temple: for for they will come to ſlay thee: yea, in the night will they come to kill thee.

11 Then I ſaid, f Should ſuch man as I, flee? Who is he, being as I am, that would goe into the Temple to liue? I will not goe in.

12 And loe, I perceiued that God had not ſent him, but that hee pronounced this prophecie againſt me: for Tobiah and Sanballat had hired him.

13 Therefore was he hired, that I might be afraid, and doe thus, and ſinne, and that they might haue an euill report, that they might reproach me.

14 My God, remember thou Tobiah, and Sanballat according vnto theſe their works, and Noadiah the g Propheteſſe alſo, and the reſt of the prophets that would haue put me in feare.

15 ¶ Notwithſtanding the wall was finiſhed on the fiue and twentieth day of h Elul, in two and fiftie dayes.

16 And when all our enemies heard thereof, euen all the heathen that were about vs, they were afraid, and their courage failed them: for they knew that this worke was wrought by our God.

17 And in theſe dayes vvere there many of the princes of Iudah, whoſe k letters went vnto Tobiah, and thoſe of Tobiah came vnto them.

18 For there vvere many in Iudah, that were ſworne vnto him: for he was the ſonne in lawe of Shechaniah, the ſonne of Arah: and his ſonne Iehonathan had the daughter of Meſhullam, the ſonne of Berechiah, 19 Yea, they ſpake in his praiſe before me, and tolde him my words, and Tobiah ſent letters to put me in feare.

f He doubted not but God was able to preſerue him, and knew that if he had obeyed this counſell he ſhould haue diſcouraged all the people: thus God giueth power to his to reſiſt falſe prophecies, though they ſeeme to haue neuer ſo great probability.

g Very griefe cauſed him to pray againſt ſuch, which vnder the predence of being the miniſters of God, were aduerſaries to his glory, and went about to ouerthrow his Church, declaring alſo hereby that where there is one true miniſter of God, the deuill hath a great ſort of hirelings.

h Which was the ſixth moneth and contained part of Auguſt, and part of September.

i Afterthat I had ſent Sanballat his anſwere.

k Thus the Church of God hath euermore enemies within it ſelfe, which are more dangerous then the outward and profeſſed enemie.

a Reade Ezra 7.6.

2 And Ezra the Prieſt brought the Law before the Congregation both of men and women, and of all b that could heare and vnderſtand it, in the firſt day of the ſeuenth moneth, b which had age and diſcretion to vnderſtand.

3 And hee read therein in the ſtreet that was before the watergate (from the morning vntill c the midday) before men and women, and them that vnderſtood it, and the eares of all the people hearkened vnto the booke of the Law.

c This declareth the great zeale, that the people had to heare the word of God.

4 And Ezra the Scribe ſtood vpon a pulpit of wood which he had made for the preaching, and beſide him ſtood Mattithiah, and Shema, and Ananiah, and Vriiah, and Hilkiah, and Maaſeiah on his right hand, and on his left hand Pedaiah, and Miſhael, and Malchiah, and Haſhum, and Haſhbadana, Zechariah, and Meſhullam.

5 And Ezra opened the booke before all the people: for hee was d aboue all the people: and when he opened it, all the people ſtood vp.

d To the intent that his voyce might be the better heard.

6 And Ezra praiſed the Lord the great God, and all the people anſwered, Amen, Amen, with lifting vp their handes: and they bowed themſelues, and worſhipped the Lord with their faces toward the ground.

7 Alſo Ieſhua, and Bani, and Sherebiah, Iamin, Akkub, Shabbethai, Hodiiah, Maaſeiah, Kelita, Azariah, Iozabad, Hanan, Pelaiah, and the Leuites cauſed the people to vnderſtand the Law, and the people ſtood in their place.

8 And they read in the booke of the Law of God diſtinctly, and gaue ſ ſenſe, and cauſed them to vnderſtand the reading.

9 Then Nehemiah (which is Tirſhatha) and Ezra the Prieſt and Scribe, and the Leuites that inſtructed the people, ſayd vnto all the people, This day is holy vnto the Lord your God: mourne not, neither weepe: for all the people * wept, when they heard the words of the Law.

e In conſidering their offences againſt the Law. Therefore the Leuites doe not reproove them for mourning, but aſſure them of Gods mercies for aſmuch as they are repentant.

10 He ſaid alſo vnto them, Goe and eate of the fat, and drinke the ſweete, and ſend part vnto them, for whom none is f prepared: for this day is holy vnto our Lord: be yee not ſory therefore: for the f That is, remember the poore.

g Reioyce in the Lord, and he will giue you ſtrength.

the g ioy of the Lord is your ſtrength.

11 And the Leuites made ſilence throughout all the people, ſaying, Holde your peace: for the day is holy, be not ſad therefore.

12 Then all the people went to eate and to drinke, and to ſend away part, and to make great ioy, becauſe they had vnderſtood the words that they had taught them.

13 And on the ſecond day the chiefe fathers of all the people, the Prieſts and the Leuites were gathered vnto Ezra the Scribe, that he alſo might inſtruct them in the words of the Law.

14 And they found written in the Law, (that the Lord had commanded Moſes) that the children of Iſrael ſhould dwell in * boothes in the feaſt of the ſeuenth moneth,

* Leuit. 23.34.

15 And that they ſhould cauſe it to be declared and proclaimed in all their cities, and in Ieruſalem, ſaying, Goe foorth vnto the mount, and bring oliue branches, and pine branches, and branches of ‖ Myrtus, and palme branches, and branches of thicke trees, to make boothes, as it is written.

‖ Or, goodly branches, as Leuit. 23.40.

16 So the people went foorth and brought them, and made them boothes, euery one vpon the h roofe of his houſe, and in their courts, and in the courts of the houſe of God, and in the ſtreete by the watergate, and in the ſtreete of the gate of Ephraim.

h For their houſes were made flat aboue, reade Deut. 22. 8.

17 And all the Congregation of them that were come againe out of the captiuitie, made boothes, and ſate vnder the boothes: for ſince the i time of Ieſhua the ſonne of Nun vnto this day, had not the children of Iſrael done ſo, and there was very great ioy.

i Which was almoſt a thouſand yeeres.

18 And hee read in the booke of the Law of God euery day, from the firſt day vnto the laſt day. And they kept the feaſt ſeuen dayes, and on the eight day a ſolemne aſſembly, according vnto the maner.

CHAP. IX.

a The people repent, and forſake their ſtrange wiues. 5 The Leuites exhort them to praiſe God, 6 Declaring his wonders, 26 And their ingratitude, 30 And Gods great mercies toward them.

a Meaning, the ſeuenth.

* 1. Eſdras 9. 4.

IN the foure and twentieth day of this a moneth the children of Iſrael were aſſembled with * faſting, and with ſackecloth, and earth vpon them.

† Ebr. ſtrange children.

2 (And they that were of the ſeede of Iſrael were ſeparated from all the † ſtrangers) and they ſtood and confeſſed their ſinnes and the iniquities of their fathers.

b They made confeſſion of their ſinnes, and vſed prayers.

3 And they ſtood vp in their place and read in the booke of the Law of the Lord their God foure times on the day, and they b confeſſed and worſhipped the Lord their God foure times.

4 Then ſtood vp vpon the ſtaires of the Leuites, Ieſhua, and Bani, Kadmiel, Shebaniah, Bunni, Sherebiah, Bani, and Chenani, and cryed with a lowde voyce vnto the Lord their God.

5 And the Leuites ſaid, euen Ieſhua and Kadmiel, Bani, Haſhabniah, Sherebiah, Hodiiah, Shebaniah and Pethahiah, Stand vp and praiſe the Lord your God for euer and euer, and let them praiſe thy glorious Name, O God, which exalteth aboue all thankeſgiuing and praiſe.

6 Thou art Lord alone: thou haſt made heauen, and the heauen of all heauens, with all their hoaſte, the earth, and all things that are therein, the ſeas, and all that are in them, and thou preſerueſt them all; and the hoaſte of the heauen worſhippeth thee.

7 Thou art, O Lord, the God that haſt choſen Abraham, and broughteſt him out of * Vr in Caldea, and * madeſt his name Abraham,

* Gen. 11.31.
* Gen. 17.5.

8 And foundeſt his heart faithfull before thee, * and madeſt a Couenant with him, to giue vnto his ſeede the land of the Canaanites, Hittites, Amorites, and Perizzites, and Iebuſites, and Girgaſhites, and haſt performed thy wordes, becauſe thou art iuſt.

* Gen. 15.18.

9 * Thou haſt alſo conſidered the affliction of our fathers in Egypt, and heard their cry by the red Sea.

* Exod. 3. 7. and 14. 16.

10 And ſhewed tokens and wonders vpon Pharaoh, and on all his ſeruants, and on all the people of his land: for thou kneweſt that they dealt proudly againſt them: therefore thou madeſt thee a Name, as appeareth this day.

11 * For thou diddeſt breake vp the Sea before them, and they went through the mids of the ſea on dry land: and thoſe that purſued them, haſt thou caſt into the bottomes as a ſtone, in the mightie waters:

* Exod. 14. 21.

12 And * leddeſt them in the day with a pillar of a cloud, and in the night with a pillar of fire to giue them light in the way that they went.

* Exod. 13. 21.

13 * Thou cameſt downe alſo vpon mount Sinai, and ſpakeſt vnto them from heauen, and gaueſt them right iudgements, and true lawes, ordinances and good Commandements,

* Exod. 19. 18. 20. and 20. 1.

14 And declareſt vnto them thine holy Sabbath, and commandedſt them precepts, and ordinances, and lawes, by the hand of Moſes thy ſeruant:

15 * And gaueſt them bread from heauen for their hunger, * and broughteſt foorth water for them out of the rocke for their thirſt: and * promiſedſt them that they ſhould goe in, and take poſſeſſion of the land, for the which thou haddeſt lift vp thine hand for to giue them.

* Exod. 16. 15.
* Exod. 17. 6.
* Deut. 1. 8.

16 But they and our fathers behaued themſelues proudly and hardened their necke, ſo that they hearkened not vnto thy Commandements, 17 But refuſed to obey, and would not remember thy marueilous works that thou haddeſt done for them, but hardened their neckes, and had in their heads to returne to their bondage by their rebellion: but thou, O God of mercies, gracious and full of compaſſion, of long ſuffering, and of great mercie, yet forſookeſt them not.

18 Moreouer, when they made them a molten calfe (and ſaid, This is thy God that brought thee vp out of the land of Egypt) and committed great blaſphemies, 19 Yet thou for thy great mercies forſookeſt them not in the wilderneſſe: * the pillar of the cloud departed not from them by day to leade them the way, neither the pillar of fire by night, to ſhew them light, and the way whereby they ſhould goe.

* Exod. 13. 22. num. 14. 14. 1. cor. 10. 1.

20 Thou gaueſt alſo thy good Spirit to inſtruct them, and withheldeſt not thy MAN from their mouth, and gaueſt them water for their thirſt.

21 Thou diddeſt alſo feed them fortie yeeres in the wilderneſſe: they lacked nothing: * their clothes waxed not old, and their feete c ſwelled not.

* Deut. 8. 4.
c Though the way was tedious and long.

22 And thou gaueſt them kingdoms and people, and d ſcatteredſt them into corners: ſo they poſſeſſed * the land of Sihon, and the land of the king of Heſhbon, and the land of Og king of Baſhan.

d Meaning, the heathen whom he droue out.
* Numb. 21. 26.

23 And

23 And thou diddeſt multiply their children like the ſtarres of the heauen, and broughteſt them into the land, whereof thou haddeſt ſpoken vnto their fathers, that they ſhould goe, and poſſeſſe it:

24 So the children went in, and poſſeſſed the land, and thou ſubduedſt before them the inhabitants of the land, euen the Canaanites, and gaueſt them into their hands, with their kings and the people of the land, that they might do with them what they would.

25 And they tooke their ſtrong cities and the fat land, and poſſeſſed houſes full of all goods, ciſternes digged out, vineyards and oliues, and trees for foode in abundance, and they did eate, and were filled, and became fat, and liued in pleaſure through thy great goodneſſe.

26 Yet they were diſobedient, and rebelled againſt thee, and caſt thy Law behind their backs, and ſlew thy Prophets (which [e] proteſted among them to turne them vnto thee) and committed great blaſphemies.

27 Therefore thou deliueredſt them into the hand of their enemies that vexed them: yet in the time of their affliction, when they cryed vnto thee, thou heardeſt them from the heauen, and through thy great mercies thou gaueſt them ſauiours, who ſaued them out of the hand of their aduerſaries,

28 But when they had [f] reſt, they returned to doe euill before thee: therefore lefteſt thou them in the hand of their enemies, ſo that they had the dominion ouer them, yet when they conuerted and cryed vnto thee, thou heardeſt them from heauen, and deliueredſt them according to thy great mercies many times,

29 And proteſtedſt among them, that thou mighteſt bring them againe vnto thy Lawe: but they behaued themſelues proudly, and hearkened not vnto thy commandements, but ſinned againſt thy iudgements (* which a man ſhould doe and liue in them) and [g] pulled away the ſhoulder, and were ſtifnecked, and would not [h] heare.

30 Yet thou † diddeſt forbeare them many yeeres, and proteſtedſt among them by thy Spirit, euen by the hand of thy Prophets, but they would not heare: therefore gaueſt thou them into the hand of the people of the lands.

31 Yet for thy great mercies thou haſt not conſumed them, neither forſaken them: for thou art a gracious and mercifull God.

32 Now therefore our God, * thou great God, mightie and terrible, that keepeſt couenant and * mercy, let not all the affliction that hath come vnto vs, ſeeme a little before thee, that is, to our Kings, to our Princes, and to our Priests, and to our prophets, and to our fathers, and to all thy people ſince the time of the [i] kings of Aſſhur vnto this day.

33 Surely thou art iuſt in all that is come vpon vs: for thou haſt [k] dealt truely, but we haue done wickedly.

34 And our kings and our princes, our prieſts and our fathers haue not done thy Law, nor regarded thy commandements, nor thy proteſtations, wherewith thou haſt [l] proteſted among them.

35 And they haue not ſerued thee in their kingdome, and in thy great goodneſſe that thou ſhewedſt vnto them, and in the large and fat land which thou diddeſt ſet before them, and haue not conuerted from their euill works.

36 Behold, wee are ſeruants this day, and the land that thou gaueſt vnto our fathers, to eat the [m] fruite thereof, and the goodneſſe thereof, behold, we are ſeruants therein.

37 And it yeeldeth much fruit vnto the kings whom thou haſt ſet ouer vs, becauſe of our ſinnes: and they haue dominion ouer our bodies, and ouer our cattell at their pleaſure, and wee are in great affliction.

38 Now becauſe of all this wee make [n] a ſure couenant, and writte it, and our princes, our Leuites, and Prieſts ſeale vnto it.

22 In the dayes of Eliashib, Ioiada, and Iohanan and Iaddua were the chiefe fathers of the Leuites written, and the Priests in the reigne of Darius the Persian.
23 The sonnes of Leui, the chiefe fathers were written in the booke of the Chronicles even vnto the dayes of Iohanan the sonne of Eliashib.
24 And the chiefe of the Leuites, were Hashabiah, Sherebiah, and Iesshua the sonne of Kadmiel, and their brethren about them to give praise and thankes, according to the ordinances of David the man of God, ward over against ward.
25 Mattaniah and Bakbukiah, Obadiah, Meshullam, Talmon and Akkub were porters keeping the ward at the thresholds of the gates.
26 These were in the dayes of Ioiakim the sonne of Iesshua, the sonne of Iozadak, and in the dayes of Nehemiah the captaine, and of Ezra the Priest and Scribe.
27 And in the dedication of the wall at Ierusalem, they sought the Leuites out of all their places to bring them to Ierusalem to keepe the dedication and gladnesse, both with thankesgiuings and with songs, cymbals, violes, and with harps.
28 Then the † singers gathered themselues together both from the plaine countrey about Ierusalem, and from the villages of [h] Netophathi, 29 And from the house of Gilgal, and out of the countreys of Geba, and Azmaueth: for the singers had built them villages round about Ierusalem.
30 And the Priests and Leuites were purified, and cleansed the people, and the gates, and the wall.
31 And [i] I brought vp the princes of Iudah vpon the wall, and appoynted two great companies to give thanks, and the one went on the right hand of the wall toward the dung-gate.
32 And after them went Hoshaiah, and halfe of the princes of Iudah, 33 And Azariah, Ezra, and Meshullam, 34 Iudah, Beniamin, and Shemaiah, and Ieremiah.
35 And of the Priests sonnes with trumpets Zechariah, the sonne of Ionathan, the sonne of Shemaiah, the sonne of Mattaniah, the sonne of Michaiah, the sonne of Zaccur, the sonne of Asaph.
36 And [k] his brethren, Shemaiah, and Azareel, Milalai, Gilalai, Maai, Nethaneel, and Iudah, Hanani, with the musicall instruments of David the man of God: and Ezra the Scribe went before them.
37 And to the gate of the fountaine, even over against them went they vp by the [l] staires of the citie of David, at the going vp of the wall beyong the house of David, even vnto the water-gate Eastward.
38 And the second company of them that gaue thankes, went on the other side, and I after them, and the halfe of the people was vpon the wall, and vpon the tower of the furnaces even vnto the broad wall.
39 And vpon the gate of Ephraim, and vpon the olde gate, and vpon the fish-gate, and the tower of Hananeel, and the tower of Meah, even vnto the sheepegate: and they stood in the gate of the ward.
40 So stood the two companies (of them that gaue thankes) in the house of God, and I and the halfe of the rulers with me.
41 The Priests also, Eliakim, Maaseiah, Miniamin, Michaiah, Elioenai, Zechariah, Hananiah, with trumpets, 42 And Maaseiah, and Shemaiah, and Eleazar, and Vzzi, and Iehohanan, and Malchiiah, and Elam,

CHAP. XIII.

1 The Law is read. 3 They ſeparate from them all ſtrangers. 15 Nehemiah reprooueth them that breake the Sabbath. 30 An ordinance to ſerue God.

ON that day they did reade in the booke of Moſes, in the audience of the people, and it was found written therein, that the Ammonite, and the Moabite * ſhould not enter into the Congregation of God,

* Deut. 23. 3.

2 Becauſe they met not the children of Iſrael with bread and with water, * but hired Balaam againſt them that he ſhould curſe them: and our God turned the curſe into a bleſſing.

* Numb. 22. 5. 6.

3 Now when they had heard the Law, they ſeparated from Iſrael [a] all thoſe that were mixed.

[a] That is, all ſuch which had ioyned in vnlawfull mariage, and alſo thoſe with whom God had forbidden them to haue ſocietie.

4 ¶ And before [b] this had the Prieſt Eliaſhib the overſight of the [c] chamber of the houſe of our God, being [c] kinſman to Tobiah:

[b] That the ſeparation was made.
[c] He was ioyned in affinitie with Tobiah the Ammonite and enemie of the Iewes.

5 And he had made him a great chamber, and there had they aforetime laid the offerings, the incenſe, and the veſſels, and the tithes of corne, of wine, and of oyle (oppoyntnd for the Leuites, and the ſingers, and the porters) and the offerings of the Prieſts.

6 But in all this time was not I in Ieruſalem: for in the two and thirtieth yeere of [d] Artahſhaſhte King of Babel, came I vnto the King, and ‖ after certaine dayes I obtained of the King.

[d] Called alſo Darius, Ezra. 7. 1.

7 And when I was come to Ieruſalem, I vnderſtood [e] the evill that Eliaſhib had done for Tobiah, in that hee had made him a chamber in the court of the houſe of God, [e] Thus wee ſee to what inconueniences the people fall into, when they are deſtitute of one that hath the feare of God, ſeeing that their chiefe gouernour was but a while abſent, and yet they fell into ſach great abſurdities: as appeareth alſo, Exod. 32. 1.

8 And it grieved mee ſore: therefore I caſt foorth all the veſſels of the houſe of Tobiah out of the chamber.

9 And I commanded them to cleanſe the chambers: and thither brought I againe the veſſels of the houſe of God with the meate offering and the incenſe.

10 And I perceiued that the portions of the Leuites had not beene given, and that every one was fled to his land, euen the Leuites and ſingers that executed the worke.

11 Then reprooued I the ruler and ſaid, Why is the houſe of God forſaken? And I aſſembled them, and ſet them in their place.

12 Then brought all Iudah the tithes of corne and of wine, and of oyle vnto the treaſures.

13 And I made treaſurers over the treaſures, Shelemiah the Prieſt, and Zadok the Scribe, and of the Leuites, Pedaiah, and vnder their hand Hanan the ſonne of Zaccur the ſonne of Mattaniah: for they were counted faithfull, and their office was to diſtribute vnto their brethren.

14 Remember mee, O my God, herein, and wipe not out my [f] kindneſſe that I haue ſhewed on the houſe of my God, & on the offices thereof.

[f] He proteſteth that he did his duetie with a good conſcience, yet he doeth not iuſtifie himſelfe therein, but deſireth God to fauour him and to be mercifull vnto him for his owne goodneſſe ſake, as verſe 22. and 31.

15 In thoſe dayes ſaw I in Iudah them, that trode winepreſſes on § Sabbath, and that brought in ſheaues, and which laded aſſes alſo with wine, grapes, and figges, and all burdens, and brought them into Ieruſalem vpon the Sabbath day: and [g] I proteſted to them in the day that they ſolde vitailes.

[g] I declared vnto them, that God would not ſuffer ſuch tranſgreſſours of his Law to be vnpuniſhed.

16 There dwelt men of Tyrus alſo therein, which brought fiſh and all wares, and ſolde on the Sabbath vnto the children of Iudah even in Ieruſalem.

17 Then reprooued I the rulers of Iudah, and ſayd vnto them, What evill thing is this that yee doe, and breake the Sabbath day?

18 Did not your fathers [h] thus, and our God brought all this plague vpon vs, and vpon this city? yet ye increaſe the wrath vpon Iſrael, in breeking the Sabbath.

[h] was not this a great cauſe, why God plagued vs in times paſt: meaning, that if they tranſgreſſed now in the ſame againe their plague ſhould be greater.

19 And when the gates of Ieruſalem began to be [i] darke before the Sabbath, I commanded to ſhut the gates, and charged, that they ſhould not be opened till after the Sabbath, and ſome of my ſeruants ſet I at the gates, that there ſhould no burden be brought in on the Sabbath day.

[i] About the time that the Sunne went downe: for the Sabbath laſted from the Sunne going downe of the one day, to the Sunne ſetting of the other.

20 So the chapmen and merchants of all merchandiſe remained once or twiſe all night without Ieruſalem.

21 And I proteſted among them, and ſaid vnto them, Why tary ye all night obout the wall? If ye do it once againe, I will lay hands vpon you. From that time came they no more on the Sabbath.

22 ¶ And I ſayd vnto the Leuites, that they ſhould cleanſe themſelves, and that they ſhould come and [k] keepe the gates, to ſanctifie the Sabbath day. Remember mee, O my God, concerning this, and pardon mee according to thy great mercy.

[k] Meaning, of the Temple, that none that was vncleane, ſhould enter.

23 In thoſe dayes alſo I ſaw Iewes that maried wives of [l] Aſhdod, of Ammon, and of Moab.

[l] which was a city of the Philiſtims, and they had maried wives thereof, and ſo had corrupted their ſpeach & Religion.

24 And their children ſpake halfe in the ſpeach of Aſhdod, and could not ſpeake in the Iewes language, and according to the language of the one people, and of the other people.

25 Then I reprooued them, and [m] curſed them, and ſmote certaine of them, and pulled off their haire, and tooke an oathe of them by God, Ye ſhall not give your daughters vnto their ſonnes, neither ſhall yee take of their daughters vnto your ſonnes nor for your ſelves.

[m] That is, I did excommunicate them, and driue them, out of the congregation.

26 * Did not Salomon the king of Iſrael ſinne by theſe things? yet among many nations was there no King like him: for he was * beloued of his God, and God had made him King over Iſrael: * yet ſtrange women cauſed him to ſinne.

* 1. King. 3. 7. 12.
* 2. Sam. 12. 24. 25.
* 1. King. 11. 1. 4. eccluſ. 47. 19. 20.

27 Shall wee then obey vnto you, to doe all this great evill, and to tranſgreſſe againſt our God, euen to marry ſtrange wives?

28 And

28 And one of the ſonnes of Ioiada the ſonne of Eliaſhib the hie Prieſt was the ſonne in law of Sanballat the Horonite: but I chaſed him from me.

29 Remember them, O my God, that [n] defile the Prieſthood, and the covenant of the Prieſthood, and of the Levites.

n Puniſh them according to their fault and evill example, which they have given to the reſt of thy people contrary to their vocation.

30 Then cleanſed I them from all ſtrangers and appointed the wards of the Prieſts and of the Levites, every one in his office.

31 And for the offering of the wood at times appoynted, and for the firſt fruits. Remember me, O my God, [c] in goodneſſe.

o That is, to ſhew mercy unto me.

IN the dayes of [a] Ahaſhueroſh (this is Ahaſhueroſh that reigned from India even unto Ethiopia, over an hundreth and ſeven and twenty provinces.)

2 In thoſe dayes when the king Ahaſhueroſh [c] ſate on his throne, which was in the palace of * Shuſhan,

3 In the third yeere of his reigne, hee made a feaſt unto all his princes and his ſervants, even the power of Perſia and Media, and to the captaines and governours of the prouinces vvhich vvere before him.

4 That hee might ſhew the riches and glory of his kingdome, and the honour of his great maieſtie many dayes, even an hundreth and foureſcore dayes.

5 And when theſe dayes were expired, the king made a feaſt to all the people that were found in the palace of Shuſhan, both unto great and ſmall, ſeven dayes, in the court of the garden of the kings palace.

6 Vnder an hanging of white, greene, and blue cloathes, faſtened with cords of fine linnen and purple, in ſilver rings, and pillars of marble: the [d] beds vvere of golde and of ſilver upon a pauement of Porphyre, and marble and alabaſter, and blue colour.

7 And they gave them drinke in veſſels of gold, and changed veſſell after veſſell, and royall wine in abundance, according to the [e] power of the king.

8 And the drinking vvas by an order, none might [f] compell: for ſo the king had appoynted unto all the officers of his houſe, that they ſhould doe according to every mans pleaſure.

9 ¶ The Queene Vaſhti made a feaſt alſo for the women in the royall houſe of King Ahaſhueroſh.

10 Upon the [g] ſeventh day when the King was merry with wine, hee commanded Meſhuman, Biztha, Harbona, Bigtha, and Abagtha, Zethar, and Carcas, the ſeven eunuches, (that ſerved in the preſence of king Ahaſhueroſh.)

11 To bring Queene Vaſhti before the king with the crowne royall, that hee might ſhew the people and the princes her beautie: for ſhee was faire to looke upon.

12 But the Queene Vaſhti refuſed to come at the kings word, † which he had given in charge to the eunuches: therefore the King was very angry, and his wrath kindled in him.

13 Then the King ſaid to the wiſe men, [h] that knew the times (for ſo was the Kings maner towards all that knew the law and the iudgement:

14 And the next unto him vvas Carſhena, Shetar, Admatha, Taarſhiſh, Meres, Marſena, and Memucan the ſeven Princes of Perſia, and Media, which ſaw the [i] Kings face, and ſate the firſt in the kingdome.)

15 What ſhall we doe unto the Queene Vaſhti according to the law, becauſe ſhe did not according to the word of the King Ahaſhueroſh by the commiſſion of the eunuches?

16 Then Memucan anſwered before the king and the Princes, The Queene Vaſhti hath not onely done [k] evill againſt the King, but againſt all the Princes, and againſt all the people that are in all the provinces of King Ahaſhueroſh.

17 For the [l] acte of the Queene ſhall come abroad unto all women, ſo that they ſhall deſpiſe their husbands in their owne eyes, and ſhall ſay, The King Ahaſhueroſh commanded Vaſhti the Queene to be brought in before him, but ſhee came not.

18 So ſhall the [m] Princeſſes of Perſia and Media this day ſay unto all the Kings Princes, when they heare of the acte of the Queene: thus ſhall there be much deſpitefullneſſe and wrath.

19 If it pleaſe the King, let a royall decree proceeded from him, and let it be written among the ſtatutes of Perſia and Media, (& let it not be transgreſſed) that Vaſhti come [n] no more before king Ahaſhueroſh: and let the king give her royall eſtate unto her companion that is better then ſhe.

20 And when the decree of the King which ſhallbe made, ſhallbe publiſhed throughout all his kingdome (though it be [o] great) all the women ſhall giue their husbands honour, both great and ſmall.

21 And this ſaying pleaſed the King and the Princes, and the King did according to the word of Memucan.

c The abuſe of theſe contreys was ſo great, that they invented many meanes to ſerve the luſts of Princes, and therefore as they ordeined wicked lawes, that the King might have whoſe daughters he would, ſo they had divers houſes appoynted, as one for them whiles they were virgins, another when they were concubines, and for the Queene, another.

7 And he nouriſhed Hadaſſah, that is, Eſter, his uncles daughter: for ſhee had neither father nor mother, and the maid was faire and beautifull to looke on: and after the death of her father and her mother, Mordecai tooke her for his own daughter.

8 And when the kings commandement, and his decree was publiſhed, and many maides were brought together to the palace of Shuſhan, under the hand of Hege, Eſter was brought alſo vnto the Kings houſe vnder the hand of Hege the keeper of the women.

9 And the maide pleaſed him, and ſhee found favour in his ſight, therefore he cauſed her things for purification to be given her ſpeedily, and her † ſtate, and ſeven comely maides to be given her out of the Kings houſe, and hee gave change to her and to her maides of the beſt in the houſe of the women.

10 And Eſter ſhewed not her people and her kinred: for Mordecai had charged her that ſhee ſhould not tell it.

e For though ſhee was taken away by a cruell law, yet he ceaſed not to have a father'ly care over her, and therefore did reſort oftimes to heare of her.

11 And Mordecai walked e every day before the court of the womens houſe, to know if Eſter did well, and what ſhould be done with her.

12 And when the courſe of every maid came, to goe in to King Ahaſhueroſh, after that ſhe had bene twelve moneths according to the maner of the women (for ſo were the dayes of their purifications accompliſhed, ſixe moneths with oyle of myrrhe, and ſixe moneths with ſweet odours and in the purifying of the women:

13 And thus went the maides vnto the King) whatſoever ſhe required, was f given her to goe with her out of the womens houſe vnto the kings houſe.

f What apparell ſhee asked of the eunuch, that was hee bound to give her.

14 In the euening ſhe went, and on the morow ſhe returned into the ſecond houſe of the women vnder the hand of Shaaſhgaz the Kings eunuch, which kept the concubines: ſhee came into the King no more, except ſhee pleaſed the King, and that ſhe were called by name.

15 Now when the courſe of Eſter the daughter of Abihail the uncle of Mordecai (which had taken her as his owne daughter) came, that ſhee ſhould go in to the king, ſhee deſired nothing, but what ‖ Hege the kings eunuch the keeper of the women g ſaid: and Eſter found favour in the ſight of all them that looked upon her.

16 ¶ So Eſter was taken unto king Ahaſhueroſh into his houſe royall in the tenth moneth, which is the h moneth Tebeth, in the ſeventh yeere of his reigne.

h Which conteined part of December and part of Ianuary.

17 And the King loved Eſter above all the women, and ſhee found grace and favour in his ſight more then all the virgins: ſo that hee ſet the crowne of the kingdome upon her head, and made her Queene in ſtead of Vaſhti.

18 Then the king made a great feaſt unto all his princes, and his ſervants, which was i the feaſt of Eſter, and gave reſt k unto the prouinces, and gifts, according to the l power of a king.

20 Eſter had not yet ſhewed her kinred nor her people, as Mordecai had charged her: for Eſter did after the word of Mordecai, as when ſhee was nouriſh with him.

21 ¶ In thoſe dayes when Mordecai ſate in the kings gate, two of the kings eunuches, Bigthan and Tereſh, which kept the doore, were wroth, and ſought to lay n hand on the king Ahaſhueroſh.

n Meaning, to kill him.

22 And the thing was knowen to Mordecai, and hee told it unto Queene Eſter, and Eſter certified the king thereof in Mordecais name: and when iniquiſition was made, it was found ſo: therefore they were both hanged on a tree: and it was written in the booke of the o Chronicles before the king.

o In the Chronicles of the Medes and Perſians, as Chap. 10. 2.

CHAP. III.

1 Haman, after he was exalted, obtained of the King, that all the Iewes ſhould be put to death, becauſe Mordecai had not done him worſhip as other had.

A Fter theſe things did king Ahaſhueroſh promote Haman the ſonne of Hammedatha the Agagite, and exalted him, and ſet his ſeate aboue all the princes that were with him.

2 And all the kings ſervants that were at the kings gate, bowed their knees, and reverenced Haman: for the king had ſo commanded concerning him: but Mordecai a bowed not the knee, neither did reverence.

a The Perſians manner was to kneele downe and reverence their kings, and ſuch as hee appoynted in chiefe authority, which Mordecai would not doe to this ambitious and proud man.

3 Then the kings ſervants which were at the kings gate, ſaid unto Mordecai, Why tranſgreſſeſt thou the kings commandement?

4 And albeit they ſpake dayly unto him, yet he would not heare them: therefore they b tolde Haman, that they might ſee how Mordecais matters would ſtand: for he had told them, that he was a Iew.

b Thus we ſee that there is none ſo wicked, but they have their flatterers to accuſe the godly.

5 And when Haman ſaw that Mordecai bowed not the knee unto him, nor did reverence unto him, then Haman was full of wrath.

6 Now he † thought it too little to lay hands only on Mordecai: and becauſe they had ſhewed him the people of Mordecai, Haman ſought to deſtroy all the Iewes that were throughout the whole kingdome of Ahaſhueroſh, even the people of Mordecai, 10 Then the king tooke his ring from his hand, and gave it unto Haman the sonne of Hammedatha the Agagite the Iewes adversarie.

11 And the king said unto Haman, Let the silver be thine, and the people to doe with them as it pleaseth thee.

12 Then were the kings ‖ Scribes called on the thirteenth day of the first moneth, and there was written (according to all that Haman commanded) unto the kings officers, and to the captaines that were over every province, and to the rulers of every people, and to every province, according to the writing thereof, and to every people according to their language: in the name of king Ahasuerosh was it written, and sealed with the kings ring.

13 And the letters were sent † by postes into all the kings provinces, to roote out, to kill and to destroy all the Iewes, both yong and old, children and women, in one day upon the thirteenth day of the twelfth moneth (which is the moneth Adar) and to spoyle them as a pray.

14 The contents of the writing was, that there should be given a commandement in all provinces, and published unto all people, that they should be ready against the same day.

15 And the postes compelled by the Kings commandement went forth, and the commandement was given in the palace at Shushan: and the king and Haman sate drinking, but the g citie of Shushan was in perplexitie.

g To wit, the Iewes that were in Shushan.

CHAP. IIII.

5 Mordecai giveth the Queene knowledge of the cruell decree of the king against the Iewes. 16 She willeth that they pray for her.

NOw when Mordecai perceived all that was done, Mordecai rent his cloathes, and put on sackcloath, and ashes, and went out into the mids of the citie, and cryed with a great crie, and a bitter.

a Because hee would advertise Ester of this cruell proclamation.

2 And he came even before the Kings a gate, but he might not enter within the kings gate, being cloathed with sackcloath.

3 And in every province and palace, whither the kings charge and his commission came, there was great sorow among the Iewes, and fasting, and weeping, and mourning, and † many lay in sackcloath and in ashes.

† Hebr. sackecloath and ashes were spread for many.

4 ‖ Then Esters maids and her Eunuches came and told it her: therefore the queene was very heavie, and she sent raiment to cloathe Mordecai, and to take away his sockcloath from him, but he received it not.

5 Then called Ester Hatach one of the Kings eunuches, whom he † had appointed to serve her, and gaue him a commandement unto Mordecai, to know what it was, and why it was.

† Hebr. had caused to stand before her.

6 So Hatach went foorth to Mordecai unto the street of the citie, which was before the kings gate.

7 And Mordecai told him of all that which had come unto him, and of the ‖ summe of the silver that Haman had promised to pay unto the Kings treasures, because of the Iewes, for to destroy them.

8 Also he gaue him the ‖ copie of the writing and commission that was given at Shushan, to destroy them, that he might shew it unto Ester and declare it unto her, and to charge her that shee should goe into the king, and make petition and supplication before him for her people.

‖ Or, contents.

9 ‖ So when Hatach came, he told Ester the words of Mordecai.

10 Then Ester said unto Hatach, and commanded him to say unto Mordecai, 11 All the kings servants and the people of the Kings provinces do know, That whosoever, man or woman, that commeth to the king into the inner court, which is not called, there is a law of his, that hee shall die, except him to whom the king holdeth out the golden rod, that hee may liue. Now I have not beene called to come unto the king these thirtie dayes.

12 And they certified Mordecai of Esters wordes.

13 And Mordecai said, that they should answere Ester thus, Thinke not with thy selfe that thou shalt escape in the kings house, more then all the Iewes.

b Thus Mordecai spake in the confidence of that faith which all Gods children ought to have: which is, that God will deliver them, though all worldly meanes faile.

14 For if thou holdest thy peace at this time, † comfort and deliverance b shall appeare to the Iewes out of another place, but thou and thy fathers house shall perish: and who knoweth whether thou art come to the kingdome for c such a time?

c For to deliver Gods Church out of these present dangers.

15 Then Ester commanded to answer Mordecai,

16 Goe, and assemble all the Iewes that are found in Shushan, and fast ye for me, and eate not, nor drinke in three dayes, day nor night. I also and my mayds will fast likewise, and so will I goe in to the King, which is not according to the law: and if I perish, d I perish.

d I will put my life in danger and refer the successe to God, seeing it is for his glory and the deliverance of his Church.

17 So Mordecai went his way, and did according to all that Ester had commanded him.

CHAP. V.

1 Ester entreth in to the King, and biddeth him & Haman to a feast. 14 Haman prepareth a gallowes for Mordecai.

ANd on the third a day Ester put on her royall apparell, and stood in the court of the Kings palace within, over against the Kings house: and the King sate upon his royall throne in the kings palace over against the gate of the house.

a To wit, after that the Iewes had begun to fast.

2 And when the King sawe Ester the Queene standing in the court, shee found favour in his sight: and the king b held out the golden scepter that was in his hand: so Ester drewe neere, and touched the top of the scepter.

b Which was a signe that her comming was agreeable unto him, as Chap. 4, 11.

3 Then said the King unto her, What wilt thou, Queene Ester? and what is thy request? it shall be even c given thee to the halfe of the kingdome.

c Meaning hereby, that whatsoever she asked should be granted, as Mark, 6, 23.

4 Then said Ester, If it please the king, let the King and Haman come this day unto the banket, that I have prepared for him.

5 And the king ſaid, Cauſe Haman to make haſte, that he may doe as Eſter hath ſayd. So the king and Haman came to the banket that Eſter had prepared.

6 And the king ſaid unto Eſter at the banket of d wine, What is thy petition, that it may be given thee? and what is thy requeſt? it ſhall even be performed unto the halfe of the kingdome.

7 Then anſwered Eſter, and ſaid, My petition, and my requeſt is,

8 If I have found favour in the ſight of the king, and if it pleaſe the king to give me my petition and to performe my requeſt, let the king and Haman come to the banket that I ſhall prepare for them, and I will do to morrow according to the kings e saying.

9 ¶ Then went Haman foorth the ſame day ioyfull, and with a glad heart. But when Haman ſaw Mordecai in the kings gate, that he ſtood not up, nor mooved for him, then was Haman full of indignation at Mordecai.

10 Nevertheleſſe, Haman refrained himſelfe: and when he came home, hee ſent, and called for his friends, and Zereſh his wife.

11 And Haman told them of the glory of his riches, and the multitude of his children, and all the things wherein the king had f promoted him, and how that hee had ſet him aboue the princes and ſervants of the king.

12 Haman ſaid moreover, Yea, Eſter the queene did let no man come in with the king to the banket that ſhee had prepared, ſave me: and to morrow am I bidden unto her alſo with the king.

13 But all this doeth nothing anaile mee, as long as I ſee Mordecai the Iewe ſitting at the kings gate.

14 Then ſaid Zereſh his wife and all his friends unto him, Let them make a tree of fiftie g cubites hie, and to morrowe ſpeake thou unto the king, that Mordecai may be hanged thereon: then ſhalt thou goe ioyfully with the king unto the banket. And the thing pleaſed Haman, and he cauſed to make the tree.

d Becauſe they uſed to drinke exceſſiuely in their bankets, they called the banker by the name of that which was moſt in uſe or eſteemed.

e I will declare what thing I demaud.

f Thus the wicked when they are promoted, in ſtead of acknowledging their charge and humbling themſelues, waxe ambitious, diſdainefull, and cruell.

g Meaning, the higheſt that could be found.

CHAP. VI.

1 The king turneth over the Chronicles, and findeth the fidelitie of Mordecai, to and commandeth Haman to cauſe Mordecai to be had in honour.

THe ſame night † the king ſlept not, and hee commaunded to bring the booke of the Records, and the Chronicles: and they were read before the king.

2 Then it was found written that Mordecai * had told of Bigtana and Tereſh, two of the kings eunuches keepers of the doore, who ſought to lay hands on the king Ahaſhueroſh.

* Chap 2. 22.

3 Then the king ſaid, What honour and dignitie hath bene given to Mordecai a for this? And the kings ſervants that miniſtred unto him, ſaid, There is nothing done for him.

a For he thought it unworthy his eſtate to receiue a benefit, and not reward it.

4 And the king ſaid, Who is in the court? (Now Haman was come into the inner court of the kings houſe, that hee might ſpeake unto the king to b hang Mordecai on the tree that he had prepared for him.)

b Thus while the wicked ſeeke the deſtruction of others they themſelues fall into the ſame pit.

5 And the kings ſervants ſaid unto him, Behold, Haman ſtandeth in the court. And the king ſaid, Let him come in.

6 And when Haman came in, the king ſaid unto him, What ſhall be done unto the man whome the king will honour? Then Haman thought in his heart, To whom would the king doe honour more then to me?

7 And Haman anſwered the king, The man whom the king would honour,

8 Let them bring for him royall apparell, which the king uſeth to weare, and the c horſe that the king rideth upon, and that the crowne royall may be ſet vpon his head.

c Meaning hereby that the king ſhould make him next unto himſelfe, as Ioſeph hereby was knowen to be next to Pharaoh, Gen. 41. 43.

9 And let the raiment and the horſe be deliuered by the hand of one of the kings moſt noble princes, and let them apparell the man (whom the king will honour) and cauſe him to ride upon the horſe through the ſtreet of the citie, and proclaime before him, Thus ſhall it be done unto the man whom the king will honour.

10 Then the king ſaid to Haman, Made haſte, take the raiment and the horſe, as thou haſt ſaid, and doe ſo unto Mordecai the Iew, that ſitteth at the kings gate: let nothing fayle of all that thou haſt ſpoken.

11 So Haman tooke the raiment and the horſe, and araied Mordecai, and brought him on horſe-backe thorow the ſtreet of the city, and proclaimed before him, Thus ſhall it be done to the man whom the king will honour.

12 And Mordecai came againe to the kings gate, but Haman haſted home mourning and his head covered.

13 And Haman tolde Zeriſh his wife, and all his friends all that had befallen him. Then ſaid his wiſe men, and Zereſh his wife unto him, If Mordecai be of the ſeede of the Iewes, before whome thou haſt begun to fall, thou ſhalt not prevaile againſt him, d but ſhalt ſurely fall before him.

d Thus God ſometime putteth in the mouth of the very wicked, to ſpeake that thing which he hath decreed ſhall come to paſſe.

14 And while they were yet talking with him, came the kings eunuches and haſted to bring Haman unto the banket that Eſter had prepared.

CHAP. VII.

2 The queene bildeth the king and Haman againe, and prayeth for herſelfe and her people. 6 Shee accuſeth Haman, and he is hanged on the gallowes which he had prepared for Mordecai.

SO the king and Haman came to banket with the queene Eſter.

2 And the king ſaid againe unto Eſter on the ſecond day at the banket of a wine, What is thy petition, Queene Eſter, that it may be given thee? and what is thy requeſt? It ſhall be even performed unto the halfe of the kingdome.

a Reade Chap. 5, 6.

3 And Eſter the queene anſwered, and ſaid, If I have found favour in thy ſight, O king, and if it pleaſe the king, let my life be given me at my petition, and my people at my requeſt.

4 For we are ſold, I, and my people, to be deſtroyed, to be ſlaine, and to periſh: but if we were ſold for ſervants, and for handmaids, I would have held my tongue, although the adverſarie could not b recompence the kings loſſe.

b Haman could not ſo much profit the king by this his malice, as he ſhould hinder him by the loſſe of the Iewes, and the tribute which hee hath of them.

5 Then king Ahaſhueroſh anſwered, and ſaid unto the queene Eſter, Who is hee? and where is he that † preſumeth to doe thus?

† Ebr. filleth his heart.

6 And Eſter ſaid, The adverſarie and enemie is this wicked Haman. Then Haman was afraid before the king and the queene.

c His conſcience did accuſe him that as he had conſpired the death of innocents, ſo the vengeance of God might fall upon him for the ſame.

7 And the king aroſe from the banket of wine in his wrath, and went into the palace garden: but Haman ſtood up, to make requeſt for his life to the queene Eſter: for hee ſaw that there was e miſchiefe prepared for him of the king.

8 And when the king came againe out of the palace garden, into the houſe were they dranke wine, Haman was d fallen upon the bed where-d He fell downe at the beds feete of couch, where upon ſhee ſate, and made requeſt for his life.

whereon Eſter ſate: therefore the King ſaid, Will he force the Queene alſo before me in the houſe? As the word went out of the Kings mouth, they e covered Hamans face.

e This was the maner of the Perſians, when one was out of the Kings favour.

9 And Harbonah one of the eunuches, ſaid in the preſence of the King, Behold, there ſtandeth yet the tree in Hamans houſe fiftie cubites high, which Haman had prepared for Mordecai, that ſpake f good for the king. Then the King ſaid: Hang him thereon.

f Which diſcovered the conſpiracy againſt the king, Chap. 2, 21, 22.

10 So they hanged Haman on the tree, that he had prepared for Mordecai: then was the Kings wrath pacified.

CHAP. VIII.

1 After the death of Haman was Mordecai exalted. 14 Comfortable letters are ſent unto the Iewes.

THe ſame day did King Ahaſhueroſh give the Houſe of Haman the adverſarie of the Iewes, unto the Queene Eſter. And Mordecai a came before the King: for Eſter told what he was b unto her.

a That is, was received into the kings favour and preſence.
b That he was her uncle, and had brought her vp.

2 And the King tooke off his ring, which he had taken from Haman, and gave it unto Mordecai: and Eſter ſet Mordecai over the houſe of Haman.

3 And Eſter ſpake yet more before the King, and fell downe at his feet weeping, and beſought him that he would put away the c wickedneſſe of Haman the Agagite, and his device that hee had imagined againſt the Iewes.

c Meaning, that he ſhould aboliſh the wicked decrees, which hee had made for the deſtruction of the Iewes.

4 And the King held out the golden d ſcepter toward Eſter. Then aroſe Eſter, and ſtood before the King, d Reade Chap. 5, 2.

5 And ſaid, If it pleaſe the King, and if I have found favour in his ſight, and the thing be acceptable before the King, and I pleaſe him, let it be written, that the letters of the device of Haman the ſonne of Ammedatha the Agagite may be called againe, which he wrote to deſtroy the Iewes, that are in all the Kings provinces.

6 For how can I ſuffer and ſee the evill, that ſhall come unto my people? Or how can I ſuffer and ſee the deſtruction of my kinred?

7 And the king Ahaſhueroſh ſaide unto the Queene Eſter, and to Mordecai the Iew, Behold, I have given Eſter the houſe of Haman, whom they have hanged upon the tree, becauſe he ‖ layd hand upon the Iewes.

‖ Or, went about to ſlay the Iewes.

8 Write ye alſo for the Iewes, as it liketh you in the Kings name, and ſeale it with the Kings ring, (for the writings written in the Kings name, and ſealed with the kings ring, may e no man revoke.)

e This was the law of the Medes and Perſians, as Dan. 6, 15. notwithſtanding the king revoked the former decree graunted to Haman, for Eſters ſake.

9 Then were the Kings Scribes called at the ſame time, even in the third moneth, that is the moneth f Sivan, on the three and twentieth day thereof: and it was written, according to all as Mordecai commanded, unto the Iewes and to the princes, and captaines and rulers of the provinces, which were from India even unto Ethiopia, an hundreth and ſeven and twentie provinces, unto every province according to the g writing thereof, and to every people after their ſpeache, and to the Iewes, according to their writing, and according to their language.

f Which conteineth part of May and part of Iune.
g That is, in ſuch letters and language, as was uſuall in every province.

10 And hee wrote in the King Ahaſhueroſh name, and ſealed it with the Kings ring, and hee ſent letters by poſts on horſebacke and that rode on beaſtes of price, as dromedaries, and ‖ colts of mares.

‖ Or, mules.

11 Wherein the King graunted the Iewes (in what cities ſoever they were) to gather themſelves together, and to ſtand for h their life, and to roote out, to ſlay and to deſtroy all the power of the people and of the province that vexed them, both children and women, and to ſpoyle their goods:

h That is, to defend themſelves againſt all that would aſſaile them.

12 Upon one day in all the provinces of King Ahaſhueroſh, even in the thirteenth day of the twelfth moneth, which is the moneth i Adar.

i Which hath part of February and part of March.

13 The copie of the writing was, how there ſhould be a commandement given in all and every province, publiſhed among all the people, and that the Iewes ſhould be ready againſt that day, to k avenge themſelves on their enemies.

k The King gave them libertie to kill all that did oppreſſe them.

14 So the poſts rode upon beaſtes of price, and dromedaries, and went forth with ſpeed, to execute the Kings commaundement, and the decree was given at Shuſhan the palace.

15 And Mordecai went out from the King in royall apparell of blue, and white, and with a great crowne of gold, and with a garment of fine linnen and purple, and the citie of Shuſhan reioyced and was glad.

16 And unto the Iewes was come light and l ioy and gladneſſe, and honour.

l He ſheweth by theſe words that follow, what this light was.

17 Alſo in all and every province, and in all and every citie and place, where the Kings commandement and his decree came, there was ioy and gladneſſe to the Iewes, a feaſt and good day, and many of the people of the land m became Iewes: for the feare of the Iewes fell upon them.

m Conformed themſelves to the Iewes religion.

CHAP. IX.

1 At the commandement of the King, the Iewes put their adverſaries to death. 14 The ten ſonnes of Haman are hanged. 17 The Iewes keepe a feaſt in remembrance of their deliverance.

SO in the twelfth moneth, which is the moneth Adar, upon the thirteenth day of the ſame, when the Kings commandement and his decree drew neere to be put in execution, in the day that the enemies of the Iewes hoped to have power over them (but it a turned contrary: for the Iewes had rule over them that hated them.)

a This was by Gods great providence, who turneth the ioy of the wicked into ſorow, and the teares of the godly into gladneſſe.

2 The Iewes gathered themſelves together into their cities thorowout all the provinces of the King Ahaſhueroſh, to lay hand on ſuch as ſought their hurt, and no man could withſtand them: for the feare of them fell upon all people.

3 And all the rulers of the provinces, and the princes and the captaines, and the officers of the King b exalted the Iewes: for the feare of Mordecai fell upon them.

b Did them honour, and ſhewed them friendſhip.

4 For Mordecai was great in the Kings houſe, and the report of him went through all the provinces: for this man Mordecai waxed greater and greater.

5 Thus the Iewes ſmote all their c enemies with ſtrokes of the ſword and ſlaughter, and deſtruction, and did what they would unto thoſe that hated them.

c Which had conſpired their death by the permiſſion of the wicked Haman.

6 And at Suſhan the palace ſlew the Iewes, and deſtroyed d five hundreth men.

d Beſides thoſe three hundreth, that they ſlew the ſecond day, as verſe 15.

7 And Parſhandatha, and Dalphon, and Aſpatha,

8 And Poratha, and Adalia, and Aridatha,

9 And Parmaſhta, and Ariſai, and Aridai, and Vaiezatha,

10 The ten ſonnes of Haman, the ſonne of Ammedatha, the adverſarie of the Iewes ſlew they: but they laid not their hands e on the ſpoyle.

e Whereby they declared that this was Gods iuſt indgement upon the enemies of his Church, forſmuch as they ſought not their owne gaine, but to execute his vengeance.

11 On the ſame day came the number of thoſe that were slaine, unto the palace of Shushan before the King.

12 And the King said unto the Queene Ester, The Iewes have slaine in Sushan the palace, and destroyed five hundreth men, and the ten sonnes of Haman: what have they done in the rest of the Kings provinces? and what is thy petition, that it may be given thee? or what is thy request moreover, that it may be performed?

13 Then said Ester, If it please the King, let it be granted also to morow to the Iewes that are in Shushan, to doe according [f] unto this dayes decree, that they may hang upon the tree Hamans ten sonnes.

14 And the king charged to doe so, and the decree was given at Shushan, and they hanged Hamans ten sonnes.

15 ¶ So the Iewes that were in Shushan, assembled themselves upon the fourteenth day of the moneth Adar, and slew three hundreth men in Shushan, but on the spoile they laid not their hand.

16 And the rest of the Iewes that were in the kings provinces, assembled themselves, and stood for [g] their lives, and had rest from their enemies, and slew of them that [h] hated them, seventie and five thousand: but they laid not their hand on the spoile.

17 This they did on the [i] thirteenth day of the moneth Adar, and rested the fourteenth day thereof, and kept it a day of feasting and ioy.

18 But the Iewes that were in Shushan assembled themselves on the thirteenth day, and on the fourteenth thereof, and they rested on the fifteenth of the same, and kept it a day of feasting and ioy.

19 Therefore the Iewes of the villages that dwelt in the unwalled townes, [k] kept the foureteenth day of the moneth Adar with ioy and feasting, even a ioyfull day, and every one sent presents unto his neighbour.

20 ¶ And Mordecai wrote [l] these words, and sent letters unto all the Iewes that were through all the provinces of the king Ahashuerosh, both neere and farre,

21 Inioyning them that they should keepe the fourteenth day of the moneth Adar, and the fifteenth day of the same, every yeere.

22 According to the dayes wherein the Iewes rested from their enemies, and the moneth which was turned unto them from sorowe to ioy, and from mourning into a ioyfull day, to keepe them the dayes of feasting and ioy, and to [m] send presents every man to his neighbour, and gifts to the poore.

23 And the Iewes promised to do as they had begun, and as Mordecai had written unto them, 24 Because Haman the sonne of Hammedatha the Agagite all the Iewes adversary had imagined against the Iewes to destroy them, and had [n] cast Pur (that is a lot) to consume and destroy them.

25 And when [o] she came before the king, hee commanded by letters, Let his wicked [p] device (which he imagined against the Iewes) turne upon his owne head, and let them hang him and his sonnes on the tree.

26 Therefore they called these dayes Purim, by the name of Pur, and because of all the words of this letter, and of that which they had seene besides this, and of that which had come unto them.

27 The Iewes also ordeined, and promised for them and for their seede, and for all that ioyned unto them, that they would not [‖] faile to observe those two [q] dayes every yeere, according to their writing, and according unto their season.

28 And that these dayes should be remembred, and kept throughout every generation and every family, and every province, and every citie: even these dayes of Purim should not faile among the Iewes, and the memoriall of them should not perish from their seed.

29 And the Queene Ester the daughter of Abihail and Mordecai the Iew wrote with all [‖] authoritie (to confirme this letter of Purim the second time.)

30 And he sent letters unto all the Iewes to the hundreth and seven and twentie provinces of the kingdome of Ahashuerosh, with [r] words of peace and trueth, 31 To confirme these dayes of Purim according to their seasons, as Mordecai the Iew and Ester the Queene had appoynted them, and as they had promised for them [†] selves and for their seede with [s] fasting and prayer.

32 And the decree of Ester confirmed these words of Purim, and was written in the booke.

CHAP. X.

1 The estimation and authoritie of Mordecai.

AND the king Ahashuerosh laid a tribute upon the land, and upon the yles of the sea.

2 And all the actes of his power, and of his might, and the declaration of the dignitie of Mordecai, wherewith the king magnified him, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the kings of Media and Persia?

3 For Mordecai the Iew was the second unto king Ahashuerosh, and great among the Iewes, and [a] accepted among the multitude of his brethren, who procured the wealth of his people, and spake peaceably to all his seed.

f This she requireth not for desire of vengeance, but with zeale to see Gods iudgements executed against his enemies.

g Reade Chap. 8. 11.

h Meaning, that they laid hands on none that were not the enemies of God.

i Meaning, in all places saving in Shushan.

k As the Iewes do even to this day, calling it in the Persian language Purim, that is, the day of lots.

l The Iewes gather hereof that Mordecai wrote this story: but it seemeth that hee wrote but onely these letters and decrees that follow.

m He setteth before our eyes the use of this feast, which was for the remembrance of Gods deliverance, the maintenance of mutuall friendship and reliefe of the poore.

n Reade Chap. 3, 7.

o That is, Ester.

p These are the words of the kings commandement to disanull Hamans wicked enterprise.

‖ Or, transgresse.

q Meaning, the fourteenth and fifteenth day of the moneth Adar.

‖ Or, strength, or efficacie.

r Which were letters declaring unto them quietnesse, and assurance, and putting them out of doubt and feare.

s That they would observe this feast with fasting and earnest prayer, which in Ebrew is signified by this word (they cry.)

a These three points are here set forth as commendable and necessarie for him that is in authoritie, to have the favour of the people, to procure their wealth, and to be gentle and loving toward them.

IOB.

THE ARGUMENT.

IN this Historie is set before our eyes the example of a singular patience. For this holy man Iob was not onely extremely afflicted in outward things and in his body, but also in his mind and conscience, by the sharpe tentations of his wife and chiefe friends: which by their vehement words, and subtill disputations brought him almost to despaire: For they set forth God as a severe Iudge, and mortall enemie unto him, which had cast him off, therefore in vaine hee should seeke unto him for succour. These friends came unto him under pretence of consolation, and yet they tormented him more then did his affliction. Notwithstanding hee did constantly resist them, and at length had good successe. In this story we have to marke that Iob maintaineth a good cause, but handleth it evill: againe his adversaries have an evill matter, but they defend it craftly. For Iob holds that God did not alway punish men according to their sinnes, but that hee had secret iudgements, whereof man knew not the cause, and therefore man could not reason against God therein, but hee should be convicted. Moreover, hee was assured assured that God had not reiected him, yet through his great torments and affliction hee braſteth forth into many inconveniences both of wordes and ſentences, and ſhewes himſelfe as a deſperate man in many things, and as one that would reſiſt God: and this is his good cauſe which he doth not handle well. Againe the aduerſaries, maintaine with many goodly argumants, that God puniſheth continually according to the treſpaſſe, grounded upon Gods prouidence, his iuſtice, and mans ſinnes, yet their intention is euill: for they labour to bring Iob into deſpaire, and ſo they maintaine an euill cauſe. Ezekiel commendeth Iob as a iuſt man, Ezek. 14. 14. and Iames ſetteth out his patience for an example, Iam. 5, 11.

THere was a man in the land of a Vz called Iob, and this man b was an vpright and iuſt man, c one that feared God, and eſchewed evill.

2 And he had ſeven ſonnes, and three daughters.

3 His d ſubſtance alſo was ſeven thouſand ſheepe, and three thouſand camels, and five hundreth yoke of oxen, and five hundreth ſhee aſſes, and his familie was very great, ſo that this man was the greateſt of all the † men of e the Eaſt.

4 And his ſonnes went and banketted in their houſes, every one his day, and ſent, and called their three ſiſters to eate and drinke with them.

5 And when the dayes of their banketting were gone about, Iob ſent, and f ſanctified them, and roſe up earely in the morning, and g offered burnt offrings according to the number of them all. For Iob thought, It may be that my ſonnes have ſinned, and h blaſphemed God in their hearts, thus did Iob i every day.

6 ¶ Now on a day when the k children of God came and ſtoode l before the Lord, Satan m came alſo among them.

7 Then the Lord ſayde unto Satan, Whence n commeſt thou? And Satan anſwered the Lord, ſaying, o From compaſsing the earth to and fro, and from walking in it.

8 And the Lord ſayd unto Satan, Haſt thou not conſidered my ſervant Iob, how none is like him in the earth? an upright and iuſt man, one that feareth God, and eſcheweth evill?

9 Then Satan anſwered the Lord, and ſayd, Doeth Iob feare God for p nought?

10 Haſt thou not made q an hedge about him and about his houſe, and about all that he hath on every ſide? thou haſt bleſſed the worke of his hands, and his ſubſtance is increaſed in the land.

11 But ſtretch out now thine hand and r touch all that he hath, to ſee if he will not blaſpheme thee to ſthy face.

12 Then the Lord ſayd unto Satan, Loe, all that he hath is in t thine hand, onely upon himſelfe ſha's thou not ſtretch out thine hand. So Satan departed from the u preſence of the Lord.

13 ¶ And on a day, when his ſonnes and his daughters were eating and drinking wine in their eldeſt brothers houſe,

14 There came a meſſenger unto Iob, and ſaid, The oxen were plowing, and the aſſes feeding in their places,

15 And the x Shabeans came violently, and tooke them: yea, they have ſlaine the ſervants with the edge of the ſword: but I onely am eſcaped about to tell thee.

16 And whiles he was yet ſpeaking, another came, and ſayd, The y fire of God is fallen from the heaven, and hath burnt up the ſheepe and the ſervants, and devoured them: but I onely am eſcaped alone to tell thee.

17 And whiles he was yet ſpeaking, another came, and ſayd, The Caldeans ſet out three bands, and fell upon the camels, and have taken them, and have ſlaine the ſervants with the edge of the ſworde: but I onely am eſcaped alone to tell thee.

18 And whiles he was yet ſpeaking, came another, and ſayd, Thy z ſonnes, and thy daughters were eating, and drinking wine in their eldeſt brothers houſe, 19 And behold, there came a great wind from beyond the wilderneſſe, and ſmote the foure corners of the houſe, which fell upon the children, and they are dead, and I onely am eſcaped alone, to tell thee.

20 Then Iob aroſe, and a rent his garment, and ſhaved his head, and fell downe upon the ground, and worſhipped.

21 And ſayd, * Naked came I out of my mothers wombe, and naked ſhall I returne b thither: the Lord hath given, and the Lord hath taken it: c bleſſed be the Name of the Lord.

22 In all this did not Iob ſinne, nor charge God d fooliſhly.

a That is, of the countrey of Idumea, as Lament. 4. 21. or bordering thereupon: for the land was called by the name of Vz the ſonne of Diſhan the ſonne of Seir. Gen 36, 28.

b Foraſmuch as he was a Gentile, and not a Iewe, and yet is pronounced upright, and without hypocriſie, it declareth that among the heathen God hath his.

c Hereby is declared, what is meant by an upright and iuſt man.

d His children and riches are declared, to commend his vertue in his proſperitie, and his patience, and conſtancie, when God had taken them from him.

e Meaning, the Arabians, Idumeans, &c.

f That is, commanded them to be ſanctified: meaning, that they ſhould conſider the faults that they had committed, and reconcile themſelves for the ſame.

g That is, hee offered for every one of his children an offering of reconciliation, which declared his religion toward God, and the care that hee had toward his children.

h Io Ebrew it is, and bleſſed God, which is ſometime taken for blaſpheming and curſing, as Deere, and 1. Kings 21, 10. and 13. &c.

i While the feaſt lasted.

k Meaning, the Angels, which are called the ſonnes of God, becauſe they are willing to execute his will.

l Becauſe our infirmitie cannot comprehend God in his maieſtie, hee is ſet foorth unto us as a King, that our capacitie may be able to underſtand that which is ſpoken of him.

m This declareth, that although Satan be aduerſarie to God, yet hee is compelled to obey him, and doe him all homage, without whoſe permiſsion and appoyntment hee can doe nothing.

n This queſtion is asked for our infirmitie: for God knew whence hee came.

o Herein is deſcribed the nature of Satan, which is ever ranging for his pray, 1. Pet. 5. 8.

p Hee feareth thee not for thine owne ſake, but for the commoditie that hee received by thee.

q Meaning, the grace of God, which ſerved Iob as a rampart againſt all tentations.

r This ſignifieth, that Satan is not able to touch us, but it is God that muſt doe it.

ſ Satan noteth the vice whereunto men are commonly ſubiect: that is, to hide their rebellion, and to be content with God in the time of proſperitie, which vice is diſſolved in the time of their aduerſitie.

† God giveth not Satan power over man ſo gratiſie him, but to declare that he hath no power over man, but that which God giveth him.

t That is, went u That is, to execute that which God had permitted him to doe: for elſe hee can never goe out of Gods preſence.

x That is, the Arabians.

y Which thing was alſo done by the craft of Satan, to tempt Iob the more grieuouſly, foraſmuch as he might ſee, that not onely men were his enemies, but that God made warre againſt him.

z This laſt plague declareth, that when one plague is paſt which ſeemeth hard to be borne, God can ſent us another farre more grieuous, to trie his, and teach them obedience.

a Which came not of impatiencie, but declareth that the children of God are not inſenſible like blocks, but that in their patience they feele affliction and griefe of minde: yet they keepe a meane herein, and rebell not againſt God, as the wicked doe.

6 Satan hath permiſsion to afflict Iob. 9 His wife tempteth him to forſake God. 11 His three friends viſit him.

AGain on a day the a children of God came and ſtood before the Lord, and b Satan came alſo among them, and ſtood before the Lord.

2 Then the Lord ſayd unto Satan, Whence commeſt thou? And Satan anſwered the Lord, and ſayd, From compaſsing the earth to and fro, and from walking in it.

3 And the Lord ſayd unto Satan, Haſt thou not conſidered my ſervant Iob, how none is like him in the earth? * an upright and iuſt man, one that feareth God, and eſcheweth evill? for yet he continueth in his uprightneſſe, c although thou mooveſt me againſt him, to deſtroy d him without cauſe.

Chap 1. 1.

c He prooveth Iobs integritie by this that hee ceaſed not to feare God when his plagues were grieuouſly upon him.

d That is, when thou haddſt nought againſt him, or when thou waſt not able to bring thy purpoſe to paſſe.

4 And Satan answered the Lord, and said, e Skin for skin, and all that ever a man hath, will he give for his life.

5 But stretch now out thine hand, and touch his f bones and his flesh, to see if hee will not blaspheme thee to thy face.

6 Then the Lord said unto Satan, Loe, he is in thine hand, but save g his life.

7 ¶ So Satan departed from the presence of the Lord, and smote Iob with sore h boyles, from the sole of his foote unto his crowne.

8 And hee tooke a i potshard to scrape him, and hee sate downe among the ashes.

9 Then said his k wife unto him, Doest thou l continue yet in thine uprightnesse? m Blaspheme God, and die.

10 But hee said unto her, Thou speakest like a foolish woman: what? shall wee receive good at the hand of God, and not n receive evill? In all this did not Iob sinne with his o lips.

11 Now when Iobs three p friends heard of all this evill that was come upon him, they came every one from his owne place, to wit, Eliphaz the Temanite, and Bildad the Shuhite, and Zophar the Naamathite: for they were agreed together to come to lament with him, and to comfort him.

12 So when they lift up their eyes a farre off, they knew him not: therefore they lift up their voyces and wept, and every one of them rent his garment and sprinkled q dust upon their heads toward the heaven.

13 So they sate by him upon the ground seven dayes, and seven nights, and none spake a word unto him: for they saw that the griefe was very r great.

e Hereby hee meant, that a mans owne skin is dearer unto him then another mans.
f Meaning, his owne person.
g Thus Satan can goe no further in punishing, then God hath limited him.
h This sore was most vehement, wherewith also God plagued the Egyptians, Exod. 9.9. and threateth to punish the rebellious people, Deut. 28.27. so that this tentation was most grievous: for if Iob had measured Gods favour by the vehemencie of his disease, hee might have thought that God had cast him off.
i As destitute of all other helpe and meanes, and wonderfully afflicted with the sorow of his disease.
k Satan useth the same instrument against Iob, as hee did against Adam.
l Meaning, what gaineth thou to serve God, seeing hee thus plagueth thee, as though he were thine enemie? This is the most grievous tentation of the faithfull, when their faith is assailed, and when Satan goeth about to persuade them that they trust in God in vaine.
m For death was appointed to the blasphemer, and so she meant that he should soone be rid out of his paine.
n That is, to be patient in adversitie, as we reioyce when hee sendeth prosperitie, and so to acknowledge him to be both mercifull and just.
o Hee so bridled his affections, that his tongue through impatience did not murmure against God.
p Which were men of authoritie, wise and learned, and as the Septuagint write, Kings, and came to comfort him, but when they saw how hee was visited, they conceived an evill opinion of him, as though hee had bene but an hypocrite, and so justly plagued of God for his sinnes.
q This was also a ceremonie, which they used in those countreys, as the renting of their cloathes in signe of sorow, &c.
r And therefore thought that hee would not have hearkened unto their counsell.

CHAP. III.

1 Iob complaineth, and curseth the day of his birth. 11 He desireth to die, as though death were the end of all mans miserie.

AFterward a Iob opened his mouth, and b cursed his day.

2 And Iob cried out, and said,

3 Let the day c perish wherein I was borne, and the night when it was sayd, There is a man-child conceived.

4 Let that day be darkenesse, let not God d regard it from above, neither let the light shine upon it,

5 But let darkenesse and the e shadow of death staine it: let the cloude remaine upon it, and let them make it fearefull as bitter day.

6 Let darkenesse possesse that night, let it not be ioyned unto the dayes of the yeere, nor let it come into the count of the moneths.

a The seven dayes ended, Chap. 2.13.
b Here Iob beginneth to feele his great imperfection in this battell betweene the spirit and the flesh. Rom. 7.18. and after a maner yeeldeth, yet in the end he getteth victorie, though hee was in the meane time greatly wounded.
c He ought not to be wearie of their life, and curse it, because of the infirmities that it is subiect unto, but because they are given to sinne and rebellion against God.
d Let it be put out of the number of dayes, and let it not have the light of the Sunne to separate it from the night.
e That is, most obscure darkenesse, which maketh them afraid of death that are in it.

7 Yea, desolate be that night, and let no ioy be in it.

8 Let them that curse the day, (being f ready to renew their mourning) curse it.

9 Let the starres of that twilight be dimme through darkenesse of it: let it looke for light, but have none: neither let it g see † the dawning of the day,

10 Because it shut not up the doores of my mothers wombe, nor hid sorow from mine eyes.

11 h Why died I not in the birth? or why died I not, when I came out of the wombe?

12 Why did the knees prevent me? and why did I sucke the breasts?

13 For so should I now haye i lien and beene quiet, I should have slept then, and bene at rest.

14 With the kings and counsellers of the earth, which have builded themselves k desolate places:

15 Or with the princes that had golde, and have filled their houses with silver.

16 Or why was I not hid, as an untimely birth, either as infants, which have not seene the light?

17 The wicked l have there ceased from their tyrannie, and there they that laboured valiantly, are at rest.

18 The m prisoners rest together, and heare not the voyce of the oppressour.

19 There are small and great, and the servant is free from his master.

20 Wherefore is the light given to him that is in miserie? and n life unto them that have heavy hearts?

21 Which long for death, and if it come not, they would even search it more then treasures:

22 Which ioy for gladnesse, and reioyce, when they can finde the grave.

23 Why is the light given to the man whose way is o hid, and whom God hath hedged in?

24 For my sighing commeth before I eat, and my roarings are powred out like the water.

25 For the thing I p feared, is come upon me, and the thing that I was afraid of, is come unto me.

26 I had no peace, neither had I quietnesse, neither had I rest, q yet trouble is come.

f Which curse the day of their birth, let them lay that curse upon this night.
g Let it be alwayes night, and never see day.
† Ebr. The eye lids of the morning.
h This, and that which followeth, declared, that when man giveth place to his passions, he is not able to stay nor keepe measure, but runneth headlong into all evill, except God call him back.
i The vehemencie of his afflictions made him to utter these words, as though death were the end of all miseries, and as if there were no life after this, which he speaketh not as though it were so, but the infirmities of his flesh caused him to braft out into this errour of the wicked.
k He noteth the ambition of them, which for their pleasure as it were, change the order of nature, and built in most barren places, because they would hereby make their names immortall.
l That is, by death the cruelties of the tyrants hath ceased.
m All they that sustaine any kinde of calamitie and miserie in this world: which hee speaketh after the iudgement of the flesh.
n Hee sheweth that the benefits of God are not comfortable, except the heart be ioyfull, and the conscience quieted.
o That seeth not how to come out of his miseries, because he dependeth not on Gods providence.
p In my prosperitie I looked ever for a fall, as it is come now to passe.
q The feare of troubles that should ensue, caused my prosperitie to seeme to mee as nothing, and yet I am not exempted from trouble.

CHAP. IIII.

1 Iob is reprehended of impatience, 7 and iniustice, 17 and of the presumption of his owne righteousnesse.

THen Eliphaz the Temanite, answered and sayd,

2 If wee assay to commune with thee, wilt thou be grieved? but a who can withhold himselfe from speaking?

3 Behold, thou hast taught many, and b hast strengthened the weary hands.

4 Thy wordes have confirmed him that was falling, and thou hast strengthened the weake knees.

5 But now it is come upon thee, and thou art grieved: it toucheth thee, and thou art troubled.

6 Is not this thy c feare, thy confidence, thy patience, and uprightnesse of thy wayes?

7 Remember, I pray thee: who ever perished, being a Seeing this thine impatience.

b Thou hast comforted others in their afflictions, and canst not now comfort thy selfe.
c This hee concludeth that Iob was but an hypocrite, and had no true feare nor trust in God.

being and innocent? or where were the upright destroyed?

8 As I have seene, they that e plow iniquity, and sowe wickednesse, reape the same.

9 With the f blast of God they perish, and with the breath of his nostrels are they consumed.

10 The roaring of the g Lion, and the voyce of the Lioness, and the teeth of the Lions whelps are broken.

11 The Lion perisheth for lacke of preye, and the Lions whelps are scattered abroad.

12 But a thing was brought to me h secretly, and mine eare hath received a little thereof.

13 In the thoughts of the visions of the night, when sleepe falleth on men, 14 Feare came upon me, and dread which made all my bones i to tremble.

15 And the winde passed before me, and made the haires of my flesh to stand up.

16 Then stood one, and I knew not his face: an image was before mine eyes, and in k silence heard I a voyce, saying,

17 Shall man be more l iust then God? or shall a man be more pure then his Maker?

18 Beholde, hee found no stedfastnesse in his servants, and laid follie upon his m Angels.

19 How much more in them that dwell in houses of n clay, whose foundation is in the dust, which shall be destroyed before the moth?

20 They be destroyed from the o morning unto the evening: they perish for ever, p without regard.

21 Doth not their dignity go away with them? doe they not die, and that without q wisedome?

d Hee concludeth that Iob was reprooved, seeing that God handled him so extremely, which is the argument that the carnall men make against the children of God.

e They that doe evill, cannot but receive evill.

f He sheweth that God needeth no great preparation to destroy his enemies: for hee can doe it with the blast of his mouth.

g Though men according to their office doe not punish tyrants (whom for their cruelty hee compareth to lions, and their children to their whelps) yet God both is able, and his iustice will punish them.

h A thing that I knew not before, was declared unto me by vision, that is, that whosoever thinketh himselfe iust, shall be found a sinner, when he commeth before God.

i In these visions which God sheweth to his creatures, there is ever a certaine feare ioyned, that the authority thereof might be had in greater reverence.

k When all things were quiet, or when the feare was somewhat asswaged, as God appeared to Elijah, 1.King.19.12.

l Hee prooveth that if God did punish the innocent, the creature should be more iust then the Creator, which were a blasphemie.

m If God find imperfection in his Angels, when they are not maintained by his power, how much more shall he lay folly to mans charge when hee would iustifie himselfe against God?

n That is, in this mortall body, subiect to corruption, as 2. Cor. 5.1.

o They see death continually before their eyes, and dayly approaching toward them.

p No man for all this doeth consider it.

q That is, before that any of them were so wise, as to thinke on death.

CHAP. V.

1,2 Eliphaz sheweth the difference betweene the children of God and the wicked. 3 The fall of the wicked. 9 Gods power who destroyeth the wicked, and delivereth his.

a He willeth Iob to consider the example of all them that have lived or doe live godly, whether any of them be like unto him in raging against God as hee doeth.

b Murmuring against God in afflictions increaseth the paine, and uttered mans folly.

c That is, the sinner that hath not the feare of God.

d I was not moved with his prosperitie, but knew that God had cursed him and his.

e Though God sometime suffer the fathers to passe in this world, yet his iudgements will light upon their wicked children.

f By publike iudgement they shalbe condemned, and none shall pity them.

g Though there be but two or three eares left in the hedges, yet these shall be taken from him.

h That is, the earth is not the cause of barrennesse and mans misery, but his owne sinne.

i Which declareth that sinne is ever in our corrupt nature: for before sinne it was not subiect to paine and affliction.

CAll now, if any will a answere thee, and to which of the Saints wilt thou turne?

2 Doubtlesse b anger killeth the foolish, and envie slayeth the idiot.

3 I have seene the c foolish well rooted, and suddenly I d cursed his habitation, saying,

4 His e children shalbe farre from salvation, and they shalbe destroyed in the f gate, and none shall deliver them.

5 The hungry shall eate up his harvest: yea, they shall take it from among the g thornes, and the thirstie shall drinke up their substance.

6 For miserie commeth not foorth of the dust, neither doeth affliction spring out of the earth.

7 But man is borne unto h travell, as the sparks flie upward.

8 But I would enquire at k God, and turne my talke unto God:

9 Which l doeth great things, and unsearchable, and marveilous things without number.

10 He m giveth raine upon the earth, and powreth water upon the streetes.

11 And setteth up on hie them that be lowe, that the sorowfull may be exalted to salvation.

12 He scattereth the devises of the craftie: so that their hands cannot accomplish that which they doe enterprise.

13 * He taketh the wise in their craftinesse, and the counsell of the wicked is made foolish.

14 They meete with n darkenesse in the day time, and o grope at noone day, as in the night.

15 But he saveth the p poore from the sword from their q mouth, and from the hand of the violent man, 16 So that the poore hath his hope, but iniquity shall r stop her mouth.

17 Behold, blessed is the man whom God correcteth: therefore refuse not thou the chastising of the Almighty.

18 For he maketh the wound, and bindeth it up: he smiteth, and his hands make whole.

19 He shall deliver thee in f six troubles, and in the seventh the evill shall not touch thee.

20 In famine he shall deliver thee from death: and in battell from the power of the sword.

21 Thou shalt be hid from the scourge of the tongue, and thou shalt not be afraid of destruction when it commeth.

22 But thou shalt s laugh at destruction and dearth, and shalt not be afraid of the beast of the earth.

23 For the stones of the field u shall be in league with thee, and the beasts of the field shall be at peace with thee.

24 And thou shalt know, that peace shalbe in thy tabernacle, and thou shalt visit thine habitation, and shalt not x sinne.

25 Thou shalt perceive also that thy seede shalbe great, and thy posteritie as the grasse of the earth.

26 Thou shalt goe to thy grave in y a full age, as a ricke of corne commeth in due season into the barne.

27 Loe, z thus have wee enquired of it, and so it is: heare this and know it for thy selfe.

k If I suffered as thou doest, I would seeke unto God.

l Hee counselleth Iob to humble himselfe unto God to whom all creatures are subiect, and whose works declare that man is inexcusable, except hee glorifie God in all his workes.

m He sheweth by particular examples, what the works of God are.

* 1. Cor. 3.19.

n In things plaine and evident they shew themselves fooles in stead of wise men.

o This declareth that God punisheth the worldly wise, as he threatened, Deut. 28. 29.

p That is, hee that humbleth himselfe before God.

q He compareth the slander of the wicked to sharpe swords.

r If the wicked be compelled at Gods workes to stoppe their mouthes, much more they that professe God.

s Hee will send trouble after trouble that his children may not for one time, but continually trust in him: but they shall have a comfortable issue, even in the greatest and the last, which is here called the seventh.

t Whereas the wicked lament in their troubles, thou shalt have occasion to reioyce.

u When wee are in Gods favour, all creatures shall serve us.

x God shall so blesse thee, that thou shalt have occasion to reioyce in all things, and not to be offended.

y Though the children of God have not alwayes this promise performed, yet God doeth recompense it otherwise to their advantage.

z Wee have learned these points by experience, that God punisheth not the innocent, that man cannot compare in iustice with him, that the hypocrites shall not long prosper, and that the affliction which man susteineth, commeth for his owne sinne.

CHAP. VI.

1 Iob answereth, that his paine is more grievous then his faults. 8 Hee wisheth death. 14 Hee complaineth of his friends.

BUt Iob answered, and said,

2 Oh that my griefe were well weighed, and my miseries were layed together in the a balance!

3 For it would be now heavier then the sand of the sea: therefore my wordes are b swallowed up.

4 For the arrowes of the Almighty are in me, the venim whereof doeth drinke up my spirit, and the terrours of God c fight against me.

a To know whether I complaine without iust cause.

b My griefe is so great, that lacke words to expresse it.

c Which declareth that hee was not onely afflicted in body, but wounded in conscience, which is the greatest battell that the faithfull can have.

5 Doeth

5 Doeth the d wilde aſſe bray when hee hath graſſe? or loweth the oxe when hee hath fodder?

6 That which is e unſavery, ſhall it be eaten without ſalt? or is there any taſte in the white of an egge?

7 Such things as my ſoule refuſed to touch as vvere ſorowes, are my meate.

8 Oh that I might have my f deſire, and that God would graunt me the thing that I long for!

9 That is, that God would deſtroy mee: that hee would let his hand goe, and cut mee off.

10 Then ſhould I yet have comfort, (though I burne with ſorow, let him not ſpare) g becauſe I have not denied the words of the Holy one.

11 What power have I that I ſhould endure? or what is mine h ende, if I ſhould prolong my life?

12 Is my ſtrength the ſtrength of ſtones? or is my fleſhe of braſſ e?

13 Is it not ſo, that there is in me no i helpe? and that k ſtrength is taken from me?

14 Hee that is in miſery, ought to be comforted of his neighbour: but men have forſaken the feare of the Almighty.

15 My brethren have deceived me as a k brooke, and as the riſing of the rivers they paſſe away.

16 Which are blackiſh with yce, and wherein the ſnow is hid.

17 But in time they are dried up with heate and are conſumed: and when it is hote they faile out of their places, 18 Or they depart from their way and courſe, yea, they vaniſh and periſh.

19 They that goe to Tema, l conſidered them, and they that goe to Sheba, waited for them.

20 But they were confounded: when they hoped, they came thither, and were aſhamed.

21 Surely now are ye like m unto it: yee have ſeene my fearefull plague, and are afraid.

22 Was it becauſe I ſaid, Bring unto me? or give a reward to me of your n ſubſtance?

23 And deliver me from the enemies hand, or ranſome me out of the hand of tyrants?

24 Teach me, and I will o hold my tongue: and cauſe me to underſtand, wherein I have erred.

25 How p ſtedfaſt are the words of righteouſneſſe? and what can any of you iuſtly reproove?

26 Doe ye imagine to reproove q words, that the talke of the afflicted ſhould be as the winde?

27 Yee make your wrath to fall upon the fatherleſſe, and digge a pit for your friend.

28 Now therefore be content to r looke upon me: for I will not lie before your face.

29 Turne, I pray you, let there be none iniquitie: returne, I ſay, and ye ſhall ſee yet my righteouſneſſe in that behalfe. Is there iniquity in my tongue? doeth not my mouth feele ſorowes?

d Thinke you that I cry without cauſe, ſeeing the bruit beaſt doe not complaine when they have what they would.

e Can a mans taſte delight in that, that hath no ſavour? meaning, that none take pleaſure in affliction, ſeeing they cannot away with things that are unſavoury to the mouth.

f Herein hee ſinneth double, both in wiſhing through impatiency to die, and alſo in deſiring of God a thing which was not agreable to his will.

g That is, let me die at once, before I come to diſtruſt in Gods promiſe through my impatiencie.

h Hee feareth leaſt hee ſhould be brought to inconveniences, if his ſorowes ſhould continue.

i Have I not ſought to helpe my ſelfe as much as was poſſible?

k Or, wiſdome, or law.

k Hee compareth thoſe friendes which comfort us not in miſery, to a brooke, which in ſummer, when wee needе water, is drie, in winter is hard frozen, and in the time of raine, when wee have no need, overfloweth with water.

l They that paſſe thereby to goe into the hot countreys of Arabia, thinke to find water there to quench their thirſt, but they are deceived.

m That is, like to this brooke, which deceiveth them that thinke to have water there in their need, as I looked for conſolation at your hands.

n He toucheth the worldlings, which for neceſſitie will give part of their goods, and much more theſe men, which would not give him comfortable words.

o Shew me wherein I have erred, and I will confeſſe my fault.

p Hee that hath a good conſcience doeth not ſhrinke at the ſharpe words or reaſonings of others, except they be able to perſwade him by reaſon.

q Doe you cavill at my words becauſe I ſhould be thought to ſpeake foolishly, which am now in miſerie?

r Conſider whether I ſpeake as one that is driven to this impatiencie through very ſorow, or as an hypocrite as you condemne me.

CHAP. VI.

1 Iob ſheweth the ſhortneſſe and miſerie of mans life.

IS there not an appoynted time to man upon earth? and are not his dayes as the dayes of an a hireling?

2 As a ſervant longeth for the ſhadow, and as an hireling looketh for the end of his worke,

3 So have I had as an inheritance the b moneths of vanity, and painefull nights have beene appointed unto me.

4 If I ſayed me downe, I ſayd, When ſhall I ariſe? and meaſuring the evening, I am even full with toſſing to and fro unto the dawning of the day.

5 My fleſh is c cloathed with wormes and filthineſſe of the duſt: my skin is rent, and become horrible.

6 My dayes are ſwifter then d a weavers ſhittle, and they are ſpent without hope.

7 Remember that my life is but a winde, and that mine eye ſhall not returne to ſee pleaſure.

8 The eye that hath ſeene me, ſhall ſee me no more: thine eyes are upon me, and I ſhall be no longer.

9 e As the cloude vaniſheth and goeth away, ſo he that goeth downe to the grave, ſhall f come up no more.

10 He ſhall returne no more to his houſe, neither ſhall his place know him any more.

11 Therefore I will not g ſpare my mouth, but will ſpeake in the trouble of my ſpirit, and muſe in the bitterneſſe of my minde.

12 Am I a ſea h or a whaleſiſh, that thou keepeſt me in ward?

13 When I ſay, My couch ſhall relieve me, and my bed ſhall bring comfort in my meditation.

14 Then feareſt thou me i with dreames, and aſtoniſheſt me with viſions.

15 Therefore my ſoule k chuſeth rather to be ſtrangled and to die, then to be in my bones.

16 I abhorre it: I ſhall not live alway: l ſpare me then, for my dayes are but vanity.

17 What is man, that thou m doeſt magnifie him, and that thou ſetteſt thine heart upon him?

18 And doeſt viſit him every morning, and trieſt him every moment?

19 How long will it be yer thou depart from mee? thou wilt not let mee alone whiles I may ſwallow my ſpettle.

20 I have n ſinned, what ſhall I doe unto thee? O thou preſerver of men, why haſt thou ſet me as a marke againſt thee, ſo that I am a burden unto my ſelfe?

21 And why doeſt thou not pardon my treſpaſſe? and take away mine iniquity? for now ſhall I ſleepe in the duſt, and if thou ſeeke me in the morning, I ſhall o not be found.

b My ſorow hath continued from moneth to moneth, and I have looked for hope in vaine.

c This ſignifieth that this diſeaſe was rare and moſt horrible.

d Thus he ſpeaketh in reſpect of the brevitie of mans life, which paſſeth without hope of returning: in conſideration whereof he deſireth God to have compaſſion on him.

e If thou behold me in thine anger, I ſhall not be able to ſtand in thy preſence.

f Shall no more enjoy this mortall life.

g Seeing I can by none other meanes comfort my ſelfe, I will declare my griefe by words, and thus hee ſpeaketh as owne overcome with griefe of minde.

h Am not I a poore wretch? what needeſt thou then to lay ſo much paine on me?

i So that I can have no reſt, night nor day.

k Hee ſpeaketh as one overcome with ſorow, and not of iudgement, or of the examination of his faith.

l Seeing my terme of life is ſo ſhort, let me have ſome reſt and eaſe.

m Seeing that man of himſelfe is ſo vile, why doeſt thou give him that honour to contend againſt him? Iob vſeth all kinds of perſwaſion with God, that hee might ſtay his hand.

n After all tentations faith braſteth forth and leadeth Iob to repentance: yet it was not in ſuch perfection, that hee could bridle himſelfe from reaſoning with God, becauſe that hee ſtill tried his faith.

o That is, I ſhall be dead.

CHAP. VIII.

1 Bildad ſheweth that Iob is a ſinner, becauſe that God puniſheth the wicked, and preſerveth the good.

THen anſwered Bildad the Shuhite, and ſayd,

2 How long wilt thou talke of theſe things? and how long ſhall the wordes of thy mouth a be as a mighty winde.

3 Doeth God pervert iudgement? or doeth the Almighty ſubvert iuſtice?

4 If thy ſonnes have ſinned againſt him, and hee hath ſent them into the place of their b iniquitie.

a Hee declareth that their words which would diminiſh any thing from the iuſtice of God, is but as a puffe of wind that vaniſheth away.

b That is, hath rewarded them according to their iniquitie: meaning, that Iob ought to be warned by the example of his children, that hee offend not God.

c That is, if thou turne betime whiles God calleth thee to repentance.
d Though the beginnings be not so pleasant as thou wouldest desire, yet in the ende thou shalt have sufficient occasion to content thy selfe.
e Hee willeth Iob to examine all antiquity, and he shall find it true which he here saith.
f Meaning, that it is not ynough to have the experience of our selves, but to be confirmed by the examples of them that went before us.
g As a rush cannot grow without moisture, so cannot the hypocrite, because hee hath not faith, which is moistened with Gods Spirit.
h Which is to day, and to morow swept away.
i Hee compareth the iust to a tree, which although it be removed out of one place unto another, yet flourisheth: so the affliction of the godly turneth to their profit.
k That is, so that there remaine nothing there to proove whether the tree had growen there or no.
l To be planted in another place, where it may growe at pleasure.
m If thou be godly, he will give thee occasion to reioyce, and if not, thine affliction shall increase.

5 Yet if thou c wilt early looke unto God, and pray to the Almighty, 6 If thou be pure and upright, then surely he will awake up unto thee, and he will make the habitation of thy righteousnes prosperous.
7 And though thy beginning d be small, yet thy latter end shall greetly increase.
8 e Enquire therefore, I pray thee, of the former age, and prepare thy selfe to search of their fathers.
9 (For we are but f of yesterday, and are ignorant: for our dayes upon earth are but a shadow.)
10 Shall not they teach thee and tell thee, and vtter the words of their heart?
11 Can a rush g grow without myre? or can the grasse grow without water?
12 Though it were in greene and not cut downe, yet shall it wither before any other herbe.
13 So are he paths of all that forget God, and the hypocrites hope shall perish.
14 His confidence also shalbe cut off, and his trust shallbe as the house of a h spider.
15 Hee shall leane upon his house, but it shall not stand: he shall hold him fast by it, yet shall it not endure.
16 The i tree is greene before the Sunne, and the branches spread over the garden thereof.
17 The rootes thereof are wrapped about the fountaine, and are folden about the house of stones.
18 If any plucke it from his place, and it k deny, saying, I have not seene thee, 19 Behold, it will reioyce l by this meanes, that it may grow in another mould.
20 Behold, God will not cast away an upright man, neither will he take the wicked by the hand, 21 Till he have filled thy mouth with m laughter, and thy lips with ioy.
22 They that hate thee, shall be cloathed with shame, and the dwelling of the wicked shall not remaine.

CHAP. IX.

1. Iob declareth the mightie power of God, and that mans righteousnesse is nothing.

THen Iob answered, and said,
2 I knowe verily that it is so: for how should man compared to God be a iustified?
3 If he would dispute with him, he could not answere him one thing of b thousand.
4 He is wise in heart, & mighty in strength: who hath bene fierce against him, and hath prospered?
5 He removeth the mountaines, and they feele not when he overthroweth them in his wrath.
6 He c remooveth the earth out of her place, that the pillars thereof doe shake.
7 He commandeth the Sunne, and it riseth not: he closeth up the starres, as under a signet.
8 Hee himselfe alone spreadeth out the heavens, and walketh upon the height of the Sea.
9 He maketh the starres d Arcturus, Orion, and Pleiades, and the climates of the South.
10 Hee doeth great things, and unsearchable: yea, marveilous things without number.
11 Loe, when he goeth e by me, I see him not: and when he passeth by, I perceive him not:
12 Behold, when he taketh a pray, f who can make him to restore it? who shall say unto him, What doest thou?
13 God g will not withdraw his anger, and the most mighty helpes h doe stoupe under him.
14 How much lesse shall I answere him? or how should I find out i my wordes with him?
15 For though I were iust, yet could I k not answere, but I would make supplication to my Iudge.
16 If I l cry, and he answere mee, yet would I not beleeve, that he heard my voyce.
17 For he destroyeth me with a tempest, and woundeth me m without cause.
18 He will not suffer me to take my breath, but filleth me with bitternesse.
19 If we speake of strength, beholde, hee is n strong: If we speake of iudgement, who shall bring me in to pleade?
20 If I should iustifie my selfe, mine owne mouth shall condemne me: o If I would be perfit, he shall iudge me wicked.
21 Though I were perfit, yet I know not my soule: therefore abhorre I my life.
22 This is one point: therefore I said, He destroyeth the p perfect and the wicked.
23 If the scourge should suddenly q slay, should God r laugh at the punishment of the innocent?
24 The earth is given unto the hand of the wicked: s he covereth the faces of the iudges thereof: if not, where, t is he? or who is he?
25 My dayes have be more swift then a post: they have fled, and have seene no good thing.
26 They are passed as with the most swift ships, and as the Eagle that flieth to the pray.
27 If u I say, I will forget my complaint, I will cease from my wtath, and comfort me, 28 Then I am afriad of all my sorowes, knowing that thou wilt not iudge me innocent.
29 If I be wicked, why x labour I thus in vaine?
30 If I wash y my selfe with snow water, and purge mine hands most cleane, 31 Yet shalt thou plunge mee in the pit, and mine owne z cloathes shall make me filthy.
32 For he is not a man as I am, that I should answere him, if we come together to iudgement.
33 Neither is there any umpire a that might lay his hand upon us both.
34 Let him take his rod away from me, and let not his feare astonish me:
35 Then will I speake, and feare him not, b but because I am not so, I hold me still.

a Iob here answereth to that point of Eliphaz and Bildads oration, touching the iustice of God, and his innocencie, confessing God to be infinite in iustice, and man to be nothing in respect.
b Of a thousand things, which God could lay to his charge, men cannot answere him one.
c He declareth what is the infirmitie of man, by the mighty and incomprehensible power that is in God, shewing what he could doe if he would set forth his power.
d These are the names of certaine starres, whereby be meaneth that all starres both knowen and unknowen are at his appointment.
e I am not able to comprehend his workes, which are common and dayly before mine eyes, much lesse in those things, which are hid and secret.
f He sheweth that when God doeth execute his power, he doeth it iustly, forasmuch as none can controll him.
g God will not be appeased for ought that man can say for himselfe for his iustification.
h That is, all the reasons that men can lay to approove their cause.
i How should I be able to answere him by eloquence? whereby he moveth his friends, that albeit they were eloquent in talke, yet they felt not in heart, that which they spake.
k Meaning, in his owne opinion, signifying, that man will sometime flatter himselfe to be righteous, which before God is abomination.
l Whiles I am in my pangs, I cannot but braft forth into many inconveniences, although I know still that God is iust.
m I am not able to feele my sinnes so great, as I feele the weight of his plagues: and this hee speaketh to condemne his dulnesse, and to iustifie God.
n After he hath accused his owne weakenesse, he continueth to iustifie God and his power.
o If I would stand in mine owne defence, yet God hath iust cause to condemne me, if he examine mine heart and conscience.
p If God punish according to his iustice, he will destroy aswell them, that are counted perfit, as them that are wicked.
q To wit the wicked.
r This is spoken according to our apprehension, as though he would say, If God destroy but the wicked, as Chap. 5, 3. why should he suffer the innocents to be so long tormented by them?
s That they cannot see to doe.
t That can shew the contrary?
u I thinke not to fall into these afflictions, but my sorowes bring me to these manifold infirmities, and my conscience condemneth me.
x Why doeth not God destroy me at once? thus he speaketh according to the infirmitie of the flesh.
y Though I seeme never so pure in mine owne eyes, yet all is but corruption before God.
z Whatsoever I would vse to cover my filthinesse with, shall discover me so much more.
a Which might make an accord betweene God and me, speaking of impatience, and yet confessing God to be iust in punishing him.
b Signifying that Gods iudgements keepe him in awe.

CHAP. X.

1. Iob is wearie of his life, and setteth out his frailtie before God. 20. He desireth him to stay his hand. 22. A description of death.

MY soule is cut off a though I liue: I will leave my b complaint upon my selfe, and will speake in a I am more like to a dead man, then to one that liveth.

b I will make an ample declaration of my torments, accusing my selfe and not God.

in the bitternesse of my soule.

2 I will say unto God, c Condemne mee not: shew me, wherefore thou contendest with me.

3 Thinkest thou it d good to oppresse me, and to cast off the e labour of thine hands, and to favour the f counsell of the wicked?

4 Hast thou g carnall eyes? or doest thou see as man seeth?

5 Are thy dayes as mens h dayes? or thy yeares as the time of man,

6 That thou enquirest of mine iniquitie, and searchest out my sinne?

7 Thou knowest that I cannot doe i wickedly: for none can deliver me out of thine hand.

8 Thine k hands have made me, and fashioned mee wholly round about, and wilt thou destroy mee?

9 Remember, I pray thee, that thou hast made me as l the clay, and wilt thou bring me into dust againe?

10 Hast thou not powred me out as milke? and turned me to cruds like cheese?

11 Thou hast cloathed me with skin and flesh, and ioyned me together with bones and sinewes.

12 Thou hast given me life, and m grace: and the n visitation hath preserved my spirit.

13 Though thou hast hid these things in thine heart, yet I know o that it is so with thee.

14 If I have sinned, then thou wilt streightly looke unto me, and wilt not hold me guiltlesse of mine iniquitie.

15 If I have done wickedly, woe unto me: if I have done righteously, I will not p lift up mine head, being full of confusion, because I see mine affliction.

16 But let it increase: hunt thou me as a lyon: returne and shew thy selfe q marveilous upon mee.

17 Thou renuest thy plagues against me, and thou increasest thy wrath against me: r changes and armies of sorowes are against me.

18 Wherefore then hast thou brought me out of the wombe? Oh that I had perished, and that none eye had seene me!

19 And that I were as I had not bene, but brought from the wombe to the grave!

20 Are not my dayes few? let him s cease, and leave off from me, that I may take a little comfort,

21 Before I goe and shall not t returne, even to the land of darkenesse and shadow of death:

22 Into a lande, I say, darke as darkenesse it selfe, and into the shadow of death, where is none u order, but the light is there as darkenesse.

c He would not that God should proceed against him by his secret iustice, but by the ordinary meanes that hee punisheth others.
d Is it agreeable to thy iustice to doe me wrong?
e Wilt thou be without compassion?
f Wilt thou gratifie the wicked and condemne me?
g Doest thou this of ignorance?
h Art thou inconstant and changeable, as the times, to day a friend, to morow an enemy?
i By affliction thou keepest me as in a prison, and restrainest me from doing evill, neither can any set me at libertie.
k In these eight verses following he describeth the mercy of God, in the wonderfull creation of man: and thereon groundeth that God should not shew himselfe rigorous against him.
l As brittle as a pot of clay.
m That is, reason and understanding, and many other gifts, whereby man excelleth all earthly creatures.
n That is, thy fatherly care and providence whereby thou preservest me, and without the which I should perish straightway.
o Though I be not fully able to comprehend these things, yet I must needes confesse that it is so.
p I will alway walke in feare and humilitie, knowing that none is iust before thee.
q Iob being sore assaulted in this battell betweene the flesh and the spirit, brasteth out into these affections, wishing rather short dayes then long paine.
r That is, diversitie of diseases and in great abundance: shewing that God hath infinite means to punish man.
s He wisheth that God would leave off his affliction, considering his great miserie and the brevitie of his life.
t Hee speaketh thus in the person of a sinner, that is overcome with passions and with the feeling of Gods iudgements, & therefore cannot apprehend in that state the mercies of God, and comfort of the resurrection.
u No distinction between light and darkenesse, but where all is very darkenesse it selfe.

4 For thou hast said, b My doctrine is pure, and I am cleane in thine eyes.

5 But, oh that God would speake and open his lips against thee!

6 That hee might shew thee the c secrets of wisedome how thou hast deserved double, according to right: know therefore that God hath forgotten thee for thine iniquitie.

7 Canst thou by searching find out God? canst thou find out the Almightie to his perfection?

8 The heavens are hie, what canst thou do? d it is deeper then the hell, how canst thou know it?

9 The measure thereof is longer then the earth, and it is broader then the Sea.

10 If he cut off and e shut up, or gather together, who can turne him backe?

11 For he knoweth vaine men, and seeth iniquitie, and him that understandeth nothing.

12 Yet vaine man would be wise, though man newe borne is like a wilde f asse-colt.

13 If thou g prepare thine heart, and stretch out thine hands toward him:

14 If iniquitie be in thine h hand, put it farre away, and let no wickednesse dwell in thy Tabernacle.

15 Then truely shalt thou lift up thy i face without spot, and shalt be stable, and shalt not feare.

16 But thou shalt forget thy miserie, and remember it as waters that are past.

17 Thine age also shall appeare more cleare then the noone day: thou shalt shine and be as the morning.

18 And thou shalt be bolde, because there is hope: and thou shalt digge pittes, and shalt lye downe safely.

19 * For when thou takest thy rest, none shall made thee afraid: yea, many shall make sure unto thee.

20 But the eyes k of the wicked shall faile, and their refuse shall perish, and their hope shallbe sorow of minde.

b He chargeth Iob with this, that he should say, that the thing which he spake was true, and that he was without sinne in the sight of God.
c Which is not to stand in iustifying of thy selfe: he signifieth that man will never be overcome, whiles he reasoneth with another, and therefore God must breake of the controversie, and stop mans mouth.
d That is, this perfection of God, and if man be not able to comprehend the height of the heaven, the depth of hell, the length of the earth, the breadth of the Sea, which are but creatures; who can he attaine to the perfection of the Creator?
e If God should turne the state of things, and establish a new order in nature, who could controlle him.
f That is, without understanding: so that whatsoever gifts he hath afterward, come of God, and not of nature.
g If thou repent, pray unto him.
h Renounce thine owne evill workes, and see that they offend not God, over whom thou hast charge.
i Hee declareth what quietnesse of conscience and successe in al things such shall have, which turne to God by true repentance.
* Levit. 26, 5, 6.
k He sheweth that contrary things shall come unto them that doe not repent.

CHAP. XII.

1 Iob accuseth his friendes of ignorance. 7 Hee declareth the might, and power of God. 17 And how hee changeth the course of things.

THen Iob answered, and said,

2 Indeede because that ye are the people only, a wisedome must die with you.

3 But I have understanding aswell as you, and am not inferiour unto you: yea, who knoweth not such things?

4 * I am b as one mocked of his neighbour, who calleth upon God, and he c heareth him: the iust and the upright is laughed to scorne.

5 d Hee that is ready to fall, is as a lampe despised in the opinion of the rich.

6 The tabernacles of robbers doe prosper, and they are in safetie that provoke God, † whom God hath enriched with his hand.

7 Aske now the beasts, e and they shall teach a Because you feele not that which you speake, you thinke the whole standeth in wordes, and so flatter your selves as though none knew any thing, or could know but you.

* Prov. 14. 2.
b He reproveth these his friends of two faults: the one that they thought they had better knowledge then indeede they had: and the other, that in stead of true consolation, they did deride and despise their friend in his adversity.
c The which neighbour being a mocker and a wicked man, thinketh that no man is in Gods favour but hee, because hee hath all things that he desireth.
d As the rich esteeme not a light, or torch that goeth out, so in hee despised that falleth from prosperity to adversitie.
† Ebr. to whom God hath brought in with his hand.
e He declareth to them that did dispute against him, that their wisedome is common to all, and such as the very bruite beast doe dayly teach,

n Should he perswade by his great talke, that he is iust?

f He exhorteth them to be wiſe in iudging, and aſwel to know the right uſe why God hath given them eares, as he hath done a mouth.

g Though men by age, and continuance of time attaine to wiſedome, yet it is not comparable to Gods wiſedome, nor able to comprehend his iudgements, wherein he anſwereth to that which was alleaged, Chap. 8, 8.

h He ſheweth that there is nothing done in this world without Gods wil and ordinance, for elſe he ſhould not be Almighty.

i He taketh wiſedome from them.

k He abaſeth the honour of princes, and bringeth them into the ſubiection of others.

l He cauſeth that their words have no credite, which is when he will puniſh ſinne.

m In this diſcourſe of Gods wonderfull workes, Iob ſheweth that whatſoever is done in this worl'd both in the order and change of things, is by Gods will and appointment: wherein he declareth that he thinketh well of God, and is as able to ſet foorth his power in words as they that reaſoned againſt, were.

thee, and the foules of the heaven, and they ſhall tell thee.

8 Or ſpeake to the earth, and it ſhall ſhew thee: or the fiſhes of the ſea, and they ſhall declare unto thee.

9 Who is ignorant of all theſe, but that the hand of the Lord hath made theſe?

10 In whoſe hand is the ſoule of ever living thing, and the breath of all ‖ mankinde.

11 Doeth not the eares f diſcerne the words, and the mouth taſte meate for it ſelfe?

12 Among the g ancient is wiſdome, and in the length of dayes is underſtanding.

13 With him is wiſedome and ſtrength: hee hath counſell and underſtanding.

14 Behold, he will breake downe, and it cannot be built: he ſhutteth a man up, and he cannot be looſed.

15 Behold, hee withholdeth the waters, and they drie up: but when he ſendeth them out, they deſtroy the earth.

16 With him is ſtrength and wiſedome: he that is deceived, and that h deceiveth, are his.

17 Hee cauſeth the conſellers to goe as ſpoiled, and maketh the iudges fooles.

18 i Hee looſeth k the collar of kings, and girdeth their loynes with a girdle.

19 Hee leadeth away the princes as a prey, and overthroweth the mighty.

20 He taketh away the ſpeach from the l faithfull counſellers, and taketh away the iudgement of the ancient.

21 Hee powreth contempt upon princes, and maketh the ſtrength of the mighty weake.

22 He diſcovereth the deepe places from their darkeneſſe, and bringeth foorth the ſhadow of death to light.

23 He m increaſeth the people, and deſtroyeth them: hee enlargeth the nations, and bringeth them in againe.

24 Hee taketh away the hearts of them that are the chiefe over the people of the earth, and maketh them to wander in the wildderneſſe out of the way.

25 They grope in the darke without light: and he maketh them to ſtagger like a drunken man.

CHAP. XIII.

Iob compareth his knowledge with the experience of his friends. 16 The penitent ſhall be ſaved, and the hypocrite condemned. 20 He prayeth unto God, that he would not handle him rigorouſly.

LOe, mine eye hath ſeene all this: mine eare hath heard, and underſtood it.

2 I know alſo as much as you know: I am not inferiour unto you.

3 But I will ſpeake to the Almighty, and I deſire a to diſpute with God,

4 For in deede yee forge lies, and all you are b phyſicians of no value.

5 Oh, that you would hold your tongue, that it might be imputed to you for wiſedome!

6 Now heare my diſputation, and give eare to the argumentes of my lips.

7 Will ye ſpeake c wickedly for Gods defence, and talke deceitfull for his cauſe?

8 Will ye accept his perſon? or will ye contend for God?

a For although he knew that God had a iuſtice, which was manifeſt in his ordinary working and another in his ſecret counſell, yet he would utter his affection to God, becauſe he was not able to underſtand the cauſe why he did thus puniſh him.

b You doe not well apply your medicine to the diſeaſe.

c He condemneth their zeale, which had not knowledge, neither regarded they to comfort him, but alway grated on Gods iuſtice, as though it was not evidently ſeene in Iob, except they had undertaken the probation thereof.

9 Is it well that hee ſhould ſeeke of you? will you make a lye for him, as one lyeth for a man?

10 He will ſurely reproove you, if ye doe ſecretly accept any perſon.

11 Shall not his excellencie make you afraid? and his feare fall upon you?

12 Your d memories may be compared unto aſhes, and your bodies unto bodies of clay.

13 Hold your tongues in my preſence, that I may ſpeake, and let come upon what will.

14 Wherefore doe I e take my fleſh in my teeth, and put my ſoule in my hand?

15 Loe, though hee ſlay me, yet will I truſt in him, and I will reproove my wayes in his ſight.

16 He ſhall be my ſalvation alſo: for the f hypocrite ſhall not come before him.

17 Heare diligently my words, and marke my talke.

18 Behold now: if I prepare me to iudgement, I know that I ſhallbe g iuſtified.

19 Who is he that will pleade h with me? for if I now hold my tongue, I i die.

20 But do not theſe two things unto me: then will I not hide my ſelfe from thee.

21 k Withdraw thine hand from me, and let not thy feare make me afraid.

22 Then call thou, and I will anſwere: or let me ſpeake, anſwere thou me.

23 How many are l mine iniquities and ſinnes, ſhew me my rebellion and my ſinne.

24 Wherefore hideſt thou thy face, and takeſt me for thine enemie?

25 Wilt thou breake a leafe driven to and fro? and wilt thou purſue the drie ſtubble?

26 For thou writeſt bitter things againſt me, and makeſt me to poſſeſſe m the iniquities of my youth.

27 Thou putteſt my feete alſo in the n ſtocks, and lookeſt narrowly unto all my paths, and makeſt the print thereof in the † heeles of my feete.

28 Such a one conſumeth like a rotten thing, and as a garment that is moth eathen.

d Your fame ſhall come to nothing.

e Is not this a manifeſt ſigne of mine affliction, and that I do not complaine without cauſe, ſeeing that I am thus tormented as though I ſhould teare mine owne fleſh, and put my life in danger?

f Whereby hee declareth that he is not an hypocrite as they charged him.

g That is, cleared and not caſt off for my ſinnes, as you reaſon.

h To proove that God doeth thus puniſh me for my ſinnes.

i If I defend not my cauſe, every man will condemne me.

k He ſheweth what theſe two things are.

l His pangs thus moove him to reaſon with God, not denying but that he had ſinned: but he deſired to underſtand what were his great ſinnes that had deſerved ſuch rigour, wherein he offended that he would know a cauſe of God why he did puniſh him.

m Thou puniſheſt me now for the faultes that I committed in my youth.

n Thou makeſt me thy priſoner, and doeſt ſo preſſe mee that I cannot ſtirre hand nor foote. Ebr. roote.

CHAP. XIV.

1 Iob deſcribeth the ſhortneſſe and miſerie of the life of man. 14 Hope ſuſtaineth the godly. 22 The condition of mans life.

a Taking occaſion of his adverſaries wordes, he deſcribeth the ſtate of mans life from his birth to his death.

* Chap. 8, 9. Pſal. 144. 4.

b His meaning is, that ſeeing that man is ſo fraile a creature, God ſhould not handle him ſo extremely: wherein Iob ſheweth the wickedneſſe of the fleſh, when it is not ſubiect to the Spirit.

* Pſal. 51. 5. 7.

c Vntill the time that thou haſt appointed for him to die, which he deſireth as the hireling wayteth for the ende of his labour to receive his wages.

MAn a that is borne of woman, Is of ſhort continuance and full of trouble.

2 Hee ſhooteth foorth as a floure, and is cut downe: he vaniſheth alſo as a * ſhadow, and continueth not.

3 And yet thou openeſt thine eyes upon ſuch b one, and cauſeſt me to enter into iudgement with thee.

4 * Who can bring a cleane thing out of filthineſſe? there is not one.

5 Are not his dayes determined? the number of his monethes are with thee: thou haſt appointed his bounds which he cannot paſſe.

6 Turne from him that hee may ceaſe untill his deſired day, c as an hireling.

7 For there is hope of a tree, if it be cut downe, that it will yet ſprout, and the branches thereof will not ceaſe.

8 Though the roote of it waxe olde in the earth, & the ſtocke thereof be dead in the ground.

9 Yet by the ſent of water it will budde, and bring bring forth boughes like a plant.

10 d But man is ſicke, and dieth, and man periſheth, and where is he?

11 As the waters paſſe from the ſea, and as the flood decayeth and drieth up.

12 So man ſleepeth and riſeth not: for he ſhall not wake againe, nor be raiſed from his ſleepe till the heaven be no more.

13 Oh that thou wouldeſt hide me in the grave, and keepe me ſecret, untill thy e wrath were paſt, and wouldeſt give mee terme, and f remember me!

14 If a man die, ſhall he live againe? All the dayes of mine appointed time will I wait, till g my changing ſhall come.

15 Thou ſhall call mee, and I will h anſwere thee: thou loveſt the worke of thine owne hands.

16 But now thou * numbreſt my ſteppes, and doeſt not delay my ſinnes.

17 Mine iniquity is ſealed up, as in a i bagge, and thou addeſt unto my wickednesſe.

18 And ſurely as the mountaine that falleth, commeth to nought, and the k rocke that is remooved from his place:

19 As the water breaketh the ſtones, vvhen thou overfloweſt the things which grow in the duſt of the earth: ſo thou deſtroyeſt the hope of man.

20 Thou prevaileſt alway againſt him, ſo that he paſſeth away: he changeth his face when thou caſteſt him away.

21 And he knoweth not if his ſonnes ſhall be honourable, neither ſhall he underſtand concerning them, whether they ſhall be of low degree.

22 But vvhile his l fleſh is upon him, he ſhall be ſorowfull, and vvhile his ſoule is in him, it ſhall mourne.

d Heer ſpeaketh not here as though he had not hope of the immortalitie, but as a man in extreme paine, when reaſon is ouercome by afflictions and torments.

e Hereby he declareth that the feare of Gods iudgement was the cauſe why he deſired to die.

f That is, releaſe my paines and take me to mercy.

g Meaning, unto the day of the reſurrection when he ſhould be changed, and renewed.

h Though I be afflicted in this life, yet in the reſurrection I ſhall feele thy mercies and anſwere when thou calleſt me.

* Prou. 5, 21.

i Thou layeſt them all together, and ſuffereſt none of my ſinnes unpuniſhed.

k He murmureth through the impatiencie of the fleſh againſt God, as though he uſed as great ſeveritie againſt him as againſt the hard rockes, or waters that overflow, ſo that hereby all the occaſion of his hope is taken away.

l Yet while he ſhalbe in paine, and miſerie.

CHAP. XV.

1 Eliphaz reprehendeth Iob, becauſe hee aſcribeth wiſdome and puritie to himſelfe. 16 He deſcribeth the curſe that falleth on the wicked, reckoning Iob to be one of the number.

THen anſwered Eliphaz the Temanite, and ſayd,

2 Shall a wiſe man ſpeake words of the a winde? and fill his bellie b with the Eaſt winde?

3 Shall hee diſpute with words not comely? or with talke that is not profitable?

4 Surely thou haſt caſt off c feare, and reſtraineſt prayer before God:

5 For thy mouth declareth thine iniquity, ſeeing thou haſt choſen the d tongue of the craftie.

6 Thine owne mouth condemneth thee, and not I, and thy lips teſtifie againſt thee.

7 Art thou the e firſt man that was borne? and waſt thou made before the hils?

8 Haſt thou heard the ſecret counſell of God, and doeſt thou reſtraine wiſedome f to thee?

9 What knoweſt thou that we know not? and underſtandeſt that is not in us?

10 With us are both ancient and very aged men, farre older then thy father.

11 Seeme the conſolations of God ſmall unto thee? is this thing ſtrange unto thee?

12 Why doeth thine heart h take thee away, and what doe thine eyes meane.

13 That thou anſwereſt to God? at thy pleaſure, and bringeſt ſuch words out of thy mouth?

a That is, vaine words, and without conſolation?

b Meaning, with matters that are of none importance, which are forgotten aſſoone as they are uttered, as the Eaſt winde drieth up the moiſture aſſoone as it falleth.

c He chargeth Iob as though his talke cauſed men to caſt off the feare of God, and prayer.

d Thou ſpeakeſt as doeth mockers and contemners of God.

e That is, the moſt ancient, and ſo by reaſon the moſt wiſe?

f Art thou onely wiſe?

h He accuſeth Iobs pride & ingratitude, that will not be comforted by God, nor by their counſell.

14 What is man, that hee ſhould be cleane? and hee that is borne of woman, that hee ſhould i be iuſt?

15 Behold, hee found no ſtedfaſtneſſe in his Saints: yea, the heavens are not cleane in his ſight.

16 How much more is man abominable, and filthy, which k drinketh iniquity like water?

17 I will tell thee, heare mee, and I will declare that which I have ſeene:

18 Which wiſe men have tolde, as they have heard of their fathers, and have not kept it ſecret:

19 To whom alone the land was l given, and no ſtranger paſſed through them.

20 The wicked man is continually as one that travaileth of child, and the number m of yeeres is hid from the tyrant.

21 A ſound of feare is in his eares, and in his proſperity the deſtroyer ſhall come upon him.

22 He beleeveth not to n returne out of darkneſſe: for he ſeeth the ſword before him.

23 Hee wandreth o to and fro for bread where he may: he knoweth that the day of darkeneſſe is prepared at hand.

24 Affliction and p anguiſh ſhall make him afraid: they ſhall prevaile againſt him as a king ready to the battell.

25 For he hath ſtretched out his hand againſt God, and made himſelfe ſtrong againſt the Almighty.

26 Therefore God ſhall runne upon him, even upon his necke, and againſt the moſt thicke part of his ſhield.

27 Becauſe he hath covered his face with q his fatneſſe, and hath collops in his flancke.

28 Though he dwell r in deſolate citie, and in houſes which no man inhabiteth, but are become heapes, 29 He ſhall not be rich, neither ſhall his ſubſtance continue, neither ſhall he prolong the ſ perfection thereof in the earth.

30 He ſhall never depart out of darkeneſſe: the flame ſhall drie up his branches, and hee ſhall gee away with the breath of his mouth.

31 He t beleeveth not that he erreth in vanity: therefore vanity ſhall be his change.

32 His branch ſhall not be greene, but ſhalbe cut off before his day.

33 God ſhall deſtroy him as the vine her ſowre u grape, and ſhall caſt him off, as the olive doeth her flowre.

34 For the congregation of the hypocrite ſhall be deſolate, and fire ſhall devoure the houſes of x bribes.

35 For they y conceine miſchiefe and bring foorth vanity, and their belly hath prepared deceit.

i His purpoſe is to proove that Iob as an unIuſt man, and an hypocrite is puniſhed for his ſinnes, likeas he did before, Chap. 4, 28.

k Which hath a deſire to ſinne, as he that is thirſtie to drinke.

l Who by their wiſedome ſo governed, that no ſtranger invaded them, and ſo the land ſeemed to be given to them alone.

m The cruell man is ever in danger of death, and is never quiet in conſcience.

n Out of that miſerie whereunto he once falleth.

o God doeth not onely impoueriſh the wicked oftimes, but even in their proſperity he puniſheth them with a greedineſſe evermore to gather: which is as a beggery.

p He ſheweth what weapons God uſeth againſt the wicked, which lift up themſelves againſt him, to wit, terrour of conſcience, and outward afflictions.

q That is, he was ſo puft up with great proſperity and abundance of all things, that he forgate God: noting, that Iob in his felicity had not the true feare of God.

r Though hee build and repaire ruinous places to get him fame, yet God ſhall bring all to nought, and turne his great proſperity into extreme miſery.

ſ Meaning, that his ſumptuous buildings ſhould never come to perfection.

t He ſtandeth ſo in his owne conceit, that he will give no place to good counſell, therefore his owne pride ſhall bring him to deſtruction.

u As one that gathereth grapes before they be ripe.

x Which were built or maintained by powling and briberie.

y And therefore all their vaine deuiſes ſhall turne to their owne deſtruction.

CHAP. XVI.

1 Iob mooued by the importunacie of his friends. 7 Counteth in what extremitie he is. 19 And taketh God to witneſſe of his innocencie.

BUt Iob anſwered and ſayd,

2 I have oftentimes heard ſuch things: miſerable comforters are ye all.

3 Shall there be none ende of the wordes of a winde?

h Why doeſt thou ſtand in thine owne conceit? Ebr. in thy ſpirit.

[a] winde? or what maketh thee bold so to [b] answere?

4 I could also speake as ye doe: (but would God your [c] soule were in my soules stead) I could keep you company in speaking and could [d] shake mine head at you.

5 But I would strengthen you [e] with my mouth, and the comfort of my lips should asswage your sorow.

6 Though I speake, my sorow [f] cannot be asswaged: though I cease, what release have I?

7 But now [g] he maketh mee wearie: O God, thou hast made all my [h] congregation desolate,

8 And hast made me full of [i] wrinkels which is a witnesse thereof, and my leannesse riseth up in me, testifying the same in my face.

9 [k] His wrath hath torne mee, and hee hateth me, and gnasheth upon me with his teeth: mine enemie hath sharpened his eyes against me.

10 They have opened their mouthes upon me, and smitten mee on the [l] cheeke in reproach: they gathered themselves together against me.

11 God hath delivered me to the unjust, and hath made mee to turne out of the way by the [m] hands of the wicked.

12 I was in wealth, but hee hath brought me to nought: hee hath taken me by the necke and beaten me, and set me as a marke for himselfe.

13 His [n] archers compasse me round about: he cutteth my reines, and doeth not spare, and powreth my gall [o] upon the ground.

14 Hee hath broken me with one breaking upon another, and runneth upon [m] like a giant.

15 I have sowed a sackecloath upon my skinne, and have abased mine [p] horne unto the dust.

16 My face is withered with weeping, and the shadow of death is upon mine eyes.

17 Though there be no wickednesse in [q] mine hands, and my prayer r be pure.

18 O earth, cover not thou my [r] blood, and let my crying find no place.

19 For loe, now my [t] witnesse is in the heaven, and my record u on high.

20 My friends [u] speake eloquently against me: but mine eye powreth out teares unto God.

21 Oh that a man might [x] pleade with God, as man with his neighbour!

22 For the yeeres accounted come, and I shall goe the way, whence I shall not returne.

a Which serve for vaine ostentation and for no true comfort.
b For Elipaz did repli against Iobs answer.
c I would you felt that which I doe.
d That is, mocke at your misery, as you doe at mine.
e If this were in my power, yet would I comfort you, and not doe as ye doe to me.
f If they would say, Why dost thou not then comfort thy selfe? he answereth, that the judgements of God are more heavy then hee is able to asswage either by words or silence.
g Meaning, God.
h That is, destroyed most of my familie.
i In token of sorow and griefe.
k That is, God by his wrath: and in this diversitie of words and high stile, hee expresseth how grievous the hand of God was upon him.
l That is, hath handled me most contemptuously: for so smiting on the cheeke signified. 2. King. 22. 24. mar. 14. 65.
m They have led me whither they would.
n His manifold afflictions.
o I am wounded to the heart.
p Meaning, his glory was brought lowe.
q Signifying, that he is not able to comprehend the cause of this his grievous punishment.
r That is, unfained, and without hypocrisie.
s Let my sinne be knowen if I be such a sinner as mine adversaries accuse me, and let me finde no favour.
t Though man condemne me, yet God is witnesse of my cause.
u Vse painted wordes in stead of true consolation.
x Thus by his great torments hee is caried away, and brasteth out into passions, and speaketh unadvisedly, as though God should intreat man more gently, seeing hee hath but a short time here to live.

CHAP. XVII.

1 Iob saieth that hee consumeth away, and yet doth patiently abide it. 10 Hee exhorteth his friends to repentance, 13 shewing that hee looketh but for death.

MY breath is corrupt: my dayes are cut off, and the grave is ready for me.

2 There are none but [a] mockers with me, and mine eye continueth in [b] their bitternesse.

3 [c] Lay downe now, and put me in suretie for thee: who is hee, that [d] will touch mine hand?

4 For thou hast hid their heart from [e] understanding: therefore shalt thou not set them upon high.

a Instead of comfort, being now at deaths doore, hee had but them that mocked at him, and discouraged him.
b I see still that they seeke but to vexe me.
c Hee reasoneth with God as a man beside himselfe, to the intent that his cause might be brought to light.
d And answere for thee?
e That these mine afflictions are thy iust judgements, though man know not the cause,

5 [f] For the eyes of his children shall faile, that speaketh flatterie to his friends.

6 Hee hath also made mee a [g] by word of the people, and I am as a tabret [h] before them.

7 Mine eye therefore is dim for griefe, and all my strength is like a shadow.

8 The righteous shalbe astonied at [i] this, and the innocent shalbe mocued against the hypocrite.

9 But the righteous will hold his [k] way, and he whose hands are pure, shall increase his strength.

10 All [l] you therefore turne you, and come now, and I shall not finde one wise among you.

11 My dayes are past, mine enterprises are broken, and the thoughts of mine heart

12 Have changed the [m] night for the day, and the light that approached, for darkenesse.

13 Though I hope, yet the grave shalbe mine house, and I shall make my bed in the darke.

14 I shall say to corruption, Thou art my [o] father, and to the worme, Thou art my mother and my sister.

15 Where is then now mine hope? or who shall consider the thing that I hoped for?

16 [p] They shall goe downe into the bottome of the pit: surely it shall lie together in the dust.

f Hee that flattereth a man, and onely iudgeth him happy in his prosperitie, shall not himselfe onely but also his posteritie be punished.
g God hath made all the world to speake of me, because of mine afflictions.
h That is as a continuall sound in their eares.
i To wit, when they see the godly punished: but in the end they shall come to understanding, and know what shall be the reward of the hypocrite.
k That is, will not be discouraged, consider ng that the godly are punished as well as the wicked.
l Iob speaketh to them three that came to comfort him.
m That is, have brought me sorow in stead of comfort.
n Though I should hope to come from adversity to prosperity, as your discourse pretendeth.
o I have no more hope in father, mother, sister, or any worldly thing: for the dust and wormes shall be to me in stead of them.
p All worldly hope and prosperity faile, which you say, are onely signes of Gods favour but seeing that these things perish, I set mine hope in God and the life everlasting.

CHAP. XVIII.

1 Bildad rehearseth the paines of the vnfaithfull and wicked.

THen answered Bildad the Shuhite, and sayd,

2 When will [a] yee make an ende of your words? [b] cause us to understand, and then we will speake.

3 Wherefore are wee counted as beastes, and are vile in your sight?

4 Thou art [c] as one that teareth his soule in his anger. Shall the [d] earth be forsaken for thy sake? or the rocke removed out of his place?

5 Yea, the light of the wicked shall be [e] quenched, and the spark of his fire shall not shine.

6 The light shall be darke in his dwelling, and his candle shalbe put out with him.

7 The steps of his strength shalbe restrained, and his owne counsell shall cast him downe.

8 For hee is taken in the net by his feete, and he [f] walketh upon the snares.

9 The grenne shall take him by the heele, and the chiefe shall come upon him.

10 A snare is laid for him in the ground, and a trap for him in the way.

11 Fearefulnesse shall make him afraid on every side, and shall driue him to his feete.

12 His strength shalbe [g] famine: and destruction shalbe ready at his side.

13 It shall devoure the inner partes of his skinne, and the [h] first borne of death shall devoure his strength.

14 His hope shalbe rooted out of his dwelling, and shall cause him to goe to the [i] king of feare.

15 Feare shall dwell in his house (because it is not [k] his) and brimstone shall be scattered upon his habitation.

16 His rootes shall be dryed up beneath, and above shall his branch be cut downe.

17 His remembrance shall perish from the earth, and he shall have no name in the streete.

a Which count your selves iust, as Chap. 12. 4. b Whom you take to be but beasts, as Chap. 12, 7.
c That is, like a mad man.
d Shall God change the order of nature for thy sake by dealing with thee otherwise then hee doeth with all men?
e When the wicked is in his prosperity, then God changeth his state: and this is his ordinary working for their sinnes.
f Meaning, that the wicked are in continuall danger.
g That which should nourish him, shall be consumed by famine.
h That is, some strong and violent death shall consume his strength: or as the Ebrew word signifieth his members or parts.
i That is, with most great feare.
k Meaning, not truely come by.
l Though all the world would favour him, yet God would destroy him and his.

18 They

m He ſhall fall from proſperity to adverſity.

18 They ſhall drive him out of the m light unto darkeneſſe, and chaſe him out of the world.

19 Hee ſhall neither have ſonne nor nephewe among his people, nor any poſterity in his dwellings.

n When they ſhall ſee what came unto him.

20 The poſteritie ſhalbe aſtonied at his n day, and feare ſhall come upon the ancient.

21 Surely ſuch are the habitations of the wicked, and this is the place of him that knoweth not God.

CHAP. XIX.

1 Iob reproveth his friends. 25 and reſteth his miſeries and grieuous paines. 25 Hee aſſureth himſelfe of the generall reſurrection.

BUt Iob anſwered, and ſaid,

2 How long will yee vexe my ſoule, and torment me with words?

a That is many times, as Neh. 4. 12.

3 Ye have now a ten times reproached me, and are not aſhamed: ye are impudent toward me.

b That is, I my ſelfe ſhalbe puniſhed for it, or you have not yet confuted it.

4 And though I had indeed erred, mine error b remaineth with me.

c Hee braſteth out againe into his paſſions, and declareth ſtill that his affliction commeth of God though hee be not able to feele the cauſe in himſelfe.

5 But indeed if yee will advance your ſelves againſt me, and rebuke me for my reproach.

d Meaning, out of his afflictions.

6 Know now, that God hath c overthrowen me, and hath compaſſed me with his net.

7 Behold, crie out of violence, but I have none anſwere: I crie, but there is no iudgement.

e Meaning, his children, and whatſoever was deare unto him in this world.

8 Hee hath hedged up my way that I cannot d paſſe, and hee hath ſet darkeneſſe in my paths.

9 Hee hath ſpoiled mee of mine honour, and taken the e crowne away from mine head.

f Which is plucke vp, and hath no more hope to grow.

10 Hee hath deſtroyed mee on every ſide, and I am gone: and hee hath remooved mine hope like f a tree.

g His manifold afflictions.

11 And hee hath kindled his wrath againſt me, and counteth me as one of his enemies.

12 His g armies came together, and made their way upon me, and camped about my tabernacle.

13 He hath remooved my brethren farre from mee, and alſo mine acquaintance were ſtrangers unto me.

14 My neighbours have forſaken me, and my familiers have forgotten me.

h Mine houſhold ſervants: by all theſe loſſes Iob ſhewerth that touching the fleſh he had great occaſion to be mooued.

15 h They that dwell in mine houſe, and my maids tooke me for a ſtranger: for I was a ſtranger in their ſight.

i Which were hers and mine.

16 I called my ſervant, but hee would not anſwere, though I prayed him with my mouth.

k Beſides theſe great loſſes and moſt cruell unkindneſſe, he was touched in his owne perſon, as followeth.

17 My breath was ſtrange unto my wife, though I prayed her for the childrens ſake of mine i owne body.

l All my fleſh was conſumed.

18 The wicked alſo deſpiſed mee, and when I roſe, they ſpake againſt me.

19 All my ſecret friends abhorred me, and they whom I loved, are turned againſt me.

m Seeing I haue theſe iuſt cauſes to complaine, condemne me not as an hypocrite, ſpecially ye which ſhould comfort me.

20 My bone k cleaveth to my ſkinne and to my fleſh, and I have eſcaped with the l skinne of my teeth.

n Is it not enough that God doth puniſh me, except you by reproaches increaſe my ſorow?

21 Have pitie upon me: have m pitie upon me, (O ye my friends) for the hand of God hath touched me.

o To ſee my body puniſhed, except yee trouble my minde?

22 Why doe ye perſecute mee, as n Gods? and are not ſatisfied with my o fleſh?

p He proteſteth that notwithſtanding his ſore paſſions his religion is perfit: and that he is not a blaſphemer as they iudged him.

23 Oh that my wordes were now written! oh that they were written even in a booke, 24 And graven with p an yron pen in lead, or in ſtone for ever!

q I doe not ſo iuſtifie my ſelfe before the world, but I know that I ſhall come before the great Iudge, who ſhall be my deliverer and Saviour.

25 For I am ſure that my q Redeemer liveth, and he ſhall ſtand the laſt on the earth.

26 And though after my skin vvormes deſtroy this body, yet ſhall I ſee God r in my fleſh.

r Herein Iob declareth plainely that he had a full hope, that both the ſoule and body ſhould enioy the preſence of God in the laſt reſurrection.

27 Whom I my ſelfe ſhall ſee, and mine eyes ſhall behold, and none other for me though my reynes are conſumed within me.

28 But ye ſayd, Why is he perſecuted? And there was a ſ deepe matter in me.

ſ Though his friends though that he was but 29 Be yee afraid of the ſword: for the ſword will be t auenged of wickedneſſe, that yee may know that there is a iudgement.

deeper conſideration, perſecuted of God for his ſinnes, yet he declareth that there was a to wit, the triall of his faith and patience, and ſo to be an example for others.

t God will be reuenged of this haſtie iudgement, whereby you condemned me.

CHAP. XX.

1 Zophar ſheweth, that the wicked and couetous ſhall haue a ſhort end, 22 though for a time they flouriſh.

THen anſwered Zophar the Naamathite, and ſaid,

2 Doubtleſſe my thoughts cauſe mee to anſwere, and therefore I make haſte.

a He declareth that two things mooued him to ſpeake: to wit, becauſe Iob ſeemed to touch him, and becauſe he thought he had knowledge ſufficient to confute him.

3 I have heard a the correction of my reproach: therefore the ſpirit of mine underſtanding cauſeth me to anſwere.

b His purpoſe is to proove Iob to be a wicked man, and an hypocrite, becauſe God puniſhed him, and changed his proſperity into adverſitie.

4 Knoweſt thou not this of old? and ſince God placed man upon the earth,

5 That the reioycing of the wicked is ſhort, and that the ioy of the hypocrites is but a moment?

6 Though b his excellencie mount up to the heaven, and his head reach unto the cloudes,

7 Yet ſhall he periſh for ever like his dung, and they which have ſeene him, ſhall ſay, Where is he?

8 He ſhall flee away as a dreame, and they ſhall not finde him, and ſhall paſſe away as a viſion of the night.

9 So that the eye which had ſeene him, ſhall do ſo no more, and his place ſhall ſee him no more.

c Whereas the father through ambition and tyranny oppreſſed the poore the children through poverties and miſerie, ſhall ſeeke fauour at the poore.

10 His children ſhall c flatter the poore, and his hands ſhall d reſtore his ſubſtance.

d So that the thing which he hath taken away by violence, ſhall be reſtored againe by force.

11 His bones are full of the ſinne of his youth, and e it ſhall lie downe with him in the duſt.

e Meaning, that he ſhall carry nothing away with him but his ſinne.

12 When wickednes was f ſweet in his mouth, and he hid it under his tongue.

f As poyſon that is ſweete in the mouth, bringeth deſtruction when it commeth into the body: ſo all vice at the firſt is pleaſant, but afterward God turneth it to deſtruction.

13 And fauoured it, and would not forſake it, but kept it cloſe in his mouth.

14 Then his meate in his bowels was turned: the gall of Aſpes vvas in the middes of him.

15 He hath devoured ſubſtance, and hee ſhall vomit it: for God ſhall draw it out of his belly.

g Hecompareth evill gotten goods to the venim of Aſpes, which ſerpent is moſt dangerous: noting that Iobs great riches were not truely come by.

16 Hee ſhall ſucke the g gall of Aſpes, and the vipers tongue ſhall ſlay him.

17 Hee ſhall not ſee the h rivers, nor the floods and ſtreames of hony and butter.

Though God giue to 18 Hee ſhall reſtore the labour, and ſhall deuoure no more: even according to the ſubſtance ſhall be his exchange, i and hee ſhall enioy it no more.

19 For hee hath undone many: he hath forſaken the poore, and hath ſpoyled houſes which he builded not.

20 Surely he ſhall feele no quietnes in his body, neither ſhall he reſerve of that which he deſired.

21 There ſhall none of his k meate be left: therefore none ſhall hope for his goods.

22 When he ſhallbe filled with his abundance, he ſhell be in paine, and the hand l of all the wicked ſhall aſſaile him.

and therefore God did plague him iuſtly for the ſame.

h all other abundance of his bleſſings, yet he ſhall have no part thereof.

i That is, theſe raveners and ſpoylers of the poore ſhall enioy their theft but for a time: for after, God will take it from them, and cauſe them to make reſtitution, ſo that it is but an exchange.

k Hee ſhall leave nothing to his poſterity.

l The wicked ſhall never be in reſt: for one wicked man ſhall ſeeke to deſtroy another.

m Some reade, vpon his flesh, alluding to Iob, whose flesh was smitten with a scab.
n Some reade, of the quitter.
o All feare and sorow shall light vpon him, when he thinketh to escape.
p This is, fire from heaven, or the fire of Gods wrath.
q Meaning, the children of the wicked shall flow away like riuers, and be dispersed in diuerse places.
r Thus God will plague the wicked.
s Against God, thinking to excuse himselfe, and to escape Gods hand.

23 He shall be about to fill his bellie, but God shall send vpon him his fierce wrath, m and shall cause to raine vpon him, euen vpon his meat.
24 He shall flee from the yron weapons, and the bow of steele shall strike him through.
25 The arrow is drawen out, and commeth foorth of the n bodie, and shineth of his gall, so feare commeth vpon him.
26 o All darkenesse shall be hid in the secret places: the fire that is not p blowen shall deuoure him, and that which remaineth in his tabernacle, shall be destroyed.
27 The heauen shall declare his wickednesse, and the earth shall rise vp against him.
28 The q increase of his house shall goe away: it shall flow away in the day of his wrath.
29 This is the portion of the wicked man from r God, and the heritage that he shall haue of God, for his s words.

CHAP. XXI.

1 Iob declareth how the prosperitie of the wicked maketh them proud. 15 In so much that they blaspheme God. 16 Their destruction is at hand. 23 None ought to be iudged wicked for affliction, neither good for prosperitie.

BUt Iob answered, and said,
2 Heare diligently my wordes, and this a shall be in stead of your consolations.
3 Suffer mee that I may speake, and when I haue spoken, mocke on.
4 Doe I direct my talke to man? If it b were so, how should not my spirit be troubled?
5 Marke mee, and be abashed, and lay your hand vpon your mouth.
6 Even when I remember, I am afraide, and feare taketh hold on my flesh.
7 Wherefore doe the wicked c liue, and waxe old, and grow in wealth?
8 Their seed is established in their sight with them, and their generation before their eyes.
9 Their houses are peaceable without feare, and the rod of God is not vpon them.
10 Their bullocke gendreth, and faileth not: their kow calueth, and casteth not her calfe.
11 They send foorth their children d like sheep, and their sonnes dance.
12 They take the tabret and harpe, and reioyce in the sound of the organs.
13 They spend their dayes in wealth, and suddenly e they goe downe to the grave.
14 They say also vnto God, Depart from vs: for we desire not the f knowledge of thy wayes.
15 Who is the Almighty, that we should serue him? and what profit should we haue, if we should pray vnto him?
16 Loe, their wealth is not in their g hand: therefore let the counsell of the wicked h be farre from mee.
17 How oft shall the candle of the wicked be put out, and their destruction come vpon them? he will diuide their liues in his wrath.
18 They shall be as stubble before the wind, and as chaffe, that the storme carieth away.
19 God will lay vp the sorow of the father for his children: when hee rewardeth him, hee shall know it.
20 k His eyes shall see his destruction, and hee shall drinke of the wrath of the Almightie.
21 For what pleasure hath he in his house after him, when the number of his moneths is cut off?
22 Shall any teach l God knowledge, who iudgeth the highest things?
23 One m dieth in his full strength, being in all ease and prosperitie.
24 His breasts are full of milke, and his bones run full of marow.
25 And another n dieth in the bitternesse of his soule, and neuer eateth with pleasure.
26 They shall sleepe both in o the dust, and the wormes shall couer them.
27 Behold, I know your thoughts, and the enterprises p wherewith ye doe me wrong.
28 For ye say, Where is the princes q house? and where is the tabernacle of the wickeds dwelling?
29 May yee r not aske them that goe by the way? and ye cannot denie their signes.
30 But the wicked is kept vnto the day of s destruction, and they shall be brought foorth to the day of wrath.
31 Who shall declare his way t to his face? and who shall reward him for that he hath done?
32 Yet shall he be brought to the grave, and remaine in the heape.
33 The u slime valley shall be sweet vnto him, and euery man shall draw after him, as before him there were innumerable.
34 How then comfort v ye me in vaine, seeing in your answere there remaine but lies?

a Your diligent marking of my words shall be to me a great consolation.
b As though he would say I doe not talke with man but with God, who will not answere me, and therefore my minde must needes be troubled.
c He chargeth them as though they were not able to comprehend this his feeling of Gods iudgement, and exhorteth them therefore to silence.
d Iob proueth against his aduersaries, that oftimes God punisheth not straightwaye the wicked, but oft times giueth them long life, and prosperitie: so that we must not iudge God iust or vniust by the things that appeare to our eye.
e They haue store of children, iustice and health. f In these points he answereth to that which Zophar alleaged before.
g Not being tormented with long sickenesse.
h They desire nothing more then to be exempt from all subiection that they should beare to God: thus Iob sheweth his aduersaries, that if they reason onely by that which is seene by common experience, the wicked that hate God, are better dealt with all, then they that loue him. k It is not their owne, but God onely lendeth it vnto them. l. God keepe me from their prosperity. m When God recompenseth his wickednes, he shall know that his prosperity was but vanitie.
l Who seemeth to giue the wicked prosperitie, and punisheth the godly.
m Meaning, the wicked.
n To wit, the godly.
o As concerning their bodies: and this he speaketh according to the common iudgement.
p That they called Iobs house in derision, concluding that it was destroyed because he was wicked.
q Which hath long trauailing house experience and reason therefore, to wit, that the wicked doe prosper, and the godly liue in affliction.
r Though the wicked flourish here, yet God will punish him in the last day.
s Though men doe flatter him, and none dare reproue him in this world, yet death is a token that he will bring him to account. t He shall be glad to lie in stinke pit, which before could not be content with a royall palace. u Saying, that the iust in this world haue prosperity, and the wicked aduersitie.

CHAP. XXII.

1 Eliphaz affirmeth that Iob is punished for his sinnes. 6 He accuseth him of vnmercifulnesse. 13 And that he denied Gods prouidence. 21 He exhorteth to repentance.

THen Eliphaz the Temanite answered, and said,
2 May a man be a profitable vnto God, as he that is wise may be profitable to himselfe?
3 * Is it any thing vnto the Almighrie, that thou art righteous? or is it profitable to him, that thou makest thy wayes vpright?
4 Is it for feare b of thee that hee will accuse thee? or goe with thee into iudgement?
5 Is not thy wickednesse great, and thine iniquities innumerable?
6 For thou hast taken the c pledged from thy brother for nought, and spoiled the cloathes of the naked.
7 To such as were weary thou hast not giuen water to drinke, and hast withdrawen bread from the hungry.
8 But the mighty man d had the earth, and hee that was in authoritie, dwelt in it.
9 Thou hast cast out widowes emptie, and the armes of the e fatherlesse were broken.
10 Therefore snares are round about thee, and feare shall suddenly trouble thee.
11 Or darkenesse that thou shouldest not see, and f abundance of waters shall couer thee.
12 Is not God on g hie in the heaven? and behold the height of the h starres how hie they are.
13 But thou sayest, How should God i know? can he iudge through the darke cloud?

a Though man were iust yet God is could haue no profit of this his iustice: and therefore when he punished him, he hath no regard to his iustice but to his sinne.
 Chap. 35. 7.*
b Least thou should eft reproue or hurt him.
c Thou hast been cruell and without charity, and wouldest doe nothing for the poore, but for thine owne aduantage.
d When thou wast in power & authority, thou didst not iustice but wrong.
e Thou hast not onely not shewed pity, but oppressed them.
f That is manifold afflictions.
g He accuseth Iob of impiety and contempt of God: as though he would say. If thou pase not for men, yet consider the height of Gods maiesty. h That so much the more by that excellent worke thou mayest feare God, and reuerence him. i Hee reproueth Iob, as though he denied Gods prouidence, and that he could not see the things that were done in this world.

18 They shall drive him out of the m light unto darkenesse, and chase him out of the world.

19 Hee shall neither have sonne nor nephewe among his people, nor any posterity in his dwellings.

20 The posteritie shalbe astonied at his n day, and feare shall come upon the ancient.

21 Surely such are the habitations of the wicked, and this is the place of him that knoweth not God.

CHAP. XIX.

1 Iob reproveth his friends. 25 and reciteth his miseries and griefous paines. 25 Hee assureth himselfe of the generall resurrection.

BUt Iob answered, and said,

2 How long will yee vexe my soule, and torment me with words?

3 Ye have now a ten times reproached me, and are not ashamed: ye are impudent toward me.

4 And though I had indeed erred, mine error b remaineth with me.

5 But indeed if yee will advance your selves against me, and rebuke me for my reproach.

6 Know now, that God hath c overthrowen me, and hath compassed me with his net.

7 Behold, crie out of violence, but I have none answere: I crie, but there is no iudgement.

8 Hee hath hedged up my way that I cannot d passe, and hee hath set darkenesse in my paths.

9 Hee hath spoiled mee of mine honour, and taken the e crowne away from mine head.

10 Hee hath destroyed mee on every side, and I am gone: and hee hath remooved mine hope like f a tree.

11 And hee hath kindled his wrath against me, and counteth me as one of his enemies.

12 His g armies came together, and made their way upon me, and camped about my tabernacle.

13 He hath remooved my brethren farre from mee, and also mine acquaintance were strangers unto me.

14 My neighbours have forsaken me, and my familiers have forgotten me.

15 h They that dwell in mine house, and my maids tooke me for a stranger: for I was a stranger in their sight.

16 I called my servant, but hee would not answere, though I prayed him with my mouth.

17 My breath was strange unto my wife, though I prayed her for the childrens sake of mine i owne body.

18 The wicked also despised mee, and when I rose, they spake against me.

19 All my secret friends abhorred me, and they whom I loved, are turned against me.

20 My bone k cleaveth to my skinne and to my flesh, and I have escaped with the l skinne of my teeth.

21 Have pitie upon me: have m pitie upon me, (O ye my friends) for the hand of God hath touched me.

22 Why doe ye persecute mee, as n Gods? and are not satisfied with my o flesh?

23 Oh that my wordes were now written! oh that they were written even in a booke, 24 And graven with p an yron pen in lead, or in stone for ever!

25 For I am sure that my q Redeemer liveth, and he shall stand the last on the earth.

26 And though after my skin wormes destroy this body, yet shall I see God r in my flesh.

27 Whom I my selfe shall see, and mine eyes shall behold, and none other for me though my reynes are consumed within me.

28 But ye sayd, Why is he persecuted? And there was a s deepe matter in me.

29 Be yee afraid of the sword: for the sword will be t avenged of wickednesse, that yee may know that there is a iudgement.

CHAP. XX.

1 Zophar sheweth, that the wicked and covetous shall have a short end, 22 though for a time they flourish.

THen answered Zophar the Naamathite, and said,

2 Doubtlesse my thoughts cause mee to answere, and therefore I make haste.

3 I have heard a the correction of my reproach: therefore the spirit of mine understanding causeth me to answere.

4 Knowest thou not this of old? and since God placed man upon the earth,

5 That the reioycing of the wicked is short, and that the ioy of the hypocrites is but a moment?

6 Though b his excellencie mount up to the heaven, and his head reach unto the cloudes,

7 Yet shall he perish for ever like his dung, and they which have seene him, shall say, Where is he?

8 He shall flee away as a dreame, and they shall not finde him, and shall passe away as a vision of the night.

9 So that the eye which had seene him, shall do so no more, and his place shall see him no more.

10 His children shall c flatter the poore, and his hands shall d restore his substance.

11 His bones are full of the sinne of his youth, and e it shall lie downe with him in the dust.

12 When wickednes was f sweet in his mouth, and he hid it under his tongue.

13 And favoured it, and would not forsake it, but kept it close in his mouth.

14 Then his meate in his bowels was turned: the gall of Aspes was in the middes of him.

15 He hath devoured substance, and hee shall vomit it: for God shall draw it out of his belly.

16 Hee shall sucke the g gall of Aspes, and the vipers tongue shall slay him.

17 Hee shall not see the h rivers, nor the floods and streames of hony and butter.

18 Hee shall restore the labour, and shall devoure no more: even according to the substance shall be his exchange, i and hee shall enioy it no more.

19 For hee hath undone many: he hath forsaken the poore, and hath spoyled houses which he builded not.

20 Surely he shall feele no quietnes in his body, neither shall he reserve of that which he desired.

21 There shall none of his k meate be left: therefore none shall hope for his goods.

22 When he shallbe filled with his abundance, he shall be in paine, and the hand l of all the wicked shall assaile him.

---

an He shall fall from prosperity to adversity.

n When they shall see what came unto him.

a That is many times, as Neh. 4. 12.

b That is, I my selfe shalbe punished for it, or you have not yet confuted it.

c Hee brasteth out againe into his passions, and declareth still that his affliction commeth of God though hee be not able to feele the cause in himselfe.

d Meaning, out of his afflictions.

e Meaning, his children, and whatsoever was deare unto him in this world.

f Which is pluckt up, and hath no more hope to grow.

g His manifold afflictions.

h Mine houshold servants: by all these losses Iob sheweth that touching the flesh he had great occasion to be mooved.

i Which were hers and mine.

k Besides these great losses and most cruell unkindnesse, he was touched in his owne person, as followeth.

l All my flesh was consumed.

m Seeing I haue these iust causes to complaine, condemne me not as an hypocrite, specially ye which should comfort me.

n Is it not enough that God doth punish me, except you by reproaches increase my sorow?

o To see my body punished, except yee trouble my minde?

p He protesteth that notwithstanding his sore passions his religion is perfit: and that he is not a blasphemer as they iudged him.

q I doe not so iustifie my selfe before the world, but I know that I shall come before the great Iudge, who shall be my deliverer and Saviour.

r Herein Iob declareth plainely that he had a full hope, that both the soule and body should enioy the presence of God in the last resurrection.

s Though his friends though that he was but perfecuted of God for his sinnes, yet he declareth that there was a deeper consideration, to wit, the triall of his faith and patience, and so to be an example for others.

t God will be reuenged of this hastie iudgement, whereby you condemned me.

a He declareth that two things mooued him to speake: to wit, because Iob seemed to touch him, and because he thought he had knowledge sufficient to confute him.

b His purpose is to proove Iob to be a wicked man, and an hypocrite, because God punished him, and changed his prosperity into adversitie.

c Whereas the father through ambition and tyranny oppressed the poore the children through povertie and miserie, shall seeke favour at the poore.

d So that the thing which he hath taken away by violence, shall be restored againe by force.

e Meaning, that he shall cary nothing away with him but his sinne.

f As poyson that is sweete in the mouth, bringeth destruction when it commeth into the body: so all vice at the first is pleasant, but afterward God turneth it to destruction.

g He compareth evill gotten goods to the venim of Aspes, which serpent is most dangerous: noting that Iobs great riches were not truely come by.

h Though God giue to all other abundance of his blessings, yet he shall have no part thereof.

i That is, these raveners and spoylers of the poore shall enioy their theft but for a time: for after, God will take it from them, and cause them to make restitution, so that it is but an exchange.

k Hee shall leave nothing to his posterity.

l The wicked shall never be in rest: for one wicked man shall seeke to destroy another.

and therefore God did plague him iustly for the same.

23 He ſhall be about to fill his bellie, but God ſhall ſend vpon him his fierce wrath, m and ſhall cauſe to raine vpon him, even vpon his meat.

24 He ſhall flee from the yron weapons, and the bow of ſteele ſhall ſtrike him through.

25 The arrow is drawen out, and commeth foorth of the n bodie, and ſhineth of his gall, ſo feare commeth vpon him.

26 o All darkeneſſe ſhall be hid in the ſecret places: the fire that is not p blowen ſhall deuoure him, and that which remaineth in his tabernacle, ſhall be deſtroyed.

27 The heaven ſhall declare his wickednesse, and the earth ſhall riſe vp againſt him.

28 The q increaſe of his houſe ſhall goe away: it ſhall flow away in the day of his wrath.

29 This is the portion of the wicked man from r God, and the heritage that he ſhall have of God, for his ſ words.

CHAP. XXI.

7 Iob declareth how the proſperitie of the wicked maketh them proud. 15 In ſomuch that they blaſpheme God. 16 Their deſtruction is at hand. 23 None ought to be iudged wicked for affliction, neither good for proſperitie.

BVt Iob anſwered, and ſaid,

2 Heare diligently my wordes, and this a ſhall be in ſtead of your conſolations.

19 The righteous ſhall ſee them, and ſhall reioyce, n and the innocent ſhall laugh them to ſcorne.

20 Surely, o our ſubſtance is hid; but the fire hath deuoured the remnant of p them.

21 Therefore acquaint thy ſelfe, I pray thee, q with him, and make peace: thereby thou ſhalt haue proſperity.

22 Receiue, I pray thee, the law of his mouth, and lay vp his words in thine heart.

23 If thou returne to the Almighty, thou ſhalt r be built vp, and thou ſhalt put iniquitie farre from thy tabernacle.

24 Thou ſhalt lay vp gold for s duſt, and the gold of Ophir, as the ſtiints of the riuers.

25 Yea, the Almighty ſhallbe thy defence, and thou ſhalt haue plentie of ſiluer.

26 And thou ſhalt then delight in the Almightie, and lift vp thy face vnto God.

27 Thou ſhalt make thy prayer vnto him, and he ſhall heare thee, and thou ſhalt render thy vowes.

28 Thou ſhalt alſo decree a thing, and he ſhall eſtabliſh it vnto thee, and the t light ſhall ſhine vpon thy wayes.

29 u When others are caſt downe, then ſhalt thou ſay, I am lifted vp: and God ſhall ſaue the humble perſon.

30 The innocent ſhall deliuer the x yland, & it ſhall be preſerued by the pureneſſe of thine hands.

k How God hath puniſhed them from the beginning? l Hee prooueth Gods prouidence by the puniſhment of the wicked, whom he taketh away before they can bring their wicked purpoſes to paſſe.

m He anſwereth to that which Iob had ſaid, Chap. 21. 7. that the wicked haue proſperity in this world: deſiring that he might not be partaker of the like.

n The iuſt reioyce at the deſtruction of the wicked for two cauſes: firſt, becauſe God ſheweth himſelfe iudge of the world and by this meanes continueth his honour and glory: ſecondly, becauſe God ſheweth that he hath care ouer his in that he puniſhed their enemies.

o That is, the ſtate and preſeruation of the godly, is hid vnder Gods wings.

p Meaning, of the wicked.

q He exhorteth Iob to repentance, and to returne to God. r God will reſtore vnto thee all thy ſubſtance. s Which ſhall be in abundance like duſt. t That is, the fauour of God. u God will deliuer his when the wicked are deſtroyed round about them, as in the flood and in Sodom. x God will deliuer a whole countrey from perill, euen for the iuſt mans ſake.

CHAP. XXIII.

Iob affirmeth that he both knoweth and feareth the power and ſentence of the Iudge, 10 And that hee is not puniſhed only for his ſinnes.

BVt Iob anſwered, and ſaid,

2 Though my talke be this day in a bitterneſſe, and my plague greater then my groning.

3 Would God yet I knew how to finde him, I would enter vnto his place.

4 I would pleade the cauſe before him, and fill my mouth with arguments.

5 I would knowe the words, that hee would anſwere me, and would vnderſtand what he would ſay vnto me.

6 Would he b plead againſt me with his great power? No, but he would c put ſtrength in me.

7 d There the righteous might reaſon with him, ſo I ſhould be deliuered for euer from my Iudge.

8 e Behold, if I go to the Eaſt, he is not there: if to the Weſt, yet I cannot perceiue him:

9 If to the North where hee worketh, yet I cannot ſee him: we will hide himſelfe in the South and I cannot behold him.

a He ſheweth the iuſt cauſe of his complaining, and ſo touching that Eliphas had exhorreth him to returne to God, Chap. 22, 21. he declareth that he deſireth nothing more, but it feemed that God would not be found of him.

b Vſing his abſolute power, and ſaying, becauſe I am God, I may do what I will.

c Of his mercie he would giue me power to anſwere him.

d When hee of his mercy hath giuen ſtrength to maintaine their cauſe. e Meaning, that if he conſider Gods iuſtice, he is not able to comprehend his iudgements on what ſide or what part ſoeuer he turneth himſelfe.

10 But he knoweth my f way, and tryeth mee, and I ſhall come forth like gold.

11 My foote hath followed his ſteps: his way haue I kept, and haue not declined:

12 Neither haue I departed from the commandement of his lippes, and I haue g eſteemed the wordes of his mouth more then mine appointed food.

13 Yet he is in one minde, and who can h turne him? yea, he doeth what his mind deſireth.

14 For he will performe that which is decreed of me, and i many ſuch things are with him.

15 Therefore I am troubled at his preſence, and in conſidering it, I am afraid of him.

16 For k God hath ſoftened mine heart, and the Almighty hath troubled me.

17 For I am not cut off in l darkeneſſe, but he hath hid the darkeneſſe from my face.

f God hath this preeminence about me, that he knoweth my way: to wit, that I am innocent, and I am not able to iudge of his works, he ſheweth alſo his confidence, that God doeth vſe him for his profit.

g His word is more precious vnto me, then the meate wherewith the body is ſuſteined.

h Iob confeſſeth that as this preſent he ſeke not Gods fauour, and yet was aſſured that he had appointed him to a good end. i In many points man is not able to attaine to Gods iudgements. k That I ſhould not be without feare. l He ſheweth the cauſe of his feare, which is, that he being in trouble ſeeth none end, neither yet knoweth the cauſe.

CHAP. XXIV.

Iob deſcribeth the wickedneſſe of man, and ſheweth what curſe belongeth to the wicked. 12 How all things are gouerned by Gods prouidence. 17 And the deſtruction of the wicked.

HOw ſhould not the times a be hid from the Almightie, ſeeing that they which knowe him, ſee not his b dayes?

2 Some remooue the land-markes, that rob the flocks and feed thereof.

3 They leade away the aſſe of the fatherleſſe, and take away the widowes oxe to pledge.

4 They make the poore to turne out of the way, ſo that the poore of the earth hide themſelues c together,

5 Behold, others as wilde aſſes in the wilderneſſe, goe foorth to their buſineſſe, and d riſe early for a pray: the wilderneſſe e giueth him and his children food.

6 They reape f his prouiſion in the field, but they gather the late g vintage of the wicked.

7 They cauſe the naked to lodge without garment, and without couering in the cold.

8 They are wet with the ſhowres of the mountaines, h and they embrace the rocke for want of a couering.

9 They plucke the fatherles i from the breaſt, and take the pledge of k the poore.

10 They cauſe him to goe naked without cloathing, and take the gleaning from the hungry.

11 They that make oyle l betweene their walled, and tread their wine preſſes, ſuffer thirſt.

12 Men m crie out of the city, and the ſoules of the ſlaine n crie out: yet God o doeth not charge them with folly.

13 Theſe are they that abhorre the p light: they know not the wayes thereof, nor continue in the paths thereof.

14 The murthers riſeth early, and killeth the poore and the needy: and in the night he is as a thiefe.

15 The eye alſo of the q adulterer waiteth for the twilight, and ſaith, None eye ſhall ſee me, and diſguiſeth his face.

16 They digge through houſes in the darke, which they marked for themſelues in the day:

a Thus Iob ſpeaketh in his paſſions, and after the iudgement of the fleſh: that is, that hee ſeeth not the things that are done at times, neither yet hath a peculiar care ouer all, becauſe he puniſheth not the wicked, nor reuengeth the godly.

b When he puniſheth the wicked, and rewardeth the good.

c And for crueltie and oppreſſion dare not ſhew their faces.

d That is, ſpareth diligence.

e He and his liue by robbing and murthering.

f Meaning, the poore mans.

g Signifying, that one wicked man will not ſpoile an other, but for neceſſitie.

h The poore are driuen by the wicked into the rocks and holes where they cannot lie dry for the raine.

i That is, they ſo powle and pill the poore widow, that ſhe cannot haue to ſuſtaine her ſelfe that ſhe may be able to giue her childe ſucke.

k That is, his garment, wherewith he ſhould be couered or clad.

l In ſuch place: which are appointed for that purpoſe: meaning for the wicked, are pined for hunger. m For the great oppreſſion and extortion. n Cry out and call for vengeance. o God doeth not condemne the wicked, but ſeemeth to paſſe ouer it by his long ſilence. p That is, Gods word, becauſe they are reproued thereby. q By theſe particular vices and the licence thereto, he would proue that God puniſhed not the wicked, and rewardeth the iuſt.

they know not the light?

17 But the morning is euen to them as the shadow of death: if one know them, they are in the terrours of the shadow of death.

18 He is swift vpon the [r] waters: their [s] portion shall be cursed in the earth: he will not behold the way of the vineyards.

19 As the drie ground and heate consume the snow waters, so shall the graue [t] the sinners.

20 [u] The pitifull man shall forget him: the worme shall feede his sweetnesse: hee shall be no more remembred, and the wicked shall be broken like a tree.

21 [x] He doth evill intreat the barren that doth not beare, neither doth he good to the widow.

22 He draweth also the [y] mighty by his power, and when he riseth vp, none is sure of life.

23 Though men give him assurance to be in safety, yet his eyes are vpon their wayes.

24 They are exalted for a little, but they are gone, and are brought low as all others: they are destroyed, and cut off as the toppe of an eare of corne.

25 But if it be not [z] so, where is he? or who will proove me a liar, and make my words of no value?

r Hee fleeth to the waters for his safe-cours They thinke that all the world is bent against them, and dare not goe by the high way.
t As the dry ground is neuer full with waters, so will they neuer cease sinning till they come to the grave.
u Though God suffer the wicked for a time, yet their end shall be most vile destruction, and in this point Iob committeth to himselfe, and sheweth his confidence.
x He sheweth why the wicked shall not be lamented, because he did not pitie others.
y Hee declareth that after that the wicked have destroyed the weakest, they will doe like to the stranger, and therefore are iustly punished by Gods iudgements.
z That is, that contrarie to your reasoning no man can give perfit reasons of Gods iudgements, let me be reproued.

CHAP. XXV

Bildad proueth that no man is cleane nor without sinne before God.

THen answered Bildad the Shuhite, and said,

2 [a] Power and feare is with him, that maketh peace in his places.

3 Is there any number in his armies? and vpon whom shall not his light arise?

4 And how may a man [c] be iustified with God? or how can he be cleane that is borne of woman?

5 Behold, he will give no light to the Moone, [d] and the Starres are vncleane in his sight.

6 How much more man a worme, euen the sonne of man, which is but a worme?

a His purpose is to proue that albeit God trie and afflict the iust, yet soone after he sendeth prosperitie, and because he did not so to Iob, he concludeth that he is wicked.
b who can bide him from his presence.
c That is, be iust in respect of God?
d If God shew his power, the Moone and Starres cannot have that light which is given them, much lesse can man have any excellencie, but of God.

CHAP. XXVI.

Iob sheweth that man cannot helpe God, and proueth it by his miracles.

BUt Iob answered, and said,

2 [a] Whom helpest thou? him that hath no power? sauest thou the arme that hath no strength?

3 Whom counsellest thou? him that hath no wisedome? thou shewest right well as the thing is.

4 To whom doest thou declare these words? or whose spirit [e] commeth out of thee?

5 The [d] dead things are formed vnder the waters, and neere vnto them.

6 The grave is [e] naked before him, and there is no covering for [f] destruction.

7 He stretcheth out the [g] North over the empty place, and hangeth the earth vpon nothing.

8 He bindeth the waters in his clouds, and the cloud is not broken vnder them.

9 Hee holdeth backe the face of his throne, and spreadeth his cloud vpon it.

10 He hath set bounds [h] about the waters, vntil the [i] day and night come to an end.

11 The [k] pillars of heaven tremble and quake at his reproofe.

12 The sea is calme by his power, and by his vnderstanding he smiteth the pride thereof.

13 His Spirit hath garnished the heavens, and his hand hath formed the crooked [l] serpent.

14 Lo, these are part of his wayes: but [m] how little a portion heare wee of him? and who can vnderstand his fearefull power?

a Thou counsaldest nothing: for neither thou helpest me, which am destitute of all helpe, neither yet speakest sufficiently on Gods behalfe, who hath no neede of thy defence.
b But thou doest not applie it to the purpose.
c That is, moueth thee to speake this?
d Iob beginneth to declare the force of Gods power and prouidence in the mines and mettals in the deepe places of the earth.
e There is nothing hid in the bottome of the earth but he seeth it.
f Meaning, the graue wherein things Putrifie.
g He causeth the whole heaven to turne about the North pole.
h That is, he bided the heauens which are called his throne.
i So long as this world endureth.
k Not that heauen hath pillars to vphold it, but he speaketh by a similitude as though he would say, The heauen it self is not able to abide his reproach.
l which is a figure of Rats fashioned like a serpent, because of the crookednesse.
m If these few things, which we see dayly with our eyes, declare his great power and prouidence, how much more would they appeare, if we were to comprehend all his worke?

CHAP. XXVII.

3 The constancie and perfitnesse of Iob. 31 The reward of the wicked and of the tyrants.

MOreouer Iob proceeded and continued his parable, saying,

2 The liuing God hath taken away my [a] iudgement: for the Almightie hath put my soule in bitternesse.

3 Yet so long as my breath is in mee, and the Spirit of God in my nostrels,

4 My lips surely shall speake no wickednesse, and my tongue shall vtter no deceit,

5 God forbid, that I should [c] iustifie you: vntill I die, I will never take away mine [d] innocencie from my selfe.

6 I will keepe my righteousnesse, and will not forsake it: mine heart shall not reproove mee of my [e] dayes.

7 Mine enemie shall be as the wicked, and he that riseth against me, as the vnrighteous.

8 For what [f] hope hath the hypocrite when hee hath heaped up riches, if God take away his soule?

9 Will God heare his crie, when trouble commeth upon him?

10 Will hee set his delight on the Almightie? will he call upon God at all times?

11 I will teach you what is in the hand of [g] God, and I will not conceale that which is with the Almightie.

12 Behold, all yee your selves [h] have seene it: why then doe you thus vanish i vanitie?

13 This is the [k] portion of a wicked man with God, and the heritage of tyrants, which they shall receive of the Almightie.

14 If his children be in great number, the sword shall destroy them, and his posteritie shall not be satisfied with bread.

15 His remnant shall be burned in death, and his widowes shall not weepe.

16 Though hee should heape up silver as the dust, and prepare raiment as the clay, 17 He may prepare it, but the iust shall put it on, and the innocent shall divide the silver.

18 Hee buildeth his house as the [m] moth, and as a lodge that the watchmen [n] make.

19 When the rich man sleepeth, [n] he shall not be gathered to his fathers: they opened their eyes, and he was gone.

20 Terrors shall take him as waters, and a tempest shall carie him away by night.

21 The East wind shall take him away, and he shall depart: & it shall hurle him out of his place.

22 And God shall cast vpon him and not spare, though he would faine flee out of his hand.

a He hath so sore afflicted me, that men cannot iudge of mine vprightnesse: for they iudge onely by outward figures.
b How forfeit would iudge of mee, yet will I not speake contrary to that which I have said, and so do wickedly in betraying the trueth.
c Which condemne me as a wicked man because the hand of God is upon me.
d I will not confesse that God doth thus punish me for my sinnes.
e Of my life past.
f What avantage hath the dissembler to gaine never so much, seeing he shall lose his owne soule?
g That is, what God reserveth to himselfe and where of he giveth not the knowledge to all.
h That is, these secret iudgements of God: and yet doe not understand them.
i Why maintaine you then this error?
k Thus will God order the wicked, and punish him even unto his posteritie.
l None shall lament him.
m Which breedeth in another mans possession or garment, but is soone taken out.
n Hee meaneth, that the wicked tyrants shall not have a quiet death, nor be buried honorably.

23 Every

23 Every man ſhall clap their hands at him, and hiſſe at him out of their place.

CHAP. XXVIII.

Iob ſheweth that the wiſedome of God is vnſearchable.

a His purpoſe is to declare that man may attaine in this world to diuers ſecrets of nature. but man is neuer able to comprehend the wiſedome of God.

b There is nothing but it is compaſſed within certaine limits, and hath an end. but Gods wiſedome.

c Meaning, him that dwelleth thereby.

d Which a man cannot wade thorow.

e That is, corne, and vnderneath is brimſtone or coale, which eaſily conceiueth fire.

f He alludeth to the mines and ſecrets of nature, which are vnder the earth, wherein no neither ſoules nor beaſts can enter.

g After that he hath declared the wiſedome of God in the ſecrets of nature, he deſcribeth his power.

h Though Gods power and wiſedome may be vnderſtood in earthly things, yet his heauenly wiſedome cannot be attained vnto.

i It is too high a thing for man to attaine vnto in this world.

k It can neither be bought for gold nor precious ſtones, but is onely the gift of God.

l Which is thought to be a kind of precious ſtone.

m Meaning, that there is no naturall meanes whereby man might attaine to the heauenly Wiſdome: which he meaneth by the foules that fly hie.

n Howbeit God onely the author of this wiſedome, and the giuer thereof.

* Prou. 1. 7.

o He declareth that man hath ſo much of this heauenly wiſedome, as he ſheweth by feazing God, and departing from euill.

1 THE ſilver ſurely hath his veine, [a] and the gold his place, where they take it.

2 Yron is taken out of the duſt, and braſſe is molten out of the ſtone.

3 God putteth an end to darkeneſſe, [b] and hee trieth the perfection of all things: hee ſeeketh a bond of darkeneſſe, and of the ſhadow of death.

4 The flood breaketh out againſt the [c] inhabitant, and the waters [d] forgotten of the foote, being higher then man, are gone away.

5 Out of the ſame earth commeth [e] bread, and vnder it, as it were fire is turned vp.

6 The ſtones thereof are a place [f] of Saphirs, and the duſt of it is gold.

7 There is a path which no fowle hath knowen, neither hath the kites eye ſeene it.

8 The Lions whelps have not walked it, nor the Lion paſſed thereby.

9 He putteth his hand vpon the [g] rockes, and overthroweth the mountaines by the rootes.

10 He breaketh riuers in the rootes, and his eye ſeeth every precious thing.

11 He bindeth the floods, that they doe not overflow, and the thing that is hid, bringeth hee to light.

12 But where is wiſedome found? [h] and where is the place of vnderſtanding?

13 Man knoweth not [i] the price thereof: for it is not found in the land of the liuing.

14 The depth ſaith, It is not in mee: the Sea alſo ſaith, It is not with mee.

15 [k] God ſhall not be given for it, neither ſhall ſilver be weighed for the price thereof.

16 It ſhall not be valued with the wedge of gold of Ophir, nor with the precious onix, nor the ſaphir.

17 The gold nor the cryſtall ſhall be equall vnto it, nor the exchange ſhall be for plate of fine golde.

18 No mention ſhall be made of corall, nor of the [l] gabliſh: for wiſedome is more precious then pearles.

19 The Topaz of Ethiopia ſhall not be equall vnto it, neither ſhall it be valued with the wedge of pure gold.

20 Whence then commeth wiſedome? and where is the place of vnderſtanding?

21 Seeing it is hid from the eyes of all the liuing, and is hid from the [m] fowles of the heauen?

22 Deſtruction and death ſay, We have heard the fame thereof with our eares.

23 But God vnderſtandeth the [n] way thereof, and he knoweth the place thereof.

24 For hee beholdeth the endes of the world, and ſeeth all that is vnder heaven.

25 To make the weight of the windes, and to weigh the waters by meaſure.

26 When he made a decree for the raine, and a way for the lightning of thunders.

27 Then did hee ſee it, and counted it: he prepared it, and alſo conſidered it.

28 And vnto man he ſaid, Behold, * the [o] feare of the Lord is wiſedome, and to depart from euill is vnderſtanding.

CHAP. XXIX.

1 Iob complaineth of the proſperitie of the time paſt. 7, 21 His authoritie. 22 Iuſtice and equitie.

MOreouer Iob proceeded, and continued his parable, ſaying,

2 Oh that I were as † in times paſt, when God preſerued me!

3 When his [a] light ſhined vpon mine head: and when by his light I walked thorowe the [b] darkeneſſe.

4 As I was in the dayes of my youth: when [c] Gods providence was vpon my tabernacle:

5 When the Almightie was yet with me, and my children round about me:

6 When I waſhed my pathes [d] with butter, and when the rocke powred mee out riuers of oyle:

7 When I went out to the gate, euen to the iudgement ſeate, and when I cauſed them to prepare my ſeat in the ſtreete.

8 The yong men ſaw mee, and * hid themſelves, and the aged aroſe, and ſtood vp.

9 The princes ſtayed talke, and laid their hand on their [e] mouth.

10 The voyce of princes was hidde, and their tongue cleaued to the roofe of their mouth.

11 And when the [g] eare heare mee, it bleſſed mee, † and when the eye ſaw me, it gave witneſſe to [h] mee.

12 For I deliuered the [i] poore that cried, and the fatherleſſe, and him that had none to helpe him.

13 [k] The bleſſing of him that was readie to periſh, came vpon me, and I cauſed the widowes heart to reioyce.

14 I put [l] on iuſtice, and it covered mee: my iudgement was as a robe, and a crowne.

15 I was the eyes to the blinde, and I was the feete to the lame.

16 I was a father vnto the poore, and when I knew not the cauſe, I ſought it out diligently.

17 I brake alſo the iawes of the vnrighteous man, and pluckt the pray out of his teeth.

18 Then I ſaid, I ſhall die in my [m] neſt, and I ſhall multiply my dayes as the ſand.

19 For my roote is [n] ſpred out by the water, and the dew ſhall lie vpon my branch.

20 My glory ſhall renew toward me, and my bow ſhallbe reſtored in mine hand.

21 Vnto me men gave eare, and waited, and held their tongue at my counſell.

22 After my wordes they repiled not, and my talke [o] dropped vpon them.

23 And they waited for mee, as for the raine, and they opened their mouth [p] as for the latter raine.

24 If I [q] laughed on them, they beleeued it not: neither did they cauſe the light of my countenance [r] to fall.

25 I appointed out [s] their way, and ſit as chiefe, and dwelt as a King in the armie, and like him that comforteth the mourners.

CHAP. XXX.

1 Iob complaineth that he is contemned of the moſt contemptible, 11, 12 becauſe of his aduerſitie and affliction. 23 Death is the houſe of all fleſh.

BUt now they that are yonger then I, [a] mocke me: yea, they whoſe fathers I have refuſed to ſet with the [b] dogges of my flockes.

men were glad to doe me reuerence, the yong men now contemne me.

a That is, mine eſtate is changed, and whereas before the ancient b Meaning to be my ſhepherds, or to keepe my dogs.

2 For whereto ſhould the ſtrength of their hande have ſerved mee, ſeeing age [c] periſheth in them?

3 For pouerty and famine they vvere ſolitary fleeing into the wildernes, vvich is darke, deſolate and waſte.

4 They cut vp ‖ nettles by the buſhes, and the iuniper roots vvas their meat.

5 They were [d] chaſed forth from among men: they ſhouted at them, as at a thiefe.

6 Therefore they dwelt in the cleft of riuers, in the holes of the earth and rocks.

7 They roared among the buſhes, and vnder the thiſtles they gathered themſelves.

8 They vvere the children of fooles, and the children of villaines, which were more vile then the earth.

9 And now am I their [e] ſong, and I am their talke.

10 They abhorre me, and flee farre from mee, and ſpare not to ſpit in my face.

11 Becauſe that God hath looſed my [f] coard and humbled mee, [g] they have looſed the bridle before me.

12 The youth riſe vp at my right hand: they have puſht my feete, and have trode on mee as on the [h] paths of their deſtruction.

13 They have deſtroyed my paths: they tooke pleaſure at my calamity, they had no [i] helpe.

14 They came as a great breach of vvaters, and [k] vnder this calamity they come on heaps.

15 Feare is turned vpon me: and they purſue my ſoule as the wind, and mine health paſſeth away as a cloud.

16 Therefore my ſoule is now [l] powred out vpon me, and the dayes of affliction have taken hold on me.

17 [m] It pearceth my bones in the night, and my ſinewes take no reſt.

18 For the great vehemencie is my garments changed, vvhich compaſſeth me about, as the collar of my coat.

19 [n] Hee hath caſt me into the mire, and I am become like aſhes and duſt.

20 When I cry vnto thee, thou doſt not heare me, neither regardeſt me, vvhen I ſtand vp.

21 Thou turneſt thy ſelfe [o] cruelly againſt me, and art enemy vnto me with the ſtrength of thine hand.

22 Thou takeſt me vp and cauſeſt mee to ride vpon the [p] winde, and makeſt my ‖ ſtrength to faile.

23 Surely I know that thou wilt bring mee to death, and to the houſe appointed for all the liuing.

24 Doubtles none can ſtretch his hand [q] vnto the grave, though they crie in his deſtruction.

25 Did not I weepe with him that was in trouble? was not my ſoule in heauineſſe for the poore?

26 Yet when I looked for good, [r] evill came vnto me: and when I waited for light, there came darkeneſſe.

27 My bowels did boyle without reſt: for the dayes of affliction are come vpon me.

28 I went mourning [ſ] without ſunne: I ſtood vp in the Congregation [t] and cried, 29 I am a brother to the [u] Dragons, and a companion to the Oſtriches.

30 My skin is blacke vpon me, and my bones are burnt with [x] heat, 31 Therefore mine harpe is turned to mourning, and mine organs into the voyce of them that weepe.

c That is, their fathers died for famine before they came to age.
‖ Or, mallowes.
d Iob ſheweth that theſe that mocked him in his affliction, were like to their fathers, wicked and leaved fellows ſuch as he here deſcribeth.
e They make ſongs of me, and mocke at my miſery.
f God hath taken from me the force, credit, and authority wherewith I kept them in ſubiection.
g He ſaid that the yong men when they ſaw him, hid themſelves, as chap. 29,8. and now in his miſery they were impudent and licencious.
h That is, they ſought by all meanes how they might deſtroy me.
i They need none to helpe them.
k By my calamity they tooke an occaſion againſt me.
l My life faileth me, and I am as halfe dead.
m Meaning, ſorrow.
n That is, God hath brought me into contempt.
o He ſpeaketh not thus to accuſe God, but to declare the vehemencie of his affliction, whereby he was caried beſide himſelfe.
p He compareth his afflictions to a tempeſt or whirlewind.
‖ Or, wiſedome, or law.
q None can deliuer me thence, though they lament at my death.
r In ſtead of comforting they mocked at me.
ſ Not delighting in any worldly thing, no not ſo much as in the vſe of the Sunne.
t Lamenting them that were in affliction, and mouning others to pity them.
u I am like the wild beaſts that deſire moſt ſolitary places.
x With the heat of affliction.

CHAP. XXXI.

1 Iob reciteth the innocency of his liuing and number of his vertues, which declareth vvhat ought to be the life of the faithfull.

I Made a couenant with mine [a] eyes: why then ſhould I thinke on [b] a maid?

2 For what portion ſhould I have of God from above? and vvhat inheritance of the almighty from on high?

3 Is not deſtruction to the wicked, and ſtrange puniſhment to [c] the workers of iniquitie?

4 Doeth not he behold my wayes, and tell all my ſteps?

5 If I have walked in vanitie, or if my foote hath made haſte to deceit?

6 Let God weigh me in the iuſt balance, and he ſhall know my [d] vprightneſſe.

7 If my ſtep hath turned out of the way, or mine heart hath [e] walked after mine eye, or if any blot hath cleaved to mine hands,

8 Let me ſow, and let another [f] eate: yea, let my plants be rooted out.

9 If mine heart hath bene deceiued by a woman, or if I have laide wayte at the doore of my neighbour,

10 Let my wife [g] grind vnto another man, and let other men bow downe vpon her.

11 For this is a wickednes, and iniquity to be condemned.

12 Yea, this is a fire that ſhall deuoure [h] to deſtruction, and which ſhall root out all my increaſe.

13 If I did contemne the iudgement of my ſeruant, and of my maide, when they [i] did contend with me.

14 What then ſhall I do when [k] God ſtandeth vp? and when he ſhall viſit me, what ſhall I anſwer?

15 He that hath made me in the wombe, hath he not made [l] him? hath not he alone faſhioned vs in the wombe?

16 If I reſtrained the poore of their deſire, or [m] have cauſed the eyes of the widow to faile,

17 Or have eaten my morſels alone, and the fatherleſſe hath not eaten thereof,

18 (For from my youth hath bee growen vp with me as vvith a father, and from my mothers wombe have I bene a guide vnto her.)

19 If I have ſeene any periſh for want of cloathing, or any poore without conering.

20 If his loynes have not bleſſed me, becauſe he was warmed with the fleece of my ſheepe, 21 If I have lift [o] vp my hand againſt the fatherles, when I ſaw that I might helpe him in the gate.

22 Let mine [p] arme fall from my ſhoulder, and mine arme be broken from the bone.

23 For Gods puniſhment was [q] fearefull vnto me, and I could not be deliuered from his Highneſſe.

24 If I made golde mine hope, or have ſaid to the wedge of gold, Thou art my confidence,

25 If I reioyced becauſe my ſubſtance was great, or becauſe mine hand hath gotten much,

26 If I did behold the [r] ſunne, when it ſhined, or the moone walking in her brightnes, 27 If mine heart did flatter me in ſecret, or if my mouth did kiſſe mine [ſ] hand.

28 (This alſo had bene an iniquity to be condemned: for I had denied the God [t] aboue.)

29 If I reioyced at his deſtruction that hated a I kept mine eyes from all wanton looks.

b Would not God then have puniſhed me?
c Iob declareth that the feare of God was a bridle to ſtay him from all wickednes.
d He ſheweth wherein his vprightnes conſiſteth, that is, in as much as he was blameles before men, and ſinned not againſt the ſecond Table.
e That is, hath accompliſhed the luſt of mine eye.
f According to the curſe of the law, Deut. 28. 33.
g Let her be made a ſlaue.
h He ſheweth that albeit man neglect the puniſhment of adultery, yet the wrath of God will neuer ceaſe till ſuch be deſtroyed, i When they thought themſelves euill intreated by me.
k If I had oppreſſed others, how ſhould I have eſcaped Gods iudgement.
l He was mooued to ſhew pity vnto ſeruants, becauſe they were Gods creatures as hee was.
m By long waiting for her requeſt.
n He nouriſhed the fatherles, and maintained the widowes cauſe.
o To oppreſſe him and to doe him iniury.
p Let me rot in pieces.
q I refrained not from ſinning for feare of men: but becauſe I feared God.
r If I was proud of my worldly proſperity and felicitie, which is meant by the ſhining of the ſunne, and brightnes of the moone.
ſ If mine owne doings delighted me. t By putting confidence in any thing but in him alone.

u My ſeruants mooued me to be reuenged of mine enemie yet did I neuer wiſh him hurt.
x And not confeſſed it freely: whereby it is euident that he iuſtified himſelfe before men, and not before God.
y That is, I reuerenced the moſt weake and contemned and was afraid to offend them.
z I ſuffered them to ſpeake euill of me, and went not out of my houſe to reuenge it.
a This is a ſufficient token of my righteouſneſſe, that God is my witneſſe and will iuſtifie my cauſe.
b Should not this booke of his accuſations be a praiſe and commendation to me?
c I will make him account of all my life, without feare. d As though I had withholden their wages that laboured in it.
e Meaning, that he was no briber nor extortioner.
f That is, the talke which he had with his three friends.

† Ebr. was iuſt in his owne eyes.

a Which came of Buz the ſonne of Nahor, Abrahams brother.
b Or, as the Chalde paraphraſt readeth, Abram.
c By making himſelfe innocent, and by charging God of rigour.
d That is, the three mentioned before.

e Meaning, the ancient, which haue experience.
f It is a ſpeciall gift of God that man hath vnderſtanding, and commeth neither of nature nor by age.

g To proove that Iobs affliction came for his ſinnes.

me, or was mooued to ioy when euill came vpon him.

30 Neither haue I ſuffered my mouth to ſinne: by wiſhing a curſe vnto his ſoule.

31 Did not the men of my u Tabernacle ſay, Who ſhall giue vs of his fleſh? wee cannot be ſatisfied.

32 The ſtranger did not lodge in the ſtreete, but I opened my doores vnto him, that went by the way.

33 If I haue hid x my ſinnes, as Adam, concealing mine iniquitie in my boſome, 34 Though I could haue made afraid a great multitude, yet the moſt contemptible of the families did y feare me: ſo I kept z ſilence, and went not out of the doore.

35 Oh that I had ſome to heare me! beholde my a ſigne that the Almightie will witneſſe for me: though mine aduerſarie ſhould write a book againſt me, 36 Would not I take it vpon my ſhoulder, and binde it as a b crowne vnto me?

37 I will tell him the number of my goings, and goe vnto him as to a c prince.

38 If my land d cry againſt mee, or the furrowes thereof complaine together,

39 If I haue eaten the fruits thereof without ſiluer: or if I haue grieued e the ſoules of the maſters thereof, 40 Let thiſtles grow in ſtead of wheate, and cockle in the ſtead of barley.

THE f WORDS OF IOB ARE ENDED.

CHAP. XXXII.

1 Elihu reproueth them of folly. 8 Age maketh not a man wiſe, but the ſpirit of God.

SO theſe three mee ceaſed to anſwere Iob, becauſe he †eſteemed himſelfe iuſt.

2 Then the wrath of Elihu the ſonne of Barachel the a Buzite, of the family of b Ram, was kindled: his wrath, I ſay, was kindled againſt Iob, becauſe he iuſtified himſelfe c more then God.

3 Alſo his anger was kindled againſt his three friends, becauſe they could not finde an anſwere, and yet condemned Iob.

4 (Now Elihu had waited till Iob had ſpoken: for d they were more ancient in yeeres then hee.)

5 So when Elihu ſaw, that there was none anſwere in the mouth of the three men, his wrath was kindled.

6 Therefore Elihu the ſonne of Barachel, the Buzite anſwered and ſaide, I am yong in yeeres, and ye are ancient: therefore I doubted, and was afraid to ſhew you mine opinion.

7 For I ſaid, The dayes e ſhall ſpeake, and the multitude of yeeres ſhall teach wiſedome.

8 Surely there is a ſpirit in man, f but the inſpiration of the Almightie giueth vnderſtanding.

9 Great men are not alwaye wiſe, neither doe the aged alwaye vnderſtand iudgement.

10 Therefore I ſay, Heare me and I will ſhewe alſo mine opinion.

11 Behold, I did waite vpon your words, and hearkened vnto your knowledge, whiles you ſought out g reaſons.

12 Yea, when I had conſidered you, loe, there was none of you that reprooued Iob, nor anſwered his words:

13 Leaſt ye ſhould ſay, We haue h found wiſedome: for God hath caſt him downe, and no Man.

14 Yet hath i he not directed his words to me, neither will I anſwere k him by your words.

15 Then they feared, anſwered no more, but left off their talke.

16 When I had waited (for they ſpake not, but ſtood ſtill and anſwered no more,)

17 Then anſwered I in my turne, and I ſhewed mine opinion.

18 For I am full of l matter, and the ſpirit within me compelleth me.

19 Behold, my belly is as the wine, which hath no vent, and like the new bottels that braſt.

20 Therefore will I ſpeake, that I may take breath: I will open my lips, and will anſwere.

21 I will not now accept the perſon of man, m neither will I giue tittles to man.

22 For I may not giue n tittles, leaſt my Maker ſhould take me away ſuddenly.

CHAP. XXXIII.

5 Elihu accuſeth Iob of ignorance. 14 He ſheweth that God hath diuers meanes to inſtruct man and to draw him from ſinne. 19, 20 Hee afflicteth man and ſuddenly deliuereth him. 26 Man being deliuered giueth thanks to God.

WHerefore, Iob, I pray thee, heare my talke, and hearken vnto all my words.

2 Behold now, I haue opened my mouth: my tongue hath ſpoken in my mouth.

3 My wordes are in the vprightneſſe of mine heart, and my lips ſhall ſpeake pure knowledge.

4 The a Spirit of God hath made me, and the breath of the Almightie hath giuen me life.

5 If thou canſt giue me anſwere, prepare thy ſelfe and ſtand before me.

6 Behold, I am according to thy wiſh in b Gods ſtead: I am alſo formed of the clay.

7 Beholde, my terrour ſhall not feare thee, neither ſhall mine hand c be heauy vpon thee.

8 Doubtleſſe thou haſt ſpoken in mine eares, and I haue heard the voyce of thy words.

9 I am d cleane, without ſinne: I am innocent and there is none iniquitie in me.

10 Loe, he hath found occaſion againſt mee, and counted me for his enemie.

11 Hee hath put my feete in the ſtockes, and looketh narrowly vnto all my paths.

12 Behold, in this haſt thou not done right: I will anſwere thee, that god is greater then man.

13 Why doeſt thou ſtriue againſt him? for he doeth not e giue account of all his matters.

14 For God ſpeaketh f once or twiſe, and one ſeeth it not.

15 In dreames and g viſions of the night, when ſleepe falleth vpon men, and they ſleepe vpon their beds,

16 Then he openeth the eares of men, even by their corrections, vvhich he h had ſealed,

17 That he might cauſe man to turne away from his enterpriſe, and that hee might hide the i pride of man,

18 And keepe back his ſoule from the pit, and that his life ſhould not paſſe by the ſword.

19 He is alſo ſtricken with ſorow vpon his bed, ſpeaketh commonly, either by viſions to teach vs the cauſe of his afflictions, or by his meſſenger.

h That is, determined to ſend vpon them.

i Hee ſheweth for what end God ſendeth afflictions: to beate downe mans pride, and to turne from euill.

and

b And flatter your ſelues as though you had ouercome him.
f To wit, Iob.
k He vſeth almoſt the like arguments, but without taunting and reproaches.
l I haue conceiued in my mind great ſtore of reaſons.
m I will neither haue regard to riches, credit, nor authoritie, but will ſpeake the very trueth.
n The Ebrew word ſignifieth, to change the name, as to call a foole a wiſe man: meaning, that he would not cloake the trueth to flatter men.

a I confeſſe the power of God, and am one of his, therefore thou oughteſt to heare me.
b Becauſe Iob had wiſhed to diſpute his cauſe with God, Chap. 16, 21. ſo that he might doe it without feare, Elihu ſaith, he will reaſon in Gods ſtead, whom he needeth not to feare, becauſe he is a man made of the ſame matter that he is.
c I will not handle thee ſo roughly as theſe others haue done.
d He repeateth Iobs words, wherein he proteſted his innocencie in diuers places, but ſpecially in the 13, 16. and 30 Chapters.
e The cauſe of his iudgements is not alwayes declared to man.
f Though God by ſundry examples of his iudgements ſpeake vnto man, yet the reaſon thereof is not knowen: yea and though God ſhould ſpeake, yet is he not vnderſtood.
g God, ſaith he, ſpeaketh commonly, either by viſions or els by iudgements, or and the griefe of his bones is sore.

20 So that his [k] life causeth him to abhorre bread, and his soule daintie meat.

21 His flesh faileth that it cannot be seene, and his bones which were not seene, clatter.

22 So his soule draweth to the graue, and his life [l] to the buriers.

23 If there be a [m] messenger with him, or an interpreter, one of a thousand [n] to declare vnto man his righteousnesse, 24 Then will he have [o] mercy vpon him, and will say, [p] Deliuer him, that he go not downe into the pit: for I have receiued a reconciliation.

25 Then shall his flesh be [q] as fresh as a childs, and shall returne as in the dayes of his youth.

26 Hee shall pray vnto God, and he will be fauourable vnto him, and hee shall see his face with ioy: for he will render vnto man his [r] righteousnesse.

27 Hee looketh vpon men, and if one say, I haue sinned, and [s] peruerted righteousnes, and it did not profit [t] me, 28 [u] He will deliuer his soule from going into the pit, and his life shall see the light.

29 Lo, all these things will God worke [x] twise or thrise with a man, 30 That hee may turne backe his soule from the pit, to be illuminate in the light of the liuing.

31 Marke well, O Iob, and heare mee: keepe silence and I will speake.

32 If there be [y] matter, answere me, and speake: for I desire to [z] iustifie thee.

33 If thou hast not, heare mee: holde thy tongue, and I will teach thee wisedome.

k That is, his painefull and miserable life.
l To them that shall burie him.
m A man sent of God to declare his will.
n A singular man, and as one chosen out of a thousand, which is able to declare the great mercies of God vnto sinners: and wherein mans righteousnes standeth, which is through the iustice of Iesus Christ and faith therein.
o Hee sheweth that it is a sure token of Gods mercy toward sinners, when hee causeth his word to be preached vnto them.
p That is, the minister shall by the preaching of the word pronounce vnto him the forgiuenesse of his sinnes.
q He shall feele Gods fauour and reioyce: declaring hereby wherein standeth the true ioy of the faithfull, and that God will restore him to health of body, which is a token of his blessing.
r God will forgiue his sinnes, and accept him as iust.
s That is, done wickedly.
t But my sinnes hath beene the cause of Gods wrath toward me.
u God will forgiue the penitent sinner.
x Meaning, oftentimes, euen as oft as a sinner doeth repent.
y If thou doubt of any thing, or see occasion to speake against it.
z That is, to shew thee, wherein mans iustification consisteth.

CHAP. XXXIIII.

Elihu chargeth Iob, that hee called himselfe righteous.
12 Hee sheweth that God is iust in his iudgements.
24 God destroyeth the mightie. 30 By him the hypocrite reigneth.

MOreouer Elihu answered and said,

2 Heare my words, yee [a] wisemen, and hearken vnto me ye that haue knowledge.

3 For the eare trieth the words, as the mouth tasteth meate.

4 Let vs seeke [b] iudgement among vs, and let vs know among our selues what is good.

5 For Iob hath said, I am righteous, and God hath taken [c] away my iudgement.

6 Should I lie in my [d] right? my vvound of the arrow is [e] grieuous without my sinne.

7 What man is like Iob, that drinketh [f] scornfulnesse like water?

8 Which goeth in the [g] company of them that worke iniquitie, and walketh with wicked men?

9 For hee hath sayd, [h] It profiteth a man nothing that he should [i] walke with God.

10 Therefore hearken vnto mee, yee men of wisedome, God forbid that wickednes should be in God, and iniquitie in the Almightie.

11 For he will render vnto man according to his worke, and cause every one to find according to his way.

12 And certainely God will not do wickedly, neither will the Almightie peruert iudgement.

13 Whom * hath he appointed ouer the earth beside himselfe? or who hath placed the whole world?

a Which are esteemed wise of the world.
b Let vs examine the matter vprightly.
c That is, hath afflicted me without measure.
d Should I say, I am wicked, being an innocent?
e I am sorer punished, then my sinne deserueth.
f Which is compelled to receiue thy reproach and scornes of many for his foolish words.
g Meaning, that Iob was like to the wicked, because he seemed not to glorifie God and submit himselfe to his iudgements.
h He wresteth Iobs words who said that Gods children are of times punished in this world, and the wicked go free.
i That is, liue godly. as Gen. 5. 22.
* Chap. 26. 13.

14 If [k] he set his heart vpon man, and gather vnto himselfe his spirit [l] and his breath, 15 All flesh shall perish together, and man shall returne vnto dust.

16 And if thou hast vnderstanding, heare this, and hearken to the voyce of my words.

17 Shall he that hateth iudgement, [m] gouerne? and wilt thou iudge him wicked that is most iust?

18 Wilt thou say vnto a king, Thou art [n] wicked? or to princes, Ye are vngodly?

19 How much lesse to him that accepteth not the persons of princes, and regardeth not the rich, more then the poore? for they be all the worke of his hands.

20 They shall die suddenly, [o] and the people shalbe troubled at midnight, [p] and they shall passe foorth and take away the mightie without hand.

21 For his eyes are vpon the wayes of man, and hee seeth all his goings.

22 There is no darkenesse nor shadowe of death, that the workers of iniquitie might be hid therein.

23 For hee will not lay on man so much, that he should [q] enter into iudgement with God.

24 He shall breake the mightie without [r] seeking, and shall set vp other in their stead.

25 Therefore shall he declare their [s] works: he shall turne the [t] night, and they shallbe destroyed.

26 He striketh them as wicked men in the places of the [u] seers.

27 Because they have turned backe from him, and would not consider all his wayes:

28 So that they have caused the voyce of the poore to [x] come vnto him, and he hath heard the cry of the afflicted.

29 And when he giueth quietnesse, who can make trouble? and when he hideth his face, who can behold him, whether it be vpon nations, or vpon a man onely?

30 Because the [y] hypocrite doeth reigne, and because the people are snared.

31 Surely it apperteineth vnto God [z] to say, I haue pardoned, I will not destroy.

32 [a] But if I see not, teach thou mee: if I have done wickedly, I will doe no more.

33 Will he performe the thing through [b] thee? for thou hast reprooved [c] it, because that thou hast chosen, and not I: now speake what thou knowest.

34 Let men of vnderstanding tell mee, and let a wise man hearken vnto me.

35 Iob hath not spoken of knowledge, neither were his words according to wisedome.

36 I desire that Iob may be [d] tried, vnto the end, touching the answere for wicked men.

37 For hee [e] addeth rebellion vnto his sinne, he clappeth his hands among vs, and multiplieth his words against God.

k To destroy him.
l The breath of life which he gaue man.
m If God were not iust, how could he gouerne the world.
n If man of nature feare to speake euill of such as haue power, then much more ought they to be afraid to speake euill of God.
o When they looke not for it.
p The messengers of visitation that God shall send.
q God doeth not afflict man aboue measure, so that he should haue occasion to contend with him.
r For all his creatures are at hand to serue him, so that hee needeth not to seeke for any other army.
s Make them manifest that they are wicked.
t Declare the things that were hid.
u Meaning, openly in the sight of all men.
x By their cruelty and extortion.
y When tyrants sit in the throne of iustice which vnder pretence of executing iustice are but hypocrites and oppresse the people, it is a signe that God hath drawen backe his countenance of fauour from that place.
z Onely it belongeth to God to moderate his corrections, and not vnto man.
a Thus Elihu speaketh in the person of God, as it were mocking Iob, because hee would be wiser then God.
b Will God vse thy counsell doing his workes?
c Thus he speaketh in the person of God, as though Iob should chuse and refuse affliction at his pleasure.
d That he may speake as much as he can, that we may answere him and all the wicked that shall vse such arguments.
e Hee standeth stubbornly in the maintenance of his cause.

CHAP. XXXV.

6 Neither doeth godlinesse profit, or vngodlinesse hurt God, but man. 13 The wickednes vnto God and are not heard.

ELihu spake moreover, and sayd,

2 Thinkest thou this right, that thou hast sayd, I am [a] more righteous then God?

3 For thou hast sayd, What profiteth it thee, and what auaileth it mee, to purge mee from my sinne?

a Iob never spake these words: but because he maintained his innocencie, it seemed as though hee would say, that God tormented him without iust cause.

4 Therefore

4 Therefore will I anſwere thee, and thy b companions with thee.

5 Looke unto the heaven, and ſee and behold, the c clouds vvhich are higher then thou.

6 If thou ſinneſt, what doeſt thou d againſt him, yea, when thy ſinnes be many, what doeſt thou unto him?

7 If thou be righteous, what giveſt thou unto him? or what receiveth he at thine hand?

8 Thy wickednes may hurt a man as thou art: and thy righteouſnes may profit the ſonne of man.

9 They cauſe many that are oppreſſed, e to cry, vvhich cry out for the violence of the mighty.

10 But none ſayeth, Where is God that made me, which giveth ſongs in the night?

11 Which teacheth us more then the beaſts of the earth, and giveth us more wiſedome then the foules of the heaven.

12 Then they crie becauſe of the violence of the wicked, f but he anſwereth not.

13 Surely God will not heare vanitie, neither will the Almighty regard it.

14 Although thou ſayeſt to God, Thou wilt not regard it, g yet iudgement is before him: truſt thou in him.

15 But now becauſe his anger hath not viſited, nor called to count the evill with great extremity.

16 Therefore Iob h openeth his mouth in vaine, and multiplieth words without knowledge.

b Such as are in the like error.

a If thou canſt not controule the clouds, wilt thou preſume to inſtruct God?

d Neither doeth thy ſinne hurt God, nor thy iuſtice profit him: for he will be glorified without thee.

e The wicked may hurt man and cauſe him to cry, who if he ſought to God which ſendeth comfort ſhould be delivered.

f Becauſe they pray not in faith, as feeling Gods mercies.

g God is iuſt, howſoever thou iudgeſt of him.

h For if he did puniſh thee as thou deſerveſt, thou ſhouldeſt not be able to open thy mouth.

CHAP. XXXVI.

1 Elihu ſheweth the power of God. 6 And his iuſtice.
9 And wherefore he puniſheth. 13 The propheſie of the wicked.

E Lihu alſo proceeded and ſayd,

2 Suffer me a little and I will inſtruct thee: for I have yet to ſpeake on Gods behalfe.

3 I will fetch a my knowledge afarre off, and will attribute righteouſnes unto my maker.

4 For truely my words ſhall not be falſe, and he that is b perfect in knowledge, ſpeaketh with thee.

5 Behold, the mighty God caſteth away none that is c mighty, and valiant of courage.

6 He d maintaineth not the wicked, but hee giveth iudgement to the afflicted.

7 He withdraweth not his eyes from the righteous, but they are with e kings in the throne, where he placeth them for ever: thus they are exalted.

8 And if they be bound in fetters and tyed with the cords of affliction.

9 Then will he ſhew them their f worke and their ſinnes, becauſe they have bene proud.

10 He openeth alſo their eare to diſcipline, and commandeth them that they returne from iniquity.

11 * If they obey and ſerve him, they ſhall end their dayes in proſperity, and their yeeres in pleaſures:

12 But if they will not obey, they ſhall paſſe by the ſword and periſh g without knowledge.

13 But the hypocrites h of heart increaſe the wrath: for they i call not when he bindeth them.

14 Their ſoule dieth in k youth, and their life among the whoremongers.

15 Hee delivereth the poore in his afflictions, and openeth their eare in trouble.

16 Even ſo would he have taken thee out of the ſtraite place into a broad place, and not ſhut up beneath: and l that which reſteth upon thy table had beene full of fat.

a He ſheweth that when we ſpeake of God, we muſt lift up our ſpirits more hie, then our naturall ſenſe is able to reach.

b Thou ſhalt perceive that I am a faithfull inſtructor, and that I ſpeake to thee in the name of God.

c Strong and conſtant and of underſtanding: for theſe are the gifts of God, and he loveth them in man: but for as much as God puniſhed now Iob, it is a ſigne that theſe are not in him

d Therefore he will not preſerve the wicked: but to the humble and afflicted heart hee will ſhew grace e He preferreth the godly to honour.

f He will moove their hearts to ſeeke their ſins that they may come to him by repentance as he did Manaſſeh.

* Iſa. 1. 19.

g That is, in their folly or obſtination, and ſo ſhalbe cauſe of their owne deſtruction.

h Which are malitiouſly bent againſt God, and flatter themſelves in their vices.

i When they are in affliction, they ſeeke not to God for ſuccour, as Aſa. 2. Chro 16. 12. Reve. 16. 11

k They die of ſome vile death, and that before they come to age.

l If thou hadſt been obedient to God, he would have brought thee to libertie and wealth.

17 But thou art full of the m iudgement of the wicked, though iudgement and equitie maintaine all things.

18 n For Gods wrath is, leaſt hee ſhould take thee away in thine abundance: for no multitude of gifts can deliver thee.

19 Will he regard thy riches? he regardeth not gold, nor all them that excell in ſtrength.

20 o Be not carefull in the night, how hee deſtroyeth the people out of their place.

21 Take thou heede: looke not to p iniquitie: for thou haſt choſen it rather then affliction.

22 Behold, God exalteth by his power: what teacher is like him?

23 Who hath appointed to him his way? or who can ſay, Thou haſt done wickedly?

24 Remember that thou magnifie his worke, which men behold.

25 All men ſee it, and men behold it q afarre off.

26 Behold, God is excellent, r and wee know him not, neither can the number of his yeeres be ſearched out.

27 When he reſtraineth the drops of water, the raine f powreth downe by the vapour thereof.

28 Which raine the clouds doe drop and let fall abundantly upon man.

29 Who can know the diviſions of the clouds, and the thunders of his t Tabernacle?

30 Behold, hee ſpreadeth his light upon u it, and covereth the x bottome of the ſea.

31 For thereby he iudgeth y the people, and giveth meat abundantly.

32 He covereth the light with the clouds, and commanded them to goe z againſt it.

33 a His companion ſheweth him therefore, and there is anger in riſing up.

m Thou art altogether after the maner of the wicked: for thou doſt murmure againſt the iuſtice of God.

n God doeth puniſh thee, leaſt thou ſhouldeſt forget God in thy wealth and ſo periſh.

o Be not thou curious in ſeeking the cauſe of Gods iudgements, when he deſtroyeth any.

p And ſo murmure againſt God through impatiencie.

q The workes of God are ſo manifeſt, that a man may ſee them afarre off, and know God by the ſame.

r Our infirmitie hindereth us ſo, that wee cannot attaine to the perfite knowledge of God.

f That is, the raine commeth of thoſe drops of water, which he keepeth in the clouds.

t Meaning, of the clouds, which be calleth the Tabernacle of God.

u Vpon the cloud.

x That men can not come to the knowledge of the ſprings thereof.

y He ſheweth that the raine hath double uſe: the one dat it declareth Gods iudgements, when it doeth overflow any places, and the other that it maketh the land fruitfull.

z That is, one cloud to daſh againſt another.

a The cold vapour ſheweth him: that is, the cloud of the hote exhalation, which being taken in the cold cloude mounteth vp toward the place where the fire is, and ſo anger is ingendred: that is noyſe, and thunderclaps.

CHAP. XXXVII.

1 Elihu proveth that the vnſearchable wiſedome of God is manifeſt by his workes. 4 As by the thunders. 6 The ſnow. 9 The whirlewinde. 10 And the raine.

A T this alſo mine heart is a aſtonied, and is mooved out of his place.

2 Heare the b ſound of his voyce, and the noyſe that goeth out of his mouth.

3 He directeth it vnder the whole heaven, and his light vnto the ends of the world.

4 After it a noyſe ſoundeth: hee thundereth with the voyce of his maieſtie, and he will not ſtay c them when his voyce is heard.

5 God thundreth marveilouſly with his voyce: he worketh great things which we know not.

6 For he ſaith to the ſnow, Be thou upon the earth d likewiſe to the ſmall raine and to the great raine of his power.

7 With the force thereof hee e ſhutteth vp every man, that all men may know his worke.

8 Then the beaſtes goe into the denne, and remaine in their places.

9 The whirlewind commeth out of the South, and the cold from the f Northwind.

a At the marveiling of the thunder and lightnings: whereby he declareth that the faithfull are lively touched with the maieſtie of God, when they behold his workes.

b That is, the thunder, whereby he ſpeaketh to men to waken their dulneſſe, and to bring them to the conſideration of his workes.

c Meaning, the raines and thunders.

d So that neither ſmall raine, nor great, ſnow nor any thing elſ commeth without Gods appointment.

e By raines and thunders God cauſeth men to keepe themſelves within their houſes

f In Ebrew it is called the ſcattering winde, becauſe it driveth away the cloudes and purgeth the ayre.

10 At the breath of God the froſt is given, and the breadth of the waters g is made narrow.

11 He maketh alſo the cloudes to h labour, to water the earth, and ſcattereth the cloude of i his light.

12 And it is turned about by his gouernement, that they may doe whatſoeuer he commandeth them vpon the whole world:

13 Whether it be for k puniſhment, or for his land, or of mercy, he cauſeth it to come.

14 Hearken vnto this, O Iob: ſtand and conſider the wonderous works of God.

15 Diddeſt thou know when God diſpoſed them? and cauſed the l light of his cloud to ſhine?

16 Haſt thou knowen the m varietie of the cloud, and the wonderous workes of him that is perfit in knowledge?

17 Or how thy cloathes are n warme, when hee maketh the earth quiet through the South-winde?

18 Haſt thou ſtretched out the heauens, which are ſtrong, and as a molten o glaſſe?

19 Tell vs what we ſhall ſay vnto him: for we cannot diſpoſe our matter becauſe of p darkeneſſe.

20 Shall it be q tolde him when I ſpeake? or ſhall man ſpeake when he ſhall be r deſtroyed?

21 And now men ſee not the light, ſ which ſhineth in the cloudes, but the winde paſſeth and cleanſeth them.

22 The t brightnes commeth out of the North: the praiſe thereof is to God, which is terrible.

23 It is the Almighty: wee cannot finde him out: he is excellent in power and iudgement, and abundant in iuſtice: he u afflicteth not.

24 Let men therefore feare him: for hee will not regard any that are wiſe in their owne conceit.

g That is, is froſen vp and dried.
h Gather the vapours and moouе to and fro to water the earth.
i That is, the cloud that hath lightning in it.
k Raine, colde, heate, tempeſts and ſuch like are ſent of God, either to puniſh man, or to profit the earth, or to declare his fauour toward man, as Chap. 36, 31.
l That is, the lightning to breake forth in the cloudes?
m Which is ſometime changed into raine, or ſnowe, haile, or ſuch like.
n Why thy cloathes ſhould keepe thee warme when the South wind bloweth, rather then when any other winde bloweth?
o For their clearneſſe.
p That is, our ignorance: ſignifying that Iob was ſo preſumptuous, that he would controll the works of God.
q Hath God need that any ſhould tell him when man murmureth againſt him?
r If God would deſtroy a man, ſhould hee repine?
ſ The cloude ſtoppeth the ſhining of the ſunne, that man cannot ſee it till the winde have chaſed away the cloud: and if man be not able to attaine to the knowledge of theſe things, how much leſſe of Gods iudgements?
t In Ebrew, golde, meaning, faire weather and cleare as golde.
u Meaning, without cauſe.

CHAP. XXXVIII.

a God ſpeaketh to Iob, and declareth the weakeneſſe of man in the conſideration of his creatures, by whoſe excellencie the power, iuſtice, and prouidence of the Creator is knowen.

THen anſwered the Lord vnto Iob out of the a whirlewinde, and ſayd,

2 Who is this that b darkeneth the counſell by words without knowledge?

3 Gird vp now thy loynes like a man: I c will demaund of thee, and declare thou vnto me.

4 Where waſt thou when I d layed the foundations of the earth? declare, if thou haſt vnderſtanding.

5 Who hath layeth the meaſures thereof, if thou knoweſt, or who hath ſtretched the line over it:

6 Wherevpon are the foundations thereof ſet: or who layd the corner ſtone thereof:

7 When the ſtarres of the morning e prayſed me together: and all the f children of God reioyced:

8 Or who hath ſhut vp the Sea with doores, when it iſſued and came foorth as out of the wombe:

a That his words might haue greater maieſty, and that Iob might know with whom he had to doe.
b Which by ſeeking out the ſecret counſell of God by mans reaſon, maketh it more obſcure, and ſheweth his owne follie.
c Becauſe he had wiſhed to diſpute with God, Chap. 23, 3. God reaſoneth with him, to declare his raſhneſſe.
d Seeing he could not iudge of thoſe things which were done ſo long before he was borne, hee was not able to comprehend all Gods workes: much leſſe the ſecret cauſes of his iudgements.
e The ſtarres and dombe creatures are ſaid to prayſe God, becauſe his power, wiſedome and goodneſſe is manifeſt and knowen therein.
f Meaning, the Angels.

9 When I made the cloudes as a couering thereof, and darkeneſſe as the g ſwadling bandes thereof:

10 When I ſtabliſheth my commandement vpon it, and ſet barres and doores, 11 And ſayd, hitherto ſhall thou come, but no further, and heere ſhall it h ſtay thy proude wawes.

12 Haſt thou commanded the i morning ſince thy dayes? haſt thou cauſed the morning to know his place?

13 That it might take holde of the corners of the earth, and that the wicked might be k ſhaken out of it?

14 It is turned as clay to faſhion, l and all ſtand vp as a garment.

15 And from the wicked their light ſhalibe taken away, and the high arme ſhalibe broken.

16 Haſt thou entred into the bottomes of the ſea? or haſt thou walked to ſeeke out the m depth?

17 Haue the gates of death bene opened vnto thee? or haſt thou ſeene the gates of the ſhadow of death?

18 Haſt thou perceiued the breadth of the earth? tell if thou knoweſt all this.

19 Where is the way where light dwelleth? and where is the place of darkeneſſe, 20 That thou n ſhouldeſt receiue it in the boundes thereof, and that thou ſhouldeſt know the paths to the houſe thereof?

21 Kneweſt thou it, becauſe thou waſt then borne? and becauſe the number of thy dayes is great?

22 Haſt thou entred into the treaſures of the ſnowe? or haſt thou ſeene the treaſures of the haile, 23 Which I have hid o againſt the time of trouble, againſt the day of warre and battell?

24 By what way is the light parted, which ſcattereth the Eaſt winde vpon the earth?

25 Who hath diuided the ſpouts for the raine? or the way for the lightning of the thunders, 26 To cauſe it to raine on the earth where no man is, and in the wilderneſſe where there is no man?

27 To fulfill the wilde and waſte place, and to cauſe the bud of the herbe to ſpring forth?

28 Who is the father of the raine? or who hath begotten the drops of the dew?

29 Out of whoſe wombe came the yce? who hath ingendred the froſt of the heauen?

30 The waters are hid p as with a ſtone: and the face of the depth is frozen.

31 Canſt thou reſtraine the ſweete influences of q the Pleiades, or looſe the bands of r Orion?

32 Canſt thou bring foorth ſ Mazzaroth in their time? canſt thou alſo guide t Arcturus with his ſonnes?

33 Knoweſt thou the courſe of heauen, or canſt thou ſet the u rule thereof in the earth?

34 Canſt thou lift vp thy voyce to the cloudes, that the abundance of water may couer thee?

35 Canſt thou ſend the lightnings that they may walke, and ſay vnto thee, Loe, heere wee are?

36 Who hath put wiſedome in the x reines? or who hath giuen the heart vnderſtanding?

37 Who can number cloudes by wiſdome? or who can cauſe to ceaſe the y bottels of heauen, 38 When the earth groweth into hardneſſe, z and the clots are faſt together?

g As though the great ſea were but as a little babe in the hands of God to turne to and fro.
h That is, Gods decree and commandement, as verſe 10.
i To wit, to riſe, ſince thou waſt borne?
k Who hauing in the night bene given to wickedneſſe, cannot abide the light, but hide themſelves.
l The earth which ſeemed in the night to have no forme, by the riſing of the ſunne, is as it were created a new, and all things therein clad with new beauty.
m If thou art not able to ſeeke out the depth of the ſea, how much leſſe art thou able to comprehend the counſell of God?
n That thou might reſt appoynt it his way and limits.
o To puniſh mine enemies with them, as Exod 9, 18. Ioſh. 10, 11.
p The yce couereth it, as though it were payed with ſtone.
q Which ſtarres ariſe when the ſunne is in Taurus, which is the ſpring time, and bring flowres.
r Which ſtarre bringeth in winter.
ſ Certaine ſtarres ſo called: ſome thinke they were the twelve ſignes.
t The North ſtarre with thoſe that are about him.
u Cauſt thou cauſe the heauenly bodies to haue any power ouer the earthly bodies?
x In the ſecret parts of man. y That is, the cloudes wherein the water is contained as in bottels.
z For when God doeth not open theſe bottels, the earth commeth to this inconuenience.

CHAP. XXXIX.

The bountie and prouidence of God, which extendeth euen to the yong rauens, giueth man full occasion to put his confidence in God. 37 Iob confesseth and humbleth himselfe.

a After he had declared Gods workes in the heavens, he sheweth his marueilous providence in earth, even toward the bruit beasts.
b Reade psal. 147. 9.

WIlt a thou hunt the pray for the lion? or fill the appetite of the lions whelpes, 2 When they couch in their places, and remaine in the cover to lie in waite?
3 Who prepareth for the raven his meate, when his birds b crie vnto God, wandering for lacke of meate?
4 Knoweſt thou the time when the wild goats bring foorth young? or doeſt thou marke when the c hindes doe calue?
5 Canſt thou number the moneths that they d fulfill? or knoweſt thou the time when they bring forth?
6 They bowe themſelves: they e bruiſe their young and caſt out their ſorowes.
7 Let their young waxe faite, and grow vp with corne: they goe forth and returne not vnto them.
8 Who hath ſet the wilde aſſe at libertie? or who hath looſed the bands of the wilde aſſe?
9 It is I which have made the wilderneſſe his houſe, and the f ſalt places his dwellings.
10 He derideth the multitude of the citie: he hearth not the crie of the driuer.
11 Hee ſeeketh out the mountaine for his paſture, and ſearcheth after every greene thing.
12 Will the vnicorne g ſerve thee? or will he tary by thy crib?
13 Canſt thou binde the vnicorne with his band to labour in the furrow? or will he plow the valleys after thee?
14 Wilt thou truſt in him, becauſe his ſtrength is great, and caſt off thy labour vnto him?
15 Wilt thou beleeue him, that he will bring home thy ſeede, and gather it vnto thy barne?
16 Haſt thou giuen the pleaſant wings vnto the peacokes? or wings and feathers vnto the oſtrich?
17 Which leaueth his egges in the earth, and maketh them h hote in the duſt.
18 And forgetteth that the foot might ſcatter them, or that the wilde beaſt might breake them.
19 He ſheweth himſelfe cruell vnto his yong ones, as they were not his, and is without feare, as if he trauelled i in vaine.
20 For God hath depriued him of k wiſedome, and hath giuen him no part of vnderſtanding.
21 When l time is, hee mounteth on high: hee mocketh the horſe and his rider.
22 Haſt thou given the horſe ſtrength, or couered his necke with m neying?
23 Haſt thou made him afraid as the graſhopper? his ſtrong neying is fearefull.
24 He n diggeth in the valley, and reioyceth in his ſtrength: he goeth foorth to meete the harneſſed man.
25 He mocketh at feare, and is not afraid, and turneth not backe from the ſword.
26 Though the quiuer rattle againſt him, the glittering ſpeare and the ſhield, 27 He o ſwalloweth the ground for fierceneſſe and rage, and he beleeueth not that it is the noiſe of the trumpet.
28 He ſaith among the trumpets, Ha, ha: he ſmelleth the battell afarre off, and the noiſe of the captaines, and the ſhouting.

c He chiefly maketh mention of wilde goats and hindes, becauſe they bring forth their yong with moſt difficultie.
d That is, how long they goe with yong?
e They bring forth with great difficultie.
f That is, the barren ground where no good fruits grow.
g Is it poſſible to make the vnicorn tame? ſignifying that if man cannot tame a creature, that it is much more impoſſible that he ſhould appoint the wiſedome of God, whereby he gouerneth all the world.
h They write that the oſtrich covereth her egges in the ſand, and becauſe the countrey is hote and the ſunne ſtill keepeth them warme, they are hatched.
i If he ſhould take care of them.
k That is, to have a care and naturall affection toward his yong.
l When the yong oſtrich is growen vp, he ouer-runneth the horſe.
m That is, given him courage? which is meant by neying and ſhaking his mane: for with his breath he couereth his necke.
n He beareth with his houſe.
o He ſo riddeth the ground that it ſeemeth nothing vnder him.

29 Shall the hauke flie by thy wiſedome, ſtretching out his wings even toward the p South?
30 Doth the eagle mount vp at thy commandement, or make his neſt on high?
31 Shee abideth and remaineth in the rocke, even vpon the top of the rocke, and the tower.
32 From thence ſhe ſpieth for meate, and her eyes behold afarre off.
33 His young ones alſo ſucke vp blood: and where the ſlaine are, there is ſhe.
34 Moreover the Lord ſpeake vnto Iob, and ſayd, 35 Is this q to learne, to ſtriue with the Almighty? he that reproueth God, let him anſwere to it.
36 ¶ Then Iob anſwered the Lord, ſaying, 37 Behold, I am r vile: what ſhall I anſwere thee? I will lay mine hand vpon my mouth.
38 Once have I ſpoken, but I will anſwere no more, yea twiſe, but I will proceede no further.

p That is, when colde commeth, to flie into the warme countreys.
q Is this the way for a man that will learne, to ſtriue with God? which thing he reprooueth in Iob.
r whereby hee ſheweth that he repented, and deſired pardon for his faults.

CHAP. XL.

a How weake mans power is, being compared to the works of God: 10 Whoſe power appeareth in the creation, and gouerning of the great beaſts.

AGaine the Lord anſwered Iob out of * the whirlewinde, and ſayd, 2 Gird vp now thy loynes like a man: I will demaund of thee, and declare thou vnto me.
3 Wilt thou diſanull a my iudgement? or wilt thou condemne me, that thou maieſt be iuſtified?
4 Or haſt thou an arme like God? or doeſt thou thunder with a voyce like him?
5 Decke thy ſelfe now with b maieſtie and excellencie, and aray thy ſelfe with beautie and glory.
6 Caſt abroad the indignation of thy wrath, and behold every one that is proud, and abaſe him.
7 Looke on every one that is arrogant, and bring him low: and deſtroy the wicked in their place.
8 Hide them in the duſt together, and binde c their faces in a ſecret place.
9 Then will I confeſſe vnto thee alſo, that thy right hand can d ſaue thee.
10 ¶ Behold now e Behemoth (whom I made f with thee) which eateth g graſſe as an oxe.
11 Behold now, his ſtrength is in his loynes, and his force is in the nauell of his belly.
12 When hee taketh pleaſure, his taile is like a cedar: the ſinews of his ſtones are wrapt together.
13 ſmall bones like ſtaves of yron.
14 h He is the chiefe of the wayes of God: i he that made him, will make his ſword to approach vnto him.
15 Surely the mountaines bring him foorth graſſe, where all the beaſts of the field play.
16 Lieth he vnder the trees in the couert of the reede and fennes?
17 Can the trees couer him with their ſhadow? or can the willowes of the river compaſſe him about?
18 Behold, he ſpoileth the river, k and haſteth not: he truſteth that he can draw vp Iorden into his mouth.
19 Hee taketh it with his eyes, and truſteth his noſe through whatſoever meeteth him.
20 ¶ Canſt thou draw out l Liuiathan with an hooke, and with a line which thou ſhalt caſt downe vnto his tongue?
21 Canſt thou caſt an hooke into his noſe? canſt a Signifying that they that iuſtifie themſelves, condemne God as iniuſt.

b Meaning, that theſe were proper vnto God, and belonged to no man.
c Cauſe them to die if thou canſt.
d Proouing hereby that whatſoever attributeth to himſelfe power and abilitie to ſaue himſelfe, maketh himſelfe God.
e This beaſt is though to be the elephant, or ſome other, which is vnknowen.
f whom I made aſwell as thee.
g This commendeth the prouidence of God toward man: for if he were given to deuoure as a lion, nothing were able to reſiſt him, or correct him.
h He is one of the chiefe works of God among the beaſts.
i Though man dare not come neere him, yet God can kill him.
k He drinketh at leiſure, and feareth no body.
l Meaning, the whale.

canſt thou m pierce his iawes with an angle?
22 Will he make many prayers vnto thee? and ſpeake thee faire?
23 Will he make a couenant with thee? and wilt thou take n him as a ſeruant for euer?
24 Wilt thou play with him as with a bird? or wilt thou bind him for thy maides?
25 Shall the companions banquet with him? ſhall they diuide him among the merchants?
26 Canſt thou fill the baskets with his skinne? or the fiſh panyer with his head?
27 Lay thine hand vpon him: remember o the battell, and doe no more ſo.
28 Behold, p his hope is in vaine: for ſhall not one periſh euen at the ſight of him?

m Becauſe he feareth leaſt thou ſhouldeſt take him.
n To do thy buſineſſe, and be at thy commandement?
o If thou once conſider the danger, thou wilt not medle with him.
p To wit, that truſteth to take him.

CHAP. XLI.

1 By the greatneſſe of this monſter Liuiathan, God ſheweth his greatneſſe and his power, which nothing can reſiſt.

NOne is ſo fierce that dare ſtirre him vp, Who is he then that can a ſtand before me?
2 Who hath preuented mee that I ſhould b make an end? All vnder heauen is mine.
3 I will not keepe ſilence concerning c his parts, nor his power, nor his comely proportion.
4 Who can diſcouer the face d of his garment? or who ſhall come to him with a double e bridle?
5 Who ſhall f open the doores of his face? his teeth are fearefull round about.
6 The maieſty of his ſcales is like ſtrong ſhields, and are ſure ſealed.
7 One is ſet to another, that no winde can come betweene them.
8 One is ioyned to another: they ſticke together, that they cannot be ſundred.
9 His neiſings g make the light to ſhine, and his eyes are like the eye lids of the morning.
10 Out of his mouth goe lamps, and ſparkes of fire leape out.
11 Out of his noſtrels commeth out ſmoke, as out of a boyling pot or caldron.
12 His breath maketh the coales burne: for a flame goeth out of his mouth.
13 In his necke remaineth ſtrength, and h labour his reiected before his face.
14 The members of his body are ioyned: they are ſtrong in themſelues, and cannot be mooued.
15 His heart is as ſtrong as a ſtone, and as hard as the nether milſtone.
16 The mightie are afraid of his maieſtie, and for feare they faint in themſelues.
17 When the ſword doeth touch him, he will not riſe vp, nor for the ſpeare, dart nor habergion.
18 Hee eſteemeth yron as ſtraw, and braſſe as rotten wood.
19 The archer cannot make him flee: the ſtones of the ſling are turneth into ſtubble vnto him.
20 The dartes are counted as ſtrawe: and hee laugheth at the ſhaking of the ſpare.
21 Sharpe ſtones i are vnder him, and he ſpreadeth ſharpe things vpon the myre.
22 He maketh the depth to k boile like a pot, and maketh the Sea like a pot of oyntment.
23 He maketh a path to l ſhine after him, one would thinke the depth an hoare head.
24 In the earth there is none like him: hee is made without feare.
25 He beholdeth m all hie things: he is a King ouer all the children of pride.

a If none dare ſtand againſt a whale, which is but a creature, who is able to compare with God the Creator?
b Who hath taught me to accompliſh my worke?
c The parts and members of the whale?
d That is, who dare pull off his skin?
e Who dare put a bridle in his mouth?
f Who dare looke in his mouth?
g That is, caſteth out flames of fire.
h Nothing is painfull or hard vnto him.
i His skinne is ſo hard that he lyeth with a great eaſe on the ſtones as in the myre.
k Either he maketh the ſea to ſeeme as it boyled by his wallowing, or els he ſpouteth water in ſuch abundance as it would ſeeme that the ſea boiled.
l That is, a white froth and ſhining ſtreame before him.
m He deſpiſeth all other beaſtes and monſters, and is the proudeſt of all others.

CHAP. XLII.

6 The repentance of Iob. 9 Hee prayeth for his friends. 12 His goods are reſtored double vnto him. 13 His children, age and death.

THen Iob anſwered the Lord, and ſaid,
2 I know that thou canſt doe all things, and that there is no a thought hid from thee.
3 Who is hee that hideth counſell without b knowledge? therefore haue I ſpoken that I vnderſtood not, euen things too wonderfull for me c and which I knew not.
4 Heare, I beſeech thee, and I will ſpeake: I will demand of thee, d and declare thou vnto me.
5 I haue e heard of thee by the hearing of the eare, but now mine eye ſeeth thee.
6 Therefore I abhorre my ſelfe, and repent in duſt and aſhes.
7 Now after that the Lord had ſpoken theſe words vnto Iob, the Lord alſo ſayd vnto Eliphaz the Temanite, My wrath is kindled againſt thee and againſt thy two friends: for ye haue not ſpoken of me the thing that is f right, like my ſeruant g Iob.
8 Therefore take vnto you now ſeuen bullockes, and ſeuen rammes, and goe to my ſeruant Iob, and offer vp for your ſelues a burnt offering, and my ſeruant Iob ſhall h pray for you: for I will accept him, leaſt I ſhould put you to ſhame, becauſe yee haue not ſpoken of me the thing which is right, like my ſeruant Iob.
9 So Eliphaz the Temanite, and Bildad the Shuhite, and Zophar the Naamathite, went, and did according as the Lord had ſayd vnto them, and the Lord accepted Iob.
10 ¶ Then the Lord turned the i captiuitie of Iob, when he prayed for his friends: alſo the Lord gaue Iob twiſe ſo much as he had before.
11 Then came vnto him all his k brethren, and all his ſiſters, and all they that had bene of his acquaintance before, and did eat bread with him in his houſe, and had compaſſion on him, and comforted him for all the euill that the Lord had brought vpon him, and euery man gaue him a ‖ piece of mony, & euery one an earering of gold.
12 So the Lord bleſſed the laſt dayes of Iob, more then the firſt: for hee had l foureteene thouſand ſheepe, and ſixe thouſand camels, and a thouſand yoke of oxen, and a thouſand ſhee aſſes.
13 He had alſo ſeuen ſonnes, and three daughters.
14 And he called the name of one m Ieremiah, and the name of the ſecond n Keziah, and the name of the third o Keren-happuch.
15 In all the land were no women found ſo faire as the daughters of Iob, and their father gaue them inheritance among their brethren.
16 And after this liued Iob an hundreth and fourtie yeeres, and ſaw his ſonnes, and his ſonnes ſonnes, euen foure generations.
17 So Iob died, being olde, and full of dayes,

THE PSALMES OF DAVID.

* Or praises, according to the Ebrewes: and were chiefly instituted to praise and give thankes to God for his benefits. They are called the Psalmes or Songs of David, because the most part were made by him.

THE ARGUMENT.

THis booke of Psalmes is set foorth unto us by the holy Ghost, to be esteemed as a most precious treasure, where in all things are conteined that appertaine to true felicity, as well in this life present as in the life to come. For the riches of true knowledge and heavenly wisedome, are here set open for us, to take thereof most abundantly. If we would know the great and high majesty of God, here we may see the brightnes thereof shine most clearely. If wee would seeke his incomprehensible wisedome, here is the schoole of the same profession. If wee would comprehend his inestimable bounty, and approach neere thereunto, and fill our handes with that treasure, heere wee may have a most lively and comfortable taste thereof. If we would know wherein standeth our salvation, and how to attaine to life everlasting, here is Christ our onely redeemer, and mediator most evidently described. The rich man may learne the true use of his riches. The poore man may find full contentation. He that will rejoyce, shall know the true joy, and how to keepe measure therein. They that are afflicted and oppressed shall see wherein standeth their comfort, and how they ought to praise God when he sendeth them deliverance. The wicked and the persecutors of the children of God shall see how the hand of God is ever against them: and though he suffer them to prosper for a while, yet he bridleth them, in so much as they cannot touch an haire of ones head except he permit them, and how in the end their destruction is most miserable. Briefly, here we may have most present remedies against all tentations and troubles of mind and conscience, so that being well practised herein, we may be assured against all dangers in this life, live in the true feare and love of God, and at length attaine to that incorruptible crowne of glory, which is laid up for all them that love the comming of our Lord Jesus Christ.

PSAL. I.

Whether it was Esdras, or any other that gathered the Psalmes into a booke, it seemeth he did set this Psalme first in manner of a preface, to exhort all godly men to study and meditate the heavenly wisedome. For the effect hereof is, 1 That they be blessed which give themselves wholly all their life to the holy Scriptures; 4 and that the wicked contemners of God, though they seeme for a while happy, yet at length shall come to miserable destruction.

BLessed is the man that doeth not walke in the a counsell of the wicked, nor stand in the way of sinners, nor sit in the seate of the scornefull.

2 But his delight is in the * law of the Lord, and in his b law doth he meditate day and night.

3 For he shall be like a * tree planted by the rivers of waters, that will bring forth her fruits in due season; whose leafe shall not fade: so c whatsoever he shall doe, shall prosper.

4 d The wicked are not so, but as the chaffe, which the wind driveth away.

5 Therefore the wicked shall not stand in the e judgement, nor sinners in the assembly of the righteous.

6 For the Lord f knoweth the way of the righteous, and the way of the wicked shall perish.

a When a man hath given once place to evill counsell, or to his owne concupiscence, he beginneth to forget himselfe in his sinne, and so falleth into contempt of God, which contempt is called the seat of the scorners.
* Deut.6.6.Iosh.1.8.pro.6.20.
b In the holy Scriptures.
* Iere.17.8.
c Gods children are so moystened ever with his grace, that whatsoever commeth unto them tendeth unto their salvation.
d Though the wicked seeme to beare the swinge in this world, yet the Lord driveth them downe that they shall not rise nor stand in the company of the righteous. e But tremble when they see Gods wrath. f Doth approove and prosper, like as not to know, is to reprooove and reiect.

PSAL. II.

1 The Prophet David rejoyceth, that notwithstanding his enemies rage, yet God will continue his kingdome for ever, and advance it even to the end of the world, 10 and therefore exhorteth kings and rulers, that they would humbly submit themselves under Gods yoke, because it is in vaine to resist God. Herein is figured Christs kingdome.

WHy doe the a heathen * rage, and the people murmure in vaine.

2 The kings of the earth band themselves, and the Princes are assembled together against the Lord, and against his g Christ.

3 b Let us breake their bandes, and cast their cords from us.

4 * But hee that dwelleth in the heaven shall laugh: the Lord shall have them in derision.

5 c Then shall hee speake unto them in his wrath, and vexe them in his sore displeasure, saying,

6 Even I have set my King upon Zion mine holy mountaine.

7 I will declare the d decree: that is, the Lord hath said unto mee, * Thou art my sonne; this e day have I begotten thee.

8 Aske of mee, and I shall give thee the heathen for thine inheritance, and the f endes of the earth for thy possession.

9 * Thou shalt crush them with a scepter of yron, and breake them in pieces like a potters vessell.

10 g Be wise now therefore, ye kings: be learned ye iudges of the earth.

11 Serve the Lord in feare, and rejoyce in trembling.

12 h Kisse the Sonne, least he be angry, and ye i perish in the way, when his wrath shall suddenly burne. Blessed are all that trust in him.

a The conspiracy of the Gentiles, the murmuring of the Iewes, and power of kings cannot prevaile against Christ. * Acts 4.25.

g Or, anoynted.
b Thus the wicked say that they will cast off the yoke of God, and of his Christ.
* Prov.1.26.
c Gods plagues will declare that in resisting his Christ, they fought against him.
d To shew that my vocation to the kingdome, is of God.
* Acts 13.33.33. hebr.1.5.
e That is to say, as touching mans knowledge, because it was the first time that David appeared to be elected of God. So is it applied to Christ in his first comming and manifestation to the world.
f Not onely the Iewes but the Gentiles also.
* Revel.2.27. g He exhorteth all rulers to repent in time. h In signe of homage. i When the wicked shall say, Peace and rest, seeming yet to be but in the midway of their purposes, then shall destruction suddenly come, 1.Thess.5.3.

PSAL. III.

1 David driven forth of his kingdome, was greatly tormented in mind for his sinnes against God: 4 And therefore calleth upon God, and waxed bold thereon his promises, against the great railings and terrors of his enemies, yea against death it selfe, which he saw present before his eyes. 7 Finally, he rejoyceth for the good successe that God gave him and all the Church.

LOrd, how are mine adversaries [a] increased? how many rise against me?

2 Many say to my soule, There is no helpe for him in God. [b] Selah.

3 But thou Lord art a buckler for me, my glory, and the lifter up of mine head.

4 I did call unto the Lord with my voyce, and he heard me out of his holy mountaine. Selah.

5 I laid mee downe and slept, and rose up againe: for the Lord sustained me.

6 I will not be afraid for [c] ten thousand of the people, that should beset me round about.

7 O Lord, arise: helpe me, my God: for thou hast smitten all mine enemies upon ỹ cheek bone: thou hast broken the teeth of the wicked.

8 [d] Salvation belongeth unto the Lord, and thy blessing is upon thy people. Selah.

PSAL. IIII.

When Saul persecuted him, he called upon God, trusting most assuredly in his promise, and therefore boldly reproveth his enemies, who wilfully resisted his dominion, 7 and finally preferreth the favour of God before all worldly treasures.

¶ [a] To him that excelleth on Neginoth. A Psalme of David.

HEare me when I call, [b] O God of my righteousnes: thou hast set me at liberty, when I was in [c] distresse: have mercy upon me, and hearken unto my prayer.

2 O ye [d] sonnes of men, how long will ye turne my glory into shame, [e] loving vanity, and seeking lyes? Selah.

3 For be ye sure that the Lord hath chosen to himselfe [f] a godly man, the Lord will heare when I call unto him.

4 [g] Tremble and sinne not: examine your owne heart upon your bed, and be [h] still. Selah.

5 [i] Offer the sacrifices of righteousnesse, and trust in the Lord.

6 Many say, Who will shew us any [k] good? but Lord, lift up the light of thy countenance upon us.

7 Thou hast given me more ioy of heart, then they have had, when their wheate and their wine did abound.

8 I will lay me downe, and also sleep in peace: for thou, Lord, only makest me dwell in safety.

PSAL. V.

David oppressed with the cruelty of his enemies, and fearing greater dangers, calleth to God for succour, shewing how requisite it is that God should punish the malice of his adversaries, 7 After, being assured of prosperous successe, hee conceiveth comfort, 12 concluding, that when God shall deliver him, others also shall be partakers of the same mercies.

‖ Or, a musicall instrument or tune.

¶ To him that excelleth upon ‖ Nehiloth.

¶ A Psalme of David.

HEare my words, O Lord: understand my [a] meditation.

2 Hearken unto the voyce of my cry, my king and my God: for unto thee doe I pray.

3 Heare my voyce in the morning, O Lord: for in the morning will I direct mee unto thee, and I will [b] wait.

4 For thou art not a God that loveth [c] wickednes, neither shall evill dwell with thee.

5 [d] The foolish shall not stand in thy sight: for thou hatest all them that worke iniquity.

6 Thou shalt destroy them that speake lyes: the Lord will abhorre the bloody man and deceitfull.

7 But I will come into thine house in the multitude of thy mercy; and in thy feare will I worship toward thine holy Temple.

8 Lead me, O Lord, in thy righteousnes, [f] because of mine enemies: make thy way plaine before my face.

9 For no constancie is in their mouth: within they are very corruption: their * throat is an open sepulchre, and they flatter with their tongue.

10 Destroy them, O God, ‖ let them [g] fall from their counsels: cast them out for the multitude of their iniquities, because they have rebelled against thee.

11 And [h] let all them that trust in thee, reioyce and triumph for ever, and cover thou them: and let them that love thy name, reioyce in thee.

12 For thou Lord, wilt ‖ blesse the righteous, and with favour [i] wilt compasse him, as with a shield.

PSAL. VI.

When David by his sinnes had provoked Gods wrath, and now felt not onely his hand against him, but also conceived the horrors of death everlasting, he desireth forgivenesse. 6 Bewailing that if God tooke him away in his indignation, he should lack occasion to praise him as he was wont to do whiles he was among men. 9 Then suddenly feeling Gods mercie, hee sharply rebuketh his enemies which reioyced in his affliction.

¶ To him that excelleth on Neginoth, upon the eight tune. A Psalme of David.

OLord, * [a] rebuke mee not in thine anger, neither chastise me in thy wrath.

2 Have mercie upon mee, O Lord, for I am weake: O Lord heale me, for my [b] bones are vexed.

3 [c] My soule is also sore troubled: but Lord, how long wilt thou delay?

4 Returne, O Lord: deliver my soule: save me for thy mercies sake.

5 For in [d] death there is no remembrance of thee: in the grave who shall praise thee?

6 I fainted in my morning: I cause my bed every night to swimme, and water my couch with my teares.

7 ‖ Mine eye is dimmed for despight, and sunke in because of all mine enemies.

8 [e] Away from me all ye workers of iniquitie: for the Lord hath heard the voice of my weeping.

9 The Lord hath heard my petition: the Lord will receive my prayer.

10 All mine enemies shall be confounded and sore vexed: they shall be turned backe, and put to shame [f] suddenly.

PSAL. VII.

Being falsly accused by Chush one of Sauls kinsmen, hee calleth to God to be his defender, 3 to whom he commendeth his innocency, 9 first shewing that his conscience did not accuse him of any evill toward Saul. 10 Next that it touched Gods glory to award sentence against the wicked. 12 And so entring into the consideration of Gods mercies and promise, he waxeth bold, and derideth the vaine enterprises of his enemies, 15 threatning that that shall fall on their owne necke which they have purposed for others.

¶ ‖ *Shigaion of David, which he sang unto the Lord, concerning the ‖ words of * Chush the sonne of Iemini.*

OLord my God, in thee I put my trust: save me from all that persecute me, and deliver me.

2 Least [a] hee devoure my soule like a lion, and teare it in pieces, while there is none to helpe.

[a] This was a token of his stable faith, that for all his troubles hee had his recourse to God.
[b] Selah here signifieth a lifting up of the voyce, to cause us to consider the sentence, as a thing of great importance.
[c] When he considered the truth of Gods promise, and tried the same, his faith increased marveilously.
[d] Be the dangers never so great or many, yet God hath ever meanes to deliver his.

[a] Among them that were appointed to sing the Psalmes, and to play on the instruments one was appointed chiefe to set the tune, and to begin: who had the charge, because he was most excellent, and he begun this Psalm on the instrument calleth Neginoth, or in a tune so called.
[b] Thou that art the defender of my iust cause.
[c] Both of minde and body.
[d] Ye that thinke your selves noble in this world.
[e] Though your enterprises please you never so much, yet God will bring them to nought.
[f] A King that walketh in his vocation.
[g] For feare of Gods iudgement.
[h] Cease your rage.
[i] Serve God purely, and not with outward ceremonies.
[k] The multitude seeke worldly wealth, but David setteth his felicitie in Gods favour.
[l] This word in Ebrew may be referred to God, as it is here translated, or to David, signifying that he should dwell as ioyfull alone, as if he had many about him, because the Lord is with him.

[a] This is meant by the crueltie of Saul and his followers.
[b] Selah.
[c] Many thousands.
[d] Salvation commeth not by men, but by God.
[e] Ye that are carnall and set your affections on worldly things.
[f] Which runne most ragingly after their carnall affections.

[a] In the deepest of his tentations hee putteth his full confidence in God.
[b] Because thou art iust, therefore leade me out of the dangers of mine enemies.
* Rom.3.13.
‖ Or, cause them to erre.
[g] Let their devices come to nought.
[h] Thy favour toward me shall confirme the faith of all others.
‖ Or, give good successe.
[i] So that he shall be safe from all dangers.

* Iere.10,24.
[a] Though I deserve destruction, yet let thy mercie pitie my frailtie.
[b] For my whole strength is abated.
[c] His conscience is also touched with the feare of Gods iudgement.
[d] He lamenteth that occasion should be taken from him to praise God in the congregation.
‖ Or, mine eye is eaten as it were with wormes.
[e] God sendeth comfort and boldnesse in affliction, that we may triumph over our enemies.
[f] When the wicked thinke that the godly shall perish, God delivereth them suddenly, and destroyeth their enemies.

‖ Or, kind of tune.
‖ Or, accusation.
* 2.Sam.16,7.
[a] Hee desireth God to deliver him from the rage of cruell Saul.

b Wherewith Chush chargeth me.
c If I reverenced not Saul for affinities sake and preserved his life, 1. Sam. 26, 8, 9.
d Let me not onely die, but be dishonoured for ever.
e In promising me the kingdome.
f Not onely for mine, but for thy Church sake, declare thy power.
g As touching my behaviour toward Saul and mine enemies.
h Though they pretend a iust cause against me: yet God shall iudge their hypocrisie.
i He doth continually call the wicked to repentance by some signes of his iudgements.
k Except Saul turne his minde, I die: for he hath both men and weapons to destroy me. Thus considering his great danger, he magnifieth Gods grace.
* Isa. 59, 4. Iob 15. 35.
l In keeping faithfully his promise with me.

3 O Lord my God, if I have done b this thing, if there be any wickednes in mine hands,
4 c If I have rewarded evill unto him that had peace with me, (yea I have delivered him that vexed me without cause.)
5 Then let the enemies persecute my soule, and take it; yea, let him tread my life downe upon the earth, and lay mine d honour in the dust. Selah.
6 Arise, O Lord, in thy wrath, and lift up thy selfe against the rage of mine enemies, and awake for mee according to the e iudgement that thou hast appointed.
7 So shall the congregation of the people compasse thee about: for their sakes therefore f returne on high.
8 The Lord shall iudge the people: iudge thou me, O Lord, according to my g righteousnes, and according to mine innocencie that is in me.
9 Oh let the malice of the wicked come to an end: but guide thou the iust: for the righteous God trieth the h hearts and reines.
10 My defence is in God, who preserveth the upright in heart.
11 God iudgeth the righteous, and him that contemneth God, i every day.
12 Except k he turne, he hath whet his sword: he hath bent his bow, and made it ready.
13 He hath also prepared him deadly weapons: he will ordeine his arrowes for them that persecute me.
14 * Behold, he shall travaile with wickednes: for hee hath conceived mischiefe, but hee shall bring foorth a lie.
15 He hath made a pit, and digged it, and is fallen into the pit that he made.
16 His mischiefe shall returne upon his owne head, and his cruelty shall fall upon his owne pate.
17 I will praise the Lord according to his l righteousnesse, and will sing praise to the Name of the Lord most high.

PSAL. VIII.

1 The Prophet considering the excellent liberalitie and Fatherly providence of God toward man, whom he made as it were a god over all his works, doth not onely give great thanks, but is astonished with the admiration of the same, as one nothing able to compasse such great mercies.

To him that excelleth on ‖ Gittith. A Psalme of David.

‖ Or, kind of instrument, or tune.

O Lord our Lord, how ‖ excellent is thy Name in all the world! which hast set thy glory above the heavens.
2 Out of the mouth a of babes and sucklings hast thou ‖ ordeined strength, because of thine enemies, that thou mightest ‖ still the enemy and the avenger.
3 When I beholde thine heavens, even the workes of thy fingers, the moone and the starres, which thou hast ordeined, 4 What is b man, say I, that thou art mindfull of him? and the sonne of man that thou visitest him?
5 For thou hast made him a litle lower then c God, and crowned him with glory and worship.
6 Thou hast made him to have dominion in the works of thine hands, thou hast put all things under his feet:
7 All d sheepe and oxen: yea, and the beasts of the field:
8 The fowles of the ayre, and the fish of the sea, and that which passeth thorow the paths of the seas.
9 O Lord our Lord, how excellent is thy Name in all the world!

‖ Or, noble, or marvellous.
a Though the wicked would hide Gods praises, yet the very babes are sufficient witnesses of the same.
‖ Or, established.
‖ Or, confound.
b It had bene sufficient, for him to have seen forth his glory by the heavens, though he had not come so low as to man, which is but dust.
c Touching his first creation.
d By the temporall gifts of mans creation, he is led to consider the benefits which he hath by his regeneration through Christ.

PSALM. IX.

1 After he had given thanks to God for the sundry victories that he had sent him against his enemies, and also proved by manifold experience, how ready God was at hand in all his troubles. 14 Hee being now likewise in danger of new enemies, desireth God to help him according to his wont, 17 and to destroy the malicious arrogancie of his adversaries.

To him that excelleth upon ‖ Muth Labben. A Psalme of David.

‖ Or, kinde of instrument, or tune: or for the death of Labben or Goliah.

I Will praise the Lord with my a whole heart: I will speake of all thy marveilous works.
2 I will be glad, and reioyce in thee: I will sing praise to thy Name, O most High.
3 For that mine enemies are turned backe: they shall fall and perish at thy presence.
4 For b thou hast maintained my right and my cause: thou art set in the throne, and iudgest right.
5 Thou hast rebuked the heathen: thou hast destroyed the wicked: thou hast put out their name for ever and ever.
6 O enemie, destructions are come to a perpetuall end, and thou hast destroyed the cities: their memoriall is perished with them.
7 But the Lord ‖ shall sit for ever: hee hath prepared his throne for iudgement.
8 For hee shall iudge the world in righteousnesse, and shall iudge the people with equitie.
9 The Lord also will be a refuge for the d poore, a refuge in due time, even in affliction.
10 And they that know thy Name, will trust in thee: for thou, Lord, hast not failed them that seeke thee.
11 Sing praises to the Lord, which dwelleth in Zion: shew the people his works.
12 For e when hee maketh inquisition for blood, he remembreth it, and forgetteth not the complaint of the poore.
13 Have mercy upon mee, O Lord; consider my trouble which I suffer of them that hate mee, thou that liftest mee up from the gates of death, 14 That I may shew all thy praises within the gates of the daughter of Zion, and reioyce in thy salvation.
15 The heathen are f sunken downe in the pit that they made: in the net that they hid, is their foot taken.
16 h The Lord is knowen by executing iudgement: the wicked is snared in the worke of his owne hands, ‖ Higgaion. Selah.
17 The wicked shall turne into hell, and all nations that forget God.
18 For the poore shall not be alway forgotten: the hope i of the afflicted shall not perish for ever.
19 Up Lord, let not man prevaile: let the heathen be iudged in thy sight.
20 Put them in feare, O Lord, that the heathen may know that they are but k men. Selah.

‖ Or, this is worthy to be noted.
a God is not praised, except the whole heart be given to him alone.
b Howsoever the enemie seeme for a time to prevaile, yet God preserveth the iust.
c A derision of the enemy, that mindeth nothing but destruction: but the Lord will deliver his, and bring him into iudgement.
‖ Or, reigne as Iudge.
d Our miseries are meanes to cause us to feele Gods present care over us. e Though God revengeth not suddenly the wrong done to his, yet he suffereth not the wicked unpunished.
f In the open assembly of the Church.
g For God overthroweth the wicked in their enterprises.
h The mercie of God toward his Saints must be declared, and the fall of the wicked must always be considered.
i God promiseth not to helpe us before we have felt the crosse.
k Which they cannot learne without the feare of thy iudgements.

PSAL. X.

1 Hee complaineth of the fraud, rapine, tyrannie, and all kindes of wrong, which worldly men use, affirming the cause thereof, that wicked men, being as it were drunken with prosperitie, and therefore setting apart all feare and reverence towards God, thinke they may do all things without controlling. 15 Therefore hee calleth upon God to send some remedie against these desperate evils. 16 And in the ende comforteth himselfe with hope of deliverance.

WHy ſtandeſt thou farre off, O Lord, and hideſt thee in [a] due time, even in affliction?

2 The wicked with pride doth perſecute the poore; let them be taken in the crafts that they imagined.

3 For the wicked hath [b] made boaſt of his owne hearts deſire, and the coveтous bleſſeth himſelfe, hee contemneth the Lord.

4 The wicked is ſo proude, that hee ſeeketh not for God: hee thinketh alwayes, There is no God.

5 His wayes alway proſper: thy iudgements are high above his ſight; therefore ‖ deſieth hee all his enemies.

6 He ſaith in his heart, I ſhall ‖ never be mooven, [c] nor be in danger.

7 His mouth is full of curſing, and deceite, and fraud; under his tongue is miſchiefe and iniquitie.

8 [d] He lieth in wait in the villages; in the ſecret places doth he murder the innocent; his eyes are bent againſt the poore.

9 Hee lieth in waite ſecretly, even as a lion in his denne; he lieth in wait to ſpoyle the poore, hee doth ſpoile the poore, when hee draweth him into his net.

10 He croucheth and boweth, therefore heaps of the [e] poore doe fall by his might.

11 Hee hath ſaid in his heart, God hath forgotten, he hideth away his face, and will never ſee.

12 [f] Ariſe, O Lord God, lift up thine hand; forget not the poore.

13 Wherefore doeth the wicked contemne God? hee ſaith in his heart, Thou wilt not [g] regard.

14 Yet thou haſt ſeene it; for thou beholdeſt miſchiefe and wrong; that thou mayeſt [h] take it into thine hands; the poore committeth himſelfe unto thee; for thou art the helper of the fatherleſſe.

15 Breake thou the arme of the wicked and malicious; ſearch his wickednеſſe, and thou ſhalt find [i] none.

16 The Lord is King for ever and ever; the [k] heathen are deſtroyed forth of his land.

17 Lord, thou haſt heard the deſire of the poore; thou prepareſt their heart; thou bendeſt thine eare to them, 18 [i] To iudge the fatherleſſe and poore, that earthly man ‖ cauſe to feare no more.

PSAL. XI.

1 This Pſalme containeth two parts. In the firſt David ſheweth how hard aſſaults of tentations hee ſuſtained, and in how great anguiſh of mind hee was; when Saul did perſecute him. 4 Then next hee reioyceth that God ſent him ſuccour in his neceſſity, declaring his iuſtice aſwell in governing the good, and the wicked men, as the whole world.

¶ To him that excelleth. A Pſalme of David.

IN the Lord put I my truſt; how ſay yee then to my ſoule, [a] Flee to your mountaine as a bird?

2 For loe, the wicked bend their bow, and make ready their arrowes upon the ſtring, that they may ſecretly ſhoot at them which are upright in heart.

3 For the [b] foundations are caſt downe, what hath the [c] righteous done?

4 The Lord is in his holy palace; the Lords throne is in the heaven; his eyes [d] will conſider; his eye lids will try the children of men.

5 The Lord will trie the righteous; but the wicked, and him that loveth iniquitie, doeth his ſoule hate.

6 Upon the wicked he ſhall raine ſnares, [e] fire, and brimſtone, and ſtormie tempeſt; this is the [f] portion of their cup.

7 For the righteous Lord loveth righteouſneſſe: his countenance doeth behold the iuſt.

PSAL. XII.

1 The Prophet lamenting the miſerable eſtate of the people, and the decay of all good order, deſireth God ſpeedily to ſend ſuccour to his children. 7 Then comforting himſelfe, and others with the aſſurance of Gods help, he commendeth the conſtant verity that God obſerveth in keeping his promiſes.

¶ To him that excelleth upon the eight tune.

A Pſalme of David.

HElp Lord, for there is not [a] a godly man left: for the faithfull are failed from among the children of men.

2 They ſpeake deceitfully every one with his neighbour, [b] flattering with their lips, and ſpeake with a double heart.

3 The Lord cut off all flattering lips, and the tongue that ſpeaketh proud things:

4 Which have ſaid, [c] With our tongue will we prevaile; our lips are our owne; who is Lord over us?

5 [d] Now for the oppreſſion of the needy, and for the ſighs of the poore, I will up ſaith the Lord, and will [e] ſet at libertie him, whom the wicked hath ſnared.

6 The words of the Lord are pure words, as the ſilver, tried in a fornace of earth, fined ſeven fold.

7 Thou wilt keepe [f] them, O Lord; thou wilt preſerve him from this generation for ever.

8 The wicked walke on every ſide; when they are exalted, [g] it is a ſhame for the ſonnes of men.

PSAL. XIII.

1 David as it were overcome with ſundry and new afflictions, fleeth to God as his only refuge. 3 And ſo at the length being encouraged through Gods promiſes, hee conceiveth moſt ſure confidence againſt the extreme horrors of death.

¶ To him that excelleth. A Pſalme of David.

HOw long wilt thou forget me, O Lord, [a] for ever? how long wilt thou hide thy face from me?

2 How long ſhall I take [b] counſell within my ſelfe having wearineſſe dayly in mine heart? how long ſhall mine enemie be exalted above me?

3 Behold, and heare mee, O Lord my God: lighten mine eyes, that I ſleepe not in death.

4 Leaſt mine enemie ſay, I have [c] prevailed againſt him: and they that afflict me, reioyce, when I ſlide.

5 But I truſt in thy [d] mercy: mine heart ſhall reioyce in thy ſalvation; I will ſing to the Lord, becauſe he hath [e] dealth lovingly with me.

PSAL. XIV.

1 He deſcribeth the perverſe nature of men, which were ſo growen to licentiouſneſſe, that God was brought to utter contempt. 7 For the which thing, although hee was greatly grieved, yet being perſwaded that God would find ſome preſent remedy, hee comforteth himſelfe and others.

¶ To him that excelleth. A Pſalme of David.

THe foole hath ſaid in his heart, a There is no God; they have [b] corrupted, and done an abominable worke: there is none that doeth good.

---

a So ſoone as we enter into affliction, wee thinke God ſhould help us, but that is not alway his due time.

b The wicked man reioyceth in his owne luſt, hee boaſteth when he hath that he would: he braggeth of his wit and wealth, and bleſſeth himſelfe, and thus blaſphemeth the Lord.

‖ Or, not be moved, becauſe he was never in evill.

c The evill ſhall not touch me, Iſa. 28, 15. or elſe he ſpeaketh thus becauſe hee never felt evill.

d He ſheweth that the wicked have many meanes to hide their cruelтie, and therefore ought more to be feared.

e By the hypocriſie of them that have authority, the poore are devoured.

f He calleth to God for helpe, becauſe wickednes is ſo farre overgrowen, that God muſt now helpe or never.

g Therefore thou muſt needs puniſh this their blaſphemie.

h To iudge betweene the right and the wrong.

i For thou haſt utterly deſtroyed him.

k The hypocrites or ſuch as live not after Gods Law, ſhalbe deſtroyed.

l God helpeth when mans helpe ceaſeth.

‖ Or, deſtroy no more man upon the earth.

a This is the wicked counſell of his enemies to him and his companions to drive him from the hope of Gods promiſe.

b All hope of ſuccor is takep away.

c Ye am I innocent and my cauſe good.

d Though all things in earth be out of order, yet God will execute iudgement from heaven.

e As in the deſtruction of Sodome and Gomorah.

f Which they ſhall drinke even to the dregges, Ezek. 23, 34.

a Which dare defend the trueth and ſhew mercy to the oppreſſed.

b He meaneth the flatterers of the court which hurt him more with their tongues, then with their weapons.

c They thinke themſelves able to perſwade whatſoever they take in hand.

d The Lord is moved with the complaints of his, and delivereth in the end from all dangers.

e Becauſe the Lords word and promiſe is true and unchangeable, hee will performe it and preſerve the poore from this wicked generation.

f That is, thine though hee were but one man.

g For they ſuppreſſe the godly and maintaine the wicked.

a He declareth that his afflictions laſted a long time, and that his faith fainted not.

b Changing my purpoſes as the ſicke man doeth his place.

c Which might turne to Gods diſhonour: if he did not ſent his.

d The mercy of God is the cauſe of our ſalvation.

e Both by the benefits paſt, and by others to come.

* Pſal. 53.

a Hee ſheweth that the cauſe of all wickednеſſe is to forget God.

b There is nothing, but diſorder and wickednеſſe among them.

2 The Lord looked downe from heaven upon the children of men, to ſee if there were any that would underſtand, and ſeeke God.

3 c All are gone out of the way: they are all corrupt: there is none that doeth good, no not one.

4 Doe not all the workers of iniquitie know that they eate up my people, as they eate bread? they call not upon the Lord.

5 d There they ſhall be taken with feare, becauſe God is in the generation of the iuſt.

6 You have made e a mocke at the counſell of the poore, becauſe the Lord is his truſt.

7 Oh give ſalvation unto f Iſrael out of Zion: when the Lord turneth the captivitie of his people, then Iaakob ſhall reioyce, and Iſrael ſhall be glad.

¶ Note that of this 14 Pſalme, the 5.6. and 7. verſes which are put into the common tranſlation, and may ſeeme unto ſome to be left out in this, are not in the ſame Pſalme in the Hebrew text, but rather are put in more fully to expreſſe the manners of the wicked, and are gathered out of the 5. 140. and 10 Pſalmes, the 59. of the Prophet Iſaiah, and the 36. Pſalme, and are alleadged by S. Paul, and placed together in the 3. to the Romanes.

PSAL. XV.

1 This Pſalme teacheth on what condition God did chuſe the Iewes for his peculiar people; and wherefore he placed his Temple among them, which was to the intent that they by living uprightly and godly, might witneſſe that they were his ſpecial and holy people.

¶ A Pſalme of David.

LOrd, who ſhall dwell in thy Tabernacle? who ſhall reſt in thine holy Mountaine?

2 He that b walketh uprightly and worketh righteouſneſſe, and ſpeaketh the trueth in his heart.

3 He that ſlandereth not with his tongue, nor doeth evill to his neighbour, nor receiveth a falſe report againſt his neighbour.

4 b In whoſe eyes a vile perſon is contemned, but he honoureth them that feare the Lord: hee that ſweareth to his owne hinderance and changeth not.

5 He that c giveth not his money unto uſury, nor taketh reward againſt the innocent: he that doeth theſe things, d ſhall never be mooved.

PSAL. XVI.

1 David prayeth to God for ſuccour not for his workes, but for his faiths ſake. 4 Proteſting that he hateth all idolatry, taking God onely for his comfort and felicitie. 8 Who ſuffereth his to lacke nothing.

¶ ‖ Michtam of David.

PReſerve mee, O GOD: for in thee doe I a truſt.

2 O my ſoule, thou haſt ſaid unto the Lord, Thou art my Lord: my b well doing extendeth not to thee.

3 But to the Saints that are in the earth, and to the excellent: all my delight is in them.

4 The c ſorowes of them, that offer to an other god, ſhallbe multiplied: d their offerings of blood will I not offer, neither make * mention of their names with my lips.

5 The Lord is the portion of mine inheritance and of my cup: thou ſhalt maintaine my lot.

6 The e lines are fallen unto me in pleaſant places: yea, I have a faire heritage.

7 I will praiſe the Lord, who hath given me counſell: my f reines alſo teach me in the nights.

8 I have ſet the Lord alwayes before mee: for he is at my right hand: therefore I g ſhall not ſlide.

9 Wherefore h mine heart is glad, and my tongue reioyceth: my fleſh alſo doeth reſt in hope.

10 For thou i wilt not leave my ſoule in the grave: neither wilt thou ſuffer thine holy One to ſee corruption.

11 Thou wilt ſhew me the path of life: in thy k preſence is the fulneſſe of ioy: and at thy right hand there are pleaſures for evermore.

PSAL. XVII.

1 Here he complaineth to God of the cruell pride and arrogancie of Saul, and the reſt of his enemies, who thus raged without any cauſe given on his part. 6 Therefore he deſireth God to revenge his innocencie and deliver him.

¶ The prayer of David.

HEare a the right, O Lord, conſider my crie: hearken unto my prayer of lips unfained.

2 Let my b ſentence come foorth from thy preſence, and let thine eyes behold equitie.

3 Thou haſt c prooved and viſited mine heart in the night: thou haſt tried me, and foundeſt nothing: for I was purpoſed that my d mouth ſhould not offend.

4 Concerning the workes of men, by the e words of thy lips I kept me from the paths of the cruell man.

5 Stay my ſteps in thy paths, that my feet do not ſlide.

6 I have called upon thee: f ſurely thou wilt heare me, O God: encline thine eare to me, and hearken unto my words.

7 Shew thy marveilous mercies: thou that art the Saviour of them that truſt in thee, from ſuch as g reſiſt thy right hand.

8 Keepe mee as the apple of the eye: hide mee under the ſhadow of thy wings.

9 From the wicked that oppreſſe mee, from mine enemies, which compaſſe mee round about for h my ſoule.

10 They are incloſed in their owne i fat, and they have ſpoken proudly with their mouth.

11 They have compaſſed us now in our ſteps: they have ſet their eyes to bring downe to the ground:

12 Like as a lion that is greedy of pray, and as it were a Lions whelpe lurking in ſecret places.

13 Up Lord, k diſappoint him: caſt him downe: deliver my ſoule from the wicked ‖ with thy ſword, 14 From men by thine l hand, O Lord, from men ‖ of the world, who have their m portion in this life, whoſe bellies thou filleſt with thine hid treaſure: their children have enough, and leave the reſt of their ſubſtance for their children.

15 But I will behold thy face n in righteouſneſſe, and when I o wake, I ſhalbe ſatisfied with thine image.

PSAL. XVIII.

1 This Pſalme is the firſt beginning of his gratulation, and thankeſgiving in the entring into his kingdome, wherein he extolleth and praiſeth moſt highly the marveilous mercies and grace of God, who hath thus preſerved and defended him. 42 Alſo he ſetteth forth the increaſe of Chriſtes kingdome, that the faithfull may be aſſured that Chriſt ſhall alwayes conquere and overcome by the unſpeakable power of his Father, though all the whole world ſhould ſtrive there againſt.

c David here maketh compariſon betweene the faithfull and the reprobate, but S. Paul ſpeaketh the ſame of all men naturally, Rom. 3, 10.
d Where they thinke themſelves moſt ſure.
e You mocke them that put their truſt in God.
f He prayeth for the whole Church whom he is aſſured God will deliver: for none but he only can doe it.

a Firſt God requireth uprightneſſe of life, next doing well to others, and thirdly, trueth and ſimplicitie in our words.
b He that flattereth not the ungodly in their wickednes.
c To the hinderance of his neighbour.
d That is, ſhall nosbecaſt forth of the Church as hypocrites.

‖ Or, a certaine tune.
a He ſheweth that we cannot call upon God except we truſt in him.
b Though we can not enrich God, yet we muſt beſtow Gods gifts to the uſe of his children.
c As griefe of conſcience and miſerable deſtruction.
d He would neither by outward profeſſion nor in heart, nor in mouth conſent to their idolatries.
* Exod. 23. 13.
e Wherewith my portion is meaſured.

f God teacheth me continually by ſecret inſpiration.

g The faithfull are ſure to perſevere to the end.
h That is, I reioyce both in body and in ſoule.
i This is chiefly meant of Chriſt, by whoſe reſurrection all his members have immortalitie.
k When God favoureth, there is perfect felicitie.

a My righteous cauſe.
b The vengeance that thou ſhalt ſhew againſt mine enemies.
c When thy Spirit examined my conſcience.
d I was innocent toward mine enemie both in deed and thought.
e Though the wicked provoked me to doe evill for evill, yet thy word kept me backe.
f He was aſſured that God would not refuſe his requeſt.
g For all rebell againſt thee, which trouble thy Church.
h For their cruelltie cannot be ſatisfied but with my death.
i They are puft up with pride, as the ſtomacke that is ebooked with fat.
k Stop his rage.
‖ Or, which is thy ſword.
l By thine heavenly power.
‖ Or, whoſe tyrannie hath too long endured.
m And feele not the ſmart that Gods children oft times doe.
n This is the full felicitie, comforting againſt all aſſaults, to have the face of God and favourable countenance opened unto us.
o And am delivered out of my great troubles.

2 To him that excelleth. A Pſalme of David the ſervant of the Lord, which ſpake unto the Lord the words of this ſong (in the day that the Lord delivered him from the hand of all his enemies, and from the hand of Saul) and ſaid,

I Will love thee dearely, O Lord my ſtrength.
2 a The Lord is my rocke, and my fortreſſe, and he that delivereth me, my God and my ſtrength: in him will I truſt, my ſhield, the horne alſo of my ſalvation, and my refuge.
3 I will call upon the Lord, which is worthy to be b praiſed: ſo ſhall I be ſafe from mine enemies.
4 c The ſorowes of death compaſſed me, and the floods of wickedneſſe made me afraid.
5 The ‖ ſorowes of the grave have compaſſed me about: the ſnares of death overtooke me.
6 But in my trouble did I call upon the Lord, and cryed unto my God: he heard my voyce out of his Temple, and my cry did come before him, even into his eares.
7 d Then the earth trembled and quaked: the foundations alſo of the mountaines mooved and ſhooke, becauſe he was angry.
8 Smoke went out at his noſtrils, and a e conſuming fire out of his mouth: coales were kindled thereat.
9 Hee bowed the heavens alſo and came downe, and f darkenes was under his feete.
10 And hee rode upon g Cherub, and did flie, and hee came flying upon the wings of the winde.
11 He made darkeneſſe his h ſecret place, and his pavilion round about him, even darkeneſſe of waters, and clouds of the aire.
12 At the brightnes of his preſence his clouds paſſed, haileſtones and coales of fire.
13 The Lord alſo thundred in the heaven, and the Higheſt gave i his voyce, haileſtones and coales of fire.
14 Then he ſent out k his arrowes and ſcattered them, and he increaſed lightnings and deſtroyed them.
15 And the channels of waters were ſeene, and the l foundations of the world were diſcovered at thy rebuking, O Lord, at the blaſting of the breath of thy noſtrils.
16 He hath ſent downe from above and taken me: he hath drawen me out of many m waters.
17 He hath delivereth me from my n ſtrong enémie, and from them which hate mee: for they were o too ſtrong for me.
18 They prevented me in the day of my calamity; but the Lord was my ſtay.
19 Hee brought mee foorth alſo into a large place: p he delivered me becauſe he favoured me.
20 The Lord rewarded me according to my q righteouſneſſe: according to the pureneſſe of mine hand he recompenſed me:
21 Becauſe I kept the wayes of the Lord, and did not wickedly againſt my God.
22 For all his lawes were before mee, and I did not caſt away his r commandements from me.
23 I was upright alſo with him, and have kept me from my f wickednesſe, 24 Therefore the Lord rewarded me according to my righteouſneſſe, and according to the pureneſſe of mine hands in his ſight.
25 With the s godly thou wilt ſhew thy ſelfe godly: with the upright man thou wilt ſhew thy ſelfe upright.
26 With the pure thou wilt ſhew thy ſelfe pure, and with the froward thou wilt ſhew thy ſelfe froward.
27 Thus thou wilt ſave the poore people, and wilt u caſt downe to proud looks.
28 Surely thou wilt light my candle: the Lord my God will lighten my darkeneſſe.
29 For by thee I have x broken through an hoaſte, and by my God I have leaped over a wall.
30 The way of God is uncorrupt: the y word of the Lord is tried in the fire: he is a ſhield to all that truſt in him.
31 For who is God beſides the Lord? and who is mighty ſave our God?
32 God girdeth me with ſtrength, and maketh my z way upright.
33 Hee maketh my feete like hindes feete, and ſetteth me upon mine a high places.
34 He teacheth mine hands to fight: ſo that a bowe of ‖ braſſe is broken with mine armes.
35 Thou haſt alſo given mee the b ſhield of thy ſalvation, and thy right hand hath ſtayed me, and thy c loving kindneſſe hath cauſed mee to increaſe.
36 Thou haſt enlarged my ſteps under me, and my heeles have not ſlid.
37 d I have purſued mine enemies, and taken them, and have not turned againe till I had conſumed them.
38 I have wounded them, that they were not able to riſe, they are fallen under my feet.
39 For thou haſt girded mee with ſtrength to battell: them that roſe againſt me, thou haſt ſubdued under me.
40 And thou haſt e given mee the neckes of mine enemies, that I might deſtroy them that hate me.
41 They f cried, but there was none to ſave them, even unto the Lord, but he anſwered them not.
42 Then I did beate them ſmall as the duſt before the wind: I did tread them flat as the clay in the ſtreetes.
43 Thou haſt delivered mee from the contentions of the people: thou haſt made mee the head of the g heathen, a people, whom I have not h knowen, ſhall ſerve me.
44 Aſſoone as they heare they ſhall obey me: the ſtrangers ſhall be in ſubiection to me.
45 Strangers ſhall k ſhrinke away, and feare in their pure chambers.
46 Let the Lord live, and bleſſed be my ſtrength, and the God of my ſalvation be exalted.
47 It is God that giveth me power to avenge me, and ſubdued the people under me.
48 O my deliverer from mine enemies, even thou haſt ſet me up from thoſe that roſe againſt mee; thou haſt delivered mee from the l cruell man.
49 Therefore m I will praiſe thee, O Lord, among the nations, and will ſing unto thy Name.

a David oppressed with many iniuries, finding no helpe in the world, calleth for ayde from God: and assured of his integritie towards Saul, desireth God to be his iudge, and to defend his innocencie. 6 Finally he maketh mention of his sacrifice, which he will offer for his deliverance, and desireth to be in the company of the faithfull in the Congregation of God, whence he was banished by Saul, promising integritie of life, and open praises and thanksgiving.

¶ A Psalme of David.

a Because he was assured of good successe in all his dangers, and that his saluation was surely layd vp in God, he feared not the tyrannie of his enemies.

THe Lord is my a light and my salvation, whom shall I feare? the Lord is the strength of my life, of whom shall I be afraid?

2 When the wicked, even mine enemies and my foes came upon me to eate up my flesh, they stumbled and fell.

b That God will deliver me and give my faith the victory.

3 Though an hoaste pitched against me, mine heart should not be afraid: though warre be raised against me, I will trust in b this.

c The losse of country, wife, and all worldly commodities grieue me not in respect of this one thing, that I may not praise thy Name in the mids of the congregation.

4 c One thing have I desired of the Lord, that I will require, even that I may dwell in the house of the Lord all the dayes of my life, to behold the beauty of the Lord, and to visite his Temple.

d David assured himselfe by the Spirit of prophecie that he should overcome his enemies, and serve God in his Tabernacle.

5 For in the time of trouble hee shall hide mee in his Tabernacle: in the secret place of his pavilion shall he hide me, and set me up upon a rocke.

e He groundeth vpon Gods promise, and sheweth that hee is most willing to obey his commandement.

6 d And now shall he lift up mine head above mine enemies round about mee: therefore will I offer in his Tabernacle sacrifices of ioy: I will sing and praise the Lord.

7 Hearken unto my voyce, O Lord, when I cry: have mercie also upon mee and heare mee.

8 When thou saydest, e Seeke ye my face, mine heart answered unto thee, O Lord, I will seeke thy face.

9 Hide not therefore thy face from mee, nor cast thy servant away in displeasure: thou hast bene my succour, leave me not, neither forsake me, O God of my salvation.

f He magnifieth Gods love toward his, which farre passeth the most tender love of parents towards their children.

10 f Though my father and my mother should forsake mee, yet the Lord will gather me up.

11 Teach me thy way, O Lord, and leade me in a right path, because of mine enemies.

g But either pacifie their wrath, or bridle their rage.

12 Give me not unto the g lust of mine adversaries: for there are false witnesses risen up against me, and such as speake cruelly.

h I wish his present life before I die, as Isa. 38. 11.

13 I should have fainted, except I hath beleeved to see the goodnesse of the Lord h in the land of the living.

31 For the Law of his God is in his heart, and his ſteps ſhall not ſlide.

32 The wicked watched the righteous, and ſeeketh to ſlay him.

33 But the Lord will not leave him in his hand, nor condemne him, when he is u iudged.

34 Waite thou on the Lord, and keepe his way, and he ſhall exalt thee, that thou ſhalt inherite the land: when the wicked men ſhall periſh, thou ſhalt ſee.

35 I have ſeene the wicked ſtrong, and ſpreading himſelfe like a greene bay tree.

36 Yet he x paſſed away, and loe, he was gone, and I ſought him, but he could not be found.

37 y Marke the upright man, and behold the iuſt: for the end of that man is peace.

38 But their tranſgreſſours ſhall be deſtroyed together, and the end of the wicked ſhall be cut off.

39 But the z ſalvation of the righteous men ſhallbe of the Lord: hee ſhalbe their ſtrength in the time of trouble.

40 For the Lord ſhall helpe them, and deliver them: hee ſhall deliver them from the wicked, and ſhall ſave them, becauſe they truſt in him.

k For they are dayly fed as with Manna from heaven, and have ſufficient, when the wicked have never ynough, but ever hunger.

l God knoweth what dangers hang over his, and by what meanes to deliver them.

m For God will give them contented mindes: and that which ſhall be neceſſary.

n They ſhall vaniſh away ſuddenly, for they are fed for the day of ſlaughter.

o God ſo furniſheth him with his bleſſings, that hee is able to helpe others.

p God proſpereth the faithfull, becauſe they walke in his wayes with an upright conſcience.

q When God doeth exerciſe his faith with divers temtations.

r Though the iuſt man die, yet Gods bleſſings are extend to his poſteritie, and though God ſuffer ſome iuſt man to lacke temporall benefits, yet hee recompenſeth him with ſpirituall treaſures.

f They ſhall continually be preſerved under Gods wings and have at leaſt inward reſt.

t Theſe three poynts are required of the faithfull, that their talke be godly, that Gods law be in their heart, and that their life be upright.

u For though it be ſometime ſo expedient both for Gods glory and their ſalvation, yet he will approove their cauſe, and revenge their wrong.

x So that the proſperitie of the wicked is but as a cloud, which vaniſheth away in a moment.

y He exhorteth the faithfull to marke diligently the examples both of Gods mercies and alſo of his iudgements.

z He ſheweth that the patient hope of the godly is never in vaine, but in the end hath good ſucceſſe; though for a time God proove them by ſundry temtations.

PSAL. XXXVIII.

1 David lying ſicke of ſome grievous diſeaſe, acknowledgeth himſelfe to be chaſtiſed of the Lord for his ſinnes, and therefore prayeth God to turne away his wrath. 5 He uttereth the greatneſſe of his griefe by many wordes and circumſtances, as wounded with the arrowes of Gods ire, forſaken of his friends, evill intreated of his enemies. 22 But in the end with firme confidence hee commendeth his cauſe to God, and hopeth for ſpeedie helpe at his hand.

¶ A Pſalme of David for a remembrance.

O Lord, rebuked me not in thine b anger, neither chaſtiſe me in thy wrath.

2 For thine c arrowes have light upon mee, and thine hand lieth upon me.

3 There is nothing ſound in my fleſh, becauſe of thine anger: neither is there reſt in my bones, becauſe of my d ſinne.

4 For mine e iniquities are gone over mine head, and as a weightie burden they are too heavie for me.

5 My wounds are putrified, and corrupt becauſe of f my fooliſhneſſe.

6 I am bowed, and crooked very ſore: I goe ‖ mourning all the day.

7 For my reines are full of burning, and there is nothing ſound in my fleſh.

8 I am weakened and ſore broken: I g roare for the very griefe of mine heart.

9 Lord, I pvvre my whole deſire before thee, and my ſighing is not hid from thee.

10 Mine heart † panteth: my ſtrength faileth me, and the light of mine eyes, even h they are not mine owne.

11 My lovers and my friends ſtand aſide from my plague, and my i kinſmen ſtand afarre off.

12 They alſo that ſeeke after my life, lay ſnares, and they that go about to do me evill, talke wicked things and imagine deceit continually.

13 But I as a k deafe man heard not, and am as a dumme man, vvhich openeth not his mouth.

14 Thus am I as a man, that heareth not, and in whoſe mouth are no reproofes.

15 For on thee, O Lord, doe I waite: thou wilt heare me, my Lord, my God.

16 For I ſayd, Heare me, leaſt they reioyce over me: for l when my foot ſlippeth, they extol themſelves againſt me.

17 Surely I am ready to m halt, and my ſorow is ever before me.

18 When I declare my paine, and am ſorie for my ſinne.

19 Then mine n enemies are alive, and are mightie, and they that hate me wrongfull are many.

20 They alſo, that reward evill for good, are mine adverſaries, becauſe I follow o goodneſſe.

21 Forſake mee not, O Lord, be not thou farre from me, my God.

22 Haſte thee, to helpe mee, O my Lord, my p ſalvation.

a To put himſelfe and others in minde of Gods chaſtiſement for ſinne.

b He deſireth not to be exempted from Gods rod, but that he would ſo moderate his hand, that hee might be able to beare it.

c Thy ſickneſſe, wherewith thou haſt viſited me.

d David acknowledgeth God to be iuſt in his puniſhments, becauſe his ſinnes had deſerved much more.

e He confeſſeth his ſins, Gods iuſtice, and maketh prayer his refuge.

f That rather gave place to mine owne luſts, then to the will of God.

‖ Or, blacke as one that is diſfigured and conſumed with ſickneſſe.

g This example warneth vs never to diſpaire, be the torment never ſo great: but alwaies to cry unto God with ſure truſt for deliverance.

† Ebr. runneth about, or, is toſſed to and fro, meaning, that he was deſtitute of all helpe and counſell.

h My ſight faileth me for very ſorow.

i Partly for feare and partly for pride, they denied all duetie and friendſhip.

k For I can have no audience before men, and therefore patiently wait for the helpe of God.

l That is, if they ſee that thou ſuccour me not in time, they will mocke and triumph, as though thou hadſt forſaken me.

m I am without hope to recover my ſtrength.

n In my greateſt miſerie they moſt reioyce.

o He had rather have the hatred of all the world, then to faile in any part of his duetie to Godward.

p Which art the authour of my ſalvation: and this declareth that he prayed with ſure hope of deliverance.

CHAP. XXXIX.

1 David uttereth with what great griefe and bitternesse of minde hee was driven to theſe outragious complaints of his infirmities. 3 For he conſeſſeth that when he had determined ſilence, that he braſt forth yet into wordes, that he would not, through the greatneſſe of his griefe. 4 Then hee rehearſeth certaine requeſts which taſte of the infirmitie of man. 8 And mixeth with them many prayers: but all doe ſhew a minde mind wonderfully trembled, that it may plainely appeare how he did ſtriue mightily againſt death and deſperation.

¶ To the excellent Muſician a Iedithun.

A Pſalme of Dauid.

I Thought, b I will take heed to my wayes, that I ſin not with my tongue: I will keepe my mouth bridled, while the wicked is in my ſight.

2 I was dumb and ſpake nothing: I kept ſilence euen from good, c and my ſorow was more ſtirred.

3 Mine heart was hote within me, and while I was muſing, the fire kindled, and I d ſpake with my tongue ſaying,

4 Lord, let me know mine ende, and the meaſure of my dayes, what it is: let mee know how long I haue to liue.

5 Beholde, thou haſt made my dayes as an hand breadth, and mine age as nothing in reſpect of thee: ſurely every man in his beſt ſtate is altogether e vanity. Selah.

6 Doubtleſſe man walketh in a ſhadow, and diſquieteth himſelfe in vaine: he heapeth up riches, and cannot tell who ſhall gather them.

7 And now Lord, what wait I for? mine hope is euen in thee.

8 Deliuer me from all my tranſgreſſions, and make me not a rebuke vnto the f fonith.

9 I ſhould haue bene dumbe, and not haue opened my mouth, becauſe g thou didſt it.

10 Take thy plague away from me: for I am conſumed by the ſtroke of thine hand.

11 When thou with rebukes doſt chaſtiſe man for iniquity, thou as a moth h makeſt his i beauty to conſume: ſurely every man is vanity. Selah.

12 Heare my prayer, O Lord, and hearken vnto my cry: keepe not ſilence at my teares. for I am a ſtranger with thee, and a ſoiourner as all my fathers.

13 Stay thine anger from me, that I may recouer my ſtrength, k before I go hence and be not.

a This was one of the chiefe ſingers, 1. Chron. 16. 41.

b Albeit he had appointed with himſelfe patiently to haue tarried Gods leaſure, yet the vehemency of his paine cauſed him to breake his purpoſe.

c Though when the wicked ruled, he thought to haue kept ſilence, yet his zeale cauſed him to change his mind

d He confeſſeth that he grudged againſt God conſidering the greatneſſe of his ſorowes, and the ſhortneſſe of his life.

e Yet Dauid offended in that that he reaſoned with God as though that he were too ſeuere toward his weake creature.

f Make me not a mocking ſtocke to the wicked, or wrap mee not vp with the wicked, when they are put to ſhame.

g Seeing my troubles came of thy prouidence, I ought to haue endured them patiently.

h Though thine open plagues light not euermore vpon them, yet thy ſecret curſe continually fretteth them.

i The word ſignifieth all the delireth, as health force, ſtrength, beauty, and in whatſoeuer bee hath delight, ſo that the rod of God taketh away all that is deſired in this world.

k For his ſorow cauſed him reinke that God would deſtroy him vtterly: whereby we ſee how hard it is for the very Saints to keepe a meaſure in their words, when death and deſpaire aſſaile them.

PSAL. XL.

Dauid deliuered from great danger doth magnifie and praiſe the grace of God for his deliuerance, and commendeth his prouidence toward all mankind. 5 Then doeth he promiſe to giue himſelfe wholly to Gods ſeruice, and ſo declareth how God is truely worſhipped. 14 Afterwards he giueth thanke and praiſeth God, and bringing complaint of his enemies, with good courage beſeecheth him agayne and ſhortly.

¶ To him that excelleth. A Pſalme of Dauid.

I Waited a patiently for the Lord, and he enclined vnto me, and heard my cry.

2 He brought mee alſo out of the b horrible pit, out of the myrie clay, and ſet my feet vpon the rocke, and ordered my goings.

3 And he hath put in my mouth c a new ſong of praiſe vnto our God: many ſhall ſee it and feare, and ſhall truſt in the Lord.

4 Bleſſed is the man that maketh the Lord his truſt, and regardeth d not the proud, nor ſuch as turne aſide to lies.

5 e O Lord my God, thou haſt made thy wonderfull workes ſo many, that none can count in order to thee thy thoughts towards vs: I would declare and ſpeake of them, but they are more then I am able to expreſſe.

6 Sacrifice and offering thou diddeſt not deſire: (for f mine eares haſt thou prepared) burnt offring and ſinne offring haſt thou not required.

7 g Then ſaid I, Loe, I come: for in the rolle of the booke it is written of me,

8 I deſired to doe thy good will, O my God: yea, thy Law is within mine heart.

9 I haue declared thy righteouſnes in ſ h great congregation: loe, I will not refraine my lips: O Lord, thou knoweſt.

10 I haue not hid thy righteouſneſſe within mine heart, but I haue declared thy i trueth and thy ſalvation: I haue not concealed thy mercy, and thy trueth from the great Congregation.

11 Withdrawe not thou thy tender mercie from me, O Lord, let thy mercy and thy trueth alway perſerue me.

12 For innumerable troubles haue compaſſed me: my ſinnes haue taken ſuch holde vpon mee, that I am not able to looke vp: yea, they are more in number then the haires of mine head: therefore mine heart hath k failed me.

13 Let it pleaſe thee, O Lord, to deliuer mee: make haſte, O Lord, to helpe me.

14 Let them be l confounded and put to ſhame together that ſeeke my ſoule to deſtroy it: let them be driuen backward and put to rebuke that deſire mine hurt.

15 Let them be m deſtroyed for a reward of their ſhame, which ſay vnto me, Aha, aha.

16 Let all them that ſeeke thee, reioyce and be glad in thee, and let them that loue thy ſalvation, ſay alway, n The Lord be praiſed.

17 Though I be poore and needy, the Lord thinketh on me: thou art mine helper and my deliuerer: my God, make no tarying.

a Though God deferred his help, yet he patiently abode till he was heard.

b He hath deliuered me from moſt great dangers.

c That is, a ſpeciall occaſion to praiſe him, for Gods benefits are ſo many occaſions for vs to praiſe his Name.

d To follow their example, which he muſt needs do that truſteth not onely in the Lord.

e Dauid goeth from one kind of Gods fauour to the contemplation of his prouidence ouer all, and confeſſeth that his counſels towards vs are far aboue our capacitie: we cannot ſo much as tell them in order.

f Thou haſt opened mine eares to vnderſtand the ſpirituall meaning of the ſacrifices: and here Dauid eſteemeth ceremonies of the law nothing in reſpect of the ſpirituall ſervice.

g When thou haddeſt opened mine eares and heart, I was ready to obey thee, being aſſured that I was written in the booke of thine elect for this end.

h In the Church aſſembled in the Sanctuary.

i Dauid here numbreth 3. degrees of our ſalvation: Gods mercy, whereby he pitieth vs: his righteouſnes which ſignifieth his continuall protection: and his trueth, whereby appeareth his conſtant fauour, for that hereof proceedeth our ſalvation.

k As touching the iudgement of the fleſh, I was vtterly deſtitute of all counſell, yet faith inwardly mooued mine heart to pray.

l He deſireth that Gods mercy may contend for him againſt the rage of his enemies.

m Let the ſame ſhame and confuſion light vpon them, which they intended to haue brought vpon me. n As the faithfull alwayes praiſe God for his benefits: ſo the wicked mocked Gods children in their afflictions.

PSAL. XLI.

Dauid being grieuouſly afflicted, bleſſeth them that pity his caſe, 9 and complaineth of the treaſon of his owne friends and familiars, as came to paſſe in Iudas, Ioh. 13. 18. After hee feeling the great mercies of God newly chaſtiſing him, and not ſuffering his enemies to triumph againſt him, 13 giueth moſt hearty thanks to God.

¶ To him that excelleth. A Pſalme of Dauid.

BLeſſed is he that a iudgeth wiſely of the poore: the Lord ſhall deliuer him in the time of trouble.

2 The Lord will keepe him and preſerue him aliue, he ſhalbe bleſſed vpon the earth: and thou wilt not deliuer him vnto the will of his enemies.

3 The Lord will ſtrengthen him vpon the b bed of ſorow: thou haſt turned all his c bed in his ſickedneſſe.

4 Therefore I ſaid, Lord haue mercy vpon me: heale my ſoule, for I haue ſinned againſt thee.

5 Mine enemies d ſpeake euill of mee, ſaying, When ſhall he die, and his name periſh?

6 And if he come to ſee me, he ſpeaketh e lies, but his heart heapeth iniquitie within him, and vvhen he commeth forth, he telleth it.

7 All they that hate me wiſper together againſt me: euen againſt me do they imagine mine hurt.

8 f A miſchiefe is light vpon him, and he that lyeth, ſhall no more riſe.

9 Yea, my † familiar friend, whom I truſted, which did eat of my bread, g hath lifted vp the heele againſt me.

a Not condemning him as accuſed whom God doth viſit, knowing that there are diuers cauſes why God lyeth the hand vpon vs, yet and afterward he reſtoreth vs

b When for ſorow and griefe of minde he calleth himſelfe vpon his bed.

c Thou haſt reſtored him in his ſick bed and ſent him comfort.

d That is, curſe me and cannot haue their cruell hate quenched, but with my ſhamefull death.

e For pretending to comfort me, he conſpireth my death in his heart, and braggeth thereof.

f The enemies thought by his ſharpe puniſhments that God was become his mortall enemy. † Ebr. the man of my peace. g As David felt this falſhoode and as it was chiefly accompliſhed in Chriſt, Iohn. 13. 18. ſo ſhall his members continually proove the ſame.

h Meaning either in prosperity of life, or in the true feare of God against all tentations.
i Shewing me evident figues of thy fatherly providence.
k By this repetition he stirreth up the faithfull to prayse God.

10 Therefore, O Lord, have mercy upon mee, and raise me up: so shall I reward them.
11 By this I know that thou favourest me, because mine enemy doth not triumph against me.
12 And as for me thou upholdest me h in mine integrity, & doest set me before thy i face for ever.
13 Blessed be the Lord God of Israel world without end. k So be it, even so be it.

PSAL. XLII.

1 The Prophet grievously complaineth, that being letted by his persecutors, he could not be present in the congregation of Gods people professing that although he was so separated in body from them, yet his heart was thitherward affectioned. 7 And least of all he shewed that he was not so far overcome with these sorrowes and thoughts, 8 but that he continually put his confidence in the Lord.

¶ To him that excelleth. A Psalme to give instruction, committed to the sonnes of Korah.

a As a treasure to be kept of them, which were of the number of the Levites.
b By these similitudes of thirst, and panting, he sheweth his fervent desire to serve God in his Temple.
c As others take pleasure in eating and drinking, so he was altogether given to weeping.
d That is, how I led the people to serve thee in thy Tabernacle, and now seeing my contrary estate, I die for sorow.
e Though he sustained grievous assaults of the flesh to cast him into despaire, yet his faith grounded on Gods accustomed mercies getteth the victory.
f That is, when I remember thee in this land of my banishment among the mountaines.
g Afflictions came so thick upon me, that I felt my selfe as overwhelmed: whereby he sheweth there is no end of our misery till God be pacified and send remedy. h He assureth himselfe of Gods help in time to come. i That is, I am most grievously tormented. k This repetition doth declare that David did not overcome at once, to teach us to be constant, for as much as God will certainely deliver his.

AS the Hart brayeth for the rivers of water, so b panteth my soule after thee, O God.
2 My soule thirsteth for God, even for the living God: when shall I come and appeare before the presence of God?
3 c Mine teares have beene my meate day and night, while they dayly say unto me, Where is thy God?
4 When I remembred d these things, I powred out my very heart, because I had gone with the multitude, and ledde them into the house of God with the voyce of singing, and praise, as a multitude that keepeth a feast.
5 Why art thou cast downe, my soule, and unquiet within mee? e wait on God: for I will yet give him thanks for the helpe of his presence.
6 My God, my soule is cast downe within me, f because I remembred thee, from the land of Iorden, and Hermonim, and from the Mount Mizar.
7 One g deep calleth another deepe by the noise of thy water spouts: all thy waves and thy floods are gone over me.
8 The Lord h will graunt his loving kindnes in the day, and in the night shall I sing of him, even a prayer unto the God of my life.
9 I will say unto God, which is my rocke, Why hast thou forgotten mee? why goe I mourning, whem the enemie oppresseth me?
10 My i bones are cut asunder, while mine enemies reproach me, saying dayly unto me, Where is thy God?
11 k Why art thou cast downe, my soule? and why art thou disquieted within me? wait on God: for I will yet give him thanks: hee is my present helpe, and my God.

PSAL. XLIII.

1 Hee prayeth to be delivered from them that conspire against him, that he might joyfully prayse God in his holy congregation.

a He desireth God to undertake his cause against the enemies, but chiefly that he would restore him to the Tabernacle.
b That is, the cruell company of mine enemies.
c To wit, by favour, which appeareth by the performance of thy promises.
d He promiseth to offer a solemne sacrifice of thankesgiving in token of his great deliverance.

JUdge a me, O God, and defend my cause against the unmercifull b people: deliver me from the deceitfull and wicked man.
2 For thou art the God of my strength: why hast thou put me away? why goe I so mourning, when the enemy oppresseth me?
3 Send thy c light and thy trueth: let them lead mee: let them bring me unto thine holy Mountaine, and to thy Tabernacles.
4 Then d will I goe unto the altar of God, even unto the God of my joy and gladnes: and upon the harpe will I give thanks unto thee, O God my God.
5 Why art thou cast downe, my soule? and why art thou disquieted within me? e wayte on God: for I will yet give him thanks, he is my present helpe and my God.

e Whereby he admonisheth the faithfull not to relent, but constantly to wayte on the Lord though their troubles be long and great.

PSAL. XLIV.

1 The faithfull remember the great mercy of God toward his people. 9 After they complaine, because they feele it no more. 17 Also they alledge the covenant made with Abraham, for the keeping whereof they shew what grievous things they suffred. 23 Finally, they pray unto God not to consume their affliction, seeing the same redoundeth to the contempt of his honour.

¶ To him that excelleth. A Psalme to give instruction, committeth to the sonnes of Korah.

WE have heard with our a eares, O God: our fathers have told us the workes that thou hast done in their dayes, in the old time:
2 How thou hast driven out the b heathen with thine hand, and planted c them: how thou hast destroyed the d people, and caused e them to grow.
3 For they inherited not the land by their owne sword, neither did their owne arme save them: but thy right hand, and thine arme, and the light of thy countenance, because thou didst favour them.
4 Thou art my king, O God: send helpe unto f Iaakob.
5 h Through thee have wee thrust backe our adversaries: by thy Name have we troden downe them that rose up against us.
6 For I doe not trust in my bow: neither can my sword save me.
7 But thou hast saved us from our adversaries and hast put them to confusion that hate us.
8 Therefore will wee prayse God continually, and will confesse thy Name for ever. Selah.
9 But now thou art farre off, and puttest us to i confusion, and goest not forth with our armies.
10 Thou makest us to turn back from the adversary, and they which hate us, spoile us for themselves.
11 * Thou givest us k as sheepe to be eaten, and doest scatter us among the nations.
12 Thou sellest thy people l without gaine, and doest not increase their price.
13 Thou makest us a reproach to our neighbours, a iest and laughing stocke to them that are round about us.
14 Thou makest us a proverb among the nations, and a nodding of the head among the people.
15 My m confusion is dayly before me, and the shame of my face hath covered me.
16 For the voyce of the slanderer and rebuker, for the enemy and a avenger.
17 All this is come upon us, yet doe wee not o forget thee, neither deale wee falsly concerning thy covenant.
18 Our heart is not turned backe: neither our steps gone out of thy paths, 19 Albeit thou hast smitten us downe into the place of ‖ dragons, and covered us with the shadow of death.
20 If we have forgotten the Name of our God, and holden up our hands to p strange god, 21 Shall not God q search this out? for hee knoweth the secrets of the heart.

a This Psalme seemeth to have bene made by some excellent Prophet for the use of the people, when the Church was in extreme misery, either at their returne from Babylon, or under Antiochus, or in such like affliction.
b That is, the Canaanites.
c To wit, our fathers.
d Of Canaan.
e That is, our fathers.
f Gods free mercy and love is the onely fountaine and beginning of the Church. Deut. 4. 37.
g Because thou art our king, therefore deliver thy people from their misery.
h Because they and their forefathers made both one Church, they apply that to themselves which before they did attribute to their fathers.
i As they confessed before that their strength came of God, so now they acknowledge that this affliction came by his iust iudgement.
‖ Or, at their pleasure.
* Rom. 8. 36.
k Knowing God to be author of this calamity, they murmure not, but seeke remedy at his hands, who wounded them.
l As slaves which are solde for a low price, neither looke thou for him that offereth most, but taketh the first chapman.
m I dare not lift up my head for shame. n Meaning, the proud and cruell tyrant. o They boast not of their vertues, but declare that they rest upon God in the midst of their afflictions: who punished not now their sinnes, but by hard afflictions called them to the consideration of the heavenly ioyes. ‖ Or, wrapped us in mourning, for it signifieth sea monsters here we see the power of faith, which can be overcome by no perils. p They shew that they honoured God aright, because they trusted in him alone. q They take God to witnesse that they were upright to himward.

f The faithfull make this their comfort, that the wicked punish them not for their sinnes, but for Gods cause. Matt. 5.10 1 Pet. 4.14.

22 Surely for thy sake f are we slaine continually, and are counted as sheepe for the slaughter.

23 Up, why sleepest thou, O Lord? awake, be not farre off for ever.

24 Wherefore hidest thou thy face, and forgettest our misery and our affliction?

25 For our soule is f beaten downe unto the dust: our belly cleaveth to the ground.

26 Rise up for our succour, and redeeme us for thy t mercies sake.

t Which is the onely sufficient ransome to deliver both body and soule from all kinde of slavery and misery.

PSAL. XLV.

a The maiestie of Salomon, his honour, strength, beauty, riches, and power are praised, and also his marriage with the Egyptian being an heathen woman, is blessed. 10 If that she can renounce her people and the love of her country, and gave her selfe wholly to her husband. Under the which figure, the wonderfull maiestie and increase of the kingdome of Christ and his Church his spouse, now taken of the Gentiles, is described.

b Of that perfite love that ought to be betweene the husband and the wife.

MIne heart will utter forth a good matter: I will intreat in my works of the king: my tongue is as the pen of a swift writer.

2 Thou art c fairer then the children of men: grace is powred in thy lips, because God hath blessed thee for ever.

3 Gird thy sworde upon thy thigh, O most mightie, to vse, thy worship and thy glory.

4 And prosper with thy glory: d ride upon the word of trueth and of meekenes and of righteousnesse: so thy right hand shall teach thee terrible things.

5 Thine arrowes are sharpe to pearce the heart of the Kings enemies: therefore the people shall fall vnder thee.

6 Thy e throne, O God, is for ever and ever: the sceptre of thy kingdome, is a sceptre of righteousnesse.

7 Thou lovest righteousnesse, and hatest wickednesse, because God, even thy God, hath f anoynted thee with the oyle of gladnesse above thy fellowes.

8 All thy garments smell of myrre and aloes, and cassia, when thou commest out of the yuory palaces g where they have made thee glad.

9 Kings daughters were among thine honourable wives: upon thy right hand did stand the h Queene in a vesture of gold of Ophir.

10 i Hearken, O daughters, and consider, and encline thine eare: forget also thine owne people and thy fathers house.

11 So shall the King have pleasure in thy beautie: for he is thy Lord, and reverence thou him.

12 And the k daughter of ‖ Tyrus with the rich of the people, shall doe homage before thy face with presents.

13 The Kings daughter is all glorious l within: her cloathing is of broidred gold.

14 She shall be brought unto the King in raiment of needle worke: and virgins that follow after her, and her companions shall be brought unto thee.

15 With ioy and gladnes shall they be brought, and shall enter into the kings palace.

16 In stead of thy fathers shall thy m children be: thou shalt make them princes n through all the earth.

17 I will make thy o Name to be remembred through all generations: therefore shall the people give thankes unto thee world without end.

c Salomons beauty and eloquence to winne favour with his people, and his power to overcome his enemies, is here described.
d He alludeth to them that ride in chariots in their triumphs, shewing that the quiet state of a kingdom standeth in trueth, meekenesse and iustice, not in worldly pompe and vanitie.
e Vnder this figure of this kingdome of iustice is set forth the everlasting kingdome of Christ.
f Hath established the kingdome as the figure of Christ, which is the peace and ioy of the Church.
g In the which palace the people made thee ioyfull to see them give thankes and to ioyce for thee.
h Though he had many Kings daughters among his wives yet he loved Pharaohs daughter best.
i Vnder the figure of Pharaohs daughter, he sheweth that the Church must cast off all carnall affections to obey Christ only.
k He signifieth that divers of them that be rich shall be benefactors to ỹ Church, albeit they give not perfect obedience to the Gospel. ‖ Or, Zor. l There is nothing fained nor hypocritical, but thee is glorious both within and without: and howbeit the Church hath not at all times outward glory, the fault is to be imputed onely to their owne ingratitude, m They shall have greater greatnes then their fathers.
n Hee signifieth the great compasse of Christs kingdome, which shall be sufficient to enrich all his members.
o This onely must be referred to Christ and not to Salomon.

PSAL. XLVI.

a A song of triumph or thanksgiving for the deliverance of Ierusalem, after Sennacherib with his armie was driven away, or some other like sudden and marvelous deliverance by the mighty hand of God. 8 Whereby the Prophet commending this great benefit, doeth exhort the faithfull to give themselves wholly into the hand of God, doubting nothing but that under his protection they shall be safe against all the assaults of their enemies, because this is his delight to asswage the rage of the wicked, when they are most busie against the iust.

¶ To him that excelleth upon a Alamoth, a song committed to the sonnes of Korah.

a Which was either a musicall instrument or a solemne tune, unto the which this Psalme was sung.

GOD is our ‖ hope and strength, and helpe in b troubles, readie to be found.

2 Therefore will not wee c feare, though the earth be mooved, and though the mountaines fall into the middes of the sea.

3 Though the waters thereof d rage and be troubled, and the mountaines shake at the surges of th same. Selah.

4 Yet there is a e River, whose streame shall make glad the Citie of God: even the Sanctuarie of the Tabernacles of the most High.

5 God is in the middes of it: therefore shall it not be mooved: God shall helpe it f very early.

6 When the nations raged, and the kingdoms were mooved, God ‖ thundered, and the earth melted.

7 The Lord of hoastes is g with vs: the God of Iaakob is our refuge. Selah.

8 Come and behold the workes of the Lord, h what desolations he hath made in the earth.

9 He maketh warres to cease unto the ends of the world, he breaketh the bow, and cutteth the speare, and burneth the chariots with fire.

10 Be i still and know that I am God, I will be exalted among the heathen, and I will be exalted in the earth.

11 The Lord of hoastes is with us; the God of Iaakob is our refuge. Selah.

b In all manner of troubles God sheweth his speedie mercy and power in defending his.
c That is, we will not be overcome with feare.
d Though the afflictions rage never so much, yet the rivers of Gods mercies bring sufficient comfort to his.
e The river of Shiloah, which passed through Ierusalem: meaning, though the defence seeme never so small, yet if God have appointed it, it is sufficient.
f Alwayes when neede requireth.
g They are assured that God can and will defend his Church from all dangers and enemies. h To wit, how oft he hath destroyed his enemies, and delivered his people. i Hee warneth them that persecute the Church, to cease their cruelties: for else they shall feele that God is too strong for them against whom they fight.

PSAL. XLVII.

a The Prophet exhorteth all people to the worship of the true and everliving God, commending the mercie of God toward the posterite of Iaakob. 9 And after prophesieth of the kingdome of Christ in the time of the Gospell.

¶ To him that excelleth. A Psalme committed to the sonnes of Korah.

ALl people a clap your hands; sing lowd unto God with a ioyfull voyce.

2 For the Lord is high, and terrible; a great King over all the earth.

3 He hath b subdueth the people vnder vs, and the nations vnder our feete.

4 He hath chosen c our inheritance for vs, even the glory of Iaakob whom he loved. Selah.

a Here is figured Christ, unto whom all his should give willing obedience, and who would shew himselfe terrible to the wicked.
b He hath made the Iewes, who were the keepers of the Lawe and Prophets, schoolmasters to the Gentiles, that they should with gladnesse obey them
c God hath chosen us above all other nations, to enioy a most glorious inheritance.

5 God is gone up with triumph, even the Lord with the d sound of the trumpet.

6 Sing praises to God, sing praises: sing praises unto our King, sing prayses.

7 For God is the king of all the earth: sing prayses every one that hath e vnderstanding.

8 God reigneth over the heathen: God sitteth upon his holy Throne.

9 The princes of the people are gathered vnto the people of the God of Abraham: for the shields of the world belong to God: he f is greatly to be exalted.

d He doeth allude unto the trumpets, that were blowen at solemne feasts: but he doeth further signifie the triumph of Christ and his glorious ascension into the heavens.

e He requireth that vnderstanding be ioyned with singing, least the Name of God be prophaned with vaine crying.

f He prayseth Gods highnes, for that he ioyneth the great princes of the world (whom he calleth shields) to the fellowship of his Church.

PSAL. XLVIII.

1 A notable deliverance of Ierusalem from the hands of many Kings is mentioned, for the which thankes are given to God, and the state of that citie is praised, that hath God so presently at all times ready to defend them. This Psalme seemeth to be made in the time of Ahaz, Iehoshaphat, Asa, or Ezechiah: for in their times chiefly was the citie by forrein princes assaulted.

¶ a A song or Psalme committed to the sonnes of Korah.

GReat is the Lord, and greatly to be praysed in the b Citie of our God, even upon his holy Mountaine.

2 Mount Zion, lying Northward, is faire in situation: it is the c ioy of the whole earth, and the Citie of the great king.

3 In the palaces thereof God is knowne for a d refuge.

4 For lo, the kings were e gathered, and went together.

5 When they saw f it, they marveiled: they were astonied, and suddenly driven backe.

6 Feare came there upon them, and sorow, as upon a woman in travaile.

7 As with an East winde thou breakest the ships g of Tarshish, so were they destroyed.

8 As we have h heard, so have we seene in the Citie of the Lord of hoastes, in the citie of our God, God will establish it for ever. Selah.

9 We waite for thy loving kindnesse, O God, in the middes of thy Temple.

10 O God, according to thy Name, so is thy prayse unto the i worlds ende: thy right hand is full of righteousnesse.

11 Let k mount Zion reioyce, and the daughters of Iudah be glad, because of thy iudgements.

12 l Compasse about Zion, and goe round about it, and tell the towers thereof.

13 Marke well the wall thereof: behold her towers, that ye may tell your posteritie.

14 For this God is our God for ever and ever, he shallbe our guide unto the death.

a Some put this difference betweene a song and Psalme, saying that it is called a song, when there is no instrument, but the voyce: and the Psalme, the contrary. The song of the Psalm is when the instruments begin, and the voyce followeth. The Psalme of the song the contrary.

b Albeit God shew his wonders through all the world, yet he will be chiefly praysed in his Church.

c Because the word of salvation came thence to all them that should beleeve.

d Except God were the defence thereof, neither situation nor munition could prevaile.

e They conspired and went against Gods people.

f The enemies were afraid at the sight of the Citie.

g That is, of Cilicia, or of the sea called Mediterraneum.

h To wit, of our fathers: so have we prooved: or God hath performed his promise.

i In all places where thy Name shall be heard of, men shall prayse thee, when they heare of thy marveilous works.

k Let Ierusalem and the cities of Iudea reioyce, for thy iust iudgements against thine enemies.

l For in this outward defence and strength Gods blessings did also appeare: but the chiefe is to be referred to Gods favour and secret defence, who never leaveth his.

PSAL. XLIX.

1 The holy Ghost calleth all men to the consideration of mans life. 7 Shewing them not to be most blessed that are most wealthy, and therefore not to be feared: but contrariwise he biddeth up our mindes to consider how all things are ruled by Gods providence: 14 Who at his iudgement these worldly misers to everlasting torments. 14 So doeth he preserve his, and will reward them in the day of the resurrection.
2. Thessal. 1,6.

¶ To him that excelleth. A Psalme committed to the sonnes of Korah.

HEare a this all ye people: give eare, all ye that dwell in the world.

2 As well low as high, both rich and poore.

3 My mouth shall speake of wisdome, and the meditation of mine heart is of knowledge.

4 I will encline mine eare to a parable, and vtter my grave matter upon the harpe.

5 Wherefore should I b feare in the evill dayes, when iniquitie shall compasse me about, as at mine heeles?

6 They trust in their c goods, and boast themselves in the multitude of their riches.

7 Yet a man can by no means redeeme his brother: he cannot give his ransome to God.

8 (So d precious is the redemption of their soules, e and the continuance for ever.)

9 That hee may live still for ever, and not see the graue.

10 For hee seeth that wise men f die: and also that the ignorant and foolish perish, and leave their riches for g others.

11 Yet they thinke their houses and their habitations shall continue for ever, even from generation to generation, and ‖ call their lands by their names.

12 But man shall not continue in honour; he is like the h beasts that die.

13 This their way i*stereth* their foolishnesse; yet their posteritie i delight in their talke. Selah.

14 k Like sheepe they lie in grave: l death devoureth them, and the righteous shall have domination over them in the m morning: for their beauty shall consume, when they shall go from their house to grave.

15 But God shall deliver my soule from the power of the grave, ‖ for he will receive mee. Selah.

16 Be not thou afraid when one is made rich, and when the glory of his house is increased.

17 * For he shall take nothing away, when he dieth, neither shall his pompe descend after him.

18 For while he lived, † he reioyced himselfe; and n men will prayse thee, when thou makest much of thy selfe.

19 ‖ o He shall enter into the generation of his fathers; p and they shall not live for ever.

20 Man is in honour, and q vnderstandeth not; he is like to beasts that perish.

a He will intreate how God governeth the world by his providence, which cannot be perceived by the iudgement of the flesh.

b Though wickednes reigne, and enemies rage, seeing God will execute his iudgements against the wicked in time convenient.

c To trust in riches is meere madnesse, seeing they can neither restore life, nor prolong it.

d That is, so rare or not to be found, as prophecy was precious in the dayes of Eli, 1. Sam. 3,1.

e Meaning, it is impossible to live for ever: also that life and death are onely in Gods hands.

f In that that death maketh no difference betweene the persons.

g That is, not to their children, but to strangers. Yet the wicked profit not by these examples, but still dreame an immortalitie in earth.

‖ Or, labour that their name may be famous in earth.

h As touching the death of the body.

i They speake and doe the same thing that their fathers did.

k As sheepe are gathered into the folde, so shall they bebrought to the grave.

l Because they have no part of life everlasting.

m Christes comming is as the morning, when the elect shall raigne with Christ their head ouer the wicked.

‖ Or, because hee hath received me. * Iob 27,19. 1.Tim.6,7. † Hebr. hee blessed his soule.

n The flatterers prayse them that live in delight and pleasures.

‖ Or, his soule.

o And not passe the terme appointed for life.

p Both they and their fathers shall live here but a while, and at length die for ever.

q He condemneth mans ingratitude, who having received excellent gifts of God, abuseth them like a beast to his owne condemnation.

PSAL. L.

When Dauid was rebuked by the Prophet Nathan for his great offences, he did not onely acknowledge the ſame to God, with proteſtation of his naturall corruption and iniquitie, but alſo left a memoriall thereof to his poſteritie. 7 Therefore firſt he deſireth God to forgiue his ſins, 10 And to renew in him his holy Spirit. 13 With promiſe that he will not be vnmindfull of thoſe great graces. 18 Finally, fearing leaſt God would puniſh the whole Church for his fault, he requireth that he would rather increaſe his graces toward the ſame.

¶ To him that excelleth. A Pſalme of Dauid, when the Prophet Nathan came vnto him, after he had gone in to Bath-ſheba.

HAve mercy vpon me, O God, b according to thy louing kindnes: according to the multitude of thy compaſſions put away mine iniquities.

2 Waſh me c throughly from mine iniquitie, and cleanſe me from mine ſinne.

3 For I d know mine iniquities, and my ſinne is euer before me.

4 Againſt thee, againſt thee onely haue I ſinned, and done euill in thy ſight, that thou mayeſt be iuſt when thou e ſpeakeſt, and pure when thou iudgeſt.

5 Behold, I was borne in iniquity, and in ſinne hath my mother conceiued me.

6 Behold, thou f loueſt trueth in the inward affections: therefore haſt thou taught me wiſdome in the ſecret of mine heart.

7 Purge mee with * hyſſope, and I ſhall be cleane: waſh me, and I ſhalbe whiter then ſnow.

8 Make me to heare g ioy and gladneſſe, that the h bones, which thou haſt broken, may reioyce.

9 Hide thy face from my ſinnes, and put away all mine iniquities.

10 i Create in mee a cleane heart, O God, and renew a right ſpirit within me.

11 Caſt me not away from thy preſence, and take not thine holy Spirit from me.

12 Reſtore to me the ioy of thy ſaluation, and ſtabliſh me with thy k free Spirit.

13 Then ſhall I teach thy l wayes vnto the wicked, and ſinners ſhallbe conuerted vnto thee.

18 Be fauourable vnto p Zion for thy good pleaſure: build the walles of Ieruſalem.

19 Then ſhalt thou accept the ſacrifices of q righteouſneſſe, euen the burnt offering and oblation: then ſhall they offer calues vpon thine altar.

PSAL. LXV.

1 A prayſe and thankeſgiuing vnto God by the faithfull, who are ſignified by Zion, 4 For the chuſing, preſeruation, and gouernance of them, 9 And for the plentifull bleſſings powred forth vpon all the earth, but eſpecially toward his Church.

¶ To him that excelleth. A Pſalme or ſong of Dauid.

O God, a prayſe waiteth for thee in Zion; and vnto thee ſhall the vow be performed.

2 Becauſe thou heareſt the prayer, vnto thee ſhall all b fleſh come.

3 Wicked deedes c haue preuailed againſt me: but thou wilt be mercifull vnto our tranſgreſſions.

4 Bleſſed is hee, whom thou chuſeſt and cauſeſt to come to thee: he ſhall dwell in thy courts, and wee ſhall be ſatisfied with the pleaſures of thine Houſe, euen of thine holy Temple.

5 O God of our ſaluation, thou wilt d anſwere vs with feareſull ſignes in thy righteouſneſſe, O thou the hope of all the ends of the earth, and of them that are farre off in the e Sea.

6 Hee ſtabliſheth the mountaines by his power: and is girded about with ſtrength.

7 Hee appeaſeth the f noyſe of the ſeas, and the noyſe of the waues thereof, and the tumults of the people.

8 They alſo that dwell in the vttermoſt parts of the earth, ſhalbe afraid of thy ſignes; thou ſhalt make † the Eaſt and the Weſt to reioyce.

9 Thou g viſiteſt the earth, and watereſt it; thou makeſt it very rich: the h riuer of God is full of water, thou prepareſt them corne; for ſo thou appointeſt i it.

10 Thou k watereſt abundantly the furrowes thereof; thou cauſeſt the raine to deſcend into the valleys thereof; thou makeſt it ſoft with ſhowres, and bleſſeſt the bud thereof.

11 Thou crowneſt the yeere with thy goodneſſe, and thy ſteps drop fatneſſe.

12 They drop vpon the paſtures of the wildernes: and the hils ſhalbe compaſſed with gladnes, 13 The paſtures are clad with ſheepe; the valleys alſo ſhalbe couered with corne; therefore they ſhout for ioy, l and ſing.

a Thou giueſt dayly new occaſion to thy Church to prayſe thee.

b Not onely the Iewes but alſo the Gentiles in the kingdome of Chriſt.

c He imputeth it to his ſinnes and to the ſinnes of the people, that God who was accuſtomed to aſſiſt them withdraweth his ſuccour from them.

d Thou wilt declare thy ſelfe to be the preſeruer of thy Church in deſtroying thine enemies, as thou diddeſt in the red Sea.

e As of all barbarous nations and farre off.

f He ſheweth that there is no part nor creature in the world which is not gouerned by Gods power and prouidence.

† Ebr. the going forth of the morning and of the euening.

g To wit, with raine.

h That is, Shiloah or the raine.

i Thou haſt appointed the earth to bring forth foode to man.

k By this deſcription he ſheweth that all the order of nature is a teſtimony of Gods loue toward vs, who cauſeth all creatures to ſerue our neceſſitie.

l That is, the dumbe creatures ſhall not onely reioyce for a time for Gods benefits, but ſhall continually ſing.

PSAL. LXVI.

1 Hee prouoketh all men to prayſe the Lord and to conſider his works. 6 Hee fetcheth forth the power of God to affray the rebels. 10 And ſheweth how God hath deliuered Iſrael from great bondage and afflictions. 13 Hee promiſeth to giue ſacrifice, 16 And prouoketh all men to heare what God hath done for him, and to prayſe his Name.

¶ To him that excelleth. A ſong or Pſalme.

R Eioyce in God, a all ye inhabitants of ſ earth.

2 Sing foorth the glory of his Name: make his prayſe glorious.

3 Say vnto God, How terrible art thou in thy workes! through the greatneſſe of thy power in a He prophecieth that all nations ſhall come to the knowledge of God, who then was onely knowen in Iudea.

ſhall

b As the faithfull ſhall obey God willingly, ſo the infidels for feare ſhall diſſemble themſelues to be ſubiect.
c Hee toucheth the ſlouthfull dulneſſe of many who is cold in the conſideration of Gods workes.
d His prouidence is wonderfull in maintaining their eſtate.
e Hee prooueth that God will extend his grace alſo to the Gentiles, becauſe he puniſheth among them ſuch as will not obey his calling.
f Hee ſignifieth ſome ſpeciall benefite, that God had ſhewed to his Church of the Iewes, in deliuering them from ſome great danger: whereof or of the like he promiſeth that the Gentiles ſhalbe partakers.
g The condition of the Church is here deſcribed, which is to be led by Gods prouidence into troubles to be ſubiect vnder tyrants, and to enter into manifold dangers.
h The duetie of the faithfull is here deſcribed, which are neuer vnmindfull to render Gods benefits and to be mindfull thereof, but alſo we are bound to make others to profit thereby and prayſe God.

ſhall thine enemies be [b] in ſubiection vnto thee.

4 All the world ſhall worſhip thee, and ſing vnto thee, euen ſing of thy Name. Selah.

5 ¶ Come and behold the workes of God: he is terrible in his doings toward [d] the ſonnes of men.

6 He hath turned the ſea into dry land: they paſſed through the riuer on foote: there did wee reioyce in him.

7 Hee ruleth the world with his power: his eyes behold the nations: the rebellious ſhall not [e] exalt themſelues. Selah.

8 Prayſe our God, yee people, and make the voyce of his prayſe to be heard.

9 Which [f] holdeth our ſoules in life, and ſuffereth not our feete to ſlip.

10 For thou, O God, haſt prooued vs, thou haſt tried vs as ſiluer is tried.

11 Thou haſt brought vs vnto the [g] ſnare, and laid a ſtrait chaine vpon our loynes.

12 Thou haſt cauſed men to ride ouer our heads: we went into fire and into water, but thou broughteſt vs out into a wealthy place.

13 I will goe into thine [h] Houſe with burnt offerings, and will pay thee my vowes.

14 Which my lippes haue promiſed, and my mouth hath ſpoken in mine affliction.

15 I will offer vnto thee the burnt offerings of fat rams with incenſe: I will prepare bullocks and goates. Selah.

16 [i] Come and hearken, all ye that feare God, and I will tell you what he hath done to my ſoule.

17 I called vnto him with my mouth, and he was exalted with my tongue.

18 [k] If I regard wickedneſſe in mine heart, the Lord will not heare me.

19 But God hath heard me, and conſidered the voyce of my prayer.

20 Prayſed be God, which hath not put backe my prayer, nor his mercy from me.

i God prayſe for his benefits. i It is not enough to haue receiued k If I delight in wickednesſe, God will not heare me, but if I confeſſe it, he will receiue me.

PSAL. LXVII.

1 A prayer of the Church to obtaine the fauour of God and to be lightened with his countenance. 2 To the ende that his way and iudgement may be knowen throughout the earth. 7 And finally is declared the kingdome of God, which ſhould be vniuerſally erected at the comming of Chriſt.

¶ To him that excelleth on Neginoth. A Pſalme or ſong.

a That is, moue our hearts with his holy Spirit, that we may feele his fauour toward vs.
b That both Iewes and Gentiles may know Gods couenant made with them.
c By theſe oft repetitions hee ſheweth that the people can neuer reioyce ſufficiently, and giue thanks for the great benefits that they ſhall receiue under the kingdome of Chriſt.
d He ſheweth that where God fauoureth, there ſhall be abundance of all other things, both ſpirituall and corporall toward them.
e When they feele his great benefits

GOd be mercifull vnto vs, and bleſſe vs, and [a] cauſe his face to ſhine among vs. (Selah.)

2 That [b] they may know thy way vpon earth, and thy ſauing health among all nations.

3 Let the people prayſe thee, O God: let all the people prayſe thee.

4 [c] Let the people be glad and reioyce: for thou ſhalt iudge the people righteouſly, and gouerne the nations vpon the earth. Selah.

5 Let the people prayſe thee, O God: let all the people prayſe thee.

6 Then ſhall [d] the earth bring foorth her encreaſe, and God, euen our God ſhall bleſſe vs.

7 God ſhall bleſſe vs, and all the ends of the earth [e] ſhall feare him.

PSAL. LXVIII.

1 In this Pſalme Dauid ſetteth foorth as in a glaſſe the wonderfull mercies of God toward his people: 5 Who by all meanes and moſt ſtrange ſorties declared himſelfe to them. 15 And therefore Gods Church by reaſon of his promiſes, graces, and victories doeth excell without compariſon all worldly things. 34 He exhorteth therefore all men to prayſe God for euer.

¶ To him that excelleth. A Pſalme or ſong of Dauid.

GOd a will ariſe, and his enemies ſhall be ſcattered: they alſo that hate him, ſhall flee before him.

2 As the ſmoke vaniſheth, ſo ſhalt thou driue them away: and as waxe melteth before the fire, ſo ſhall the wicked periſh at the preſence of God.

3 [b] But the righteous ſhall be glad, and reioyce before God: yea, they ſhall leape for ioy.

4 Sing vnto God, and ſing prayſes vnto his name: exalt him that rideth vpon the heauens, in his Name [c] Iah, and rejoyce before him.

5 He is a Father of the fatherleſſe, and a Iudge of the widowes, euen God in his holy habitation.

6 God [d] maketh the ſolitary to dwell in families, and deliuereth them that were priſoners in ſtockes: but the rebellious ſhall dwell in a [e] drie land.

7 [f] O God, when thou wenteſt foorth before thy people: when thou wenteſt through the wilderneſſe, (Selah.)

8 The earth ſhooke, and the heauens dropped at the preſence of this God: euen Sinai was moued at the preſence of God, euen the God of Iſrael.

9 Thou, O God, ſenteſt a gracious raine vpon thine inheritance, and thou didſt refreſh it when it was wearie.

10 Thy Congregation dwelled therein: for thou, O God, haſt of thy [g] goodneſſe prepared it for the poore.

11 The Lord gaue matter to the [h] women to tell of the great armie.

12 Kings of the armies did flee: they did flee, and [i] ſhe that remained in the houſe, diuided the ſpoile.

13 Though ye haue lien among [k] pots, yet ſhall ye be as the wings of a doue that is couered with ſiluer, and whoſe feathers are like yellow gold.

14 When the Almighty ſcattered kings [l] in it, it was white as the ſnow in Zalmon.

15 [m] The mountaine of God is like the mountaine of Baſhan: it is an high mountaine, as mount Baſhan.

16 [n] Why leape yee, yee high mountaines? as for this Mountaine, God delighteth to dwell in it: yea, the Lord will dwell in it for euer.

17 The charets of God are twentie thouſand thouſand Angels, and the Lord is among them, as in the Sanctuary of Sinai.

18 Thou art gone vp on high: thou haſt led captiuitie captiue, and receiued gifts for men: yea, euen the rebellious haſt thou led, that the Lord God might dwell there.

19 Prayſed be the Lord, euen the God of our ſaluation, which ladeth vs dayly with benefites. Selah.

a The Prophet ſheweth that albeit God ſuffereth the wicked tyrants to oppreſſe his Church for a time, yet at length hee will be reuenged of them.
b Hee ſheweth that when God declareth his power againſt the wicked, that it is for the commoditie and ſaluation of his Church, which prayſe him therefore.
c Iah and Iehouah are the names of God, which doe ſignifie his eſſence and maieſtie incomprehenſible, ſo that hereby is declared that all idoles are but vanitie, and that the God of Iſrael is the only true God.
d He giueth children to them that be childeleſſe, and encreaſeth their families.
e Which is barren of Gods bleſſings, which before they had abuſed.
f Hee teacheth that Gods fauour peculiarly belongeth to his Church, as appeareth by their wonderfull deliuerance out of Egypt.
g God bleſſed the land of Canaan, becauſe hee had choſen that place for his Church.
h The faſhion then was that women ſang ſongs after the victory, as Miriam, Deborah, Iudith, and others.
i The pray was ſo great, that not only the ſouldiers, but women alſo had part thereof.
k Though God ſuffer his Church for a time to lie in blacke darkeneſſe, yet he wil reſtore it, and make it moſt ſhining and white.
l In the land of Canaan, where his Church was.
m Zion the Church of God, doeth excell all worldly things, not in pompe and outward ſhew, but by the inward grace of God, which there remayneth, becauſe of his dwelling there.
n Why boaſt yee of your ſtrength and beautie againſt this Mountaine of God?
o As God ouercame the enemies of his Church, tooke them priſoners, and made them tributaries: ſo Chriſt, which is God manifeſted in the fleſh, ſubdued Satan and ſinne vnder vs, and gaue vnto his Church moſt liberall gifts of his Spirit, Ephes. 4.8.

10 This is our God, euen the God that ſaueth vs: and to the Lord God belong the p iſſues of death.

21 Surely God will wound the head of his enemies, and the hairy pate of him that walketh in his ſinnes.

22 The Lord hath ſaid, I will bring my people againe from q Bathan: I will bring them againe from the depths of the Sea:

23 That thy foote may be dipped in blood, and the tongue of thy dogges in the blood of the enemies, euen in r it.

24 They haue ſeene, O God, thy ſ goings, the goings of my God, and my king, vvhich art in the Sanctuary.

25 The t ſingers went before, the players of inſtruments after: in the middes vvere the maides playing with timbrels.

27 There vvas x little Beniamin vvith their y ruler, and the Princes of Iudah vvith their aſſembly, the princes of Zebulum, and the princes of Naphtaly.

28 Thy GOD hath appointed thy ſtrength: ſtabliſh, O God, that vvhich thou firſt wrought in vs, 29 z Out of thy Temple vpon Ieruſalem, and kings ſhall bring preſents vnto thee.

30 Deſtroy the company of the ſpearemen, and multitude of the mighty bulles with the calues of the people, that a tread vnder feete pieces of ſiluer: ſcatter the people that delite in warre.

31 Then ſhall the princes come out b of Egypt: Ethiopia ſhall haſte to ſtretch her hands vnto God.

32 Sing vnto God, O yee kingdomes of the earth: ſing prayſe vnto the Lord, (Selah)

33 To him that rideth vpon the moſt hie heauens, vvhich vvere from the beginning: behold, he will ſend out by his c voyce a mighty ſound.

34 Aſcribe the power to God: for his maieſty is vpon Iſrael, and his ſtrength is in the cloudes.

35 O God, thou art d terrible out of thine holy e places: the God of Iſrael is hee that giueth ſtrength and power vnto the people: prayſed be God.

p In moſt extreme dangers God hath infinite wayes to deliuer his.

q As he deliuered his Church once from Og of Baſhan, and other tyrants, and from the danger of the red Sea, ſo will he ſtill doe as oft as neceſsity requireth.

r That is, in the blood of that great ſlaughter, where dogs ſhall lappe blood.

ſ That is, how thou which art chiefe King goeſt out with thy people to warre, and giueſt them the victory.

t He deſcribeth the order of the people, when they went to the Temple to giue thanks for the victorie.

a He deſireth that the pride of the mighty may be deſtroyed, which accuſtomed to garniſh their ſhooes with ſiluer, and therefore for their glittering pompe thought themſelues aboue all men. b Hee prophecieth that the Gentiles ſhall come to the true knowledge & worſhip of God. c By his terrible thunders hee will make himſelfe to be knowen the God of all the world. d In ſhewing fearefull iudgements againſt thine enemies for the ſalvation of thy people. e Hee alludeth to the Tabernacle which was divided in three parts.

A Pſalme of Dauid.

a Of Shoſhannim, reade Pſalm 45.

SAue mee, O God: for the b waters are entred euen to my ſoule.

b Dauid ſignifieth by the waters, in what great dangers he was, out of the which God did deliuer him.

2 I ſticke faſt in the deepe myre, where no c ſtay is: I am come into deepe waters, and the ſtreames runne ouer me.

c No firmitie or ſtableneſſe to ſettle my feete.

3 I am weary of crying: my throate is dry: mine d eyes faile, whiles I waite for my God.

4 They that hate me without a cauſe, are moe then the haires of mine head: they that would deſtroy mee, and are mine enemies e falſly, are mighty, ſo that I reſtored that which I f tooke not.

5 O God, thou knoweſt my g fooliſhnes, and my faults are not hid from thee.

6 Let not them that truſt in thee, O Lord God of hoaſtes, be aſhamed for h me: let not thoſe that ſeeke thee, be confounded through me, O God of Iſrael.

7 For thy ſake haue I ſuffred reproofe: ſhame hath couered my face.

8 I am become a ſtranger vnto my brethren, euen an aliant vnto my mothers ſonnes.

9 i For the zeale of thine houſe hath eaten me, and the rebukes of them that rebuked thee, are fallen vpon me.

10 I k wept and my ſoule faſted, but that was to my reproofe.

11 I put on a ſacke alſo: and I became a prouerbe vnto them.

12 They that l ſate in the gate, ſpake of mee, and the drunkards ſang of me.

13 But Lord, I make my prayer vnto thee in an m acceptable time, euen in the multitude of thy mercy: O God, heare me in the trueth of thy ſaluation.

14 Deliuer mee out of the myre, that I ſinke not: ſ let me be deliuered from them that hate me, and out of the n deepe waters.

15 Let not the water flood drown me, neither let the deepe ſwallow me vp: and let not the pit ſhut her mouth vpon mee.

16 Heare me, O Lord, for thy louing kindneſſe is good: turne vnto mee according to the multitude of thy tender mercies.

17 And o hide not thy face from thy ſeruant, for I am in trouble; make haſte and heare mee.

18 Draw neere vnto my ſoule and redeeme it: deliuer me becauſe of mine enemies.

19 Thou haſt knowen my reproofe and my ſhame, and my diſhonour: all mine p aduerſaries are before thee.

20 Rebuke hath broken mine heart, and I am full of heauineſſe, and q I looked for ſome to haue pity on me, but there was none: and for comforters, but I found none.

21 For they gaue me gall in my meate, and in my thirſt they gaue me vineger to drinke.

22 Let their r table be a ſnare before them, and their proſperity their ruine.

23 Let their eyes be blinded that they ſee not: and make their ſ loynes alway to tremble.

24 Powre out thine anger vpon them, and let thy wrathfull diſpleaſure take them.

25 * Let their t habitation be voyde, and let none dwell in their tents.

26 For they perſecute him, whom thou haſt ſmitten: and they adde vnto the ſorow of them, whom thou haſt wounded.

27 Lay u iniquity vpon their iniquity, and d Though his ſenſes failed him, yet his faith was conſtant and incouraged him ſtill to pray.

e Condemning me guiltles.

f They iudged me poore innocent as a thiefe, and gaue my goods to others as though I had ſtollen them.

g Though I be guiltie to thee-ward, yet am I innocent toward them.

h Let not mine evill intreatie of the enemies be an occaſion, that the faithfull fall from thee.

i When I ſawe thine enemies pretend thy Name onely in mouth, and in their life denie the ſame, thine holy Spirit, thruſt my forward, to reproove them and defend thy glorie.

k My zeale mooued me to lament and pray for my ſalvation.

l The more hee fought to winne them to God, the more they were againſt him both poore and rich.

m Knowing that albeit I ſuffer now trouble, yet thou haſt a time wherein thou haſt appointed my deliverance.

n Hee ſheweth a lively faith, in that that hee aſſureth himſelfe, that God is favourable to him, when he ſeemeth to be angrie: and at hand when hee ſeemeth to be farre off.

o Not that hee feared that God would not heare him, but that care made him to thinke that God deferred long.

p Thou ſeeſt that I am beſet as a ſheepe among many wolves.

q Hee ſheweth that it is in vaine to put our truſt in men in our great neceſsities, but that our comfort onely dependeth of God: for man rather increaſeth our ſorrowes, then diminiſheth them. Iohn 19.29. r Hee deſireth God to execute his iudgements againſt the reprobate, which cannot by any meanes be turned, Rom 11.9. ſ Take both iudgement and power from them, Acts 1.20. t Puniſh not onely them, but their poſteritie, which ſhall be like unto them. u By their continuance and increaſing in their ſinnes, let it be knowen that they be of the reprobate, let them not come into thy righteouſneſſe.

28 Let them be put out of the x booke of life, neither let them be written with the righteous.

29 When I am poore and in heauineſſe, thine helpe, O God, ſhall exalt me.

30 I will prayſe the Name of God with a ſong, and magnifie him with thankeſgiuing.

31 This alſo ſhall pleaſe the Lord better then a y yong bullocke that hath hornes and hoofes.

32 The humble ſhall ſee this, and they that ſeeke God ſhalbe glad, and your heart ſhall liue.

33 For the Lord heareth the poore, and deſpiſeth not his z priſoners.

34 Let heauen and earth prayſe him: the ſeas and all that moueth in them.

35 For God will ſaue Zion, and build the cities of Iudah, that men may dwell there and haue it in poſſeſsion.

36 The a ſeed alſo of his ſeruants ſhall inherit it: and they that loue his name ſhall dwell therein x They which ſeemed by their profeſſion to haue beene written in thy booke, yet by their fruits proove the contrary, let them be knowen as reprobate.

y There is no ſacrifice, which God more eſteemeth, then thankeſgiving for his benefits.

z For as hee deliuered his ſeruant Dauid, ſo will hee doe all that are in diſtreſſe, and call upon him.

a Vnder the temporall promiſe of the land of Canaan, he comprehendeth the promiſe of life everlaſting to the faithfull and their poſteritie.

6 Thou haſt made vs a e ſtrife vnto our neighbours, and our enemies laugh at vs among themſelves.

7 f Turne vs againe, O God of hoſts: cauſe thy face to ſhine, and we ſhalbe ſaued.

8 Thou haſt brought a g vine out of Egypt: thou haſt caſt out the heathen, and planted it.

9 Thou madeſt roome for it, and diddeſt cauſe it to take root, and it filled the land.

10 The mountaines were covered with the ſhadow of it, and the boughes thereof were like the h goodly cedars.

11 She ſtretched out her branches vnto the Sea, and her boughes vnto the i river.

12 Why haſt thou then broken downe her hedges, ſo that all they, which paſſe by the way, have plucked her?

13 The wild k bore out of the wood hath deſtroyed it, and the wilde beaſtes of the field have eaten it vp.

14 Returne, we beſeech thee, O God of hoſts: looke downe l from heaven and behold, and viſit this vine.

15 And the vineyard, that thy right hand hath planted, and the young vine, which thou madeſt ſtrong for thy ſelfe.

16 It is burnt with fire, and cut downe: and they periſh at the m rebuke of thy countenance.

17 Let thine hand be vpon the n man of thy right hand, and vpon the ſonne of man, whom thou madeſt ſtrong for thine owne ſelfe.

18 So will not we goe backe from thee, o reuive thou vs, and we ſhall call vpon thy Name.

19 Turne vs againe, O Lord God of hoſts: cauſe thy face to ſhine, and we ſhalbe ſaued.

PSAL. LXXXI.

1 An exhortation to praiſe God both in heart and voyce for his benefits, 3 and to worſhip him onely. 11 God condemneth their ingratitude, 12 and ſheweth what great benefits they have loſt through their owne malice.

To him that excelleth upon a Gittith. A Pſalme committeth to Aſaph.

SIng b ioyfully vnto God our ſtrength: ſing loud vnto the God of Iaakob.

2 Take the ſong and bring forth the timbrell, the pleaſant harpe with the viole.

3 Blow the trumpet in the c new moone, even in the time appointed at our feaſt day.

4 For this is a ſtatute for Iſrael, and a Law of the God of Iaakob.

5 He ſet this in d Ioſeph for a teſtimony, when he came out of the land of Egypt, where I heard a language, that e I vnderſtood not.

6 I have withdrawen his ſhoulder from the burden, and his hands have left the f pots.

7 Thou calledſt in affliction, and I delivered thee, and g anſwered thee in the ſecret of the thunder: I prooved thee at the waters of h Meribah. Selah.

8 i Heare, O my people, and I will proteſt vnto thee, O Iſrael, If thou wilt hearken vnto me,

9 And wilt have no ſtrange god in thee, neither worſhip any ſtrange god,

10 (For I am the Lord thy God, which brought thee out of the land of Egypt: k open thy mouth wide, and I will fill it.

11 But my people would not heare my voyce, and Iſrael would none of me, 12 So I gave them vp vnto the hardneſſe of their heart, and they have walked in their owne counſels.

13 l Oh that my people had hearkened vnto me, and Iſrael had walked in my wayes!

14 I would ſoone have humbled their enemies, and turned mine hand m againſt their adverſaries.

15 The haters of the Lord ſhould have beene ſubiect vnto him, and their time n ſhould have endured for ever.

16 And God would have fed them with the o fatte of wheate, and with hony out of the rocke would I have ſufficed thee.

a This Pſalme was made as a prayer for to deſire God to be mercifull to the two tribes.
b Moove their heart, that they may returne to worſhip God aright: that is, in the place where thou haſt appointed.
c Ioyne thy whole people, and all thy tribes together againe.
d The faithfull feare Gods anger, when they perceive that their prayers are not forthwith heard.
e Our neighbours have continuall ſtrife and warre againſt vs.
f Becauſe that repentance onely commeth of God, they moſt inſtantly and often times call to God for it as a meane whereby they ſhalbe ſaued.
g Seeing thou haſt made vs as a moſt deare poſſeſſion to thee, and we through our ſinnes are made open for wilde beaſts to devoure vs, declare againe thy loue, and finiſh the worke that thou haſt begun.
h The tribes of God.
i To wit, Paleſtina.
k That is, all well they that hate our religion, as they that hate our perſons.
l They gave not place to tentation, knowing that albeit there were no helpe in earth, yet God was able to ſuccour them from heaven. m So that no power can prevaile againſt it, and which as a young bud thou raiſeſt vp againe as out of the burnt aſhes.
n Onely when thou art angry, and not of the ſword of the enemie. o That is, vpon his vine or people, whom thou haſt planted with thy right hand, that they ſhould be as one man or one body.

o For none can call vpon God, but ſuch as are raiſed vp, as it were from death to life, and regenerate by the holy Spirit.

a An inſtrument of muſicke brought from Geth.
b It ſeemeth that this Pſalme was appointed for ſolemne feaſts and aſſemblies of the people to whom for a chiefe thes ceremonies were ordeined, but now vnder the Goſpel are aboliſhed.
c Vnder this feaſt he comprehendeth all other ſolemne dayes.
d That is, in Iſrael: for Ioſephs family was counted the chiefe before that Iudah was preferred.
e God ſpeaketh in the perſon of the people, becauſe he was their leader.
f If they were never able to give ſufficient thanks to God for this deliverance from corporall bondage, how much more are we indebted to him for our ſpirituall deliverance from the tyranny of Satan and ſinne?
g By a ſtrange and wonderfull faſhion.
h Or, contention, Exod. 17, 7.
i He condemneth all aſſemblies, where the people are not attentive to heare Gods voyce, and to give obedience to the ſame. k God by his word calleth all, but his ſecret election appoynteth who ſhall beare with fruit. l If their ſins had not letted. m If the Iſraelites had not broken covenant with God, he would have given them victory againſt their enemies. n That is, with moſt fine wheate and abundance of hony.

a The Prophet ſheweth, that if princes and iudges do not their durie, God whoſe authoritie is above them, will take vengeance on them.
b For thieves and murderers finde favour in iudgement, when the cauſe of the godly cannot be heard. c Not onely when they cry for helpe, but when their cauſe requireth aide and ſupport.

d That is, all things are out of order either by their tyranny or carelesse negligence.
e No title of honor shall excuse you, but you shall be subiect to Gods iudgement, and render account as well as other men.
f Therefore no tyrant shall plucke the right and authoritie from thee.

from the hand of the wicked.

5 They know not and understand nothing: they walke in darknes, albeit all the d foundations of the earth be mooved.

6 I have said, Ye are gods, and ye all are children of the most High.

7 e But yee shall die as a man, and ye princes shall fall like others.

8 O God, arise, therefore iudge thou the earth: for thou shalt inherite all nations.

1 The people of Israel pray unto the Lord to deliver them from their enemies both at home and farre off, which imagined nothing but their destruction. 9 And they desire that all such wicked people may according as God was accustomed, e stricken with the stormy tempest of Gods wrath, 18 That they may know that the Lord is most high upon the earth.

¶ A song or Psalme committeth to Asaph.

KEepe a not thou silence, O God: be not still, and cease not, O God.

2 For loe, thine b enemies make a tumult, and they that hate thee, have lifted up the head.

3 They have taken crafty counsell against thy people, and have consulted against thy c secret ones.

4 They have said, Come and let us d cut them off from being a nation, and let the name of Israel be no more in remembrance.

5 For they have consulted together in e heart, and have made a league f against thee:

6 The tabernacles of Edom, and the Ishmaelites, Moab and the Agarims:

7 Gebal and Ammon, and Amalech, the Philistims, with the inhabitants of ‖ Tyrus.

8 Asshur also is ioyned with them: they have bene an arme to the children g of Lot. Selah.

9 Doe thou to them as unto the h Midianites: as to Sisera and as to Iabin at the river of Kishon.

10 They perished at Endor, and were i dung for the earth.

11 Make them, even their princes, like * Oreb and like Zeeb: yea, all their princes like Zebah and like Zalmunna, 12 Which have sayd, Let us take for our possession the k habitations of God.

13 O my God, make them like unto a l wheele, and as the stubble before the wind.

14 As the fire burneth the forrest, and as the flame setteth the mountaines on fire:

15 So persecute them with thy tempest, and make them afraid with thy storme.

16 Fill their faces with shame, that they may m seeke thy Name, O Lord.

17 Let them be confounded and troubled for ever: yea, let them be put to shame, and perish.

18 That they may n know that thou, which art called Iehovah, art alone, even the most Hie over all the earth.

a This Psalme seemeth to have bene composed, as a forme of prayer against the dangers that the Church was in, in the dayes of Iehoshaphat.
b He calleth them Gods enemies, which are enemies to his Church.
c The elect of God are his secret ones: for he hideth them in the secret of his tabernacle, and preserveth them from all dangers.
d They were not content to take the Church as prisoner: but sought utterly to destroy it.
e By all secret meanes.
f They thought to have subuerted thy counsell wherein the perpetuitie of the Church was established.
‖ Or, Tzor.
g The wickednes of the Ammonites and Moabites is described in that they provoked these other nations to fight against the Israelites their brethren.
h By these examples they were confirmed, that God would not suffer his people to be utterly destroyed. Iud. 7.22. and 4.15.
i Trodden under feet as myre.
* Iudg. 7.25. and 8.21.
k That is, Iudea: for where his Church is there dwelleth he among them.
l Because she reprobate could by no meanes be amended, he prayeth that they may utterly be destroyed, be unstable, and led with all winds.
m That is, be compelled by thy plagues to confesse thy power.
n Though they beleeve not, yet they may proove by experience, that it is in vaine to resist against thy counsell in establishing thy Church.

1 David driven forth of his country, 2 Desireth most ardently to come againe to the tabernacle of the Lord and the assembly of the Saints to praise God. 4 pronounceth them blessed that may so do. 6 Then bee praiseth the courage of the people, that passe through the wildernesse to assemble themselves in Zion. 10 Finally, with praise of this mastir and confidence of Gods goodnes, he endeth the Psalme.

To him that excelleth upon Gitteth. A Psalme committeth to the sonnes of Korah.

OLord of hoasts, how amiable are thy Tabernacles?

2 My soule longeth, yea, and fainted for the b courts of the Lord: for my heart and my flesh reioyce in the living God.

3 Yea, the sparrow hath found her an house, and the swallow a nest for her, where she may lay her yong: even by thine c altars, O Lord of hoasts, my king and my God.

4 Blessed are they that dwell in thine house, they will ever praise thee. Selah.

5 Blessed is the man whose d strength is in thee, and in whose heart are thy wayes.

6 They going through the vale of e Baca, make welles therein: the raine also covereth the pooles.

7 They go from f strength to strength, till every one appeare before God in Zion.

8 O Lord God of hoasts, heare my prayer, hearken, O God of Iaakob. Selah.

9 Behold, O God, our shield, and looke upon the face of thine g Anoynted.

10 For h a day in thy courts is better then a thousand other where: I had rather be a doore keeper in the house of my God, then to dwell in the tabernacles of wickednes.

11 For the Lord God is the sunne and shield unto us: the Lord will give grace and glory, and no i good thing will he withhold from them that walke uprightly.

12 O Lord of hoastes, blessed is the man that trusteth in thee.

a David complaineth that he can not have accesse to the Church of God to make profession of his faith, and to profit in religion.
b For none but the Priests could enter into the Sanctuary, and the rest of the people into the courts.
c So that the poore birds have more liberty then I.
d Who trusteth nothing in himselfe, but in thee only, and learneth of thee to rule his life.
e That is of mulbery trees, which was a barren place; so that they which passed through, must dig pits for water: signifying that no let can hinder them that are fully bent to come to Christs Church, neither yet that God will ever faile them.
f They use never weary, but increase in strength and courage till they come to Gods house.
g That is, for Christes sake, whose figure I represent.
h He would wish to live but one day rather in Gods Church, then a thousand among the worldlings.
i But will from time to time increase his blessings toward his more and more.

PSAL. LXXXV.

1 Because God withdrew not his rods from his Church after their returne from Babylon, first they put him in mind of their deliverance, to the intent that he should not leave the works of his grace unperfit. 5 Next they complaine of their long affliction. 8 And thirdly, they reioyce in hope of felicity promised. 9 For their deliverance was a figure of Christs kingdome, under the which should be perfect felicitie.

¶ To him that excelleth. A Psalme committeth to the sonnes of Korah.

LOrd, thou hast beene a favourable unto thy land: thou hast brought againe the captivity of Iaakob.

2 Thou hast forgiven the iniquity of thy people, and covered all their sinnes. Selah.

3 Thou hast withdrawen all thine anger, and hast turned backe from the b fiercenesse of thy wrath.

4 Turne us, O God of our salvation, and release thine anger toward us.

5 Wilt thou be angry with us c for ever? and wilt thou prolong thy wrath from one generation to another?

6 Wilt thou not turne againe and quicken us, that thy people may reioyce in thee?

7 Shew us thy mercy, O Lord, and graunt us thy d salvation.

8 I will hearken what the Lord God will say: for he will speake e peace unto his people, and to his Saints, that they turne not againe to folly.

9 Surely his salvation is neere to them that a They confesse that Gods free mercy was the cause of their deliverance, because hee loved the land which he had chosen.

b Thou hast buried them that they shall not come more to iudgement.
c Not onely in withdrawing thy rod, but in forgiving of sinnes, and in touching our hearts to confesse them.
d As in times past they had felt Gods mercies, so now being oppressed by the long continuance of evils, they pray unto e He confesseth that our salvation commeth onely of Gods mercy.

God that according to his nature he would be mercifull unto them.
f He will send all prosperity to his Church, when he hath sufficiently corrected them, also by his punishments the faithfull shall learne to beware that they returne not to like offence.

g Though for a time God thus exerciseth them with his rods, yet vnder the kingdome of Christ they should have peace and ioy.
h Iustice shall then flourish, and have free course and passage in euery place.

feare him, that glory may dwell in our land.
10 Mercie and trueth shall meete, righteousnesse and peace shall kisse one another.
11 g Trueth shall bud out of the earth, and righteousnesse shall looke downe from heaven.
12 Yea, the Lord shall giue good things, and our land shall giue her increase.
13 h Righteousnesse shall goe before him, and shall set her steps in the way.

1 David sore afflicted and forsaken of all, prayeth feruently for deliuerance: sometimes rehearsing his mercies. 5 Sometimes the mercies receiued. 11 Desiring also to be instructed of the Lord, that he may feare him, and glorifie his name. 14 He complaineth also of his aduersaries, and requireth to be deliuered from them.

A prayer of David.

INcline a thine eare, O Lord, and heare me: for I am poore and needie.
2 Preserue thou my soule, for I am b mercifull: my God, saue thou thy seruant, that trusteth in thee.
3 Be mercifull vnto mee, O Lord: for I c cry vpon thee continually.
4 Reioyce the soule of thy seruants: for vnto thee, O Lord, doe I lift vp mine soule.
5 For thou, Lord, art good and d mercifull, and of great kindnesse vnto all them that call vpon thee.
6 Giue eare, Lord, vnto my prayer, and e hearken to the voyce of my supplication.
7 In the day of my trouble I will call vpon thee: for thou hearest me.
8 Among the gods there is none like thee, O Lord, and there is none f that can doe like thy works.
9 All nations whom thou hast made, shall come and g worship before thee, O Lord, and shall glorifie thy Name.
10 For thou art great and doest wonderous things: thou art God alone.
11 h Teach mee thy way, O Lord, and I will walke in thy trueth: knit mine heart vnto thee, that I may feare thy Name.
12 I will praise thee, O Lord my God, with all mine heart: yea, I will glorifie thy Name for euer.
13 For great is thy mercie toward me, and thou hast deliuered my soule from i the lowest grave.
14 O God, the proud are risen against me, and the assemblies of violent men haue k sought my soule, and haue not set thee before them.
15 But thou, O Lord, art a pitifull God and mercifull, slow to anger, and great in kindnesse and trueth.
16 Turne vnto me, and haue mercie vpon me: giue thy strength vnto thy seruant, and saue the l sonne of thine handmaid.
17 Shew a token of thy goodnesse toward me, that they which hate me, may see it, and be ashamed, because thou, O Lord, hast holpen mee and comforted me.

a David persecuted of Saul, thus prayed leauing the same to the Church as a monument, how to seeke redresse against their miseries.
b I am not enemy to them, but pitie them, though they be cruell toward me.
c Which was a sure token that he beleeued that God would deliuer him.
d He doeth confesse that God is good to all, but onely mercifull to poore sinners.
e By crying and calling continually, he sheweth how wee may not be weary though God grant not foorthwith our requests, but that we must earnestly and often call vpon him.
f He condemneth all idoles, forasmuch as they can doe no workes to declare that they are gods.
g This prooueth that David prayed in the Name of Christ the Messias, of whose kingdom he doeth here prophecie.
h He confesseth himselfe ignorant till God hath taught him, and his heart variable, and separate from God, till God ioyne it to him, and confirme it in his obedience.
i That is, from most great danger of death: out of the which none but onely the almightie hand of God could deliuer him. k He sheweth that there can be no moderation nor equitie, where proud tyrants reigne, and that the lacke of Gods feare is as a priuiledge to all vice and cruelnie. l Hee boasteth not of his owne vertues, but confesseth that God of his free goodnesse hath ever beene mercifull vnto him, and giueth him power against his enemies, as to one of his owne household.

5 And of Zion it shall be said, e Many are borne in her: and hee, euen the most High shall stablish her.
6 The Lord shall count, when he f writeth the people, He was borne there. Selah.
7 Aswell the singers as the players on instruments shall praise thee: all my g springs are in thee.

a God did chuse that place among the hilles, to establish Ierusalem and his Temple.
b Though thy glorious estate doe not yet appeare, yet waite with patience, and God will accomplish his promise.
c That is, Egypt and these other countreys shall come to the knowledge of God.
d It shall be said of him that is regenerate and come to the Church, that he is as one that was borne in the Church.
e Out of all quarters they shall come to the Church, and be counted as citizens.

to giue instruction, committed to the sonnes of Korah, for him that excelleth vpon Melath a Leanneth.

a That is, to humble. It was the beginning of a song, by the name whereof this Psalme was sung.

O Lord God of my saluation, I cry day and night b before thee.
2 Let my prayer enter into thy presence: incline thine eare vnto my crie.
3 For my soule is filled with euils, and my life draweth neere to the graue.
4 I am counted among them that go downe vnto the pit, and am as a man without strength.
5 c Free among the dead, like the slaine laying in the grave, when thou remembrest no more, and they are cut off from thy d hand.
6 Thou hast laid me in the lowest pit, in darkenesse, and in the deepe.
7 Thine indignation lieth vpon me, and thou hast vexed me with all thy e waues. Selah.
8 Thou hast put away mine f acquaintance farre from mee, and made mee to be abhorred of them: g I am shut vp, and cannot get forth.
9 h Mine eye is sorowfull through mine affliction: Lord, I call dayly vpon thee: I stretch out mine hands vnto thee.
10 Wilt thou shew i a miracle to the dead? or shall the dead rise and praise thee? Selah.
11 Shall thy loving kindnesse be declared in the grave? or thy faithfulnesse in destruction?
12 Shall thy wonderous workes be knowen in the darke? and thy righteousnesse in the land k of oblivion?
13 But vnto thee, haue I cryed, O Lord, and early shall my prayer come before thee.
14 Lord, why doest thou reiect my soule, and hidest thy face from me?
15 I am afflicted and at the point of death:

b Though many crie in their sorowes, yet they cry not earnestly to God for remedie, as he did whose he confessed to be the author of his saluation.
c For he that is dead, is free from all cares and businesse of this life: and thus he saith, because he was vnprofitable for all matters concerning mans life, and as it were cut off from this world.
d That is, from thy prouidence and care, which is meant according to the iudgement of the flesh.
e The stormes of thy wrath haue ouerwhelmed me.
f He attributeth the losse and displeasure of his friends to Gods prouidence, where by he partly punisheth, and partly trieth his.
g I see none end of my sorowes.
h Mine eyes and face declare my sorowes.
i He sheweth that the time is more conuenient for God to helpe, when men call vnto him in their dangers, then to tary till they be dead, and then raise them vp againe.
k That is, to the grave, where onely the body lyeth without all sense and remembrance.

i I am ever in great dangers and forowes, as though my life should vterly be cut off every moment.

† Ebr. were in darkenesse.

1 from my youth I suffer thy terrours doubting of my life.

16 Thine indignations goe over me, and thy feare hath cut me off.

18 My lovers and friends hast thou put away from me, and mine acquaintance † hid themselves.

PSAL. LXXXIX.

z With many wordes doth the Prophet prayse the goodnesse of God. 23 For his testament and covenant, that hee had made betweene him and his elect by Iesus Christ the sonne of David. 38 Then doeth hee complaine of the great ruine, and desolation of the kingdome of David, so that to the outward appearance the promise was broken. 46 Finally, he prayeth to be delivered from his afflictions, making mention of the shortnesse of mans life, and confirming himselfe by Gods promise.

a Though the horrible confusion of things might cause them to despaire of Gods favour yet the manifold examples of his mercies cause them to trust in God, though to mans iudgement they saw none occasion.

b As he that surely believed in heart.

c As thine invisible heaven is not subiect to any alteration and change: so shall the trueth of thy promise be unchangeable.

d The Prophet sheweth what was the promise of God, whereon he grounded his faith.

e The Angels shall prayse thy power and faithfulnesse in delivering thy Church.

f That is, in the heavens.

g Meaning, the Angels.

h If the Angels tremble before Gods majesty and infinite iustice, what earthly creature by oppressing the Church, dare set himselfe against God?

i For as he delivered the Church by the red Sea, and by destroying Rahab, that is, the Egyptians: so will he stil confound their enemies, when the dangers be great.

k Tabor is a mountaine Westward from Ierusalem: and Hermon Eastward: so the Prophet signifieth that all parts and places of the world shall obey Gods power for the deliverance of his Church.

l For hereby he iudgeth the world, and sheweth himselfe a mercifull Father, and faithfull protector unto his.

m Feeling in their conscience that God is their Father.

n They shall be preserved by thy Fatherly providence.

o In that they are preserved and continue, they ought to give the prayse and glory onely to thee.

I Will a sing the mercies of the Lord for ever: with my mouth will I declare thy trueth from generation to generation.

2 For I b said, mercy shall be set up for ever: thy trueth shalt thou c stablish in the very heavens.

3 d I have made a covenant with my chosen: I have sworne to David my servant.

4 Thy seede will I stablish for ever, and set up thy throne from generation to generation. Selah.

5 O Lord, even the e heavens shall prayse thy wonderous worke: yea, thy trueth in the f Congregation of the Saints.

6 For who is equall to the Lord in the heaven? and who is like the Lord among the g sonnes of the gods?

7 God is very terrible in the assemblie of the h Saints, and to be reverenced above all that are about him.

8 O Lord God of hoastes, who is like unto thee, which art a mightie Lord, and thy trueth is about thee?

9 i Thou rulest the raging of the Sea: when the waves thereof arise, thou stillest them.

10 Thou hast beaten downe Rahab as a man slaine: thou hast scattered thine enemies with thy mightie arme.

11 The heavens are thine; the earth also is thine: thou hast laid the foundation of the world, and all that therein is.

12 Thou hast created the North and the South: k Tabor and Hermon shall reioyce in thy Name.

13 Thou hast a mightie arme: strong is thy hand, and high is thy right hand.

14 l Righteousnesse and equitie are the stablishment of thy throne: mercie and trueth goe before thy face.

15 Blessed is the people that can m rejoyce in thee: they shall walke in the light of thy n countenance, O Lord.

16 They shall reioyce continually in thy Name, and in thy righteousnesse shall they exalt themselves.

17 For thou art the o glory of their strength, and by thy favour our hornes shall be exalted.

18 For our p shield appertaineth to the Lord, and our King to the Holy one of Israel.

19 Thou spakest then in a vision unto q thine Holy one, and saidest, I have layd helpe upon one that is r mightie: I have exalted one chosen out of the people.

20 I have found David my servant: with mine holy oyle have I annoynted him.

21 Therefore mine hand shall be established with him, and mine arme shall strengthen him.

22 The enemy shall not oppresse him, neither shall the wicked hurt him.

23 But I will s destroy his foes before his face, and plague them that hate him.

24 My trueth also and my t mercie shall be with him, and in my Name shall his u horne be exalted.

25 I will set his hand also in the sea, and his right hand in the x floods.

26 He shall cry unto mee, Thou art my y Father, my God, and the rocke of my salvation.

27 Also I will make him my first borne, higher then the kings of the earth.

28 My mercy will I keepe for him for evermore, and my Covenant shall stand fast with him.

29 His seede also will I make to endure z for ever, and his throne as the dayes of heaven.

30 But if his children forsake my Law, and walke not in my iudgements:

31 * If they breake my statutes, and keepe not my commandements:

32 Then will I visite their transgression with the rod, and their iniquitie with strokes.

33 a Yet my loving kindnesse will I not take from him, neither will I falsifie my trueth.

34 My Covenant will I not breake, nor b alter the thing that is gone out of my lips.

35 I have sworne once by mine holines, † that I will not faile David, saying,

36 His seede shall endure for ever, and his throne shall be as the sunne before me.

37 He shall be established for evermore as the moone, and as a faithfull c witnesse in the heaven. Selah.

38 But thou hast reiected and abhorred, thou hast beene angry with thine annoynted.

39 Thou hast d broken the Covenant of thy servant, and prophaned his e crowne, casting it on the ground.

40 Thou hast broken downe all his walles: thou hast layd his fortresses in ruine.

41 All that goe by the way, spoyle him: he is a rebuke unto his neighbours.

42 Thou hast set up the right hand of his enemies, and made all his adversaries to reioyce.

43 Thou hast also turned the edge of his sword, and hast not made him to stand in the battell.

44 Thou hast caused his dignitie to decay, and cast his throne to the ground.

45 The dayes of his f youth hast thou shortened, and covered him with shame. Selah.

46 g Lord, how long wilt thou hide thy selfe, for ever? shall thy wrath burne like fire?

p In that that our King hath power to defend vs, it is the gift of God.

q To Samuel and to others, to assure that David was thy chosen one.

r Whom I have both chosen and given him strength to execute his office, as verse 21.

s Though there shall be evermore enemies against Gods kingdome, yet he promiseth to overcome them.

t I will mercifully perfourme my promises to him, notwithstanding his infirmities and offences.

u His power, glory and estate.

x He shall enioy the land round about.

y He excellent dignitie shall appeare here in, that he shall be named the sonne of God, and the first borne wherein he is a figure of Christ.

z Though for the sinnes of the people the estate of this kingdom decayed: yet God reserved still root, till he had accomplished this promise in Christ.

* 2. Sam. 7. 14.

a Though the faithfull answere not in all points to their profession, yet God will not breake his Covenant with them.

b For God in promising hath respect to his mercie, and not to mans power in performing.

† Ebr. if I lie unto David, which is a manner of oath.

c As long as the Sunne and Moone endure, they shall be witnesses to me of this promise.

d Because of the horrible confusion of things, the Prophet complaineth to God, as though he saw not the performance of his promise. And thus discharging his cares on God, he resisteth doubt and impatience.

e By this he meaneth the horrible dissipation and rending of the kingdom, which was vnder Ieroboam: or else by the Spirit of prophecie Ethan speaketh of those great miseries, which came soone afterward to passe at the captivitie of Babylon.

f He sheweth that the kingdome fell before it came to perfection, or was ripe.

g The Prophet in ioyning prayer with his complaint, sheweth that his faith never failed.

47 Remember [b] of what time I am: wherefore shouldest thou create in vaine all the children of men?

48 What man liveth, and shall not see death? shall hee deliver his soule from the hand of the grave? Selah.

49 Lord, where are thy former mercies, which thou sweerest unto David in thy trueth?

50 Remember, O Lord, the rebuke of thy servants, which I beare in my [i] bosome of all the mighty people.

51 For [k] thine enemies have reproached thee, O Lord, because they have reproached the [l] footesteps of thine Anoynted.

52 Praysed be the Lord for evermore. So be it, even so be it.

PSAL. XC.

1 Moses in his prayer setteth before us the eternall favour of God toward his. 3 Who are neither admonished by the brevitie of their life, 7 nor by his plagues to be thankfull. 12 therefore Moses prayeth God to turne their hearts, and continue his mercies toward them and their posterity for ever.

¶ A prayer of Moses, a the man of God.

LOrd, thou hast bene our [b] habitation from generation to generation.

2 Before the [c] mountaines were made, and before thou hadst formed the earth, and the world, even from everlasting to everlasting thou art our God.

3 Thou [d] turnest man to destruction: againe thou sayest, Returne ye sonnes of Adam.

4 [e] For a thousand yeeres in thy sight are as yesterday when it is past, and as a watch in the night.

5 Thou hast [f] overflowed them, they are as a sleepe, in the morninghe groweth like the grasse:

6 In the morning it flourisheth and groweth, but in the evening it is cut downe and withereth.

7 For we are [g] consumed by thine anger, and by thy wrath are we troubled.

8 Thou hast set our iniquities before thee, and our secret sinnes in the light of thy countenance.

9 For all our dayes are past in thine anger: we have [h] spent our yeeres as a thought.

10 The time of our life is threescore yeeres and ten, and if they be of strength, fourescore yeeres: yet their strength is but labour and sorow: for it is cut off quickly, and we flee away.

11 [k] Who knoweth the power of thy wrath? for according to thy feare is thine anger.

12 Teach vs so to number our dayes, that we may apply our hearts unto [l] wisedome.

13 Returne (O Lord, [m] how long?) and be [n] pacified toward thy servants.

14 Fill us with thy mercy in the morning: so shall we reioyce and be glad all our dayes:

15 Comfort us according to the dayes that thou hast afflicted us, and according to the yeeres that we have seene evill.

16 [n] Let thy worke be seene toward thy servants, and thy glory upon their [o] children.

17 And let the [p] beauty of the Lord our God be upon us, even dire& thou ŷ worke of our hands upon us, even dire& the worke of our hands.

a This the Scripture useth to call the Prophets.
b Thou hast bene as an house and defence unto us in all our troubles & travels now this foure hundreth yeeres.
c Thou hast chosen us to be thy people before the foundations of the world were layd.
d Moses by lamenting the frailtie and shortnesse of mans life moveth God to pitty.
e Though man thinke his life long, which is indeed most short, yea, though it were a thousand yeeres: yet in Gods sight it is as nothing, and as the watch that lasteth but three houres f Thou takest them away suddenly as with a flood.
g Thou callest us by thy rods to consider the shortnes of our life, and for our sinnes thou abridgest our dayes.
h Our dayes are not onely short, but miserable, forasmuch as our sinnes daily provoke thy wrath.
i Meaning according to the common state of life.
k If mans life for the brevitie be miserable, much more if thy wrath lie upon it, as they which feare thee, onely know.
l Which is, by considering the shortnesse of our life, and by meditating the heavenly ioyes.
m Meaning, wilt thou be angry?
n Or, take comfort in thy servants.
o As Gods promises appertained as well to their posterity, as to them fo Moses prayeth for the posterity.
p Meaning, that it was obscured, when he ceaseth to doe good to his Church.
q For except thou guide us with thine holy Spirit, our enterprises can have no good successe.

PSAL. XCI.

1 Here is described in what assurance he liveth, that putteth his whole trust in God, and committeth himselfe wholly to his protection in all temptations. 14 A promise of God to those that love him, know him, and trust in him to deliver them, and give them immortall glory.

WHo so dwelleth in the [a] secret of the most High, shall abide in the shadowe of the Almighty.

2 [b] I will say unto the Lord, O my hope, and my fortresse: hee is my God, in him will I trust.

3 Surely I will deliver thee from the [c] snare of the hunter, and from the noysome pestilence.

4 Hee will cover thee vnder his wings, and thou shalt be sure vnder his feathers: his [d] trueth shalbe thy shield and buckler.

5 [e] Thou shalt not be afraid of the feare of the night: nor of the arrow that flieth by day:

6 Nor of the pestilence that walketh in the darkenesse: nor of the plague that destroyeth at noone day.

7 A thousand shalt fall at thy side, and tenne thousand at thy right hand, but it shall not come neere thee.

8 Doubtlesse with thine [f] eyes shalt thou behold and see the reward of the wicked.

9 For thou hast said, The Lord is mine hope: thou hast set the most High for thy refuge.

10 There shall none evill come unto thee, neither shall any plague come neere thy tabernacle.

11 [g] For hee shall give his Angels charge over thee to keepe thee in all thy wayes.

12 They shall beare thee in their hands, that thou hurt not thy foot against a stone.

13 Thou shalt walke upon the lyon and aspet: the [h] yong lyon, and the dragon shalt thou tread under feet.

14 [i] Because he hath loved me, therefore will I deliver him: I will exalt him because hee hath knowen my Name.

15 He shall call upon me, and I will heare him: I will be with him in trouble: I will deliver him, and glorifie him.

16 With [k] long life will I satisfie him, and shew him my salvation.

a Which teacheth that the use of the Sabbath standeth in praising God, and not onely in ceasing from worke.
b For Gods mercie and fidelity in his promises toward his, binde them to prayse him continually both day and night.
c These instruments were then permitted, but at Christs comming abolished.
d He sheweth what is the use of the Sabbath day, to wit, to meditate Gods works.
e That is, the wicked consider not Gods works, nor his judgements against them, and therefore most iustly perish.

PSAL. XCII.

1 This Psalme was made to be sung on the Sabbath, to stirre the people to acknowledge God, and to prayse him in his workes: the Prophet reioyceth therein. 6 But the wicked is not able to consider that the ungodly, when he is most flourishing, shall most speedily perish. 12 In the end is described the felicity of the iust, planted in the house of God to prayse the Lord.

¶ A Psalme or song for the a Sabbath day.

IT is a good thing to praise the Lord, and to sing unto thy Name, O most High.

2 To declare thy loving kindnesse in the [b] morning, and thy trueth in the night.

3 Upon an [c] instrument of ten strings, and upon the viole, with the song upon the harpe.

4 For thou Lord, hast made me glad by thy works, and I will reioyce in the works of thine hands.

5 O Lord, how glorious are thy workes! and thy thoughts are very deepe.

6 An [e] unwise man knoweth it not, and a foole foole doeth not vnderſtand this,

7 (When the wicked grow as the graſſe, and all the workers of wickedneſſe doe flouriſh) that they ſhallbe deſtroyed for euer.

8 But thou, O Lord, art f moſt High for evermore.

9 For loe, thine enemies, O Lord: for loe, thine enemies ſhall periſh: all the workers of iniquitie ſhallbe deſtroyed.

10 g But thou ſhalt exalt mine horne, like the vnicornes, and I ſhall be anoynted with freſh oyle.

11 Mine eye alſo ſhall ſee my deſire againſt mine enemies: and mine eares ſhall heare my vviſh againſt the wicked, that riſe vp againſt me.

12 The righteous ſhall h flouriſh like a palme tree, and ſhall grow like a cedar in Lebanon.

13 Such as be planted in the houſe of the Lord, ſhall flouriſh in the courts of our God.

14 They ſhall ſtill bring foorth fruit in their age: they ſhallbe fat and flouriſhing.

15 To declare that the Lord my rocke is righteous, and that none iniquity is in him.

f Thy iudgements are moſt conſtant againſt the wicked and paſſe our reach.

g Thou wilt ſtrengthen them with all power and bleſſe them with all felicitie.

h Though the faithfull ſeeme to vvither and be cut down by the wicked, yet they ſhall grow againe and flouriſh in the Church of God as the cedars doe in mount Lebanon.

i The children of God ſhall have a powes above nature, and their age ſhall bring forth moſt freſh fruits.

PSAL. XCIII.

1 He prayſeth the power of God in the creation of the world, and beateth downe all people which lift them vp againſt his maieſty, 5 and prodeeketh to conſider his promiſes.

THe Lord a reigneth, and is cloathed with maieſtie: the Lord is cloathed, and girded with power, the world alſo ſhall be eſtabliſhed, that it cannot be mooved.

2 Thy b throne is eſtabliſhed of old: thou art from everlaſting.

3 c The floods have lifted vp, O Lord: the floods have lifted vp their voyce: the floods lift vp the waves.

4 The water of the ſea are marvelious through the noiſe of many waters, yet the Lord on high is more mighty.

5 Thy d teſtimonies are very ſure: holineſſe becommeth thine Houſe, O Lord, for ever.

a As God by his power and wiſedome hath made and governeth the world: ſo muſt the fame be our defence againſt all enemies and dangers.

b Wherein thou ſitteſt and governeſt the world.

c Gods power appeareth in ruling the furious waters.

d Beſides Gods power and wiſedome in creating and governing, his great mercy alſo appeareth in that hee hath given his people his word and covenant.

PSAL. XCIV.

1 Hee prayeth vnto God againſt the violence and arrogance of tyrants, 10 warning them of Gods iudgements. 12 Then doth he comfort the afflicted by the good iſſue of their afflictions, as he felt in himſelfe, and did ſee in others, and by the ruine of the wicked, 23 whom the Lord will deſtroy.

O Lord God a the avenger, O God the avenger, ſhew thy ſelfe b clearely.

2 Exalt thy ſelfe, O Iudge of the world, and render a reward to the proud.

3 Lord, how long ſhall the wicked, how long ſhall the wicked c triumph?

4 They prate and ſpeake fiercely: all the workers of iniquity vaunt themſelves.

5 They d ſmite downe thy people, O Lord, and trouble thine heritage.

6 They ſlay the widow and ſtranger, and murther the fatherleſſe.

7 e Yet they ſay, The Lord ſhall not ſee: neither will the God of Iakob regard it.

8 Vnderſtand, yee vnwiſe among the people: and yee fooles, when will ye be wiſe?

9 Hee that f planted the eare, ſhall hee not heare? or he that formed the eye, ſhall hee not ſee?

10 Or he that chaſtiſeth the g nations, ſhall he not correct, he that teacheth man knowledge, ſhall he not knovv?

11 The Lord knoweth the thoughts of man, that they are vanitie.

12 Bleſſed is the man whom thou h chaſtiſeſt, O Lord, and teacheſt him in thy Law.

13 That thou mayeſt give him reſt from the dayes of evill, vvhiles the pitte is digged for the wicked.

14 Surely the Lord will not faile his people, neither will he forſake his inheritance.

15 For iudgement ſhall returne to iuſtice, and all the vpright in heart ſhall follovv after it.

16 Who will riſe vp with me againſt the wicked? or who will take my part againſt the workers of iniquitie?

17 If the Lord had not k holpen me; my ſoule had almoſt dwelt in ſilence.

18 When I ſaid, l My foot ſlideth, thy mercy, O Lord, ſtayed me.

19 In the multitude of my m thoughts in mine heart, thy comforts have reioyced my ſoule.

20 Hath the throne of iniquitie a fellowſhip with thee, which forgeth wrong for a Law?

21 They gather them together againſt the ſoule of the righteous, and condemne the innocent blood.

22 But the Lord is my refuge, and my God is the rocke of mine hope.

23 And he will recompenſe them their wickedneſſe, and o deſtroy them in their owne malice, yea, the Lord our God ſhall deſtroy them.

a Whoſe office it is to take vengeance on the wicked.

b Shew by effect that thou art Iudge of the world to puniſh the wicked.

c That is, bragge of their cruelty and oppreſſion: or eſteeme themſelves above all other.

d Seeing the Church was then ſo ſore oppreſſed, it ought not to ſeeme ſtrange to vs, if we ſee it ſo now, and therefore we muſt call to God, to take our cauſe in hand.

e He ſheweth that they are deſperate in malice, foraſmuch as they feared not God, but gave themſelves wholly to doe wickedly.

f He ſheweth that it is impoſſible, but God ſhould heare, ſee, and vnderſtand their wickednеſſe.

g If God puniſh whole nations for their ſinnes, it is meere folly for any one man, or elſe a few to thinke that God will ſpare them, h God hath care over his, and chaſtiſed them for their wealth, that they ſhould not periſh for ever with the wicked.

i God will reſtore the ſtate and gouernement of things to their right vſe, and then the Godly ſhall follow him cheerefully.

k He complaineth of them which would not helpe him to reſiſt the enemies: yet was aſſured that Gods helpe would not faile.

l When I thought there was no way but death.

m In my trouble and diſtreſſe I ever found thy preſent helpe.

n Though the wicked iudges pretend iuſtice in oppreſſing the Church, yet they have not that authority of God.

o It is a great token of Gods iudgement when the purpoſe of the wicked is broken, but moſt, when they are deſtroyed in their owne malice.

PSAL. XCV.

1 An earneſt exhortation to prayſe God, 4 for the gouernment of the world and the election of the Church. 7 An admonition not to follow the rebellion of the olde fathers, that tempted God in the wilderneſſe, 12 For the which they might not enter into the land of promiſe.

COme, let vs reioyce vnto the Lord: let vs ſing a alowde vnto the rocke of our ſalvation.

2 Let vs come before his face with praiſe: let vs ſing lowd vnto him with Pſalmes.

3 For the Lord is a great God, and a great King above all b gods.

4 In whoſe hand are the deepe places of the earth, and the c heights of the mountaines are his.

5 To whom the Sea belongeth, for he made it, and his hands formed the dry land.

6 Come, let vs d worſhip and fall downe, and kneele before the Lord our maker.

7 For he is our God, and we are the people of his paſture, and the ſheepe of his e hand: to day, if ye will heare his voyce.

8 f Harden not your heart, as in g Meribah, and as in the day of h Maſſah in the wildernes, 9 When your fathers * tempted mee, prooved me, though they had ſeene my worke.

10 Fourtie yeeres have I contended with this generation, and ſaid, They are a people that i erre in heart, for they have not knowen my wayes.

11 Wherefore I ſware in my wrath ſaying, Surely they ſhall not enter into k my reſt.

a He ſheweth that Gods ſervice ſtandeth not in dead ceremonies, but chiefly in the ſacrifice of prayſe and thankſgiuing.

b Even the Angels (who in reſpect of men are thought as gods) are nothing in his ſight, much leſſe the idoles, which mans braine inventeth.

c All things are governed by his providence.

d By theſe three words he ſignifieth one thing: meaning that they muſt wholly giue themſelves to ſerve God.

e That is, the flocke, whom he governeth with his owne hand. He ſheweth where in they are Gods flocke, that is, if they heare his voyce.

PSAL. XCVI.

1 An exhortation both to the Iewes and Gentiles to prayse God for his mercie. And this specially ought to be referred to the kingdome of Christ.

SIng a unto the Lord a newe song: sing unto the Lord all the earth.

2 Sing unto the Lord, and prayse his Name: declare his salvation from day to day.

3 Declare his glory among all nations, and his wonders among all people.

4 For the Lord is b great and much to be praised: he is to be feared above all gods.

5 For all the gods of the people are ‖ idoles: but the Lord c made the heavens.

6 d Strength and glory are before him: power and beautie are in the Sanctuarie.

7 Give unto the Lord, ye families of the people: give unto the Lord glory and e power.

8 Give unto the Lord the glory of his Name: bring f an offering, and enter into his courts.

9 Worship the Lord in the glorious Sanctuary: tremble before him all the earth.

10 Say among the g Nations, The Lord reigneth: Surely the world shall be stable, and not moove, and he shall iudge the people h in righteousnesse.

11 Let the heavens reioyce, and let the earth be glad: let the sea roare, and all that therein is.

12 Let the field be ioyfull, and all that is in it: let all the i trees of the wood then reioyce, 13 Before the Lord: for hee commeth, for hee commeth to iudge the earth: he will iudge ŷ world with righteousnesse, and the people in his trueth.

a The Prophet sheweth that the time shall come, that all nations shall have occasion to prayse the Lord for the revealing of his Gospel.

b Seeing hee will reveale himselfe to all nations contrarie to their own expectation, they ought all to worship him contrary to their owne imaginations, and onely as he hath appointed.

‖ Or, Vanities.

c Then the idoles, or whatsoever made not the heavens, are not God.

d God cannot be knowen, but by his strength and glory, the signes whereof appeare in his Sanctuarie.

e As by experience yee see that it is onely due unto him.

f By offering up your selves whole unto God, declare that you worship him onely.

g He prophecieth that the Gentiles shall be partakers with the Iewes of Gods promise.

h He shall regenerate them a new with his Spirit, and restore them to the image of God.

i If the insensible creatures shall have cause to reioyce when God appeareth, much more we, from whom hee hath taken malediction and sinne.

PSAL. XCVII.

1 The Prophet exhorteth all to reioyce for the comming of the kingdome of Christ, 7 dreadfull to the rebels and idolaters, 8 and ioyfull to the iust, whom he exhorteth to innocencie, 12 to reioycing and thankesgiving.

THe a Lord reigneth: let the earth reioyce: let the b multitude of Iles be glad.

2 c Cloudes and darkenesse are round about him: righteousnesse and iudgement are the foundation of his throne.

3 There shall go a fire before him, and burne up his enemies round about.

4 His lightnings gave light unto the world: the earth saw it and was d afraid.

5 The mountaines melted like waxe at the presence of the Lord, at the presence of the Lord of the whole earth.

6 The heavens declare his righteousnesse, and all the people see his glory.

7 e Confounded be all they that serve graven images, and that glory in idols: worship him f all ye gods.

8 Zion heard of it, and was glad: and the g daughters of Iudah reioyced, because of thy iudgements, O Lord.

9 For thou, Lord, art most High above all the earth: thou art much exalted above all gods.

10 Ye that h love the Lord, hate evill: hee preserveth the soules of his Saints: hee will deliver them from the hand of the wicked.

11 ‖ Light is sowen for the righteous, and ioy for the upright in heart.

12 Reioyce yee righteous in the Lord, and give thanks for his holy k remembrance.

a He sheweth that where God reigneth, there is all felicitie, and spirituall ioy.

b For the Gospel shall not be onely preached in Iudea, but through all yles and countreyes.

c He is thus described to keepe his enemies in feare, which commonly contemne Gods power.

d This feare bringeth not the wicked to true obedience, but maketh them to run away from God.

e He signifieth that Gods iudgements are in a readinesse to destroy the idolaters.

f Let all that which is esteemed in the world fall downe before him.

g The Iewes shall have occasion to reioyce, that the Gentiles are made partakers with them of Gods favour.

h He requireth two things of his children, the one that they detest vice, the other, that they put their trust in God for their deliverance.

i Though Gods deliverance appeare not suddenly, yet it is sowen and laid up in store for them.

k Be unmindfull of his benefits and onely trust in his defence.

PSAL. XCVIII.

1 An earnest exhortation to all creatures to prayse the Lord for his power, mercie and iustitie in his promise by Christ, 10 by whom he hath communicated his salvation to all nations.

‖ A Psalme.

SIng a unto the Lord a new song: for hee hath done marveilous things: * his right hand, and his holy b arme have gotten him the victory.

2 The Lord declared his c salvation: his righteousnesse hath he revealed in the sight of the nations.

3 Hee hath d remembred his mercie and his trueth toward the house of Israel: all the ends of the earth have seene the salvation of our God.

4 All the earth, sing ye loud unto the Lord: cry out and reioyce, and sing prayses.

5 Sing prayse to the Lord upon the harpe, even upon the harpe with a singing voyce.

6 With e shalmes and sound of trumpets sing loud before the Lord the king.

7 Let the sea roare, and all that therein is, the world, and they that dwell therein.

8 Let the floods clap their hands, and let the mountaines reioyce together,

9 Before the Lord: for he is come to iudge the earth: with righteousnes shall he iudge the world: and the people with equitie.

a That is, some song newly made in token of their wonderfull deliverance by Christ.

* Isa. 59. 16.

b He preserveth his Church miraculously.

c For the deliverance of his Church.

d God was moved by none other meanes to gather his Church of the Iewes and Gentiles, but because he would performe his promise.

e By this repetition and earnest exhortation to give prayses with instruments, and also of the dumbe creatures, he signifieth that the world is never able to prayse God sufficiently for their deliverance.

PSAL. XCIX.

1 He commendeth the power, equitie, and excellencie of the kingdome of God by Christ over the Iewes and Gentiles, 5 And provoketh them to magnifie the same, and to serve the Lord. 6 following the example of the ancient fathers, Moses, Aaron, Samuel, who calling upon God, were heard in their prayers.

THe Lord reigneth, let the a people tremble: he sitteth betweene the * Cherubims, let the earth be mooved.

2 The Lord is great in Zion, and he is high above all the people.

3 They shall b prayse thy great and fearefull Name (for it is holy.)

4 And the Kings power, that loveth iudgement: for thou hast prepared equitie: thou hast executed iudgement and iustice in Iakob.

5 Exalt the Lord our God, and fall downe before his c footstoole: for he is holy.

6 Moses and Aaron were among his Priests, d and Samuel among such as call upon his Name: these called upon the Lord, and he heard them.

7 Hee spake unto them in the cloudy pillar: they kept his testimonies, and the Law that he gave them.

8 Thou heardest them, O Lord our God: thou was a favourable God unto them, though thou diddest take vengeance for e their inventions.

9 Exalt the Lord our God and fall downe before his holy Mountaine: for the Lord our God is holy.

a When God delivereth his Church, all the enemies shall have cause to tremble.

* Exod. 25. 22.

b Though the wicked rage against God, but the godly shall prayse his Name and mighty power.

c That is, before his Temple or Arke, where he promised to heare when they worshipped him, as now he promiseth his spirituall presence, wherefore his Church is assembled.

d Under these three he comprehendeth the whole people of Israel: with whom God made his promise.

e For the more liberally that God dealeth with his people, the more doeth he punish them that abuse his benefits.

PSAL. C.

1 He exhorteth all to serve the Lord. 3 who hath chosen us, and preserved us, 4 and to enter into his assemblies to prayse his Name.

‖ A Psalme of prayse.

SIng a ye loud unto the Lord, all the earth.

2 Serve the Lord with gladnesse; come before him with ioyfulnesse.

a He prophecieth that Gods benefit in calling the Gentiles shall be so great, that they shall have wonderfull occasion to prayse his mercy and reioyce,

3 Know yee that even the Lord is God; hee hath b made us, and not we our selves: we are his people, and the sheepe of his pasture.

4 c Enter into his gates with prayse, and into his courtes with reioycing: prayse him and blesse his name.

5 For the Lord is good: his mercie is d everlasting, and his trueth is from generation to generation.

b He chiefly meaneth touching the spirituall regeneration, whereby we are his sheepe and people.
c He sheweth that God will not be worshipped, but by that meanes which he hath appointed.
d He declareth that we ought never to be wearie in praysing him, seeing his mercies towards vs last for ever.

1 David describeth what gouvernement hee will observe in his house and kingdome. 5 He will punish and correct, by rooting forth the wicked, 6 and cherishing the godly persons.

¶ A Psalme of David.

I Will a sing mercie and iudgement: unto thee, O Lord, will I sing.

2 I will doe witely in the perfect way, b till thou comest to me, I will walke in the uprightnesse of mine heart in the middes of my house.

3 I will set no wicked thing before mine eyes: I hate c the worke of them that fall away: it shall not cleave vnto me.

4 A froward heart shall depart from mee; I will know none evill.

5 Him that privily d slandereth his neighbour, will I destroy: him that hath a proud looke and hie heart, I cannot suffer.

6 Mine eyes shall be unto the e faithfull of the land, that they may dwell with me: he that walketh in a perfect way, he shall serve me.

7 There shall no deceitfull person dwell within my house: hee that telleth lyes, shall not remaine in my sight.

8 f Betimes will I destroy all the wicked in the land, that I may cut off all the workers of iniquitie from the Citie of the Lord.

a David considereth what maner of King he would be, when God should place him in the throne, promising openly, that he would be mercifull and iust.
b Though as yet thou deferrest to place me in the Kingly dignitie, yet will I give my selfe to wisedome and vprightnesse being a private man.
c He sheweth that Magistrates doe not their duties, except they be enemies to all vice.
d In promising to punish these vices, which are most pernitious in them that are about Kings, he declareth that he will punish all. e He sheweth what is the true use of the sword: to punish the wicked, and to maintaine the good.
f. Magistrates must immediately punish vice, least it grow to further inconvenience: and if heathen magistrates are bound to doe this, how much more they that have the charge of the Church of God.

1 It seemeth that this prayer was appointed to the faithfull to pray in the captivitie of Babylon. 26 A consolation for the building of the Church. 18 Whereof followeth the prayse of God to be published unto all posteritie. 22 The conversion of the Gentiles. 23 and the stabilitie of the Church.

¶ A prayer a of the afflicted, when hee shall be in distresse, and powre forth his meditation before the Lord.

O Lord heare my prayer, and let my b cry come unto thee.

2 Hide not thy face from mee in the time of my trouble: incline thine eares unto me, when I call, make haste to heare me.

3 For my dayes are c consumed like smoake, and my bones are burnt like an herth.

4 Mine heart is smitten, and withered like grasse, because I forgate d to eate my bread.

5 For the voyce of my groning, my bones doe cleave to my skinne.

6 I am like a e pelicane of the wildernesse: I am like an owle of the deserts.

7 I watch, and am as a sparow alone upon the house top.

8 Mine enemies revile me dayly, and they that rage against me, haue f sworne against me, a Whereby is signified, that albeit we be in never so great miseries, yet there is ever place left for prayer.

b He declareth that in our prayer we must lively feele that, which we desire, and stedfastly believe to obtaine.
c These excessive kindes of speach shew how much the affliction of the Church ought to wound the hearts of the godly.
d My sorrowes were so great, that I passed not for mine ordinary good.
e Ever mourning and solitarie, casting out fearfull cryes. f. Have conspired my death.

9 Surely I have g eaten ashes as bread, and mingled my drinke with weeping.

10 Because of thine h indignation and thy wrath: for thou hast heaved me up, and cast me downe.

11 My dayes are like a shadowe that fadeth, and I am withered like grasse.

12 But thou, O Lord, doest i remaine for ever, and thy remembrance from generation to generation.

13 Thou wilt arise and have mercie upon Zion: for the time to have mercie thereon, for the k appointed time is come.

14 For thy servants delight in the l stones thereof, and have pitie on the dust thereof.

15 Then the heathen shall feare the Name of the Lord, and all the kings of the earth thy glory,

16 When the Lord shall build up Zion, and shall appeare m in his glory, 17 And shall turne unto the prayer of the desolate, and not despise their prayer.

18 This shall be written for the generation to come, and the people which shalbe n created, shall prayse the Lord.

19 For he hath looked downe from the height of his Sanctuary: out of the heaven did the Lord behold the earth.

20 That he might heare the mourning of the prisoner, and deliver the o children of death.

21 That they may declare the Name of the Lord in Zion, and his prayse in Ierusalem.

22 When the people shallbe gathered p together, and the kingdomes to serve the Lord.

23 Hee q abated my strength in the way, and shortned my dayes.

24 And I said, O my God, take me not away in the mids of my dayes: thy yeeres endure from generation to generation.

25 Thou hast aforetime layd the foundation of the earth, and the heavens are the worke of thine hands, 26 r They shall perish, but thou shalt endure: even they all shall waxe old as doeth a garment: as a vesture shalt thou change them, and they shall be changed.

27 But thou art the same, and thy yeeres shall not faile.

28 The children of thy servants shall continue, and their seed shall stand f fast in thy sight.

g I have not risen out of my mourning to take my refection.
h He sheweth that the afflictions did not onely thus moove him, but chiefly the feeling of Gods displeasure.
i Howsoever we be fraile, yet thy promise is sure, and the remembrance thereof shall confirme us for ever.
k That is, the seventie yeeres which by the Prophet Ieremie thou didst appoint, Iere. 29.12.
l The more that the Church is in miserie and desolation, the more ought the faithfull to love and pitie it.
m That is, when he shall have drawen his church out of the darknes of death.
n The deliverance of the Church is a most excellent benefite, and therefore he compareth it to a new creation: for in their banishment the body of the Church seemed to have bene dead, which by deliverance was as it were created a new.
o Who now in their banishment could looke for nothing but death.
p He sheweth that Gods Name is never more praysed, then when religion florisheth and the church increaseth: which thing is chiefly accomplished under the kingdome of Christ. q The Church lament that they see not the time of Christ, which was promised, but have but fewe yeeres and short dayes.
r If heaven and earth perish, much more man shall perish: but the Church by reason of Gods promise endureth for ever. f Seeing thou hast chosen thy Church out of the world, and ioyned it to thee, it cannot but continue for ever: for thou art everlasting.

1 He provoketh all to prayse the Lord, which hath pardoned his sinnes, delivered him from destruction and given him sufficient of all good things. 20 Then he adderh the tender mercies of God, which hee sheweth like a most tender Father toward his children. 14 The frailtie of mans life. 20 An exhortation to man and Angels to prayse the Lord.

* A Psalme of David.

MY soule, a prayse thou the Lord, and all that is within me, prayse his holy Name.

2 My soule, prayse thou the Lord, and forget not all his benefits.

3 Which b forgiveth all thine iniquitie, and healeth all thine infirmities,

4 Which redeemeth thy life from the c grave, and crowneth thee with mercie and compassions.

a He wakeneth his dulnesse to prayse God, shewing that both vnderstanding and affections, minde and heart are too little to set foorth his prayse.
b That is, the beginning and chiefest of all benefits, remission of sinne. c For before that we have remission of our sinnes, we are as dead men in the grave.

5 Which

5 Which ſatisfieth thy mouth with good things: and thy d youth is renued like the eagles.
6 The Lord executeth righteouſneſſe and iudgement to all that are oppreſſed.
7 He made his wayes knowen vnto e Moſes, and his workes vnto the children of Iſrael.
8 The Lord is full of compaſsion and mercy, ſlow to anger and of great kindneſſe.
9 He will not alway f chide, neither keepe his anger for euer.
10 He hath not g dealt with vs after our ſinnes, nor rewarded vs according to our iniquities.
11 For as high as the heaven is aboue the earth, ſo great is his mercie toward them that feare him.
12 As farre as h the Eaſt is from the Weſt: ſo farre hath he removed our ſinnes from vs.
13 As a father hath compaſsion on his children, ſo hath the Lord compaſsion on them that feare him.
14 For he knoweth whereof we be made: he remembreth that we are but duſt.
15 The dayes of i man are as graſſe: as a flowre of the field, ſo flouriſheth hee.
16 For the wind goeth over it, and it is gone, and the place thereof ſhall know it no more.
17 But the louing kindnes of the Lord endureth for ever and ever vpon them that feare him, and his k righteouſneſſe vpon childrens children, 18 Vnto them that keepe his l covenant, and thinke vpon his commandements to doe them.
19 The Lord hath prepared his throne in heaven, and his kingdome ruleth over all.
20 Prayſe the Lord, ye m his Angels, that excell in ſtrength, that doe his commandement in obeying the voyce of his word.
21 Prayſe the Lord all ye his hoaſts, ye his ſeruants that doe his pleaſure.
22 Prayſe the Lord all ye his works, in all places of his dominion: my ſoule, prayſe thou the Lord.

d As the eagle, when hee beake overgroweth, ſucketh blood, and ſo is renewed in ſtrength, even ſo God miraculouſly giveth ſtrength to his Church aboue all mans expectation.
e As to his chiefe miniſter, and next to his people.
f He meweth firſt his ſeuere iudgement, but ſo ſoone as the ſinner is humbled, he receiued him to mercie.
g Who haue prooued by continuall experience, that his mercy hath euer prevailed againſt our offences.
h As great as the world is, ſo full is it of ſignes of Gods mercies toward his faithfull, when he hath removed their ſinnes.
i Hee declareth that man hath no thing in himſelfe to moove God to mercie, but onely the confeſſion of his infirmity and miſerie k His iuſt and faithfull keeping of his promiſe.
l To whom hee giveth grace to feare him, and to obey his word.
m In that that we, which naturally are ſlow to prayſe God, exhort the Angels, which willingly doe it, we ſtirre vp our ſelues to conſider our dutie, and awake out of our ſluggiſhneſſe.

MY ſoule, prayſe thou the Lord: O Lord my God, thou art exceeding great, thou art a cloathed with glory and honour.
2 Which couereſt him ſelfe with light, as with a garment, and ſpreadeſt the heavens like a curtaine.
3 Which layeſt the beames of his chambers in the waters, and makeſt the cloudes his chariot, and walkeſt vpon the wings of the winde.
4 Which b makeſt the ſpirits his meſſengers, and a flaming fire his miniſters.
5 He ſet the earth vpon her foundations, ſo that it ſhall never moove.
6 Thou couereſtait with the c deepe as with a garment: the d waters would ſtand aboue the mountaines.
7 But at thy rebuke they flee: at the voyce of thy thunder they haſte away.
8 And the mountaines aſcend, and the valleys deſcend to the place which thou haſt eſtabliſhed for them.
9 But thou haſt ſet them a bound, which they ſhall not paſſe: they ſhall not returne no cover the earth.
10 Hee ſendeth the ſprings into the valleys, which runne betweene the mountaines.
11 They ſhall give drinke to all the e beaſtes of the field, and the wilde aſſes ſhall quench their thirſt.
12 By theſe f ſprings ſhall the foules of the heaven dwell, and ſing among the branches.
13 Hee watereth the mountaines from his g chambers, and the earth is filled with the fruite of thy workes.
14 He cauſeth graſſe to grow for the cattell, and herbe for the vſe of h man, that he may bring forth bread out of the earth,
15 And wine that maketh glad the heart of man, and oyle to make his face to ſhine, and bread that ſtrengtheneth mans heart.
16 The high trees are ſatisfied, even the cedars of Lebanon, which he hath planted, 17 That the birds may make their neſts there: the ſtorke dwelleth in the firre trees.
18 The high mountaines are for the ¶ goates: the rocks are a refuge for the conies.
19 He appointed i the moone for certaine ſeaſons: k the ſunne knoweth his going downe.
20 Thou makeſt darkeneſſe, and it is night, wherein all the beaſts of the foreſt creepe forth.
21 The lyons roare after their pray, and ſeeke their meate l at God.
22 When the ſunne riſeth, they retire, and couch in their dennes.
23 m Then goeth man forth to his worke, and to his labour vntill the euening.
24 O Lord, how n manifold are thy workes! in wiſedome haſt thou made them all: the earth is full of thy riches.
25 So is the ſea great and wide: for therein are things creeping innumerable, both ſmall beaſts and great.
26 There goe the ſhips, yea that ‖ Liviathan, whom thou haſt made to play therein.
27 o All theſe wait vpon thee, that thou mayeſt give them foode in due ſeaſon.
28 Thou giveſt it to them, and they gather it, thou openeſt thy hand, and they are filled with good things.
29 But if thou p hide thy face, they are troubled: if thou take away their breath, they die and returne to their duſt:
30 Againe if thou q ſend forth thy ſpirit, they are created, & thou reneweſt the face of the earth.
31 Glory be to the Lord for ever: let the Lord reioyce in his workes.
32 He looketh on the earth and it trembleth: he toucheth the mountaines, and they r ſmoke.
33 I will ſing vnto the Lord all my life: I will prayſe my God, while I liue.
34 Let my wordes be acceptable vnto him: I will reioyce in the Lord.
35 Let the ſinners be ſ conſumed out of the earth, and the wicked till there be no more: O my ſoule, prayſe thou the Lord. Prayſe ye the Lord.

a The Prophet ſheweth that wee need not to enter into the heavens to ſeeke God, for as much as all the order of nature, with the proprieties, and placing of the elements, are moſt lively mirrours to ſee his maieſtie in.
b As the Prophet here ſheweth that all thoſe powers are ready to ſerue God: ſo the Apoſtle to the Hebr. 1.7. beholdeth in this glaſſe how the very Angels alſo are obedient to his commandement.
c Thou makeſt the ſea to be an ornament vnto the earth.
d If by thy power thou diddeſt not bridle the rage of the waters, it were not poſſible, but the whole world ſhould be deſtroyed.
e If God prouide for the very beaſts, much more will he extend his prouident care to man.
f There is no part of the world ſo barren, where moſt euident ſignes of Gods bleſſings appeare not.
g From the clouds.
h He deſcribeth Gods prouident care over man, who doeth not onely prouide neceſſary things for him, as herbe and other meate: but alſo things to reioyce and comfort him, as wine and oyle, or ointments.
¶ Or, dotes, roes, and ſuch like.
i As to ſeparate the night from the day, and to note dayes, moneths and yeeres.
k That is, by his courſe, either farre or neere, it noteth ſummer, winter and other ſeaſons.
l That is, they onely finde meate according to Gods prouidence, who careth even for the brute beaſts.
m To wit, when the day ſpringeth: for the light is as it were a ſhield to defend man againſt the tyrannie and fierceneſſe of beaſts.
n Hee confeſſeth that no tongue is able to expreſſe Gods workes, nor minde to comprehend them.
‖ Or, whale.
o God is a moſt nouriſhing Father, who prouideth for all creatures their dayly foode.
p As by thy preſence all things haue life: ſo, if thou withdraw thy bleſſings, they all periſh.
q As the death of creatures ſheweth that wee are nothing of our ſelues: ſo their generation declareth that wee receive all things.
r Who infect the world, and ſo cauſe God that he cannot reioyce in his workes.
ſ Who ſhall be conſumed with the fire of his iuſt iudgement, as the wicked ſhall be conſumed with the fire of hell.

1 Hee prayſeth the ſingular grace of God, who hath of all the people of the world choſen a peculiar people to himſelfe, and having choſen them, neuer ceaſeth to doe them good, and for his promiſe ſake.

Prayſe ye

P Rayſe the Lord, and call vpon his Name: a declare his workes among the people.

2 Sing vnto him, ſing prayſe vnto him, and talke of all his wondrous workes.

3 Reioyce in his holy Name, let the heart of them that ſeeke the Lord, reioyce.

4 Seeke the Lord and his b ſtrength: ſeeke his face continually.

5 Remember his c marueilous workes that he hath done, his wonders, and the d iudgements of his mouth.

6 Ye ſeed of Abraham his ſeruant, ye children of Iaakob, which are his elect.

7 Hee is the Lord our God: his iudgements are through all the earth.

8 He hath alway remembred his couenant, and promiſe, that he made to a thouſand generations,

9 Even that which he e made with Abraham, and his oath vnto Izhak:

10 And ſince hath confirmed it to Iaakob for a law, and to Iſrael for an euerlaſting couenant.

11 Saying, f Vnto thee will I giue the land of Canan, the lot of your inheritance.

12 Albeit they were few in number, yea very few, and ſtrangers in the land,

13 And walked about from nation to nation, from one kingdome to another people,

14 Yet ſuffered he no man to do them wrong, but reprooued g Kings for their ſakes, ſaying, 15 Touch not mine h anoynted, and doe my i Prophets no harme.

16 Moreouer, hee called a famine vpon the land, and vtterly brake the k ſtaffe of bread.

17 But he ſent a man before them: Ioſeph was ſold for a ſlaue.

18 They held his feete in the ſtokes, and hee was layd in yrons.

19 Vntill l his appoynted time came, and the counſell of the Lord had tried him.

20 The King ſent and looſed him: even the Ruler of the people delyered him.

21 He made him lord of his houſe, and ruler of all his ſubſtance.

22 That hee ſhould binde his m princes vnto his will, and teach his Ancients wiſdome.

23 Then Iſrael came to Egypt, and Iaakob was a ſtranger in the land of Ham.

24 And hee increaſed his people exceedingly, and made them ſtronger then their oppreſſours.

25 n He turned their heart to hate his people, and to deale craftily with his ſeruants.

26 Then ſent he Moſes his ſeruant, and Aaron whom he had choſen.

27 They ſhewed among them the meſſage of his ſignes, and wonders in the land of Ham.

28 He ſent darkeneſſe, and made it darke: and they were not o diſobedient vnto his commiſſion.

29 * Hee turned their waters into blood, and ſlew their fiſh.

30 * Their land brought foorth frogs, even in their Kings chambers.

31 He p ſpake, and there came ſwarmes of flies and lice in all their quarters.

32 He gaue them q haile for raine, and flames of fire in their land.

33 Hee ſmote their vines alſo and their figge trees, and brake downe the trees in their coaſts.

34 r He ſpake and the graſhoppers came, and caterpillers innumerable.

35 And did eate vp all the graſſe in their land, and deuoured the fruit of their ground.

36 * He ſmote alſo all the firſt borne in their land, even the beginning of all their ſtrength.

37 Hee brought them foorth alſo with ſilver and golde, and there was ſ none feeble among their tribes.

38 Egypt was t glad at their departing: for the feare of them had fallen vpon them.

39 He ſpread a cloud to be a couering, and fire to giue light in the night.

40 They u aſked, and he brought quailes, and he filled them with the bread of heaven.

41 He opened the rocke, and the water flowed out, and ranne in the dry places like a river.

42 For hee remembred his holy x promiſe to Abraham his ſeruant.

43 And hee brought foorth his people with y ioy, and his choſen with gladneſſe,

44 And gaue them the lands of the heathen, & they tooke ỹ labors of ỹ people in poſſeſsion, 45 That they might z keepe his ſtatutes, and obſerue his Lawes. Prayſe ye the Lord.

4 Remember mee, O Lord, with the c fauour of thy people: viſit mee with thy ſalvation,

5 That I may ſee the felicity of thy choſen, and reioyce in the ioy of thy people, and glory with thine inheritance.

6 Wee haue d ſinned with our fathers: wee haue committed iniquity, and done wickedly.

7 Our fathers vnderſtood not thy wonders in Egypt, neither remembred they the multitude of thy mercies, but rebelled at the Sea, even at the red ſea.

8 Neuertheleſſe he e ſaued them for his Names ſake, that he might make his power to be knowen.

9 And he rebuked the red ſea, and it was dried vp, and he led them in the deepe, as in the wilderneſſe.

10 And he ſaued them from the aduerſaries hand, and delyered them from the hand of the enemy.

11 * And the waters couered their oppreſſors: not one of them was left.

12 Then f beleeued they his wordes, and ſang prayſe vnto him.

13 But incontinently they forgate his workes, they waited not for his g counſell.

a For as much as the Iſraelites were exempted from the common condemnation of the world, and were elected to be Gods people, the Prophet willeth them to ſhew themſelues mindefull by thankſgiuing.
b By the ſtrength and face he meaneth the Arke where God declared his power and his preſence.
c Which he hath wrought in the deliuerance of his people.
d Becauſe his power was thereby as liuely declared, as if he ſhould haue declared it by mouth.
e The promiſe which God made to Abraham to be his God, and the God of his ſeede after him, he renewed and repeated it againe to his ſeede after him.

a The Prophet exhorteth the people to prayſe God for his benefites paſt, that thereby their mindes may be ſtrengthened againſt all preſent troubles and deſpaire.
b He ſheweth that it is not enough to prayſe God with mouth, except the whole heart agree thereunto, and all our life be thereto framed.
c Let the good will that thou beareſt to thy people, extend vnto me, that thereby I may be received into the number of thine.
d By earneſt confeſſion of well of their owne, as of their fathers ſinnes, they ſhew that they had hope that God according to his promiſe would pitie them.
e The inestimable goodneſſe of God appeareth in this, that he would change the order of nature, rather then his people ſhould not be delyered, although they were wicked. * Exod. 14,27.
f The wonderfull workes of God cauſed them to beleeue for a time, and to prayſe him.
g They would preuent his wiſedome and prouidence.

14 But luſted with concupiſcence in the wilderneſſe, and tempted God in the deſert.

15 Then hee gave them their deſire: but hee ſent [h] leanneſſe into their ſoule.

16 They envied Moſes alſo in the tents, and Aaron the holy one of the Lord.

17 Therefore the earth opened and [i] ſwallowed up Dathan, and covered the company of Abiram.

18 And the fire was kindled in their aſſemblie: the flame burnt up the wicked.

19 They made a calfe in Horeb, and worſhipped the molten image.

20 Thus they turned their [k] glory into the ſimilitude of a bullocke, that eateth graſſe.

21 They forgat God their Saviour, which had done great things in Egypt.

22 Wonderous workes in the land of Ham, and fearefull things by the red ſea.

23 Therefore he minded to deſtroy them, had not Moſes his choſen ſtood in the breach before him to turne away his wrath, leaſt hee ſhould deſtroy them.

24 Alſo they contemned [m] that pleaſant land, and beleeved not his word.

25 But murmured in their tents, and hearkened not unto the voyce of the Lord.

26 Therefore [n] hee lifted up his hand againſt them, to deſtroy them in the wilderneſſe, 27 And to deſtroy their ſeede among the nations, and to ſcatter them throughout the countreyes.

28 They ioyned themſelves alſo unto [o] Baalpeor, and did eat the offerings of the [p] dead.

29 Thus they [q] provoked him unto anger with their owne inventions, and the plague brake in upon them.

30 But [r] Phinehas ſtoode up, and executed judgement, and the plague was ſtayed.

31 * And it was [ſ] imputed unto him for righteouſneſſe from generation to generation for ever.

32 They angred him alſo at the waters of * Meribah, ſo that [t] Moſes was puniſhed for their ſakes.

33 Becauſe they vexed his Spirit, ſo that hee ſpake unadviſedly with his lips,

34 Neither deſtroyed they the people, as the Lord had commanded them,

35 But were mingled among the heathen, and learned their workes, 36 And ſerved their idoles, which were their ruine.

37 Yea, they offered their [u] ſonnes, and their daughters unto devils,

38 And ſhed innocent blood, even the blood of their ſonnes, and of their daughters whom they offred unto the idoles of Canaan, and the lande was defiled with blood.

39 Thus were they ſtayned with their owne workes, and went [x] a whoring with their owne inventions.

40 Therefore was the wrath of the Lord kindled againſt his people, and abhorred his owne inheritance.

41 And he gave them into the hand of the heathen: and they that hated them were lordes over them.

42 Their enemies alſo oppreſſed them, and they were humbled under their hand.

43 Many [y] a time did hee deliver them, but they provoked him by their counſels: therefore they provoked him by their iniquitie.

44 Yet he ſaw when they were in affliction, and he heard their cry.

45 And he remembred his covenant toward them, and [z] repented according to the multitude of his mercies.

46 And gave them favour in the ſight of all them that led them captives.

47 Save us, O Lord our God, and [a] gather us from among the heathen, that wee may prayſe thine holy Name, and glory in thy prayſe.

1 The Prophet exhorteth all thoſe that are redeemed by the Lord and gathered unto him, to give thankes. 9 for his mercifull providence of God governing all things at his good pleaſures, 20 ſending good and evill, proſperitie and adverſitie to bring men unto him. 42 Therefore as the righteous thereat reioyce, ſo ſhal the wicked have their mouth ſtopped.

PRayſe [a] the Lord, becauſe hee his good: for his mercy endureth for ever.

2 Let them, [b] which have bene redeemed of the Lord, ſhew how he hath delivered them from the hand of the oppreſſour.

3 And gathered them out of the lands, from the Eaſt and from the Weſt, from the North and from the ‖ South.

4 When they wandred in the deſert and wildernesse out of the way, and found no citie to dwell in,

5 [c] Both hungry and thirſtie, their ſoule fainted in them.

6 Then they cried unto the Lord in their trouble, and he delivered them from their diſtreſſe,

7 And led them forth by the right way, that they might goe to a citie of habitation.

8 Let them therefore confeſſe before the Lord his loving kindneſſe, and his wonderfull workes before the ſonnes of men.

15 Let them therefore confeſſe before the Lord his loving kindneſſe, and his wonderfull workes before the ſonnes of men.

This Psalme is compoſed of two other Pſalmes before the ſeven and fiftieth and ſixtieth. The matter here conteined is, 1 That David ſtirreth himſelfe with heart and voyce to prayſe the Lord, 7 and aſſureth himſelfe of the promiſe of God concerning his kingdome over Iſrael, and his power againſt other nations: 11 Who thought hee ſeeme to forſake us for a time, yet he alone will in the end caſt downe our enemies.

2 Awake viole and harpe, I will awake early.

3 I will prayſe thee, O Lord, among the [b] people, and I will ſing unto thee among the nations.

4 For thy mercy is great above the heavens, and thy trueth unto the cloudes.

5 [c] Exalt thy ſelfe, O God, above the heavens, and let thy glory be upon all the earth.

6 That thy beloved may be delivered: [d] helpe with thy right hand and heare me.

7 God hath ſpoken in his [e] holineſſe: therefore I will reioyce, I ſhall divide Shechem and meaſure the valley of Succoth.

PSAL. CX.

David prophecieth of the power and everlasting kingdome given to Christ, 4 and of his Priesthood, which should put an end to the Priesthood of Levi.

¶ A Psalme of David.

THE a Lord said unto my Lord, Sit thou at my right hand, untill I make thine enemies thy foote stoole.

2 The Lord shall send the rod of thy power out of b Zion: be thou ruler in the middes of thine enemies.

3 Thy people shall come willingly at the time of assembling c thine armie in holy beautie: the youth of thy wombe shalbe as the morning dew.

4 The Lord sware, and will not repent, Thou art a Priest for ever, after the order of d Melchi-zedek.

5 The Lord that is at thy right hand, shall wound kings in the day of his wrath.

6 Hee shalbe judge among the heathen: hee shall fill all with dead bodies, and smite the e head over great countries.

7 Hee shall f drinke of the brooke in the way: therefore shall he lift up his head.

a Iesus Christ in the two and twentie of Matt. verse 44. giveth the interpretation hereof, and sheweth that this cannot properly be applied unto David, but to himselfe.
b And thence it shall stretch thorow all the world: and this power chiefly standeth in the preaching of his word.
c By the word thy people shall be assembled into thy Church whose increase shall be so abundant and wonderfull as the drops of the dew.
d As Melchi-zedek the figure of Christ was both King and Priest: so the effect cannot be accomplished in any king save onely Christ. Heb. 7. 25.
e No power shalbe able to resist him.
f Under this similitude of a captaine, that is so greedie to destroy his enemies, that hee will not scarce drinke by the way, hee sheweth how God will destroy his enemies.

PSAL. CXI.

He giveth thanks to the Lord for his mercifull workes toward his Church, 10 and declareth wherein true wisdome and right knowledge consisteth.

¶ Prayse ye the Lord.

I Will a prayse the Lord with my whole heart in the assembly and the congregation of the iust.

2 The works of the Lord are b great, and ought to be sought out of all them that love them.

3 His worke is beautifull and glorious, and his righteousnesse endureth for ever.

4 Hee hath made his wounderfull workes to be had in remembrance: the Lord is mercifull and full of compassion.

5 He hath given c a portion unto them that feare him: he will ever be mindfull of his covenant.

6 He hath shewed to his people the power of his workes, in giving unto them the heritage of the heathen.

7 The d workes of his hands are trueth and judgement: all his statutes are true.

8 They are established for ever and ever, and are done in trueth and equity.

9 Hee sent redemption unto his people: hee hath commaunded his covenant for ever: holy and fearefull is his Name.

10 e The beginning of wisedome is the feare of the Lord: all they that observe f them, have good understanding: his prayse endureth for ever.

a The Prophet declareth that he will prayse God both privately and openly, and that from the heare, as he that consecrateth himselfe wholy and onely unto God.
b He sheweth that Gods workes are a sufficient cause wherefore we should prayse him, but chiefly his benefits toward his Church.
c God hath given to his people all that was necessarie for them, and will doe still even for his covenants sake, and in this sense the Ebrew word is taken, Prov. 30. 8. and 31. 15.
d As God vouchsafed to take the care of his Church so in effect doth he declare himselfe iust and true in the government of the same.
e They onely are wise, that feare God, and none have understanding, but they that obey the word.
f To wit, his commandements, as verse 7.

PSAL. CXII.

Hee praiseth the felicitie of them that feare God, 10 and condemneth the cursed state of the contemners of God.

2 His seed shalbe mighty upon earth: the generation of the righteous shalbe blessed.

4 Vnto the c righteous ariseth light in darknes: he is mercifull and full of compassion & righteous.

5 A good man is mercifull, and d lendeth, and will measure his affaires by judgement.

6 Surely he shall never be mooved: but the righteous shalbe had in everlasting remembrance.

7 He will not be afraide of evill tidings: for his heart is fixed, and beleeveth in the Lord.

8 His heart is established: therefore he will not feare, untill he see his desire upon his enemies.

9 Hee hath e distributed and given to the poore: his righteousnesse remaineth for ever: his f horne shall be exalted with glory.

10 The wicked shall see it, and be angry: hee shall gnash with his teeth, and g consume away: the desire of the wicked shall perish.

a He meaneth that reverent feare, which is in the children of God, which causeth them to delight onely in the word of God.
b The godly shall have abundance, and contentednes, because their heart is satisfied in God onely.
c The faithfull in all their adversities. Know that all shall goe well with them, for God will be mercifull and just.
d Hee sheweth what is the fruit of mercy to lend freely, and not for gaine: and so to measure his doings that he may be able to help where needs requireth, and not to bestow all on himselfe.
e The godly pinch not niggardly, but distribute liberally, as the necessitie of the poore requireth, and as their power is able.
f His power and prosperous estate.

An exhortation to prayse the Lord for his providence, 7 in that contrary to the course of nature hee worketh in his Church.

¶ Prayse ye the Lord.

PRayse, O yee servants of the Lord, a prayse the Name of the Lord.

2 Blessed be the Name of the Lord from henceforth and for ever.

3 The Lords Name is praysed from the rising of the sunne, unto the going downe of the same.

a By this admonition he stirreth up our cold dulnes to prayse God, seeing his workes are so wounderfull, and that we are created for the same cause.

b If Gods glory shine thorow al the world, and therefore of al ought to be prayed, what great condemnation were it to his people, among whom chiefly it ſhineth, if they ſhould not earneſtly extoll his Name?

5 Who is like unto the Lord our God, that hath his dwelling on high.

6 Who abaſeth himſelfe to beholde things in the heavens and in the earth!

7 Hee rayſeth the needie out of the duſt, and liſteth up the c poore out of the dung.

8 That he may ſet him with the princes, even with the princes of his people.

c By preſerving the poore to high honor and giving the barren children, he ſheweth that God worketh not onely in his Church by ordinary meanes, but alſo by miracles.

b When the wicked ſee that God accompliſheth not his promiſe as they imagine, they thinke there is no God.

2 Wherefore ſhall the heathen ſay, b Where is now their God?

c No impediments can let his worke, but he uſeth even the impediments to ſerve his will.

4 Their idoles are d ſilver and gold, even the worke of mens hands.

d Seeing that neither the matter nor the forme can commend their idoles, it followeth that there is nothing why they ſhould be eſteemed.

6 They have eares, and heare not: they have noſes and ſmell not.

7 They have e hands, and touch not: they have feete, and walke not: neither make they a ſound with their throat.

8 They that make them are f like unto them: ſo are all that truſt in them.

f As much without ſenſe, as blockes and ſtones.

9 O Iſrael, truſt thou in the Lord: for hee is their helpe, and their ſhield.

10 g O houſe of Aaron truſt ye in the Lord, for he is their helpe, and their ſhield.

g For they were appointed by God as inſtructers and teachers of faith and religion for others to follow.

11 Yee that feare the Lord, truſt in the Lord: for he is their helper, and their ſhield.

12 The Lord hath bene mindfull of us, he will bleſſe, he h will bleſſe the houſe of Iſrael, hee will bleſſe the houſe of Aaron.

h That is, he will continue his graces toward his people.

13 Hee will bleſſe them that feare the Lord, both ſmall and great.

14 The Lord will increaſe his graces toward you, even toward you, and toward your children.

i And therefore doeth ſtill governe and continue all things therein.

15 Ye are bleſſed of the Lord, which i made the heaven and the earth.

16 The k heavens, even the heavens are the Lords: but he hath given the earth to the ſonnes of men.

k And they declare enough his ſufficiencie, ſo that the world ſerveth him nothing, but to ſhew his fatherly care toward men.

17 The dead prayſe not the Lord, neither any that l goe downe into the place of ſilence.

l Though the dead ſee forth Gods glorie, yet hee meaneth here, that they prayſe him not in his Church and Congregation.

18 But wee will prayſe the Lord from henceforth and for ever. Prayſe ye the Lord.

PSAL. CXVI.

1 David being in great danger of Saul in the deſert of Maon, perceiving the great and ineſtimable love of God toward him, magnifieth ſuch great mercies. 13 and proteſteth that hee will be thankefull for the ſame.

I a Love the Lord, becauſe hee hath heard my voyce and my prayers.

a Hee granteth that no pleaſure is ſo great, as to feele Gods helpe in our neceſſitie, neither that any thing more ſtirreth up our love toward him.

2 For he hath inclined his eare unto me, when I did call upon him b in my dayes.

b That is, in convenient time to ſeeke helpe, which was when he was in diſtreſſe.

3 When the ſnares of death compaſſed me, and the griefes of the grave caught me: When I found trouble and ſorow.

4 Then I called upon the Name of the Lord, ſaying, I beſeech thee, O Lord, deliver my ſoule.

5 The Lord is c mercifull and righteous, and our God is full of compaſſion.

c He ſheweth forth the fruit of his love in calling upon him, confeſſing him to be juſt and mercifull, and to helpe them that are deſtitutes of aid and counſell.

6 The Lord preſerveth the ſimple: I was in miſery, and he ſaved me.

d Which was unquieted before.

7 Returne unto thy reſt, O d my ſoule: for the Lord hath bene beneficiall unto thee.

8 Becauſe thou haſt delivered my ſoule from death, mine eyes from teares, and my feete from falling.

9 I ſhall e walke before the Lord in the land of the living.

e Now reſt upon the Lord, for hee hath bene beneficiall towards thee.

10 f I beleeved, therefore did I ſpeake: for I was ſore troubled.

f I felt all theſe things, and therefoore was moved by faith to confeſſe them, 2 Cor. 4. 13.

11 I ſayd in my g feare, All men are liars.

g In my great diſtreſſe I thought God would not regard man, which is but lies and vanitie, yet I overcame this temtation, and felt the contrarie.

12 What ſhall I render unto the Lord for all his benefits toward me?

13 I will h take the cup of ſalvation, and call upon the Name of the Lord, h In the Law they uſed to make a banket when they gave ſolemne thankes to God, and to take the cuppe and drinke in ſigne of thankeſgiving.

14 I will pay my vowes unto the Lord, even now in the preſence of all his people.

i I perceive that God hath a care over his, ſo that he both diſpoſeth their death, and taketh an account.

15 Precious in the ſight of the Lord is, the i death of his Saints.

16 Behold, Lord: for I am thy ſervant, I am thy ſervant, and the ſonne of thine handmaide: thou haſt broken my bonds.

17 I will offer to thee a ſacrifice of prayſe, and will call upon the Name of the Lord.

18 I will pay my k vowes unto the Lord, even now in the preſence of all his people.

k I will thanke him for his benefits, for that is a juſt payment, to confeſſe that we owe all to God.

19 In the courts of the Lords houſe, even in the mids of thee, O Ieruſalem, Prayſe ye the Lord.

PSAL. CXVII.

He exhorteth the Gentiles to prayse God, because he hath accomplished as well to them as to the Iewes, the promise of his everlasting loving kindnesse in Iesus Christ.

ALl * nations, prayse ye the Lord: all yee people, prayse him.

2 For his loving kindnesse is great toward us; and the a trueth of the Lord endureth for ever. Prayse ye the Lord.

* Rom. 15.11.
a That is, the most certaine and continuall testimonies of his fatherly graces.

PSAL. CXVIII.

David rejected of Saul and of the people, at the time appointed obteined the kingdome. 4 For the which he biddeth all them, that feare the Lord, to be thankefull. And under his person in all this was Christ lively set forth, who should be of his people reiected.

PRayse a ye the Lord, because he is good: for his mercie endureth for ever.

2 Let Israel now say, That his mercy endureth for ever.

3 Let the house of Aaron now say, That his mercie endureth for ever.

4 Let them that feare the Lord, now say, That his mercie endureth for ever.

5 I called upon the Lord in b trouble, and the Lord heard me, and set me at large.

6 The Lord is with me: therefore I will not feare what c man can doe unto me.

7 The Lord is with me among them y helpe me: therefore shall I see my desire upon mine enemies.

8 It is better to trust in the Lord, then to have confidence d in man.

9 It is better to trust in the Lord, then to have confidence in princes.

10 All nations have compassed me: but in the Name of the Lord shall I destroy them.

11 They have compassed mee, yea, they have compassed mee: but in the Name of the Lord I shall destroy them.

12 They came about me like bees, but they were quenched as a fire of thornes: for in the Name of the Lord I shall destroy them.

13 e Thou hast thrust sore at me, that I might fall: but the Lord hath holpen me.

14 The Lord is my strength and f song: for he hath bene my deliverance.

15 The g voyce of ioy and deliverance shall be in the tabernacles of the righteous, saying, The right hand of the Lord hath done valiantly.

16 The right hand of the Lord is exalted: the right hand of the Lord hath done valiantly.

17 I shall not die, but live, and declare the workes of the Lord.

18 The Lord had chastened me sore, but hee hath not delivered me to death.

19 Open ye unto me the i gates of righteousnes, that I may goe into them, and prayse the Lord.

20 This is the gate of the Lord: the righteous shall enter into it.

21 I will prayse thee: for thou hast heard me, and hast bene my deliverance.

22 * The stone, which the builders k refused, is the head of the corner.

23 This was the Lords doing, and it is marvellous in our eyes.

24 This is the day, which the Lord hath made: let us rejoyce and be glad in it.

a Because God by creating David King, shewed his mercie to ward his afflicted Church, the Prophet doeth not onely himselfe thanke God, but exhorteth all the people to doe the same.
b We are here taught that the more that troubles oppresse us, the more ought we to be instant in prayer.
c Being exalted to this estate, he assured himselfe to have man ever to be his enemie. Yet hee doubted not, but God would maintaine him, because he had placed him.
d Hee sheweth that he had trusted in vaine if he had but his confidence in man, to have bene preferred to the kingdome, and therefore hee put his trust in God and obteined.
e He noteth Saul his chiefe enemie.
f In that he was delivered, it came not of himselfe, nor of the power of man, but onely of Gods favour, therefore he will prayse him.
g He promiseth both to render graces himselfe, and to cause others to doe the same: because that in his person the Church was restored.
h So that all, that are both farre and neere, may see his mightie power.
i He willeth the doores of the Tabernacle to be opened, that he may declare his thankfull minde.
* Isa. 28.16. matt. 21.42. acts 4.11. roman. 9.33. 1. pet. 2.6.7. k Though Saul and the chiefe power refused me to be King, yet God hath preferred me above them all. l wherein God hath shewed chiefly his mercie, by appointing me King, and delivering his Church.

25 m O Lord, I pray thee, save now: O Lord, I pray thee now give prosperitie.

26 Blessed be he, that commeth in the Name of the Lord: n wee have blessed you out of the house of the Lord.

27 The Lord is mightie, and hath given vs o light: binde the sacrifice with cordes vnto the horoes of the altar.

28 Thou art my God, and I will prayse thee, even my God: therefore I will exalt thee.

29 Prayse ye the Lord, because he is good: for his mercie endureth for ever.

m The people pray for the prosperitie of Davids kingdome, who was the figure of Christ.
n Which are the Priests, and have the charge thereof, as Num. 6.23.
o Because he hath restored vs from darkenesse to light, we will offer sacrifices and prayses vnto him.

PSAL. CXIX.

The Prophet exhorteth the children of God to frame their lives according to his holy worde. 123 Also he sheweth wherein the true service of God standeth, that is, when we serve him according to his word, and not after our owne fantasies.

ALEPH.

BLessed are a those that are vpright in their way, and walke in the Law of the Lord.

2 Blessed are they that keepe his testimonies, and seeke him with their whole heart.

3 Surely they worke b none iniquitie; but walke in his wayes.

4 Thou hast commanded to keepe thy precepts diligently.

5 c Oh that my wayes were directed to keepe thy statutes!

6 Then should I not be confounded, when I have respect vnto all thy commandements.

7 I will prayse thee with an vpright d heart, when I shall learne the e iudgements of thy righteousnesse.

8 I will keepe thy statutes: forsake mee not f overlong.

a Here they are not called blessed, which thinke themselves wise in their owne iudgement, nor which imagine to themselves a certaine holinesse, but they whose conversation is without hypocrisie.
b For they are ruled by Gods Spirit and imbrace no doctrine but his.
c David acknowledgeth his imperfection, desiring God to reforme it, that his life may be conformable to Gods word. d For true religion standeth in serving God without hypocrisie. e That is, thy precepts, which containe perfite righteousnesse. f He refuseth not to be tryed by tentations, but he feareth to faint, if God succour not his infirmitie in time.

BETH.

9 Wherewith shall a a yong man redresse his way? in taking heede thereto according to thy word.

10 With my whole heart have I sought thee: let me not wander from thy commandements.

11 I have b hid thy promise in mine heart, that I might not sinne against thee.

12 Blessed art thou, O Lord: teach mee thy statutes.

13 With my lippes have I declared all the iudgements of thy mouth.

14 I have had as great c delight in the way of thy testimonies, as in all riches.

15 I will meditate in thy precepts, and consider thy wayes.

16 I will delite in thy statutes, and I will not forget thy word.

a Because youth is most given to licentiousnesse, hee chiefly warneth them to frame their lives betime to Gods word.
b If Gods word be graven in our hearts, we shall be more able to resist the assaults of Satan: and therefore the Prophet desireth God to instruct him dayly more and more therein.
c The Prophet not boast of his vertues, but setteth foorth an example for others to follow Gods word, and leave worldly vanities.

GIMEL.

17 Be beneficiall vnto thy servant, that I may a liue and keepe thy word.

18 Open mine eyes, that I may see the wonders of thy Law.

19 I am a b stranger vpon earth: hide not thy commandements from me.

20 Mine heart breaketh for the desire to thy iudgements alway.

a Hee sheweth that we ought not to desire to live but to serve God, and that wee can not serve him aright except hee open our eyes and mindes.
b Seeing mans life in this world is but a passage, what should become of him, if thy worde were not his guide?

21 Thou

c In all ages thou hast plagued all such which maliciously and contemptuously departfrom thy trueth.
d When the powers of the world gave false sentence against mee, thy word was a guide and counseller to teach me what to doe, and to comfort mee.

21 Thou c hast destroyed the proud: cursed are they that doe erre from thy commandements.
22 Remoove from me shame and contempt: for I have kept thy testimonies.
23 d Princes also did sit, and speake against me: but thy servant did meditate in thy statutes.
24 Also thy testimonies are my delite, and my counsellers.

DALETH.

a That is, it is almost brought to the grave and without thy word I cannot live.
b I have confessed mine offences, and now depend wholy on thee.
c If God did not maintaine us by his word, our life would drop away like water.
d Instruct me in thy word, wherby my minde may be purged from vanity, and taught to obey thy will.
e By this hee sheweth that woe can neither chuse good, cleave to Gods word, nor runne forward in this way, except hee make our hearts large to receive grace and willing to obey.

25 My soule cleaveth to the a dust: quicken me according to thy word.
26 I have b declared my wayes, and thou heardest me: teach me thy statutes.
27 Make me to understand the way of thy precepts, and I will meditate in thy wondrous works.
28 My soule melteth for heavinesse: rayse me up according to thy c word.
29 Take from me the d way of lying, and grant me graciously thy Law.
30 I have chosen the way of trueth, and thy judgements have I laid before me.
31 I have cleaved to thy testimonies, O Lord: confound me not.
32 I will runne the way of thy commaundements, when thou e shalt inlarge mine heart.

HE.

a He sheweth that he cannot follow on to the end, except God teach him oft times, and leade him forward.
b Not onely in outward conversation, but also with inward affection.
c Hereby meaning all other vices, because that covetousnes is the root of all evill.
d Meaning, all his sences.
e Let me not fall to thy dishonour, but let mine heart still delite in thy gracious word.

33 Teach a me, O Lord, the way of thy statutes, and I will keepe it unto the end.
34 Give me understanding and I will keepe thy Law, yee, I will keepe it with my whole b heart.
35 Direct mee in the path of thy commandements: for therein is my delite.
36 Incline mine heart unto thy testimonies: and not to c covetousnes.
37 Turne away mine d eyes from regarding vanity, and quicken me in thy way.
38 Stablish thy promise to thy servant, because he feareth thee.
39 Take away e my rebuke that I feare: for thy judgements are good.
40 Beholde, I desire thy commandements: f quicken me in thy righteousnesse.

f Give me strength to continue in thy word even to the end.

VAV.

a He sheweth that Gods mercy and love is the first cause of our salvation.
b By trusting in Gods word hee assureth himselfe to be able to confute the slanders of his adversaries.
c They that simply walke after Gods word, have no lesse to intangle them, whereas they that doe contrary are ever in nettes and snares.
d Hee sheweth that the children of God ought not to suffer their fathers glory to be obscured by the vaine pompe of princes.

41 And let thy loving a kindnesse come unto mee, O Lord, and thy salvation according to thy promise.
42 So shall I b make answere unto my blasphemers: for I trust in thy word, 43 And take not the worde of trueth utterly out of my mouth: for I waite for thy judgements.
44 So shall I alway keepe thy Lawe for ever and ever.
45 And I will c walke at libertie: for I seeke thy precepts.
46 I will speake also of thy testimonies before d Kings, and will not be ashamed.
47 And my delite shall be in thy Commandements, which I have loved.
48 Mine handes also will I lift up unto thy Commandements, which I have loved, and I will meditate in thy statutes.

ZAIN.

a Though hee feele Gods hand still to lie upon him, yet he resteth on his promise, and comforteth himselfe therein.
b Meaning, the wicked, which contemne Gods word, and treade his Religion under foote.
c That is, the examples, whereby thou declarest thy selfe to be iudge of the world.
d That is, a vehement teale to thy glory and indignation against the wicked. e In the course of this exile. f Even when other sleepe. g That is, all these benefits.

49 Remember a the promise made to thy servant, wherein thou hast caused me to trust.
50 It is my comfort in my trouble, for thy promise hath quickened me.
51 The b proud have had me exceedingly in derision: yet have I not declined from thy law.
52 I remembred thy c iudgements of olde, O Lord, and have bene comforted.
53 d Feare is come upon mee for the wicked, that forsake thy Law.
54 Thy statutes have beene my songs in the house of my e pilgrimage.
55 I have remembred thy Name, O Lord, in the f night, and have kept thy Law.
56 g This I had because I kept thy precepts.

CHETH.

a I am perswaded that to keepe thy Lawe is an heritage and great gaine for me.
b He sheweth that none can imbrace the word of God, except he consider his owne imperfections and wayes.
c They have gone about to draw me into their company.
d Not onely in mutuall consent, but also with aide and succour.
e For the knowledge of Gods word is a singular token of his favour.

57 O Lord, that art my a portion, I have determined to keepe thy words.
58 I made my supplication in thy presence with my whole heart: be mercifull unto mee according to thy promise.
59 I have considered my b wayes, and turned my feet into thy testimonies.
60 I made haste and delayed not to keepe thy commandements.
61 The bands of the wicked have c robbed me: but I have not forgotten thy Law.
62 At midnight will I rise to give thanks unto thee, because of thy righteous iudgements.
63 I am d companion of all them that feare thee, and keepe thy precepts.
64 The earth, O Lord, is full of thy mercy: e teach me thy statutes.

TETH.

a Having prooved by experience that God was true in his promise, hee desireth that he would increase in him knowledge and iudgement.
b So Ieremie saith, that before the Lord touched him, he was like a calfe untamed: so that the use of Gods rods, is to call us home to God.
c Their heart is indurate and hardened: puffed up with prosperitie and vaine estimation of themselves, d He confesseth that before that hee was chastened, he was rebellious, as men by nature is.

65 O Lord, thou hast dealth a graciously with thy servant, according unto thy word.
66 Teach me good iudgement and knowledge: for I have beleeved thy commandements.
67 Before I was b afflicted, I went astray: but now I keepe thy word.
68 Thou art good and gracious: teach mee thy statutes.
69 The proud have imagined a lie against me: but I will keep thy precepts with my whole heart.
70 c Their heart is fat as grease, but my delight is in thy Law.
71 It is d good for me that I have bene afflicted, that I may learne thy statutes.
72 The Law of thy mouth is better unto mee, then thousands of gold and silver.

IOD.

a Because God leaveth not his worke that he hath begun, he desireth a new grace: that is, that hee would continue his mercies.
b When God sheweth his grace toward any, he teacheth to others, that he falleth not them that trust in him.
† Hebr. so many.

73 Thine hands have a made mee and fashioned me: give mee understanding therefore, that I may learne thy commandements.
74 So they that b feare thee, seeing mee, shall reioyce, because I have trusted in thy word.
75 I know, O Lord, that thy iudgements are right, and that thou hast afflicted me † iustly.
76 I pray thee that thy mercie may comfort me, according to thy promise unto thy servant.
77 Let thy tender mercies come unto me, that I may c live: for thy Law is my delight.
78 Let the proude be ashamed: for they have a He declareth, that when he felt not Gods mercies, he was as dead.

dealt dealt wickedly and falsly with me: but I meditate in thy precepts.

79 Let such as feare thee [d] turne unto me, and they that [e] know thy testimonies.

80 Let mine heart be upright in thy statutes, that I be not ashamed.

d That is, be comforted by mine example.
e He sheweth that there can be no true feare of God without the knowledge of his word.

C A P H.

81 My soule [a] fainted for thy salvation: yet I wait for thy word.

82 Mine eyes fayle for thy promise, saying, When wilt thou comfort me?

83 For I am like [b] a bottle in the smoake, yet doe I not forget thy statutes.

84 How many are the [c] dayes of thy servant? When wilt thou execute iudgement on them that persecute me?

85 The proud have [d] digged pits for me, which is not after thy Law.

86 All thy commaundements are true: they persecute me falsly: [e] helpe me.

87 They had almost consumed [f] me upon the earth: but I forsooke not thy precepts.

88 Quicken me according to thy loving kindnes: so shall I keepe the testimony of thy mouth.

a Though my strength faile me, yet my soule groneth and figheth, resting still in thy word.
b Like a skinbottle or bladder y is parched in the smoake.
c How long wilt thou afflict thy servant.
d They have not onely oppressed me violently, but also craftily conspired against me.
e He alludeth himselfe, that God will deliver his and destroy such as unjustly persecute them.
f Finding no helpe in earth, he lifteth up his eyes to heaven.

L A M E D.

89 O Lord, thy word endureth for ever in [a] heaven.

90 Thy trueth is from generation to generation: thou hast layed the foundation of the earth, and it abideth.

91 They [b] continue even to this day by thine ordinances: for all are thy servants.

92 Except thy law had bin my delite, I should now have perished in mine affliction.

93 I will never forget thy precepts: for by them thou hast quickened me.

94 I am [b] thine, save me: for I have sought thy precepts.

95 The wicked have waited for me to destroy me: but I will consider thy testimonies.

96 I [d] have seene an end of all perfection: but thy commandement is exceeding large.

a Because none should esteeme Gods word according to the changes of things in this world, he sheweth that it abideth in heaven; and therefore is immutable.
b Seeing the earth and all creatures remaine in that estate wherein thou hast created them, much more thy trueth remaineth constant and unchangeable.
c He prooveth by effect, that he is Gods child, because hee seeketh to understand his word.
d There is nothing so perfect in earth, but it had an end, onely Gods word lasteth for ever.

M E M.

97 Oh how love I thy law! it is my meditation [a] continually.

98 By thy commandements thou hast made me wiser then mine enemies: for they are euer [b] me.

99 I have had more [b] understanding then all my teachers: for thy testimonies are my meditation.

100 I understood more then the ancient, because I kept thy precepts.

101 I have refrained my feet from every evill way, that I might keepe thy word.

102 I have not declined from thy iudgements: for [c] thou diddest teach me.

103 How sweet are thy promises unto my mouth! yea, more then hony unto my mouth.

104 By thy precepts I have gotten understanding: therefore I hate all the wayes of falshood.

a He sheweth that we cannot love Gods word, except we exercise our selves therein and practise it.
b Whosoever doeth submit himselfe onely to Gods word, shall not only be safe against the practises of his enemies, but also learne more wisdome then they that professe it, and are men of experience.
c So then of our selves we can doe nothing: but when God doth inwardly instruct us with his spirit, we feele his graces sweeter then hony.

N U N.

105 Thy word is [a] a lanterne unto my feete, and a light unto my paths.

106 I have [b] sworne and will performe it, that I will keepe thy righteous iudgements.

a Of our selves we are but darknesse and cannot see, except we be lightened with Gods word.
b So all the faithfull ought to bind themselves to God by a solemne oath and promise, to stirre up their zeale to embrace Gods word.

107 I am very sore afflicted: O Lord, quicken me according to thy word.

108 O Lord, I beseech thee, accept the [c] free offering of my mouth, and teach me thy iudgements.

109 My [d] soule is continually in mine hand: yet doe I not forget thy law.

110 The wicked have laid a snare for me: but I swarved not from thy precepts.

111 Thy testimonies have I taken as an [e] heritage for ever: for they are the ioy of mine heart.

112 I have applyed mine heart to fulfill thy statutes alway, even unto the end.

c That is, my prayers and thankesgiving which sacrifice Hosea calleth the calves of the lips. Chap. 14. verse 3.
d That is, I am in continuall danger of my life.
e I esteemed no worldly things, but made thy word mine inheritance.

S A M E C H.

113 I hate [a] vaine inventions: but thy Law doe I love.

114 Thou art my refuge and shield, and I trust in thy word.

115 [b] Away from mee, yee wicked: for I will keepe the commandements of my God.

116 Stablish me according to thy promise, that I may live, and dissappoint me not of mine hope.

117 [c] Stay thou me, and I shalbe safe, and I will delight continually in thy statutes.

118 Thou hast troden downe all them that depart from thy statutes: for their [d] deceit is vaine.

119 Thou hast taken away all the wicked of the earth like [e] drosse: therefore I love thy testimonies.

120 My flesh [f] trembleth for feare of thee, and I am afraid of thy iudgements.

a Whosoever will embrace Gods word a right, must abhorre all fantasies and imaginations both of himselfe and others.
b And hinder me not to keepe the Law of the Lord.
c He desireth Gods continuall assistance, least he should faint in this race, which he had begun.
d The craftie practises of them that contemne thy Law, shall be brought to nought.
e Which infected thy people, as drosse doth the mettall.
f Thy iudgements doe not onely teach me obedience, but cause me to feare, considering mine owne weakenesse, which feare causeth repentance.

A I N.

121 I have executed iudgement and iustice: leave me not to mine oppressour.

122 [a] Answere for thy servant in that which is good, and let not the proud oppresse me.

123 Mine eyes have fayled in vvayting for thy salvation, and for thy iust promise.

124 Deale with thy [b] servant according to thy mercy, and teach me thy statutes.

125 I am thy servant: grant me therefore understanding, that I may know thy testimonies.

126 It is [c] time for thee, Lord, to worke: for they have destroyed thy Law.

127 Therefore love I thy commandements above gold, yea, above most fine gold.

128 Therefore I esteemed all thy precepts most iust, and hate all false [d] wayes.

a Put thy selfe betweene mine enemies and me, as if thou were my pledge.
b He boasteth not that he is Gods servant, but heereby putteth God in mind that as he made him his by his grace, so hee would continue his favour toward him.
c The Prophet sheweth that when the wicked have brought all things to confusion, and Gods word to utter contempt, then it is Gods time to helpe and send remedy.
d That is, whatsoever dissenteth from the purity of thy word.

P E.

129 Thy testimonies are [a] wonderfull: therefore doth my soule keepe them.

130 The entrance into thy [b] wordes sheweth light, and giveth understanding to the simple.

131 I opened my mouth, and [c] panted, because I loved thy commandements.

132 Looke upon mee and be mercifull unto me, as thou usest to doe unto those that love thy Name.

133 Direct my steps in thy word, and let none iniquity have dominion over me.

134 Deliver mee from the oppression of men, and I will keepe thy precepts.

135 Shew the light of thy countenance upon thy servant, and teach me thy statutes.

a Containing hie and secret mysteries, so that I am moved with admiration and reverence.
b The simple idiots that submit themselves to God, have their eyes opened and their minds illuminated, so soone as they begin to reade Gods word.
c My zeale toward thy word was so great.

136 Mine eyes guiſh d out with rivers of water, becauſe they keepe not thy Law.

TSADDI.

137 Righteous art thou, O Lord, and iuſt are thy iudgements.

138 Thou haſt commanded a iuſtice by thy teſtimonies and trueth eſpecially.

139 * My zeale hath even conſumed mee: becauſe mine enemies have forgotten thy words.

140 Thy word is prooved b moſt pure, and thy ſervant loveth it.

141 I am c ſmall and deſpiſed: yet doe I not forget thy precepts.

142 Thy righteouſnes is an everlaſting righteouſnes, and thy Law is trueth.

143 Trouble and anguiſh are come upon me: yet are thy commandements my delight.

144 The righteouſneſſe of thy teſtimonies is everlaſting: grant me underſtanding, and I ſhall d live.

KOPH.

145 I have a cried with my whole heart: heare me, O Lord, and I will keepe thy ſtatutes.

146 I called upon thee: ſave me, and I will keepe thy teſtimonies.

147 I prevented the morning light, and cried: for I waited on thy word.

148 Mine eyes b prevent the night watches, to meditate in thy word.

149 Heare my voyce according to thy loving kindneſſe: O Lord, quicken me according to thy [i] iudgement.

150 They draw neere that follow after c malice, and are farre from thy Law.

151 Thou art neere, O Lord: for all thy commandements are true.

152 I have knowen long ſince a by thy teſtimonies, that thou haſt eſtabliſhed them for ever.

RESH.

153 Behold mine affliction, and deliver me: for I have not forgotten thy law.

154 Pleade my cauſe, and deliver me: quicken me according to thy a word.

155 Salvation is farre from the wicked, becauſe they ſeeke not thy ſtatutes.

156 Great art thy tender mercies, O Lord: quicken me according to thy b iudgements.

157 My perſecutors and mine oppreſſours are many: yet doe I not ſwarve from thy teſtimonies.

158 I ſaw the tranſgreſſors and was c grieved, becauſe they kept not thy word.

159 Conſider, O Lord, how I d love thy precepts: quicken me according to thy loving kindneſſe.

160 The e beginning of thy word is trueth, and all the iudgements of thy righteouſnes endure for ever.

SCHIN.

161 Princes have a perſecuted mee without cauſe: but mine heart ſtood in awe of thy words.

162 I reioyce at thy word, as one that findeth a great ſpoyle.

163 I hate falſhood and abhorre it, but thy Law doe I love.

164 b Seven times a day doe I praiſe thee, becauſe of thy righteous iudgements.

165 They that c love thy law, ſhall have great proſperity, and they ſhall have none hurt.

166 Lord, I have d truſted in thy ſalvation, and have done thy commandements.

167 My ſoule haith kept thy teſtimonies: for I love them exceedingly.

168 I have kept thy precepts and thy teſtimonies: e for all my wayes are before thee.

TAV.

169 Let my complaine come before thee, O Lord, and give me underſtanding a according unto thy word.

170 Let my ſupplication come before thee, and deliver me according to thy promiſe.

171 My lips ſhall b ſpeake prayſe, when thou haſt c taught me thy ſtatutes.

172 My tongue ſhall intreate of thy word: for all thy commandements are righteous.

173 Let thine hand helpe me: for I have choſen thy precepts.

174 I have longed for thy ſalvation, O Lord, and thy Law is my delight.

175 Let my ſoule live, and it ſhall prayſe thee, and thy d iudgements ſhall helpe me.

176 I have e gone aſtray like a loſt ſheepe: ſeeke thy ſervant, for I doe not forget thy commaundements.

d He ſheweth that we muſt firſt have faith before we can worke and pleaſe God.
e I had no reſpect of men, but ſet thee alwayes before mine eyes, as the iudge of my doings.
a As thou haſt promiſed to be the ſchoolmaſter unto all them that depend upon thee.
b The word ſignifieth to powre forth continually.
c All his prayer and deſire is to profit in the word of God.
d This is thy providence eare over me, and wherewith thou wilt iudge mine enemies.
e Being chaſed to and fro by mine enemies, and having no place to reſt in.

PSAL. CXX.

a The prayer of David being vexed by the falſe reports of Saules flatterers. 5 And therefore he lamenteth his long abode among thoſe infidels, 7 Who were given to all kinde of wickednes and contention.

¶ A ſong of a degrees.

I Called unto the Lord in my b trouble, and hee heard me.

2 Deliver my ſoule, O Lord, from lying lips, and from a deceitfull tongue.

3 What doeth thy c deceitfull tongue bring unto thee? or what doeth it availe thee?

4 It is as the d ſharpe arrowes of a mightie man, and as the coales of Iuniper.

5 Woe is to me that I remaine in e Meſhech, and dwell in the tents of f Kedar.

6 My ſoule hath too long dwelt with him that hateth peace.

7 I ſeeke g peace, and when I ſpeake thereof, they are bent to warre.

a That is, of lifting up the tune and riſing in ſinging.
b Albeit the children of God ought to reioyce when they ſuffer for righteous ſake, yet it is a great griefe to the fleſh to heare evill for well doing.
c He aſſured himſelfe that God would turne their craft to their owne deſtruction.
d He ſheweth that there is nothing ſo ſharpe to pierce, nor ſo hot to ſet on fire, as a ſlandrous tongue.
e Theſe were people of Arabia, which came of Iapher, Geneſis 10, 2. f That is, of the Iſhmaelites. g He declareth what he meaneth by Meſhech, and Kedar, to wit, the Iſraelites which had degenerate from their godly fathers, and hated and contended againſt the faithfull.

PSAL. CXXI.

1 This Pſalme teacheth that the faithfull ought onely to looke for helpe at God, 7 who onely doth maintaine, preſerve and proſper his Church.

¶ A ſong of degrees.

I Will lift up mine eyes ‖ unto the mountaines, from whence my helpe ſhall come.

2 Mine helpe commeth from the Lord, which hath made the a heaven and the earth.

3 He will not ſuffer thy foot to ſlip: for he that keepeth thee, will not b ſlumber.

4 Behold, he that keepeth Iſrael, will neither ſlumber nor ſleepe.

5 The Lord is thy keeper: the Lord is thy ſhadow at thy right hand.

6 The ſunne ſhall not c ſmite thee by day, nor the moone by night.

‖ Or, about the mountaines: meaning, that there is nothing ſo high in this world, wherein he can truſt, but onely in God.
a He accuſeth mans ingratitude, which cannot depend on Gods power.
b He ſheweth that Gods providence not onely watcheth over his Church in generall: but alſo over every member thereof. c Neither heat nor cold, nor any incommodity ſhall be able to deſtroy Gods Church, albeit for a time they may moleſt it.

d He ſheweth what ought to be the zeale of Gods children, when they ſee his word contemned.

a We cannot confeſſe God to be righteous, except we live uprightly and truely, as he hath commanded.
* Pſal 69, 9. Iohn 2, 17.
b Gold hath need to be fined, but thy word is perfection it ſelfe.
c This is the true triall, to prayſe God in adverſity.
d So that the life of man without the knowledge of God, is death.

a He ſheweth that all his affections and whole heart were bent to Godward for to have helpe in his dangers.
b He was more earneſt in the ſtudy of Gods word, then they that kept the watch were in their charge.
‖ Or, euſtome.
c He ſheweth the nature of the wicked to be to perſecute againſt their conſcience.
d His faith is grounded upon Gods word, that he would ever beat hand when his children be oppreſſed.

a For without Gods promiſe there is no hope of deliverance.
b According to thy promiſe made in the law, which becauſe the wicked lacke, they can have no hope of ſalvation.
c My zeale conſumed me when I ſaw their malice and contempt of thy glory.
d It is a ſure ſigne of our adoption, when ye love the Law of God.
e Since thou firſt promiſedſt, even to the end all thy ſayings are true.

a The threatnings and perſecutions of princes could not cauſe me to ſhrinke to confeſſe thee, whom I more feare then men.
b That is, often and ſundry times.
c For their conſcience aſſureth them, that they pleaſe thee, whereas they that love not thee, have the contrary.

d Whatsoever thou doest enterprise, shall have good successe.

7 The Lord shall preserve thee from all evill: he shall keepe thy soule.

8 The Lord shall preserve thy d going out, and thy comming in from henceforth and for ever.

PSAL. CXXII.

1 David reioyceth in the name of the faithfull, that God hath accomplished his promise and placed his Arke in Zion. 3 For the which he giveth thankes. 8 And prayeth for the prosperitie of the Church.

¶ A song of degrees, or Psalme of David.

I * a Reioyced when they said to me, We will goe into the house of the Lord.

* 1. Chron. 13. 9.

a He reioyceth that God had appointed a place, where the Arke should still remaine.

2 Our b feete shall stand in thy gates, O Ierusalem.

b Which were wont to wander to and fro, as the Arke removed.

3 Ierusalem is builded as a citie, that is c compact together in it selfe:

c By the artificiall ioyning and beautie of the houses, he meaneth the concord and love that was betweene the citizens.

4 Whereunto d the Tribes, even the Tribes of the Lord go up according to the testimonie to Israel, to praise the Name of the Lord, d All the tribes according to Gods covenant shall come and pray there.

5 For there are thrones set for iudgement, even the thrones of the house of e David.

e In whose house God placed the throne of iustice, and made it a figure of Christs kingdome.

6 Pray for the peace of Ierusalem: let them prosper that love thee.

7 Peace be within thy f walles, and prosperitie within thy palaces.

f The favour of God prosper thee both within and without.

8 For my g brethren and neighbours sakes, I will wish thee now prosperitie.

g Not only for mine owne sake, but for all the faithfull.

9 Because of the House of the Lord our God, I will procure thy wealth.

PSAL. CXXIII.

1 A prayer of the faithfull, which were afflicted either in Babylon or vnder Antiochus, by the wicked worldlings and contemners of God.

¶ A song of degrees.

I Lift up mine eyes to thee, that dwellest in the heavens.

a He compareth the condition of the godly, to servants that are destitute of all helpe, assuring that when all other helpes faile, God is ever at hand and like himselfe.

2 Behold, as the eyes of a servants looke unto the hand of their masters, and as the eyes of a maiden unto the hand of her mistresse: so our eyes waite upon the Lord our God, vntill he have mercie upon vs.

b He declareth that when the faithfull are so full, that they can no more endure the oppressions and scornings of the wicked, there is alway helpe above, if with hungry desires they call for it.

3 Have mercie unto us, O Lord, have mercie upon us: for wee have b suffered too much contempt.

4 Our soule is filled too full of the mocking of the wealthy, and of the dispitefulnesse of the proud.

PSAL. CXXIV.

1 The people of God, escaping a great perill, doe acknowledge themselves to be delivered, not by their owne force, but by the power of God. 4 They declare the greatnesse of the perill. 6 And praise the Name of God.

¶ A song of degrees, or Psalme of David.

a He sheweth that God was ready to helpe at neede, and that there was none other way to be saved, but by his onely meanes.

I F the Lord had not beene a on our side, (may Israel now say)

b So vnable were we to resist.

2 If the Lord had not bene on our side, when men rose up against vs,

3 They had then swallowed us up b quicke, when their wrath was kindled against us.

c He vseth most proper similitudes to expresse the great danger that the Church was in, and out of the which God miraculously delivered them.

4 Then the c waters had drowned us, and the streame had gone over our soule:

5 Then had the swelling waters gone over our soule.

6 Praysed be the Lord, which hath not given vs as a pray unto their teeth.

7 Our soule is escaped, even as a bird out of the d snare of the foulers: the snare is broken, and we are delivered.

d For the wicked did not onely furiously rage against the faithfull, but craftily imagined to destroy them.

8 Our helpe is in the Name of the Lord, which hath made heaven and earth.

PSAL. CXXV.

1 He describeth the assurance of the faithfull in their afflictions. 4 And desireth their wealth. 5 And the destruction of the wicked.

THey that trust in the Lord, shall be as mount Zion, which cannot a be remooved, but remaineth for ever.

a Though the world be subiect to mutations, yet the people of God shall stand sure, and be defended by Gods providence.

2 As the mountaines are about Ierusalem: so is the Lord about his people from henceforth and for ever.

b Though God suffer his to be vnder the crosse, least they should embrace wickednes, yet this crosse shall not so rest upon them, that it should drive them from hope.

3 For the b rod of the wicked shall not rest on the lot of the righteous, least the righteous put forth their hand unto wickednesse.

4 Doe well, O Lord, unto those that be good and true in their hearts.

c He desireth God to purge his Church from hypocrites, and such as have no zeale of the trueth.

5 c But these that turne aside by their crooked wayes, them shall the Lord leade with the workers of iniquitie: but peace shall be upon Israel.

PSAL. CXXVI.

1 This Psalme was made after the returne of the people from Babylon, and sheweth that the meane of their deliverance was wonderfull after the seventie yeeres of captivitie foretspoken by Ieremie, Chap. 25. 12. and 29. 10.

¶ A song of degrees, or Psalme of David.

WHen the Lord brought againe the captivitie of Zion, wee were like them that a dreame.

a Their deliverance was as a thing incredible, and therefore tooke alway all excuse of ingratitude.

2 Then was our mouth b filled with laughter, and our tongue with ioy: then said they among the c heathen, The Lord hath done great things for them.

b He sheweth how the godly ought to reioyce when God gathereth his Church or delivereth it.

3 The Lord hath done great things for us, whereof we reioyce.

c If the infidels confesse Gods wonderfull worke, the faithfull can never shew themselves sufficiently thankefull.

4 O Lord, bring againe our captivitie, as the d rivers in the South.

d It is no more impossible to God to deliver his people, then to cause the rivet to runne in the wildernesse and barren places.

5 They that sowe in teares, shall reape in ioy.

6 They went weeping, and caried e precious seede: but they shall returne with ioy, and bring their sheaves.

e That is, seede, which was scarce and deare: meaning, that they which trusted in Gods promise to returne, had their desire.

PSAL. CXXVII.

1 He sheweth that the whole estate of the world, both domesticall and politicall, standeth by Gods meere providence and blessing. 3 And that to have children well nurtured, is an especiall grace and gift of God.

¶ A song of degrees, or Psalme of Salomon.

EXcept the Lord a build the house, they labour in vaine that build it: except the Lord keepe the b citie, the keeper watcheth in vaine.

a That is, governe and dispose all things pertaining to the familie.

2 It is in vaine for c you to rise earely, and to lie downe late, and eat the bread d of sorow: but hee will surely give e rest to his beloved.

b The publike estate to the common-wealth.

3 Behold, children are the inheritance of the Lord, and the fruit of the wombe his reward.

c Which watch and ward, and are also magistrates, and rulers of the citie.

4 As are the arrowes in the hand of the strong man, so are the f children of youth.

d Either that which is gotten by hard labour, or eaten with griefe of minde.

5 Blessed is the man that hath his quiver full of them: for they g shall not be ashamed, when they speake with their enemies in the gate.

e Not exempting them from labour, but making their labours comfortable, and as it were a rest.

f That is, endued with strength and vertues from God: for these are figures of Gods blessings, and not the number.

g Such children shall be able to stop their adversaries mouthes, when their goldly life is maliciously accused before Iudges.

PSAL. CXXVIII.

1 He sheweth that blessednesse appertaineth not to all vniuersally; but to them onely that feare the Lord, and walke in his wayes.

¶ A song of degrees.

a God approoveth not our life, except it be reformed according to his word.

B Lessed is every one that feareth the Lord, and walketh in his a wayes,

2 When thou eatest the labours of thine b hands, thou shalt be blessed, and it shallbe well with thee.

3 Thy wife shallbe as the fruitfull vine on the sides of thine house, and thy c children like the olive plants round about thy table

4 Lo, surely thus shall the man be blessed, that feareth the Lord.

b The word esteemeth them happy, which live in wealth and idlenesse: but the holy Ghost approoveth them best that live of the meane profite of their labours.

5 The Lord out of Zion shall d blesse thee, and thou shalt see the wealth of e Ierusalem all the dayes of thy life.

c Because Gods favour appeareth in none outward thing, more then in increase of children, he promiseth to enrich the faithfull with this gift.

6 Yea, thou shalt see thy childrens children, and peace vpon Israel.

d Because of the spirituall blessing which God hath made to his Church, the temporall things shall be graunted. e For except God blessed his Church publikely, his private blessing were nothing.

PSAL. CXXIX.

1 He admonisheth the Church to reioyce though it be afflicted. 4 For by the righteous Lord it shall be deliuered. 6 And the enemies for all their glorious shew, shall suddenly be destroyed.

¶ A song of degrees.

a The Church now afflicted, ought to remember how her condition hath ever beene such from the beginning to be molested most grieuously by the wicked: yet in time it hath ever beene delivered.

T Hey have oftentimes afflicted mee from my youth (may a Israel now say.)

2 They have oftentimes afflicted me from my youth: but they could not preuaile against mee.

3 The plowers plowed vpon my backe, and made long furrowes.

4 But the b righteous Lord hath cut the cords of the wicked.

b Because God is righteous, he cannot but plague his aduersaries, and deliver his as oxen out of the plough.

5 They that hate Zion, shall be all ashamed and turned backward.

6 c They shall be as the grasse on the house tops, which withereth afore it commeth forth.

c The enemies that lift themselves most high, and as it were approach neere to the Sunne, are consumed with the heat of Gods wrath, because they are not grounded in godly humilitie.

7 Whereof the mower filleth not his hand, neither the glainer his lap:

8 d Neither they which goe by, say, The blessing of the Lord be vpon you, or, We blesse you in the Name of the Lord.

d That is, the wicked shall perish, and none shall passe for them.

PSAL. CXXX.

1 The people of God from their bottomlesse miseries doe cry vnto God, and are heard. 3 They confesse their sinnes, and flee vnto Gods mercies.

¶ A song of degrees.

a Being in great distresse and sorow.

O Ut of the a deepe places have I called vnto thee, O Lord.

2 Lord, heare my voyce: let thine eares attend to the voyce of my prayers.

b He declareth that we cannot be iust before God, but by forgiuenesse of sinnes.

3 If thou, O Lord, straightly markest iniquities, O Lord, b who shall stand?

c Because of nature thou art mercifull: therefore the faithfull reverence thee.

4 But mercie is with thee, that thou c mayest be feared.

5 I have waited on the Lord: my soule hath waited, and I have trusted in his word.

6 My soule waiteth on the Lord more then the morning watch watcheth for the morning.

d He sheweth to whom the mercy of God doeth appertaine: to Israel, that is, to the Church and not to the reprobate.

7 Let Israel waite on the Lord; for with the Lord is d mercie, and with him is great redemption.

8 And hee shall redeeme Israel from all his iniquities.

PSAL. CXXXI.

1 David charged with ambition and greedie desire to reigne, protesteth his humilitie and modestie before God, and teacheth all men what they should doe.

¶ A song of degrees, or Psalme of David.

a He setteth forth his great humility, as an example to all rulers and governours.

L Ord, a mine heart is not hautie, neither are mine eyes lofty, neither have I walked in great b matters and hid from me.

b Which passe the measure and limits of his vocation.

2 Surely I have behaved my selfe, like one wained from his mother, and kept silence: I am in my selfe as one that is c wained.

c He was void of ambition and wicked desires.

3 Let Israel waite on the Lord from hencefoorth and for ever.

PSAL. CXXXII.

1 The faithfull grounding on Gods promise made vnto David, desire that he would establish the same, both as touching his posteritie, and the building of the Temple, to pray there as was foretspoken, Deut. 12. 5.

¶ A song of degrees.

a That is, with how great difficultie he came to the kingdom, and with how great zeale and care he went about to build thy Temple.

L Ord, remember David with all his a affliction.

2 Who sware vnto the Lord, and vowed vnto the mightie God of Iaakob, saying,

3 I b will not enter into the Tabernacle of mine house, nor come vpon my pallet or bed, b Because the chiefe charge of the king was to set foorth Gods glory, he sheweth that he could take no rest, neither would goe about any worldly thing, were it never so necessarie, before he had executed his office.

4 Nor suffer mine eyes to sleepe, nor mine eye lids to slumber.

5 Untill I finde out a place for the c Lord, an habitation for the mightie God of Iaakob.

c That is, the Arke, which was a figure of Gods presence.

6 Lo, we heard of it in d Ephrathah, and found it in the fields of the forrest.

d The common bruit was that the Arke should remaine in Ephrathah, that is, in Bethlehem a plentifull place: but after we perceived that thou wouldest place it in Ierusalem, which was barren as a forrest, and compassed about onely with hilles.

7 Wee will enter into his Tabernacles, and worship before his footstoole.

8 Arise, O Lord, to come into thy e rest, thou, and the Arke of thy strength.

e That is, Ierusalem, because that afterward his Arke should remoove to none other place.

9 Let thy Priests be cloathed with frighteousnesse, and let thy Saints reioyce.

10 For thy g servant Davids sake refuse not the face of thine Anoynted.

f Let the effect of thy grace both appeare in the Priests and in the people.

11 The Lord hath sworne in trueth vnto David, and he will not shrinke from it, saying, Of the fruit of thy body will I set vpon thy throne, 12 If thy sonnes keepe my Covenant, and my testimonies, that I shall teach them, their sonnes also shall sit vpon thy throne for h ever.

13 For the Lord hath chosen Zion, and loved to dwell in it, saying,

14 This is my rest for ever: here will I dwell, for I have a i delight therein, 15 I will surely blesse her vitailes, and will satisfie her poore with bread.

16 And will cloathe her Priests with k salvation, and her Saints shall shout for ioy.

17 There will I make the l horne of David to bud: for I have ordeined a light for mine Anoynted.

18 His enemies will I cloathe with shame, but on him his crowne shall florish.

g As thou first madest promise to David, so continue it to his posteritie, that whatsoever they shall aske for their people, it may be granted.

h Because this cannot be accomplished but in Christ, it followeth that the promise was spirituall.

i Meaning, for his owne sake, and not for the plentifulnesse of the place: for he promiseth to blesse it, declaring before that it was barren.

k That is, with my protestion, whereby they shalbe safe.

l Though his force for a time seemed to be broken, yet he promiseth to restore it.

PSAL. CXXXIII.

1 This Psalme contayneth the commendation of brotherly amitie among the seruants of God.

¶ A song of degrees, or Psalme of David.

a Because the greatest part were against David, though some favoured him, yet when hee was established kinglat length, they ioyned all together like brethren: and therefore he sheweth by these similitudes the commoditie of brotherly love.

B Eholde, how good and how comely a thing it is, brethren to dwell even a together.

2 It is like to the precious b oyntment upon the head, that runneth downe upon the beard, even unto Aarons beard, which went downe on the border of his garments.

3 And as the dew of c Hermon which falleth upon the mountaines of Zion: for d there the Lord appoynted the bleſſing and life for ever.

b The oyntment was a figure of the graces which come from Chriſt the head upon his Church.
c By Hermon and Zion he meaneth the plentifull countrey about Ieruſalem.
d Where there is ſuch concord.

PSAL. CXXXIV.

1 He exhorteth the Levites watching in the Temple, to praiſe the Lord.

¶ A ſong of degrees.

BEhold, praiſe ye the Lord, all yee a ſervants of the Lord, yee that by night ſtand in the houſe of the Lord.

2 Lift up your b hands to the Sanctuary, and praiſe the Lord.

3 The Lord that c hath made heaven and earth, bleſſe thee out of Zion.

a Ye that are Levites and chiefly appointed to this office.
b For their charge was not onely to keepe the Temple, but to pray there and to give God thanks.
c And therefore hath all power, bleſſe thee with his Fatherly love declared in Zion. Thus the Levites uſed to praiſe the Lord, and bleſſe the people.

PSAL. CXXXV.

1 He exhorteth all the faithfull, of what eſtate ſoever they be, to praiſe God for his marvellous workes. 12 And ſpecially for his graces toward his people, wherein he hath declared his Maieſtie. 15 To the confuſion of all idolaters and their idoles.

¶ Praiſe ye the Lord.

PRayſe, the Name of the Lord; yee ſervants of the Lord, praiſe him.

2 Yee that a ſtand in the Houſe of the Lord, and in the b courts of the houſe of our God,

3 Praiſe yee the Lord: for the Lord is good: ſing prayſes unto his Name: for it is a comely thing.

4 For the Lord hath c choſen Iaakob to himſelfe, and Iſrael for his chiefe treaſure.

5 For I know that the Lord is great, and that our Lord is above all gods.

6 Whatſoever pleaſeth the Lord, that d did he in heaven and in earth, in the ſea, & in all the depths.

7 He bringeth up the cloudes from the ends of the earth, and maketh the * lightnings with the raine: hee draweth foorth the winde out of his treaſures.

8 * He ſmote the firſt borne of Egypt both of man and beaſt.

9 Hee hath ſent tokens and wonders into the mids of thee, O Egypt, upon Pharaoh, and upon all his ſervants.

10 * He ſmote many nations, and ſlew mighty Kings:

11 As Sihon King of the Amorites, and Og king of Baſhan, and all the kingdomes of Canaan:

12 And e gave their land for an inheritance, even an inheritance unto Iſrael his people.

13 Thy Name, O Lord, endureth for ever: O Lord, thy remembrance is from generation to generation.

14 For the Lord will f iudge his people, and be pacified toward his ſeruants.

15 The g idoles of the heathen are ſilver and gold, even the worke of mens hands.

16 They have a mouth, and ſpeake not: they have eyes and ſee not.

17 They have eares and heare not, neither is there any breath in their mouth.

18 They that make them, are like unto them: ſo are all that truſt in them.

19 Prayſe the Lord, yee houſe of Iſrael: prayſe the Lord, ye houſe of Aaron.

PSAL. CXXXVI.

1 A moſt earneſt exhortation to give thankes unto God for the creation and gouvernance of all things, which ſtandeth in confeſſing that he giveth us all of his meere liberalitie.

PRayſe ye the Lord, becauſe he is good: for his a mercy endureth for ever.

2 Prayſe yee the God of gods: for his mercie endureth for ever:

3 Prayſe yee the Lord of lords: for his mercie endureth for ever:

4 Which onely doeth great wonders; for his mercie endureth for ever:

5 Which by his wiſedome made the heavens: for his mercie endureth for ever:

6 Which hath ſtretched out the earth upon the waters: for his b mercie endureth for ever:

7 Which made great lights: for his mercy endureth for ever:

8 As the Sunne to rule the day; for his mercy endureth for ever.

9 The Moone and the ſtarres to governe the night: for his mercy endureth for ever:

10 Which ſmote Egypt with their firſt borne, (for his mercy endureth for ever,)

11 And c brought out Iſrael from among them; for his mercie endureth for ever.

12 With a mighty hand and d ſtretched out arme; for his mercie endureth for ever.

13 Which divideth the Sea into two parts; for his mercie endureth for ever:

14 And made Iſrael to paſſe through the mids of it; for his mercie endureth for ever:

15 And overthrew Pharaoh and his hoaſte in the red Sea; for his mercie endureth for ever:

16 Which led his people thorow the e wildernes; for his mercy endureth for ever.

17 Which ſmote great Kings: for his mercie endureth for ever:

18 And ſlew f mighty kings: for his mercie endureth for ever:

19 As Shion king of the Amorites: for his mercy endureth for ever:

20 And Og the king of Baſhan: for his mercy endureth for ever:

21 And gave their land for an heritage; for his mercy endureth for ever:

22 Even an inheritage unto Iſrael his ſervant; for his mercy endureth for ever:

23 Which remembred us in our g baſe eſtate; for his mercy endureth for ever:

24 And hath refcued us from our oppreſſours; for his mercy endureth for ever:

25 Which giveth food to all h fleſh; for his mercy endureth for ever:

26 i Prayſe ye the God of heaven; for his mercie endureth for ever.

a By this repitition he ſheweth that the leaſt of Gods benefits binde us to thankeſgiving: but chiefly his mercy, which is principally declared towards his Church.
b This was a common kinde of thankeſgiving, which the whole people uſed, when they had received any benefit of God, as 2. Chron. 7. 6. and 20. 21. meaning, that God was not onely mercifull to their fathers, but alſo continued the ſame to their poſterity.
c Gods mercifull providence toward man appeareth in all his creatures, but chiefly in that that he delivered his Church from the thraldome of their enemies.
d In doinga ſuch a worke as was never done before, nor that any other could doe.
e Where for the ſpace of fourty yeeres he ſhewed infinite and moſt ſtrange wonders.
f Declaring thereby that no power nor authority was ſo deare unto him, as the love of his Church.
g In our greateſt affliction and ſlavery when we looked for nothing leſſe then to have had any ſuccour.
h Seeing that God provideth even for the beaſts, much more hath he care over his.
i Seeing that all ages have had moſt plaine teſtimonies of Gods benefits.

PSAL. CXXXVII.

1 The people of God in their baniſhment ſeeing Gods true Religion decay, lived in great anguiſh and ſorrow of heart: the which griefe the Caldeans did ſo little pitie. 3 That they rather increaſed the ſame dayly with taunts, reproaches and blaſphemies againſt God. 7 Wherefore the Iſraelites deſire God, firſt to puniſh the Edomites, who provoked the Babylonians againſt them. 8 And moved by the Spirit of God, prophecie the deſtruction of Babylon, where they were handled ſo tyrannouſly.

BY the rivers of Babel we a ſate, and there wee wept, when we remembred Zion.

2 We hanged our harpes upon the willowes a That is, we aboade a long time, and albeit that the countrie was pleaſant, yet could it not ſtay our teares, nor turne us from the true ſervice of our God.

in the mids b thereof.

3 Then they that led us captive, c required of us songs and mirth, when we had hanged up our harpes, saying, Sing us one of the songs of Zion.

4 How shall wee sing, said we, a song of the Lord in a strange land?

5 d If I forget thee, O Ierusalem, let my right hand forget to play.

6 If I doe not remember thee, let my tongue cleave to the roofe of my mouth: yea, if I preferre not Ierusalem to my e chiefe ioy.

7 Remember the children of f Edom, O Lord, in the g day of Ierusalem, which said, Rase it, rase it to the foundation thereof.

8 O daughter of Babel, worthy to be destroyed, blessed shall he be that rewardeth thee, as thou hast served us.

9 h Blessed shall he be that taketh and dasheth thy children against the stones.

b To wit, of that countrey.
c The Babylonians speake thus in mocking us, as though by our silence we should signifie that we hoped no more in God.
d Albeit the faithfull are touched with their particular griefes, yet the common sorow of the Church his most grievous unto them, and is such as they cannot but remember and lament.
e The decay of Gods religion in their countrey was so grievous, that no ioy could make them glad, except it were restored.
f According as Ezekiel 25,13. and Ieremiah 49,7. verse prophecied: and Obadiah. verse. 10. sheweth that the Edomites which came of Esau, conspired with the Babylonians against their brethren and kinsfolke.
g When thou didst visit Ierusalem.
h He alludeth to Isaiahs prophecie, Chap. 13. and 16. verse, promising good successe to Cyrus and Darius, whom ambition moove to fight against Babylon, but God used them as his rods to punish his enemies.

PSAL. CXXXVIII.

1 David with great courage praiseth the goodnesse of God toward him, the which is so great, 4 That it is knowen to forrein princes, who shall praise the Lord together with him. 6 And bee is assured to have the like comfort of God in the time following, as he had heretofore.

¶ A Psalme of David.

I Will praise thee with my whole heart, even before the a gods I praise thee.

2 I will worship toward thine holy b Temple and praise thy Name, because of thy loving kindnesse and for thy trueth: for thou hast magnified thy Name above all things by thy word.

3 When I called, then thou heardest me, and hast c increased strength in my soule.

4 All the d kings of the earth shall praise thee, O Lord: for they have heard the wordes of thy mouth.

5 And they shall sing of the wayes of the Lord, because the glory of the Lord is great.

6 For the Lord is high, yet he beholdeth the lowly, but the proud he knoweth i afarre off.

7 Though I walke in the middes of trouble, yet wilt thou revive me: thou wilt stretch foorth thine hand upon the wrath of mine enemies, and thy right hand shall save me.

8 The Lord will f performe his worke toward mee: O Lord, thy mercy endureth for ever: forsake not the works of thine hands.

a Even in the presence of Angels and of them that have authority among men.
b Both the Temple and ceremoniall service at Christs comming were abolished: so that now God will be worshipped only in spirit and trueth, Iohn 4.23.
c Thou hast strengthened me against mine outward and inward enemies.
d All the world shall confesse that thou hast wonderfully preserved me, and performed thy promise.
e Distance of place cannot hinder God to shew mercy to his, and to iudge the wicked though they thinke that he is farre off.
f Though mine enemies rage never so much, yet the Lord, which hath begun his worke in me, will continue his grace to the end.

PSAL. CXXXIX.

1 David cleanseth his heart from all hypocrisie, sheweth that there is nothing so hid, which God seeth not. 13 Which bee confirmed by the creation of man. 14 After declaring his zeale and feare of God, he protesteth to be enemie to all them that contemne God.

¶ To him that excelleth. A Psalme of David.

O Lord, thou hast tried me, and knowen me.

2 Thou knowest my a sitting and my rising: thou understandest my thought afarre off.

3 Thou b compassest my pathes, and my lying downe, and art accustomed to all my wayes.

4 For there is not a word in my c tongue, but loe, thou knowest it wholly, O Lord.

5 Thou holdest me straite behind and before, and layest thine d hand upon me.

6 Thy knowledge is too wonderfull for mee: it is so high that I cannot attaine unto it.

7 Whither shall I goe from thy e Spirit? or whither shall I flee from thy presence?

8 If I ascend into heaven, thou art there: if I lie downe in hell, thou art there.

9 Let me take the wings of the morning, and dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea:

10 Yet thither shall thine hand f leade me, and thy right hand hold me.

11 If I say, Yet the darknesse shall hide me, even the night shall be g light about me.

12 Yea, the darkenesse hideth not from thee: but the night shineth as the day: the darkenesse and light are both alike.

13 For thou hast b possessed my reines: thou hast covered me in my mothers wombe.

14 I will praise thee, for I am i fearefully and wonderously made: marveilous are thy workes, and my soule knoweth it well.

15 My bones are not hid from thee, though I was made in a secret place, and fashioned k beneath in the earth.

16 Thine eyes did see me, when I was without forme: l for in thy booke were all things written, which in continuance were fashioned, when there was none of them before.

17 How m deare therefore are thy thoughts unto me, O God! how great is the sum of them!

18 If I should count them, they are moe then the sand: when I awake, n I am still with thee.

19 Oh that thou wouldest slay, O God, the wicked and bloody men, to whom I say, Depart ye from me:

20 Which speake wickedly of thee, and being thine enemies are lifted up in vaine.

21 Doe not I o hate them, O Lord, that hate thee? and doe not I earnestly contend with those that rise up against thee?

22 I hate them with an unfained hatred, as they were mine utter enemies.

23 Try mee, O God, and knowe mine heart: proove me and know my thoughts.

24 And consider if there be any p way of wickednes in me, and leade me in the q way for ever.

a He confesseth that neither our actions, thoughts, or any part of our life can be hid from God, though he seeme to be farre off.
b So that they are evidently knowen to thee.
c Thou knowest my meaning before I speake.
d Thou so guidest mee with thine hand, that I can turne no way, but where thou appointest me.
e From thy power and knowledge?
f Thy power doth so fast hold me, that I can escape by no meanes from thee.
g Though darknesse be an hinderance to mans sight, yet it serveth thine eyes as well as the light.
h Thou hast made me in all parts, and therefore must needs knoow me.
i Considering thy wonderfull worke in forming me, I cannot but praise thee and feare thy mighty power.
k That is, in my mothers wombe: which he compareth to the inward parts of the earth.
l Seeing that thou diddest knoow me before I was composed of either flesh or bone, much more now must thou know me when thou hast fashioned me.
m How ought we to esteeme the excellent declaration of thy wisedome in the creation of man?
n I continually see new occasions to meditate in thy wisedome, and to praise thee.
o He reacheth us boldly to contemne all the hatred of the wicked, and friendship of the world, when they would let us to serve God sincerely.
p Or any heinous way or rebellious meaning, that though he were subiect to sinne, yet was he not given to wickednesse, and to provoke God by rebellion.
q That is, continue thy favour towards me to the end.

PSAL. CXL.

1 David complaineth of the cruelties, falshood and iniuries of his enemies. 8 Against the which he prayeth unto the Lord, and assureth himselfe of his helpe and succour. 12 Wherefore he provoketh the iust to praise the Lord, and to assure themselves of his tuition.

¶ To him that excelleth. A Psalme of David.

Deliver mee, O Lord, from the evill man: preserve me from the a cruell man:

2 Which imagine evill things in their, b heart, and make warre continually.

3 They have sharpened their tongues like a serpent; c adders poison is under their lips, Selah.

4 Keepe d me, O Lord, from the hands of the wicked; preserve me from the cruell man, which purposeth to cause my steps to slide.

5 The proud have layd a snare for mee, and spread a net with cordes in my path way, and set grennes for me. Selah.

6 Therefore I said unto the Lord, Thou art my God; heare, O Lord, the voyce of my prayers.

7 O Lord

a Which persecuteth me of malice and without cause.
b That is, by their false cavillations & lies they kindle the hatred of the wicked against me.
c He sheweth what weapons the wicked use, when power and force faile them.
d He declareth what is the remedie of the godly, when he are oppressed by the worldlings.

7 O Lord God the strength of my salvation, thou e hast covered my head in the day of battell.
8 Let not the wicked have his desire, O Lord; f performe not his wicked thought, least they be proud. Selah.
9 As for g the chiefe of them that compasse mee about, let the mischiefe of their owne lips come vpon them.
10 Let coales fall upon them: let h him cast them into the fire, and into the deepe pits that they rise not.
11 For the backbiter shall not be established vpon the earth, euill shall i hunt the cruell man to destruction.
12 I know that the Lord will auenge the afflicted, and iudge the poore.
13 Surely the righteous shall prayse thy Name, and the iust shall k dwell in thy presence.

e He calleth to God with liuely faith, being assured of his mercies, because he had before time prooued, that God helped him euer in his dangers.
f For it is in Gods hand to ouerthrow the counsels and enterprises of the wicked.
g It seemeth that he alludeth to Saul.
h To wit God: for Dauid saw that they were reprobate, and that there was no hope of repentance in them.
i Gods plagues shall light vpon him in such sort, that he shall not escape. k That is, shall be defended and preserued by thy fatherly providence and care.

PSAL. CXLI.

1 Dauid being grieuously persecuted vnder Saul, onely fleeth vnto God to haue succour. 3 Desiring him to bridle his affections, that he may patiently abide till God take vengeance of his enemies.

A Psalme of Dauid.

O Lord, I a call vpon thee: haste thee vnto mee: heare my voyce, when I cry vnto thee.
2 Let my prayer be directed in thy sight as incense, and the b lifting vp of mine handes as an euening sacrifice.
3 Set a watch, O Lord, before my mouth, and keepe the c doore of my lips.
4 Incline not mine heart to euill, that I should commit wicked words with them that worke iniquitie: and let me not eate of their d delicates.
5 Let the righteous smite me: for that is a benefit: and let e him reproue me, and it shallbe a precious oyle that shall not breake mine head: for with in a while I shall euen f pray in their miseries.
6 When their iudges shallbe cast downe in stonie places, they shall g heare my wordes, for they are sweet.
7 Our bones lie scattered at the h graues mouth, as he that hewed wood or diggeth in the earth.
8 But mine eyes looke vnto thee, O Lord God: in thee is my trust: leaue not my soule destitute.
9 Keepe mee from the snare, which they haue layd for me, and from the grennes of the workers of iniquitie.
10 Let the wicked fall into i his nets k together, whiles I escape.

a He sheweth that there is none other refuge in our necessities, but only to flee unto God for comfort of soule.
b He meaneth his earnest zeale and gesture, which hee vsed to prayer: alluding of the sacrifices which were by Gods commandement offered in the old Law.
c He desireth God to keepe his thoughts and wayes either from thinking or executing vengeance.
d Let not their prosperitie allure me to be wicked as they are.
e He could abide all correction, that came of a loving heart.
f By patience I shall see the wicked so sharpely handled, that I shall for pitie pray for them. g The people which followeth their wicked rulers in persecuting the Prophet, shall repent and turne to God, when they see their wicked rulers punished. h Here appeareth that Dauid was miraculously delivered out of many deaths, as 2. Cor. 1. 9. 10. i Into Gods nets, whereby he catcheth the wicked in their owne malice. k So that none of them escape.

PSAL. CXLII.

1 The Prophet neither astonied with feare, nor caried away with anger, nor forced by desperation, would kill Saul: but with a quiet minde directed his earnest prayer to God, who did preserue him.

A Psalme of Dauid, to give instruction, and a prayer when he was in the cave.

I Cryed vnto the Lord with my voyce: with my voyce I a prayed vnto the Lord.
2 I powred out my meditation before him, and declared mine affliction in his presence.

a Dauids patience and instant prayer to God condemneth their wicked rage, which in their troubles either despaire and murmure against God, or els seeke to others then to God, to haue redresse in their miseries.

3 Though my spirit † was in perplexitie in me, yet thou knewest my path: in the way wherein I walked, haue they priuily laid a snare for me.
4 I looked vpon my right hand, and behold, but there was none that would know me: all refuge failed me, and ‖ none cared for my soule.
5 Then cried I vnto thee, O Lord, and sayd, Thou art mine b hope, and my portion in the land of the living.
6 Hearken vnto my cry, for I am brought very low: deliver me from my persecuters, for they are too strong for me.
7 Bring my soule out of c prison, that I may prayse thy Name: then shall the righteous d come about me, when thou art beneficiall vnto me.

† Ebr. was folden or wrapped in me: meaning, as a thing that cold haue no issue.
‖ Or, sought for my soule.
b Though all meanes failed him, yet he knew that God would neuer forsake him.
c For he was on all sides beset with his enemies, as though he had bene in a most strait prison.
d Either to reioyce at my wonderfull deliverance, or to set a crowne vpon mine head.

PSAL. CXLIII.

1 An earnest prayer for remission of sinnes, acknowledging that the enemies did thus cruelly persecute him by Gods iust iudgement. 8 He desireth to be restored to grace. 10 To be governed by his holy Spirit, that hee may spend the remnant of his life in the true feare and service of God.

A Psalme of Dauid.

HEeare my prayer, O Lord, and hearken vnto my supplication: answere me in thy a trueth, and in thy b righteousnesse.
2 (And enter not into iudgement with thy servant: for in thy c sight shall none that liveth, be iustified.)
3 For the enemie hath persecuted my soule: he hath smitten my life downe to the earth: hee hath laid me in the darkenesse, as they that have bene dead d long agoe:
4 And my spirit was in perplexitie in me, and mine e heart within me was amased.
5 Yet doe I remember the time f past: I meditate in all thy workes, yea, I doe meditate in the workes of thine hands.
6 I stretch foorth mine hands vnto thee: my soule desireth after thee, as the thirstie land. Selah.
7 Heare mee speedily, O Lord, for my spirit faileth: hide not thy face from mee, else I shallbe like vnto them that goe downe into the pit.
8 Let mee heare thy loving kindnesse in the g morning, for in thee is my trust; h shew me the way, that I should walke in, for I lift vp my soule vnto thee.
9 Deliver me, O Lord, from mine enemies: for i I hid mee with thee.
10 k Teach me to l doe thy will, for thou art my God: let thy good Spirit leade mee vnto the land of righteousnes.
11 Quicken me, O Lord, for thy Names sake, and for thy righteousnesse bring my soule out of trouble.
12 And for thy mercy m slay mine enemies and destroy all them that oppresse my soule: for I am thy n servant.

a That is, as thou hast promised to be faithfull in thy promise to all that trust in thee.
b That is, according to thy free goodnesse, whereby thou defendest thine.
c He knew that his afflictions were Gods messengers to call him to repentance for his sinnes, though toward his enemies he was innocent, and that in Gods sight all men are sinners.
d He acknowledgeth that God is the onely and true physitian to heale him: and that he is able to raise him to life, though he were dead long a goe, and turned to ashes.
e So that onely by faith and by the grace of Gods Spirit he was vpholden.
f To wit, thy great benefits of olde, and the manifold examples of thy favour towards thine.
g That is, speedily and in due season. h Let thine holy Spirit counsell me how to come foorth of these great cares and troubles. i I hid my selfe vnder the shadow of thy wings that I might be defended by thy power. k He confesseth that both the knowledge and obedience of Gods will commeth by the Spirit of God, who teacheth vs by his worde, giveth vnderstanding by his Spirit, and frameth our hearts by his grace to obey him. l That is, iustly and aright: for so soone as wee decline from Gods will, wee fall into errour. m Which shall be a signe of thy Fatherly kindnesse toward mee. n Resigning my selfe wholy vnto thee, and trusting in thy protection.

PSAL. CXLIV.

1 He praiseth the Lord with great affection and humilitie for his kingdome restored, and for his victories obtained.
5 Demaunding helpe, and the destruction of the wicked.
9 Promising to acknowledge the same with songs of prayses. 15 And declareth wherein the felicitie of any people consisteth.

¶ A Psalme of David.

BLesſed be the Lord my ſtrength, which a teacheth mine hands to fight, and my fingers to battell.

2 He is my goodneſſe and my fortreſſe, my towre and †my deliverer, my ſhield and in b him I truſt, which ſubdueth my people vnder me.

3 Lord, what is man that thou c regardeſt him! or the ſonne of man that thou thinkeſt vpon him!

4 Man is like to vanitie; his dayes are like a ſhadow that vaniſheth.

5 d Bowe thine heavens, O Lord, and come downe, touch the mountaines, & they ſhall ſmoake.

6 e Caſt forth the lightning and ſcatter them; ſhoot out thine arrowes and conſume them.

7 Send thine hand from aboue; deliver mee, and take me out of the great f waters, and from the hand of ſtrangers,

8 Whoſe mouth talketh vanitie, and their right hand is a right hand g of falſhood.

9 I will ſing a h new ſong unto thee, O God: and ſing unto thee upon a viole, and an inſtrument of ten ſtrings.

10 It is he that giveth deliverance unto kings, and reſcueth David his i ſervant from the hurtfull ſword.

11 Reſcue me, and deliver mee from the hand of ſtrangers, whoſe mouth talketh vanitie, and their right hand, is a right hand of falſhood:

12 That our ſons may be as the plants growing up in their youth, and our daughters as the corner ſtones, graven after the ſimilitude of a palace:

13 That our k corners may be full and abounding with divers ſorts, and that our ſheepe may bring forth thouſands and ten thouſand in our ſtreets.

14 That our m oxen may be ſtrong to labour; that there be none inuaſion, nor going out, nor no crying in our ſtreetes.

15 Bleſſed are the people, that be n ſo, yea bleſſed are the people whoſe God is the Lord.

a Who of a poore ſheepheard hath made me a valiant wariour and mightie conquerour.
† Ebr. my deliver unto me: for the Prophet cannot ſatisfie himſelfe with any words.
b Hee confeſſeth that neither by his owne authoritie, power or policie hit kingdome was quiet, but by the ſecret grace of God.
c To give unto God iuſt prayſe, as to confeſſe our ſelves to be vnworthy of ſo excellent benefits, and that he beſtoweth them vpon vs of his free mercie.
d He deſireth God to continue his graces, and to ſend helpe for the preſent neceſſitie.
e By theſe maner of ſpeeches he ſheweth that all the lets in the world cannot hinder Gods power, which he apprehended by faith.
f That is, deliver me from the tumultes of them that ſhould be my people, but are corrupt in their iudgement and enterprises, as though they were ſtrangers.
g For though they ſhake hands, yet they keepe not promiſe. h That is, a rare and excellent ſong, as thy great benefits deſerve. i Though wicked kings be called Gods ſervants, as Cyrus, Iſa.45.1. foraſmuch as he vſeth them to excute his iudgements: yet David becauſe of Gods promiſe, and they that rule goldy, are p operly ſo called, becauſe they ſerve not their owne affections, but ſet forth Gods glory. k He deſireth God to continue his benefits toward his people, counting the procreation of children and their good education among the chiefeſt of Gods benefits. l That the very corners of our houſes may be full of ſtore for the great abundance of thy bleſſings. m He attributeth not onely the great commodities, but even the leaſt alſo to Gods favour. n And if God give not to all his children all theſe bleſſings, yet he recompenſeth them with better things.

PSAL. CXLV.

This Pſalme was compoſed when the kingdome of David flouriſhed. 1 Wherein he deſcriveth the wonderfull providence of God, aſwell in governing man, as in preſerving all the reſt of his creatures. 17 He praiſeth God for his iuſtice and mercie. 18 But ſpecially for his loving kindneſſe toward theſe that call upon him, that feare him, and love him. 22 For the which hee promiſeth to praiſe him for ever.

¶ A Pſalme of David of prayſe.

OMy God and King, a I will extoll thee, and will bleſſe thy Name for ever and ever.

2 I will bleſſe thee dayly, and prayſe thy Name for ever and ever.

3 b Great is the Lord, and moſt worthy to be prayſed, and his greatneſſe is incomprehenſible.

4 Generation ſhall prayſe thy works unto c generation, and declare thy power.

5 I will meditate of the beautie of thy glorious maieſtie, and thy wonderfull workes.

6 And they ſhall ſpeake of the power of thy d dreadfull acts, and I will declare thy greatneſſe.

7 They ſhall breake out into the mention of thy great goodneſſe, and ſhall ſing aloude of thy righteouſneſſe.

8 * The Lord is gracious, and e mercifull, ſlow to anger, and of great mercie.

9 The Lord is good to all, and his mercies are ouer all his works.

10 All thy works prayſe thee, O Lord, and thy Saints bleſſe thee.

11 f They ſhew the glory of thy kingdome, and ſpeake of thy power.

12 To cauſe his g power to be knowen to the ſonnes of men, and the glorious renowne of his kingdome.

13 Thy * kingdom is an everlaſting kingdome, and thy dominion endureth throughout all ages.

14 The Lord upholdeth all that h fall, and lifteth up all that are ready to fall.

15 The eyes of i all waite upon thee, and thou giveſt them their meate in due ſeaſon.

16 Thou openeſt thine hand, and filleſt all things living of thy good pleaſure.

17 The Lord is k righteous in all his wayes, and holy in all his works.

18 The Lord is neere unto all that call upon him, yea, to all that call upon him in l trueth.

19 He will fulfill the m deſire of them that feare him, he will alſo heare their cry, and will ſave them.

20 The Lord preſerveth all them that love him, but he will deſtroy the wicked.

21 My mouth ſhall ſpeake the prayſe of the Lord, and all n fleſh ſhall bleſſe his holy Name for ever and ever.

a He ſheweth what ſacrifices are pleaſant and acceptable unto God: even praiſe and thankſgiving, and ſeeing that God ſtill continueth his benefits towards vs, wee ought never to be wearie in praiſing him for the ſame. b Hereby hee declareth that all power is ſubiect unto God, and that no worldly promotion ought to obſerve Gods glory. c For aſmuch as the ende of mans creation, and of his preſervation in this life is to prayſe God, therefore hee inquireth that not onely wee ourſelves doe this, but cauſe all others to doe the ſame.

d Of thy terrible iudgements againſt the wicked.
* Exod.34.6.
e He deſcribeth after what ſort God ſheweth himſelfe to all his creatures, though our ſins have provoked his vengeance againſt all: to wit, mercifull, not onely in pardoning the ſinnes of his elect, but in doing good even to the reprobate, albeit they cannot feele the ſweet comfort of the ſame.
f The Praiſe of thy glory appeareth in all thy creatures: and though the wicked would obſcure the ſame by their ſilence, yet the faithfull are ever mindfull of the ſame.
g He ſheweth that all things are out of order, but only where God reigneth.
* Luke 1.33. dan.7.14.
h Who being in miſerie and affliction would faint and fall away, if God did not uphold them, and therefore they ought to reverence him that reigneth in heaven, and ſuffer themſelves to be governed by him. i To wit, aſwell of man, as beaſt. k He praiſeth God, not onely becauſe he is beneficiall to all his creatures, but alſo in that that he iuſtly puniſheth the wicked, and mercifully examineth his by the croſſe, giving them ſtrength and delivering them. l Which onely appertaineth to the faithfull: and this vertue is contrary to infidelitie, doubting, impacience and murmuring. m For they will aske or wiſh for nothing, but according to his will, 1 Ioh.5.14. n That is, all men ſhall be bound to prayſe him.

PSAL. CXLVI.

1 David declareth his great zeale that hee hath to prayſe God. 3 And teacheth, not to truſt in man, but onely in God Almightie. 7 Which delivereth the afflicted, 9 Defendeth the ſtrangers, comforteth the fatherleſſe, and the widowes. 10 And reigneth for ever.

¶ Prayſe ye the Lord.

PRayſe thou the Lord, O my a ſoule.

2 I will prayſe the Lord during my life: as long as I have any being, I will ſing unto my God.

3 Put not your truſt in b Princes, nor in the ſonne of man, for there is no helpe in him.

4 His breath departeth, and hee returneth to his earth; then his c thoughts periſh.

5 Bleſſed is he that hath the God of Iaakob for his helpe, whoſe hope is in the Lord his God,

6 Which made d heaven and earth, the ſea, and all that therein is; which keepeth his fidelitie for ever.

7 Which executeth iuſtice for the oppreſſed, which giveth bread to the hungrie; the Lord looſeth the priſoners.

8 The Lord giveth ſight to the blind: the a He ſtirreth up himſelfe and all his affections to praiſe God.

b That God may have the whole praiſe: wherein he forbiddeth all vaine confidence, ſhewing that of nature wee are more inclined to put our truſt in creatures, then in God the Creator.
c As their vaine opinions, whereby they flattered themſelves, and ſo imagined wicked enterprises. d He encourageth the godly to truſt onely in the Lord both for that his power is able to deliver them from all danger, and from his promiſe ſake, his will is moſt readie to doe it. e Whoſe faith and patience for a while he tryeth, but at length he puniſheth the adverſaries, that he may be knowen to be iudge of the world.

Lord.

Lord raiseth vp the crooked: the Lord ſloueth the righteous.

9 The Lord keepeth the [g] ſtrangers: he relieueth the fatherleſſe and widow: but hee ouerthroweth the way of the wicked.

10 The Lord ſhall [h] reigne for ever: O Zion, thy God endureth from generation to generation. Prayſe ye the Lord.

f Though he viſit them by affliction, hunger, impriſonment and ſuch like, yet his fatherly loue and pitie neuer faileth them, yea rather to his theſe are ſignes of his loue.

g Meaning, all them that are deſtitute of worldly meanes and ſuccour. h Hee aſſureth the Church that God reigneth for euer for the preſeruation of the ſame.

PSAL. CXLVII.

1 The Prophet prayſeth the bounty, wiſedome, power, iuſtice, and prouidence of God vpon all his creatures. 2 But ſpecially vpon his Church, which he gathereth together after their diſperſion. 29 Declaring his word and iudgement ſo vnto them, as he hath done to none other people.

PRayſe ye the Lord, for it is good to ſing vnto our God: for it is a [a] pleaſant thing, and prayſe is comely.

2 The Lord doth build vp [b] Ieruſalem, and gather together the diſperſed of Iſrael.

3 He healeth thoſe that are [c] broken in heart, and bindeth vp their ſores.

4 Hee [d] counteth the number of the ſtarres, and calleth them all by their names.

5 Great is our Lord, and great is his power: his wiſedome is infinite.

6 The Lord releeueth the meeke, and abaſeth the wicked to the [e] ground.

7 Sing vnto the Lord with prayſe: ſing vpon the harpe vnto our God.

8 Which [f] couereth the heaven with clouds, and prepareth raine for the earth, and maketh the graſſe to grow vpon the mountaines:

9 Which giueth to beaſts their foode, and to the yong rauens that [g] cry.

10 He hath no pleaſure in the [h] ſtrength of an horſe, neither delighteth he in the legs of man.

11 But the Lord delighteth in them that feare him, and attend vpon his mercy.

12 Prayſe the Lord, O Ieruſalem: prayſe thy God, O Zion.

13 For he hath made the barres of the gates [i] ſtrong, and hath bleſſed thy children within thee.

14 He ſetteth peace in thy borders, and ſatisfieth thee with the † floure of wheate.

15 He ſendeth forth his [k] commandement vpon earth, and his word runneth very [l] ſwiftly.

16 He giueth ſnow like wooll, and ſcattereth the hoare froſt like aſhes.

17 He caſteth forth his yce like morſels: who can abide the cold thereof?

18 He ſendeth his word and melteth them: he cauſeth his winde to blow, and the waters flow.

19 He ſheweth his [m] word vnto Iaakob, his ſtatutes and his iudgements vnto Iſrael.

20 He hath not dealt ſo with euery nation, neither haue they [n] knowen his iudgements. Prayſe ye the Lord.

a Hee ſheweth wherein we ought to exerciſe our ſelues continually, and to take out paſtime: to wit, in prayſing God.

b Becauſe the Lord is the founder of the Church, it cannot be deſtroyed, though the members thereof be diſperſed, and ſeeme as it were for a time to be cut off.

c With affliction, or ſorow for ſinne.

d Though it ſeeme to man incredible, that God ſhould aſſemble his Church, being ſo diſperſed, yet nothing can be too hard to him that can number and name all the ſtarres.

e For the more high that wicked clime, the greater is their fall in the end.

f He ſheweth by the examples of Gods mightie power, goodneſſe, and wiſedome, that he can neuer want moſt iuſt occaſion to prayſe God.

g For their crying is as it were a confeſſion of their neede, which cannot be relieued, but by God onely, then if God ſheweth himſelfe mindfull of the moſt contemptible foules, can he ſuffer them ſo die with famine, whom he hath aſſured of life euerlaſting? h Though to vſe lawfull meanes is both profitable and pleaſeth God, yet to put our truſt in them, is to defraud God of his honour. i He doth not onely furniſh his Church with all things neceſſary, but preſerueth alſo the ſame, and maketh it ſtrong againſt all outward force. † Hebr. fat. k His ſecret working in all creatures is as a commandement to keepe them in order, and to giue them mouing and force. l For immediatly and without reſiſting all things obey him. m As before hee called Gods ſecret working in all his creatures his word: ſo he meaneth hereby his word the doctrine of life euerlaſting, which he hath left to his Church as a moſt precious treaſure. n The cauſe of this difference is Gods free mercie, which hath elected his in his Sonne Chriſt Ieſus to ſaluation: and his iuſt iudgement, whereby he hath appointed the reprobate to eternall damnation.

PSAL. CXLVIII.

1 He prouoketh all creatures to prayſe the Lord in heauen and earth, and all places. 14 Specially his Church, for the power that hee hath giuen to the ſame, after that he had choſen them and ioyned them vnto him.

¶ Prayſe ye the Lord.

PRayſe ye the Lord from the heaven: prayſe ye him in the hie places.

2 Prayſe ye him, all ye [a] his Angels: prayſe him, all his armie.

3 Prayſe ye him, [b] ſunne and moone: prayſe ye him all bright ſtarres.

4 Prayſe yee him [c] heavens of heavens, and [d] waters, that be above the heavens.

5 Let them prayſe the Name of the Lord: for he commanded, and they were created.

6 And hee hath eſtabliſhed them for ever and ever: he hath made an ordinance, which ſhall not paſſe.

7 Prayſe ye the Lord from the earth, ye [e] dragons and all depths:

8 [f] Fire and haile, ſnow and vapours, ſtormy winde, which execute his word.

9 Mountaines and all hils, fruitfull trees, and all cedars:

10 Beaſts and all cattell, creeping things and feathered foules.

11 [g] Kings of the earth and all people, princes and all iudges of the world:

12 Yong men and maidens, alſo old men and children:

13 Let them prayſe the Name of the Lord: for his Name onely is to be exalted, and his prayſe aboue the earth and the heavens.

14 For he hath exalted the [h] horne of his people, which is a prayſe for all his Saints, even for the [i] children of Iſrael, a people that is neere vnto him. Prayſe ye the Lord.

a Becauſe they are members of the ſame body, he ſetteth them before our eyes, which are moſt willing hereunto, and by their prompte obedience teach vs to doe our duety.

b In that Gods glory ſhineth in theſe inſenſible creatures, this their beauty is as a continuall prayſing of God.

c Not that there are diuers heavens, but becauſe of the ſpheres and of the ſituation of the fixeds ſtarres and planets, he comprehendeth by this worde the whole heaven.

d That is, the raine which is in the middle region of the ayre, which he here comprehendeth vnder the name of the heauens.

e Meaning, the great and monſtrous fiſhes, as whales and ſuch like.

f Which come not by chaunce or fortune, but by Gods appointed ordinance. g For the greater gifts that any hath received, and the more high that one is preferred, the more bound is he to prayſe God for the ſame: but neither hie nor low condition or degree can be exempted from this duetie. h That is, the dignitie, power and glory of his Church. i By reaſon of his couenant made with Abraham.

PSAL. CXLIX.

1 An exhortation to the Church to prayſe the Lord for his victory and conqueſt, that hee giueth his Saints againſt all mans power.

¶ Prayſe ye the Lord.

SIng yee vnto the Lord [a] a new ſong: let his prayſe be heard in the Congregation of Saints.

2 Let Iſrael reioyce in him that [b] made him, and let the children of Zion reioyce in their [c] King.

3 Let them prayſe his Name with the flute: let them ſing prayſes vnto him with the timbrell and harpe.

4 For the Lord hath pleaſure in his people: he will make the meeke glorious by deliuerance.

5 Let the Saints be ioyfull with glory: let them ſing loud vpon their [d] beds.

6 Let the high Acts of God be in their mouth, and a two edged ſword in their hands.

7 [e] To execute vengeance vpon the heathen, and corrections among the people:

8 To bind [f] their kings in chaines, and their nobles with fetters of yron.

9 That they may execute vpon them the iudgement a For bicauſe and manifold benefits beſtowed on his Church.

b In that that they were preferred before all other nations, it was as a new creation, and therefore Pſal. 95.7. they were called the ſheepe of Gods hands.

c For God as he is the creatour of the ſoule and body, ſo will he that both ſerue him: and that his people be continually ſubiect to him, as to their moſt lawfull King.

d He alludeth to that continuall reſt and quietneſſe which they ſhould haue, if they would ſuffer God to rule them. e This is chiefly accompliſhed in the kingdome of Chriſt, when Gods people for iuſt cauſes execute Gods iudgements againſt his enemies: and it giueth no liberte to any to reuenge their priuate iniuries. f Not onely the people, but the kings that were their enemies, ſhould be deſtroyed.

g Hereby God bindeth the hands and mindes of all his to enterpriſe no farther then he appointeth.

iudgement that is g written: this honour ſhall be to all his Saints. Prayſe ye the Lord.

PSAL. CL.

An exhortation to prayſe the Lord without ceaſe by all maner of wayes for all his mighty and wonderfull workes.

¶ Prayſe ye the Lord.

PRayſe ye God in his a Sanctuary: prayſe ye him in the b firmament of his power.

2 Prayſe ye him in his mighty Acts: prayſe ye him according to his excellent greatneſſe.

3 Prayſe ye him in the ſound of the c trumpet: prayſe ye him upon the viole and the harpe.

4 Prayſe ye him with timbrel and flute: prayſe ye him with virginals and organs.

5 Prayſe yee him with ſounding cymbals: prayſe ye him with high ſounding cymbals.

6 Let every thing that d hath breath prayſe the Lord. Prayſe ye the Lord.

a That is, in the heaven.

b For his wonderfull power appeareth in the firmament, which in Hebrew is called a ſtretching out, or ſpreading abroad, wherein the mightie worke of God ſhineth.

Chriſt the uſe thereof is aboliſhed in the Church.

c Exhorting the people only to reioyce in prayſing God, he maketh mention of thoſe inſtruments which by Gods commandement were appointed in the old Law, but under d He ſheweth that all the order of nature is bound to this duetie, and much more Gods children, who ought never to ceaſe to prayſe him, till they be gathered into that kingdome, which he hath prepared for his, where they ſhall ſing everlaſting prayſe.

THE * PROVERBES OF SALOMON.

* This word Proverbe, or Parable, ſignifieth a grave and notable ſentence, worthy to be kept in memorie: and is ſometime taken in the evill part for a mocke or ſcoffe.

THE ARGUMENT.

THe wonderfull love of God toward his Church is declared in this booke: foraſmuch as the ſumme and effect of the whole Scriptures is here ſet forth in theſe briefe ſentences, which partly containe doctrine, and partly manners, and alſo exhortations to both. whereof the nine firſt Chapters are as a preface full of grave ſentences and deepe myſteries, to allure the hearts of men to the diligent reading of the parables that followe: which are left as a moſt precious iewell to the Church, of thoſe three thouſand parables mentioned 1. King. 4. 32. and were gathered and committed to writing by Salomons ſeruants, and indited by him.

CHAP. I.

a The power and uſe of the word of God. 7 Of the feare of God and knowledge of his word. 10 We may not conſent to the entiſings of ſinners. 20 Wiſedome complaineth that ſhe is contemned. 24 The puniſhment of them that contemne her.

THE Parables of Salomon the ſonne of David king of Iſrael,

2 To knowe wiſdome, a and inſtruction, to underſtand the words b of knowledge,

3 To receive c inſtruction to doe wiſely, by d iuſtice and iudgement and equity.

4 To give unto the e ſimple ſharpneſſe of wit, and to the childe knowledge and diſcretion.

5 A wiſe man ſhall heare and increaſe in learning, and a man of f underſtanding ſhall attaine unto wiſe counſels,

6 To underſtand a parable, and the interpretation, the words of the wiſe, and their darke ſayings.

7 ¶ * The feare of the Lord is the beginning of knowledge: but fooles deſpiſe wiſedome and inſtruction.

8 My ſonne, heare thy g fathers inſtruction, and forſake not thy h mothers teaching.

9 For they ſhall be † a comely ornament unto thine head, and as chaines for thy necke.

10 ¶ My ſonne, i if ſinners doe intiſe thee, conſent thou not.

11 If they ſay, Come with us, we will lay wait for k blood, and lie privily for the innocent without a cauſe:

12 We will ſwallow them up alive like a l grave, even whole, as thoſe that goe downe into the pit:

13 We ſhall finde all precious riches, and fill our houſes with ſpoyle:

14 Caſt in thy lot among us, we will all have one m purſe:

15 My ſonne, walke not thou in the way with them: refraine thy foote from their n path.

16 For their feete run to evill, and make haſte to ſhed blood.

17 Certainely as without cauſe the net is ſpred before the eyes of all that hath wing:

18 So they lay waite for blood, and lie privily for o their lives.

19 Such are the wayes of every one that is greedie of gaine: he would take away p the life of the owners thereof.

20 ¶ q Wiſdome cryeth without: ſhe uttereth her voyce in the r ſtreetes.

21 She calleth in the high ſtreete, among the preaſe in the entrings of the gates, and uttereth her words in the city, ſaying, 22 O ye s fooliſh, how long will ye love fooliſhneſſe? and the ſcornefull take their pleaſure in ſcorning? and the fooles hate knowledge?

23 (Turne you at my correction: loe, I will powre out my mind unto you, and make you underſtand my words.)

24 Becauſe I have called, and ye refuſed: I have ſtretched out mine hand, and none would regard,

25 But yee have deſpiſed all my counſell, and would none of my correction,

26 I will alſo t laugh at your deſtruction, and mocke when your feare commeth.

27 When u your feare commeth like ſudden deſolation, and your deſtruction ſhall come like a whirlewinde: when affliction and anguiſh ſhall come upon you,

28 Then ſhall they call upon mee, but I will not anſwere: they ſhall ſeeke me early, but they ſhall not x finde me.

29 Becauſe they hated knowledge, and did not chuſe the feare of the Lord.

30 They would none of my counſell, but y deſpiſed all my correction.

31 Therefore ſhall they eat of the z fruit of their owne way, and be filled with their owne deviſes.

32 For a eaſe ſlayeth the fooliſh, and the proſperitie of fooles deſtroyeth them.

33 But he that obeyeth me, ſhall dwell ſafely, and be quiet from feare of evill.

a That is, what we ought to know and follow, and what we ought to refuſe.

b Meaning, the wordes of God wherein is the only true knowledge.

c To learne to ſubmit our ſelves to the correction of thoſe that are wiſe.

d By living iuſtly and rendring to every man that which appertaineth unto him.

e To ſuch as have no diſcretion to rule themſelves.

f As he ſheweth that theſe parables conteining the effect of religion as touching meanes and doctrine, doe appertaine to the ſimple people: ſo doeth he declare that the ſame is alſo neceſſarie for them that are wiſe and learned.

* Pſal. 111. 10. Eccluſ. 1. 16.

g He ſpeaketh this in the Name of God, which is the univerſall Father of all creatures, or in the name of the paſtour of the Church, who is as a father.

h That is, of the Church, wherein the faith full are begotten by the incorruptible ſeede of Gods word.

† Ebr. increaſe of grace.

i To wit, the wicked which have not the feare of God.

k He ſpeaketh not onely of the ſhedding of blood with hand, but of all craftie practiſes which tend to the detriment of our neighbour.

l As the grave is never ſatiate, ſo the avarice of the wicked and their cruelty hath none end.

m He ſheweth whereby the wicked are allured to ioyne together, becauſe they have every one part of the ſpoyle of the innocent.

n That is, have nothing at all to doe with them.

o He ſheweth that there is no cauſe to moove theſe wicked to ſpoile the innocent, but their avarice and cruelty.

p Whereby he concludeth, that the covetous man is a murtherer.

q This wiſedome is the eternall word of God.

r So that none can pretend ignorance.

s Wiſedome reprooveth three kindes of men: the fooliſh or ſimple which erre of ignorance, and the mockers that cannot ſuffer to be taught, and the fooles which are drowned in worldly luſts and hate the knowledge of godlineſſe.

t This is ſpoken according to our capacitie, ſignifying that the wicked, which mocke and ieſt at Gods word, ſhall have the iuſt reward of their mocking.

u That is, your deſtruction, which thing you feared.

x Becauſe they ſought not with an affection to God, but for eaſe of their owne griefe.

y Shewing that without faith and obedience, we can not call upon God aright.

z They ſhall feele what commoditie their wicked life ſhall give them.

a That is, the proſperitie and ſenſualitie wherein they delight.

CHAP. II.

1 Wiſedome exhorteth to obey her. 5 She teacheth the feare of God. 6 She is given of God. 10 She preſerveth from wickedneſſe.

My

MY sonne, if thou wilt receive my wordes, and [a] hide my commandements within thee,

2 And cause thine eares to hearken unto wisdome, and encline [b] thine heart to vnderstanding.

3 (For if thou callest after knowledge, [c] and cryest for vnderstanding:

4 If thou seekest her as silver, and searchest for her as for [d] treasures,

5 Then shalt thou vnderstand the feare of the Lord, and finde the [e] knowledge of God,

6 For the Lord giveth wisedome, out of his mouth commeth knowledge and vnderstanding.

7 He ‖ preserveth the state of the righteous, he is a shield to them that walke vprightly.

8 That they may keepe the wayes of iudgement: and he preserveth the way of his Saints)

9 Then shalt thou vnderstand righteousnesse and iudgement, and equitie, and every good path.

10 ¶ When wisdome entreth into thine heart, and knowledge delighteth thy soule,

11 Then shall [f] counsell preserve thee, and vnderstanding shall keepe thee,

12 And deliver thee from the evill way, and from the man that speaketh froward things.

13 And from them that leave the [g] wayes of righteousnesse to walke in the wayes of darkenes:

14 Which reioyce in doing evill, and delight [h] in the frowardnesse of the wicked,

15 Whose wayes are crooked, and they are lewd in their paths:

16 And it shall deliver thee from the strange [i] woman, even from the stranger which flattereth with her words,

17 Which forsaketh the [k] guide of her youth, and forgetteth the [l] covenant of her God.

18 Surely her [m] house tendeth to death, and her paths unto [n] the dead.

19 All they that goe unto her, returne not againe, neither take they hold of the wayes of life.

20 Therefore walke thou in the way of good men, and keepe the wayes of the righteous.

21 For the iust shall dwell in the [o] land, and the vpright men shall remaine in it.

22 But the wicked shall be cut off from the earth, and the transgressour shall be rooted out of it.

a That is, keepe them in thine heart.
b If thou give thy selfe to the true knowledge of God without hypocrisie.
c Meaning, that we must seeke the knowledge of God with care and diligence.
d Shewing that no labour must be spared.
e This (saith he) is the true wisedome, to know and feare God.
‖ Or, hideth the salvation.
f The word of God shall teach thee, and counsell thee how to governe thy selfe.
g That is, the word of God, which is the only light, to follow their owne fantasies which are darkenesse.
h When they see any given to evill as they are.
i Meaning, that wisedome which is the word of God, shall preserve us from all vices: naming this vice of whoredom whereunto man is most prone.
k That is, her husband, which is her head and guide to governe her, from whom she ought not to depart, but remaine in his subiection.
l Which is the promise made in mariage.
m Her acquaintance with her familiars, and them that haunt her.
n To them that are dead in body and soule.
o They shall enioy the temporall and spirituall promises of God, as the wicked shalbe voyd of them.

CHAP. III.

1 The wordes of God giveth life. 5 Trust in God. 7 Feare him. 9 Honour him. 11 Suffer his correction: 21 To them that follow the word of God, all things shall succeed well.

MY sonne, forget not thou my Law, but let thine heart * keepe my commandements.

2 For they shall increase the length of thy [a] dayes and the yeeres of life, and thy prosperitie.

3 Let not [b] mercy and trueth forsake thee: bind them on thy [c] necke, and write them upon the table of thine [d] heart.

4 So shalt thou find favour and good vnderstanding in the sight of God and man.

5 ¶ Trust in the Lord with all thine heart, and leane not unto thine owne wisedome.

6 In all thy wayes acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy wayes.

7 ¶ Be not wise in thine owne eyes: but feare the Lord, and depart from evill.

8 So health shalbe unto thy [e] navell, and marrow unto thy bones.

9 [f] Honour the Lord with thy riches, and with the first fruits of all thine increase.

10 So shall thy barnes be filled with abundance, and thy presses shall [g] burst with new wine.

11 ¶ My sonne, refuse not the chastening of the Lord, neither be grieved with his correction.

12 * For the Lord correcteth him, whom hee loveth, even as the father doth the childe, in whom he delighteth.

13 Blessed is the man that findeth wisedome, and the man that getteth vnderstanding.

14 For the marchandise thereof is better then the marchandise of silver, and the gaine thereof is better then gold.

15 It is more precious then pearles: and all things that thou canst desire, are not to be compared unto her.

16 Length of dayes is in her right hand, [h] and in her left hand riches and glory.

17 Her wayes are wayes of pleasure, and all her paths prosperitie.

18 She is a tree [i] of life to them that lay holde on her, and blessed is he that retaineth her.

19 The Lord by wisdome hath laid the [k] foundation of the earth, and hath stablished the heavens through vnderstanding.

20 By his knowledge the depths are broken up, and the cloudes drop downe the dew.

21 My sonne, let not these things depart from thine eyes, but observe wisedome and counsell.

22 So they shalbe life to thy soule, and grace unto thy ‖ necke.

23 Then shalt thou walke safely by the way: and thy foote shall not stumble.

24 If thou sleepest, thou shalt not be afraid: and when thou sleepest, thy sleepe shalbe sweet.

25 Thou shalt not feare for any sudden feare, neither for destruction of the wicked, when it commeth.

26 For the Lord shall be for thine assurance, and shall preserve thy foot from taking.

27 ¶ Withhold not the good from [m] the owners thereof, though there be power in thine hand to doe it.

28 Say not unto thy neighbour, Go and come againe, and to morrow will I give thee, if thou now have it.

29 ¶ Intend none hurt against thy neighbour, seeing he doth dwell [n] without feare by thee.

30 ¶ Strive not with a man causelesse, when hee hath done thee no harme.

31 ¶ Be not [o] envious for the wicked man, neither chuse any of his wayes.

32 For the froward is abomination unto the Lord: but his [p] secret is with the righteous.

33 The curse of the Lord is in the house of the wicked: but hee blesseth the habitation of the righteous.

34 With the scornefull [q] he scorneth, but hee giveth grace unto the humble.

35 The wise shall inherit glory: but fooles dishonour, though they be exalted.

f As was commanded in the Law, Exod. 23. 19. Deut. 26. 2. and by this they acknowledged that God was the giver of all things, and that they were ready to beslow all at his commandement.
g For the faithfull distributer God giveth in greater abundance.
* Heb. 12, 5. Revel. 3. 19.
h Meaning, that he that seeketh wisedome, that is, suffereth himselfe to be governeth by the word of God, shall have all prosperitie both corporall and spirituall.
i Which bringeth forth such fruit that they that eate thereof have life: and he alludeth to the tree of life in paradise.
‖ Or, throat, reade Chap. 1. 9.
l For when God destroyeth the wicked, he will save his as he did Lot in Sodom.

n That is, putteth his trust in thee.
o Desire not to be like unto him.
p That is, his covenant and fatherly affection which is hid and secret from the world.

a Long life is the blessing of God which he giveth to his, so far foorth as it is expedient for them.
b By mercy and trueth, he meaneth the commandements of the first and second table: or els the mercy and faithfulnesse that wee ought to use toward our neighbours.
c Keepe them as a most precious iewell.
d Have them ever in remembrance.
e By this part he comprehendeth the whole body, as by health he meaneth all the benefits promised in the Law both corporall and spirituall.

CHAP. IIII.

1 Wisdome and her fruits ought to be searched. 14 The way of the wicked must be refused. 20 By the word of God the heart, eyes, and course of life must be guided.

HEare, O ye children, the instruction of a [a] father, and give eare to learne vnderstanding, a He speaketh this in the person of a Preacher and Minister, which is as a father unto the people, reade chapter 2. verse 1.

judgement that is g written: this honour ſhall be to all his Saints. Prayſe ye the Lord.

g Hereby God bindeth the hands and mindes of all his to enterpriſe no farther then he appointeth.

PSAL. CL.

An exhortation to prayſe the Lord without ceaſe by all maner of wayes for all his mighty and wonderfull workes.

¶ Prayſe ye the Lord.

PRayſe ye God in his a Sanctuary: prayſe ye him in the b firmament of his power.

2 Prayſe ye him in his mighty Acts: prayſe ye him according to his excellent greatneſſe.

a That is, in the heaven.

b For his wonderfull power appeareth in the firmament, which in Hebrew is called a ſtretching out, or ſpreading abroad, wherein the mightie worke of God ſhineth.

3 Prayſe ye him in the ſound of the c trumpet: prayſe ye him upon the viole and the harpe.

4 Prayſe ye him with timbrel and flute: prayſe ye him with virginals and organs.

5 Prayſe yee him with ſounding cymbals: prayſe ye him with high ſounding cymbals.

6 Let every thing that d hath breath prayſe the Lord. Prayſe ye the Lord.

c Exhorting the people only to reioyce in prayſing God, he maketh mention of thoſe inſtruments which by Gods commandement were appointed in the old Law, but under Chriſt the uſe thereof is aboliſhed in the Church.

d He ſheweth that all the order of nature is bound to this duetie, and much more Gods children, who ought never to ceaſe to prayſe him, till they be gathered into that kingdome, which he hath prepared for his, where they ſhall ſing everlaſting prayſe.

THE * PROVERBES OF SALOMON.

* This word Proverbe, or Parable, ſignifieth a grave and notable ſentence, worthy to be kept in memorie: and is ſometime taken in the evill part for a mocke or ſcoffe.

THE ARGUMENT.

THe wonderfull love of God toward his Church is declared in this booke: foraſmuch as the ſumme and effect of the whole Scriptures is here ſet forth in theſe briefe ſentences, which partly containe doctrine, and partly manners, and alſo exhortations to both. Whereof the nine firſt Chapters are as a preface full of grave ſentences and deepe myſteries, to allure the hearts of men to the diligent reading of the parables that followe: which are left as a moſt precious iewell to the Church, of thoſe three thouſand parables mentioned 1.King. 4,32. and were gathered and committed to writing by Salomons ſeruants, and indited by him.

CHAP. I.

a The power and uſe of the word of God. 7 Of the feare of God and knowledge of his word. 10 We may not conſent to the entiſings of ſinners. 20 Wiſedome complaineth that ſhe is contemned. 24 The puniſhment of them that contemne her.

THE Parables of Salomon the ſonne of David king of Iſrael,

2 To knowe wiſdome, a and inſtruction, to underſtand the words b of knowledge,

3 To receive c inſtruction to doe wiſely, by d iuſtice and iudgement and equity.

4 To give unto the e ſimple ſharpneſſe of wit, and to the childe knowledge and diſcretion.

5 A wiſe man ſhall heare and increaſe in learning, and a man of f underſtanding ſhall attaine unto wiſe counſels,

6 To underſtand a parable, and the interpretation, the words of the wiſe, and their darke ſayings.

7 ¶ * The feare of the Lord is the beginning of knowledge: but fooles deſpiſe wiſedome and inſtruction.

8 My ſonne, heare thy g fathers inſtruction, and forſake not thy h mothers teaching.

9 For they ſhall be † a comely ornament unto thine head, and as chaines for thy necke.

10 ¶ My ſonne, i if ſinners doe intiſe thee, conſent thou not.

11 If they ſay, Come with us, we will lay wait for k blood, and lie privily for the innocent without a cauſe:

12 We will ſwallow them up alive like a l grave, even whole, as thoſe that goe downe into the pit:

13 We ſhall finde all precious riches, and fill our houſes with ſpoyle:

14 Caſt in thy lot among us, we will all have one m purſe:

15 My ſonne, walke not thou in the way with them: refraine thy foote from their n path.

a That is, what we ought to know and follow, and what we ought to refuſe.

b Meaning, the wordes of God wherein is the only true knowledge.

c To learne to ſubmit our ſelves to the correction of thoſe that are wiſe.

d By living iuſtly and tendring to every man that which appertaineth unto him.

e To ſuch as have no diſcretion to rule themſelves.

f As he ſheweth that theſe parables conteining the effect of religion as touching meanes and doctrine, doe appertaine to the ſimple people: ſo doeth he declare that the ſame is alſo neceſſarie for them that are wiſe and learned.

* Pſal.111,10. Eccluſ.1,16.

g He ſpeaketh this in the Name of God, which is the univerſall Father of all creatures, or in the name of the paſtour of the Church, who is as a father.

h That is, of the Church, wherein the faithfull are begotten by the incorruptible ſeede of Gods word.

i To wit, the wicked which have not the feare of God.

k He ſpeaketh not onely of the ſhedding of blood with hand, but of all craftie practiſes which tend to the detriment of our neighbour.

l As the grave is never ſatiate, ſo the avarice of the wicked and their cruelty hath none end.

m He ſheweth whereby the wicked are allured to ioyne together, becauſe they have every one part of the ſpoyle of the innocent.

n That is, have nothing at all to doe with them.

16 For their feete run to evill, and make haſte to ſhed blood.

17 Certainely as without cauſe the net is ſpread before the eyes of all that hath wing:

18 So they lay waite for blood, and lie privily for o their lives.

19 Such are the wayes of every one that is greedie of gaine: he would take away p the life of the owners thereof.

20 ¶ q Wiſdome cryeth without: ſhe uttereth her voyce in the r ſtreetes.

21 She calleth in the high ſtreete, among the preaſe in the entrings of the gates, and uttereth her words in the city, ſaying, 22 O ye ſ fooliſh, how long will ye love fooliſhneſſe? and the ſcornefull take their pleaſure in ſcorning? and the fooles hate knowledge?

23 (Turne you at my correction: loe, I will powre out my mind unto you, and make you underſtand my words.)

24 Becauſe I have called, and ye refuſed: I have ſtretched out mine hand, and none would regard,

25 But yee have deſpiſed all my counſell, and would none of my correction,

26 I will alſo t laugh at your deſtruction, and mocke when your feare commeth.

27 When u your feare commeth like ſudden deſolation, and your deſtruction ſhall come like a whirlewinde: when affliction and anguiſh ſhall come upon you,

28 Then ſhall they call upon mee, but I will not anſwere: they ſhall ſeeke me early, but they ſhall not x finde me.

29 Becauſe they hated knowledge, and did not chuſe the feare of the Lord.

30 They would none of my counſell, but y deſpiſed all my correction.

31 Therefore ſhall they eat of the z fruit of their owne way, and be filled with their owne deviſes.

32 For a eaſe ſlayeth the fooliſh, and the proſperitie of fooles deſtroyeth them.

33 But he that obeyeth me, ſhall dwell ſafely, and be quiet from feare of evill.

o He ſheweth that there is no cauſe to moove theſe wicked to ſpoile the innocent, but their avarice and cruelty.

p Whereby he concludeth, that the covetous man is a murtherer.

q This wiſedome is the eternall word of God.

r So that noone can pretend ignorance.

ſ Wiſedome reprooveth three kindes of men: the fooliſh or ſimple which erre of ignorance, and the mockers that cannot ſuffer to be taught, and the fooles which are drowned in worldly luſts and hate the knowledge of godlineſſe.

t This is ſpoken according to our capacitie, ſignifying that the wicked, which mocke and ieſt at Gods word, ſhall have the iuſt reward of their mocking.

u That is, your deſtruction, which thing you feared.

x Becauſe they ſought not with an affection to God, but for eaſe of their owne griefe.

y Shewing that without faith and obedience, we can not call upon God aright.

z They ſhall feele what commoditie their wicked life ſhall give them.

a That is, the proſperitie and ſenſualitie wherein they delight.

CHAP. II.

1 Wiſedome exhorteth to obey her. 5 She teacheth the feare of God. 16 She is given of God. 20 She perſeuereth from wickedneſſe.

My

MY sonne, if thou wilt receive my wordes, and [a] hide my commandements within thee,
2 And cause thine eares to hearken unto wisdome, and encline [b] thine heart to vnderstanding.
3 (For if thou callest after knowledge, [c] and cryest for vnderstanding:
4 If thou seekest her as silver, and searchest for her as for [d] treasures,
5 Then shalt thou vnderstand the feare of the Lord, and finde the [e] knowledge of God,
6 For the Lord giveth wisedome, out of his mouth commeth knowledge and vnderstanding.
7 He ‖ preserveth the state of the righteous, he is a shield to them that walke vprightly.
8 That they may keepe the wayes of iudgement: and he preserveth the way of his Saints)
9 Then shalt thou vnderstand righteousnesse and iudgement, and equitie, and every good path.
10 ¶ When wisdome entreth into thine heart, and knowledge delighteth thy soule.
11 Then shall [f] counsell preserve thee, and vnderstanding shall keepe thee,
12 And deliver thee from the evill way, and from the man that speaketh froward things.
13 And from them that leave the [g] wayes of righteousnesse to walke in the wayes of darkenes:
14 Which reioyce in doing evill, and delight [h] in the frowardnesse of the wicked,
15 Whose wayes are crooked, and they are lewd in their paths:
16 And it shall deliver thee from the strange [i] woman, even from the stranger which flattereth with her words,
17 Which forsaketh the [k] guide of her youth, and forgetteth the [l] covenant of her God.
18 Surely her [m] house tendeth to death, and her paths unto [n] the dead.
19 All they that goe unto her, returne not againe, neither take they hold of the wayes of life.
20 Therefore walke thou in the way of good men, and keepe the wayes of the righteous.
21 For the iust shall dwell in the [o] land, and the vpright men shall remaine in it.
22 But the wicked shall be cut off from the earth, and the transgressour shall be rooted out of it.
9 [f] Honour the Lord with thy riches, and with the first fruits of all thine increase.
10 So shall thy barnes be filled with abundance, and thy presses shall [g] burst with new wine.
11 ¶ My sonne, refuse not the chastening of the Lord, neither be grieved with his correction.
12 * For the Lord correcteth him, whom hee loveth, even as the father doth the childe, in whom he delighteth.
13 Blessed is the man that findeth wisedome, and the man that getteth vnderstanding.
14 For the marchandise thereof is better then the marchandise of silver, and the gaine thereof is better then gold.
15 It is more precious then pearles: and all things that thou canst desire, are not to be compared unto her.
16 Length of dayes is in her right hand, [h] and in her left hand riches and glory.
17 Her wayes are wayes of pleasure, and all her paths prosperitie.
18 She is a tree [i] of life to them that lay holde on her, and blessed is he that retaineth her.
19 The Lord by wisdome hath laid the [k] foundation of the earth, and hath stablished the heavens through vnderstanding.
20 By his knowledge the depths are broken up, and the cloudes drop downe the dew.
21 My sonne, let not these things depart from thine eyes, but observe wisedome and counsell,
22 So they shalbe life to thy soule, and grace unto thy ‖ necke.
23 Then shalt thou walke safely by the way: and thy foote shall not stumble.
24 If thou sleepest, thou shalt not be afraid: and when thou sleepest, thy sleepe shalbe sweet.
25 Thou shalt not feare for any sudden feare, neither for destruction of the wicked, when it commeth.
26 For the Lord shall be for thine assurance, and shall preserve thy foot from taking.
27 ¶ Withhold not the good from [m] the owners thereof, though there be power in thine hand to doe it.
28 Say not unto thy neighbour, Go and come againe, and to morrow will I give thee, if thou now have it.
29 ¶ Intend none hurt against thy neighbour, seeing he doth dwell [n] without feare by thee.
30 ¶ Strive not with a man causelesse, when hee hath done thee no harme.
31 ¶ Be not [o] envious for the wicked man, neither chuse any of his wayes.
32 For the froward is abomination unto the Lord: but his [p] secret is with the righteous.
33 The curse of the Lord is in the house of the wicked: but hee blesseth the habitation of the righteous.
34 With the scornefull [q] he scorneth, but hee giveth grace unto the humble.
35 The wise shall inherit glory: but fooles dishonour, though they be exalted.

a That is, keepe them in thine heart.
b If thou give thy selfe to the true knowledge of God without hypocrisie.
c Meaning, that we must seeke the knowledge of God with care and diligence.
d Shewing that no labour must be spared.
e This (saith he) is the true wisedome, to know and feare God.
‖ Or, hideth the salvation.
f The word of God shall teach thee, and counsell thee how to governe thy selfe.
g That is, the word of God, which is the only light, to follow their owne fantasies which are darkenesse.
h When they see any given to evill as they are.
i Meaning, that wisedome which is the word of God, shall preserve us from all vices: naming this vice of whoredom whereunto man is most prone.
k That is, her husband, which is her head and guide to governe her, from whom she ought not to depart, but remaine in his subiection.
l Which is the promise made in mariage.
m Her acquaintance with her familiars, and them that haunt her.
n To them that are dead in body and soule.
o They shall enioy the temporall and spirituall promises of God, as the wicked shalbe voyd of them.
f As was commanded in the Law, Exod.23.19. Deut.26.2. and by this they acknowledged that God was the giver of all things, and that they were ready to bestow all at his commandement.
g For the faithfull distributer God giveth in greater abundance.
* Heb.12.5. Revel.3.19.
h Meaning, that he that seeketh wisedome, that is, suffereth himselfe to be governeth by the word of God, shall have all prosperitie both corporall and spirituall.
i Which bringeth forth such fruit that they that eate thereof have life: and he alludeth to the tree of life in paradise.
‖ Or, throat, reade Chap.1.9.
l For when God destroyeth the wicked, he will save his as he did Lot in Sodom.
m Not onely from them to whom the possession belongeth, but also thou shalt not keepe it from them which have need of the use thereof.
n That is, putteth his trust in thee.
o Desire not to be like unto him.
p That is, his covenant and fatherly affection which is hid and secret from the world.
q He will shewe by his plagues, that their scornes shall turne to their owne destruction, as Chap.1.26.

CHAP. III.

1 The wordes of God giveth life. 5 Trust in God. 7 Feare him. 9 Honour him. 11 Suffer his correction: 21 To them that follow the word of God, all things shall succeed well.

MY sonne, forget not thou my Law, but let thine heart * keepe my commandements.
2 For they shall increase the length of thy [a] dayes and the yeeres of life, and thy prosperitie.
3 Let not [b] mercy and trueth forsake thee: bind them on thy [c] necke, and write them upon the table of thine [d] heart.
4 So shalt thou find favour and good vnderstanding in the sight of God and man.
5 ¶ Trust in the Lord with all thine heart, and leane not unto thine owne wisedome.
6 In all thy wayes acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy wayes.
7 ¶ Be not wise in thine owne eyes: but feare the Lord, and depart from evill.
8 So health shalbe unto thy [e] navell, and marrow unto thy bones.

* Deut.8.1. & 30.16.
a Long life is the blessing of God which he giveth to his, so far foorth as it is expedient for them.
b By mercy and trueth, he meaneth the commandements of the first and second table: or els the mercy and faithfulnesse that wee ought to use toward our neighbours.
c Keepe them as a most precious iewell.
d Have them ever in remembrance.
e By this part he comprehendeth the whole body, as by health he meaneth all the benefits promised in the Law both corporall and spirituall.

CHAP. IIII.

1 Wisdome and her fruits ought to be searched. 14 The way of the wicked must be refused. 20 By the word of God the heart, eyes, and course of life must be guided.

HEare, O ye children, the instruction of a [a] father, and give eare to learne vnderstanding, a He speaketh this in the person of a Preacher and Minister, which is as a father unto the people, reade chapter 1. verse 8.

2 For I doe give you a good doctrine: therefore forsake ye not my law.

3 For I was my fathers sonne, tender and deare in the sight of my mother.

b Meaning David his father.

4 When hee b taught me, and sayd unto mee, Let thine heart holde fast my words: keepe my commandements, and thou shalt live.

5 Get wisedome: get understanding: forget not, neither decline from the words of my mouth.

6 Forsake her not, and shee shall keepe thee: love her and shee shall preserve thee.

7 c Wisedome is the beginning: get wisdome therefore: and above all thy possession get understanding.

c He sheweth that wee must first begin at Gods word, if so be we will that other things prosper with us, contrary to the judgement of the world, which make it their last study, or els care not for it at all.

8 Exalt her, and she shall exalt thee: she shall bring thee to honour, if thou imbrace her.

9 Shee shall give a comely ornament unto thine head, yea, shee shall give thee a crowne of glory.

10 ¶ Heare, my sonne: and receive my words, and the yeeres of thy life shalbe many.

d Salomon declareth what care his father had to bring him up in the true feare of God: for this was Davids professation.

11 I have d taught thee in the way of wisedom, and led thee in the pathes of righteousnesse.

e Thou shalt walke at liberty without offence.

12 When thou goest, thy gate shall not be e strait, and when thou runnest, thou shalt not fall.

13 Take holde of instruction, and leave not: keepe her, for shee is thy life.

14 ¶ Enter not into the way of the wicked, and walke not in the way of evill men.

15 Avoyde it, and goe not by it: turne from it, and passe by.

f Meaning, that to doe evill is more proper and naturall to the wicked, then to sleepe, eate or drinke.

16 For they cannot f sleepe, except they have done evill, and their sleepe departeth except they cause some to fall.

g Gotten by wicked meanes and cruell oppression.

17 For they eate the bread of g wickednesse, and drinke the wine of violence.

h Signifying, that the godly increase dayly in knowledge and perfection, till they come to full perfection, which is when they shall bee joyned to their head in the heavens.

18 But the way of the righteous shineth as the light, that h shineth more and more unto the perfite day.

i That is, they shall have health of body: under the which all other blessings promised in the law are conteined.

19 The way of the wicked is as the darkenesse: they know not wherein they shall fall.

k For as the heart is either pure or corrupt, so is the whole course of mans life.

20 ¶ My sonne, hearken unto my words, incline thine eare unto my sayings.

l Keepe a measure in all thy doings.

21 Let them not depart from thine eyes, but keepe them in the mids of thine heart.

22 For they are life unto those that find them: and health unto all their i flesh.

23 Keepe thine heart with all diligence: for thereout commeth k life.

24 Put away from thee a froward mouth, and put wicked lips farre from thee.

25 Let thine eyes behold the right, and let thine eye lids direct thy way before thee.

26 l Ponder the path of thy feet, and let all thy wayes be ordered aright.

27 Turne not to the right hand, nor to the left, but remoove thy foot from evill.

CHAP. V.

3 Whoredome forbidden. 9 And prodigalitie. 15 He willeth a man to live on his labours and to helpe others. 18 To love his wife. 22 The wicked taken in their owne wickednesse.

M Y sonne, hearken unto my wisedome, and incline thine eare unto my ‖ knowledge,

‖ Or, understanding.

2 That thou mayest regard counsell, and thy lips observe knowledge.

a Of a strange woman is meant a harlot which giveth herselfe to another then to her husband

3 For the lips a of a strange woman drop as an hony combe, and her mouth is more soft then b oyle.

b By oyle and hony hee meane h flattering and craftie inticements.

4 But the ende of her is bitter as wormewood, and sharpe as a two edged sword.

c All her doings lead to destruction.

5 Her c feet goe downe to death, and her steps take hold on hell.

6 She weigheth not the way of life: her paths are mooveable, thou canst not know them.

7 Heare yee mee now therefore, O children, and depart not from the words of my mouth.

8 Keepe thy way farre from her, and come not neere the doore of her house, d She hath ever new meanes to allure to wickednes.

9 Least thou give thine e honour unto others, and thy yeeres to the cruell:

e That is, thy strength and goods to her that will have no pitie upon thee: as is reade of Samson, and the prodigall sonne.

10 Least the stranger should be filled with thy f strength, and thy f labours be in the house of a stranger.

f The goods gotten by thy travell.

11 And thou mourne at thine ende, (when thou hast consumed thy flesh and thy body.)

g Although I was faithfully instructed in the trueth, yet had I almost fallen to utter shame and destruction, notwithstanding my good bringing up in the assembly of the godly.

12 And say, How have I hated instruction, and mine heart despised correction!

13 And have not obeyed the voyce of them that taught mee, nor inclined mine eare to them that instructed me!

h Hee teacheth us sobrietie, exhorting us to live of our owne labours and to be beneficiall to the godly that want.

14 I was almost brought into all evill in the mids of the Congregation and g assembly.

15 ¶ Drinke the water of h thy cisterne, and of the rivers out of the mids of thine owne well.

i Distribute them not to the wicked and infidels, but reserve them for thy selfe, thy family and them that are of the houshold of faith.

16 Let thy fountaines flow foorth, and the rivers of waters in the streetes.

17 But let them be thine, even i thine onely, and not the strangers with thee.

k Thy children which shall come of thee in great abundance, shewing that God blesseth marriage, and curseth whoredome.

18 Let thy k fountaine be blessed, and reioyce with the wife of thy l youth.

l Which thou didest marry in thy youth.

19 Let her be as the loving hinde and pleasant roe: let her breasts satisfie thee at all times, and delite in her love continually.

20 For why shouldest thou ‖ delite, my sonne, in a strange woman, or embrace the bosome of a stranger?

‖ Or, goe astray with a stranger?

21 For the wayes of man are before the m eyes of the Lord, and he pondereth all his paths.

m He declareth that except man doe joyne to his wife both in heart and in outward conversation, that he shall not escape the iudgements of God.

22 His owne iniquities shall take the wicked himselfe, and he shall be holden with the coards of his owne sinne.

23 He shall n die for fault of instruction, and shall goe astray through his great follie.

n Because he will not give eare to Gods word and be admonished.

CHAP. VI.

1 Instruction for sureties. 6 The slothfull and sluggish is stirred to worke. 11 He describeth the nature of the wicked. 16 The things that God hateth. 20 To observe the word of God. 24 To flee adulterie.

M Y sonne, if thou be surety for thy neighbour, and hast striken hands with the stranger,

2 Thou art a snared with the wordes of thy mouth: thou art even taken with the wordes of thine owne mouth.

a He forbiddeth us not to become suretie one for an other according to the rule of charitie, but that we consider for whom and after what sort, so that the creditour may not be defrauded.

3 Doe this now, my Sonne, and deliver thy selfe: seeing thou art come into the hand of thy neighbour, goe, and humble thy selfe, and solicite thy friends.

4 Give no sleepe to thine eyes, nor slumber to thine eye lids,

5 Deliver thy selfe as a Doe from the hand of the hunter, and as a bird from the hand of the fowler.

6 ¶ Goe to b the pismire, O sluggard: behold her wayes, and be wise.

b If the word of God cannot instruct thee, yet learne at the little pismire to labour for thy selfe and not to burden others.

7 For shee having no guide, governour, nor ruler,

8 Prepareth her meat in the summer, and gathereth her foode in harvest.

9 How long wilt thou sleepe, O sluggard? when when wilt thou arise out of the sleepe?

10 * Yet a little sleepe, a little slumber, c a little folding of the hands to sleepe.

11 Therefore thy povertie commeth as one that d travelleth by the way, and thy necessitie like e an armed man.

12 The vnthriftie man f and the wicked man walketh with a froward mouth.

13 He maketh a signe with his eyes: he † signifieth with his feet: he g instructeth ẅ his fingers.

14 Lewd things are in his heart: hee imagineth evill at all times, and raiseth up contentions.

15 Therefore shall his destruction come speedily: he shallbe destroyed suddenly without recoverie.

16 ¶ These six things doth the Lord hate: yea, his soule abhorreth seven:

17 The hautie eyes, a lying tongue, and the hands that shed innocent blood,

18 An heart that imagineth wicked enterprises, h feet that be swift in running to mischiefe, 19 A false witnes that speaketh lyes, and him that raiseth up contentions among ‖ brethren.

20 ¶ My sonne', keepe thy fathers commandement, and forsake not thy mothers instruction.

21 Binde them alway upon thine i heart, and tie them about thy necke.

22 It shall leade thee when thou walkest: it shall watch for thee when thou sleepest, and when thou wakest, it shall talke with thee.

23 For the k commandement is a lanterne, and instruction a light: and l corrections for instruction are the way of life, 24 To keepe thee from the wicked woman, and from the flatterie of the tongue of a strange woman.

25 Desire not her beautie in thine heart, neither let her take thee with her m eye lids.

26 For because of the whorish woman, a man is brought to a morsell of bread, and a woman will hunt for the precious life of a man.

27 n Can a man take fire in his bosome, and his cloathes not be burnt?

28 Or can a man goe upon coales, and his feet not be burnt?

29 So he that goeth in to his neighbours wife, shall not be innocent, whosoever toucheth her.

30 Men do not o despise a thiefe, when he stealeth to satisfie his p soule, because he is hungry.

31 But if hee be found, hee shall restore seven fold, or he shall give all the substance of his house.

32 But hee that committeth adulterie with a woman, he † is destitute of vnderstanding: he that doeth it, destroyeth his owne soule.

33 Hee shall finde q a wound and dishonour, and his reproach shall never be put away.

34 For ielousie is the rage of a man: therefore he will not r spare in the day of vengeance.

35 He cannot beare the sight of any ransome: neither will hee consent, though thou augment the gifts.

* Chap. 24.33.
c He expresseth lively the nature of the sluggards, which though they sleepe never so long, yet have never enough, but ever seeke occasions thereunto.
d That is, suddenly, and when thou lookest not for it.
e It shall come in such sort as thou art not able to resist it.
f He sheweth to what inconuenience the idle persons and sluggards come, by calling them vnthriftie or the men of Belial, and slanderous.
† Ebr. speaketh.
g Thus all his gesture tendeth to wickednesse.
h Meaning, the raging affections, which carie a man away in such sort that he cannot tell what he doeth.
‖ Or, neighbours.
i Reade Chap. 3. 3.
k By the commandement, hee meaneth the word of God: and by the instruction, the preaching and declaration of the same, which is committed to the Church.
l And reprehensions when the word is preached bring us to life.
m With her wanton looke and gesture.
n Meaning, that shee will never cease till she have brought thee to beggerie, and then seeke thy destruction.
o He approoveth not theft, but sheweth that it is not so abominable as whoredome, forasmuch as theft might be redeemed: but adulterie was a perpetuall infamie, and death by the law of God.
p Meaning, for very necessity.
† Ebr. satisieth to heart.
q That is, death appointed by the Law.
r He sheweth that man by nature seeketh his death, that hath abused his wife, and so concludeth, that neither Gods Law nor the law of nature admitteth any ransome for the adulterie.

CHAP. VII.

2 An exhortation to wisedome and to the word of God, 5 Which will preserue us from the harlot, 6 Whose manners are described.

MY sonne, keepe my words, and hide my commandements with thee.

2 Keepe my commandements, and thou shalt live, & mine instruction, as § a apple of thine eyes.

3 Bind them upon thy fingers, and write them upon the table of thine heart.

4 Say unto wisedome, Thou art my sister, and call understanding thy kinswoman.

5 That they may keepe thee from the strange woman, even from the stranger that is smooth in her words.

6 ¶ b As I was in the window of mine house, I looked thorow my window.

7 And I saw among the fooles, and considered among the children a yong man destitute of vnderstanding,

8 Who passed thorow the streete by her corner, and went toward her house.

9 In the twilight in the evening, when the night began to be c blacke and darke.

10 And behold, there met him a woman with an harlots ‖ behaviour, and ‖ subtill in heart.

11 (Shee d is babbling and lowd, whose feete cannot abide in her house.

12 Now she is without, now in the streets, and lieth in wait at every corner)

13 So she caught him and kissed him, and † with an impudent face sayd unto him, 14 I have e peace offerings: this f day have I payed my vowes.

15 Therefore came I foorth to meet thee, that I might seeke thy face: and I have found thee.

16 I have deckt my bed with ornaments, ‖ carpets and laces of Egypt.

17 I haue perfumed my bed with myrrhe, aloes, and cynamom.

18 Come, let vs take our fill of loue vntill the morning: let vs take our pleasure in daliance.

19 For mine husband is not at home: hee is gone a journey farre off.

20 He hath taken † with him a bagge of siluer, and will come home at the day appointed.

21 Thus with her great craft she caused him to yeeld, and with her flattering lips she intised him.

22 And hee followed her straightwayes, as an g oxe that goeth to the slaughter, and h as a foole to the stockes for correction.

23 Till a dart strike thorow his liuer, as a bird hasteth to the snare, not knowing that † he is in danger.

24 ¶ Heare me now therefore, O children, and hearken to the words of my mouth.

25 Let not thine heart decline to her wayes: wander thou not in her paths.

26 For shee hath caused many to fall downe wounded, and the i strong men are all slaine by her.

27 Her house is the way * unto the grave, which goeth downe to the chambers of death.

a By this diversitie of words, hee meaneth that nothing ought to be so deare unto us as the word of God, nor that we look on any thing more nor mind any thing so much.
b Salomon vseth this parable to declare their folly, that suffer themselves to be abused by balots.
‖ Or, garment.
Or, bid.
d He describeth certaine conditions, which are peculiar to harlots.
† Ebr. She strengthened her face.
e Because that in peace offerings a portion returned to them that offered, she sheweth him that shee hath meat at home to make good cheere with: orels shee would use some cloake of holinesse till she had gotten him in her snares.
f Which declareth that harlots outwardly will seeme holy and religious: both because they may the better deceive others, and also thinking by observing of ceremonies and offerings to make satisfaction for their sinnes.
‖ Or, carued worke.
g Which thinking hee goeth to the gasture, goeth willingly to his owne destruction.
h Which goeth cheerefully, not knowing that he shallbe chastised. † Ebr. It is for his life. i Neither wit nor strength can deliver them that fall into the hands of the harlot. * Chap. 2. 18.

CHAP. VIII.

2 Wisedome declareth her excellencie, 12 riches, 15 power, 20 eternitie. 32 She exhorteth all to love and follow her.

DOth * not a wisedome cry? and vnderstanding utter her voyce?

2 She standeth in the toppe of the high places by the way in the place of the pathes.

3 She cryeth besides b the gates before the citie at the entrie of the doores,

4 O men, I call unto you, and my voyce to the children of men.

* Chap. 1. 20.
a Salomon declareth that man is cause of his owne perdition, and that he can pretend no ignorance, forasmuch as God calleth to all men by his word, and by his workes to follow vertue, and to flee from vice.
b Where the people did most resort, and which was the place of iustice.

5 O ye fooliſh men, vnderſtand wiſdome, and ye, O fooles, be wiſe in heart.

6 Give eare, for I will ſpeake of excellent things, and the opening of my lippes ſhall teach things that be right.

7 For my mouth ſhall ſpeake the trueth, and my lippes abhorre wickednesſe.

8 All the words of my mouth are righteous: there is no lewdneſſe, nor frowardneſſe in them.

9 They are all [c] plaine to them that will vnderſtand, and ſtraight to them that would finde knowledge.

10 Receive mine inſtruction, and not ſilver, and knowledge rather then fine gold.

11 For wiſedome is better then precious ſtones: and all pleaſures are not to be compared vnto her.

12 I wiſedome dwell with [d] prudence, and I find foorth knowledge and counſels.

13 The feare of the Lord is to hate [e] evill, as pride, and arrogancie, and the evill way: and a mouth that ſpeaketh lewd things I doe hate.

14 I have counſell and wiſdome: I am vnderſtanding, and I have ſtrength.

15 By me [f] kings reigne, and princes decree iuſtice.

16 By me princes rule, and the nobles, and all the iudges of the earth.

17 I love them that love mee: and they that ſeeke me [g] early ſhall finde me.

18 Riches and honour are with mee: [h] even durable riches and righteouſneſſe.

19 My fruit is better then gold, even then fine gold, and my revenues better then fine ſilver.

20 I cauſe to walke in the way of righteouſnes, and in the mids of the paths of [i] iudgement, 21 That I may cauſe them that love me [j] to inherite ſubſtance, and I will fill their treaſures.

22 The Lord hath poſſeſſed me in the beginning of his way: I was [k] before his works of old.

23 I was ſet up from everlaſting, from the beginning, and before the earth.

24 When there were no depths, was I begotten, when there were no fountaines abounding with water.

25 Before the mountaines were ſetled: and before the hilles, was I begotten.

26 He had not yet made the earth, nor the open places, nor the height of the duſt in the world.

27 When he prepared the heavens, I was there, when he ſet the compaſſe vpon the deepe:

28 When hee eſtabliſhed the cloudes above: when he confirmed the fountaines of the deepe:

29 When he gave his decree to the ſea, that the waters ſhould not paſſe his commandement, when he appointed the foundations of the earth.

30 Then was I with him [m] as a nouriſher, and I was dayly his delight, reioycing alway before him, 31 And tooke my [n] ſolace in the compaſſe of [o] his earth: and my delight is with the children of men.

32 Therefore now hearken, O children, unto me: for bleſſed are they that keepe my wayes.

33 Heare inſtruction, and be ye wiſe, and refuſe it not: bleſſed is the man that heareth mee, watching dayly at my gates, and giving attendance at the poſts of my doores.

34 For he that findeth me, findeth life, and ſhall obteine favour of the Lord.

35 But he that ſinneth againſt me, hurteth his owne ſoule: and all that hate me, love death.

c Meaning, that the word of God is eaſie unto all that have a deſire unto it, and which are not blinded by the prince of this world.

d That is, except a man have wiſedome, which is the true knowledge of God, he can neither be prudent nor good counſeller.

e So that he that doth not hate evill, feareth not God.

f Whereby he declareth that honours, dignitie or riches come not of mans wiſedome or induſtry, but by the providence of God.

g That is, ſtudie the word of God diligently, and with a deſire to profit.

h Signifying that he chiefly meaneth the ſpirituall treaſures and heavenly riches.

i For there can be no true iuſtice or iudgement, which is not reiected by this wiſedome.

j He declareth hereby the divinitie and eternitie of this wiſedome, which he magnifieth and prayſeth thorow this booke: meaning thereby the eternall ſon of God Ieſus Chriſt our Saviour, whom Saint Iohn calleth that word that was in the beginning, Iohn 1.1.

k He declareth the eternitie of the Sonne of God, which is meant by this word, Wiſedome, who was before all time, and ever preſent with the father.

m Some reade, a chiefe worke: ſignifying that this wiſedome, even Chriſt Ieſus, was equall with God his father, and created, preſerveth and ſtill worketh with him, as Iob. 5.17.

n Whereby is declared that the worke of the creation was no paine, but a ſolace unto the wiſedome of God.

o By earth hee meaneth man, which is the worke of God, in whome wiſedome tooke pleaſure: inſomuch as for mans ſake the divine wiſedome tooke mans nature, and dwelt among us, and filled vs with vnſpeakeable treaſures: and this is that ſolace and paſtime whereof is here ſpoken.

CHAP. IX.

2 Wiſedome calleth all to her feaſt. 7 The ſcorner will not be corrected. 10 The feare of God. 13 The conditions of the harlot.

WIſedome hath built her [a] houſe, and hewen out her [b] ſeven pillars.

2 She hath killed her victuals, drawen her wine, and [c] prepared her table.

3 She hath ſent forth her [d] maidens, and crieth upon the higheſt places of the citie, ſaying,

4 Who ſo is [e] ſimple, let him come hither, and to him that is deſtitute of wiſedome, ſhe ſaith,

5 Come, and eate of my [f] meate, and drinke of the wine that I have drawen.

6 Forſake your vvay, yee fooliſh, and yee ſhall live: and walke in the way of vnderſtanding.

7 He that reprooveth a ſcorner, purchaſeth to himſelfe ſhame: and he that rebuketh the wicked, getteth himſelfe a [g] blot.

8 Rebuke not a [h] ſcorner, leaſt he hate thee: but rebuke a wiſe man, and he will love thee.

9 Give admonition to the wiſe, and he will be the wiſer: teach a righteous man, and hee will increaſe in learning.

10 The beginning of wiſedome is the feare of the Lord, and the knowledge of holy things, is [i] vnderſtanding.

11 For thy dayes ſhall be multiplied by mee, and the yeeres of thy life ſhall be augmented.

12 If thou be wiſe, thou ſhalt be wiſe for [k] thy ſelfe, and if thou be a ſcorner, thou alone ſhalt ſuffer.

13 ¶ A fooliſh woman is troubleſome; ſhe is ignorant and knoweth nothing.

14 But ſhee ſitteth at the doore of her houſe on a ſeate in the high places of the citie,

15 To call them that paſſe by the way, that goe right on their way, ſaying,

16 Who ſo is ſimple let him come hither, and to him that is deſtitute of wiſdome, ſhe ſaith alſo, 17 Stollen waters are ſweet, and hid bread is pleaſant.

18 But he knoweth not, that the dead are there, and that her gheſts are in the depth of hell.

a Christ hath prepared him a Church.

b That is, many chiefe ſtayes and principall parts of his Church, as were the Patriarkes, Prophets, Apoſtles, Paſtours, and Doctours.

c He compareth wiſedome with great princes that keepe open houſe for all that come.

d Meaning, true preachers, which are not infected with mans wiſedome.

e He that knoweth his owne ignorance, and is voide of malice.

f By the meat and drinke, is meant the word of God, and the miniſtration of the Sacraments, whereby God nouriſheth his ſervants in his houſe, which is the Church.

g For the wicked will contemne him and labour to defame him.

h Meaning them that are incorrigible, which Chriſt calleth dogs and ſwine: or he ſpeaketh this in comparison, not that the wicked ſhould not be rebuked, but he ſheweth their malice, and the ſmall hope of profit.

i He ſheweth what true vnderſtanding is, to know the will of God in his word which is meant by holy things.

k Thou ſhalt have the chiefe profit and commoditie thereof.

l By the fooliſh woman, ſome vnderſtand the wicked preachers, who counterfeite the word of God: as appeareth verſe 16. which were the words of the true preachers, as verſe 4. but their doctrine is but as ſtollen waters: meaning that they are but mens traditions, which are more pleaſant to the fleſh then the word of God, and therefore they themſelves boaſt thereof.

CHAP. X.

In this Chapter, and all that follow, vnto the thirtieth, the wiſe man exhorteth by divers ſentences, which hee calleth Parables, to follow vertue, and flee vice: and alſo ſheweth what profite commeth of wiſedome, and what hinderance proceedeth of fooliſhneſſe.

THE PARABLE OF SALOMON.

A Wiſe * ſonne maketh a glad father: but a fooliſh ſonne is an heavineſſe to his mother.

2 The treaſures of [a] wickednesſe profite nothing; but righteouſneſſe delivereth from death.

* Chap.15,20.

a That is, wickedly gotten.

3 The Lord will b not famish the soule of the righteous: but he casteth away the substance of the wicked.

4 A ‖ slouthfull hand maketh poore: but the hand of the diligent maketh rich.

5 He that gathereth in summer, is the sonne of wisdom: but he that sleepeth in harvest, is the son of confusion.

6 Blessings are upon the head of the righteous: but iniquitie shall cover the mouth of c the wicked.

7 The memoriall of the iust shalbe blessed: but the name of the wicked shall d rot.

8 The wise in heart will receive commandements: but the foolish in † talke shalbe beaten.

9 He that walketh uprightly, walketh ‖ boldly: but hee that perverteth his wayes, shall be knowen.

10 Hee that e winketh with the eye, worketh sorow, and he that is f foolish in talke, shall be beaten.

11 The mouth of a righteous man is a welspring of live: but iniquity covereth the mouth of the wicked.

12 Hatred stirreth up contentions: * but love covereth all trespasses.

13 In the lippes of him that hath understanding, wisedome is found, and g a rod shall be for the backe of him that is destitute of wisedome.

14 Wise men lay up knowledge: but the mouth of the foole is a present destruction.

15 The rich mans goods are his h strong city: but the feare of the needy is their poverty.

16 The labour of the righteous tendeth to life: but the revenues of the wicked to sinne.

17 He that regardeth instruction is in the way of life: but he that refuseth correction, goeth out of the way.

18 He that dissembleth hatred with lying lips, and he that inventeth slaunder, is a foole.

19 In many words there cannot want iniquity: but he that refraineth his lips, is wise:

20 The tongue of the iust man is as fined silver: but the heart of the wicked is little worth.

21 The lips of the righteous doe i feed many: but fooles shall die for want of wisedome.

22 The blessing of the Lord, it maketh rich, and he doeth adde k no sorrowes with it.

23 It is a pastime to a foole to doe wickedly: but wisedome is understanding to a man.

24 That which the wicked feareth, shall come upon him: but God will graunt the desire of the righteous.

25 As the whirlewinde passeth, so is the wicked no more: but the righteous is as an everlasting foundation.

26 As vineger is to the teeth, and as smoake to the eyes, so is the slothfull to them that l send him.

27 The feare of the Lord increaseth the dayes: but the yeeres of the wicked m shalbe diminished.

28 The patient abiding of the righteous shalbe gladnes: but the hope of the wicked shall perish.

29 The way of the Lord is strength to the upright man: but feare shalbe for the workers of iniquitie.

30 The righteous shall never be remooved: but the wicked shall not dwell in the land.

31 The mouth of the iust shall be fruitfull in wisdome: but the tongue of the froward shall be cut out.

32 The lips of the righteous know what is acceptable: but the mouth of the wicked speaketh froward things.

b Though he suffer the iust to want for a time, yet he will send him comfort in due season.

g That is, God will finde him out to punish him.
h And so maketh him bold to doe evill, whereas poverty bridleth the poore from many evill things.

i For they speake trueth, and edifie many by exhortations, admonitions and counsell.
k Meaning, that all worldly things bring care, and sorrow, whereas they that feele the blessings of God, have none.

l He is but a trouble and griefe to him about any businesse.
m The time of their prosperitie shalbe short because of their great fall, though they seeme to live long.
n They enioy in this life by faith and hope, their everlasting life.

CHAP. XI.

FAlse a balances are an abomination unto the Lord: but a perfite † weight pleaseth him.

2 When pride commeth, then commeth b shame: but with the lowly is wisedome.

3 The vprightnesse of the iust shall guide them: but the frowardnesse of the transgressers shall destroy them.

4 * Riches availe not in the day of wrath: but righteousnesse delivereth from death.

5 The righteousnesse of the vpright shall direct his way: but the wicked shall fall in his owne wickednesse.

6 The righteousnes of the iust shall deliver them: but the transgressers shall be taken in their owne wickednesse.

7 * When a wicked man dieth, his hope perisheth, and the hope of the vniust shall perish.

8 The righteous escapeth out of trouble, and the wicked shall come in his c stead.

9 An d hypocrite with his mouth harteth his neighbour: but the righteous shalbe delivered by knowledge.

10 In the prosperitie of the righteous the citie e reioyceth: and when the wicked perish, there is ioy.

11 By the ‖ blessing of the righteous the citie is exalted: but it is subuerted by the mouth of the wicked.

12 Hee that despiseth his neighbour, is destitute of wisedome: but a man of vnderstanding will f keepe silence.

13 He that goeth about as a slanderer, discovereth a secret: but hee that is of a faithfull heart, concealeth a matter.

14 Where no counsell is, the people fall: but where many g counsellers are, there is health.

16 A ‖ gracious woman attaineth honor, and the strong men attaine riches.

17 He that is mercifull, k rewardeth his owne soule: but hee that troubleth his owne ‖ flesh, is cruell.

18 The wicked worketh a deceitfull worke: but he that soweth righteousnesse, shall receive a sure reward.

19 As righteousnesse leadeth to life: so he that followeth evill, seeketh his owne death.

20 They that are of a froward heart, are abomination to the Lord: but they that are vpright in their way, are his delight.

7 Hee that keepeth the Law, is a childe of vnderstanding: but hee that feedeth the gluttons shameth his father.

e For God will take away the wicked vsurer, and give his goods to him that shall bestow them well.

8 Hee that increaseth his riches by usurie and interest, gathereth e them for him that will be mercifull vnto the poore.

d Because it is not of faith which is grounded of Gods word or Law, which the wicked contemne.

26 Hee that trusteth in his owne heart, is a foole: but hee that walketh in wisedome, shallbe delivered.

17 Correct thy sonne, and hee will give thee rest, and will give pleasures to thy soule.

18 d Where there is no vision, the people decay: but he that keepeth the law is blessed.

19 A e servant will not be chastised ẅ words: though he vnderstand, yet he will not ‖ answere.

20 Seest thou a man hasty in his matters? there is more hope of a foole, then of him.

31 He that delicately bringeth vp his servant from youth, at length he will be even as his sonne.

22 * An angry man stirreth vp strife, and a furious man aboundeth in transgression.

23 * The pride of a man shall bring him low: but the humble in spirit shall enioy glory.

24 He that is partner with a thiefe, hateth his own soule: he heareth cursing and declareth it not.

25 The feare of man bringeth a f snare: but he that trusteth in the Lord shalbe exalted.

26 Many doe seeke the face of the ruler: but every mans h iudgement commeth from the Lord.

ECCLESIASTES, OR THE PREACHER.

THE ARGUMENT.

Salomon as a Preacher and one that desired to instruct all in the way of salvation, describeth the deceiveable vanities of this world: that man should not be addicted to any thing vnder the sun, but rather inflamed with the desire of the heavenly life: therefore he confuteth their opinions, which set their felicity either in knowledge, or in pleasures, or in dignitie and riches, shewing that mans true felicitie consisteth in that, that hee is united with God, and shall enioy his presence: so that all other things must be reiected, save in asmuch as they further vs to attaine to this heavenly treasure, which is sure and permanent, and cannot be found in any other save in God alone.

CHAP. I.

2 All things in this world are full of vanitie, and of none indurance. 13 All mans wisdome is but folly and griefe.

THE wordes of the [a] Preacher, the sonne of David king in Ierusalem.

2 [b] Vanitie of vanities, sayth the Preacher: vanitie of vanities, all is vanitie.

3 What remaineth unto man in all his [c] travel, which he suffreth vnder ỹ sunne?

4 One generation passeth, and another generation succeedeth: but the earth remaineth for [d] ever.

5 The sunne riseth, and the sunne goeth downe, and draweth to his place where he riseth.

6 The [e] winde goeth toward the South, and compasseth toward the North: the winde goeth round about, and returneth by his circuits.

7 * All the rivers goe into the sea, yet the sea is not full: for the rivers goe unto the place [f] whence they returne, and goe.

8 All things are full of labour: man cannot vtter it: the eye is not satisfied with seeing, nor the eare filled with hearing.

9 [g] What is it that hath bin? that that shalbe: and what is it that hath bin done? that which shall be done: & there is no new thing vnder the sunne.

10 Is there any thing, whereof one may say, Behold this, it is new? it hath bin ready in the old time that was before us.

11 There is no memory of the former, neither shall there be a remembrance of the latter that shall be, with them that shall come after.

12 [h] I the Preacher have been king over Israel in Ierusalem:

13 And I have given mine heart to search and find out wisedome by all things that are done vnder the heaven: (this sore travell hath God given to the sonnes of men, i to humble them thereby.)

14 I have considered all the workes that are done vnder the sunne, and behold, all is vanitie, and vexation of the spirit.

15 That which is [k] crooked, can none make streight: & that which faileth, cannot be numbred.

16 I thought in mine heart, and sayd, Behold, I am become great, and excell in wisedom all them that have been before me in Ierusalem: and mine heart hath seene much wisedome and knowledge.

17 And I gave mine heart to know wisedome and knowledge, [l] madnesse and foolishnesse: I knew also that this is a vexation of the spirit.

18 For in the multitude of wisedome is much [m] griefe, and he that increaseth knowledge, increaseth sorow.

[a] Salomon is here called a preacher, or one that assembleth the people, because he teacheth the true knowledge of God, and how men ought to passe their life in this transitory world.

[b] He condemneth the opinions of all men that set felicitie in any thing, but in God alone, seeing that in this world all things are as vanitie and nothing.

[c] Salomon doeth not condemne mans labour or diligence, but sheweth that there is no full contentation in any thing vnder the heaven, nor in any creature, forasmuch as all things are transitory.

[d] One man dieth after another, and the earth remaineth longest, even to the last day, which yet is subiect to corruption.

[e] By the sunne, wind and rivers, hee sheweth that the greatest labour and longest hath an end, and therefore there can be no felicity in this world.

* Eccles. 40, 1.

[f] The sea which compasseth all the earth, filleth the vaines thereof, the which powre out springs and rivers into the sea againe.

[g] Hee speaketh of times and seasons, and things done in them, which as they have been in times past, so come they to passe againe.

[h] Hee prooveth that if any could have attained to felicitie in this world by labour, and studie, hee chiefly should have obteined it, because he had gifts and aydes of God thereunto above all other.

[i] Man of nature hath a desire to know, and yet is not able to come to the perfection of knowledge, which is the punishment of sinne, to humble man, and to teach him to depend onely upon God.

[k] Man is not able by all his diligence to cause things to go otherwise then they doe: neither can hee number the faults that are committed, much lesse remedy them.

[l] That is, vaine things, which served unto pleasure wherein was no commoditie, but griefe and trouble of conscience.

[m] Wisedome and knowledge cannot become by without great paine of body and minde: for when a man hath attained to the highest, yet is his minde neverfully content: therefore in this world is no true felicity.

CHAP. II.

Pleasures, sumptuous buildings, riches and possessions are but vanitie. 14 The wise and the foole have both one end touching the bodily death.

I Said in mine heart, Goe to now, I will proove a thee with ioy: therefore take thou pleasure in pleasant things: and behold, this also is vanitie.

2 I said of laughter, Thou art mad: and of ioy, What is this that thou doest?

3 I sought in mine heart † to give my selfe to wine, and to leade mine heart in b wisedome, and to take hold of folly, till I might see where is that goodnesse of the children of men, which they † enioy vnder the Sunne, the whole number of the dayes of their life.

4 I have made my great workes: I have built me houses: I have planted me vineyards.

5 I have made me gardens and † orchards, and planted in them trees of all fruit.

6 I have made me cisternes of water, to water therewith the woods that grow with trees.

7 I have gotten servants and maides, and had children borne in the c house: also I had great Possession of beeves and sheepe above all that were before me in Ierusalem.

8 I have gathered unto mee also silver and gold, and the chiefe treasures of Kings and provinces: I have provided me men singers, and women singers, and the d delights of the sonnes of men, as a woman • taken captive, and women taken captives.

9 And I was great, and increased above all that were before me in Ierusalem: also my wisedome † remained with me.

10 And whatsoever mine eyes desired, I withheld it not from them: I withdrew not mine heart from any ioy: for mine heart reioyced in all my labour: and this was my g portion of all my travell.

11 Then I looked on all my works that mine hands had wrought, and on the travell that I had laboured to doe: and beholde, all is vanitie and vexation of the spirit: and there is no profit vnder the Sunne.

12 ‖ And I turned to behold h wisedome, and madnes, and folly: (for who is the man that ‖ will come after the King in things, which men now have done?)

13 Then I saw that there is profit in wisedome more then in folly: as the light is more excellent then darkenesse.

14 * For the wise mans i eyes are in his head, but the foole walketh in darkenesse, yet I know also that the same k condition falleth to them all.

15 Then I thought in mine heart, It befalleth unto me, as it befalleth to the foole. Why therefore doe I then labour to be more wise? And I said in mine heart, that this also in vanitie.

16 For there shall be no remembrance of the wise, nor of the foole l for ever: for that that now is, in the dayes to come, shall all be forgotten. And m how dieth the wise man, as doeth the foole?

17 Therefore I hated life: for the worke that is wrought vnder the Sunne is grievous unto me: for all is vanitie, and vexation of the spirit.

18 I hated also all my labour, wherein I had travailed vnder the Sunne, which I shall leave to the man that shalbe after me.

19 And who knoweth whether he shalbe wise or foolish? yet shall he have rule over all my labour, wherein I have travailed, and wherein I have shewed my selfe wise vnder the Sunne. This is also vanitie.

20 Therefore I went about to make mine heart n abhorre all the labour, wherein I had travailed vnder the Sunne.

21 For there is a man whose travaile is in wisedome, and in knowledge, and in equitie: yet to a man that hath not travailed therein, shall he o give his portion: this also is vanity, and a great griefe.

22 For what hath man of all his travaile and griefe of his heart, wherein hee hath travailed vnder the Sunne?

23 For all his dayes are sorowes, and his travaile griefe: his heart also taketh not rest in the night: which also is vanitie.

24 There is no profit to man, but that he eat and drinke, and p delight his soule with the profit of his labour: I saw also this, that it was of the hand of God.

25 For who could eat, and who could haste to q outward things more then I?

26 Surely to a man that is good in his sight, God giveth wisedome, and knowledge, and ioy: but to the sinner hee giveth paine to gather, and to heape to give to him that is good before God: this also is vanitie, and vexation of the spirit.

a Salomon maketh this discourse with himselfe, as though he would try whether there were contentation in ease and pleasures.
† Ebr. draw my flesh to wine.
b Albeit I gave my selfe to pleasures, yet I thought to keepe wisedom and the feare of God in mine heart, and governe mine affaires by the same.

f For all this God did not take his gift of wisedome from mee.
g This was the fruit of all my labour, a certaine pleasure mixt with care, which he calleth vanity in the next verse.
h I bethought with my selfe whether it were better to follow wisedome, or mine owne affections and pleasures, which he calleth madnes.
‖ Or, compare with the King.

n That I might seeke the true felicitie which is in God.
o Among other griefes that was not the least, to leave that which hee had gotten by great travell, to one that had taken no paine therefore, and whom hee knew not whether he were a wise man or a foole p When man hath all laboured, hee can get no more then foode and refreshing, yet hee confesseth also that this commeth of Gods blessings, as Chap. 3.13.
q Meaning, in pleasures.

CHAP. III.

All things have their time. 14 The workes of God are perfect, and cause us to feare him. 17 God shall iudge both the iust and vniust.

TO all things there is an a appointed time, and a time to every purpose vnder the heaven.

2 A time to be borne, and a time to die: a time to plant, and a time to plucke up that which is planted.

3 A time to slay, and a time to heale: a time to breake downe, and a time to build.

4 A time to weepe, and a time to laugh: a time to mourne, and a time to daunce.

5 A time to cast away stones, and a time to gather stones: a time to embrace, and a time to be farre from embracing.

6 A time to seeke, and a time to lose: a time to keepe, and a time to cast away.

7 A time to rent, and a time to sowe: a time to keepe silence, and a time to speake.

8 A time to love, and a time to hate: a time of warre, and a time of peace.

9 What profit hath hee that worketh of the thing wherein he travaileth?

10 I have seene the travell that God hath given to the sonnes of men, b to humble them thereby.

11 He hath made every thing beautifull in his time: also hee hath set the c world in their heart, yet cannot man find out the work that God hath wrought from the beginning even to the end.

12 I know that there is nothing good in them, but to reioyce, and to doe good in his life.

13 And also that every man eateth and drinketh, and seeth the commoditie of all his labour: This is the d gift of God.

14 I know that whatsoever God shall doe, it shalbe for • ever: to it can no man adde, and from it can none diminish: for God hath done it, that they should feare before him.

15 What is that that hath bene? that is now: and that that shall be, hath now bene: for God ‖ requireth that which is past.

16 And moreover, I have seene vnder the Sunne the place of iudgement, where was wickednesse, and the place of iustice, where was iniquity.

17 I thought in mine heart, God will iudge the iust

a Hee speaketh of this diversitie of time for two causes, first to declare that there is nothing in this world perpetuall: next to teach us not to be grieved if wee have not all things at once according to our desires, neither enioy them so long as wee would wish.
b Reade Chap. 1.13.
c God hath given man a desire, and affection to seeke out the things of this world, and to labour therein.
d Reade Chap. 2.24. and these places declare that wee should doe all things with sobriety and in the feare of God, for as much as he giveth not his gifts to the intent they should be abused.
e That is, man shall never be able to let Gods worke, but he hath determined, so it shall come to passe.

11 He hath made every thing beautifull in his time: also hee hath set the c world in their heart, yet cannot man find out the work that God hath wrought from the beginning even to the end.

12 I know that there is nothing good in them, but to reioyce, and to doe good in his life.

13 And also that every man eateth and drinketh, and seeth the commoditie of all his labour. This is the d gift of God.

14 I know that whatsoever God shall doe, it shalbe for e ever: to it can no man adde, and from it can none diminish: for God hath done it, that they should feare before him.

15 What is that that hath bene? that is now: and that that shall be, hath now bene: for God f requireth that which is past.

16 And moreover, I have seene vnder the Sunne the place of iudgement, where was wickednesse, and the place of iustice, where was iniquity.

17 I thought in mine heart, God will iudge the iust

a Hee speaketh of this diversitie of time for two causes, first to declare that there is nothing in this world perpetuall: next to teach us not so be grieved if wee have not all things at once according to our desires, neither enioy them so long as wee would wish.
b Reade Chap. 1.13.
c God hath given man a desire, and affection to seeke out the things of this world, and to labour therein.
d Reade Chap. 2.24. and these places declare that wee should doe all things with sobriety and in the feare of God, for so much as he giveth not his gifts to the intent they should be abused.
e That is, man shall never be able to let Gods worke, but he hath determined, so it shall come to passe.
f God only easeth that, which is past, to returne.

iust and the wicked: for time is g there for every purpose and for every worke.

18 I considered in mine heart the state of the children of men, that God had h purged them: yet to see too, they are in themselves as beasts.

19 For the condition of the children of men, and the condition of beasts are even as one i condition unto them. As the one dieth, so dieth the other: for they have al one breath, & there is no excellencie of man above the beast: for all is vanity.

20 All go to one place, and all was of the dust, and all shall returne to the dust.

21 Who k knoweth whether the spirit of man ascend upward, and the spirit of the beast descend downeward to the eatth?

22 Therefore I see that there is nothing better then that a man should l reioyce in his affaires, because that is his portion. For who shall bring him to see what shalbe after him?

g Meaning, with God, how soever man neglect his duetie.
h And made them pure in their first creation.
i Man is not able by his reason and iudgement to put difference betweene man and beast, as touching those things whereunto both are subiect: for the eye cannot iudge any otherwise of a man being dead, then of a beast, which is dead: yet by the word of God and faith wee easily know the diversitie, as verse 21.
k Meaning, that reason cannot comprehend that which faith beleeveth herein. l By the often repetition of this sentence, as Chap. 2.24 and Chap. 3.12,22. Chap. 5.17. and Chap. 8.15. he declareth that man by reason comprehend nothing better in this life, then to vse the gifts of God soberly and comfortably: for to know further, is a speciall gift of God revealed by his Spirit.

CHAP. IIII.

2 The innocents are oppressed. 4 Mans labours are full of abuse and vanitie. 9 Mans societie is necessarie. 13 A young man poore and wise, is to be preferred to an old King that is a foole.

a He maketh here another discourse with himselfe concerning the tyrannie of them that oppressed the poore.
d Because they are no more subiect to these oppressions.
c Hee speaketh according to the iudgement of the flesh, which cannot abide to seale or see troubles.
d The more perfite that the worke is, the more it is envied of the wicked.
e For idlenesse hee is compelled to destroy himselfe.

SO I turned and considered all the oppressions that are wrought vnder the sunne, and behold, the teares of the oppressed, and none comforter th them, and loe, the strength is of the hand of them that oppresse them, and none comforteth them.

2 Wherefore I praysed the b dead which now are dead, above the living, which are yet alive.

3 And I count him c better then them both, which hath not yet beene: for hee hath not seene the evill works which are wrought vnder the sun.

4 Also I beheld all travaile, and all d perfection of workes, that this is the enuie of a man against his neighbour: this also is vanitie and vexation of spirit.

5 The foole foldeth his hands, and e eateth up his owne flesh.

6 Better is an handfull with quietnesse, then two handfuls with labour and vexation of spirit.

7 Againe I returned, and sawe vanitie vnder the sunne.

8 There is one alone, and there is not a second, which hath neither sonne nor brother, yet is there none end of all his travaile, neither can his eye be satisfied with riches: neither doeth he thinke, For whom doe I travaile and defraud my soule of pleasures? this also is vanitie, this is an evill travaile.

9 f Two are better wages for their labour.

10 For if they fall, the one will lift up his fellow: but woe unto him that is alone: for he falleth, and there is not a second to lift him up.

11 Also if two sleepe together, then shall they have heate: but to one how should there be heate?

12 And if one overcome him, two shall stand against him: and a threefold g coard is not easily broken.

13 Better is a poore and wise childe, then an old and foolish king, which will no more be admonished.

14 For out of the prison hee commeth foorth to reigne: when as he that is i borne in his kingdome, is made poore.

f Forasmuch as when man is alone, he can neither helpe himselfe nor others, he sheweth that men ought to live in mutuall societie to the intent they may be profitable one to another, and that their things may increase.
g By this proverbe he declareth how necessary it is, that men should live in societie.
h That is, from a poore and base estate, or out of trouble and prison, as Ioseph did, Gen. 41.14.
i Meaning, that is borne a King.

15 I beheld all the living, which walke vnder the Sunne k with the second childe, which shall stand up in his place.

16 There is none l end of all the people, nor of all that were before them, and they that come after, shall not reioyce in him: surely this is also vanitie and vexation of spirit.

17 Take heed to thine m foote when thou entrest into the house of God, and be more neere to heare then to give the sacrifice of n fooles: for they know not that they doe evill.

k Which follow and flatter the Kings sonne, or him that shall succeede, to enter into credite with them in hope of gaine.
l They never cease by all means to creepe into favour, but when they obtaine not their greedy desires, they thinke themselves abused, as other have beene in time past, and so care no more for him.
m That is, with what affection thou commest to heare the word of God.
n Meaning of the wicked, which thinke to please God with common vses, and have neither faith nor repentance.

CHAP. V.

1 Not to speake lightly, chiefly in Gods matters. 9 The covetous can never have enough. 11 The labourers sleepe is sweete. 14 Man when he dieth, taketh nothing with him. 18 To live ioyfully, and with a contented mind, is the gift of God.

a Either in vowing or in praying: meaning, that we should vse all reverence to Godward.
b Hee heareth thee not for thy many words sake, or often repetitions, but considereth thy faith and fervent minde.
* Deut. 23.21.
c Heespeaketh of vowes, which are approoved by Gods word, and serve to his glory.
d Cause not thy selve to sinne by vowing rashly: as they doe which make a vow to live vnmarried, and such like.
e That is, before Gods messengers, when he shall examine thy doings, as though thy ignorance should be a iust excuse.
f Meaning, that God willl redresse these things, and therefore we must depend upon him.
g The earth are to be preferred above all things which appertein to this life.
h Kings and Princes cannot maintein their estate without tillage, which thing commendeth the excellencie of tillage.
i That is, his great abundance of riches, or the surfeiting, which commeth by his great feeding.
k When covetous men heape up riches, which turne to their destruction.
l He doeth not enioy his treasures riches.
* Iob 1 21. Wisd. 7. 6 1. tim. 6. 7.
m Meaning in value, and without profit.
n In affliction and griefe of minde.

BE not a rash with thy mouth, nor let thine heart be hastie to vtter a thing before God: for God is in the heavens, and thou art on the earth: therefore let thy words be b few.

2 For as a dreame commeth by the multitude of businesse: so the voyce of a foole is in the multitude of words.

3 * When thou hast vowed a vow to God, defer not to pay it: for he delighteth not in fooles: pay therefore that thou hast c vowed.

4 It is better that thou shouldest not vow, then that thou shouldest vow and not pay it.

5 Suffer not thy mouth to make thy d flesh to sinne: neither say before the e Angel, that this is ignorance: wherefore shall God be angry by thy voyce, and destroy the worke of thine hands?

6 For in the multitude of dreames, and vanities are also many words: but feare thou God.

7 If in a countrey thou seest the oppression of the poore, and the defrauding of iudgement and iustice, be not astonied at the matter: for he that is f higher then the highest, regardeth, and there be higher then they.

8 And the g abundance of the earth is over all: the king h also consisteth by the field that is tilled.

9 He that loveth silver, shall not be satisfied with silver, and he that loveth riches, shall be without the fruit thereof: this is also vanitie.

10 When goods increase, they are increased that eate them: and what good commeth to the owners thereof, but the beholding thereof with their eyes.

11 The sleepe of him that traveileth is sweete, whether hee eate little or much: but the i satietie of the rich will not suffer him to sleepe.

12 There is an evill sickneste that I have seene vnder the sunne: to wit, riches k reserved to the owners thereof for their evill.

13 And these riches perish by evill travell, and he begetteth a sonne, and in his l hand is nothing.

14 * As he came foorth of his mothers belly, he shall returne naked to goe as he came, and shall beare away nothing of his labour, which he hath caused to passe by his hand.

15 And this also is an evill sickneste, that in all points as he came, so shall he goe, and what profit hath he that he hath travailed for the m winde?

16 Also all his dayes he eateth in n darkneste with with much griefe, and in his sorow and anger.

17 Behold then, what I have seene good, that it is comely to o eate, and to drinke, and to take pleasure in all his labour, wherein he trauaileth vnder the sunne, the whole number of the dayes of his life, which God giveth him: for this is his portion.

18 Also to every man to whom God hath given riches and treasures, and giveth him power to eate thereof, and to take his part, and to enioy his labour: this is the gifts of God.

19 Surely hee will not much remember the dayes of his p life, because God answereth to the ioy of his heart.

o Reade Chap. 3.22.

p Hee will take no great thought for the paines that hee hath indured in time past.

CHAP. VI.

The miserable estate of him to whom God hath given riches, and not the grace to vse them.

THere is an evill, which I saw vnder the sunne, and it is much among men:

2 A man to whom God hath given riches and treasures and honour, and hee wanteth nothing for his soule of all that he desireth: but a God giveth him not power to eate thereof, but a strange man shall eat it vp: this is vanitie, and this is an evill sickenesse.

3 If a man beget an hundreth children and live many yeeres, and the dayes of his yeeres be multiplyed: and his soule be not b satisfied with good things, and he be not c buried, I say that an vntimely fruit is better then he.

4 For d he commeth into vanitie, and goeth into darkenesse: and his name shall be covered with darkenesse.

5 Also he hath not seen the sunne, nor knowen it: therefore this hath more rest then the other.

6 And if he had lived a thousand yeeres twise tolde, and had seene no good, shall not all go to one place?

7 All the labour of man is for his mouth: yet the e soule is not filled.

8 For what hath the wise man more then the foole? what hath the poore that f knoweth how to walke before the living?

9 The g sight of the eye is better then to walke in the lusts: this also is vanitie, and vexation of spirit.

10 What is that that hath bene? the name thereof is now named: and it is knowen that it is man: and he cannot striue with him that is h stronger then hee.

a Hee sheweth that it is the plague of God when the rich man hath not a liberall heart to vse his riches.
b If hee can never have enough.
c As wee see oftentimes that the couetous man either falleth into crimes that deserue death, or is murthered or drowned or hanged himselfe, or such like, and so lacketh the honor of buriall, which is the last office of humanitie.
d Meaning, the vntimely fruit, whose life did neither profit or hurt any.
e His desire and affection.
f That knoweth to vse his goods well in the iudgement of men.
g To be content with that which God hath given, is better then to follow the desires that never can be satisfied.
h Meaning, God who will make him to feele that hee is mortall.

CHAP. VII.

Diuers precepts to follow that which is good, and to auoid the contrary.

a There is no state wherein man can liue to haue perfit quietnesse in this life.
* Iob 14. 2. Psal. 144. 4.
* Prou. 22. 1.
b He speaketh thus after the iudgement of the flesh, which thinketh death to be the end of all euils, or else, because that this corporall death is the entring into life euerlasting.
c Where we may see the hand of God, and learne to examine our liues.

SVrely there be many things that increase vanitie, and what auaileth it a man?

2 For who knoweth what is a good for man in the life, and in the number of the dayes of the life of his vanitie, seeing hee maketh them as a * shadow? for who can shew vnto man what shall be after him vnder the sunne?

3 ✣ A good name is better then a good ointment, and the day of b death, then the day that one is borne.

4 It is better to goe to the house of c mourning, then to goe to the house of feasting, because this is the end of all men: and the liuing shall lay it to his heart.

5 Anger is better then laughter: for by a sad looke the heart is made better.

6 The heart of the wise is in the house of mourning: but the heart of fooles is in the house of mirth.

7 Better it is to heare the rebuke of a wise man, then that a man should heare the song of fooles.

8 For like the noise of the d thornes vnder the pot, so is the laughter of the foole: this also is vanitie.

9 Surely oppression maketh a wise man e mad: and the reward destroieth the heart.

10 The f end of a thing is better then the beginning thereof, and the patient in spirit is better then the proud in spirit.

11 Be not thou of an hasty spirit to be angry: for anger resteth in the bosome of fooles.

12 Say not thou, Why is it that the former daies were better then these? for thou doest not enquire g wisely of this thing.

13 Wisedome is good with an h inheritance, and excellent to them that see the sunne.

14 For man shall rest in the shadow of wisedome, and in the shadow of silver: but the excellencie of the knowledge of wisedome giveth life to the possessors thereof.

15 Beholde the worke of God: for who can make * straight that which he hath made crooked?

16 In the day of wealth be of good comfort, and in the day of affliction i consider: God also hath made this contrary to that, to the intent that man should find k nothing after him.

17 I haue seene all things in the daies of my vanity: there is a iust man that perisheth in his l iustice, & there is a wicked man that continueth long in his malice.

18 Be not thou iust m ouermuch, neither make thy selfe ouerwise: wherefore shouldest thou be desolate?

19 Be not thou wicked n ouermuch, neither be thou foolish: wherefore shouldest thou perish not in thy time?

20 It is good that thou lay hold on o this: but yet withdraw not thine hand from p that: for he that feareth God shall come forth of them all.

21 Wisedome shall strengthen the wise men more then ten mighty princes that are in the city.

22 * Surely there is no man iust in the earth that doeth good and sinneth not.

23 Give not thine q heart also to all the words that men speake, least thou doe heare thy seruant cursing thee.

24 For oftentimes also thine heart knoweth that thou likewise hast ‖ cursed others.

25 All this haue I prooued by wisedome: I thought, I will be wise, but it went farre from me.

26 It is farre off, what may r it be? and it is a profound deepenesse, who can find it?

27 I haue compassed about, both I and mine heart to know and to enquire and to search wisdome, and reason, and to know the wickednesse of folly, and the foolishnesse of madnesse.

28 And I find more bitter then death the woman whose heart is as nets and snares, and her hands as bands: he that is good before God, shall be deliuered from her, but the sinner shalbe taken by her.

29 Behold, saith the Preacher, this haue I found, seeking one by one to s find the count:

30 And yet my soule seeketh, but I finde it not. I haue found one man of a thousand: but a woman among them all haue I not found.

31 Onely loe, this haue I found, that God hath made man righteous: but they haue sought many t inuentions.

d Which crackle for a while and profit nothing.
e A man that is esteemed wise, when hee falleth to oppression, becommeth like a beast.
f He noteth their lightnesse which enterprise a thing and suddenly leaue it off againe.
g Murmure not against God when he sendeth aduersities for mans sins.
h He answereth to them that esteeme not wisedome, except riches be ioyned therewith, shewing that both are the gifts of God, but that wisedome is farre more excellent, and may be without riches.
* Chap. 1. 15.
i Consider wherefore God doeth send it, and what may comfort thee.
k That man should be able to control nothing in his workes.
l Meaning, that cruell tyrants put the godly to death and let the wicked goe free.
m Boast not too much of thine owne iustice and wisedome.
n Tary not long when thou art admonished to come out of the way of wickednesse.
o To wit, on these admonitions that goe before.

CHAP. VIII.

2 To obey Princes and Magiſtrates. 17 The workes of God paſſe mans knowledge.

WHo is as the wiſeman? and who knoweth the interpretation of a thing? the wiſedome of a man doth make his face [a] to ſhine: and [b] the ſtrength of his face ſhallbe changed.

2 I aduertiſe thee to take heede to the [c] mouth of the king, and to the word of the oath of God.

3 [d] Haſt not to goe foorth of his ſight: ſtand not in an evill thing: for he will doe whatſoever pleaſeth him.

4 Where the worde of the King is, there is power, and who ſhall ſay vnto him, What doeſt thou?

5 He that keepeth the commandement, ſhall know none evill thing, and the heart of the wiſe ſhall know the [e] time, and iudgement.

6 For to every purpoſe there is a time and iudgement, becauſe the [f] miſerie of man is great vpon him.

7 For he knoweth not that which ſhallbe, for who can tell him when it ſhall be?

8 Man is not Lord [g] over the ſpirit to retaine the ſpirit: neither hath hee power in the day of death, nor deliverance in the battell, neither ſhall wickedneſſe deliver the poſſeſſors thereof.

9 All this have I ſeene, and have given mine heart to every worke which is wrought vnder the ſunne, and I ſaw a time that man ruleth over man to his owne [h] hurt.

10 And likewiſe I ſaw the wicked buried, and [i] they returned, and they that came from the holy [k] place, were yet forgotten in the city, where they had done right: this alſo is vanitie.

11 Becauſe ſentence againſt an evill worke is not [l] executed ſpeedily, therefore the heart of the children of men is fully ſet to them to doe evill.

12 Though a ſinner doe evill an hundreth times, and God prolongeth his dayes, yet I know that it ſhall be well with them that feare the Lord, and doe reverence before him.

13 But it ſhall not be well to the wicked, neither ſhall he prolong his dayes: he ſhall be like a ſhadow, becauſe he feareth not before God.

14 There is a vanitie, which is done vpon the earth, that there be righteous men to whom it commeth according to [ɱ] worke of the wicked: and there be wicked men to whom it commeth according to the worke of the iuſt: I thought alſo that this is vanitie.

15 And I prayſed ioy, for there is no goodneſſe to man vnder the ſunne, ſave [n] to eate and to drinke and to reioyce: for this is adioined to his labour the dayes of his life that God hath given him vnder the ſunne.

16 When I applied mine heart to know wiſedome, and to behold the buſineſſe that is done on earth, that neither daye nor night the eyes of man take ſleepe.

17 Then I beheld the whole worke of God, that man cannot finde out the worke that is wrought vnder the ſunne: for the which man laboureth to ſeeke it, and cannot finde it: yea, and though the wiſe man think to know it, he cannot finde it.

CHAP. IX.

1 By no outward thing can man know whom God loueth or hateth. 12 No man knoweth his ende. 16 Wiſedome excelleth ſtrength.

I Have ſurely given mine heart to all this, and to declare all this, that the iuſt, and the wiſe, and their workes are in the hand of God: and no man knoweth either love or [a] hatred of all that is before them.

2 All things come alike to all: and the ſame condition is to the iuſt and to the wicked, to the good and to the pure, and to the polluted, and to him that ſacrificeth, and to him that ſacrificeth not: as is the good, ſo is the ſinner, he that ſweareth, as he that feareth an oath.

3 This is evill among all that is done vnder the ſunne, that there is one [b] condition to all, and alſo the heart of the ſonnes of men is full of evill, and madnes is in their hearts whiles they live, and after that, they goe to the dead.

4 Surely whoſoever is ioyned to all the liuing, there is hope: for it is better to a [c] living dog, then to a dead lyon.

5 For the living knowe that they ſhall die, but the dead know nothing at all: neither have they any more a reward: for their remembrance is forgotten.

6 Alſo their love and their hatred, and their enuie is now periſhed, and they have no more portion for ever, in all that is done vnder the ſunne.

7 Go, eat thy bread with ioy, and drinke thy wine with a cheerefull heart: for God now [d] accepteth thy workes.

8 At all times let thy garments be [e] white, and let not oyle be lacking vpon thine head.

9 † Reioyce with the wife whom thou haſt loved all the dayes of the life of thy vanity, which God hath given thee vnder the ſunne all the dayes of thy vanitie: for this is thy portion in the life, and in thy trauaile wherein thou laboureſt vnder the ſunne.

10 All that thine hand ſhall finde to doe, doe it with all thy power: for there is neither worke nor inuention, nor knowledge, nor wiſedome in the grave whither thou goeſt.

11 I returned, and I ſaw vnder the ſunne that the race is not to the ſwift, nor the battell to the ſtrong, nor yet bread to the wiſe, nor alſo riches to men of vnderſtanding, neither yet favour to men of knowledge: but time and [f] chance commeth to them all.

12 For neither doth man know his [g] time, but as the fiſhes which are taken in an evill net, and as the birds that are caught in the ſnare: ſo are the children of men ſnared in the evill time, when it falleth vpon them ſuddenly.

13 I have alſo ſeene this wiſedome vnder the ſunne, and it is great vnto mee.

14 A little citie and few men in it, and a great King came againſt it, and compaſſed it about, and builded forts againſt it.

15 And there was found therein a poore and wiſe man, and hee delivered the citie by his wiſedome, but none remembred this poore man.

16 Then ſayd I, Better is wiſedome then ſtrength: yet the wiſedome of the poore is deſpiſed, and his words are not heard.

17 The words of the wiſe are more heard in quietneſſe, then the cry of him that ruleth among fooles.

18 Better is wiſedome then weapons of warre: but one ſinner deſtroyeth much good.

b In outward things, as riches and poverty, ſickneſſe and health, there is no difference betweene the godly and the wicked: but the difference is that the godly are aſſured by faith of Gods favour and aſſiſtance.
c Hee noteth the Epicures and carnall men, which made their belly their god, and had no pleaſure, but in this life, wiſhing rather to be an abieſt and vile perſon in this life, then a man of authoritie, and ſo to die, which is meant by the dogge and lyon.

9 Hee that remooveth stones, shall hurt himselfe thereby, and he that cutteth wood, shalbe in danger thereby.

10 If the yron be blunt, and one hath not wher the edge, he must then put to more [f] strength: but the excellency to direct a thing is wisedome.

11 If the serpent bite, when he is not charmed: no better is a babler.

12 The words of the mouth of a wise man have grace: but the lips of a foole devoure himselfe.

13 The beginning of the word of his mouth is foolishnesse, and the latter end of his mouth is wicked madnesse.

14 For the foole multiplieth wordes, saying, Man knoweth not what shalbe: and who can tell him what shalbe after him?

15 The labour of the foolish doeth weary him: for he knoweth not to go into the [g] citie.

16 Woe to thee, O land, when thy king is a [h] child, and thy princes [i] eat in the morning.

17 Blessed art thou, O land, when thy King is the sonne [k] of nobles, and thy princes eat in time, for strength and not for drunkennes.

18 By slouthfulnes the roofe of the house goeth to decay, and by the idlenes of the hands the house dropeth thorow.

19 They prepare bread for laughter, and wine comforteth the living, but silver answereth to all.

20 Curse not the king, no not in thy thought, neither curse the rich in thy bed-chamber: for the [l] foule of the heaven shall cary the voice, and that which hath wings, shall declare the matter.

CHAP. XI.

1 To be liberall to the poore. 4 Not to doubt of Gods providence. 8 All worldly prosperitie is but vanitie. 9 God will iudge all.

CAst thy bread upon the [a] waters: for after many dayes thou shalt find it.

2 Give a portion to seven, and also to eight: for thou knowest not what evill shall be upon the earth.

3 If the [b] cloudes be full, they will power forth raine upon the earth: and if the [c] tree doe fall toward the South, or toward the North, in the place that the tree falleth, there it shall be.

4 He that obserueth the [d] wind shall not sow, and he that regardeth the clouds, shall not reape.

5 As thou knowest not which is the way of the spirit, nor how the bones do grow in the wombe of her that is with child: so thou knowest not the worke of God that worketh all.

6 In the morning sowe thy seede, and in the evening let not thine hand [e] rest: for thou knowest not whether shall prosper, this or [f] that, or whether both shall be a like good.

7 Surely the light is a pleasant thing: and it is a good thing to the eyes to see the sunne.

8 Though a man live many yeeres, and in them all he reioyce, yet he shall remember the dayes of [g] darknesse, because they are many, all that commeth is vanitie.

9 [h] Reioyce, O yong man, in thy youth, and let thine heart cheere thee in the dayes of thy youth: and walke in the wayes of thine heart, and in the sight of thine eyes: but know that for all these things, God will bring thee to iudgement.

10 Therefore take away [i] griefe out of thine heart, and curse evill [k] to depart from thy flesh: for childhood and youth are vanitie.

CHAP. XII.

1 To thinke on God in youth, and not to deferre til age. 7 The soule returneth to God. 11 Wisedome is the gift of God, and consisteth in fearing him and keeping his commandements.

REmember now thy Creator in the dayes of thy youth, whiles the evill daies come not, nor the yeeres approach, wherein thou shalt say, I have no pleasure in them;

2 Whiles the sunne is not darke, nor the light, nor the moone, nor the starres, nor the [a] cloudes returne after the raine.

3 When the [b] keepers of the house shall tremble, and the [c] strong men shall bow themselves, and the [d] grinders shall cease, because they are few, and they waxe darke that [e] looke out by the windowes:

4 And the [f] doores shall be shut without by the base sound of the [g] grinding, and he shall rise up at the voyce of the [h] bird: and all the [i] daughters of singing shall be abased:

5 Also they shall be afraid of the [k] hie thing, and feare shalbe in the [l] way, and the almond tree shall [m] flourish, and the [n] grashopper shall be a burden, and concupiscence shall be driven away: for man goeth to the house of his age, and the mourners goe about in the streete.

6 Whiles the [o] silver coard is not lengthened, nor the golden [p] ewer broken, nor the [q] pitcher broken at the [r] well, nor the [s] wheele broken at the [t] cisterne.

7 And dust returne to the earth as it was, and the [u] spirit returne to God that gave it.

8 Vanity of vanities, saith the Preacher, all is vanitie.

9 And the more wise the Preacher was, the more he taught the people knowledge, and caused them to heare, and searched forth, and prepared many parables.

10 The Preacher sought to find out pleasant words, and an vpright writing, even the words of trueth.

11 The words of the wise are like goads, and like nailes [x] fastened by the masters of the assemblies, which are given by one [y] pastour.

12 And of other thing beside these, my sonne, take thou heede: for there is none end in making z These things cannot be comprehended in bookes or learned by study, but God must instruct thine heart that thou mayest onely know that wisdom is the true felicity, and the way thereunto is to feare God.

AN † EXCELLENT SONG WHICH WAS SALOMONS.

† Ebr. a song of songs: so called because it is the chiefest of those 1005. which Salomon made, as is mentioned, 1. King. 4. 32.

THE ARGUMENT.

IN this Song, Salomon by most svveete and comfortable allegories and parables describeth the perfite love of Iesus Christ, the true Salomon and King of peace, and the faithfull of his Church, vvhich he hath sanctified and appoynted to be his spouse, holy, chaste, and vvithout reprehension. So that here is declared the singular love of the bridegrome tovvard the bride, and his great and excellent benefites vvherevvith he doeth enrich her of his pure bountie and grace vvithout any of her deservings. Also the earnest affection of the Church vvhich is inflamed vvith the love of Christ, desiring to be more and more ioyned to him in love, and not to be forsaken for any spot or blemish that is in her.

CHAP. I.

1 The familiar talke and mysticall communication of the spirituall love betweene Iesus Christ and his Church. 5 The domesticall enemies that persecute his Church.

LEt [a] him kisse me with the kisses of his mouth: for thy love is better then wine.

2 Because of the [b] savour of thy good oyntments, thy name is as an oyntment powred out: therefore the [c] virgins love thee.

3 [d] Draw me: wee will run after thee: the King hath brought me into his [e] chambers: wee will reioyce and be glad in thee: we will remember thy love more then wine: the righteous doe love thee.

4 I am [f] blacke, O daughters of Ierusalem, but comely, as the tents of [g] Kedar, and as the [h] curtaines of Salomon.

5 Regard yee mee not because I am [r] blacke: for the [k] sunne hath looked upō me. The [l] sonnes of my mother were angry against me: they made me the keeper of ṡ vines: but I [m] kept not mine own vine.

6 Shew me, [n] O thou whom my soule loveth, where thou feedest, where thou liest at noone: for why should I be as she that turneth aside to the flockes of [o] thy companions?

7 [p] If thou know not, O thou the faireſt among women, get thee foorth by the steps of the flocke, and feed thy kids by the tents of the shepheards.

8 I have compared thee, O my love, to the troupe of horses in the [q] charets of Pharaoh.

9 Thy cheekes are comely with rowes of stones, and thy necke with chaines.

10 Wee will make thee borders of golde with floods of silver.

11 [r] Whiles the King was at his repast, my spikenard gave the smell thereof.

12 My wel-beloved is as a bundle of myrrhe unto me: hee shall lie betweene my [s] breasts.

13 My wel-beloved is as a cluster of camphire unto me in the vines of Engedy.

14 My love, behold, thou art faire: beholde, thou art faire: thine eyes are like the doves.

15 My welbeloved, behold, thou art faire, and pleasant: also our [u] bed is greene.

16 The beames of our house are cedars, our rafters are of firre.

CHAP. II.

3 The Church desireth to rest under the shadow of Christ. 8 She heareth his voyce. 14 She is compared to the doue. 15 And the enemies to the foxes.

I Am the rose of the field, and the lilie of the valleyes.

2 Like a lilie among the thornes, so is my [a] love among the daughters.

3 [b] Like the apple tree among the trees of the forest, so is my welbeloved among the sons of men: vnder his shadowe had I delite, and sate downe: and his fruit vvas sweet unto my mouth.

4 Hee brought mee into the wine cellar, and love vvas his banner over me.

5 Stay me with flagons, and comfort me with apples: for I am sicke of love.

6 His left hand is vnder mine head, and his right hand doeth imbrance me.

7 [c] I charge you, O daughters of Ierusalem, by the roes and by the hinds of the field, that ye stir not up, nor waken my love, vntill she please.

8 [d] It is the voyce of my welbeloved: behold, he commeth leaping by the mountains, and skipping by the hils.

9 My welbeloved is like a roe, or a yong heart: loe, he [e] standeth behind our wall, looking forth of the windowes, shewing himselfe through the [f] grates.

10 My welbeloved spake and sayd unto mee, Arise, my love, my faire one, and come thy way.

11 For behold, [g] winter is past, the raine is changed, and is gone away.

12 The flowers appeare in the earth: the time of the singing of birds is come, and the voyce of the turtle is heard in our land.

13 The figtree hath brought foorth her yong figs: and the vines with their small grapes have cast a savour: arise my love, my faire one, and come away.

14 My dove, that art in the [h] holes of the rocke, in the secret places of the staires, shew mee thy sight, let me heare thy voyce: for thy voyce is sweet and thy sight comely.

15 Take us the foxes, the [i] little foxes, which destroy the vines: for our vines have small grapes.

16 My welbeloved is mine, and I am his: hee feedeth among the lilies.

17 Vntill the daye breake, and the shadowes flee away: returne, my welbeloved, and be like a [k] roe, or a yong hart upon the mountaines of Bether.

a This is spoken in the person of the Church, or of the faithfull soule inflamed with the desire of Christ, whom she loveth.
b The feeling of thy great benefits.
c They that are pure in heart and conversation.
d The faithfull confesse that they cannot come to Christ except they be drawen.
e Meaning, the secret ioy that is not knowen to the world.
f The Church confesseth her spots and sinne, but hath confidence in the favour of Christ.
g Kedar was Ishmaels sonne, of whom came the Arabians that dwelt in tents.
h Which within were all set with precious stones and iewels.
i Considder not the Church by the outward appearance.
k The corruption of nature through sinne & afflictions.
l Mine owne brethren, which should have most favoured me.
m She confesseth her own negligence.
n The spouse feeling her fault seeth to her husband only for succour.
o Whom thou hast called to the dignitie of pastours, and they set forth their owne dreames in stead of thy doctrine.
p Christ speaketh to his Church, bidding them, that are ignorant, to goe to the pastours to learne.
q For thy spirituall beauty and excellencie there was no worldly treasure to be compared unto thee.
r The Church reioyceth that she is admitted to the company of Christ.
s Hee shall be most deare unto me. t Christ accepteth his Church, and commandeth her beauty.
u That is, the heart of the faithfull, wherein Christ dwelleth by his Spirit.

a Thus Christ preferreth his Church above all other things.
b The spouse testifieth her great desire toward her husband, but her strength faileth her, and therefore she desireth to be comforted, and felt it.
c Christ chargeth them which have to doe in the Church as it were by a solemne oathe, that they trouble not the quietnesse thereof.
d This is spoken of Christ, who tooke upon his our nature to come to helpe his Church.
e For as much as his divinitie was hidde vnder the cloake of our flesh.
f So that we cannot have full knowledge of him in this life.
g That is, sinne and errour is driven backe by the comming of Christ, which is here described by the spring time, when all things flourish.
h Thou that art ashamed of thy sinnes, come and shew thy self vnto me.
i Suppresse the heretikes whiles they are yong, that is, when they begin to shew their malice, and destroy the vine of the Lord.
k The Church desireth Christ to be most ready to helpe her in all dangers.

CHAP. III.

1 The Church desireth to be ioyned inseparably to Christ her husband. 6 Her deliverance out of the wildernes.

a The Church by night, that is, in troubles, seeketh to Christ, but is not incontinently heard.
b Shewing that although we be not heard at the first, yet we must still continue in prayer, till we feele comfort.
c Which declareth that we must seeke unto all of whom we hope to have any succour.
d Reade Chap. 2. 7.

IN my bed by a night I sought him that my soule loved: I sought him, but I found him not.
2 I will rise therefore now, and go about in the city, by the streets, and by the open places, and will b seeke him that my soule loveth: I sought him, but I found him not.
3 The c watchmen that went about the city, found mee, to whom I said, Have you seene him whom my soule loveth?
4 When I had past a little from them, then I found him whom my soule loved: I tooke hold on him, and left him not, till I had brought him unto my mothers house, into the chamber of her that conceived me.
5 d I charge you, O daughters of Ierusalem, by the roes and by the hindes of the field, that ye stirre not up, nor waken my love untill she please.
6 Who is shee that commeth up out of the e wildernes like pillars of smoake perfumed with myrrhe and incense, and with all the † spices of the marchant?
7 Behold his f bed, which is Salomons: threescore strong men are round about it, of the valiant men of Israel.
8 They all handle the sword, and are expert in warre, every one hath his sword upon his thigh for the feare g by night.
9 King Salomon made himselfe a ‖ palace of the trees of Lebanon.
10 Hee made the pillars thereof of silver, and the pavement thereof of gold, the hangings thereof of purple, whose midde was paved with the love of the daughters of Ierusalem.
11 Come forth, ye b daughters of Zion, and beholde the King Salomon with the i crowne, wherewith his mother crowned him in the day of his mariage, and in the day of the gladnesse of his heart.

e This is referred to the Church of Israel, which was led by the wildernes fortie yeeres.
† Ebr. powder.
f By the bed is meant the Temple which Salomon made.
g He alludeth to the watch which kept the Temple.
‖ Or, charet.
h All ye that are of the number of the faithfull.
i Christ become man was crowned by the love of God with the glorious crowne of his divinity.

CHAP. IV.

1 The praise of the Church. 7 She is without blemish in his sight. 9 The love of Christ towards her.

BEhold, thou art a faire, my love: behold, thou art faire: thine eyes are like the doves: among thy lockes * thine haire is like the b flocke of goates, which looke downe from the mountaine of Gilead.
2 Thy teeth are like a flocke of sheepe in good order, which goe up from the washing: which every one bring out twinnes, and none is barren among them.
3 Thy lips are like a threed of scarlet, and thy talke is comely: thy temples are within thy locks as a piece of a pomegranate.
4 Thy necke is as the tower of David built for defence: a thousand thields hang therein, and all the targates of the strong men.
5 Thy two c breasts are as two yong roes that are twinnes, feeding among the lilies.
6 Untill the day breake, and the shadowes flie away, I will go into the mountaine of myrrhe, and to the mountaine of incense.
7 Thou art all faire my love, and there is no spot in thee.
8 d Come with me from Lebanon, my spouse, even with me from Lebanon, and looke from the top of Amanah, from the top of Shener, and Hermon, from the dennes of the lions, and from the mountaines of the leopards.

a Because Christ delighteth in his Church, hee commendeth all that is in her.
* Chap. 6. 4.
b Hee hath respect to be multitude of the faithfull, which are many in number.

c Wherein are knowledge and zeale two precious jewels.

d Christ promiseth his Church to call his faithfull from all the corners of the world.

9 My e sister, my spouse, thou hast wounded mine heart: thou hast wounded mine heart with one of thine f eyes, and with a chaine of thy necke.
10 My sister, my Spouse, how faire is thy love? how much better is thy love then wine? and the favour of thine oyntments then all spices?
11 Thy g lippes, my Spouse, droppe as hony combes: hony and milke are under thy tongue, and the savour of thy garment is as the savour of Lebanon.
12 My sister, my spouse is as a garden inclosed, as a spring shut up, and a fountaine sealed up.
13 Thy plants are as an orchard of pomegranates with sweet fruits, as camphire, spikenard, 14 Even spikenard, and saffron: calamus, and cynamon, with all the trees of incense, myrrhe and aloes, with all the chiefe spices.
15 h O fountaine of the gardens, O well of living waters, and the springs of Lebanon, 16 Arise, O i North, and come, O South, and blow on my garden, that the spices thereof may flow out: let my well beloved come to his garden, and eat his pleasant fruit.

e Christ calleth his Church sister, in respect that he had taken the flesh of man.
f In that hee made his Church beautifull & rich, he loved his gifts in her.
g Because of thy confession and thankesgiving.

h The Church confesseth that all her glory and beauty commeth of Christ, who is the true fountaine of all grace.
i She desireth Christ to comfort her and to powre the graces of his Spirit upon her, which Spirit is meant by the North and South wind.

CHAP. V.

1 Christ calleth his Church to the participation of all his treasures. 2 She heareth his voyce. 3 She confessed her nakednesse. 10 She praiseth Christ her husband.

I Am come into my a garden, my sister, my spouse, I gathered my myrrhe with my spice: I ate mine hony combe with mine hony, I dranke my wine with my milke: eate, O friends, drinke, and make you merry, O welbeloved.
2 b I sleepe, but mine heart waketh, it is the voyce of my welbeloved that knocketh, saying, Open unto me, my sister, my love, my dove, my undefiled: for mine head is full of dew, and my locks with the drops of the c night.
3 I have put off my d coate, how shall I put it on? I have washed my feete, how shall I defile them?
4 My wellbeloved put in his hand by the hole of the doore, and † mine heart was affectioned toward him.
5 I rose up to open to my welbeloved, and mine hands did drop downe myrrhe, and my e fingers pure myrrhe upon the handles of the barre.
6 I opened to my welbeloved: but my welbeloved was gone and past: mine heart was gone when he did speake: I sought him, but I could not find him: I called him, but he answered me not.
7 The f watchmen that were about the city, found me: they smote me, and wounded mee: the watchmen of the walles tooke away my vaile from mee.
8 I charge you, g O daughters of Ierusalem, if you find my welbeloved, that you tell him that I am sicke of love.
9 h O the faire among women, what is thy welbeloved more then other welbeloved? what is thy welbeloved more then another lover, that thou doest so charge us?
10 My welbeloved is white and ruddy, the chiefest of ten thousand.
11 His i head is as fine gold, his lockes curled, and blacke as a raven.
12 His eyes are like doves upon the rivers of waters, which are washt with milke, and remaine by the full vessels.
13 His cheekes are as a bedde of spices, and as a The garden signifieth the kingdome of Christ, where hee prepareth the banket for his elect.

b The spouse saith that shee is troubled with the cares of worldly things, which is meant by sleeping.
c Declaring the long patience of the Lord toward sinners.
d The spouse confesseth her nakednesse, and that of her selfe she hath no-thing, or seeing that she is once made cleane, she proveth not to defile her selfe againe.
† Ebr. my bowels were moved towards him.
e The spouse which should be anoynted of Christ, shall not find him if she thinke to anoynt him with her good works.
f These are the false teachers, which wound the conscience with their traditions.
g She asketh of them which are godly (forasmuch as the law and salvation should come out of Zion and Ierusalem) that they would direct her to Christ.
h Thus say they of Ierusalem.
i She describeth Christ to be of perfit beauty and comeliuesse.

sweete flowers, and his lippes like lilies dropping downe pure myrrhe.

14 His handes as rings of golde set with the † chrysolite, his belly like white yvory covered with saphirs.

15 His legges are as pillars of marble set upon sockets of fine gold: his countenance as Lebanon, excellent as the cedars.

16 His mouth is as sweet things, and he is wholly delectable: this is my welbeloved, and this is my lover, O daughters of Ierusalem.

17 [k] O the faireſt among women, whither is thy welbeloved gone? whither is thy welbeloved turned aſide, that we may ſeeke him with thee?

CHAP. VI.

1 The Church aſſureth herſelfe of the loue of Christ. 3 The praiſes of the Church. 8 She is but one and vndefiled.

MY welbeloved is gone downe into his [a] garden to the beds of ſpices, to feede in the gardens, and to gather lilies.

2 I am my welbeloveds, and my welbeloved is mine, who feedeth among the lilies

3 Thou art beautifull, my love, as [b] Tirzah, comly as Ieruſalem, terrible as an army with banners.

4 [c] Turne away thine eyes from me: for they overcome mee: * thine haire is like a flocke of goats, which looke downe from Gilead.

5 Thy teeth are like a flocke of ſheepe, which goe up from the waſhing, which every one bring out twinnes, and none is barren among them.

6 Thy temples are within thy locks as a piece of a pomegranate.

7 There are [d] threeſcore Queenes, & foureſcore concubines, and of the damſels without number.

8 But my doue is alone, and my vndefiled, ſhe is the onely daughter of her mother, and ſhe is deare to her that bare her: the daughters have ſeene her, and counted her bleſſed: even the Queenes and the concubines, and they have praiſed her.

9 [e] Who is ſhee that looketh forth as the morning, faire as the moone, pure as the ſunne, terrible as an army with banners!

10 I went downe to the [f] garden of nuts, to ſee the fruits of the valley, to ſee if the vine budded, and if the pomegranates flouriſhed.

11 [g] I knew nothing, my ſoule ſet me [h] as the charets of my noble people.

12 Returne, returne, O [i] Shulamite, returne: returne that we may behold thee. What ſhall you ſee in the Shulamite, but as the company of an army?

CHAP. VII.

1 The beauty of the Church in all her members. 10 She is aſſured of Chriſts loue towards her.

HOw beautifull are thy [a] goings with ſhoes, O princes daughter! the ioynts of thy thighes are like iewels: the worke of the hand of a cunning workman.

2 Thy navell is as a round cup that wanteth not liquor: thy belly is as an heap of wheat compaſſed about with lilies.

3 [b] Thy two breaſts are as two yong roes that are twinnes.

4 Thy necke is like a towre of yvory; thine eyes are like the fiſhpooles in Heſhbon by the gate of Bath-rabbim: thy noſe is as the tower of Lebanon that looketh toward Damaſcus.

5 Thine head upon thee is as ſcarlet, and the buſh of thine head like purple: the king is tied [e] in the ‖ rafters.

6 How faire art thou, and how pleaſant art thou, O my love, in pleaſures!

7 This thy ſtature is like a palme tree, and thy breaſts like cluſters.

8 I ſaid, I will goe vp into the plame tree, I will take hold of her boughes: thy breaſtes ſhall now be like the cluſters of the vine: and the ſavour of thy noſe like apples.

9 And the roofe of thy mouth like good wine, which goeth ſtreight to my welbeloved, and cauſeth the lips of the ancient to ſpeake.

10 [d] I am my welbeloveds, and his deſire is toward me.

11 Come my welbeloved, let us go forth into the field: let vs remaine in the villages.

12 Let vs get vp early to the vines, let vs ſee if the [e] vine flouriſh, whither it hath budded the ſmall grape: or whither the pomegranates flouriſh: there will I give thee my love.

13 The mandrakes have given a ſmell, and in our gates are all ſweet things, new and olde: my welbeloved, I have kept them for thee.

ISAIAH.

THE ARGUMENT.

GOD, according to his promise, Deuteron. 18. 15. that hee would never leave his Church destitute of a Prophet, hath from time to time accomplished the same: whose office was not onely to declare unto the people the things to come, whereof they had a speciall revelation, but also to interprete and declare the Lavv, and to apply particularly the doctrine conteined briefly therein, to the utilitie and profit of those, to whom they thought it chiefly to appertaine, and as the time and state of things required. And principally in the declaration of the Lavv, they had respect to three things, which were the ground of their doctrine: First, to his doctrine conteined briefly in the two Tables; secondly, to the promises and threatnings of the lavv: and thirdly, to the Covenant of grace and reconciliation, grounded upon our Saviour Iesus Christ, who is the end of the Lavv. Whereunto they neither added nor diminished, but faithfully expounded the sense and meaning thereof. And according as God gave them understanding of things, they applied the promises particularly for the comfort of the Church and the members thereof, and also denounced the menaces against the enemies of the same; not for any care or regard to the enemies, but to assure the Church of their safegard by the destruction of their enemies. And as touching the doctrine of reconciliation, they have more clearely intreated it then Moses, and set forth more lively Iesus Christ, in whom this Covenant of reconciliation was made. In all the things Isaiah did excell all the Prophets, and was most diligent to set out the same, with most vehement admonitions, reprehensions, and consolations; ever applying the doctrine, as hee saw that the disease of the people required. Hee declareth also many notable prophecies which he had received of God, as touching the promise of the Messiah, his office, and kingdome. And of the favour of God toward his Church, the vocation of the Gentiles and their union with the Iewes. Which are as most principall points conteined in this booke, and a gathering of his Sermons that he preached. Which after certaine dayes that they had stood upon the Temple doore (for the manner of the Prophets was to set up the summe of their doctrine for certaine dayes, that the people might the better marke it, as Isa. 8. 1. and Habak. 2. 2.) the Priestes tooke it downe, and reserved it among the Registers: and so by Gods providence these bookes were preserved as a monument to the Church for ever. As touching his person and time, hee was of the kings stocke (for Amoz his father was brother to Azariah king of Iudah as the best writers doe agree) and prophecied more then 64 yeeres from the time of Vzziah unto the reigne of Manasseh, whose father in lavv he was (as the Ebrewes write) and of whom hee was put to death. And in reading of the Prophets, this one thing among others is to be observed, that they speake of things to come as though they were now past because of the certaintie thereof, and that they could not but come to passe, because God had ordained them in his secret counsell, and so revealed them to his Prophets.

CHAP. I.

a Isaiah reproveth the Iewes of their ingratitude and stubburnnesse, that neither for benefits nor punishments would amend. 11 He sheweth why their sacrifices are reiected, and wherein Gods true service standeth. 24 He prophecieth of the destruction of Ierusalem, 25 and of the restitution thereof.

a That is, a revelation or prophecie, which was one of the two meanes whereby God declared himselfe to his servants in old time. 2 Sam. 12. 6 and thereof the Prophets were called Seers, 1. Sam 9. 9.

b Isaiah was chiefly sent to Iudah and Ierusalem, but not onely: for in this booke are prophecies concerning other nations also.

c Called also Azariah. 2 Kings 15. 1. of these Kings read 2 Kings from Chap. 14. unto Chap. 21 and 2 Chron. from Chap. 25. unto Chap 33.

d Because men were obstinate and insensible, he calleth to the dumbe creatures, which were more prompt to obey Gods word, as Deut. 32. 1.

e Hee declareth his great mercie toward the Iewes, forasmuch as hee chose them above all other nations to be his people and children, as Deuteronom. 10. 15.

f The most dull and brute beasts doe more acknowledge their duety toward their masters, then my people doe toward mee, of whom they have received benefites without comparison.

g They were not onely wicked as were their fathers, but viterly corrupt, and by their evill example infected others.

h That is, him that sanctifieth Israel.

i What availeth it to seeke to amend you by punishment, seeing the more I correct you, the more ye rebell?

a Vision of Isaiah, b the sonne of Amoz, which hee saw concerning Iudah and Ierusalem, in the dayes of c Vzziah, Iotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah Kings of Iudah.

2 Heare, O d heavens, and hearken, O earth: for the Lord hath said, I have nourished and brought up e children, but they have rebelled against me.

3 The f oxe knoweth his owner, and the asse his masters crib; but Israel hath not knowen; my people hath not vnderstood.

4 Ah, sinfull nation, a people laden with iniquitie; a g seede of the wicked, corrupt children; they have forsaken the Lord; they have provoked the h Holy one of Israel to anger; they are gone backward.

5 Wherefore should ye be i smitten any more? for ye fall away more and more; the whole k head is sicke, and the whole heart is heavie.

k By naming the chiefe parts of the body, he signifieth that there was no part of the whole body of the Iewes free from his rods.

6 From the l sole of the foote unto the head there is nothing whole therein, but wounds and swelling, and sores full of corruption; they have not beene wrapped, m nor bound up, nor mollified with oyle.

l Every part of the bodie aswell the least as the chiefest, was plagued.

m Their plagues were so grievous that they were incurable, and yet they would not repent.

7 Your land is waste; your cities are burnt with fire; strangers devoure your land in your presence, and it is desolate like the overthrow of n strangers.

n Meaning, of them that dwell farre off which because they looke for no advantage of that which remaineth destroy all before them.

8 And the daughter of o Zion shall remaine like a cottage in a vineyard, like a lodge in a garden of cucumbers, and like a besieged citie.

o That is, Ierusalem.

9 Except the Lord of hoastes p had reserved unto us even a small remnant, wee should have beene q as Sodom and should have beene like unto Gomorah.

p Because that he will ever have a Church to call upon his Name.

10 Heare the word of the Lord, O r princes of Sodom: hearken unto the Law of our God, O people of Gomorah.

11 What have I to doe with the multitude of your sacrifices, saith the Lord? I am full of the burnt offrings of rams, and of the fat of fed beasts: and I s desire not the blood of bullockes, nor of lambes, nor of goats.

12 When ye come to appeare before mee, who q That is, all destroyed.

r Yee that for your vices deserved all to be destroyed, as they of Sodom, save that God of his mercie reserved a little number. Lamentations 3. 22.

s Although God commanded these sacrifices for a time, as aydes and exercises of their faith: yet because the people had not faith nor repentance, God detesteth them, Psalme 50, 13. Ieremiah 6, 20. Amos 5, 21. Micah 6, 7.

required this of your hands to tread in my courts?

13 Bring no mo oblations, t in vaine: incense is an abomination unto me: I cannot suffer your new moones, nor Sabbath, nor solemne dayes (it is iniquitie) nor solemne assemblies.

14 My soule hateth your u new moones and your appoynted feasts: they are a burden unto me: I am wearie to beare them.

15 And when you shall stretch out your hands, I will hide mine eyes from you, and though yee make many prayers, I will not heare: for your hands are full x of blood.

16 y Wash you, make you cleane, take away the evill of your workes from before mine eyes: cease to doe evill.

17 Learne to z doe well: seeke iudgement, relieve the oppressed: iudge the fatherlesse, and defend the widow.

18 Come now, a and let us reason together, saith the Lord: though your sinnes were as crimsen, they shall be made b white as snow: though they were red like scarlet, they shalbe as wool.

19 If yee c consent and obey, ye shall eate the good things of the land.

20 But if ye refuse and be rebellious, ye shalbe devoured with the sword: for the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it.

21 How is the d faithfull citie become an harlot? it was full of iudgement, and iustice lodged therein, but now e they are murtherers.

22 Thy f silver is become drosse: thy wine is mixt with water.

23 Thy princes are rebellious, and companions of g theeves: every one loveth gifts, and followeth after rewards: they iudge not the fatherlesse: neither doeth the widowes cause come before them.

24 Therefore saith the Lord God of hoasts, the h Mightie one of Israel, Ah, I will i ease me of mine adversaries, and avenge mee of mine enemies.

25 Then I will turne mine hand upon thee, and burne out thy drosse, till it k be pure, and take away all thy tinne.

26 l And I will restore thy Iudges as at the first, and thy counsellers as at the beginning: afterward shalt thou be called a citie of righteousnes, and a faithfull citie.

27 Zion shall be redeemed in iudgement, and they that returne in her, in m iustice.

28 And the n destruction of the transgressours and of the sinners shall be together: and they that forsake the Lord shalbe consumed.

29 For they shallbe confounded for the o okes, which yee have desired, and ye shall be ashamed of the gardens that ye have chosen.

30 For ye shall be as an oke, whose leafe fadeth: and as a garden that hath no water.

31 And the strong shall be as a p towe, and the maker thereof as a sparke: and they shall both burne together, and none shall quench them.

CHAP. II.

2 The Church shall be restored by Christ, and the Gentiles called. 6 The punishment of the rebellious and obstinate.

THe word that Isaiah the sonne of Amoz sawe upon Iudah and Ierusalem,

2 * It a shalbe in the last dayes, that the mountaine of the House of the Lord shall be prepared in the top of the mountaines, and b shall be exalted above the hilles, and all nations shall c flow unto it.

3 And many people shall goe, and say, Come, and let us goe up to d the mountaine of the Lord, to the house of the God of Iaakob; and hee will teach us his wayes, and we will walke in his paths. * for the e Law shall goe foorth of Zion, and the word of the Lord from f Ierusalem.

4 And g hee shall iudge among the nations, and h rebuke many people: they shall i breake their swords also into mattocks, and their speares into siethes: nation shall not lift up a sword against nation, neither shall they learne k to fight any more.

5 O house of Iaakob, come yee, and let us l walke in the Law of the Lord.

6 Surely thou m hast forsaken thy people, the house of Iaakob, because they are n full of the East maners, and are sorcerers as the Philistims, o and abound with strange children.

7 Their land also was full of p silver and gold, and there was none end of their r treasures: and their land was full of horses, and their charets were infinite.

8 Their land was also full of idoles; they worshipped the worke of their owne handes, which their owne fingers have made.

9 And a man bowed himselfe, and a man q humbled himselfe: therefore r spare them not.

10 Enter into the rocke, and hide thee in the dust from before the feare of the Lord, and from the glory of his Maiestie.

11 The high looke of man shall be humbled, and the loftinesse of men shall be abased, and the Lord onely shall be exalted in that day.

12 For the day of the Lord of hoastes is upon all the proud and hautie, and upon all that is exalted; and it shalbe made low.

13 Even upon all the cedars of Lebanon, that are high and exalted, and upon all the okes of Bashan, s Without faith and repentance.

u Your sacrifices offered in the new moones and feasts: hee condemneth hereby hypocrites, which thinke to please God with ceremonies, and they themselves are void of faith and mercy.
x He sheweth that where men be given to avarice, deceit, crueltie and extortion, which is meant by blood, there God will shew his anger, and not accept them, though they seeme never so holy, as chap. 59, 3.
y By this outward washing, he meaneth the spirituall: exhorting the Iewes to repent and amend their lives.
z This kind of reasoning by the second Table, the Scriptures use in many places against the hypocrites, who pretend most holines and religion in word, but when the charitie and love toward their brethren should appeare, they declare that they have neither faith nor religion.
a To know if I doe accuse you without cause.
b Least sinners should pretend any rigour on Gods part, hee onely willeth them to be pure in heart, and he will forgive all their sinnes, were they never so many or great.
c He sheweth that whatsoever adversitie man endureth, it ought to be attributed to his owne incredulitie and disobedience.
d That is, Ierusalem, which had promised fidelity unto me, as a wife to her husband.
e Given to covetousnes and extortion, which hee signified before by blood, ver. 15.
f Whatsoever was pure in thee before, is now corrupt, though thou have an outward shew.
g That is, they maintaine the wicked and the extortioners: and not onely doe not punish them, but are themselves such.
h When God will shew himselfe mercifull to his Church, hee calleth himselfe, The Holy one of Israel: but when he hath to doe with his enemies, hee is called Mightie, as against whom no power is able to resist.
i I will take vengeance of mine adversaries the Iewes, and so satisfie my desire by punishing them. Which thing yet hee doeth with a griefe, because of his Covenant.
k Least the faithfull among them should be overcome with his threatning, hee addeth this consolation.
l It is onely the worke of God to purifie the heart of man, which thing hee doeth because of his promise, made concerning the salvation of his Church.
m By iustice is meant Gods faithfull promise, which is the cause of the deliverance of his Church.

h That they may acknowledge their sinnes and turne to him.
i He sheweth the fruit of the peace, which the Gospell should bring: to wit, that men should doe good one to another, whereas before they were enemies.
k He speaketh not against the use of weapons and lawfull warre, but sheweth how the hearts of the godly shalbe affected one toward another: which peace and love doeth begin and grow in this life, but shall be perfected when we are joyned with our Head Christ Iesus.
l Seeing the Gentiles will be so readie, make you haste, and shew them the way to worship God.

r Thus the Prophet spake, being inflamed with the zeale of Gods glory, and that hee might feare them with Gods iudgement.
s Meaning, as soone as God shall begin to execute his iudgements.
t By hie trees and mountaines are meant them that are proud and lofty, and thinke themselves most strong in this world.

CHAP. III.

1 For the sinne of the people, God will take away the wise men, and give them foolish princes. 14 The covetousnesse of the governours. 26 The pride of the women.

FOr loe, the Lord God of hoastes will take away from Ierusalem and from Iudah the stay a and the strength: even all the stay of bread, and all the stay of water.

2 The strong man, and the man of warre, b the iudge, and the Prophet, the prudent and the aged,

3 The captaine of fifrie, and the honourable, and the counseller, and the cunning artificer, and c eloquent man.

4 And I will appoint d children to be their princes, and babes shall rule over them.

5 The people shalbe e oppressed one of another, and every one by his neighbour: the children shall presume against the ancient, and the vile against the honourable.

6 When every one shall f take hold of his brother of the house of his father, and say, Thou hast cloathing, thou shalt be our prince, and let this fall be under thine hand:

7 In that day he shall g sweare, saying, I cannot be an helper: for there is no bread in mine house, nor cloathing: therefore make me no prince of the people.

8 Doubtlesse Ierusalem is fallen, and Iudah is fallen downe, because their tongue and workes are against the Lord, to provoke the eyes of his glory.

9 The h triall of their countenance testifieth against them, yea, they declare their sinnes, as Sodom, they hide them not. Wo be unto their soules: for they have rewarded evill unto themselves.

10 i Say ye, Surely it shalbe well with the iust: for they shall eate the fruit of their works.

11 Woe be to the wicked, it shalbe evill with him: for the reward of his hands shalbe given him.

12 k Children are extortioners of my people, and women have rule over them: O my people, they that leade thee, cause thee to erre, and destroy the way of thy paths.

13 The Lord standeth up to pleade, yea, hee standeth to iudge the people.

14 The Lord shall enter into iudgement with the l Ancients of his people & the princes thereof: for yee have eaten up the vineyard: the spoyle of the poore is in your houses.

15 What have ye to do that ye beate my people to pieces, m and grinde the faces of the poore, saith the Lord, even the Lord of hoasts?

16 The Lord also saith, n Because the daughters of Zion are haughty, and walke with o stretched out neckes, and with p wandring eyes, walking and q minsing as they goe, and making a r tinkling with their feet, 17 Therefore shall the Lord make the heads of the daughters of Zion bald, and the Lord shall discover their secret parts.

18 In that day shall the Lord take away the ornament of the slippers, and the kalles, and the round tyres.

19 The sweet balles, and the bracelets, and the bonnets,

20 The tyres of the head, and the sloppes, and the headbands, and the tablets, and the earerings,

21 The rings and the mufflers,

22 The costly apparell and the vailes, and the wimples, and the crisping pinnes,

23 And the glasses and the fine linnen, and the hoods and the s launes.

24 And in stead of sweete savour, there shalbe stinke, and in stead of girdle, a rent, and in stead of dressing of the haire, baldnesse, and in stead of a stomacher, a girding of sackecloath, and burning in stead of beauty.

25 Thy men shall fall by the t sword, and thy strength in the battell.

26 Then shall her gates mourne and lament, and she being desolate, shall sit upon the ground.

a Because they trusted in their abundance and prosperity, he sheweth that they should be taken from them.

b The temporall governour and the minister.

c By these he meaneth that God would take away every thing that was in any estimation, and wherein they had any occasion to vaut themselves.

d Nor onely in age: but in wit, manners, knowledge and strength.

e For lacke of good regiment and order.

f He sheweth that this plague shalbe so horrible, that contrary to the common maner of men, which by nature are ambitious, none shalbe found able or willing to be their governour.

g Feare shall rather cause him to forsweare himselfe, then to take such a dangerous charge upon hun.

h When God shall examine their deeds whereupon they now set an impudent face, hee shall finde the marke of their impiete in their forehead.

i Be ye that are godly, assured that God will defend you in the middes of these troubles.

k Because the wicked people were more addict to their princes, then to the commandements of God, he sheweth that he would give them such princes, by whom they should have no helpe, but that should be manifest tokens of his wrath, because they should be fooles and effeminate.

l Meaning, that the rulers and governours had destroyed his Church, and not preserved it, according to their duetie.

m That is, wee shew all cruelty against them.

n He meaneth the people because of the arrogancy and pride of their women, which gave themselves to all wantonnes and dissolution.

o Which declared their pride.

p As a signe, that they were not chaste.

q Which shewed their wantonnes.

r They delighted them in slippers that did creeke, or had little plates sowed upon them, which tinkled as they went.

s In rehearsing all these things particularly, he sheweth the lightnesse and vanitie of such as cannot be content with comely apparell according to their degree.

t Meaning, that God will not onely punish the women, but their husbands which have suffered this dissolutenesse, and also the commonweale which hath not remedied it.

CHAP. IV.

1 The small remnant of men after the destruction of Ierusalem. 2 The graces of God upon them that remaine.

ANd in that day shall a seven women take hold of one man, saying, We will eate our owne bread, and we will weare our owne garments: onely b let us be called by thy name, and take away our c reproach.

2 In that day shall the d bud of the Lord be beautifull and glorious, and the fruit of the earth shall be excellent and pleasant for them that are escaped of Israel.

3 Then he that shall be left in Zion, and he that shall remaine in Ierusalem, shalbe called holy, and every one shallbe e written among the living in Ierusalem,

4 When the Lord shall wash the filthinesse of the daughters of Zion, and purge the f blood of Ierusalem out of the mids thereof by the spirit of g iudgement, and by the spirit of burning.

5 And the Lord shall create upon every place of mount Zion, and upon the assemblies thereof, h a cloude and smoake by day, and the shining of a flaming fire by night: for upon all the i glory shalbe a defence.

6 And a covering shalbe for a shadow in the day for the heate, and a place of refuge and a covert for the storme k and for the raine.

a When God shall execute this vengeance, there shall not be one man found to be the head to many women, and they contrary to womanly shamefastnesse, shall seeke unto men, and offer themselves to any condition.

b Be thou our husband, and let us be called thy wives.

c For so they thought it to be without an head and husband.

d He comforteth the Church in this desolation, which shall spring up like a bud, signifying that Gods graces should be as plentifull toward the faithfull, as though they sprang out of the earth, as Chap. 45.8. Some by the budde of the Lord meane Christ.

e He alludeth to the booke of life, whereof read Exod. 32.32. meaning, Gods secret counsell, wherein his elect are predestinate to life everla. ing.

f That is, the cruelty, extortion, avarice, and all wickednes.

g When things shall be redressed that were amisse.

h He alludeth to the pillar of the cloud, Exod. 13,21. meaning, that Gods favour and protection should appeare in every place.

i The faithfull are called the glory of God, because his image and tokens of his grace shine in them.

k God promiseth to be the defence of his Church against all troubles and dangers.

CHAP. V.

1 Vnder the similitude of the vine, he describeth the state of the people. 8 Of their auarice. 11 Their drunkennesse. 13 Of their captivitie.

NOw will a I sing to my b beloved a song of my beloved to his vineyard, * My beloved had a c vineyard in a very fruitfull hill.

2 And hee hedged it, and gathered out the stones of it, and he planted it with the best plants, d and hee built a tower in the mids thereof, and made a winepresse therein, then hee looked that it should bring forth grapes: but it brought forth e wild grapes.

3 Now therefore, O inhabitants of Ierusalem and men of Iudah, iudge, I pray you, f betweene me and my vineyard.

4 What could I have done any more to my vineyard that I have not done unto it? why have I looked that it should bring forth grapes, and it bringeth forth wild grapes?

5 And now I will tell you what I will doe to my vineyard: I g will take away the hedge thereof, and it shall be eaten up: I will breake the wall thereof, and it shallbe troden downe:

6 And I will lay it waste: it shall not be cut, nor digged, but briers and thornes shall grow up: I will also command the cloudes that they raine no raine upon it.

7 ¶ Surely the vineyard of the Lord of hoasts is the house of Israel, and the men of Iudah are his pleasant plant, and he looked for h iudgement, but behold oppression: for righteousnesse, but behold i a crying.

8 Woe unto them that ioyne house to house, and lay field to field, till there be no k place, that ye may be placed by your selves in the mids of the earth.

9 This is in mine l eares, saith the Lord of hoasts. Surely many houses shall be desolate, even great and faire without inhabitant.

10 For ten acres of vines shall yeeld one m bath, and the seed of an n homer shall yeeld an o ephah.

11 ¶ Woe unto them, that p rise up early to follow drunkennesse, and to them that continue untill q night, till the wine doe inflame them.

12 And the harpe and viole, timbrel and pipe, and wine are in their feasts: but they regard not the r worke of the Lord, neither consider the worke of his hands.

13 Therefore my people s is gone into captivitie, because they had t no knowledge, and the glory thereof are men famished, and the multitude thereof is dried up with thirst.

14 Therefore u hell hath enlarged it selfe, and hath opened his mouth without measure, and their glory, and their multitude, and their pomp, and he that reioyceth among them, shall descend into it.

15 And man shalbe brought downe, and man shall be humbled, even the eyes of the proud shall be humbled.

16 And the Lord of hoastes shall be exalted in iudgement, and the holy God shall be sanctified in iustice.

17 Then shall x the lambes feede after their maner, and the strangers shall eate the desolate places of the fat.

18 ¶ Wo unto them that draw iniquity with y cordes of vanitie, and sinne, as with cart ropes:

19 Which say, z Let him make speed: let him hasten his worke, that wee may see it: and let the counsell of the Holy One of Israel draw neere and come, that we may know it.

20 Woe unto them that speake good of evill, a and evill of good, which put darknes for light, and light for darkenesse, that put bitter for sweet, and sweet for sowre.

21 Woe unto them that are b wise in their owne eyes, and prudent in their owne sight.

22 Woe unto them that are c mighty to drinke wine, and unto them that are strong to powre in strong drinke:

23 Which iustifie the wicked for a reward, and take away the righteousnesse of the righteous from him.

24 Therefore as the flame of fire devoureth the stubble, and as the chaffe is consumed of the flame: so their d root shalbe a rottennesse, and their bud shall rise up like dust, because they have cast off the Law of the Lord of hoasts, and contemned the word of the Holy one of Israel.

25 Therefore is the wrath of the Lord kindled against his people, and he had stretched out his e hand upon them, and hath smitten them that the mountaines did tremble: and their carkeises were torne in the middes of the streets, and for all this his wrath was not turned away, but his hand was stretched out still.

26 And he will lift up a signe f unto the nations afarre, and will hisse unto them from the end of the earth: and behold, they shall come hastily with speed.

27 None shall g faint nor fall among them: none shall slumber nor sleep, neither shall the girdle of his loynes be loosed, nor h the latchet of his shooes be broken.

28 Whose arrowes shall be sharpe, and all his bowes bent: his horse hoofes shalbe thought like flint, and his wheeles like whirlewind.

29 His roaring shallbe like a lion, and he shall roare like lions whelpes: they shall i roare, and lay hold of the pray: they shall take it away, and none shall deliver it.

30 And in that day they shall roare upon them, as the roaring of the sea: and if k they looke unto the earth, behold darkenesse and sorow, and the light shalbe darkened in their l skie.

CHAP. VI.

1 Isaiah sheweth his vocation by the vision of the divine maiesty. 9 He sheweth the obstinacie of the people. 11 The destruction of the land. 13 The remnant reserved.

IN the yeere of the death of king Vzziah, a I saw also the Lord sitting upon an b hie throne, and lifted up, and the lower c parts thereof filled the Temple.

2 The d Seraphims stoode upon it, every one had sixe wings: with twaine he covered his e face, and with twaine he covered his f feete, and with twaine he did g flie.

3 And

---

a The Prophet by this song doth set before the peoples eyes their ingratitude, and Gods mercy.
b That is, to God.
* Ier. 2, 21. mat. 21. 33.
c Meaning, that he had planted his Church in a place most plentifull and abundant.
d He spared no diligence nor cost.
e In the seventh verse he declareth what they were.
f He maketh them iudges in their owne cause, for as much as it was evident that they were the cause of their owne ruine.
g I will take no more care for it: meaning, that he would take from them his word and ministers, and all other comforts, and send them contrary plagues.
h Iudgement and righteousnesse are true fruits of the feare of God, and therefore in the cruell oppressors there is no religion.
i Of them that are oppressed.
k To wit, for the poore to dwell in.
l I have heard the complaint and cry of the poore.
m Which conteineth about ten pottles: so that every acre should but yeeld one pottell.
n Which conteineth an hundreth pottels.
o An Ephah conteineth ten pottels, and is in dry things as much as Bath in his liquors.
p That spare no pain nor diligence to follow their lustes.
q Which are never weary of their rioting and excessive pleasures, but use all meanes to provoke to the same.
r They regard not the provident care of God over them, nor for what end he hath created them, speake, as though the cause they would not up them that shall shall ever be satiate.
s That is, shall certainely goe: for so the Prophets use to thing which shall come to passe, were done already.
t Because they would not obey the word of God.
u Meaning, the grave shall swallow die for hunger and thirst, and yet for all this great destruction it x God comforteth the poore lambes of his Church, which had bene strangers in other countreyes, promising that they should dwell in these places againe, whereof they had bene deprived by the fat and cruell tyrants, y Which use all allurements, occasions, and excuses to harden their conscience in sin.
z He sheweth what are the words of the wicked, when they are menaced with Gods iudgements, 2. Pet. 3. 4.
a Which are not ashamed of sinne, nor care for honestie, but are growen to a desperate impietie.
b Which are contemners of all doctrine and admonition.
c Which are never weary, but shew their strength, and bragge in gluttony and drunkennes.
d Both they and their posterity. So that nothing shall be left.
e He sheweth that God had so sore punished this people, that the dumbe creatures, if they had bene to plagued, would have bin more sensible, and therefore his plagues must continue, till they begin to feele them.
f Hee will make the Babylonians to come against them at his becke, and to fight under his standard.
g They shall be prompt and iustie to execute Gods vengeance.
h The enemy shall have none impediment.
i Whereby is declared the cruelty of the enemie.
k The Iewes shall find no succour.
l In the land of Iudah.

a God sheweth not himselfe to man in his maiestie, but according as mans capacitie is able to comprehend him, that is, by visible signes, as John Baptist saw the holy Ghost in the forme of a dove.
b As a Iudge ready to give sentence.
c Of his garment, or of his throne.
d They were Angels, so called, because they were of a fierie colour, to signifie that they burnt in the love of God, or were light as fire to execute his will.
e Signifying, that they were not able to endure the brightnesse of Gods glory.
f Whereby was declared that man was not able to see the brightnesse of God in them.
g Which thing declareth the prompte obedience of the Angels to execute Gods commandement.

3 And one cried to another, and said, h Holy, holy, holy is the Lord of hoasts: the whole i world is full of his glory.

4 And the lintels of the doore cheekes k moovid at the voyce of him that caried, and the house was filled with smoke.

5 Then I said, l Woe is me: for I am vndone, because I am a man of polluted lips, and I dwell in the mids of a people of polluted lips: for mine eyes have seene the King, and Lord of hoasts.

6 Then flew one of the Seraphims unto mee with an hote cole in his hand, which he had taken from the m altar with the tongs:

7 And he touched my mouth, and said, Loe, this hath touched thy lips, and thine iniquity shall be taken away, and thy n sinne shallbe purged.

8 Also I heard the voyce of the Lord, saying, Whom shall I send? and who shall goe for vs? Then I said, Here am I, send me.

9 And he said, Goe, and say unto this people, o Yee shall heare indeed, but yee shall not vnderstand: ye shall plainely see, and not perceive.

10 Make the heart of this people fat, make their eares heavie, and shut their eyes, least they see with their eyes, and heare with their eares, and vnderstand with their heart, and convert, and he heale them.

11 Then said I, Lord, p how long? And hee answered, Vntill the cities be wasted without inhabitant, and the houses without man, and the land be vtterly desolate.

12 And the Lord have removed men farre away, and there be a great desolation in the mids of the land.

13 But yet in it shall be q a tenth, and shall returne, and shall be eaten up as an elme r or as an oke, which have a substance in them, when they cast their leaves: so the holy seed shall be the substance thereof.

h This oft repetition signifieth, that the Holy Angels cannot satisfie themselves, in praysing God, to teach vs that in all our lives we should give our selves to the continuall praise of God.

i His glory doeth not only appeare in the heavens, but through all the world, and therefore all creatures are bound to praise him.

k Which things were to confirme the Prophet, that it was not the voyce of man: and by the smoke was signified the blindnesse that should come upon the Iewes.

l He speaketh this for two causes: the one, because hee that was a mortall creature, and therefore had more need to glorifie God then the Angels, did it not: and the other, because the more neere that man approacheth to God, the more doth he know his owne sinne and corruption.

m Of the burnt offrings, where the fire never went out.

n This declareth that man cannot render due obedience to God, till he have purged vs. o Whereby is declared that for the malice of man God will not immediatly take away his word, but he will cause it to be preached to their condemnation, when as they will not learne thereby to obey his will, and be saved: hereby he exhorteth the ministers to doe their duety, and answereth to the wicked murmurers, that through their owne malice their heart is hardened. Matt. 13.14. actes 28,26 rom.11.8. p As he was mooved with the zeale of Gods glory so was he touched with a charitable affection toward the people. p Meaning, the tenth part: or as some write, it was revealed to Isaiah for the confirmation of his prophecie, that ten Kings should come before their captivitie, as were from Vzziah to Zedekiah. q For the fewnes they shall seeme to be eaten up: yet they shall after flourish as a tree, which in winter loseth leaves, and seemeth to be dead, yet in Summer is fresh and greene.

CHAP. VII.

1 Ierusalem is besieged. 4 Isaiah comforteth the king.
14 Christ is promised.

* 2. Kings 16,5.

AND in the dayes of * Ahaz, the sonne of Iotham, the sonne of Vzziah king of Iudah, Rezin the king of ‖ Aram a came up, and Pekah the sonne of Remaliah king of Israel, to Ierusalem to fight against it, but he could not overcome it.

‖ Or, Syria.

a To wit, the second time: for in the first battel Ahaz was overcome.

2 And it was tolde the house of b David, saying, Aram is ioyned with c Ephraim: therefore his heart was d mooved, and the heart of his people, as the trees of the forest are mooved by the winde.

b Meaning, the Kings house.

c That is, Israel, because that tribe was the greatest. Gen. 48. 19.

d For feare,

3 ¶ Then saide the Lord unto Isaiah, Goe foorth now to meete Ahaz (thou and e Shear-iashub thy sonne) at the end of the conduit of the vpper poole, in the path of the fullers field, e That is to say, the rest shall returne, which name Isaiah gave his sonne, to signifie that the rest of the people should returne out of their captivitie,

4 And say unto him, Take heed, and be still: feare not, neither be faint hearted for the two tailes of these smoking f firebrands, for the furious wrath of Rezin and of Aram, and of Remaliahs sonne.

f Which have but a little smoke and shall quickly be quenched.

5 Because Aram hath taken wicked counsell against thee, and Ephraim and Remaliahs sonne, saying, g Which was an Israelite, and as seemeth, enemy to the house of David.

6 Let vs goe up against Iudah, and let vs waken them up, and made a breach therein for vs, and set a king in the mids thereof, even the sonne of g Tabeal.

h Counting from the five and twentieth yeere of the reigne of Vzziah, at what time Amos prophecied this thing, and now Isaiah confirmeth that the Israelites should be led in o perpetuall captivity, which thing came to passe within 20. yeere after that Isaiah did this message.

7 Thus saith the Lord God, It shall not stand, neither shall it be.

8 For the head of Aram is Damascus, and the head of Damascus is Rezin: and within five and h threescore yeere, Ephraim shall be destroyed from being a people.

9 And the head of Ephraim is Samaria, and the head of Samaria is Remaliahs sonne. If ye beleeve not, surely ye shall not be established.

10 ¶ And the Lord spake againe unto Ahaz, saying,

11 Aske i a signe for thee of the Lord thy God: aske it either in the depth beneath, or in the height above.

i For the confirmation of this thing that thine enemies shall be destroyed and thou preserved.

12 But Ahaz said, I will not aske, neither will I k tempt the Lord.

k Not to beleeve Gods word without a signe, is to tempt God: but to refuse a signe when God offereth it for the aid and helpe of our infirmitie, is to rebell against him.

13 Then he said, Heare you now, O house of David, is it a small thing for you to grieve l men, that you will also grieve my God?

l You thinke you have to doe with men, when ye contemne Gods messengers: but it is God against whom you bend your selves.

14 Therefore the Lord m himselfe will give you a signe. Beholde, the virgine shall conceive and beare a sonne, and he shall call his name ‖ Immanuel.

‖ Or, God with vs, which name can agree to none, but to him that is both God and man.

15 n Butter and hony shall he eate, till he have knowledge to refuse the evill, and to chuse the good.

m Forasmuch as thou art vnworthy, the Lord for his owne promise sake will give a signe, which shall be that Christ the Saviour of his Church, and the effect of all signes and miracles shallbe revealed.

n Meaning, that Christ is not onely God, but man also, because he shallbe nourished as other men vntill the age of discretion.

16 For afore the o chield shall have knowledge to eschew the evill, and to chuse the good, the land that thou abhorrest, shallbe forsaken of both her kings.

o Nor meaning Christ, but any child: for before a child can come to the yeeres of discretion, the kings of Samaria and Syria shall be destroyed.

17 The Lord shall bring upon thee, and upon thy people, and upon thy Fathers house (the dayes that are not come from the day that p Ephraim departed from Iudah) even the King of q Asshur.

p Since the time that the twelve Tribes rebelled vnder Roboam. q In whom thou hast put thy trust.

18 And in that day shall the Lord hisse for the r flie that is at the vttermost parts of the floods of Egypt, and for the Bee which is in the land of Asshur.

r Meaning, the Egyptians: for by reason the countrey is hote and moist, it is full of flies, as Assyria is full of bees.

19 And they shall come and shall light all in the desolate valleys and in the holes of the rocks, and upon the thornie places, and upon all bushie ſ places.

ſ Signifying, that no place shall be free from them.

20 In that day shall the Lord shave with a rasor that is hired, even by them beyond the River, by the King of Asshur, the head and the haire of the t feet, and it shall confirme the beard.

t That is, that which is from the belly downeward: meaning, that he would destroy both great and small.

21 And in the same day shall a man u nourish a yong kow, and two sheepe.

u Hee that before had a great number of cattell, shall be content with one kow and two sheepe.

22 And for the x abundance of milke, that they shall give, hee shall eate butter: for butter and hony shall every one eate, which is left within the land.

x The numbers of men shall be so small, that a few beasts shall be able to nourish all abundantly.

23 And at the same day every place, wherein shall be a thousand vines, shall be at a thousand pieces of silver: so it shall be for the briers and for the thornes.

24 With arrowes and with y bowe shall one come thither: because all the land shall be briers and thornes.

25 But on z all the mountaines, which shall be digged with the mattocke, there shall not come thither the feare of briers and thornes: but they shall be for the sending out of bullockes, and for the treading of sheepe.

y As they that go to seeke wilde beasts amoug their bushes.
z The mountains contrary to their wont, shall be tilled by y such as shall flee to them for succour.

CHAP. VIII.

1 The captivitie of Israel and Iudah by the Assyrians. 6 The infidelitie of the Iewes. 9 The destruction of the Assyrians. 14 Christ the stone of stumbling to the wicked. 19 The worde of God must be enquired at.

MOreover the Lord said unto me, Take thee a [a] great roll, and write it [b] with a mans pen, Make speed, to the spoyle: haste to the pray:

2 Then I tooke unto me [c] faithfull witnesses to record, Uriah the Priest, and Zechariah the sonne of Ieberechiah.

3 After, I came unto the [d] Propheteſſe, which conceived, and bare a sonne, Then said the Lord to me, Call his name, ‖ Maher-shalahash-baz.

4 For before the [e] childe shall have knowledge to cry, My father, and my mother, he shall take away the riches of Damascus, and the spoyle of Samaria, before the king of Asshur.

5 ¶ And the Lord spake yet againe unto me, saying,

6 Because this people had refused the waters of [g] Shiloah that runne softly, and reioyce with Rezin, and the sonne of Remaliah,

7 Now therefore, behold, the Lord bringeth up upon them the waters of [h] the river mightie and great, even the King of Asshur with all his glory, and hee shall come up upon all their rivers, and goe over all their bankes,

8 And shall breake into Iudah, and shall overflow, and passe through, and shall come up to the [i] necke, and the stretching out of his wings shall fill the breadth of thy land, O [k] Immanu-el.

9 Gather together on heapes, O ye [l] people, and ye shall be broken in pieces, and hearken all ye of farre countreys: gird your selves, and you shall be broken in pieces: gird your selves, and you shall be broken in pieces.

10 Take counsell together, yet it shall be brought to nought: pronounce a decree, yet shall it not stand: for God is with us.

11 For the Lord spake thus to me, in taking [m] of mine hand, and taught me, that I should not walke in the way of this people, saying,

12 Say ye not, A [n] confederacie, to all them to whom this people saith a confederacie, neither feare you [o] their feare, nor be afraid of them.

13 [p] Sanctifie the Lord of hoastes, and let him be your feare, and let him be your dread.

14 And he shall be as a [q] Sanctuarie: but as a stumbling stone, and as a rocke to fall upon, to both the houses of Israel, and as a snare and as a net to the inhabitans of Ierusalem.

15 And many among them shall stumble, and shall fall, and shall be broken, and shall be snared, and shall be taken.

16 [r] Binde up the testimonie: seale up the Law among my disciples.

17 Therefore I will waite upon the Lord that hath hid his face from the house of Iaakob, and I will looke for him.

18 Beholde, I and the [s] children whom the Lord hath given me, are as signes and as wonders in Israel, [t] by the Lord of hoastes, which dwelleth in Mount Zion.

19 And when they shall say unto you, Enquire at them that have a spirit of divination, and at the soothsayers which whisper and murmure, [u] Should not a people enquire at their God? from the [x] living to the dead?

20 To the [y] Law, and to the testimonie, if they speake not according to this worde: it is because there is no [z] light in them.

21 Then he that is afflicted and famished, shall goe to and fro in [a] it: and when he shall be hungry, he shall even fret himselfe, [b] and curse his king and his gods, and shall looke upward.

22 And when he shall looke to the earth, behold trouble, and [c] darkenesse, vexation, and anguish, and he is driven to darkenesse.

a That thou maiest write in great letters, to the intent it may be more easily read.
b Meaning, after the common fashion, because all men might reade it.
c Because the thing was of great importance, he tooke these two witnesses, which were of credit with the people, when he set this up upon the doore of the Temple, albeit Uriah was a flattering hypocrite. 2 Kin 16, 11.
d Meaning, to his wife, and this was done in a vision.
‖ Or, make speed to the spoile: haste to the pray.
e Before any child be able to speake.
f That is, the army of Assyria.
g Which was a fountaine at the foote of mount Zion, out of the which ran a small river through the city: meaning, that they of Iudah, distrusting their owne power, which was small, desired such power and riches as they saw in Syria and Israel.
h That is, the Assyrians which dwell beyond Euphrates.
i It shall be ready to drowne them.
k He speaketh this to Messiah, or Christ, in whom the faithfull were comforted, and who would not suffer his Church to be destroyed vtterly.
l To wit, ye that are enemies to the Church, as the Assyrians, Egyptians, Syrians, &c. m To encourage me that I should not shrinke for the infidelitie of this people, and so neglect mine office.
n Consent not yee that are godly, to the league and friendship that this people seek with strangers and idolaters.
o Meaning, that they should not feare the thing that they feared, which have no hope in God.
p In putting your trust onely in him, in calling upon him in adversitie, patiently looking for his helpe, and fearing to doe any thing contrary to his will.
q He will defend you which are his elect, and reiect all the rest, which is meant of Christ, against whom the Iewes should stumble and fall, Luke 2, 34. 1 Cor. 1, 23. 1 Pet. 2, 7, 8.
r Though all forsake me, yet yee that are mine, keepe my word sure sealed in your hearts.
s Meaning, them that were willing to heare and obey the word of God, whom the world hated, as though they were monsters and not worthy to live.
t This was a consolation in their troubles, knowing that nothing could come unto them, but by the will of the Lord.
u Answere the wicked thus, Should not Gods people seeke succour one by at him?
x That is, will they refuse to be taught of the Prophet, who is the mouth of God, and seeke helpe at the dead, which is the illusion of Satan?
y Seeke remedie in the word of God, which is declared.
z They have no knowledge, but are blinde leaders of the blinde.
a This is in Iudah, where they should have had rest, if they had not thus grievously offended God.
b In whom afore they put their trust.
c They shall thinke that heaven and earth and all creatures are bent against them to trouble them.

CHAP. IX.

1 The vocation of the Gentiles. 6 A prophecie of Christ. 14 The destruction of the ten tribes for their pride and contempt of God.

YEt [a] the darkenesse shall not be according to the affliction, [b] that it had when at the first hee touched lightly the land of Zebulun and the lande of Naphtali, nor afterward when hee was more grievous by the way of the sea beyond Iorden in Galile of [c] the Gentiles.

2 The people that [d] walked in darkenes, have seene a great [e] light, they that dwelled in the land of the shadow of death, upon them hath the light shined.

3 Thou hast [g] multiplied the nation, and not increased their ioy: they have reioyced before thee according to the ioy in harvest, and as men reioyce when they divide a spoyle.

4 For the [h] yoke of their burthen, and the staffe of their shoulder, and the rod of their oppressour hast thou broken, as in the day of Midian.

5 Surely every battell of the warriour is with noise, and with tumbling of garments in blood: but this shall be [i] with burning, and devouring of fire.

6 For unto us a childe is borne, and unto us a Sonne is given: and the governement is upon a He comforteth the Church againe after these great threatnings, promising to restore them to great glory in Messiah.

b Wherewith Israel was punished, first by Tiglath-pilesar, which was a light scourge in respect of that which they suffered afterward by Shalmanesar, who carried the Israelites away captives.
c Whereas the Iewes and Gentiles dwelt together by reason of those twenty cities, which Salomon gave to Hiram.
d Which were captive in Babylon: and the Prophet speaketh of that thing which should come to passe after, as though it were nowe done.
e Meaning, the comfort of their deliverance.
f This captivitie and deliverance were figures of our captivitie by sinne, and of our deliverance by Christ through the preaching of the Gospel. Matth. 4, 15, 16.
g Their number was greater when they went into captivitie, then when they returned, but their ioy was greater at their returne, Hag 2, 10.
h Thou gavest them perfite ioy by dilivering them, and by destroying the tyranny, that had kept them in cruell bondage, as thou diddest deliver them by Gideon from the Midianites, Iudg. 7, 22.
i He speaketh of the deliverance of his Church, which he hath delivered miraculously from his enemies, but especially by the comming of Christ, of whom he prophecieth in the next verse.

his ſhoulder, and he ſhall call his name, Wonderfull, Counſeller, The mightie God, The everlaſting [k] Father, The prince of peace.

7 The encreaſe of his government and peace ſhall have none end: he ſhall ſit vpon the throne of David, and vpon his kingdome, to order it, and to ſtabliſh it with iudgement, and with iuſtice, from henceforth, even for ever: the zeale of the Lord of hoaſtes will performe this.

8 ¶ The Lord hath ſent a word into Iaakob, and it lighted vpon [m] Iſrael.

9 And all the people ſhall know, even Ephraim, and the inhabitant of Samaria, that ſay in the pride and preſumption of their heart,

10 The [n] brickes are fallen, but we will build it with hewen ſtones: the wild figge trees are cut downe, but we will change them into cedars.

11 Neverthelesſe, the Lord will raiſe vp the adverſaries of [o] Rezin againſt him, and ioyne his enemies together.

12 Aram before and the Philiſtims behinde, and they ſhall deuoure Iſrael with open mouth: yet for all this his wrath is not turned away, but his hand is ſtretched out ſtill.

13 For the people turneth not vnto him that ſmiteth them, neither doe they ſeeke the Lord of hoaſtes.

14 Therefore will the Lord cut off from Iſrael head and taile, branch and ruſh, in one day.

15 The ancient and the honourable man, he is the head: and the prophet that teacheth lies, he is the taile.

16 For the leaders of the people cauſe them to erre: and they that are led by them are deuoured.

17 Therefore ſhall the Lord have no pleaſure in their yong men, neither will he have compaſſion of their fatherleſſe and of their widowes: for every one is an hypocrite and wicked, and every mouth ſpeaketh follie: yet for all this his wrath is not turned away, but his hand is ſtreched out ſtill.

18 For wickedneſſe [p] burneth as a fire: it deuoureth the briers and the thornes, and will kindle in the thicke places of the foreſt: and they ſhall mount vp like the lifting vp of ſmoke.

19 By the wrath of the Lord of hoaſts ſhall the land be darkened, and the people ſhall be as the meate of the fire: no man ſhall [q] ſpare his brother.

20 And he ſhall ſnatch at the right hand, and be hungry: and he ſhall eate on the left hand, and ſhall not be ſatisfied: every one ſhall eate the [r] fleſh of his owne arme.

21 Manaſſeh Ephraim: and Ephraim Manaſſeh, and they both ſhalbe againſt Iudah: yet for all this his wrath is not turned away, but his hand is ſtretched out ſtill.

CHAP. X.

1 Of wicked lawmakers. 5 God will puniſh his people by the Aſſyrians and after deſtroy them. 21 The remnant of Iſrael ſhall be ſaued.

WOe vnto them that decree wicked decrees, and [a] write grieuous things,

2 To keepe backe the poore from iudgement, and to take away the iudgement of the poore of my people, that widowes may be their pray, and that they may ſpoyle the fatherleſſe.

3 What will ye doe now in the day of viſitation, and of deſtruction, which ſhall come from [b] farre? to whom will yee flee for helpe? and where will ye leave your [c] glory?

4 [d] Without mee every one ſhall fall among them that are bound, and they ſhall fall downe among te ſlaine: yet for all this his wrath is not turned away, but his hand is ſtretched out ſtill.

5 ¶ O [e] Aſſhur, the rodde of my wrath: and the ſtaffe in their hands is mine indignation.

6 I will ſend [f] him to a diſſembling nation, and I will giue him a charge againſt the people of my wrath to take the ſpoyle and to take the pray, and to tread them vnder feete like the mire in the ſtreete.

7 But hee thinketh not ſo, neither doeth his heart eſteeme it ſo: but hee imagineth to deſtroy and to cut off not a few nations.

8 For he ſaith, Are not my princes altogether Kings?

9 Is not Calno as [g] Carchemiſh? Is not Hamath like Arpad? Is not Samaria as Damaſcus?

10 Like as mine hand hath found the kingdoms of the idols, ſeeing their idoles were aboue Ieruſalem, and aboue Samaria:

11 Shall not I, as I have done to Samaria, and to the idols thereof, ſo doe to Ieruſalem, and to the idoles thereof?

12 ¶ But when the Lord hath accompliſhed [h] all his worke vpon mount Zion and Ieruſalem, I will viſite the fruite of the proud heart [i] of the king of Aſſhur, and his glorious and proud lookes.

13 Becauſe hee ſayde, By the power of mine owne hand have I done it, and by my wiſedome, becauſe I am wiſe: therefore I have removed the borders of the people, and have ſpoyled their treaſures, and have pulled downe the inhabitants like a valiant man.

14 And mine hand hath found as a neſt the riches of the people, and as one that gathereth egges that are left, ſo have I gathered all the earth: and there was none to mooue the wing or to open the mouth, or to whilper.

15 Shall the [k] axe boaſt it ſelfe againſt him that heweth therewith? or ſhall the ſaw exalt it ſelfe againſt him that mooueth it? as if the rod ſhould lift vp it ſelfe againſt him that taketh it vp, or the ſtaffe ſhould exalt it ſelfe as it were no wood.

16 Therefore ſhall the Lord God of hoaſts ſend among his fat men leanneſſe, and vnder his glory he ſhall kindle a burning, like the burning of fire.

17 And the light of Iſrael ſhalbe as a [l] fire, and the Holy one thereof as a flame, and it ſhall burne and deuoure [m] his throns & his briers in one day:

18 And ſhall conſume the glory of his foreſt, and of his fruitfull fieldes both ſoule [n] and fleſh: & he ſhalbe as the [o] fainting of a ſtandard bearer.

19 And the reſt of the trees of his foreſt ſhall be few, that a childe may tell them.

20 ¶ And at that day ſhall the remnant of Iſrael and ſuch as are eſcaped of the houſe of Iaakob, ſtay no more vpon him that ſmote them, but ſhall [p] ſtay vpon the Lord, the Holy one of Iſrael in trueth.

21 The remnant ſhall returne, even the remnant of Iaakob vnto the mighty God.

22 For though thy people, O Iſrael, be as the ſand of the ſea, yet ſhall the remnant of them returne. The conſumption [q] decreed ſhall overflow with righteouſneſſe.

23 For the Lord God of hoaſtes ſhall make the conſumption even [r] determined, in the middes of all the land.

e God calleth for the Aſſyrians to be the executioners of his vengeance.

f That is, the Aſſyrians againſt the Iewes, which are but hypocrites: and in the fixt and ſeventh verſe is declared the difference of the worke of God, and of the wicked in one very thing and acte: for Gods intention is to chaſtiſe them for their amendment, and the Aſſyrians purpoſe is to deſtroy them to enrich themſelves: thus in reſpect of Gods iuſtice, it is Gods worke, but in reſpect of their owne malice, it is the worke of the deuill.

CHAP. XI.

1 Christ borne of the roote of Isai. 2 His vertues and kingdome. 6 The fruites of the Gospel. 10 The calling of the Gentiles.

BVt there shall come a a rodde foorth of the stocke of Isai, and a graffe shall grow out of his rootes.

2 And the Spirit of the Lord shall rest vpon him: the Spirit of wisedome and vnderstanding, the Spirit of counsell and strength, the Spirit of knowledge, and of the feare of the Lord,

3 And shall make him prudent in the feare of the Lord: for hee shall not iudge after the sight of his eyes, neither reproue by the hearing of his eares.

4 But with righteousnesse shall hee iudge the poore, and with equitie shall he reproue for the meeke of the earth: and he shall b smite the earth with the rod of his mouth, and with the breath of his lips shall he slay the wicked.

5 And iustice shalbe the girdle of his loynes, and faithfulnesse the girdle of his reines.

6 The c wolfe also shall dwell with the lambe, and the leopard shall lie with the kid, and the calfe, and the lyon, and the fat beast together, and a little childe shall leade them.

7 And the kow and the beare shall feede: their yong ones shall lye together: and the lyon shall eate straw like the bullocke.

8 And the sucking childe shall play vpon the hole of the aspe, and the weaned childe shall put his hand vpon the cockatrice hole.

9 Then shall none hurt nor destroy in all the mountaine of mine holinesse: for the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord, as d the waters that couer the sea.

10 And in that day the roote of Isai, which shall stand vp for a signe vnto the e people, the nations shall seeke vnto it, and his f rest shall be glorious.

11 And in the same day shall the Lord stretch out his hand g againe the second time, to possesse the remnant of his people, (which shalbe left) of Asshur, and of Egypt, and of Pathros, and of Ethiopia, and of Elam, and of Shinear, and of Hamath, and of the yles of the sea.

12 And he shall set vp a signe to the nations, and assemble the dispersed of Israel, and gather the scattered of Iudah from the foure corners of the world.

13 The hatred also of Ephraim shall depart, and the aduersaries of Iudah shall be cut off: Ephraim shall not enuie h Iudah, neither shall Iudah vexe Ephraim:

14 But they shall flee vpon the shoulders of the Philistims toward the West: they shall spoyle them of the East together: Edom and Moab shall be the stretching out of their hands, and the children of Ammon in their obedience.

15 The Lord also shall vtterly destroy the i tongue of the Egyptians sea, and with his mightie wind shall lift vp his hand k over the river, and shall smite him in his seven streames, and cause men to walke therein with shooes.

16 And there shall be a path to the remnant of his people which are left of Asshur, like as it was vnto Israel in the day that he came vp out of the land of Egypt.

CHAP. XII.

A thanksgiuing of the faithfull for the mercies of God.

ANd thou a shalt say in that day, O Lord, I will praise thee: though thou wast angry with me, thy wrath is turned away, and thou comfortest me.

2 Behold, God is my b saluation: I will trust, & wil not feare: for the Lord God is * my strength and song: he is also become my saluation.

3 Therefore with ioy shall yee c draw waters out of the wels of salvation.

4 And yee shall say in that day, * Praise the Lord: call vpon his Name: declare his workes among the people: make mention of them, for his Name is exalted.

5 Sing vnto the Lord, for he hath done excellent things: this is knowen in all the world.

6 Cry out, and shout, d O inhabitant of Zion: for great is the Holy one of Israel in the mids of thee.

CHAP. XIII.

The Medes and Persians shall destroy Babylon.

THe a burden of Babel, which Isaiah the sonne of Amoz did see.

2 Lift vp a standard vpon the high mountaine: lift vp the voyce vnto them: wagge the b hand, that they may goe into the gates of the nobles.

u When the Israelites passed through by the lefting up of Moses rod, and the enemies were drowned, Exod. 14.28.
x Because of the promise made to that kingdome, whereby Christs Kingdome was prefigured.
y He describeth by what way the Assyrians should come against Ierusalem to confirme the faithfull, when it should come to passe that as their plague was come, so should they be delivered z Feare and destruction shall come upon Iudah for the princes and the people shall be all led away captives.

a Because the captivitie of Babylon was a figure of the spirituall captivity under sinne, hee sheweth that our true deliverance must come by Christ: for as David came out of Ishai a man without dignitie, so Christ should come of a poore carpentess house as out of a dead stocke, Chap. 53.2.
b All these properties can agree to none, but onely unto Christ for it is he that toucheth the hearts of the faithfull and mortifieth their concupiscences: and to the wicked he is the savour of death and to them that shall perish: so that all the world shall be smitten with his rodde, which is his word.
c Men because of their wicked affections are named by the names of beasts wherein the like affections reigne: but Christ by his Spirit shall reforme them, and worke in them such mutuall charitie, that they shall be like lambes, favouring and loving one another, and cast off all their cruell affections, Chap. 65.25.

g For God first deliuered his people out of Egypt, and now promiseth to deliver them out of their enemies hands, as from the Parthians, Persians, Caldeans, and them of Antiochia, among whom they were dispersed: and this is chiefly meant of Christ, who calleth his people being dispersed through all the world.
h Here he describeth the consent that shallbe in his Church, and their victory against their enemies.
i Meaning, a corner of the sea, that entereth into the land, and hath the forme of a tongue.
k To wit, Nilus, the great river of Egypt, which entreth into the sea with seven streames.

a That is, the great calamitie, which was prophecied to come on Babel, as a most grievous burden, which they were not able to beare. In these twelve chapters following, he speaketh (whom they knew) of the plagues wherewith God would smite the strange nations to declare that God chastised the Israelites as his children, and these others as his enemies: and also if that God spare not these that are ignorant, that they must not thinke strange, if he punish them which have knowledge of his Law, and keepe it not. b To wit, the Medes and Persians. c That is, prepared and appointed to execute my iudgements. d Which willingly goe about to the worke wherevnto I appoynt them, but how the wicked doe this, reade Chap. 10.6.

4 The noiſe of a multitude is in the mountains like a great people: a tumultuous voyce of the kingdomes of the nations gathered together: the Lord of hoſts numbreth the hoſte of the battell.

e The army of the Medes and the Perſians againſt Babylon.

6 Howle f you, for the day of the Lord is at hand: it ſhall come as a deſtroyer from the Almighty.

f Ye Babylonians.

7 Therefore ſhall all hands be weakened, and all mens hearts ſhall melt.

8 And they ſhalbe afraid: anguiſh and ſorrow ſhall take them, and they ſhall have paine, as a woman that trauaileth: every one ſhalbe amazed at his neighbour, and their faces ſhalbe like g flames of fire.

g The Babylonians anger and griefe ſhalibe ſo much, that their faces ſhall burne as fire.

9 Behold, the day of the Lord commeth, cruell, with wrath and fierce anger to lay the land waſte: and he ſhall deſtroy the ſinners out of it.

10 For the h ſtarres of heaven and the planets thereof ſhall not give their light: the ſunne ſhalbe darkened in his going forth, and the moone ſhall not cauſe her light to ſhine.

h They that are overcome ſhall thinke that all the powers of heaven and earth are againſt them. Ezek. 32.7. Ioel 3.15. Matt. 24.29.

l Hee noteth the great ſlaughter that ſhall be, ſeeing the enemy ſhall neither for gold, or ſilver ſpare a mans life, as ver. 17.

13 Therefore I will ſhake the heaven, and the earth ſhall remooue out of her place in the wrath of the Lord of hoaſtes, and in the day of his fierce anger.

14 And m it ſhall be as a chaſed Doe, and as a ſheepe that no man taketh vp; every man ſhall turne to his owne people, and flee each one to his owne land.

m Meaning, the power of Babylon with their hired ſouldiers.

15 Every one that is found, ſhall be ſtriken through: and whoſoever ioyneth himſelfe, ſhall fall by the ſword.

16 * Their n children alſo ſhall be broken in pieces before their eyes: their houſes ſhalbe ſpoiled, and their wives raviſhed.

* Pſal. 137. 9.

n This was not accompliſhed when Cyrus tooke Babylon, but after the death of Alex. ander the great.

17 Behold, I will ſtirre vp the Medes againſt them, which ſhall not regard ſilver, nor be deſirous of gold.

18 With bowes alſo ſhall they deſtroy the children, and ſhall haue no compaſſion vpon the fruit of the wombe, and their eyes ſhall not ſpare the children.

19 And Babel the glory of kingdoms, the beauty and pride of the Caldeans, ſhalbe as the deſtruction of God * in Sodom and Gomorah.

* Gen. 19. 24. Ierem. 50, 40.

20 It ſhall not be inhabited for euer, neither ſhall it be dwelled in from generation to generation: neither ſhall the o Arabian pitch his tents there, neither ſhall their ſhepheards make their folds there.

o Who vſeth to go from countrey to countrey to find paſture for their beaſts, but there ſhall they finde none.

21 But p Zijm ſhall lodge there, & their houſes ſhalbe full of Ohim: Oſtriches ſhall dwell there, and the Satyrs ſhall dance there, 22 And Iim ſhall cry in their palaces, and dragons in their pleaſant palaces: and the time thereof is ready to come, and the dayes thereof ſhall not be prolonged.

CHAP. XIIII.

1 The returne of the people from captivity. 4 The deriſion of the King of Babylon. 11 The death of the king. 29 The deſtruction of the Philiſtims.

FOr a the Lord will haue compaſſion of Iaakob, and will yet chuſe Iſrael, and cauſe them to reſt in their owne land: and the ſtranger b ſhall ioyne himſelfe vnto them, and they ſhall cleaue to the houſe of Iaakob.

a Hee ſheweth why God wil haſte to deſtroy his enemies, to wit, becauſe he will deliuer his Church.

b Meaning, that the Gentiles ſhall be ioyned with the Church, and worſhip God.

2 And the people ſhall receiue them & bring them to their owne place, and the houſe of Iſrael ſhall poſſeſſe them in the lande of the Lord, for c ſervants and hand-maydes: and they ſhall take them priſoners, whoſe captives they were, and have rule over their oppreſſours.

c Signifying, that the Iewes ſhould be ſuperiors to the Gentiles, and that they ſhould be brought vnder the ſeruice of Chriſt by the preaching of the Apoſtles, whereby all are brought to the ſubiection of Chriſt, 2. Cor. 10, 5.

3 ¶ And in that day when the Lord ſhall give thee reſt from thy ſorow, and from thy feare, and from the ſore bondage, wherein thou diddeſt ſerve.

4 Then ſhalt thou take vp this proverbe againſt the King of Babel, and ſay, How hath the oppreſſour ceaſed? and the gold thirſtie Babel reſted?

5 The Lord hath broken the rodde of the wicked, and the ſcepter of the rulers:

6 Which ſmote the people in anger with a continuall plague, and ruled the nations in wrath: if any were perſecuted, he did d not let.

d That is, hee ſuffred all violence and iniuries to be done.

7 The whole world is at e reſt and is quiet: they ſing for ioy.

e Meaning, that when tyrants reigne, there can be no reſt nor quietneſſe, and alſo how deteſtable a thing tyrannie is, ſeeing the inſenſible creatures haue occaſion to reioyce at their deſtruction.

8 Alſo the firre trees reioyced of thee, and the cedars of Lebanon, ſaying, Since thou art layde downe, no hewer came vp againſt vs.

9 Hell beneath is mooved for thee to f meete thee at thy comming, rayſing up the dead for thee, even all the princes of the earth, and hath raiſed from theirs thrones all the Kings of the nations.

f As though they feared, leaſt thou ſhouldeſt trouble be dead, as thou diddeſt the liuing: and here hee deſcribeth the proud tyrannie of the wicked, which know not that all creatures wiſh their deſtruction, that they may reioyce.

10 All they ſhall cry and ſay vnto thee, Art thou become weake alſo as wee? art thou become like vnto vs?

11 Thy pompe is brought downe to the grave, and the ſound of the viols: the wormes g is ſpred vnder thee, and the wormes cover thee.

g In ſtead of thy coſtly carpets and coverings.

12 How art thou fallen from heaven, O h Lucifer, ſonne of the morning? and cut downe to the ground, which diddeſt caſt lottes vpon the nations?

h Thou that thoughteſt thy ſelfe moſt glorious and as it were placed in the heaven: for the morning ſtarre that goeth before the ſunne, is called Lucifer, to whom Nebuchad-nezzar is compared.

13 Yet thou ſaydeſt in thine heart, I will aſcend into heaven, and exalt my throne above beſide the ſtarres of God: I will ſit alſo vpon the mount of the congregation in the ſides of the i North.

14 I will aſcend above the height of the clouds, and I will be like the moſt high.

15 But thou ſhalt be brought downe to the grave, to the ſide of the pit.

16 They that ſee thee, ſhall k looke vpon thee and conſider thee, ſaying, Is this the man that made the earth to tremble, and that did ſhake the kingdomes?

k To ſee them at thee.

18 All the kings of the nations, even they all ſleepe in glory, every one in his owne houſe.

19 But thou art m caſt out of thy grave like an abominable branch: like the rayment of thoſe that are ſlaine, and thruſt thorow with a ſword, which goe downe to the ſtones of the pit, as a carkeiſe troden vnder feete.

grave, grave, becauſe thou haſt deſtroyed thine owne land, and ſlaine thy people: the ſeed of the wicked ſhall not be renowmed for ever.

21 [a] Prepare a ſlaughter for his children, for the iniquitie of their fathers: let them not riſe vp nor poſſeſſe the land, nor fill the face of the world with enemies.

22 ¶ For I will riſe vp againſt them (ſaith the Lord of hoaſts) and wil cut off from Babel the name and the remnant, and the ſonne, and the nephew, ſayth the Lord.

23 And I will make it a poſſeſſion to the [‖] hedgehog, and pooles of water, & I will ſweepe it with the beſome of deſtruction, ſayth the Lord of hoaſtes.

24 The Lord of hoaſtes hath ſworne, ſaying, Surely like as I have purpoſed, ſo ſhall it come to paſſe, and as I have conſulted, it ſhall ſtand:

25 [o] That I will breake to pieces Aſſhur in my land, and vpon my mountaines will I tread him vnder foote, ſo that his yoke ſhall depart from [p] them, and his burden ſhall be taken from off their ſhoulder.

26 This is the counſell that is conſulted vpon the whole world, and this is the hand ſtretched out over all the nations,

27 Becauſe the Lord of hoaſtes hath determined, and who ſhall diſannull it? and his hand is ſtretched out, and who ſhall turne it away?

28 ¶ In the yeere that king Ahaz died, was this [q] burden.

29 Reioyce not, (thou whole [r] Paleſtina) becauſe the rod of him that did beate thee is broken: for out of the ſerpents roote ſhall come forth a cockatrice, and the fruit thereof ſhall be a fiery flying ſerpent.

30 For the [ſ] firſt borne of the poore ſhall be fed, and the needy ſhall lie downe in ſafety: and I will kill thy roote with famine, and [t] it ſhall ſlay thy remnant.

31 Howle, O gate, crie, O citie: thou whole land of Paleſtina art diſſolved, for there ſhall come from the [u] North a ſmoke, and none ſhall be [x] alone, at his time appointed.

32 What ſhall then one anſwere the [y] meſſengers of the Gentiles? that the Lord hath ſtabliſhed [z] Zion, and the poore of his people ſhall truſt in it.

CHAP. XV.

A prophecie againſt Moab.

THe [a] burden of Moab. Surely [b] Ar of Moab was deſtroyed, and brought to ſilence in a night: ſurely Kir of Moab was deſtroyed, and brought to ſilence in a night.

2 [c] He ſhall goe vp to the Temple, and to Dibon to the hie places to weepe: for [d] Nebo and for Medeba ſhall Moab howle: vpon all [e] their heades ſhall be baldneſſe, and every beard ſhaven.

3 In their ſtreets ſhall they be girded with ſackecloath: on the toppes of their houſes, and in their ſtreetes every one ſhall howle, and come downe with weeping.

4 And Heſhbon ſhall ery, and Elealeh: their voyce ſhall be heard vnto Iahaz: therefore the warriours of Moab ſhall ſhout: the ſoule of every one ſhall lament in himſelfe.

5 Mine [f] heart ſhall crie for Moab: his fugitives ſhall flee vnto Zoar, [g] an heifer of three yeere olde: for they ſhall goe vp with weeping by the mounting vp of Luhith: and by the way of Horonaim they [h] ſhall raiſe vp a cry of deſtruction.

6 For the waters of Nimrim ſhall be dried vp: therefore the graſſe is withered, the herbes conſumed, and there was no greene herbe.

7 Therefore what every man hath left, and their ſubſtance ſhall they beare to the [i] brooke of the willowes.

8 For the cry went round about the borders of Moab, and the howling thereof vnto Eglaim, and the ſkriking thereof vnto Beer-Elim.

9 Becauſe the waters of Dimon ſhall be full [k] of blood: for I will bring more vpon Dimon, even lions [l] vpon him that eſcapeth of Moab, and to the remnant of the land.

CHAP. XVI.

The cauſes wherefore the Moabites are deſtroyed.

SEnd [a] yee a lambe to the ruler of the world from the rocke of the wilderneſſe, vnto the mountaine of the daughter Zion.

2 For it ſhall be as a bird that [b] flieth, and a neſt forſaken: the daughters of Moab ſhall be at the foordes of Arnon.

3 Gather a counſel, execute iudgement, [c] make thy ſhadow as the night in the midday: hide them that are chaſed out: bewray not him that is fled.

4 Let my baniſhed dwell with thee: Moab, be thou their covert from the face of the deſtroyer: for the extortioner [d] ſhall ende: the deſtroyer ſhall be conſumed, and the oppreſſour ſhall ceaſe out of the land.

5 And in mercy ſhall the throne be prepared, [e] and he ſhall ſit vpon it in ſtedfaſtneſſe, in the tabernacle of David, iudging, and ſeeking iudgement, and haſting iuſtice.

6 Wee have heart of the pride of Moab (hee is very proud) even his pride, and his arrogancie, and his indignation, but his lies ſhall not be ſo.

7 Therefore ſhall Moab howle vnto Moab, every one ſhall howle: for the foundations of Kir-hareſeth ſhall yee mourne, yet they ſhall be [g] ſtriken.

8 For the vineyards of Heſhbon are cut downe and the vine of Sibmah: [h] the lordes of the heathen have broken the principall vines thereof: they are come vnto [i] Iaazar: they wandred in the wilderneſſe: her goodly branches ſtretched out themſelves, and went over the ſea.

9 Therefore will [k] I weepe with the weeping of Iaazar, and of the vine of Sibmah, O Heſhbon: and Elealeh, I will make thee drinke with my teares, becauſe vpon thy ſummer fruits, and vpon thy harveſt [l] a ſhouting is fallen.

10 And gladnes is taken away, and ioy out of the plentifull field: and in the vineyards ſhall be no ſinging nor ſhouting for ioy: the treader ſhall not tread wine in the wine preſſes: I have cauſed the reioycing to ceaſe.

11 Wherefore, my [m] bowels ſhall ſound like an harpe for Moab, and mine inward parts for Kir-hareſh.

12 And when it ſhall appeare that Moab ſhall be weary of his high places, then ſhall he come to his [n] temple to pray, but he ſhall not prevaile.

13 This is the word that the Lord hath ſpoken againſt Moab ſince that time.

14 And now the Lord hath ſpoken, ſaying, a Hee called to the Medes and Perſians, and all thoſe that ſhould execute Gods vengeance.

‖ Or, tortels.

o As I have begun to deſtroy the Aſſyrians in Sanacherib: ſo will I continue and deſtroy them wholly, when I ſhall deliver you from Babylon p From the Iewes.

q Reade Chap. 13.1.

r Hee willeth the Philiſtims not to reioyce becauſe the Iewes are diminiſhed in their power, for their ſtrength ſhall be greater then ever it was.

ſ The Iſraelites, which were brought to moſt extreme miſerie.

t To wit, my people.

u That is, from the Iewes, or Aſſyrians: for they were brought to moſt extreme miſerie.

x But they ſhall be all ready, and ioyne together.

y Which ſhall come to enquire of the ſtate of the Church.

b The chiefe citie, whereby the whole countrey was meant.

c The Moabites, ſhall flee to their idoles for ſuccour, but it ſhall be too late.

d Which were cities of Moab.

e For as in the weſt parts the people uſed to let their haire grow long, when they mourned, ſo in the Eaſt part they cut it off.

f The Prophet ſpeaketh this in the perſon of the Moabites: or as one that felt the great iudgement of God: for God ſhould come vpon them, that it was a citie that ever lived in pleaſure, and never felt ſorow.

g Meaning,

i To hide themſelves, and their goods there.

k Of them that are ſlaine.

l So that by no meanes they ſhould eſcape the hand of God: thus will God puniſh the enemies of his Church.

a That is, offer a ſacrifice, whereby he deſireth their long delay, which wou'd not repent when the Lord called them, ſhewing them that it is now too late, ſeeing the vengeance of God is vpon them.

b There is no remedy, but you muſt flee.

c Hee ſheweth what Moab ſhould have done, when Iſrael their neighbour was in affliction, to whom becauſe they would give no ſhadow nor comfort, they are now left comfortleſſe.

d The Aſſyrians ſhall oppreſſe the Iſraelites, but for a while.

e Meaning, Chriſt.

f Their vaine confidence and proud brags ſhall deceive them, Iere. 48.2.

g For all your mourning, yet the citie ſhall be deſtroyed, even vnto the foundation.

h That is, the Aſſyrians and other enemies.

i Meaning, that the countrey of Moab was now deſtroyed, and all the precious things thereof were caried into the bordars, yea into other countreyes, and over the ſea.

k He ſheweth that the plague was ſo great, that it would have mooved any man to lament with them, as Pſal 143.5.

o He appointed a certaine time to puniſh the enemies in.

1 A prophecie of the deſtruction of Damaſcus and Ephraim, 7 calamitie moveth to repentance.

a Reade chap.13,1.
b The chiefe citie of Syria.
c It was a contrey of Syria by the river Arnon.
d It ſeemeth that the Prophet would comfort the Church in declaring the deſtruction of the two kings of Syria and Iſrael, when as they had conſpired the overthrow of Iudah.
e The ten tribes gloried in their multitude and alliance with other nations: therefore he ſaith that they ſhall be brought downe, and the Syrians alſo.
f Meaning, of the ten tribes, which boaſted themſelves of their nobilitie, proſperitie, ſtrength and multitude.
g As the abundance of corne doth not feare the harveſt men that ſhould cut it downe: no more ſhall the multitude of Iſrael make the enemies to ſhrinke, whom God ſhall appoint to deſtroy them.
h Which valley was plentifull and fertile.
i Becauſe God would have his covenant ſtable, he promiſeth to reſerve ſome of thi. people, and to bring them to repentance.
k He ſheweth that Gods corrections ever bring forth ſome fruite, and cauſe his to turne from their ſinnes, and to humble themſelves to him.
l As the Canaanites left their cities, when God did place the Iſraelites there, ſo the cities of Iſrael ſhall no more be able to defend their inhabitants then buſhes, when God ſhall ſend the enemies to plague them.

THe a burden of b Damaſcus, Behold, Damaſcus is taken away from being a citie, for it ſhall be a ruinous heape.

2 The cities of c Aroer ſhall be forſaken: they ſhall be for the flockes: for they ſhall lie there, and none ſhall make them afraide.

3 The munition alſo ſhall ceaſe from d Ephraim, and the kingdome from Damaſcus, and the remnant of Aram ſhalbe as the e glory of the children of Iſrael, ſaith the Lord of hoaſtes.

4 And in that day the glory of f Iaakob ſhall be made cleane.

5 And it ſhalbe as when the harveſt man gathereth g the corne, and reapeth the eares with his arme, and he ſhalbe as he that gathereth the eares in the valley of h Rephaim.

6 Yet a gathering of grapes ſhall i be left in it: as the ſhaking of an olive tree, two or three beries are in the top of the upmoſt boughes, and foure or five in the high branches of the fruite thereof, ſaith the Lord God of Iſrael.

7 At that day ſhall a man looke to his k maker, and his eyes ſhall looke to the holy one of Iſrael.

8 And hee ſhall not looke to the altars, the workes of his owne hands, neither ſhall he looke to thoſe things which his one fingers have made, as groves and images.

9 In that day ſhall the cities of their ſtrength be as the forſaking of boughes & branches, which l they did forſake, becauſe of the children of Iſrael, and there ſhall be deſolation.

10 Becauſe thou haſt forgotten the God of thy ſalvation, and haſt not remembred the God of thy ſtrength, therefore ſhalt thou ſet pleaſant plants, and ſhalt graffe ſtrange m vine branches.

11 In the day ſhalt thou make thy plant to grow, and in the morning ſhalt thou make thy ſeede to flouriſh: but the harveſt ſhall be gone in the day n of poſſeſſion, and there ſhall be deſperate ſorow.

12 o Ah, the multitude of many people, they ſhall make a ſound like the noiſe of the ſea: for the noyſe of the people ſhall make a ſound like the noyſe of mightie waters.

13 The people ſhall make a ſound like the noyſe of many waters: but God ſhall p rebuke them, and they ſhall flee farre off, and ſhall be chaſed as the chaffe of the mountaines before the winde, and as a rouling thing before the whirlewinde.

14 And loe, in the euening there is q trouble: but afore the morning it is gone. This is the portion of them that ſpoyle us, and the lot of them that robbe us.

m Which are excellent, and brought out of other countreyes.
n As the Lord threatneth the wicked in his Law, Levit 26,26.
o The Prophet lamenteth, conſidering the horrible plague that was prepared againſt Iſrael by the Aſſyrians, which were infinite in number, and gathered of many nations.
p Hee addeth this for the conſolition of the faithfull which were in Iſrael.
q Hee compareth the enemies the Aſſyrians to a tempeſt, which riſeth over night, and in the morning is gone.

CHAP. XVIII.

1 Of the enemies of the Church. 7 And of the vocation of the Gentiles.

OH, the a land ſhadowing with wings, which is beyond the rivers of Ethiopia.

2 Sending ambaſſadours by the ſea, even in veſſels of b reedes upon the waters, ſaying, c Goe, yee ſwift meſſengers, to a nation that is ſcattered abroad, and ſpoyled, unto a terrible d people from their beginning even hitherto: a nation by little and little even troden vnder foot: whoſe land the e floods have ſpoyled.

3 All yee the inhabitants of the world, and dwellers in the earth, ſhall ſee when f hee ſetteth up a ſigne in the mountaines, and when he bloweth the trumpet, ye ſhall heare.

4 For ſo the Lord ſaid unto mee, I will g reſt and behold in my tabernacle, as h the heate drying up the raine, and as a cloud of dew in the heat of harveſt.

5 For afore the harveſt, when the floure is finiſhed, and the fruit is riping in the floure, then hee ſhall cut downe the branches with hookes, and ſhall take away, and cut off the boughes:

6 They ſhall be left together unto the foules of the mountaines, and to the i beaſts of the earth: for the foule ſhall ſummer upon it, and every beaſt of the earth ſhall winter upon it.

7 At that time ſhall a k preſent be brought unto the Lord of hoaſts (a people that is ſcattered abroad, and ſpoyled, and of a terrible people from their beginning hitherto, a nation by little and little even troden vnder foot, whoſe land the rivers have ſpoyled) to the place of the name of the Lord of hoaſtes, even the mount Zion.

a He meaneth that part of Ethiopia, which lieth toward the ſea, which was ſo full of ſhips that the ſailes (which he compareth to wings) ſeemed to ſhadow the ſea.
b Which in thoſe countreyes were great, inſomuch as they made ſhips of them for ſwiftneſſe.
c This may be taken, that they ſent others to comfort the Iewes, and to promiſe them helpe againſt their enemies, and ſo the Lord did threaten to take away their ſtrength, that the Iewes ſhould not truſt therein: or that they did ſolicitie the Egyptians, and promiſed them aide to goe againſt Iuda.
d To wit, the Iewes who became of Gods people, made all other nations afraid of the like, as God threatned, deute. 28, 37.
e Meaning, the Aſſyrians, as chap. 8, 7.
f When the Lord prepared to fight againſt the Ethiopians.
g I will ſtay a while from puniſhing the wicked.
h Which two ſeaſons are moſt profitable for the riping of fruites, whereby hee meaneth, that hee will ſeeme to favour them, and give them abundance for a time, but hee will ſuddenly cut them off.
i Not onely men ſhall contemne them, but the bruite beaſtes.
k Meaning, that God will pitie his Church, and receive that little remnant as an offring unto himſelfe.

CHAP. XIX.

1 The deſtruction of the Egyptians by the Aſſyrians. 18 Of their converſion to the Lord.

THe a burden of Egypt. Behold, the Lord b rideth upon a ſwift cloud, and ſhall come into Egypt, and the idoles of Egypt ſhalbe mooved at his preſence, and the heart of Egypt ſhall melt in the mids of her.

2 And I will ſet the Egyptians againſt the Egyptians: ſo every one ſhall c fight againſt his brother, and every one againſt his neighbour, citie againſt citie, and kingdome againſt kingdome.

3 And the d ſpirit of Egypt ſhall faile in the mids of her, and I will deſtroy their counſell, and they ſhall ſeeke at the idoles, and at the ſorcerers, and at them that have ſpirits of divination, and at the ſoothſayers.

4 And I will deliver the Egyptians into the hand of the cruell lords, and a mightie king ſhall rule over them, ſaith Lord God of hoaſtes.

5 Then the waters of the ſea ſhall e faile, and the river ſhall be dried up, and waſted.

6 And the f rivers ſhall goe farre away: the rivers of defence ſhall be empted and dried up: the reedes and flags ſhall be cut downe.

a Reade chap.13,1.
b Becauſe the Egyptians truſted in the defence of their countrey, in the multitude of their idoles, and in the valiantneſſe of their men, the Lord ſheweth that hee will come over all their munitions in a ſwift cloud, and that their idoles ſhall tremble at his comming, and that mens hearts ſhall faint.
c As he cauſed the Ammonites, Moabites and Idumeans to kill one another, when they came to deſtroy the Church of God, 2. Chron. 20. 22. chap 49. 26.
d Meaning, their policie and wiſedome
e Hee ſheweth that the ſea and Nilus their great river, whereby they thought themſelves moſt ſure, ſhould not be able to defend them from his anger, but that hee would ſend the Aſſyrians among them, that ſhould keepe them vnder as ſlayes.
f For Nilus ranne into the ſea by ſeven ſtreames, as though they were ſo many rivers.

7 The grasse in the river, and at the g head of the rivers, and all that groweth by the river shall wither, and be driven away, and be no more.

8 The fishers also shall h mourne, and all they that cast angle into the river, shall lament, and they that spread their net upon the waters, shall be weakened.

9 Moreover, they that worke in flaxe of divers sorts, shalbe confounded, & they that weave nets.

10 For their nets shall be broken, and all they that make ponds shalbe heavie in heart.

11 Surely the princes of i Zoan are fooles: the counsell of the wise counsellers of Pharaoh, is become foolish: how say yee unto Pharaoh, I k am the sonne of the wise? I am the sonne of the ancient kings?

12 Where are now the wise men, that they may tell thee, or may know what the Lord of hoastes hath determined against Egypt?

13 The Princes of Zoan are become fooles: the princes of l Noph are deceived, they have deceived Egypt, even the m corners of the tribes thereof.

14 The Lord hath mingled among them the spirits n of errours: and they have caused Egypt to erre in every worke thereof, as a drunken man ereth in his vomit.

15 Neither shall there be any worke in Egypt, which the head may o doe, nor the tayle, the branch nor the rush.

16 In that day shall Egypt be like unto women: for it shall be afraide and feare because of the mooving of the hand of the Lord of hoastes, which he shaketh ouer it.

17 And the land of Iudah shalbe a feare p vnto Egypt: every one that maketh mention of it, shall be afraide thereat, because of the counsell of the Lord of hoastes, which he hath determined upon it.

18 In that day shall five cities in the land of Egypt q speake the language of Canaan, and shall r sweare by the Lord of hoasts: one shall be called the citie of s destruction.

19 In that day shall the altar of the Lord be in the midst of the land of Egypt, and t a pillar by the border thereof unto the Lord.

20 And it shalbe for a signe and for a witnesse unto the Lord of hoastes in the land of Egypt: for they shall cry unto the Lord, because of the oppressours, and he shall send them u a Saviour, and a great man, and shall deliver them.

21 And the Lord shalbe knowen of the Egyptians, and the Egyptians shall know the Lord in that day, and doe x sacrifice and oblation, and shall vow vowes unto the Lord, and performe them.

22 So the Lord shall smite Egypt, he shall smite and heale it: for he shall returne unto the Lord, and he shalbe intreated of them and shall heale them.

23 In that day shall there be a path from y Egypt to Asshur, and Asshur shall come into Egypt, and Egypt into Asshur: so the Egyptians shall worship with Asshur.

24 In that day shall Israel be the third with Egypt and Asshur, even a blessing in the midst of the land.

25 For the Lord of hoasts shall blesse it, saying, Blessed be my people Egypt and Asshur, the worke of mine hands, and Israel mine inheritance.

g The Ebrew word is mouth, whereby they meane the spring out of the which the water guusheth.
h The Scriptures use to describe the destruction of a countrey by taking away of the commodities thereof, as by vines, flesh, fish, and such other things, whereby countreyes are enriched.
i Called also Tanes, a famous citie upon Nilus.
k Hee noteth the flatterers of Pharaoh: who perswaded the king that hee was wise and noble, and that his house was most ancient, and so hee flattered himselfe, saying, I am wise.
l Or, Memphis, others Alexandria, and now called the great Cairo.
m The principall upholders thereof me the chiefest cause of their destruction.
n For the spirit of wisdome he hath made them drunken & giddie with the spirit of error.
o Neither the great nor the small, the strong nor the weake.
p Considering that through their occasion the Iewes made not God their defence: but put their trust in them, and were therefore now punished, they shall feare least the like light upon them.
q Shall make one confession of faith with the people of God: by the speech of Canaan, meaning the language wherein God was then served.
r Shall renounce their superstitions and protest to serve God aright.
s Meaning, of five cities, five should serve God, and the five remaine in their wickednes: and so of the sixt part there should be but one lost.
t There shall be evident signes and tokens, that Gods religion is there: which maner of speech is taken of the Patriarkes, and ancient times when God hath not as yet appointed the place, and full maner how he would be worshipped.
u This declareth that this prophecie should be accomplished in the time of Christ.
x By these ceremonies hee comprehendeth the spirituall service under Christ.
y By these two nations, which were then chiefe enemies of the Church, hee sheweth that the Gentiles and the Iewes should be ioyned together in one faith and religion, and should be all one fold under Christ their shepheard.

CHAP. XX.

a The three yeeres captivitie of Egypt and Ethiopia described by the three yeeres going naked of Isaiah.

IN the yeere that a Tartan came to b Ashdod, (when c Sargon king of Asshur sent him) and had fought against Ashdod, and taken it,

2 At the same time spake the Lord by the hand of Isaiah the sonne of Amoz, saying, Goe, and loose the d sackecloath from thy loynes, and put off thy shooe from thy foot. And he did so, walking naked and barefoote.

3 And the Lord sayd, Like as my servant Isaiah had walked naked and barefoote three yeeres as a signe and wonder upon Egypt, and Ethiopia,

4 So shall the king of Asshur take away the captivitie of Egypt, and the captivitie of Ethiopia, both yong men and old men, naked and barefoote, with their buttockes uncovered, to the shame of Egypt.

5 And they shall feare, and be ashamed of e Ethiopia their expectation, and of Egypt their f glorie,

6 Then shall the inhabitants of this g yle say in that day, Behold, such is our expectation, whither wee fledde for helpe to be delivered from the king of Asshur, and how shall we be delivered?

5 Prepare thou the table: watch in the watch tower: eat, drinke: h arise, ye princes, anoynt the shielde:

y Hee prophecieth of the deſtruction of Ieruſalem by Nebuchadnezzar. 15 A threatning againſt Shebna. 20 To whoſe office Eliakim is preferred.

THe burden of the a valley of viſion. What b aileth thee now that thou art wholly gone vp vnto the houſe tops?

2 Thou that art full of c noyſe, a citie full of bruit, a ioyous citie, thy ſlaine men ſhall not be ſlaine d with ſword, nor die in battell.

3 All thy princes ſhall flee together from the bowe: they ſhalbe e bound: all that ſhalbe found in thee, ſhalbe bound together, which have fled from f farre.

4 Therefore ſayd I, Turne away from me, I will weep g bitterly: labour not to comfort me for the deſtruction of the daughter of my people.

5 For it is a day of trouble, and of ruine, and of perplexitie by the Lord God of hoaſtes in the valley of viſion, breaking downe the citie: and a h crying vnto the mountaines.

6 ¶ And Elam i bare the quiver in a mans charet with horſemen, and Kir vncouered the ſhield.

7 And thy chiefe valleyes were full of charets, and the horſemen ſet themſelves in aray againſt the gate.

8 And he diſcouered the k couering of Iudah: and thou diddeſt locke in that day to the armour of the houſe of the foreſt.

o To God that made Ieruſalem: that is, they truſted more in theſe worldly meanes, than in God.

12 And in that day did the Lord God of hoaſts call vnto weeping and mourning, and to baldnes and girding with ſackcloath.

13 And behold, ioy and gladnes, ſlaying oxen and killing ſheepe, eating fleſh, and drinking wine, Eating and drinking, for to morrow we ſhall die.

14 And it was declared in the eares of the Lord of hoaſts. Surely this iniquity ſhall not be purged from you, till ye die, ſayth the Lord God of hoaſts.

15 Thus ſayth the Lord God of hoaſts, Goe, get thee to that p treaſurer, to Shebna, the ſteward of the houſe, and ſay, 16 What haſt thou to doe here? and whom haſt thou q here? that thou ſhouldeſt here hewe thee out a ſepulchre, as he that heweth out his ſepulchre in a hie place, or that graueth an habitation r for himſelfe in a rocke?

17 Behold, the Lord will cary thee away with a great captivity, and will ſurely couer thee.

18 Hee will ſurely rolle and turne thee like a ball in a large countrey: there ſhalt thou die, and there the charets of thy glory ſhallbe the ſhame of thy lords houſe.

19 And I will drive thee from thy ſtation, and out of thy dwelling will he deſtroy thee.

20 And in that day will I u call my ſervant Eliakim the ſonne of Hilkiah, 21 And with thy garments will I cloathe him, and with thy girdle will I ſtrengthen him: thy power alſo will I commit into his hand, and hee ſhall be a father of the inhabitants of Ieruſalem, and of the houſe of Iudah.

22 And the x key of the houſe of David will I lay vpon his ſhoulder: ſo hee ſhall open, and no man ſhall ſhut; and he ſhall ſhut, and no man ſhall open.

23 And I will faſten him as a y naile in a ſure place, and he ſhall be for the throne of glory to his fathers houſe.

24 And they ſhall hang vpon him all the glory of his fathers houſe, even of the nephewes and poſterity z all ſmall veſſels, from the veſſels of the cups, even to all the inſtruments of muſicke.

25 In that day ſaith the Lord of hoaſts, ſhall the a naile that is faſtened in the ſure place, depart and ſhallbe broken and fall, and the burden that was vpon it, ſhallbe cut off: for the Lord hath ſpoken it.

p In ſtead of repentance ye were ioyfull and made great cheere, contemning the admonitions of the Prophets ſaying, Let us eate and drinke, for our Prophets ſay that we ſhall die to morrow.
q Becauſe the Ebrew word doeth alſo ſignifie one that doeth nouriſh and cherish, there are of the learned that thinke that this wicked man did nouriſh ſecret friendſhip with the Aſſyrians and Egyptians to betray the Church, and to prouide for himſelfe againſt all dangers: in the meane ſeaſon he packt craftily, and got of the beſt offices into his hand vnder Hezekiah, ever aſpiring to the higheſt.
r Meaning, that hee was a ſtranger, and came vp of nothing.
ſ Whereas hee thought to make his name immortall by his famous ſepulchre, he died moſt miſerably among the Aſſyrians.
t Signifying, that whatſoever dignitie the wicked attaine vnto, at length it will turne to the ſhame of thoſe princes, by whom they are preferred.
u To be ſteward againe, out of the which office hee had beene put, by the craft of Shebna.
x I will commit vnto him the full charge and goverenement of the Kings houſe.
y I will eſtabliſh him, and confirme him in his office: of this phraſe, reade Ezra 9. 9.
z Meaning, that both ſmall and great that ſhall come of Eliakim, ſhall have prayſe and glory by his faithfull offices.
a Hee meaneth Shebna, who in mans iudgement ſhould never have fallen.

CHAP. XXIII.

1 A Prophecie againſt Tyrus. 17 A promiſe that it ſhall be reſtored.

THe a burden of Tyrus. Howle yee ſhippes of b Tarſhish: for c it is deſtroyed, ſo that there is none houſe: none ſhall come from the land of d Chittim: it is e revealed vnto them.

2 Be ſtill, ye that dwell in the yles: the marchants of Zidon, and ſuch as paſſe over the ſea, have f repleniſhed thee.

3 The g ſeede of Nilus growing by the abundance of waters, and the harveſt of the river was her revenues, and ſhe was a mart of the nations.

4 Be aſhamed, thou Zidon: for the h ſea hath ſpoken, euen the ſtrength of the ſea, ſaying, I have not i trauailed, nor brought forth children, neither b Ye of Cilicia that come thither for marchandiſe.

c Tyrus is deſtroyed by Nebuchadnezzar.
d By Chittim they meane all the yles and countreyes Weſtward from Paleſtina.
e All men know of this deſtruction.
f Haue haunted thee, and enriched thee.
g Meaning, the corne of Egypt, which was ſedde by the overflowing of Nilus.
h That is, Tyrus, which was the chiefe part of the ſea.
i I have no people left in me, and am as a barren woman that never had childe.

nouriſhed nourished yong men, nor brought up virgins.

5 When the fame commeth to the Egyptians, they shall be [k] sory, concerning the rumour of Tyrus.

6 Goe you over to [l] Tarshish: howle, ye that dwell in the yles.

7 Is not this that your glorious city? her antiquitie is of ancient dayes: her owne feete shall leade her afarre off to be [a] sojourner.

8 Who hath decreed this against Tyrus (that [m] crowneth men) whose marchants are princes? whose chapmen are the nobles of the world?

9 The Lord of hosts hath decreed this, to stain the pride of all glory, and to bring to contempt all them that be glorious in the earth.

10 Passe through thy land like a flood to the [n] daughter of Tarshish: there is no more strength.

11 He stretched out his hand vpon the sea: he shooke the kingdomes, the Lord hath given a commaundement concerning the place of marchandise, to destroy the power thereof.

12 And he sayd, Thou shalt no more reioyce when thou art oppressed: [o] O virgin [p] daughter of Zidon: rise vp goe out vnto Chittim: yet there thou shalt have no rest.

13 Behold the land of the Caldeans: this was no people: [p] Asshur founded it by the inhabitants of the wildernesse: they set up the towers thereof: they raised the palaces thereof, and hee [r] brought it to ruine.

14 Howle yee shippes of Tarshish, for your [s] strength is destroyed.

15 And in that day shall Tyrus be forgotten seuentie yeeres (according to the yeeres of one King) at the ende of [t] seuentie yeeres shall Tyrus [u] sing as an harlot.

16 Take an harpe and go about the city (thou harlot that hast beene forgotten) [x] make sweete melody, sing moe songs that thou mayest be remembred.

17 And at the ende of seuenty yeeres shall the Lord visit Tyrus, and she shall returne to her [y] wages, and shall commit fornication with all the kingdomes of the earth, that are in the world.

18 Yet her occupying and her wages shall be [z] holy vnto the Lord: it shall not be layd vp nor kept in store, but her marchandise shall be for them that dwell before the Lord, to eate sufficiently, and to have durable cloathing.

3 The earth shall be cleane emptied, and vtterly spoyled: for the Lord hath spoken this word.

4 The earth lamenteth and fadeth away, the world is feebled and decayed: the proud people of the earth are weakened.

5 The earth [c] also deceiveth, because of the inhabitants thereof: for they transgressed the lawes: they changed the ordinances, and brake the everlasting Covenant.

6 Therefore hath the [d] curse devoured the earth, and the inhabitants thereof are desolate. Wherefore the inhabitants of the land are [e] burned up, and few men are left.

7 The wine faileth, the vine hath no might: all that were of merry heart, doe mourne.

8 The mirth of tabrets ceaseth: the noyse of them that reioyce, endeth: the ioy of the harpe ceaseth.

9 They shall not drinke wine with mirth: strong drinke shalbe bitter to them that drinke it.

10 The citie of [f] vanitie is broken downe: every house is shut vp, that no man may come in.

11 There is a crying for wine in the streetes: all ioy is darkened: the [g] mirth of the world is gone away.

12 In the cities is left desolation, and the gate is smitten with destruction.

13 ¶ Surely thus shall it be in the mids of the earth, among the people, [h] as the shaking of an olive tree, and as the grapes when the vintage is ended.

14 They shall lift vp their voyce: they shall shout for the magnificence of the Lord: they shall reioyce from [i] the sea.

15 Wherefore prayse yee the Lord in the valleyes, even the Name of the Lord God of Israel, in the yles of the sea.

16 From the vttermost part of the earth wee have heard prayses, even glory to the [k] iust, and I sayd, [l] My leanenesse, my leanenesse, woe is me: the transgressours have offended: yea the transgressours have grievously offended.

17 Feare, and the pit, and the snare are vpon thee, O inhabitant of the earth.

18 And hee that fleeth from the noyse of the feare, shall fall into the pit: and he that commeth up out of the pit, shalbe taken in the snare: for the [m] windowes from on high are open, and the foundations of the earth doe shake.

19 The earth is vtterly broken downe: the earth is cleane dissolved: the earth is mooved exceedingly.

20 The earth shall reele to and fro like a drunken man, and shalbe removed like a tent, and the iniquity thereof shall be heavie upon it: so that it shall fall, and rise no more.

21 ¶ And in that day shall the Lord [n] visit the hoast above that is on high, even the kings of the world that are upon the earth.

22 And they shall be gathered together as the prisoners in the pit: and they shalbe shut up in the prison, and after many dayes shall they be [o] visited.

23 [p] Then the moone shalbe abashed, and the sunne ashamed, when the Lord of hoasts shall reigne in mount Zion and in Ierusalem: and glory shall be before his ancient men.

k Because these two countreyes were ioyned in league together.
l Tyrus willeth other marchants so goe to Cilicia, and to come no more there.
m Who maketh her marchants like princes.
a Thy strength will no more serve thee: therefore flee to other countreys for succour.
o For Tyrus was never touched nor afflicted before.
p Because Tyrus was build by them of Zidon.
q The Caldeans which dwelt in tents in the wildernes, were gathered by the Assyrians into cities.
r The people of the Chaldeans destroyed the Assyrians: whereby the Prophet meaneth, that seeing the Caldeans were able to overcome the Assyrians, which were so great a nation, much more shall these two nations of Caldea and Assyria be able to overthrow Tyrus.
s That is, Tyrus by whom ye are enriched.
t Tyrus shall lie destroyed seuentie yeeres which hee calleth the reigne of one King, or a mans age.
u Shall use all craft and subtilitie to entise men againe unto her.
x She shall labour by all meanes to recover her first credit: as an harlot when their long forgotten seeketh by all meanes to entertaine her lovers.
y Though shee have bene chastised of the Lord, yet she shall returne to her olde wicked practises, and for gaine shall give her selfe to all mens lusts like an harlot.
z Hee sheweth that God yet by the preaching of the Gospel will call Tirus to repentance, and turne her heart from avarice and filthy gaine, unto the true worshipping of God, and liberalitie toward his Saints,

CHAP. XXIIII.

A prophecie of the curse of God for the sinnes of the people.
13 A remnant reserved shall prayse the Lord.

a This prophecie is as a conclusion of that which hath bene threatned to the Iewes, and other nations from the 13. chap. and therefore by the earth the meaneth those lands which were before named.

BEhold, the Lord maketh the [a] earth empty, and hee maketh it waste: hee turneth it vpside downe, and scattereth abroad the inhabitants thereof.

2 And there shall be like people, like [b] Prieft, and like servant, like master, like maide, like mistresse, like buyer, like seller, like lender, like borrower, like giver, like taker to usury.

b Because this was a name of dignitie, it was also applied to them, which were not of Aarons family, and so signifieth also a man of dignity, as 2. Sam. 8. 18. and 20. 25. 1. Chron. 18. 17. and by these words the Prophet signifieth an horrible confusion, where there shall be neither religion, order, nor policy. Hosea 4. 9.

c That is, rendreth not her fruit for the sinne of the people, whom the earth deceived of their nourisure, because they deceived God of his honour.
d Written in the Law, as Levit. 26. 14. Deut. 28. 16. thus the Prophets vsed to apply perticularly the menaces and promises, which are generall in the Law.
e With heate and drought, or els that they were consumed with the fire of Gods wrath.
f Which as it was without order, so now should it be brought to desolation and confusion: and this was not onely meant to Ierusalem but of all the other wicked cities.
g Because they did not vse Gods benefits a right, their pleasures should faile, and they fall to mourning.
h Hee comforteth the faithfull, declaring that in this great desolation the Lord will assemble his Church which shall prayse his Name, as chap. 10. 22.
i From the utmost coasts of the world, where the Gospel shall be preached, as verse 16.
k Meaning, to God, who will publish his Gospel thorow all the world.
l ¶ I am consumed with care, considering the affliction of the Church, both by forreine enemies and domesticall. Some reade, my secret, my secret: that is, it was revealed to the Prophet, that the good should be preserved, and the wicked destroyed.
m Meaning, that Gods wrath and vengeance should be over and under them: so that they should not escape no more then they did at Noahs flood.
n There is no power so high or mighrie, but God will visit him with his rods.
o Not with his rods, as verse 21. but shall be comforted.
p When God shall restore his Church, the glory thereof shall so shine, and his ministers (which are called his ancient men) that the sunne and the moone shallbe darkein comparison thereof.

CHAP. XXV.

A thankeſgiving to God in that that he ſheweth himſelfe iudge of the world, by puniſhing the wicked, and maintaining the godly.

O Lord, thou a art my God: I will exalt thee, I will praiſe thy Name: for thou haſt done wonderfull things, according to the counſels of old, with a ſtable trueth.

2 For thou haſt made of a b city an heape, of a ſtrong city, a ruine: even the place c of ſtrangers of a city, it ſhall never be built.

3 Therefore ſhall the d mighty people give glory unto thee: the city of the ſtrong nations ſhall feare thee.

4 For thou haſt bin a ſtrength unto the poore, even a ſtrength to the needy in his trouble, a refuge againſt the tempeſt, a ſhadow againſt the heath: for the blaſte of the mighty is like a ſtorme againſt the wall.

5 Thou ſhalt bring downe the noyſe of the ſtrangers, f as the heate in a drie place; hee will bring downe the ſong of the mighty, as g the heate in the ſhadow of a cloud.

6 And in this h mountaine ſhall the Lord of hoaſtes make unto all people a feaſt of fat things, even a feaſt of fined wvines, and of fat things full of marow, of wvines fined and purified.

7 And he will deſtroy in this mountaine i the covering that covereth all people, and the vaile that is ſpread upon all nations.

8 He will deſtroy death for ever: and the Lord God will k wipe away the teares from all faces, and the rebuke of his people will he take away out of all the earth: for the Lord hath ſpoken it.

9 And in that day ſhall men ſay, Lo, this is our God: we have wayted for him, and hee will ſave us. This is the Lord, we have wayted for him, we will reioyce and be joyfull in ſalvation.

10 For in this mountaine ſhall the hand of the Lord reſt, and l Moab ſhalbe threſhed under him even as ſtraw is threſhed in m Madmenah.

11 And he ſhall ſtretch out his hand in the middeſt of them (as hee that ſwimmeth ſtretcheth them out to ſwimme) and with the ſtrength of his hands ſhall he bring downe their pride.

12 The defence alſo of the height of thy walles ſhall he bring downe and lay low, and caſt them to the ground, even unto the duſt.

a Thus the Prophet giveth thanks to God, becauſe hee will bring under ſubiection theſe nations by his corrections, and make them of his Church, which before were his enemies.
b Not onely of Ieruſalem, but alſo of theſe other cities which have bin thine enemies.
c That is, a place whereas all vagabonds may live without danger, and as it were at eaſe, as in a palace.
d The arrogant and proud, which before would not know thee, ſhall by thy corrections feare and glorifie thee.
e The rage of the wicked is furious, till God breake the force thereof.
f Meaning, that as the heath is abated by the raine, ſo ſhall God bring downe the rage of the wicked.
g As a cloud ſhadoweth from the heath of the ſunne, ſo ſhall God aſſwage the reioycing of the wicked againſt the godly.
h To wit, in Zion, whereby he meaneth his Church, which ſhould under Chriſt be aſſembled of the Iewes and the Gentiles, and is here deſcribed under figure of a coſtly bancket, as Matt 22,2. kept backe from Chriſt. with perfit ioy, Revel. 7,17. and 21,4.
i Meaning, that ignorance and blindnes, whereby we are k He will take away all occaſions of ſorow and fill his l By Moab are meant all the enemies of his Church.
m There were two cities of this name: one in Iudah, 1 Chro. 2,49. and another in the land of Moab, Ierem. 48,2. which ſeemeth to have bin a plentifull place of corne, Chap. 10, 31.

CHAP. XXVI.

A ſong of the faithfull, wherein is declared, in what conſiſteth the ſalvation of the Church, and wherein they ought to truſt.

IN that day ſhall a this ſong be ſong in the land of Iudah, Wee have a ſtrong citie: b ſalvation ſhall God ſet for walles and bulwarks.

2 c Open ye the gates that the righteous nation, which keepeth the trueth, may enter in.

3 By an aſſured d purpoſe wilt thou preſerve perfect peace, becauſe they truſted in thee.

4 Truſt in the Lord for ever: for in the Lord God is ſtrength for evermore.

5 For he will bring downe them that dwell on hie: e the hie city hee will abaſe; even unto the ground will he caſt it downe, and bring it unto duſt.

6 The foot ſhall tread it downe, even the feet of the f poore, and the ſteps of the needy.

7 The way of the iuſt is righteouſnes: thou wilt make equall the righteous path of the iuſt.

8 Alſo wee, O Lord, have wayted for thee in the way of thy g iudgements: the deſire of our ſoule is to thy Name, and to the remembrance of thee.

9 With my ſoule have I deſired thee in the night, and with my ſpirit within me will I ſeeke thee in the morning: for ſeeing thy iudgements are in the earth, the inhabitants of the world ſhall learne h righteouſnes.

10 Let mercy i be ſhewed to the wicked, yet he will not learne righteouſnes: in the land of uprightnes will he do wickedly, and will not behold the maieſty of the Lord.

11 O Lord, they will not beholde thine high hand: but they ſhall ſee it, and be confounded k with the zeale of the people, and the fire of thine l enemies ſhall devoure them.

12 Lord unto us thou wilt ordeine peace: for thou alſo haſt wrought all our works for us.

13 O Lord our God, other m lords beſide thee, have ruled us, but wee will remember thee onely, and thy Name.

14 The n dead ſhall not live, neither ſhall the dead ariſe, becauſe thou haſt viſited and ſcattered them, and deſtroyed all their memory.

15 Thou haſt increaſed o the nation, O Lord: thou haſt increaſed the nation: thou art made glorious, thou haſt enlarged all the coaſts of the earth.

16 Lord, in trouble have they p viſited thee: they powred out a prayer when they chaſtening vvas upon them.

17 Like as a woman with child, that draweth neere to the travaile, is in ſorow, and crieth in her paines, ſo have we bene in thy q ſight, O Lord.

18 Wee have conceived, wee have borne in paine, as though we ſhould have brought foorth r wind: there was no help in the earth, neither did the inhabitants of ſ the world fall.

19 t Thy dead men ſhall live: even with my body ſhall they riſe. Awake and ſing, ye that dwell in duſt: for thy u dew is as the dew of herbes, and the earth ſhall caſt out the dead.

20 Come, my people: x enter thou into thy chambers, and ſhut thy doores after thee: hide thy ſelfe for a very little while, untill the indignation paſſe over.

21 For lo, the Lord commeth out of his place, to viſit the iniquity of the inhabitants of the earth upon them: and the earth ſhall diſcloſe her y blood, and ſhall no more hide her ſlaine.

g Wee have conſtantly aboade in the adverſities wherewith thou had afflict us.
h Meaning, that by afflictions men ſhall learne to feare God.
i The wicked though God ſhew them evident ſignes of his grace, ſhalbe never the better.
k Through envy and indignation, againſt thy people.
l The fire and vengeance, wherewith thou doeſt deſtroy thine enemies.
m The Babyloniens which have not governed according to thy word.
n Meaning, that the reprobate, even in this life ſhall haue the beginning of everlaſting death.
o To wit, the company of the faithfull by the calling of the Gentiles.
p That is, the faithfull by the rods were mooved to pray unto thee for deliverance.
q To wit, in extreme ſorow.
r Our ſorowes haue none end, neither did we enioy the comfort that we looked for.
ſ The wicked and men without religion were not deſtroyed.
t Hee comforteth the faithfull in their afflictions, ſhewing them that even in death they ſhall have life: and that they ſhould moſt certainely riſe to glory, the contrary ſhould come to the wicked, as vſ. 14.
u As herbs dead in winter flouriſh againe by the raine in the ſpring time: ſo they that lie in the duſt ſhall riſe up to ioy, when they feele the dew of Gods grace.
x Hee exhorteth the faithfull to be patient in their afflictions, and to wait upon Gods worke.
y The earth ſhall vomite and caſt out the innocent blood, which it hath drunke, that it may crie for vengeance againſt the wicked.

CHAP. XXVII.

A prophecie againſt the kingdome of Satan. 2 And of the ioy of the Church for deliverance.

IN that a day the Lord with his ſore and great and mighty b ſword ſhall viſite Liviathan, that piercing ſerpent, even Liviathan, that crooked ſerpent, and he ſhall ſlay the dragon that is in the ſea.

2 In that day ſing of the vineyard c of redde wine.

3 I the Lord doe keepe it: I will water it every moment: leaſt any aſſaile it, I will keepe it night and day.

a At the time appointed.
b That is, by his mighty power, and by his word. Hee propheciеth here of the deſtruction of Satan and his kingdome under the name of Liviathan, Aſshur, and Egypt.
c Meaning, of the beſt wine, which this vineyard, that is, the Church ſhould bring forth, as moſt agreeable to the Lord.

4 Anger [d] is not in mee: who would ſet the briers and the thorns againſt me in battell? I would go thorow them, I would burne them together.

5 Or will he [e] feele my ſtrength, that he may make peace with me, and be at one with me?

6 [f] Hereafter Iaakob ſhall take roote: Iſrael ſhall flouriſh and grow: and the world ſhallbe filled with fruit.

7 Hath hee ſmitten [g] him, as he ſmote thoſe that ſmote him? or is he ſlaine according to the ſlaughter of them that were ſlaine by him?

8 In [h] meaſure in the branches thereof wilt thou contend with it, when hee bloweth with his rough wind in the day of the Eaſt winde.

9 By this therefore ſhall the iniquity of Iaakob be purged, and this is all the [i] fruit, the taking away of his ſin: when he ſhall make all the ſtones of the altars, as chalke ſtones broken in pieces, that the groves and images may not ſtand up.

10 Yet the [k] defenced city ſhallbe deſolate, and the habitation ſhallbe forſaken, and left like a wildernes. There ſhall the calfe feed, and there ſhall he lie and conſume the branches thereof.

11 When the boughs of it are dry, they ſhallbe broken: the [l] women come and ſet them on fire: for it is a people of none underſtanding: therefore he that made them ſhall not have compaſsion of them, and he that formed them, ſhall have no mercy on them.

12 And in that day ſhall the Lord threſh from the chanell of the [m] river unto the river of Egypt, and ye ſhallbe gathered, one by one, O children of Iſrael.

13 In that day alſo ſhall the great trumpet be [n] blowen, and they ſhall come, which periſhed in the land of Aſſhur, and they that were chaſed into the land of Egypt, and they ſhall worſhip the Lord in the holy Mount at Ieruſalem.

d Therefore he will deſtroy the kingdome of Satan, becauſe he loveth his Church for his owne mercies ſake, and cannot be angry with it, but wifheth that he may powre his anger upon the wicked infidels, whom he meaneth by briers and thornes.

e He marveileth that Iſrael will not come by gentlenesſe, except God make them to feele his rods, and ſo bring them unto him.

f Though I afflict and diminiſh my people for a time, yet ſhall the root ſpring againe and bring foorth in great abundance.

g Hee ſheweth that God puniſheth his in mercy, and his enemies in iuſtice.

h That is, thou wilt not deſtroy the root of thy Church, though the branches thereof ſeeme to periſh by the ſharp wind of affliction.

i He ſheweth that there is no true repentance, nor full reconciliation to God, till the heart be purged from all idolatry, and the monuments thereof be deſtroyed. k Notwithſtanding his favour that he will ſhew them after, yet Ieruſalem ſhallbe deſtroyed, and graſſe for cattell ſhall grow in it. l God ſhall not have need of mighty enemies: for the very women ſhall doe it to their great ſhame. m He ſhall deſtroy all from Euphrates to Nilus: for ſome fled toward Egypt, thinking to have eſcaped. n In the time of Cyrus, by whom they ſtould be delivered: but this was chiefly accompliſhed under Chriſt.

CHAP. XXVIII.

Againſt the pride and drunkennes of Iſrael. 9 The untowardnes of them that ſhould learne the word of God. 24 God doeth all things in time and place.

WOe to the [a] crowne of pride, the drunkards of Ephraim: for his glorious beauty ſhallbe a fading floure, which is upon the head of the [b] valley of them that be fatte, and are overcome with wine.

2 Beholde, the Lord hath a mightie and [c] ſtrong hoaſte like a tempeſt of haile, and a whirlewind that overthroweth, like a tempeſt of mightie waters that overflowe, which throw to the ground mightily.

3 They ſhallbe troden under foot, even the crown and the pride of the drunkards of Ephraim.

4 For his glorious beautie ſhall be a fading floure, which is upon the head of the valley of them that be fatte, and as [d] the haſty fruite afore Summer, which when hee hath looketh upon it, ſeeth it, while it is in his hand, he eateth it.

5 In that day ſhall the Lord of hoaſtes be for a crowne of glory, and for a diademe of beauty unto the [e] reſidue of his people:

6 And for a ſpirit of iudgement to him that ſitteth in iudgement, and for [f] ſtrength unto them that turne away the battell to the gate.

7 But [g] they have erred becauſe of wine, and are out of the way by ſtrong drinke: the Prieſt and the prophet have erred by ſtrong drinke: they are ſwallowed up with wine; they have gone aſtray through ſtrong drinke: they faile in viſion: they ſtumble in iudgement.

8 For all their tables are full of filthy vomiting: no place is cleane.

9 [h] Whom ſhall hee teach knowledge? and whom ſhall hee make to underſtand the things that he heareth? them that are weaned from the milke, and drawen from the breſts.

10 For [i] precept muſt be upon precept, precept upon precept, line unto line, line unto line, there a little, and there a little.

11 For with a ſtammering [k] tongue, and with a ſtrange language ſhall he ſpeake unto this people.

12 Unto whom [l] hee ſayd, [m] This is the reſt: [n] give reſt unto him that is weary, and this is the refreſhing, but they would not heare.

13 Therefore ſhall the word of the [o] Lord be unto them precept upon precept, precept upon precept, line unto line, line unto line, there a little and there a little: that they may go and fall backward and be broken, and be ſnared, and be taken.

14 Wherefore heare the word of the Lord, ye ſcornefull men, that rule this people, which is at Ieruſalem.

15 Becauſe ye have ſaid, We have made a [p] covenant with death, and with hell are we at agreement: though a ſcourge runne over, and paſſe thorow, it ſhall not come at us: for we have made [q] falſhood our refuge, and under vanitie are wee hidde, 16 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, I will lay in Zion a ſtone, a [r] tried ſtone, a precious corner ſtone, a ſure foundation. He that beleeveth, [s] ſhall not make haſte.

17 Iudgement alſo will I lay to the rule, and [t] righteouſnes to the balance, and the [u] haile ſhall ſweepe away the vaine confidence, and the waters ſhall overflow [x] the ſecret place.

18 And your covenant with death ſhallbe diſannulled, and your agreement with hell ſhall not ſtand: when a ſcourge ſhall runne over and paſſe thorow, then ſhall ye be troden downe by it.

19 When it paſſeth over, it ſhall take you away: for it ſhall paſſe thorow every morning in the day and in the night, and there ſhallbe onely [y] feare, to make you to underſtand the hearing.

20 For the bed is [z] ſtreight, that it cannot ſuffice, and the covering narrow, that one cannot wrappe himſelfe.

21 For the Lord ſhall ſtand as in mount [a] Perazim: he ſhallbe wroth as in the valley [b] of Gibeon, that he may do his worke, his ſtrange worke, and bring to paſſe his acte, his ſtrange acte.

22 Now therefore be no mockers, leaſt your bonds increaſe: for I have heard of the Lord of hoaſtes a conſumption, even determined upon the whole earth.

23 Hearken ye, and heare my voyce: hearken ye, and heare my ſpeech.

a Meaning, the proud kingdome of the Iſraelites, which were drunken with worldly proſperity.

b Becauſe the Iſraelites for the moſt part dwelt in plentifull valleys, he meaneth hereby the valley of them that had abundance of worldly proſperity, and were as it were crowned therewith as with garlands.

c He ſeemeth to meane the Aſſyrians, by whom the ten tribes were caried away.

d Which is not of long continuance, but is ſoone ripe and firſt eaten.

e Signifying, that the faithfull, which put not their truſt in any worldly proſperity, but made God their glory, ſhallbe preſerved, f He will give counſell to the governour, & ſtrength to the captaine, to drive the enemies in at their owne gates.

g Meaning, the hypocrites which were among them, and were altogether corrupt in life and doctrine, which is here meant by drunkennes and vomiting.

h For there was none that was able to underſtand any good doctrine: but were fooliſh and as unmeet as yong babes.

i They muſt have one thing oft times told.

k Let one teach what he can, yet they ſhall no more underſtand him, then if he ſpake in a ſtrange language.

l That is, the Prophet, whom God ſhould ſent.

m This is the doctrine, whereupon ye ought, to ſtay and reſt.

n Shew to them that are weary and have need of reſt, what is the true reſt.

o Becauſe they will not receive the word of God, when it is offred, it commeth of their owne malice. if after their hearts be ſo hardned, that they care not for it, as before, Chap. 6. 9.

p They thought they had ſhifts to avoyd Gods iudgements, and that they could eſcape though all other periſhed.

q Though the prophets condemned their idoles and vaine truſt of falſhood and vanity, yet the wicked thought in themſelves that they would truſt in theſe things.

r That is, Chriſt, by whom all the building muſt be tried and upholden. Pſal. 118. 22. mat. 21. 42. act. 4. 11. rom. 9. 33. 1. pet. 2. 6.

f He ſhallbe quiet, and ſeeke none other remedies, but be content with Chriſt.

t In the reſtitution of his Church iudgement and iuſtice ſhall reigne.

u Gods correction and afflictions.

x Affliction ſhall diſcover their vaine confidence, which they kept ſecret to themſelves.

y Terrour and deſtruction ſhall make you to learne that which exhortations and gentlenes could not bring you unto.

z Your affliction ſhallbe ſo ſore, that you are not able to endure it.

a When David overcame the Philiſtims, 2. Sam. 5. 20. 1. Chron. 14. 11.

b Where Ioſhua diſcomfited five kings of the Amorites, Ioſh. 10. 12.

24 Doeth the plow-man plow all the day, to ſowe? doeth he open, and breake the clots of his ground?

25 When he hath made it c plaine, will he not then ſow the fitches, and ſow cummin, and caſt in wheate by meaſure, and the appoynted barley and rye in their place?

26 For his God doth inſtruct him to have diſcretion, and doeth teach him.

27 For fitches ſhall not be threſhed with a threſhing inſtrument, neither ſhall a cart wheele be turned about upon the cummin: but the fitches are beaten out with a ſtaffe, and cummin with a rod.

28 Bread corne when it is threſhed, hee doeth not alway threſh it; neither doeth the wheele of his cart ſtill make a noyſe, neither will he breake it with the teeth thereof.

29 This alſo commeth from the Lord of hoaſts, which is wonderfull in counſell, and excellent in workes.

c As the plowman hath his appoynted time, and divers inſtruments for his labour, ſo hath the Lord for his vengeance: for he puniſheth ſome at one time, and ſome at another, ſome after one ſort, and ſome after another, ſo that his choſen ſeed is beaten and tried, but not broken, as are the wicked.

CHAP. XXIX.

1 A prophecie againſt Ieruſalem. 13 The vengeance of God on them that follow the traditions of men.

A Ha altar, altar of the citie that David dwelt in: adde yeere unto yeere: b let them kill lambes.

2 But I will bring the altar into diſtreſſe, and there ſhall be heavineſſe and ſorow, and it ſhall be unto me like c an altar.

3 And I will beſiege thee as a circle, and fight againſt thee on a mount, and will caſt up ramparts againſt thee.

4 So ſhalt thou be humbled, and ſhalt ſpeake out of the d ground, and thy ſpeech ſhall be as out of the duſt: thy voyce alſo ſhall be out of the ground like him that hath a ſpirit of divination and thy talking ſhall wiſper out of the duſt.

5 Moreover, the multitude of thy e ſtrangers ſhallbe like ſmall duſt, and the multitude of ſtrong men ſhall be as chaffe that paſſeth away: and it ſhalbe in a moment, even ſuddenly.

6 Thou ſhalt be viſited of the Lord of hoaſtes with thunder, and ſhaking, and a great noyſe, a whirlewinde, and a tempeſt, and a flame of a devouring fire.

7 And the f multitude of all the nations that fight againſt the altar ſhalbe as a dreame or viſion by night: even all they that make the warre againſt it, and ſtrong holds againſt it, and lay ſiege unto it.

8 And it ſhall be like as an hungry man dreameth, and behold, g he eateth: and when he awaketh, his ſoule is emptie: or like as a thirſtie man dreameth, and loe, he is drinking, and when he awaketh, behold, he is faint, and his ſoule longeth: ſo ſhall the multitude of all nations be that fight againſt mount Zion.

9 h Stay your ſelves and wonder: they are blinde, and make you blinde: they are drunken, but not with wine: they ſtagger, but not by ſtrong drinke.

10 For the Lord hath covered you with a ſpirit of ſlumber, and hath ſhut up your eyes: the Prophet, and your chiefe Seers hath hee covered.

11 And the viſion of them all is become unto you, as the wordes of a booke that is ſealed up, which they deliver to one that can reade, ſaying, Reade this, I pray thee, Then ſhall he ſay, I can i not; for it is ſealed.

a The Ebrewe word Ariel ſignifieth the Lyon of God, and ſignifieth the Altar, becauſe the altar ſeemed to devoure the ſacrifice that was offred to God, as Ezek 43.16.

b Your vaine confidence in your ſacrifices ſhall not laſt long.

c Your citie ſhall be full of blood, as an altar whereon they ſacrifice.

d Thy ſpeach ſhall be no more ſo loftie, but abaſed and low as the very charmers: which are in low places, and whiſper, ſo that their voyce can ſcarce heard.

e Thine hired ſouldiers in whom thou truſteſt, ſhall be deſtroyed as duſt or chaffe in a whirlewinde.

f The enemies that I will bring to deſtroy thee, and that which thou makeſt thy vaine truſt, ſhall come at unwares, even as a dreame in the night. Some reade, as if this were a comfort to the Church for the deſtruction of the enemies.

g That is, hee thinketh that he eateth.

h Muſe hereon as long as ye liſt, yet ſhall ye find nothing but occaſion to be aſtonied: for your Prophets are blinde, and therefore cannot direct you.

i Meaning, that it is all alike, either to reade, or not to reade, except God open the heart to underſtand.

12 And the booke is given unto him that can not Reade, ſaying, Reade this, I pray thee. And he ſhall ſay, I cannot reade.

13 Therefore the Lord ſaid, Becauſe this people k come neere unto me with their mouth, and honour me with their lips, but have remooved their heart farre from me, and their l feare toward mee was taught by the precept of men.

14 Therefore behold, I will againe doe a marveilous worke in this people, even a marveilous worke, and a wonder: for the wiſedome of their wiſe men ſhall m periſh, and the underſtanding of their prudent men ſhallbe hid.

15 Woe unto them that n ſeeke deepe to hide their counſell from the Lord: for their works are in darkneſſe, and they ſay, Who ſeeth us? and who knoweth us?

16 Your turning of deviſes ſhall it not be eſteemed o as the potters clay? for ſhall the worke ſay of him that made it, Hee made mee not? or the thing formed, ſay of him that faſhioned it, Hee had none underſtanding?

17 Is it not yet but a litle while, and Lebanon ſhalbe p turned into Carmel? and Carmel ſhall be counted as a foreſt?

18 And in that day ſhall the deafe heare the words of the booke, and the eyes of the blind ſhall ſee out of obſcuritie, and out of darkeneſſe.

19 The meeke in the Lord ſhall receive ioy againe, and the poore men ſhall reioyce in the Holy one of Iſrael.

20 For the cruell man ſhall ceaſe, and the ſcornfull ſhall be conſumed: and all that haſted to iniquitie, ſhalbe cut off:

21 Which made a man to ſinne in the q word, and tooke him in a ſnare: which reproved them in the gate, and made the iuſt to fall without cauſe.

22 Therefore thus ſayeth the Lord unto the houſe of Iaakob, even hee that redeemed Abraham: Iaakob ſhall not now be confounded, neither now ſhall his face be pale.

23 But when he ſeeth his children, the worke of mine hands, in the mids of him, they ſhall ſanctifie my Name, and ſanctifie the Holy one of Iaakob, and ſhall feare the God of Iſrael.

24 Then they that erred in ſpirit, r ſhall have underſtanding, and they that murmured, ſhall learne doctrine.

k Becauſe they are hypocrites and not ſincere in heart, as Mat. 13.8.

l That is, their religion was learned by mans doctrine, & not by my word.

m Meaning, that whereas God is not worſhipped according to his word, both magiſtrates and miniſters are but fooles and without underſtanding.

n This is ſpoken of them which in heart deſpiſed Gods word, and mocked at the admonitions, but outwardly bare a good face.

o For all your craft ſayth the Lord, you cannot be able to eſcape mine hands no more then the clay, that is in the potters hands, hath power do deliver it ſelfe.

p Shall there not be a change of all things? and Carmel that is a plentifull place in reſpect of that it ſhalbe then, may be taken as a foreſt, as Chap. 32. 15. and thus hee ſpeaketh to comfort the faithfull.

q They that went about to find fault with the Prophets words, and would not abide admonitions, but would intangle them and bring them into danger.

r Signifying, That except God give underſtanding, and knowledge, man cannot but ſtill erre and murmure againſt him.

CHAP. XXX.

1 He reproveth the Iewes, which in their adverſitie uſed their owne counſels, 2 and ſought helpe of the Egyptians. 10 deſpiſing the Prophets. 16 Therefore he ſheweth what deſtruction ſhall come upon them, 18 but offereth mercie to the repentant.

WOe to the a rebellious children, ſayeth the Lord, that take counſell, but not of mee, and b cover with a covering, but not by my ſpirit: that they may lay ſinne upon ſinne:

2 Which walke foorth to goe downe into Egypt (and have not asked at my mouth) to ſtrengthen themſelves with the ſtrength of Pharaoh, and truſt in the ſhadow of Egypt.

3 But the ſtrength of Pharaoh ſhall be your ſhame, and the truſt in the ſhadow of Egypt your confuſion.

4 For his c princes were at Zoan, and his ambaſſadours came unto Hanes.

5 They ſhallbe all aſhamed of the people that cannot profit them, nor helpe, nor do them good, but ſhallbe a ſhame and alſo reproch, a Who contrary to their promiſe take not me for their protector, and contrary to my commandement ſeeke helpe at ſtrangers.

b They ſeeke ſhifts to cloke their doings, and not godly meanes.

c The chiefe of Iſrael went into Egypt in ambaſſie to ſeeke helpe, and abode at theſe cities.

6 ¶ The d burdens of the beasts of the South, in a land of trouble and anguish, from whence shall come the yong and old lyon, the viper and fiery flying serpent against them that shall beare their riches upon the shoulders of the colts, and their treasures upon the bounches of the camels, to a people that cannot profit.

7 For the Egyptians are vanitie, and they shall helpe in vaine. Therefore have I cryed unto e her, Their strength f is to sit still.

8 Now goe, and write g it before them in a table, and note it in a booke, that it may be for the h last day for ever and ever:

9 That it is a rebellious people, lying children, and children that would not i heare the Law of the Lord.

10 Which say unto the Seers, See not: and to the Prophets, Prophecie not unto us right things: but speake flatterings things unto us: prophecie k errours.

11 Depart out of the way: goe aside out of the path: cause the Holy one of Israel to cease from us.

12 Therefore thus saith the Holy one of Israel, Because you have cast off this word, and trust in l violence, and wickednes, and stay thereupon,

13 Therefore this iniquitie shalbe unto you as a breach that falleth, or a swelling in an hie wall, whose breaking commeth suddenly in a moment.

14 And the breaking thereof is like the breaking of a potters pot, which is broken without pity, and in the breaking thereof is not found m a sheard to take fire out of the hearth, or to take water out of the pit.

15 For thus said the n Lord God, the Holy one of Israel, In rest and quietnesse shall ye be saved: in quietnesse and in confidence shall be your strength, but ye would not.

16 For ye have said, No, but wee will flee away upon o horses. Therefore shall ye flee. We will ride upon the swiftest. Therefore shall your persecuters be swifter.

17 A thousand as one shall flee at the rebuke of one: at the rebuke of five shall yee flee, till yee be left as a ship mast upon the p top of a mountaine, and as a beaken upon an hill.

18 Yet therefore will the Lord wait, that hee may have q mercy upon you, and therefore will he be exalted, that he may have compassion upon you: for the Lord is the God of r judgement, Blessed are all they that wait for him.

19 Surely a people shall dwell in Zion, and in Ierusalem: thou shalt weepe no more: he will certainely have mercie upon thee at the voyce of thy cry: when hee heareth thee, he will answere thee.

20 And when the Lord hath given you the bread of adversarie, and the water of affliction, thy raine shall be no more kept backe, but thine eyes shall see thy ‖ raine.

21 And thine eares shall heare a word behind thee, saying, This is the way, s walke ye in it, when thou turnest to the right hand, and when thou turnest to the left.

22 And yee shall t pollute the covering of the images of silver, and the rich ornament of thine images of gold, and cast them away as a menstruous cloath, and thou shalt say unto it, u Get thee hence.

23 Then shall hee give raine unto thy seede, when thou shalt sowe the ground, and bread of the increase of the earth, and it shalbe fat and as oyle: in that day shall thy cattell be fed in large pastures.

24 The oxen also and the yong asses, that till the ground, shall eate cleane provender, which is winnowed with the shovell and with the fanne.

25 And upon every hie x mountaine, and upon every hie hill shall there be rivers, and streames of waters, in the day of the great slaughter, when the towers shall fall.

26 Moreover, the light of the moone shall be as the light of the y Sunne, and the light of the Sunne shall be seven fold, and like the light of seven dayes in the day that the Lord shall binde up the breach of his people, and heale the stroke of their wound.

27 Behold, z the Name of the Lord commeth from farre, his face is burning, and the burden thereof is heavie: his lips are full of indignation, and his tongue is as a devouring fire.

28 And his spirit is as a river that overfloweth up to the necke: it divideth asunder, to fanne the nations with the fanne of a vanitie, and there shall be a bridle to cause them to erre in the iawes of the people.

29 But there shall be a song unto you as in the b night, when a solemne feast is kept; and gladnesse of heart, as he that commeth with a pipe to goe unto the mount of the Lord, to the Mightie one of Israel.

30 And the Lord shall cause his glorious voyce to be heard, and shall declare the lightning downe of his arme with the anger of his countenance, and flame of a devouring fire, with scattering and tempest, and hailestones.

31 For with the voyce of the Lord shall Asshur be destroyed, which smote with the c rod.

32 And in every place that the staffe shall passe, it shall d cleave fast, which the Lord shall lay upon him with e tabrets and beards and with battels, and lifting up of hands shall he fight f against it.

33 For g Tophet is prepared of old; it is even prepared for the h King; he hath made it i deepe and large: the burning thereof is fire and much wood; the breath of the Lord, like a river of brimstone, doeth kindle it.

d That is, a heavy sentence or prophecie against the beasts that caried their treasures into Egypt, by the wildernes, which was South from Iudah, Signifying that if the beasts should not be spared, the men should be punished much more grievously.
e To wit, to Ierusalem.
f And not to come to and fro to seeke helpe.
g That is, this prophecied.
h That it may be a witnesse against them for all posteritie.
i Bee sheweth what was the cause of their destruction, and bringeth also all miserie to man: to wit, because they would not heare the word of God, but delighted to be flattered, and led in errour.
k Threaten us not by the word of God, neither be so rigorous, nor talke unto us in the Name of the Lord, as Iere. 11.21.
l Meaning, in their stubbornes against God and the admonitions of his Prophets.
m Signifying, that the destruction of the wicked shall be without recovery.
n Oftimes by his Prophets he put you in remembrance of this, that you should onely depend on him.
o We will trust to escape by our horses.
p Whereas all the trees are cut downe save two or three to make masses.
q He commendeth the great mercies of God, who with patience waiteth to call sinners to repentance.
r Not onely in punishing, but in using moderation in the same, as Ier. 30.11. and 30.11.
‖ Or, instructour.
s God shall direct all thy ways, and appoint thee how to goe either hither or thither.
t Ye shall cast away your idols, which you have made of gold and silver, with all that belongeth unto them, as a most filthy thing, and polluted.
u Shewing, that there can be no true repentance, except both in heart and deed we shew our selves enemies to idolatry.
x By these divers maners of speach he sheweth that the felicitie of the Church shalbe so great, that none is able sufficiently to expresse it.
y When the Church shallbe restored, the glory thereof shall passe seven times the brightnesse of the Sunne: for by the Sunne and Moone, which are two excellent creatures, he sheweth what shallbe the glory of the children of God in the kingdome of Christ.
z This threatning is against the Assyrians the chiefe enemies of the people of God.
a To drive thee to nothing: and thus God consumeth the wicked by that meanes, where by he cleanseth his.
b Ye shall rejoyce at the destruction of your enemies, as they that sung for joy of the solemne feast, which began in the evening.
c Gods plague.
d It shall destroy.
e With joy and assurance of the victory.
f Against Babel: meaning, the Assyrians and Babylonians.

g Here it is taken for hell, where the wicked are tormented; reade 2 King. 23.10.
h So that their estate or degree cannot exempt the wicked.
i By these figurative speaches he declareth the condition of the wicked after this life.

CHAP. XXXI.

1 He curseth them that forsake God, and seeke for the helpe of men.

WOe unto them that a goe downe into Egypt for helpe, and stay upon horses, and trust in charets, because they are many, and in horsemen, because they be very strong; but they looke not unto the Holy one of Israel, nor b seeke unto the Lord.

2 But he yet is c wisedst, therefore he will bring evill, and not turne backe his word, but hee will arise against the house of the wicked, and against the helpe of them that worke vanitie.

3 Now the Egyptians are men and not God, and their horses flesh, and not spirit; and when the Lord shall stretch out his hand, the d helper shall a There were two speciall causes, why the Israelites should not ioyne amitie with the Egyptians first, because the Lord had commanded them never to returne thither, Deut. 17.16. and 28.68. least they should forget the benefit of their redemption: and secondly, least they should be corrupted with the superstitions and idolatry of the Egyptians, and so forsake God, Ierem. 2.18.

b Meaning, that they forsake the Lord, that put their trust in worldly things: for they cannot trust in both.
c And knoweth their craftie enterprises, and will bring all to nought.
d Meaning, both the Egyptians and the Israelites.

shall fall, and he that is holpen shall fall, and they shall altogether faile.

4 For thus hath the Lord spoken unto me, As the lion or lions whelpe roareth upon his pray, against whom if a multitude of shepheards be called, he will not be afraid at their voyce, neither will humble himselfe at their noyse: so shall the Lord of hoasts come e downe to fight for mount Zion, and for the hill thereof.

5 As birds that flie, so shall the Lord of hoasts defend Ierusalem by defending and delivering, by passing through and preserving it.

6 O ye children of Israel, turne againe, in as much as ye are f sunken deepe in rebellion.

7 For in that day every man shall g cast out his idoles of silver, and his idoles of gold, which your hands have made you, even a sinne.

8 h Then shall Asshur fall by the sword, not of man, neither shall the sword of man devoure him, and hee shall flee from the sword, and his young men shall faint.

9 And he shall goe for feare to his i towre, and his princes shalbe afraid of the standard, saith the Lord, whose k fire is in Zion, and his fornace in Ierusalem.

e He sheweth the Iewes, that if they would put their trust in him, he is so able, that none can resist his power: and so carefull over them, as a bird over her young, which ever flyeth about them for their defence: which similitude the scripture useth in divers places, as Deut. 32. 11. mat. 23. 37.

f He toucheth their conscience, that they might earnestly feele their grievous sinnes, and so truely repent, for as much as now they are almost drowned and past recovery.

g By these fruits your repentance shalbe knowen, as Chap. 2. 18.

h When your repentance appeareth.

i This was accomplished soone after when Sanecheribs armie was discomfited, and he fled to his castle in Nineveh for succour.

k To destroy his enemies.

CHAP. XXXII.

The conditions of good rulers and officers describeth by the government of Hezekiah, who was the figure of Christ.

BEhold, a a King shall reigne in iustice, and the princes shall b rule in iudgement.

2 And that man shall be as an hiding place from the wind, and as a refuge for the tempest, as rivers of water in a dry place, and as the shadow of a great rocke in c a weary land.

3 The eyes of d the seeing shall not be shut, and the eares of them that heare, shall hearken.

4 And the heart of the foolish shall understand knowledge, and the tongue of the stutters shalbe ready to speake distinctly.

5 A e niggard shall no more be called liberall, nor the churle rich.

6 But the niggard will speake of niggardnes, and his heart will worke iniquitie, and do wickedly, and speake falsely against the Lord, to make empty the hungry soule, and to cause the drinke of the thirstie to faile.

7 For the weapons of the churle are wicked: he deviseth wicked counseis to undoe the poore with lying words, and to speake against the poore in iudgement.

8 But the liberall man will devise of liberall things, and he will continue his liberalitie.

9 f Rise up ye women that are at ease: heare my voice, ye f careles daughters, hearken to my words.

10 Ye women that are careless, shalbe in feare g above a yeere in dayes, h for the vintage shall faile, and the gatherings shall come no more.

11 Yee women that are at ease, be astonied: feare, O ye careless women: put of the cloathes: make bare, and gird sackcloath upon the loynes.

12 Men shall lament for the i teates, even for the pleasant fields, and for the fruitfull vine.

13 Upon the land of my people shall growe thornes and briers, yea, upon all the houses of a This prophecie is of Hezekiah, who was a figure of Christ, and therefore it ought chiefly to be referred to him.

b By iudgement and iustice is meant an upright government, both in policie, and religion.

c Where men are weary with travelling for lacke of water.

d He promiseth to give the true light, which is the pure doctrine of Gods word, and understanding, and zeale of the same, are contrary to the threatnings against the wicked, Chap. 6. 9. and 29. 10.

e Vice shall no more be called vertue, nor vertue esteemed by power and riches.

f He prophecieth of such a calamitie to come, that they will not spare the women & children, and therefore willeth them to take heed and provide.

g Meaning, that the affliction should continue long, and when one yeere were past, yet they should looke for new plagues.

h God will take from you the meanes and occasions, which made you to contemne him: to wit, abundance of worldly goods.

i By the teates hee meaneth the plentifull fields, whereby men are nourished as children with the teate: or, the mothers for sorow and heavinesse shall lacke milke.

ioy in the city of reioycing.

14 Because the palace shalbe forsaken, and the ‖ noyse of the city shalbe left: the towre and fortresse shall be dennes for ever, and the delight of wild asses, and a pasture for flocks.

15 Untill the k Spirit be powred upon us from above, and the wildernes become a fruitfull field, and the l plenteous field be counted as a forest.

16 And iudgement shall dwell in the desert, and iustice shall remaine in the fruitfull field.

17 And the worke of iustice shalbe peace, even the worke of iustice and quietnesse, and assurance for ever.

18 And my people shall dwell in the tabernacle of peace, and in sure dwellings, and in safe resting places.

19 When it haileth, it shall fall on the forest, and the m citie shalbe in the low place.

20 Blessed are ye n that sowe upon all waters, and o drive thither the feet of the oxe and the asse.

‖ Or, multitude.

k That is, when the Church shall be restored: thus the Prophets, after they have denounced Gods iudgements against the wicked, use to comfort the godly, least they should faint.

l The field which is now fruitfull, shalbe but as a barren forest in comparison of that it shall be then, as Chap. 29. 17. which shall be fulfilled in Christs time, for then they that were before as the barren wildernes, being regenerate shalbe fruitfull, and they that had some beginning of godlinesse, shall bring foorth fruits in such abundance, that their former life shall seeme but as a wildernes, where no fruits were.

m They shall not need to build it in high places for feare of the enemie: for God will defend it, and turne away the stormes from hurting of their commodities.

n That is, upon fat ground and well watered, which bringeth foorth in abundance, or in places which before were covered with waters, and now made dry for your uses.

o The fields shall be so ranke, that they shall send out their cattell to eate up the first croppe, which abundance shall be signes of Gods love and favour toward them.

CHAP. XXXIII.

The destruction of them by whom God hath punished his Church.

WOe to thee that a spoylest, and wast not spoyled: and doest wickedly, and they did not wickedly against thee: when thou shalt b cease to spoyle, thou shalt be spoyled: when thou shalt make an end of doing wickedly, c they shall doe wickedly against thee.

2 d O Lord, have mercy upon us, wee have waited for thee: be thou, which wast e their arme in the morning, our helpe also in time of trouble.

3 At the noyse of the tumult, the f people fled: at thine g exalting the nations were scattered.

4 And your spoyle shall be gathered like the gathering of h caterpillers: and i he shall goe against them like the leaping of grashoppers.

CHAP. XXXVI.

a Sanherib sendeth Rabshakeh to besiege Ierusalem. 19 His blasphemies against God.

NOw [a] in the [b] fourteenth yeere of King Hezekiah, Saneherib King of Asshur came up against all the strong cities of Iudah, and tooke them.

2 And the King of Asshur sent Rabshakeh from Lachish toward Ierusalem unto king Hezekiah, with a great hoast, and he stood by the conduit of the upper poole in the path of the fullers field.

3 Then came foorth unto him Eliakim the sonne of Hilkiah the [c] steward of the house, and Shebna [d] the chancellour, and Ioah the sonne of Asaph the recorder.

4 And [e] Rabshakeh said unto them, Tell you Hezekiah, I pray you, Thus saith the great king, the King of Asshur, What confidence is this, where in thou trustest?

5 I say, [f] Surely I have eloquence, but counsell and strength are for the warre: on whom then doest thou trust, that thou rebellest against me?

6 Loe, thou trustest in this broken staffe of reede, on Egypt, whereupon if a man leane, it will goe into his hand, and pearce it: so is [g] Pharaoh King of Egypt unto all that trust in him.

7 But if thou say unto me, We trust in the Lord our God, is not that hee, whose hie places and whose altars Hezekiah tooke downe, and said to Iudah and to Ierusalem, Ye shall worship before this altar?

8 Now therefore give hostages to my Lord the king of Asshur, and I will give thee two thousand horses, if thou be able on thy part to set riders upon them.

9 For how canst thou ‖ despise any captaine of the [h] least of my lords servants? and put thy trust on Egypt for charets and for horsemen?

10 And am I now come up without the Lord to this land to destroy it? The Lord sayd unto me, [i] Goe up against this land and destroy it.

11 ¶ Then said Eliakim, and Shebnah and Ioah unto Rabshakeh, [k] Speake, I pray thee, to thy servants in the Aramites language (for we understand it) and talke not with us in the Iewes tongue, in the audience of the people that are on the wall.

12 Then said Rabshakeh, Hath my master sent mee to thy master, and to thee, to speake these wordes, and not to the men that sit on the wall? that they may eate their owne doung, and drinke their owne † pisse with you?

13 So Rabshakeh stood, and cried with a loud voyce in the Iewes language, and said, Heare the words of the great King, of the King of Asshur.

14 Thus saith the king, Let not Hezekiah deceive you: for he shall not be able to deliver you.

15 Neither let Hezekiah make you to trust in the Lord, saying, The Lord will surely deliver us: this citie shall not be given over into the hand of the king of Asshur.

16 Hearken not to Hezekiah: for thus sayth the king of Asshur, Make I appointment with me, and come out to me, that every man may eate of his owne vine, and every man of his owne fig-tree, and drinke every man the water of his owne well.

17 Till I come and bring you to a land like your owne land, even a land of wheate and wine, a land of bread and vineyardes, 18 Least Hezekiah deceive you, saying, The Lord will deliver us. Hath any of the gods of the nations delivered his land out of the hand of the king of Asshur?

19 Where is the god of [m] Hamath, and of Arpad? where is the god of Sepharuaim? or how have they delivered Samaria out of my hand?

20 Who is hee among all the gods of these lands, that hath delivered their countrey out of mine hand, that the Lord should deliver Ierusalem out of mine hand?

21 Then they [n] kept silence, and answered him not a worde: for the kings commandement was, saying, Answere him not.

22 Then came Eliakim the sonne of Hilkiah the steward of the house, and Shebna the chancellor, and Ioah the sonne of Asaph the recorder, unto Hezekiah with rent cloathes, and tolde him the words of Rabshakeh.

a This historie is rehearsed because it is as a seale and confirmation of the doctrine afore, both for the threatnings and promises: to wit, that God would suffer his Church to be afflicted, but at length would send deliverance.
b When he had abolished superstition, and idolatry, and restored religion yet God would exercise his Church to trie their faith and patience.
c For he was now restored to his office, as Isaiah had prophecied, Chap. 22. 20.
d This declareth that there were few godly to be found in the kings house, when he was driven to send this wicked man in such a weightie matter.
e Saneheribs chiefe captaine.
f He speaketh this in the person of Hezekiah, falsly charging him that he put his trust in his wit and eloquence, whereas his onely confidence was in the Lord.
g Satan laboured to pull the godly King from one vaine confidence to another: to wit, from trust in the Egyptians, whose power was weake and would deceive them, to yeeld himselfe to the Assyrians, and so not to hope for any helpe of God.
‖ Or, turne backe.
h He reproacheth to Hezekiah his small power, which is not able to resist one of Saneheribs least captaines.
i Thus the wicked to deceive us, will pretend the Name of the Lord: but we must trie the spirits, whether they be of God or no.
k They were afraid, least by his words he should have stirred up the people against the King, and also pretented to grow to some appoynment with him.

† Ebr. the water of their feet.

1 The Ebrew word signifieth blessing, whereby this wicked captaine would have perswaded the people, that their condition should be better under Saneherib then under Hezekiah.
m That is, of Antiochia in Syria, of the which these two other cities also were: whereby we see how every towne had his peculiar idole, and how the wicked make God an idole because they do not understand that God maketh them his scourge, and punish cities for sinne.
n Not that they did not shew by evident signes that they did detest his blasphemie: for they had now rent their cloathes, but they knew it was in vaine to use long reasoning with this infidell, whose rage they shou'd have so much more provoked.

CHAP. XXXVII.

a Hezekiah asketh counsell of Isaiah, who promiseth him the victorie. 10 The blasphemie of Saneherib. 15 Hezekiahs prayer. 36 The armie of Saneherib is slaine of the Angel. 38 And he himselfe of his owne sonnes.

AND * when the King Hezekiah heard it, hee [a] rent his cloathes, and put on sackecloath and came into the house of the Lord.

2 And hee sent Eliakim the steward of the house, and Shebna the chancellor, with the Elders of the Priests, cloathed in sackecloth unto [b] Isaiah the Prophet the sonne of Amoz.

3 And hee said unto him, Thus saith Hezekiah, This day is a day of tribulation and of rebuke and blasphemie: for the children are come to the [c] birth, and there is no strength to bring foorth.

4 If so be the Lord thy God hath [d] heard the words of Rabshakeh, whom the King of Asshur his master hath sent to raile on the living God, and to reproach him with words, which the Lord thy God hath heard, then [e] lift thou up thy prayer for the remnant that are left.

5 So the servants of the King Hezekiah came to Isaiah.

6 And Isaiah said unto them, Thus say unto your master, Thus saith the Lord, Be not afraid of the wordes that thou hast heard, wherewith the servants of the King of Asshur have blasphemed me, a In signe of grief and repentance.

b To have comfort of him by the word of God, that his faith might be confirmed and so his prayer be more earnest: teaching hereby that in all dangers these two are the onely remedies, to seeke unto God and his ministers.
c We are in as great sorow as a woman that travaileth of child, and cannot be delivered.
d That is, will declare by effect that he hath heard it: for when God deferreth to punish, it seemeth to the flesh, that hee knowes not the sinne, or heareth not the cause.
e Declaring that the ministers office doeth not onely stand in comforting by the word, but also in praying for the people.

7 Behold, I will send a blast upon him, and he shall heare a f noise, and returne to his owne land, and I will cause him to fall by the sword in his owne land.

8 ¶ So Rabshakeh returned, and found the King of Asshur fighting against g Libnah: for he had heard that he was departed from Lachish.

9 Hee heard also men say of Tarhakah, King of Ethiopia, Beholde, he is come out to fight against thee: and when hee heard it, hee sent other messengers to Hezekiah, saying,

10 Thus shall ye speake to Hezekiah King of Iudah, saying, Let not thy God h deceive thee, in whom thou trustest, saying, Ierusalem shall not be given into the hand of the King of Asshur.

11 Behold, thou hast heard what the Kings of Asshur have done to all lands in destroying them, and shalt thou be delivered?

12 Have the gods of the nations delivered them, which my fathers have destroyed? as i Gozan, and k Haran, and Rezeph, and the children of Eden, which were at Telassar?

13 Where is the king of Hamath, and the King of Arpad, and the King of the citie of Sepharuaim, Hena, and Iuah?

14 ¶ So Hezekiah received the letter of the hand of the messengers, and read it, and hee went up into the house of the Lord, and Hezekiah spread it before the Lord.

15 And Hezekiah prayed unto the Lord, saying,

16 O Lord of hoastes, God of Israel, which l dwellest betweene the Cherubims, that art very God alone over all the kingdomes of the earth: thou hast made the heaven and the earth.

17 Encline thine eare, O Lord, and heare: open thine eyes, O Lord, and see, and heare all the words of Sancherib, who hath sent to blaspheme the living God.

18 Trueth it is, O Lord, that the Kings of Asshur have destroyed all lands and m their countrey, 19 And have cast their gods in the fire: for they were no gods, but the worke of mens hands, even wood or stone: therefore they destroyed them.

20 Now therefore, O Lord our God, save thou us out of his hand, that n all the kingdomes of the earth may know, that thou onely art the Lord.

21 ¶ Then Isaiah the sonne of Amoz sent unto Hezekiah, saying, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, Because thou hast prayed unto me, concerning Sancherib king of Asshur, 22 This is the word that the Lord hath spoken against him, The o virgin, the daughter of Zion, hath despised thee, and laughed thee to scorne: the daughter of Ierusalem hath shaken her head at thee.

23 Whom hast thou railed on and blasphemed? and against whom hast thou exalted thy voyce, and lifted up thine eyes on hie? even against the p holy One of Israel.

24 By thy servants hast thou railed on the Lord, and said, By the multitude of my charets I am come up to the top of the mountaines to the sides of Lebanon, and will cut downe the hie cedars thereof, and the faire firre-trees thereof, and I will goe up to the heights of his top, and to the forest of his fruitfull places.

25 I have digged, q and drunke the waters, and with the plant of my feete have I dried all the rivers closed in.

26 Hast thou not heard how I have of olde time made it, r and have formed it long agoe? and should I now bring it, that it should be destroyed, and laid on ruinous heapes, as cities defenced?

27 Whose inhabitants have † small power, and are afraid and confounded: they are like the grasse of the field and greene herbe, or grasse on the house tops, or corne blasted s afore it be growen.

28 But I know thy dwelling, and thy t going out and thy comming in, and thy furie against mee.

29 Because thou rageste against me, and thy tumult is come up unto mine eares, therefore will I put mine u hooke in thy nostrels, and my bridle in thy lips, and will bring thee backe againe the same way thou x camest.

30 And this shall be a y signe unto thee, O Hezekiah, Thou shalt eare this yeere such as groweth of it selfe: and the z second yeere such things as grow without sowing: and in the third yeere, sow ye and reape, and plant vineyards, and eate the fruite thereof.

31 And a the remnant that is escaped of the house of Iudah, shall againe take root downeward and beare fruit upward.

32 For out of Ierusalem shall goe a remnant, and they that escape out of mount Zion: the zeale of the Lord of hoasts shall doe this.

33 Therefore thus saith the Lord concerning the King of Asshur, He shall not enter into this citie, nor shoot an arrow there, nor come before it with shield, nor cast a mount against it.

34 By the same way that he came, he shall returne, and not come into this citie, saith the Lord.

35 For I will defend this citie to save it, for mine owne sake, and for my servant b Davids sake.

36 ¶ * Then the Angel of the Lord went out, and smote in the campe of Asshur, an hundreth fourescore, and five thousand: so when they arose early in the morning, behold, they were all dead corpses.

37 So Sancherib king of Asshur departed, and went away and returned and dwelt at c Nineveh.

38 And as he was in the Temple worshipping of Nisroch his god, Adramelech and Sharezer his sonnes * slewe him with the sword, and they escaped into the land of ‖ Ararat: and d Esarhaddon his sonne reigned in his stead.

q He boasteth of his policie, in that that he can finde meanes to nourish his army: and of his power in that that his army is so great, that it is able to drie up whole rivers, and to destroy the waters which the Iewes had closed in.

A Bout * that a time was Hezekiah sicke unto the death, and the Prophet Isaiah sonne of Amoz came unto him, and said unto him, Thus saith the Lord, Put thine house in an order, for thou shalt die, and not live.

2 Then Hezekiah b turned his face to the wall, and prayed to the Lord, a Soone after that the Assyrians were slaine: so that God will have the exercise of his children continuall, that they may learne onely to depend upon God and aspire to the heaven.

b For his heart was touched with feare of Gods iudgement, seeing hee had so quickely after his deliverance from so great calamitie, as one unworthy to remaine in that estate, and also foreseeing the great change that should come in the Church, forasmuch as he left no sonne to reigne after him: for as yet Manasseh was not borne: and when he reigned, we see what a tyrant he was.

3 And sayd, I beseech thee, Lord, remember now how I have walked before thee in trueth, and with a perfit heart, and have done that which is good in thy sight: and Hezekiah wept sore.

4 ¶ Then came the worde of the Lord to Isaiah, saying,

5 Goe, and say vnto Hezekiah, thus saith the Lord God of David thy father, I have heard thy prayer, and seene thy teares: behold I will adde unto thy dayes fifteene yeeres.

6 And I will deliver thee c out of the hand of the king of Asshur, and this citie: for I will defend this citie.

7 And d this signe shallt thou have of the Lord, that the Lord will doe this thing that he hath spoken,

8 Behold, I will bring againe the shadow of the degrees (whereby it is gone downe in the diall of Ahaz by the e sunne) ten degrees backward: so the sunne returned by ten degrees, by the which degrees it was gone downe.

9 f The writing of Hezekiah king of Iudah, when he had bene sicke, and was recovered of his sicknesse.

10 I sayd in the g cutting off of my dayes, I shall goe to the gates of the grave: I am deprived of the residue of my yeeres.

11 I said, h I shall not see the Lord, even the Lord in the land of the living: I shall see man no more among the inhabitants of the world.

12 Mine habitation is departed, and is remooved from me, like a shepheards tent: I i have cut off like a weaver my life: he will cut me off from the height: from day k to night, thou wilt make an ende of me.

13 I reckoned l to the morning: but he brake all my bones like a lion, from day to night wilt thou make an ende of me.

14 Like a crane or a swallow, so did I m chatter: I did mourne as a dove: mine eyes were lift vp on high: O Lord, n it hath oppressed mee, comfort me.

15 What shall I say, o for he hath said it to me, and he hath done it: I shall walke p weakely all my yeeres in the bitternesse of my soule.

16 O Lord, q to them that ouerlive them, and to all that are in them, the life of my spirit shall be knowen, that thou causedst me to r sleepe and hast given life to me.

17 Behold, for f felicitie I had bitter griefe, but it was thy pleasure to deliver my soule from the pit of corruption: for thou hast cast all my t sinnes behind thy backe.

18 For u the grave cannot confesse thee: death cannot praise thee: they that goe downe into the pit, cannot hope for thy trueth.

19 But the living, the living, he shall confesse thee, as I doe this day: the father to the x children shall declare thy trueth.

20 The Lord was ready to save mee: therefore wee will sing my song, all the dayes of y our life in the house of the Lord.

21 Then said Isaiah, Take a lumpe of dry figs and z lay it vpon the boile, and he shall recouer.

22 Also Hezekiah a had sayd, What is the signe, that I shall goe vp into the house of the Lord?

CHAP. XXXIX.

Hezekiah is reproued because hee shewed his treasures vnto the ambassadours of Babylon.

AT * the same time, a Merodach Baladan, the sonne of Baladan, King of Babel, sent b letters, and a present to Hezekiah: for he had heard that he had bene sicke, and was recouered.

2 And Hezekiah was c glad of them, and shewed them the house of the treasures, the silver, and the golde, and the spices, and the precious oyntment, and all the house of his armour, and all that was found in his treasures; there was nothing in his house, nor in all his kingdome that Hezekiah shewed them not.

3 Then came Isaiah the Prophet vnto king Hezekiah, and said vnto him, What sayd these men? and from whence came they to thee? And Hezekiah said, They are come from a farre countrey vnto me, from Babel.

4 Then sayd hee, What have d they seene in thine house? And Hezekiah answered, All that is in mine house have they seene; there is nothing among my treasures, that I have not shewed them.

5 And Isaiah sayd to Hezekiah, Heare the word of the Lord of hoastes,

6 Behold, the dayes come, that all that is in thine house, and which thy fathers have laid vp in store vntill this day, shallbe c caried to Babel: nothing shall be left, saith the Lord.

7 And of thy sonnes, that shall proceede out of thee, and which thou shalt beget, shall they take away, and they shalbe e eunuches in the palace of the King of Babel.

8 ¶ Then said Hezekiah to Isaiah, The word of the Lord is good, which thou hast spoken: and hee sayd, Yet let there be peace, and trueth in my dayes.

a Remission of sinnes by Christ. 3 The comming of Iohn Baptist. 13 The Prophet reproueth the Idolaters, and them that trust not in the Lord.

COmfort a yee, comfort yee my people, will your God say.

2 Speake comfortably to Ierusalem, and crie vnto her, that her b warfare is accomplished, that her iniquity is pardoned; for shee hath receiued of the Lords hand c double for all her sinnes.

3 A d voyce cryeth in the e wildernesse, f Prepare ye the way of the Lord: make streight in the desert a path for our God,

4 Every valley shalbe exalted, and every g mountaine and hill shalbe made low; and the crooked shalbe streight, and the rough places plaine.

5 And the glory of the Lord shalbe reuealed, and all h flesh shall see it together: for the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it.

y Hee sheweth what is the vse of the Congregation and Church, to wit, to giue the Lord thankes for his benefits.

a This was the first king of Babylon, which ouercame the Assyrians in the tenth yeere of his reigne.
b Partly mooued with the greatnesse of the miracle, partly because he shewed himselfe enemie to his enemies, but chiefly because he would ioyne with them whom God fauoured, and have their helpe, if occasion served.
c Reade 2. King. 20.13. & 2. Chron. 32.25. 31.
d He asketh him of the particulars, to make him vnderstand the craft of the wicked, which he before being ouercome with their flattery and blinded with ambition, could not see.
e By the grieuousnes of the punishment is declared how greatly God detested ambition & vaine glory.

a This is a consolation for the Church, assuring them, that they shalbe neuer destitute of Prophets whereby he exhorteth the true ministers of God that then were, and those also that should come after him, to comfort the poore afflicted, and to assure them of their deliuerance both of body and soule.
b The time of her affliction.

* n To wit, sorow and griefe both of the body and mind. o God hath declared by his Prophet that I shall die, and therefore I will yeeld vnto him. p I shall have no releasse, but continuall sorowes whiles I liue. q They that shall ouerliue the men that are now alive, and all they that are in these yeeres shall acknowledge this benefite. r That after that thou hadst condemned me to death thou restoredst me to life. s Whereas I thought to have lived in rest and ease being deliuered from mine enemie, I had griefe vpon griefe. t He esteemeth more the remission of his sinnes, and Gods fauour then a thousand liues. u For as much as God hath placed man in this world to glorifie him, the godly take it as a signe of his wrath, when their dayes were shortened, either because that they seemed vnworthy for their sinnes to liue longer in his service, or for their zeale to. Gods glory, seeing that there are so few in earth that do regard it as Psal 65. and 115.17. x All posterity shall acknowledge, and the fathers according to their duety toward their children shall instruct them in thy graces, and mercies toward me.

6 A i voyce ſayd, Crie. And he ſaid, What ſhall I cry? All fleſh is graſſe, and all the k grace thereof is as the floure of the field.

7 The graſſe withereth, the floure fadeth, becauſe the l Spirit of the Lord bloweth vpon it: ſurely the people is graſſe.

8 The graſſe withereth, the floure fadeth: but the m word of our God ſhall ſtand for ever.

9 ¶ O Zion, that bringeſt good tidings, get thee vp into the high n mountaine: O Ieruſalem, that bringeſt good tidings, lift vp thy voyce with ſtrength: lift it vp, be not afraid: ſay vnto the cities of Iudah, Behold o your God.

10 Behold, the Lord God will come with power, and p his arme ſhall rule for him: behold, his reward is with him, and his worke before him.

11 He ſhall feede his flocke like a ſhepheard: he ſhall gather the lambes with his arme, and cary them in his boſome, and ſhall guide them with q young.

12 Who hath meaſured the waters in his r fiſt? and counted heaven with the ſpan, and comprehended the duſt of the earth in a meaſure? and weighed the mountaines in a weight, and the hils in a balance?

13 Who hath inſtructed the ſpirit of the Lord? or was ſ his counſellor, or taught him?

14 Of whom tooke he counſell, and who inſtructed him and taught him in the way of iudgment? or taught him knowledge, and ſhewed vnto him the way of vnderſtanding?

15 Behold, the nations are as a drop of a bucket, and are counted as the duſt of the balance: behold, he taketh away the yles as a litle duſt.

16 And Lebanon is not ſufficient for fire, nor the beaſts thereof ſufficient for a burnt offering.

17 All nations before him are as t nothing, and they are counted to him, leſſe then nothing, and vanitie.

18 To whom then u will yee liken God? or what ſimilitude will yee ſet vp vnto him?

19 The workeman melteth an image, or the goldſmith beateth it out in golde, or the goldeſmith maketh ſilver plates.

20 Doth not x the poore chuſe out a tree that will not rot; for an oblation? hee ſeeketh alſo vnto him a cunning workeman, to prepare an image that ſhall not be mooued.

21 Know ye nothing? have ye not heard y it? hath it not bene told you from the beginning? have ye not vnderſtood it by the z foundation of the earth?

22 He ſitteth vpon the circle of the earth, and the inhabitants thereof are as groſhoppers, hee ſtretcheth out the heavens as a curtaine, and ſpreadeth them out, as a tent to dwell in.

23 Hee bringeth the princes to nothing, and maketh the iudges of the earth, as vanitie.

24 As though they were not planted, as though they were not ſowen, as though their ſtocke tooke no roote in the earth: for hee did even a blow vpon them, and they withered, and the whirlewinde will take them away as ſtubble.

25 To whom now will yee liken mee, that I ſhould be like him, ſaith the Holy one?

26 Lift vp your eyes on high, and behold who hath created theſe things, and bringeth b out their armies by number, and calleth them all by names: by the greatneſſe of his power & mighty ſtrength nothing faileth.

27 Why ſayeſt thou, O Iaakob, and ſpeakeſt O Iſrael, c My way is hid from the Lord, and my iudgement is paſſed over of my God?

28 Knoweſt thou not? or haſt thou not heard, that the everlaſting God, the Lord hath created the d ends of the earth? he neither fainteth, nor is weary: there is no ſearching of his e vnderſtanding.

29 But he giueth ſtrength vnto him that fainteth, and vnto him that hath no ſtrength, he encreaſeth power.

30 f Even the young men ſhall faint, and be weary, and the young men ſhall ſtumble and fall.

31 But they that waite vpon the Lord, ſhall renew their ſtrength: they ſhall lift vp the wings, as the eagles: they ſhall runne, and not be weary, and they ſhall walke and not faint.

l The ſpirit of God ſhall diſcouer the vanitie in all that ſeeme to have any excellencie of themſelues.

m Though conſidering the frailtie of mans nature many of the Iewes ſhould periſh, and ſo not be partakers of this deliuerance, yet Gods promiſe ſhould be fulfilled, and they that remained, ſhould feele the fruite thereof.

n To publiſh this benefite through all the world.

o He ſheweth at one word the perfection of all mans felicitie, which is to haue Gods preſence.

p His power ſhall be ſufficient without helpe of any other, and ſhall haue all meanes in himſelfe to bring his will to paſſe.

q He ſhall ſhew his care and fauour ouer them that are weake and tender.

r Declaring that as God onely hath all power, ſo doeth he vſe the ſame for the defence and maintenance of his Church.

ſ He ſheweth Gods infinite wiſdome for the ſame.

t He ſpeaketh all this to the intent that they ſhould neither feare man nor put their truſt in any, ſaue onely in God.

u Hereby he armeth them againſt the idolatrie, wherewith they ſhould be tempted in Babylon.

x He ſheweth the rage of the idolaters, ſeeing that the poore that haue not to ſuffice their owne neceſſities, will defraude themſelues to ſerue their idoles.

y Haue yee not the word of God, which plainely condemneth idolatry?

z Can you not learne by the viſible creatures whom God hath made to ſerue your vſe, that you ſhould not ſerue them nor worſhip them?

a So that his power appeareth in every place wherſoever wee turne our eyes.

b Who hath ſet in order the infinite number of the ſtarres.

c He rebuketh the Iewes, becauſe they did not reſt on the prouidence of God but thought that hee had forſaken them in their troubles.

d And therefore all power is in his hand to deliuer when his time commeth.

c Shewing that men muſt patiently abide, and not curiouſly ſeeke out the cauſe of Gods delay in our afflictions.

f They that truſt in their owne vertue, and do not acknowledge that all commeth of God.

men of Israel: I will helpe thee, saith the Lord, and thy redeemer the holy One of Israel.

15 Behold, I will make thee a roler, and a new threshing instrument having teeth: thou shalt threshe the [n] mountaines, and bring them to powder, and shalt make the hiles as chaffe.

16 Thou shalt fanne them, and the wind shall cary them away, and the whirlewind shall scatter them: and thou shalt reioyce in the Lord, and shalt glory in the holy One of Israel.

17 When [o] the poore and the needy seeke water, and there is none (their tongue faileth for thirst: I the Lord will heare them: I the God of Israel will not forsake them.)

18 I will open rivers in the tops of the hilles, and fountaines in the mids of the valleyes: I will make the wildernesse as a poole of water, and the waste [p] land as springs of water.

19 I will set in the wilderneſſe the cedar, the Shittah, and the myrrhe tree, and the pine tree, and I will set in the wildernesse the firre tree, the elme and the boxe tree together.

20 Therefore let them see and know, and let them consider and vnderstand together that the hand of the Lord hath done this, and the holy One of Israel [q] hath created it.

21 [r] Stand to your cause, saith the Lord: bring forth your strong reasons saith the King of Iaakob.

22 Let them bring them foorth, and let them tell vs what shall come, let them shewe the former things what they be, that we may consider them, and know the latter end of them: either declare us things for to come.

23 Shew the things that are to come hereafter, that we may know that ye are gods: yea, doe good or do evill, that we may declare it, and behold it together.

24 Behold, yee are of no value, and your making is of nought: man hath [s] chosen an abomination by them.

25 ¶ I have raised up [t] from the North, and he shall come: from the East sunne shall he [u] call upon my name, and shall come upon [x] princes as upon clay, and as the potter treadeth mire vnder the foot.

26 Who hath declared from the beginning, that we may know? or before time, that we may say, Hee is righteous? Surely there is none that sheweth: surely there is none that declareth: surely there is none that heareth [y] your words.

27 I am the first, that saith to Zion, Behold, behold [z] them: and I will give to Ierusalem [a] one that shall bring good tidings.

28 But when [b] I beheld, there was none: and when I enquired of them, there was no counseller, and when I demaunded of them, they answered not a word.

29 Behold, they are all vanitie: their worke is of nothing, their images are wind and confusion.

n I will make thee able to destroy all thine enemies, be they never so mightie: and this chiefly is referred to the kingdome of Christ.

o That is, they that shalbe afflicted in the captivitie of Babylon.

p God will rather change the order of nature then they should want any thing, that cry to him by true faith in their miseries: declaring to them hereby that they shall take nothing by the way, when they returne from Babylon.

q That is, hath appointed and determined that it shall come so to passe.

r He biddeth the idolaters to proove their religion, and to bring foorth their idoles, that they may be tried whether they know all things, and can do all things: which if they cannot doe, he concludeth that they are no gods, but vile idoles.

s So that a man cannot make an idole, but he must do that which God detesteth and abhorreth: for hee chuseth his owne devises and forsaketh the Lords.

t Meaning, the Chaldeans.

u That is, Cyrus, who shall doe all things in my name and by my direction: whereby hee meaneth that both their captivitie, and deliverance shall be ordered by Gods providence and appointment.

x Both of the Chaldeans and others.

y Meaning, that none of the Gentiles gods can worke any of these things.

z That is, the Israelites which returne from the captivitie.

a To wit a continuall succession of Prophets and ministers.

b When I looked whether the idoles could doe these things, I found that they had neither wisedome nor power to doe any thing: therefore he concludeth that all are wicked, that trust in such vanities.

a The obedience and humilitie of Christ. b Why hee was sent into the world. 11 The vocation of the Gentiles.

BEholde, [a] my servant: [b] I will stay upon him: mine elect, in whom my soule [c] deliteth: I have put my Spirit upon him: hee shall bring foorth [d] iudgement to the Gentiles.

2 He shall not [e] cry, nor lift up, nor cause his voyce to be heard in the streete.

3 A [f] bruised reede shall hee not breake, and the smoking [g] flaxe shall he not quench: he shall bring foorth iudgement in [h] trueth.

4 Hee shall not faile nor be discouraged till he have [i] set iudgement in the earth: and the [k] yles shall wait for his Law.

5 Thus saith God the Lord (he that created the heavens and spread them abroad: hee that stretched foorth the earth, and the buds thereof: hee that giveth breath unto the people upon it, and spirit to them that walke therein.)

6 I the Lord have called thee in [l] righteousnesse, and will hold [m] thine hand, and I will keepe thee, and give thee for a [n] covenant of the people, and for a light of the Gentiles,

7 That thou mayest open the eyes of the blind, and bring out the prisoners from the prison: and them that sit in darkenesse, out of the prison house.

8 I am the Lord, this is my Name, and my [o] glory will I not give to another, neither my praise to graven images.

9 Beholde, the former things are [p] come to passe, and new things doe I declare: before they come forth, I tell you of them.

10 Sing unto the Lord a new song, and his praise from the end of the earth: ye that go downe to the sea, and all that is therein; the yles and the inhabitants thereof.

11 Let the wilderneſſe and the cities thereof lift up their voyce, the townes that [q] Kedar doeth inhabite: let the inhabitans of the rockes sing: let them shout from the top of the mountaines.

12 Let them give glory unto the Lord, and declare his praise in the yles.

13 The Lord shall goe forth as a [r] gyant; hee shall stirre up his courage like a man of warre: he shall shout and cry, and shall prevaile against his enemies.

14 I have a long time holden me peace, I have bene still and refrained my selfe: now will I cry like a [s] travelling woman: I will destroy and devoure at once.

15 I will make waste mountaines, and hils, and drie up all their hearbs, and I will make the floods ylands, and I will drie up the pooles.

16 ¶ And I will bring the [t] blind by a way, that they knew not, and lead them by pathes that they have not knowen: I will make darkenesse light before them, and crooked things streight. These things will I doe unto them, and not forsake them.

17 They shall be turned backe; they shall be greatly ashamed, that trust in graven images, and say to the molten images, Yee are our gods.

18 ¶ Heare, yee deafe: and ye blind, regarde, that ye may see.

19 Who is blind but my [u] servant? or deafe as my [x] messenger, that I sent? who is blinde as the [y] perfite, and blind as the Lords servant?

20 Seeing many things, but thou keepest them not? opening the eares, but he heareth not?

d He shall declare himselfe overcomer over the Gentiles, and call them by his worde and rule them by his Spirit.

e His comming shall not be with pompe and noyse, as earthly princes.

f He will not hurt the weake and feeble, but suppose and comfort them.

g Meaning, the weeke of a lampe, or candle which is almost out, but he will cherish it and snuffe it, that it may shine brighter.

h Although hee favour the weake, yet will hee not spare the wicked, but will iudge them according to trueth and equitie.

i Till he have set all things in good order.

k The Gentiles shall be desirous to receive his doctrine.

l Meaning, unto a lawfull and iust vocation.

m To assist and give thee.

n As him, by whom the promise made to all nations in Abraham shall be fulfilled.

o I will not suffer my glory to be diminished which I should doe if I were not faithfull in performing the same, and the idolaters thereby would enrol their idoles above me.

p As in time past I have beene true in my promises, so will I be in time to come.

q Meaning the Arabians, vnder whom hee comprehendeth all the people of the East.

r He sheweth the zeale of the Lord, and his power in the conservation of his Church.

s I will haste to execute my vengeance, which I have so long deferred as a woman that desireth to be delivered, when shee is in travell.

t That is, my poore people which are in perplexitie and care.

u To wit Israel, which should have most light because of my Law.

x The Priest to whom my word is committed, which should not onely heare it himselfe, but cause others to heare it.

y As the priests and prophets that should be lights to others?

The Prophets vse to make mention of Christ after that they have declareth any great promise, because hee is the foundation whereupon all the promises are made and ratified.

b For I have committed all my power to him, as to a most faithfull steward: Some reade, I will establish him: to wit, in his office by giving him the fulnesse of my Spirit.

c He only is acceptable unto me, and they that come unto me by him: for there is no other meanes of reconciliation, Mat. 12, 18. & 17, 5. Ioh. 14, 6.

21 The Lord is willing for his righteousneſſe ſake, that he may magnifie the Law and exalt it.

22 But this people is [z] robbed and ſpoyled, and ſhalbe all ſnared in dungeons, and they ſhalbe hid in priſon houſes: they ſhalbe for pray, and none ſhall deliver: a ſpoyle, and none ſhall ſay, [a] Reſtore.

23 Who among you ſhall hearken to this, and take heede, and heare for [b] afterwards?

24 Who gave Iaakob for a ſpoyle, and Iſrael to the robbers? Did not the Lord, becauſe we have ſinned againſt him? for they would not walke in his wayes, neither be obedient unto his Law.

25 Therefore he hath powred upon him his fierce wrath, and the ſtrength of battell: and it ſet him on fire round about, and hee knew not, and it burned him up, yet he conſidered not.

z Becauſe they will not acknowledge this benefit of the Lord, who is ready to deliver them, he ſuffereth them to be ſpoyled of their enemies through their owne faults and incredulitie.

a There ſhall be none to ſuccour them, or to will the enemie to reſtore that which hee hath ſpoyled.

b Meaning, Gods wrath.

CHAP. XLIII.

1 The Lord comforteth his people. Hee promiſeth deliverance to the Iewes. 11 There is no God but one alone.

BVt now thus ſaith the Lord, [a] that created thee, O Iaakob: and he that formed thee, O Iſrael, [b] Feare not: for I have redeemed thee: I have called thee by thy name, thou art mine.

2 When thou paſſeſt through the [c] waters, I will be with thee, and through the floods, that they doe not overflow thee. When thou walkeſt thorow the very fire, thou ſhalt not be burnt, neither ſhall the flame kindle upon thee.

3 For I am the Lord thy God, the holy one of Iſrael, thy Saviour: I gave [d] Egypt for thy ranſome, Ethiopia, and Seba for thee.

4 Becauſe thou waſt precious in my ſight, and thou waſt honourable, and I loved thee, therefore will I give [e] man for thee, and people for thy ſake.

5 Feare not, for I am with thee: I will bring thy ſeed from the [f] Eaſt, and gather thee from the Weſt.

6 I will ſay to the North, Give: and to the South, Keepe not backe: bring my ſonnes from farre, and my daughters from the ends of the earth.

7 Every one ſhall be called by my [g] Name: for I created him for my glory, formed him and made him.

8 I will bring foorth the blinde people, and they ſhall have eyes, and the deafe, and they ſhall have eares.

9 Let all the nations be gathered [h] together, and let the people be aſſembled: who among them can declare this, and ſhew vs former things? let them bring forth their [i] witneſſes, that they may be iuſtified: but let them [k] heare, and ſay, It is trueth.

10 You [l] are my witneſſes, ſayth the Lord, and my [m] ſervant, whom I have choſen: therefore yee ſhall know and beleeve mee, and yee ſhall vnderſtand that I am: before mee there was no God formed, neither ſhall there be after me.

11 I, even I am the Lord, and beſide me there is no Saviour.

12 I have declared, and I have ſaved, and I have ſhewed, when there was no ſtrange god among you: therefore you are my witneſſes, ſayeth the Lord, that I am God.

13 Yea, before the day was, I am, and there is none that can deliver out of mine hand: I will do it, and who ſhall let it?

a After theſe threatnings he promiſeth deliverance to his Church, becauſe hee hath regenerate them, adopted them, and called them.

CHAP. XLIIII.

1 The Lord promiſeth comfort, and that hee will aſſemble his Church of divers nations. 9 The vanitie of idoles. 17 The beaſtlineſſe of idolaters.

YEt now heare, O Iaakob my ſervant, and Iſrael whom I have choſen.

2 Thus ſaith the Lord, that made thee, and formed [a] thee from the wombe: hee will helpe thee. Feare not, O Iaakob, my ſervant, and thou righteous [b] whom I have choſen.

3 For I will powre water upon the [c] thirſtie, and floods upon the dry ground: I will powre my ſpirit upon thy ſeed, and my bleſſing upon thy buds.

4 And they [d] ſhall grow as among the graſſe, and as the willowes by the rivers of waters.

5 One ſhall ſay, I am the Lords: another a He created and choſe thee from the beginning of his owne mercie, and before thou couldeſt merite any thing.

b Whom God accepteth as righteous or which hadſt occaſion thereunto becauſe of the Law, and of thine holy vocation.

c Becauſe man of himſelfe is as the drie and barren land, he promiſeth to moyſten him with the waters of his holy Spirit: Ioel 2, 28. Iohn 7, 38. acts 2, 17.

d That is, thy children and poſteritie ſhall increaſe wonderfully after their deliverance from Babylon.

e ſhalbe

e ſhallbe called by the name of Iaakob: and another ſhall ſubſcribe with his hand unto the Lord, and name himſelfe by the name of Iſrael.

6 Thus ſaith the Lord the King of Iſrael and his redeemer, the Lord of hoaſtes, f I am the firſt and I am the laſt, and without me is there no God.

7 And who is like mee, that ſhall g call and ſhall declare it, and ſet h it in order before me, ſince I appointed the i ancient people? and what is at hand, and what things are to come? let k them ſhew unto them.

8 Feare yee not, neither be afraid: have not I told thee of olde, and have declared it? l you are even my witneſſes, whether there be a God beſide me, and that there is no God that I know not.

9 All they that make an image, are vanitie, and m their delectable things ſhall nothing profit: and they are their owne witneſſes, n that they ſee not nor know: therefore they ſhall be confounded.

10 Who hath made a o god, or molten an image, that is P profitable for nothing?

11 Beholde, all that are of the q fellowſhip thereof, ſhall be confounded: for the workemen themſelves are men: let them all be gathered together, and r ſtand up, yet they ſhall feare, and be confounded together.

12 The ſmith taketh an inſtrument, and worketh in the coles, and faſhioneth it with hammers, and worketh it with the ſtrength of his armes, yea, he is ſ an hungred, and his ſtrength faileth, he drinketh no water, and is faint.

13 The carpenter ſtretcheth forth a line, he faſhioneth it with a red threed, he plaineth it, and he purtrayeth it with the compaſſe, and maketh it after the figure of a man, and according to the beautie of a man, that it may remaine in t an houſe.

14 Hee will hew him downe cedars, and take the pine tree and the oake, and taketh courage among the trees of the foreſt; hee planteth a firre tree, and the raine doeth nouriſh it.

15 And man burneth thereof; for hee will take thereof and u warme himſelfe: he alſo kindleth it, and baketh bread; yet hee maketh a god, and worſhippeth it; hee maketh it an idole, and boweth unto it.

16 Hee burneth the halfe thereof even in the fire, and upon the halfe thereof hee x eateth fleſh: he rofteth the rofte, and is ſatisfied, alſo he warmeth himſelfe and ſaith, Aha, I am warme, I have bene at the fire.

17 And the reſidue thereof he maketh a god, even his idole, he boweth unto it, and worſhippeth and prayeth unto it, and ſaith, Deliver mee; for thou art my god.

18 They have not knowen, nor vnderſtood: y for God hath ſhut their eyes that they cannot ſee, and their heart, that they cannot vnderſtand.

19 And none † conſidereth in his heart, neither is there knowledge nor vnderſtanding to ſay, I have burnt halfe of it, even in the fire, and have baked bread alſo upon the coales thereof: I have rofted fleſh, and eaten it, and ſhall I make the reſidue thereof an abomination? ſhall I bowe to the ſtocke of a tree?

20 He feedeth z of aſhes a ſeduced heart hath deceived him, that hee cannot deliver his ſoule, nor ſay, Is there not a lie in my right hand?

21 a Remember theſe (O Iaakob and Iſrael) for thou art my ſervant: I have formed thee; thou art my ſervant: O Iſrael forget me not.

22 I have put away thy tranſgreſſions like a cloud, and thy ſinnes as a miſt; turne unto mee, for I have redeemed thee.

23 b Reioyce yee heavens; for the Lord hath done it; ſhowt, ye lower parts of the earth; braſt foorth into prayſes, yee mountaines, O foreſt and every tree therein: for the Lord hath redeemed Iaakob, and will be glorified in Iſrael.

24 Thus ſaith the Lord thy redeemer, and hee that formed the from the wombe, I am the Lord that made all things, that ſpread out the heavens alone, and ſtretched out the earth by my ſelfe.

25 I deſtroy the c tokens of the ſoothſayers, and make them that coniecture, fooles, and turne the wiſe men backeward, and make their knowledge fooliſhneſſe.

26 ¶ He confirmeth the word of his d ſervant, and performeth the counſell of his meſſengers, ſaying to Ieruſalem, Thou ſhall be inhabited: and to the cities of Iudah, Yee ſhall be built up, and I will repaire the decaied places thereof.

27 He ſaith to the e deepe, Be drie, and I will drie up thy floods.

28 He ſaith to f Cyrus, Thou art my ſhepheard, and he ſhall performe all my deſire: ſaying alſo to Ieruſalem, Thou ſhalt be built, and to the Temple, Thy foundation ſhall be ſurely layd.

CHAP. XLV.

x The deliverance of the people by Cyrus. 9 God is iuſt in all his workes. 20 The calling of the Gentiles.

THus ſaith the Lord unto a Cyrus his b anoynted, whoſe right hand I have holden to c ſubdue nations before him: therefore will I weaken the loynes of kings, and open the doores before him, and the gates ſhall not be ſhut.

2 I will go before thee, and make the d crooked ſtraight: I will breake the braſen doores, and burſt the yron barres.

3 And I will give thee the treaſures of darkeneſſe, and the things hid in ſecret places, that thou mayeſt e know that I am the Lord which call thee by thy name, even the God of Iſrael.

4 For Iaakob my ſervants f ſake, and Iſrael mine elect, I will even call thee by thy name, and name thee, though thou haſt not knowen me.

5 I am the Lord, and there is none other, there is no God beſides mee: I g girded thee, though thou haſt not knowen me.

6 That they may know from the riſing of the ſunne, and from the Weſt, that there is none beſides me. I am the Lord, and there is none other.

7 I forme the h light, and create darkeneſſe: I e By this diverſity of ſpeach he meaneth one thing, that is, that the people ſhall be holy, and receive the true religion of God, as Pſal. 87. 5.

f I am alwayes like my ſelfe, that is, mercifull toward my Church and moſt able to maintaine it, as Chap. 41. 4 and 43. 12. reveal. 1, 17. and 22. 13.

g And appoint them that ſhall deliver the Church.

h That is, declare unto me how I ought to proceed herein.

i God calleth the Iſraelites ancient, becauſe he preferred them to all other in his eternall election.

k Meaning, their idoles.

l Reade Chap. 43. 10.

m Whatſoever they beſtow upon their idoles, to make them to ſeeme glorious.

n That is, the idolaters ſeeing their idoles blinde, muſt need: be witneſſes of their owne blindneſſe, and feeling that they are not able to help them, muſt confeſſe that they have no power.

o Meaning, that whatſoever is made by the hand of man, if he be eſteemed as God, is moſt deteſtable.

p Whereby appeareth their blaſphemy, which call images the bookes of the laitie, ſeeing that they are not onely here called vnprofitable, but Chap. 41. 24. abominable, and Ieremie calleth them the worke of errours, Iere. 10, 15. Habakkuk, a lying teacher. 2, 18.

q That is, which by any way conſent either to the making or worſhipping.

r. Signifying, that the multitude ſhall not then ſave the idolaters when God will take vengeance, although they execute themſelves thereby among men.

ſ He deſcribeth the raging affection of the idolaters, which forget their owne neceſſities to ſet foorth their devotion toward their idoles.

t To place it in ſome Temple.

u He ſetteth foorth the obſtinacie and malice of the idolaters, which though they ſee by dayly experience that their idoles are no better then the reſt of the matter whereof they are made yet their refuſe the one part, and make a god of other, as the Papiſts make their cake god, and the reſt of their idoles.

x That is, he either maketh a table or trenchers.

y The Prophet giveth here an anſwere to all them that wonder how it is poſſible that any ſhould be ſo blinde to commit ſuch abomination, ſaying, that God hath blinded their eyes, and hardened their hearts.

z He is abuſed as one that would eate aſhes, thinking to ſatisfie his hunger.

a Shewing that mans heart is moſt inclined to idolatrie, and therefore hee warneth his people by theſe examples, that they ſhould not cleave to any but to the living God, when they ſhould be among the idolaters.

b He ſheweth that the worke of the Lord toward his people ſhall be ſo great, that the inſenſible be mooved therewith.

c He armeth them againſt the ſoothſayers of Babylon, which would have borne them in hand, that they knew by the ſtarres, that God would not deliver them, and that Babylon ſhould ſtand.

d Of Iſaiah and the reſt of his Prophets, which did aſſureth the Church of Gods favour and deliverance.

e Hee ſheweth that Gods worke ſhould be no leſſe notable in this their deliverance, then when hee brought them out of Egypt, thorow the ſea.

f To aſſure them of their deliverance, hee nameth the perſon by whom it ſhould be, more then an hundreth yeare before he was borne.

a To aſſure the Iewes of their deliverance againſt the great tentations that they ſhould abide, he nameth the perſon and the meanes.

b Becauſe Cyrus ſhould execute the office of a deliverer, God called him his anoynted for a time, but after another ſort then he called David.

c To guide him in the deliverance of my people.

d I will take away all impediments and lets.

e Not that Cyrus did know God to worſhip him aright, but he had a certaine particular knowledge as prophane men may have of his power, and ſo was compelled to deliver Gods people.

f Not for any thing that is in thee, or for thy worthineſſe.

g I have given thee ſtrength, power and authoritie.

h I ſend peace and warre proſperitie, and adverſitie, as Amos 3, 6.

make make peace, and create evill: I the Lord doe all theſe things.

8 Ye heavens ſend the dewe from above, and let the cloudes drop downe i righteouſnes, let the earth open, and let ſalvation and iuſtice growe foorth: let it bring them foorth together: I the Lord have k created him.

9 l Woe be vnto him that ſtriveth with his maker, the potſheard with the potſheards of the earth: ſhall the clay ſay to him that faſhioneth it, What makeſt thou? or thy worke, m It hath none hands?

10 Woe unto him that ſayeth to his father, What haſt thou forgotten? or to his mother, What haſt thou brought forth?

11 Thus ſaith the Lord, the onely one of Iſrael, and his maker, Aske me n of things to come concerning my ſonnes, and concerning the workes of mine hands: commend you me.

12 I have made the earth, and created man upon it: I, whoſe hands have ſpread out the heavens, I have even commaunded all their o armie.

13 I have raiſed p him up in righteouſnes, and I will direct all his wayes: hee ſhall build my citie, and he ſhall let go my captives, not for q price nor reward, ſaith the Lord of hoaſtes.

14 Thus ſayeth the Lord, The labour r of Egypt, and the merchandiſe of Ethiopia, and of the Sebeans, men of ſtature ſhall come unto thee, and they ſhall be ſ thine: they ſhall follow thee, and ſhall goe in chaines: they ſhall fall downe before thee, and make ſupplication unto thee, ſaying, Surely God is in thee, and there is none other God beſides.

15 Verely, thou O God t hideſt thy ſelfe, O God, the Saviour of Iſrael.

16 All they ſhalbe aſhamed and alſo confounded: they ſhall goe to confuſion together, that are the makers of images.

17 But Iſrael ſhall be ſaved in the Lord, with an everlaſting ſalvation: ye ſhall not be aſhamed nor confounded world without end.

18 For this ſayth the Lord (that created heaven, God himſelfe that formed the earth, and made it: he that prepared it, he created it not in vaine: he formed it to be u inhabited) I am the Lord, and there is none other.

19 I have not ſpoken in ſecret, neither x in a place of darkenes in the earth: I ſaid not in vaine unto the ſeede of Iaakob: ſeeke you mee: I the Lord doe ſpeake righteouſnes, and declare righteous things.

20 Aſſemble your ſelves, and come: drawe neere together, y yee abiect of the Gentiles: they have no knowledge, that ſet up the wood of their idole, and pray unto a god, that cannot ſave them.

21 Tell ye and bring them, and let them take counſell together, who hath declared this from the beginning, or hath told it of old? Have not I the Lord? and there is none other God beſide mee, a iuſt God, and a Saviour: there is none beſide me.

22 Looke unto me, and yee ſhall be ſaved: all i Hee comforteth the Iewes, as if hee would ſay, Though when yee looke to the heavens and earth for ſuccour yee ſee nothing now but figues of Gods wrath, yet will cauſe them to bring foorth moſt certaine tokens of your deliverance, and of the performance of my promiſe: which is meant by righteouſneſſe.

k I have appointed Cyrus to this uſe and purpoſe.

l Hereby hee bridleth their impatience, which in diverſitie and couble murmure againſt God, and will not tary his pleaſure: willing that man ſhould match with his like, and not contend againſt God.

m That is, it is not perfectly made.

n Inſtead of murmuring, humble your ſelves, and aske what yee will for the conſolation of my children, and you ſhall be ſure of it, as yee are of theſe things which are at your commandement. Some reade it with an interrogation, and make it the application of the ſimilitude.

o That is, the ſtarres.

p To wit, Cyrus, that I may ſhew by him the faithfulneſſe of my promiſe in delivering my people.

q Meaning, freely and without ranſome or any grievous condition, r Theſe people were tributaries to the Perſians, and ſo king Artahſhaſhte gave this money toward the building of the Temple, Ezra. 7.27.

ſ Whereas to fore they were thine enemies, they ſhall now honour thee, and thou ſhalt rule them: which was accompliſhed in the time of Chriſt.

t Hereby hee exhorteth the Iewes to patience, though their deliverance be deferred for a time: ſhewing that they ſhould not repent their long patience, but the wicked and idolaters ſhall be deſtroyed.

u To wit, of men, but chiefly of his Church.

x As doe the falſe gods, which give uncertaine anſweres.

y All yee idolaters which though you ſeeme to have never ſo much worldly dignitie, yet in Gods ſight you are vile and abiect.

z the endes of the earth ſhall be ſaved: for I am God, and there is none other.

23 I have ſworne by my ſelfe: the word is gone out of my mouth in a righteouſneſſe, and ſhall not returne, That every b knee ſhall bowe unto mee, and every tongue ſhall ſweare by me.

24 Surely c hee ſhall ſay, In the Lord have I righteouſneſſe and ſtrength: he ſhall come unto him, and all that d provoke him ſhallbe aſhamed.

25 The whole ſeede of Iſrael ſhalbe iuſtified, and glorie in the Lord.

z He calleth the idolaters to repentance, willing them to looke unto him with the eye of faith.

a That is, that the thing which I have promiſed ſhall be faithfully performed.

b The knowledge of God and the true worſhipping ſhall be thorow all the world, Rom. 14.11. Phil. 2.10. whereby he ſignifieth that wee muſt not onely ſerve God in heart, but declare the ſame alſo by outward profeſſion.

c Meaning, the faithfull ſhall feele and confeſſe this.

d All the contemners of God.

CHAP. XLVI.

1 The deſtruction of Babylon and of their idoles. 3 He calleth the Iewes to the conſideration of his workes.

a These were the chiefe idoles of Babylon.

BEl is bowed downe: a Nebo is fallen: their idoles were upon the beaſts, and upon the cattell: they which did beare you, were laden with a wearie burden.

b Becauſe they were of gold and ſilver, the Medes and Perſians caried them away.

2 c They are bowed downe, and fallen together, for they could not rid them of the burden, and their d ſoule is gone into captivitie.

c The beaſts that caried the idoles, fell downe vnder their burden.

d He deſcribeth the idoles, which had neither ſoule nor ſenſe.

3 Heare ye me, O houſe of Iaakob, and all that remaine of the houſe of Iſrael, which are e borne of mee from the wombe, and brought up of mee from the birth.

e He ſheweth the difference betweene the idoles and the true God: for they muſt be caried of others, but God himſelfe carieth his, as Deut. 32.11.

4 Therefore unto olde age, I the ſame, even I will beare you vntill the hoare haires: I have made you: I will alſo beare you, and I will carie you, and I will deliver you.

f Seeing I have begotten you, I will nouriſh and preſerve you for ever.

5 ¶ To whom will ye make me like, or make me equall, or g compare me that I ſhould be like him?

g The people of God, ſetting their owne calamitie, and the flouriſhing eſtate of the Babylonians, ſhould be tempted to think that their God was not ſo mightie as the idoles of their enemies: therefore he deſcribeth the originall of all the idols to make them to be abhorred of all men: ſhewing that the moſt that can be ſpoken in their commendation, is but to proove them vile, Baruch. 6.25.

6 They draw gold out of the bag, and weigh ſilver in the balance, and hire a goldſmith to make a god of it, and they bowe downe and worſhip it.

7 They beare it upon the ſhoulders: they cary him and ſet him in his place: ſo doth he ſtand, and cannot remoove from his place. Though one cry unto him, yet can he not anſwere, nor deliver him out of his tribulation.

8 Remember this, and be aſhamed: bring it againe to h minde, O you tranſgreſſers.

h Become wiſe, meaning, that all idolaters are without wit or ſenſe, like mad men.

9 Remember the former things of olde: for I am God, and there is none other God, and there is nothing like me.

10 Which declare the laſt thing from the beginning, and from of olde: the things that were not done, ſaying, My counſell ſhall ſtand, and I will doe whatſoever I will.

11 I call a i bird from the Eaſt, and the man of my k counſell from farre: as I have ſpoken, ſo will I bring it to paſſe: I have purpoſed it, and I will doe it.

12 Heare mee yee ſtubburne hearted, that are farre from l iuſtice.

13 I bring m neere my iuſtice: it ſhall not be farre off, and my ſalvation ſhall not tarie: for I will give ſalvation in Zion, and my glorie unto Iſrael.

e That is Cyrus, which ſhall come as ſwift as a bride, and fight againſt Babylon.

k Him by whom I have appointed to execute that which I have determined.

l Which by our incredulitie would let the performance of my promiſe.

m He ſheweth that mans incredulitie cannot aboliſh the promiſe of God, Rom. 3.3.

CHAP. XLVII.

The deſtruction of Babylon, and the cauſes wherefore.

COme downe and ſit in the duſt: O a virgine daughter Babel, ſit on the ground; there is no

a Which haſt lived in wealth and wantonneſſe, and haſt not yet beene overcome by any enemie, b throne,

b throne, O daughter of the Caldeans; for thou shalt no more be called, Tender and delicate.

2 Take the millstones, and c grinde meale; loose thy lockes: d make bare the feete: vncover the leg, and passe thorow the floods.

3 Thy filthines shallbe discovered, and thy shame shallbe seene: I will take vengeance, and I will not meet thee as a e man.

4 f Our redeemer, the Lord of hoastes is his Name, the holy One of Israel.

5 g Sit still, and get thee into darkenesse, O daughter of the Caldeans; for thou shalt no more be called, The lady of kingdomes.

6 I was wroth with my people: I have polluted mine inheritance, and given them into thine hand, thou didst shew them no h mercy, but thou didst lay thy very heauy yoke upon the ancient.

7 And thou saidest, I shallbe a lady for ever, so that thou didst not set thy minde to these things, neither didst thou remember the latter end thereof.

8 Therefore now heare, thou that art given to pleasures, and dwellest careles, She saith in her heart, I am and none els: I shall not sit as a widow, neither shall know the losse of children.

9 But these two things shall come to thee suddenly on one day, the losse of children and widowhood; they shall come upon thee in their i perfection, for the multitude of thy divinations, and for the great abundance of thine inchanters.

10 For thou hast trusted in thy wickednesse; thou hast said, None seeth me. Thy k wisdome and thy knowledge, they have caused thee to rebel, and thou hast said m thine heart, I am, and none els.

11 Therefore shall evill come upon thee, and thou shalt not know the mourning thereof: destruction shall fall upon thee, which thou shalt not be able to put away: destruction shall come upon thee suddenly, or thou beware.

12 Stand now among thine inchanters, and in the multitude of thy soothsayers (with whome thou hast l wearied thy selfe from thy youth) if so be thou mayest have profit, or if so be thou maiest have strength.

13 Thou art wearied in the multitude of thy counsels: let now the astrologers, the starre gazers and prognosticators stand up, and save thee from these things that shall come upon thee.

14 Behold, they shall be as stubble; the fire shall burne them; they shall not deliver their owne lives from the power of the flame: there shallbe no coales m to warme at, nor light to sit by.

15 Thus shall they serve thee, with whom thou hast wearied thee, even thy merchants from thy youth; every one shall wander to his owne n quarters: none shall save thee.

CHAP. XLVIII.

1. The hypocrisie of the Iewes is reproved. 12. The Lord alone will be worshipped. 20 Of their deliverance out of Babylon.

HEare yee this, O house of Iaakob, which are a called by the name of Israel, and are come out of b the waters of Iudah: which sweare by the name of the Lord, and make mention of the God of Israel, but not in trueth nor in righteousnesse.

2 For they are called of the holy citie, and stay themselves c upon the God of Israel, whose Name is the Lord of hoastes.

3 I have declared the former things of old, and they went out of my mouth, and I shewed d them: I did them suddenly and they came to passe.

4 Because I knew that e thou art obstinate, and thy necke is an yron sinew, and thy brow brasse,

5 Therefore I have declared it to thee of old: before it came to passe, I shewed f it thee, lest thou shouldest say, Mine idole hath done them, and my carved image, and my molten image hath commanded them.

6 Thou hast heard, behold all this, and will not yee g declare it? I have shewed thee now things, even now, and hid things, which thou knewest not.

7 They are created now, and not of olde, and even before this thou heardest them not, lest thou shouldest say, Behold, I h knew them.

8 Yet thou heardest them not, neither diddest know them, neither yet was thine eare opened of olde; for I knew that thou wouldest grievously transgresse; therefore have I called thee a transgressour from the i wombe.

9 For my Names sake will I defer my wrath and for my praise, will I refraine it from thee, k that I cut thee not off.

10 Behold, I have fined thee, but l not as silver; I have m chosen thee in the fornace of affliction, 11 For mine owne sake, for mine owne sake will I doe it; for how should my Name n be polluted? o surely I will not give my glory unto another.

12 Heare me, O Iaakob and Israel, my called, p I am, I am the first, and I am the last.

13 Surely mine hand hath laid the foundation of the earth, and my right hand hath spanned the heavens: when I call them, q they stand up together.

14 All you, assemble your selves, and heare: which among them hath declared these things? The Lord hath loved r him, he will do his will in Babel, and his arme shallbe against the Caldeans.

15 I, even I have spoken it, and I have called him, I have brought him, and his way shall prosper, 16 Come neere unto me: heare ye this: I have not spoken it in secret from the s beginning: from the time that the thing was, I was there, and now the Lord God and his Spirit hath t sent me.

17 Thus saith the Lord thy redeemer, the Holy one of Israel I am the Lord thy God, which teach thee u to profite, and leade thee by the way that thou shouldest goe.

18 Oh, that thou hadst hearkened to my commandements! then had thy prosperitie bin as the flood, & thy righteousnesse as the waves of the sea.

19 Thy seed also had bene as the sand, and the fruite of thy body like the gravell thereof: his x name should not have bene cut off nor destroyed before me.

20 y Goe yee out of Babel: flee yee from the Chaldeans with a voyce of ioy: tell and declare this? shew it forth to the end of the earth: say ye The Lord hath redeemed his servant Iaakob.

21 And they z were not thirstie: he led them thorow the wilderneſse: hee caused the waters to flow out of the rocke for them: for he clave the rocke and the water gushed out.

22 There is no a peace, saith the Lord, unto the wicked.

a He decreeth their hypocrisie which vaunteth themselves to be Israelites, and were not so indeede.
b Meaning, the fountaine and stocke.
c They make a shew, as though they would have none other God.
d He sheweth that they could not accuse him in any thing, forasmuch as he had performed what soever he had promised.
e I have done for thee more then I promised, that thy stubburnesse and impudencie might have bene overcome.
f How thou shouldest be delivered out of Babylon.
g Will ye not acknowledge this my benefits, and declare it unto others?
h Shewing that mans arrogancie is the cause why God doth not declare all things at once, least they should attribute this knowledge to their owne wisedome.
i From the time that I brought thee out of Egypt: for that deliverance was as the birth of the Church.
k As it was my free mercy that I did chuse thee: so is it my free mercy that must save thee.
l For I had respect to thy weaknesse and infirmitie: for in silver there is some pureneſse, but in vs there is nothing but drosse.
m I tooke thee out of the fornace where thou shouldest have bene consumed.
n God ioyneth the salvation of his with his owne honour: so that they cannot perish but his glorie should be diminished, as Deut. 32. 27.
o Reade Chap. 42, 8.
p Reade Chap. 41. 4.
q To obey me, and to doe whatsoever I command them.
r Meaning, Cyrus, whom he had chosen to destroy Babylon.
s Since the time that I declared my selfe to your fathers.
t Thus the Prophet speaketh for himselfe, and to assure them of these things.
u What things shall doe thee good.
x That is the prosperous estate of Israel.
y After that he had forewarned them of their captivitie, and of the cause thereof, he sheweth them the great ioy that shall come of their deliverance.
z Hee sheweth that it shall be as easie to deliver them, as he did their fathers out of Egypt.
a Thus hee speaketh that the wicked hypocrites, should not abuse Gods promise, in whom was neither faith nor repentance, as Chap. 57. 21.

CHAP. XLIX.

1. The Lord God exhorted all nations to beleeue his promises.

6 Christ

6 Christ is the salvation of all that beleeve, and will deliver them from the tyranny of their enemie.

HEare yee me, O yles, and hearken, yee people from farre. The Lord hath called a me from b the wombe, and made mention of my name from my mothers belly.

2 And he hath made my mouth like a sharpe c sword: vnder the shadow of his hand hath he d hid me, and made me a chosen shaft, and hid me in his quiver,

3 And sayd unto me, Thou art my servant e Israel, for I will be glorious in thee.

4 And I sayd, I have f laboured in vaine: I have spent my strength in vain and for nothing; but my iudgement is with the Lord, and my worke with my God.

5 And now sayeth the Lord that formed me from the wombe to be his servant, that I may bring Iaakob againe to him (though Israel be not gathered, g yet shall I be glorious in the eyes of the Lord; and my God shalbe my strength.)

6 And hee sayd, It is a small thing that thou shouldest be my servant to rise up the tribes of Iaakob, and to restore the desolations of Israel: I will also give h thee for a light of the Gentiles, that thou mayest be my salvation unto the end of the world.

7 Thus saith the Lord the redeemer of Israel, and his holy One, to him that is despised in soule, to a nation that is abhorred, to a i servant of rulers, Kings shall see, and k arise, and princes shall worship, because of the Lord, that is faithfull: and the holy One of Israel, which hath chosen thee.

8 Thus sayth the Lord, l In acceptable time have I heard thee, and in a day of salvation have I helped thee: and I will preserve thee, and will give m thee for a covenant of the people, that thou maiest raise up the n earth, and obtaine the inheritance of the desolate heritages:

9 That thou mayest say to the o prisoners, Goe foorth; and to them that are in darkenesse, Shew your selves; they shall feede in the wayes, and their p pastures shall be in all the tops of the hilles.

10 They shall not be hungry, neither shall they be thirsty, neither shall the heate smite them, nor the sunne, for he that hath compassion q on them, shall leade them; even to the springs of water shall he drive them.

11 And I will make all my mountaines, as a way, and my paths shall be exalted.

12 Behold, these shall come from farre: and loe, these from the North and from the West, and these from the land of r Sinim.

13 Reioyce, O s heavens; and be ioyfull, O earth; braste forth into prayse, O mountaines; for God hath comforted his people, and will have mercy upon his afflicted.

14 But Zion sayd, The Lord hath t forsaken me, and my Lord hath forgotten me.

15 Can a woman forget her child, and not have compassion on the sonne of her wombe? though they should forget, yet will I not forget thee.

16 Behold, I have graven thee upon the palme of mine u handes: they x walles are ever in my sight.

17 Thy builders make y haste: thy destroyers and they that made thee waste, are departed from thee.

18 Lift up thine eyes round about and behold: all these gather themselves together and come to thee: as I live, sayth the Lord, thou shalt surely z put them all upon thee as a garment, and gird thy selfe with them like a bride.

19 For thy desolations, and thy waste places, and thy land destroyed, shall surely be now narow for them that shall dwell in it, and they that dwell devoure thee, shall be farre away.

20 The children of thy barrennesse shall say againe in thine eares, The place is straite for mee: give place to me that I may dwell.

21 Then shalt thou say in thine heart, Who hath begotten mee these, seeing I am barren and desolate, a captive and a wanderer to and fro? and who hath nourished them? behold, I was left alone: whence are these?

22 Thus sayth the Lord God, Behold, I will lift up mine hand to the a Gentiles and set up my standart to the people, and they shall bring thy sonnes in their armes: and thy daughters shall be caried upon their shoulders.

23 And Kings b shall be thy nursing fathers, and Queenes shall be thy nurses: they shall worship thee with their faces toward the earth, and licke up the c dust of thy feete: and thou shalt know that I am the Lord: for they shall not be ashamed that write for me.

24 Shall the pray be d taken from the mightie? or the iust captivitie delivered?

25 But thus saith the Lord, e Even the captivitie of the mighty shall be taken away: and the pray of the tyrant shall be delivered: for I will contend with him that contend with thee, and I will save thy children, 26 And will feede them that spoyle thee, with f their owne flesh, and they shall be drunken with their owne blood, as with sweete wine; and all flesh shall know that I the Lord am thy Saviour and the Redeemer, the mightie one of Iaakob.

CHAP. L.

1 The Iewes forsaken for a time. 2 Yet the power of God is not diminished. 5 Christs obedience and victorie.

THus sayth the Lord, Where is that a bill of your mothers divorcement, b whom I have cast off? or who is the creditor c to whom I sold you? Behold, for your iniquities are ye sold, and because of your transgressions is your mother forsaken.

2 d Wherefore came I, and there was no man? I called, and none answered; is mine hand e shortened; that it cannot helpe? or have I no power to deliver? Behold, at my rebuke I dry up the sea: I make the floods desert; their fish rotteth for want of water, and dieth for thirst.

3 I cloathe the heavens with darkenesse, and make a f sacke their covering.

4 The Lord God hath given g mee a tongue of the learned, that I should know to minister a word in time to him that is h weary; he will raise a This is spoken in the person of Christ, to assure the faithfull that these promises should come to passe: for they were all made in him and in him should be performed.

b This is meant of the time that Christ should be manifested to the world, as Psal. 22.
c By the sword and shaft, he signifieth the vertue and efficacie of Christs doctrine.
d God hath taken me to his protection and defence: this chiefly is meant of Christ, and may also be applied to the ministers of his word.
e By Israel is meant Christ, and all the body of the faithfull, as the members, and their head.
f Thus Christ in his members complaineth, that his labour and preaching take none effect, yet hee is contented, that his doings are approoved of God.
g Though the Iewes refuse my doctrine, yet God will approove my ministery.
h To declare my Gospell, to the Gentiles. Chap. 41.6. acts 13.47. luk. 2.32.
i Meaning, the Iewes, whom tyrants kept in bondage.
k The benefit of their deliverance shall be so great, that great and small shall acknowledge it, and reverence God for it.
l Thus he speaketh of his Church when he would shew his mercie toward it, 2. Cor. 6.2.
m Meaning, Christ alone.
n Signifying, that before Christ renew the earth by his word, there is nothing but confusion and disorder.
o To them that are in the prison of sinne and death.
p Being in Christs protection, they shall be safe against all dangers, and free from the feare of the enemies.
q Meaning, that there should be nothing in their way from Babylon that should hinder or hurt them: but this is accomplished spiritually.
r Meaning, the South countrey, so that Christ shall deliver his from all the parts of the world.
s Reade Chap. 44.23.
t Hee obiecteth what the faithfull might say in their long affliction, and answereth therevnto to comfort them, with a most proper similitude, and full of consolation.

a Because I would not forget thee.
x Meaning, the good order of policie, and discipline.
y I have a continuall care to build thee up againe, and to destroy thine enemies.
z Hee sheweth what are the ornaments of the Church: to have many children, which are assembled by the word of God, and governed by his Spirit.
a He sheweth that Christ will not only gather this great number of the Iewes, but also of the Gentiles.
b Meaning, that Kings shall be converted to the Gospel, and bestow their power and authoritie for the preservation of the Church.
c Being ioyned with the Church, they shall humble themselves to Christ their head, and give him all honour.
d He maketh this as an obiection, as though the Caldeans were strong, and had them in iust possession.
e This is the answere to their obiection, that none is stronger then the Lord, neither hath a more iust citie unto them.
f I will cause them to destroy one another, as Iudge. 7.22. 2 Chron. 20, 22. Chap. 19.2.

a Meaning, that he hath not forsaken her, but through her owne occasion, as Hose 2.2.
b Which should declare that I have cut her off: meaning, that they could shew none.
c Signifying, that he solde them not for any debt or poverty, but that they solde themselves to sinnes to buy their owne lustes and pleasures.
d He commeth by his Prophets and ministers, but they would not beleeve their doctrine and convert.
e Am I not able to helpe you, as I have holpen your fathers of olde, when I dryed up the red Sea, and killed the fish in the rivers, and also afterward in Iorden?
f As I did in Egypt in token of my displeasure, Exod. 10, 21.
g The prophet doth represent here the person and charge of them that are inwardly called to the ministery of Gods word.
h To him that is oppressed by affliction and misery.

i As they that are taught, and made meet by him.
k I did not shrinke from God for any persecution or calamity. Whereby he sheweth that the true ministers of God can sooke for none other recompense of the wicked, but after this sort, and also what is their comfort.
l Shewing that it is a rare thing that any should obey aright Gods true ministers, though they labour to bring them from hell to heaven.
m You have sought consolation by your owne devises, and have refused the light, and consolation which God hath offered: therefore ye shal remaine in sorow, and not be comforted.

me up in the morning, in the morning he will waken mine eare to heare, i as the learned.

5 The Lord God hath opened mine eare, and I was not rebellious, neither turned I backe.

6 I gave my backe unto the k smiters, and my cheekes to the nippers: I hidde not my face from shame and spitting.

7 For the Lord God will helpe me, therefore shall I not be confounded: therefore have I set my face like a flint, and I know that I shall not be ashamed.

8 He is neere that iustifieth me: who will contend with me? Let us stand together? who is mine adversary? let him come neere to me.

9 Behold, the Lord God will helpe me: who is he that can condemne me? lo, they shall waxe old as a garment: the moth shall eate them up.

10 l Who is among you that feareth the Lord? let him heare the voyce of his servant: he that walketh in darkenesse and hath no light, let him trust in the Name of the Lord, and stay upon his God.

11 Behold, all you kindle m a fire, and are compassed about with sparkes: walke in the light of your fire, and in the sparkes that ye have kindled. This shall ye have of mine hand, ye shall lie downe in sorow.

CHAP. LI.

1 To trust in God alone by Abrahams example. 7 Not to feare men. 17 The great affliction of Ierusalem, 22 and her deliverance.

a He comforteth the Church, that they should not be discouraged for their small number.
b That is, to Abraham, of whom ye were begotten, and to Sarah, of whom we were borne.
c As plentifull as Paradise, Gen. 2, 3. d I will rule and governe my Church by my word and doctrine.
e The time that I will accomplish my promise.
f My power and strength.
g Beforewarneth them of the horrible changes and mutations of all things, and how he will preserve his church in the midst of all these dangers.

HEare me a yee that follow after righteousnes, and yee that seeke the Lord: looke unto the brocke, whence you are hewen, and to the hole of the pit, whence ye are digged.

2 Consider Abraham your father, and Sarah that bare you: for I called him alone, and blessed him and increased him.

3 Surely the Lord shall comfort Zion: he shall comfort all her desolations, and he shall make her desert c like Eden, and her wildernes like the garden of the Lord: ioy and gladnesse shall be found therein: praise, and the voyce of singing.

4 Hearken yee unto me my people, and give eare unto me, O my people: for d a Law shall proceed from me, and I will bring forth my iudgement for the light of the people.

5 My e righteousnes is neere: my salvation goeth forth, and mine f arme shall iudge the people: the yles shall wait for me, and shall trust unto mine arme.

6 Lift up your eyes to the heavens, and looke upon the earth beneath: for the g heavens shall vanish away like smoake, and the earth shall waxe olde like a garment, and they that dwell therein, shall perish in like maner: but my salvation shall be for ever, and my righteousnes shall not be abolished.

h He putteth them in remembrance of his great benefit for their deliverance out of Egypt, that thereby they might learne to trust in him constantly.
i Meaning, Egypt, Psal. 87, 4.
k To wit, Pharaoh, Ezek. 29, 3.

7 Hearken unto me ye that know righteousnesse, the people in whose heart is my Law. Feare ye not the reproach of men, neither be ye afraid of their rebukes.

8 For the moth shall eate them up like a garment, and the worme shall eate them like wood: but my righteousnes shall be for ever, and my salvation from generation to generation.

9 Rise up, Rise up, and put on strength, O arme of the Lord: rise up as h in the olde time in the generations of the world. Art not thou the same, that hath cut i Rahab, and wounded the k dragon?

10 Art not thou the same, which hath dried the Sea, even the waters of the great deepe, making the depth of the sea a way for the redeemed to passe over?

11 Therefore the redeemed of the Lord shall l returne and come with ioy unto Zion, and everlasting ioy shalbe upon their head: they shall obtaine ioy and gladnes: and sorow and mourning shall flee away.

l From Babylon.

12 I, even I am hee that comfort you. Who art thou that thou shouldest feare a mortall man, and the sonne of man, which shall be made as grasse?

13 And forgettest the Lord thy maker, that hath spred out the heavens, and laid the foundations of the earth? and hast feared continually all the day, because of the rage of the oppressour, which is ready to destroy? Where is now the rage of the oppressour?

14 The captive m hasteneth to be loosed, and that hee should not die in the pit, nor that his bread should faile.

m He comforteth them by the short time of their banishment: for in seventy yeeres they were restored, and the greatest empire of the world destroyed.

15 And I am the Lord thy God that divided the sea, when his waves roared: the Lord of hosts is his Name.

16 And I have put my words in thy n mouth, and have defended thee in the shadow of mine hand, that I may plant the o heavens, and lay the foundation of the earth, and say unto Zion, Thou art my people.

n Meaning, of Isaiah, and of all true ministers, who are defended by his protection.
o That all things may be restored in heaven and earth, Ephes. 1, 10.

17 Awake, awake, and stand up, O Ierusalem, which hast drunke at the hand of the Lord the p cup of his wrath: thou hast drunken the dregs of the cup of trembling, and wrung them out.

p Thou hast beene iustly punished and sufficiently as Chap. 40, 2. & this punishment in the elect is by measure, and according as God giveth grace to beare it: but in the reprobate it is the iust vengeance of God to drive them to an insensiblenes and madnesse, as Ier. 25, 15, 16.

18 There is none to guide her among all her sonnes, whom she hath brought foorth: there is none that taketh her by the hand of all the sonnes that she hath brought up.

19 These two q things are come unto thee: who will lament thee? desolation and destruction and famine, and the sword: by whom shall I comfort thee?

q Whereof the one is outward, as of the things that come to the body as war, and famine, and the other is inward and appertaineth to the minde: that is, to be without comfort: therefore he saith, How shall thou be comforted?

20 Thy sonnes have fainted, and lie at the head of all the streetes as a wilde bull in a net, and are full of the wrath of the Lord, and rebuke of thy God.

21 Therefore heare now this, thou miserable and drunken, but r not with wine.

r But with trouble and feare.

22 Thus saith thy Lord God, even God that pleadeth the cause of his people, Behold I have taken out of thine hand the cup of trembling, even the dregges of the cup of my wrath: thou shalt drinke it no more.

23 But I will put it into their hand that spoyle thee, which have sayd to thy soule, Bowe downe that we may goe over, and thou hast laid thy body as the ground, and as the streetes to them that went over.

CHAP. LII.

1 A consolation to the people of God. 7 Of the messengers thereof.

a No wicked tyrannie, which shall subuert Gods true religion, and oppresse the conscience.
b Put off the garments of sorow and heavines, and put on the apparell of ioy and gladnesse.

ARise, arise: put on thy strength, O Zion: put on the garments of thy beauty, O Ierusalem, the holy Citie: for hencefoorth there shall no a more come into thee the uncircumcised and the uncleane.

2 Shake thy selfe from the b dust, arise, and sit downe, O Ierusalem: loose the bands of thy neck, O thou captive daughter Zion.

3 For thus sayeth the Lord, Yee were solde for c nought; therefore ſhall ye be redeemed without money.

4 For thus ſayth the Lord God, My people went d downe aforetime into Egypt to ſoiourne there, and Aſshur e oppreſſed them without cauſe.

5 Now therefore what have I heere, ſaith the Lord, that my people is taken away for nought, and they that rule over them, make them to howle, ſayth the Lord? and my Name all the day continually is f blaſphemed?

6 Therefore my people ſhall know my name: therefore they ſhall know in that day, that I am he that doe ſpeake: Behold, it is I.

7 How g beautifull upon the mountaines are the feete of him, that declareth and publiſheth peace! that declareth good tidings, and publiſheth ſalvation, ſaying unto Zion, thy God reigneth!

8 h The voyce of thy watchman ſhalbe heard: they ſhall lift up their voyce, and ſhout together: for they ſhall ſee eye to eye, when the Lord ſhall bring againe Zion.

9 O yee deſolate places of Ieruſalem, be glad and reioyce together, for the Lord hath comforted his people: hee hath redeemed Ieruſalem.

10 The Lord hath made i bare his holy arme in the ſight of all the Gentiles, and all the ends of the earth ſhall ſee the ſalvation of our God.

11 k Depart, depart ye: goe ye out from thence, and touch no uncleane thing, go out of the mids of her, be ye cleane, that I beare the veſſels of the Lord.

12 For ye ſhall not go out m with haſte, nor depart by fleeing away: but the Lord will go before you, & the God of Iſrael will gather you together.

13 Behold, my n ſervant ſhall proſper: he ſhalbe exalted and extolled, and be very hie.

14 As many were aſtonied at thee (his viſage was ſo o deformed of men, and his forme of the ſonnes of men) ſo p ſhall he ſprinkle many nations: the Kings ſhall ſhut their q mouthes at him: for that which had not bin told them, ſhall they ſee, and that which they had not heard ſhall they r underſtand.

4 Surely, hee hath borne our infirmities, and carieſt f our ſorowes, yet wee did iudge him as g plagued and ſmitten of God, and humbled.

5 But he was wounded for our tranſgreſſions: he was broken for our iniquities: the h chaſtiſement of our peace was upon him, and with his ſtripes are we healed.

6 All we like ſheep have gone aſtray: we have turned every one to his owne way, and the Lord hath laid upon him the i iniquity of us all.

7 Hee was oppreſſed, and hee was afflicted, yet did hee not k open his mouth: hee is brought as a ſheepe to the ſlaughter, and as a ſheepe before her ſhearer is dumbe, ſo he opened not his mouth.

8 Hee was taken out from l priſon, and from iudgement: m and who ſhall declare his age? for he was cut out of the land of the living: for the tranſgreſsion of my people was he plagued.

9 n And he made his grave with the wicked, and with the rich in his death, though hee had done no wickednes, neither was any deceit in his mouth.

10 Yet the Lord would breake him and make him ſubiect to infirmities: when o he ſhall make his ſoule an offring for ſinne, hee ſhall ſee his ſeed and ſhall prolong his dayes, and the will of the Lord ſhall proſper in his hand.

11 He ſhall ſee of the p travell of his ſoule, and ſhalbe ſatisfied, by his knowledge ſhall my q righteous ſervant iuſtifie many: for he ſhall beare their iniquities.

12 Therefore will I give him a portion with the great, and hee ſhall divide the ſpoyle with the ſtrong, becauſe r he hath powred out his ſoule unto death; and he was contend with the tranſgreſſours, and he bare the ſinne f of many, and prayed for the treſpaſſers.

a The prophet ſheweth that very few ſhall receive this their preaching of Chriſt, and of their deliverance by him. Ioh. 12. 38. rom. 10, 16.

b Meaning, that none can beleeve, but whoſe hearts God toucheth with the vertue of his holy Spirit.

c The beginning of Chriſts kingdome ſhalbe ſmall and contemptible in the ſight of man, but it ſhall growe wonderfully, and flouriſh before God.

g We iudgeth evill, thinking that he was puniſhed for his owne ſinnes, and not for ours.

h He was chaſtiſed for our reconciliation, 1. Cor. 15, 3.

i Meaning, the puniſhment of our iniquity, and not the fault it ſelfe.

o Chriſt by offring up himſelfe ſhall give life to his Church, and ſo cauſe them to live with him for ever.

q Chriſt ſhall iuſtifie by faith through his word, whereas Moſes could not iuſtifie by the law.

r Becauſe he humbled himſelfe, therefore he ſhalbe exalted to glory, Phil. 2, 7, &c. to verſ. 12.

1 Of Chriſt and his kingdome, whoſe word fewe will beleeve.
6 All men are ſinners. 11 Chriſt is our righteouſneſſe, 12 and is dead for our ſinnes.

WHo a will beleeve our report? and to whom is the b arme of the Lord revealed?

2 But hee ſhall growe up before him as a branch, and as a c roote out of a dry d ground; he hath neither forme nor beauty: when we ſhall ſee him, there ſhall be no forme that we ſhould deſire him.

3 He is deſpiſed and reiected of men; he is a man full of ſorowes, and hath experience of e infirmities: we hid as it were our faces from him: he was deſpiſed, and we eſteemed him not.

a After that hee hath declared the death of Chriſt, he ſpeaketh to the Church, becauſe it ſhould feele the fruits of the ſame, and calleth her barren, becauſe that in the captivity ſhe was a widdow without hope to have any children.

b The Church in this her affliction and captivity ſhall bring forth more children, then when ſhe was at libertie: or this may be ſpoken by admiration, conſidering the great number that ſhould come of her.

c Her deliverance under Cyrus was as her childhood, and therefore this was accompliſhed, when ſhe came to heritage, which was under the Goſpel.

c Signifying, that for the great number of children that God ſhould give her, ſhe ſhould ſeeme to lack roome to lodge them.

e When as thou waſt refuſed for thy ſinnes, Chap. 50, 1.

f That did regenerate thee by his holy Spirit.

God of the whole g world.

g His glory shall shine through the whole world, which seemed before to be shut up in Iudea.

6 For the Lord hath called thee, being as a woman forsaken, and afflicted in spirit, and as a h young wife when thou wast refused, saith thy God.

h As a wife which was forsaken in thy youth.

7 For a little while have I forsaken thee, but with great compassion will I gather thee.

8 For a moment in mine anger, I hid my face from thee for a little season, but with everlasting mercie have I had compassion on thee, saith the Lord thy redeemer.

i As sure as the promise that I made to Noah, that the waters should no more overflow the earth.

9 For this is unto me as the i waters of Noah; for as I have sworne that the waters of Noah should no more goe over the earth, so have I sworne that I would not be angry with thee, nor rebuke thee.

10 For the mountaines shall remoove, and the hilles shall fall downe; but my mercie shall not depart from thee, neither shall the covenant of my peace fall away, saith the Lord, that hath compassion on thee.

11 O thou afflicted and tossed with tempest, that hast no comfort, behold, I will lay thy stones with the k carbuncle, and lay thy foundation with saphire, k Hereby he declareth the excellent estate of the Church under Christ.

12 And I will make thy windowes of l emerauds, and thy gates shining stones, and all thy borders of pleasant stones.

l Or, iasper, or pearle.

13 And all thy children shall be taught of the Lord, and much peace shall be to thy children.

14 In m righteousnesse shalt thou be established, and be farre from oppression; for thou shalt not feare it; and from feare, for it shall not come neere thee.

m By the bearing of his word and inward mooving of his spirit.

15 Beholde, the enemies shall gather himselfe, but without n mee: whosoever shall gather himselfe in thee, o against thee, shall fall.

n In stablitie and sureness, so that it shall stand for ever.

16 Beholde, I have created the p smith that bloweth the coales in the fire, and him that bringeth foorth an instrument for his worke, and I have created the destroyer to destroy.

m And therefore shall not prevaile.

o Meaning, the domesticall enemies of the Church, as are the hypocrites.

17 But all the weapons that are made against thee, shall not prosper: and every tongue that shall rise against thee in iudgement, thou shalt condemne. This is the heritage of the Lords servants, and their righteousnesse is of me, saith the Lord.

p Signifying hereby, that man can doe nothing, but so farre as God giveth power: for seeing that all are his creatures, he must needs governe and guid them

a Christ by proposing his graces and gifts to his Church, exempteth the hypocrites which are full with their imagined workes, and the Epicures, which are full with their worldly lusts, and so thirst not after these waters. 8 Gods counsels are not as mans. 12 The ioy of the faithfull.

HO, every one that a thirsteth, come ye to the waters, and ye that have b no silver, come, buy and eate: come, I say, buy c wine and milke without silver and without money.

a Christ by proposing his graces and gifts to his Church exempteth the hypocrites which are full with their imagined workes, and the Epicures, which are full with their worldly lusts, and so thirst not after these waters.

b Signifying, that Gods benefits can not be bought for money.

2 Wherefore doe ye lay out silver, and not for bread? d and your labour without being satisfied? hearken diligently unto me, and eate that which is good, and let your soule delight in e fatnesse.

c By waters, wine, milke and bread, he meaneth all things necessary to the spirituall life, as these are necessary to his corporall life. d He reproveth their ingratitude, which refuse these things that God offereth willingly, and in the meanes time spare neither cost nor labour to obtaine those which are nothing profitable. e You shall be fed abundantly.

3 Encline your eares, and come unto mee; heare, and your soule shall live, and I will make an everlasting covenant with you, even the f sure mercies of David.

f The same covenant which through my mercie I ratified and confirmed to David, that it should be eternall, 2. Sam. 7, 13. acts 14. 34.

4 Behold, I gave g him for a witnesse to the people, for a prince and a master unto the people.

g Meaning Christ, of whom David was a figure.

5 Behold, thou shalt call a nation that thou knowest not, h and a nation that knew not thee, shall runne unto thee because of the Lord thy God, and the Holy one of Israel: for he hath glorified thee.

h To wit, the Gentiles, which before thou diddest not receive to be thy people.

6 Seeke ye the Lord while he may i be found: call ye upon him while hee is neere.

i When he offereth himselfe by y preaching of his word.

7 Let the wicked k forsake his wayes, and the unrighteous his owne imaginations, and returne unto the Lord, and hee will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for hee is very ready to forgive.

k Hereby he sheweth that repentance must be ioyned with faith, and how we cannot call upon God aright, except the fruits of our faith appeare.

8 For my l thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your wayes my wayes, saith the Lord.

l Although you are not soone reconciled one to another and iudge mee by your selves, yet I am most easie to be reconciled, yea, I offer my mercies to you.

9 For as the heavens are higher then the earth, so are my wayes higher then your wayes, and my thoughts above your thoughts.

10 Surely as the raine commeth downe, and the snow from heaven, and returneth not thither but watereth the earth, and maketh it to bring forth and bud, that it may give seed to the sower, and bread unto him that eateth, m If these small things have their effect as dayly experience sheweth, much more shall my promise, which I have made and confirmed, bring to passe the things which I have spoken for your deliverance.

11 So shall my m word be, that goeth out of my mouth: it shall not returne unto me voyd, but it shall accomplish that which I will, and it shall prosper in the thing whereto I sent it.

n Reade Chap. 44. 23. and 49. 13.

12 Therefore ye shall goe out with ioy, and be led foorth with peace; the n mountaines and the hils shall breake foorth before you into you, and all the trees of the field shall clap their hands.

o To set forth his glory.

13 For thornes there shall grow firre-trees; for nettles shall grow the myrrhe-tree, and it shall be to the Lord o for a name, and for an everlasting p signe that shall not be taken away.

p Of Gods deliverance, and that he will never forsake his Church.

CHAP. LVI.

1 An exhortation to iudgement and iustice. 10 Against shepheards that devoure their flocke.

THus saith the Lord, a Keepe iudgement and doe iustice, for my salvation is at hand to come, and my b righteousnes to be revealed.

a God sheweth what he requireth of them after that he hath delivered them: to wit, the workes of charitie whereby true faith is declared.

b Which I will declare toward you, and powre into to your hearts by my Spirit.

2 Blessed is the man that doeth this, and the sonne of man which layeth hold on it; hee that keepeth the c Sabbath, and polluteth it not, and keepeth his hand from doing any evill.

c Vnder the Sabbath he comprehendeth the whole service of God and true religion.

3 And let not the sonne of the strangers, which d is ioyned to the Lord, speake and say, The Lord hath surely separated me from his people; neither let the Eunuch say, Behold, I am a dry tree.

d Let none thinke himselfe unmeete to receive the graces of the Lord: for the Lord will take away all impediments, and will forsake none which will keepe his true religion, and beleeve in him,

4 For thus saith the Lord unto the Eunuches that keepe my Sabbaths, and chuse the thing that pleaseth me, and take hold of my covenant, e Meaning, in his Church.

5 Even unto them will I give in mine e House and within my wals, a place, and a f name better then of the sonnes and of the daughters; I will give them an everlasting name, that shall not be put out.

f They shall be called after my people, and be of the same religion:

6 Also the strangers that cleave unto the Lord, to serve him, and to love the Name of the Lord, and to be his servants; every one that keepeth the Sabbath, and polluteth it not, and embraceth my covenant,

7 Them will I bring also to mine holy mountaine, and make them ioyfull in mine House of prayer; their burnt g offerings and their sacrifices shall be accepted upon mine altar: for mine yea, under Christ the dignitie of the faithfull shall be greater then the Iewes were in that time.

g Hereby he meaneth the spirituall service of God, to whom the faithfull offer continuall thankesgiving, yea themselves and all that they have, as a lively and acceptable sacrifice.

house shall be called an house of prayer for b all people.

8 The Lord God saith, which gathereth the scattered of Israel, Yet will I gather to them those that are to be gathered to them.

9 All ye i beasts of the field, come to devoure, even all ye beasts of the forest.

10 Their k watchmen are all blind: they have no knowledge: they are all dumbe dogs: they can not barke: they lie and sleepe and delight in sleeping.

11 And these greedy dogs can never have enough; and these shepheards cannot understand: for they all looke to their owne way, every one for his advantage, and for his owne purpose.

12 Come, I will bring wine, and wee will fill our selves with strong drinke, and to l morow shallbe as this, and much more abundant.

h Not onely for the Iewes, but for all others, Matt. 21,13.

i Meaning, the enemies of the Church, as the Babylonians, Assyrians, &c. thus he speaketh to feare the hypocrites and to assure the faithfull that when this commeth, they may know it was told them before.

k He sheweth that this affliction shall come through the fault of the governours, prophets, and pastors, whose ignorance, negligence, avarice and obstinacie provoked Gods wrath against them.

l We are well yet, and to morow shall be better: therefore let us not feare the plagues before they come: thus the wicked contemned the abominations and exhortations which were made them in the Name of God.

CHAP. LVII.

1 God taketh away the good, that hee should not see the horrible plagues to come. 3 Of the wicked idolaters, 9 and their vaine confidence.

THe righteous perisheth, and no man considereth it in heart, and mercifull men are taken away, and no man understandeth that the righteous is taken away a from the evill to come.

2 b Peace shall come: they shall rest in their beds, every one that walketh before him.

3 But you c witches children, come hither, the feed of the adulterer and of the whore.

4 On whom have ye iested? upon whom have ye gaped and thrust out your tonge? are not ye rebellious children, and a false seed?

5 Inflamed with idoles under every greene tree: and sacrificing the d children in the valleys under the tops of the rocks?

6 Thy portion is in the smoothe stones e of the river: they, they are thy lot: even to them hast thou powred a drinke-offering: thou hast offered a sacrifice. Should I delight in these?

7 Thou hast made thy g bed upon a very hie mountaine: thou wentest up thither, even thither wentest thou to offer sacrifice.

8 Behind the h doores also and posts hast thou set up thy remembrance: for thou hast discovered thy selfe to another, then mee, and wentest up, and diddest i enlarge thy bed, and make a covenant betweene thee and them, and lovedst their bed in every place where thou sawest it.

9 Thou wentest k to the kings with oyle, and diddest increase thine oyntments, and send thy messengers farre off, and diddest humble thy selfe unto hell.

10 Thou weariedst thy selfe in thy manifold iourneys, yet saydest thou not, l There is no hope: thou m hast found life by thine hand, therefore thou wast not grieved.

a From the plague that is at hand, and also because God will punish the wicked.

b The soule of the righteous shallbe in joy, and their body shall rest in the grave unto the time of the resurrection, because they walked before the Lord.

c He threateneth the wicked hypocrites, who under the presence of the name of Gods people, derided Gods word and his promises: boasting openly that they were the children of Abraham, but because they were not faithfull and obedient as Abraham was, he calleth them bastards, and the children of sorcerers, which forsooke God, and fledde to wicked meanes for succour.

d Reade Levit. 18. 21. 2. King. 23. 10.

e Meaning, every place was polluted with their idolatry: or every faire stone that they found, they made an idole of it.

f In the sacrifices which you offering before these idoles thought you did serve God.

g To wit, thine altars in an open place, like an impudent harlot, that careth not for the sight of her husband.

h In stead of setting up the word of God in the open places on the posts and doores to have it in remembrance, Deut. 6, 9. and 27, 1. thou hast set up signes and markes of thine idolatry in every place.

i That is, diddest increase thine idolatry more and more.

k Thou diddest seeke the favour of the Assyrians by gifts and presents to helpe thee against the Egyptians: and when they failed thou soughtest to the Babylonians, and more and more diddest torment thy selfe.

l Although thou sawest all thy labors to be in vaine, yet wouldest thou never acknowledge thy fault, and leave off.

m Hee derideth their unprofitable diligence, which thought to have made all sure, and yet were deceived.

11 And whom diddest thou reverence or feare, seeing thou hast n lied unto mee, and hast not remembred mee, neither set thy mind thereon? is it not because I holde my peace, and that of long o time? therefore thou feareſt not me.

12 I will declare thy righteousnesse p and thy workes, and they shall not profit thee.

13 When thou cryest, let them that thou hast gathered together, deliver thee: but the wind q shall take them all away: vanitie shall pull them away: but he that trusteth in me shall inherite the land, and shall possesse mine holy Mountaine.

14 r And he shall say, Cast up, cast up: prepare the way: take up the stumbling blocks out of the way of my people.

15 For thus saith he that is hie and excellent, hee that inhabiteth the eternitie, whose Name is the Holy one, I dwell in the high and holy place: with him also that is of a contrite and humble spirit to revive the spirit of the humble, and to give life to them that are of a contrite heart.

16 For I will not contend for ever: neither will I be alwaies wroth, f for the spirit should faile before me: and I have made the breath.

17 For his t wicked covetousnesse I am angry with him, and have smitten him: I hid mee, and was angry, yet he went away, and turned after the way of his owne heart.

18 I have seene his wayes, and will u heale him: I will leade him also, and restore comfort unto him, and to those that lament him.

19 I create the x fruit of the lips, to be peace: peace unto them that are y farre off, and to them that are neere, sayth the Lord: for I will heale him.

20 But the wicked are like the raging sea, that can z not rest, whose waters cast up myre and dirt.

21 There is no peace, sayth my God, to the wicked.

n Broken promise with me.

o Meaning, that the wicked abuse Gods lenitie, and grow to further wickednesse.

p That is, by naughtinesse, idolatries, and impieties which the wicked call Gods service: thus he derideth their obstinacie.

q Meaning, the Assyrians and others whose helpe they looked for.

r God shall say to Darius and Cyrus.

f I will not use my power against frail man, whose life is but a blast.

t That is, for the vices and faults of the people, which is meant here by covetousnesse.

u Though they were obstinate, yet I did not withdraw my mercy from them.

x That is, I frame the speach and words of my messengers which shall bring peace.

y As well to him that is in captivitie as to him that remaineth at home.

z Their evill conscience doth ever torment them, and therefore they can never have rest, Reade Chap. 48, 22.

CHAP. LVIII.

1 The Office of Gods ministers. 2 The workes of the hypocrites. 6 The fast of the faithfull. 13 Of the true Sabbath.

CRie a aloude, spare not: lift up thy voyce like a trumpet, and shew my people their transgression, and to the house of Iaakob their sinnes.

2 Yet they b seeke mee daily, and will know my waies, even as a nation that did righteously, and had not forsaken the statutes of their God: they aske of me the ordinances of iustice: they will draw neere unto God, saying,

3 c Wherefore have we fasted, and thou seest it not? we have punished our selves, and thou regardest it not. Beholde, in the day of your fast you will seeke d your will, and require all your debts.

4 Behold, ye fast to strife and debate, and to smite with the fist of wickednesse: ye shall not fast as yee doe to day, to make your voyce to be e heard above.

5 Is it such a fast that I have chosen, that a man should afflict his soule for a day, and to bowe a The Lord thus speaketh to the Prophet, willing him to use all diligence and severitie to rebuke the hypocrites.

b They will seeme to worship me and have outward holinesse.

c He setteth forth the malice and disdaine of the hypocrites, which grudge against God, if their workes be not accepted.

d Thus he convinceth the hypocrites by the second table, and by their duety toward their neighbour, that they have neither faith nor e So long as you use contention and oppression, your fasting and prayers shall not be heard.

downe his head, as a bul-rush, and to lie downe in sackecloath and ashes? wilt thou call this a fasting, or an acceptable day to the Lord?

6 Is not this the fasting that I have chosen? to loose the bands of wickednesse, to take off the heavy burdens, and to let the oppressed goe free, and that ye breake every f yoke?

f That you leave off all your extortions.

7 Is it not to deale thy bread to the hungry, and that thou bring the poore that wander, unto thine house? when thou seest the naked, that thou cover him, and hide not thy selfe from g thine owne flesh?

g For in him thou seest thy selfe as in a glasse.

8 Then shall thy h light breake foorth as the morning, and thine health shall grow speedily: thy i righteousnes shall goe before thee, and the glory of the Lord shall embrace thee.

h That is, the prosperous estate wherewith God will blesse thee.

i The Testimony of thy goodnesse shall appeare before God and man.

9 Then shalt thou call, and the Lord shall answere: thou shalt cry, and he shall say, Here I am: if thou take away from the mids of thee the yoke, the putting foorth of the k finger, and wicked speaking:

k Whereby is meant all maner of iniurie.

10 If thou l powre out thy soule to the hungry, and refresh the troubled soule: then shall thy light spring out in the m darknesse, and thy darknesse shalbe as the noone day.

l That is, have compassion on their miseries.

m Thine adversitie shalbe turned into prosperity.

11 And the Lord shall guide thee continually, and satisfie thy soule in drought, and make fat thy bones, and thou shalt be like a watered garden, and like a spring of water, whose waters faile not.

n Signifying that of the Iewes should come such as should build againe the ruines of Ierusalem and Iudea: but chiefly this is meant of the spirituall Ierusalem, whose builders were the Apostles.

12 And they shall be of thee, that shall build the olde n waste places: thou shalt raise up the foundations for many generations, and thou shalt be called the repairer of the breach, and the restorer of the paths to dwell in.

o If thou refraine thy selfe from thy wicked works.

13 If thou o turne away thy foote from the Sabbath, from doing thy will on mine Holy day, and call the Sabbath a delight to consecrate it, as glorious to the Lord, and shalt honour him, not doing thine owne wayes, nor seeking thine owne will, nor speaking a vaine word,

14 Then shalt thou delight in the Lord, and I will cause thee to mount upon the high places of the earth, and feed thee with the heritage of Iaakob thy father: for the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it.

CHAP. LIX.

1 The wicked perish through their owne iniquities. 12 The confession of sinnes. 16 God alone will preserve his Church though all men faile.

BEhold, * the Lords hand is not shortened, that it cannot save: neither is his eare heavie, that it cannot heare.

* Num. 11,23. chap. 50,2.

2 But * your iniquities have separated betweene you and your God, and your sinnes have hid his face from you, that he will not heare.

* Ierem. 5,25.

3 For your handes are defiled with a blood, and your fingers with iniquitie: your lips have spoken lies, and your tongue hath murmured iniquitie.

a Reade Chap. 1,15.

4 No man calleth for iustice: no man b contendeth for trueth: they trust in vanity, and speake vaine things: they conceive mischiefe, and c bring forth iniquitie.

b All men winke at the iniuries and oppressions, and none go about to remedie them.

c According to their wicked devices, they hurt their neighbours.

5 They hatch cockatrice d egges, and weave the spiders e web: hee that eateth of their egges, died, and that which is trode upon, breaketh out into a serpent.

d Whatsoever commeth from them is poyson, and bringeth death.

6 Their webs shall be no garment, neither shall they cover themselves with their labors: for their workes are workes of iniquities, and the worke of crueltie is in their hands,

e They are profitable to no purpose.

7 Their feete turne to evill, and they make haste to shed innocent blood: their thoughts are wicked thoughts: desolation and destruction is in their paths.

8 The way of peace they know not, and there is none equitie in their goings: they have made them crooked paths: whosoever goeth therein, shall not know peace.

9 Therefore is f iudgement farre from us, neither doeth g iustice come neere unto us: we wait for light, but lo, it is darknesse: for brightnes, but we walke in darknesse.

f That is, Gods vengeance to punish our enemies.

g Gods protection to defend us.

10 We grope for the wall like the h blind, and we grope as one without eyes: we stumble at the noone day as in the twilight: vve are in solitary places, as dead men.

h We are altogether destitute of counsell, and can finde no end of our miseries.

11 We roare all like i beares, and mourne like doves: we looke for equitie, but there is none: for health, but it is farre from us.

i We expresse our sorowes by outward signes, some more, some lesse.

12 For our trespasses are many before thee, and our k sinnes testifie against us: for our trespasses are with us, and we know our iniquities.

k This confession is generall to the Church, to obtaine remission of sinnes, and the Prophets did not exempt themselves from the same.

13 In trespassing and lying against the Lord, and we have departed away from our God, and have spoken of cruelty and rebellion, conceiving and uttering out of the heart l false matters.

l To wit, against our neighbours.

14 Therefore m iudgement is turned backeward, and iustice standeth farre off: for trueth is fallen in the street, and equity cannot enter.

m There is neither iustice, nor uprightnesse among men.

15 Yea, trueth faileth, and he that refraineth from evill, maketh himselfe n a pray: and when the Lord saw it, it displeased him, that there vvas no iudgement.

n The wicked will destroy him.

16 And when hee saw that there vvas no man, hee wondered that none would offer himselfe. o Therefore his arme did p save it, and his righteousnes it selfe did sustaine it.

o Meaning, to doe iustice, and to remedie the things that were so farre out of order.

p That is, his Church: or his arme did helpe it selfe, and did not seeke ayde of any other.

17 For he put on righteousnesse: as an habergion, and an q helmet of salvation upon his head, and hee put on the garments of vengeance for cloathing, and was clad with zeale as a cloke.

q Signifying, that God hath all meanes at hand to deliver his Church and to punish their enemies.

18 As to make recompence, as to require the furie of the adversaries vvith a recompence to his enemies: he will fully repayre the r ylands.

r To wit, your enemies, which dwell in divers places, and beyond the sea.

19 So shall they feare the Name of the Lord from the West, and his glory from the rising of the Sunne; for the enemy shall f come like a flood, but the Spirit of the Lord shall chase him away.

f He sheweth that there shalbe great affliction in the Church, but God will ever deliver his.

20 And the redeemer shall come unto Zion, and unto t them that turne from iniquitie in Iaakob, saith the Lord.

t Whereby hee declareth that the true deliverance from sinne and Satan belongeth to none, but to the children of God, whom he iustifieth.

21 And I will make this my Covenant with them, saith the Lord, My Spirit that is upon thee, and my words, which I have put in thy mouth, u shall not depart out of thy mouth, nor out of the mouth of thy seede, nor out of the mouth of the seed of thy seed, saith the Lord, from henceforth even for ever.

u Because the doctrine is made profitable by the vertue of the Spirit, he joyneth the one with the other, and promiseth to give them both to his Church forever.

CHAP. LX.

3 The Gentiles shall come to the knowledge of the Gospel. 8 They shall come to the Church in abundance. 16 They shall have abundance though they suffer for a time.

ARise, O Ierusalem; be bright, for thy a light is come, and the glory of the Lord is risen upon thee.

Lord ſhall ariſe upon thee, and his glory ſhall be ſeene upon thee.

3 And the Gentiles ſhall walke in c thy light, and Kings at the brightneſſe of thy riſing up.

4 Lift up thine eyes round about, and behold: all d theſe are gathered, and come to thee: thy ſonnes ſhall come from farre, and thy daughters ſhalbe nouriſhed at thy ſide.

5 Then thou ſhalt ſee and ſhine: thine heart ſhalbe aſtonied e and enlarged, becauſe the multitude of the ſea ſhall be converted unto thee, and the riches of the Gentiles ſhall come unto thee.

6 The f multitude of camels ſhall cover thee: and the dromedaries of Midian and of Ephah: all they of Sheba ſhall come: they ſhall bring golde and incenſe, and ſhew foorth the praiſes of the Lord.

7 All the ſheepe of g Kedar ſhall be gathered unto thee: the rams of Nebaioth ſhall ſerve thee: they ſhall come up to be accepted upon mine h altar: and I will beautifie the houſe of my glory.

8 Who are theſe i that flie like a cloude, and as the doves to their windowes?

9 Surely the yles ſhall wait for mee; and the ſhips k of Tarſhiſh, as at the beginning, that they may bring thy ſonnes from farre, and their ſilver and their gold with them unto the Name of the Lord thy God, and to the Holy one of Iſrael, becauſe he hath glorified thee.

10 And the ſonnes of ſtrangers ſhall build up thy walles, and their l Kings ſhall miniſter unto thee: for in my wrath I ſmote thee, but in my mercy I had compaſſion on thee.

11 Therefore thy gates ſhall be open continually: neither day nor night ſhall they be ſhut, that men may bring unto thee the riches of the Gentiles, and that their kings may be brought.

12 For the nation and the m kingdome, that will not ſerve thee, ſhall periſh: and thoſe nations ſhalbe utterly deſtroyed.

13 The n glory of Lebanon ſhall come unto thee, the firre-tree, the elme and the boxe-tree together to beautifie the place of my Sanctuary: for I will glorifie the pl ce of my o feet.

14 The ſonnes alſo of them that afflicted thee, ſhall come and bowe unto thee: and all they that deſpiſed thee, ſhall fall p downe at the ſoles of thy feete: and they ſhall call thee, The citie of the Lord Zion of the Holy one of Iſrael.

15 Whereas thou haſt bene forſaken and hated, ſo that no man went by thee, I will make thee an eternall glory, and a ioy from generation to generation.

16 Thou ſhalt alſo ſucke the milke of the Gentiles, and ſhalt ſucke the q breaſts of Kings: and thou ſhalt know, that I the Lord am thy Saviour, and thy Redeemer, the mightie one of Iaakob.

17 For braſſe will I bring gold, and for yron will I bring ſilver, and for wood braſſe, and for ſtones yron. I will alſo made thy governement r peace, and thine exactours righteouſneſſe.

18 Violence ſhall no more be heard of in thy land, neither deſolation, nor deſtruction within thy borders: but thou ſhalt ſ call ſalvation, thy walles, and praiſe, thy gates.

21 Thy people alſo ſhalbe all righteous: they ſhall poſſeſſe the land for ever, the u graffe of my planting ſhall be the worke of mine hands, that I may be glorified.

4 And they ſhall build the old waſte places, and raiſe up the former deſolations, and they ſhall repaire the cities that were deſolate and waſte through many h generations.

CHAP. LXII.

1 The great desire that the Prophets have had for Christs comming, 6 The diligence of the Pastours to preach.

FOr Zions sake I will not, holde my tongue, and for Ierusalems sake I will not rest, untill the righteousnesse thereof breake foorth as the [b] light, and salvation thereof as a burning lampe.

2 And the Gentiles shall see thy righteousnes, and all Kings thy glory: and thou shalt be called by [c] a new name, which the mouth of the Lord shall name.

3 Thou shalt also be a [d] crowne of glory in the hand of the Lord, and a royall diademe in the hand of thy God.

4 It shall no more be said unto thee, [e] Forsaken, neither shall it be said any more to thy land, Desolate, but thou shalt be called ‖ Hephzi-bah, and thy land ‖ Beulah: for the Lord delighteth in thee, and thy land shall have an [f] husband.

5 For a, a young man marieth a virgin, so shall thy sonnes [g] marry thee: and as a bridegrome is glad of the bride, so shall thy God reioyce over thee.

6 I have set [h] watchmen upon thy walles, O Ierusalem, which all the day and all the night continuall shall not cease: [i] yee that are mindfull of the Lord, keepe not silence,

7 And give him no rest, till he repaire, and untill he set up Ierusalem the [k] praise of the world.

8 The Lord hath sworne by his right hand and by his strong arme, Surely I will no more give thy corne to be meat for thine enemies, and surely the sonnes of the strangers shall not drinke thy wine, for the which thou hast laboured.

9 But they that have gathered it, shall eat it, and praise the Lord, and the gatherers thereof shall drinke it in the courts of my Sanctuary.

10 [l] Goe through, goe through the gates: prepare you the way for the people: cast up, cast up the way, and gather out the stones, and set up a standart for the people.

11 Beholde, the Lord hath proclaimed unto the ends of the world, [m] tell the daughter Zion, Behold, thy Saviour commeth: Behold, his wages is with him, and [n] his worke is before him.

12 And they shall call them, The holy people, the redeemer of the Lord, and thou shalt be named, A [o] citie sought out and not forsaken.

a The Prophet saith that he will never cease to declare unto the people the good tidings of their deliverance.
b Till they have full deliverance: and this the Prophet speaketh to encourage all other ministers to the setting foorth of Gods mercies toward his Church.

CHAP LXIII.

1 God shall destroy his enemies for his Churches sake. 7 Gods benefits toward his Church.

WHo is this that commeth [a] from Edom, with red garments from Bozrah? hee is glorious in his apparell, and walketh in his great strength. [b] I speake in righteousnes, and am mighty to save.

2 [c] Wherefore is thine apparell red, and thy garments like him that treadeth in the wine presse?

3 I have troden the wine-presse alone, and of all people there was none with me: for I will tread them in mine anger, and tread them under foote in my wrath, and their blood shall be sprinkled upon my garments, and I will staine all my raiment.

4 For the day of vengeance is in mine heart, and the [d] yeere of my redeemer is come.

5 And I looked, and there was none to helpe, and I wondered that there was none to uphold: therefore mine owne [e] arme helped mee, and my wrath it selfe susteined me.

6 Therefore I will tread downe the people in my wrath, and make them [f] drunken in mine indignation, and will bring downe their strength to the earth.

7 I will [g] remember the mercie of the Lord, and the prayses of the Lord, according unto all that the Lord hath given us, and for the great goodnesse toward the house of Israel, which hee hath given them according to his tender love, and according to his great mercies.

8 For hee said, Surely they are my [h] people, children that will not lie: So hee was their Saviour.

9 In all their troubles hee was [i] troubled, and the Angel [k] of his presence saved them: in his love and in his mercie he redeemed them, and hee bare them and caried them alwayes continually.

10 But they rebelled and vexed his holy Spirit: therefore was he turned to be their enemie, and he fought against them.

11 Then he [l] remembred the old time of Moses and his people, saying, Where is hee that brought them up out of the sea with the [m] shepheard of his sheepe? Where is hee that put his holy Spirit within [n] him?

12 He led them by the right hand of Moses with his owne glorious arme, dividing the water before them, to make himselfe an everlasting Name.

13 Hee ledde them through the deepe, as an [o] horse in the wildernesse, that they should not stumble.

14 As the beast goeth downe into the valley, the Spirit of the Lord gave them rest: so diddest thou leade thy people, to make thy selfe a glorious Name.

15 [p] Looke downe from heaven, and behold from the dwelling place of thine holinesse, and of thy glory, Where is thy [q] zeale and thy strength, the multitude of thy mercies, and of thy compassion? they are restrained from [r] me.

16 Doubtlesse thou art our Father: though [s] Abraham be ignorant of us, and Israel know us not, yet thou, O Lord, art our Father, and our redeemer: thy Name is for ever.

17 O Lord, why hast [t] thou made us to erre from thy wayes? and hardened our heart from thy feare? Returne for thy [u] servants sake, and for the tribes of thine inheritance.

18 The people of thine holinesse have pos-a This prophecie is against the Idumeans and enemies which persecuted the Church, on whom God will take vengeance, and is here set forth all bloody after that he hath destroyed them in Bozrah, the chiefe citie of the Idumeans: for these were their greatest enemies, and under the title of circumcision and the kindred of Abraham, claimed to themselves the chiefe religion, and hateth the true worshippers, Psal. 137, 7.

b God answereth them that asked this question, Who is this? &c. and saith, Yee see now performed indeed the vengeance which my Prophets threamed.
c Another question, to the which the Lord answereth.
d Shewing that when God punisheth his enemies, it is for the profite and deliverance of his Church.
e God sheweth that he hath no needs of mans helpe for the deliverance of his, and though men refuse to do their duties through negligence and ingratitude, yet he himselfe will deliver his Church, and punish the enemies, reade Chap. 59, 16.
f I will so astonish them and make them so giddy, that they shall not know which way to goe.
g The Prophet speaketh this to moove the people to remember Gods benefits in times past, that they may be confirmed in their troubles.
h For I did chuse them to be mine, that they should be holy, and not deceive mine expectation.
i He bare their afflictions and griefes as though they had beene his owne.
k Which was a witnesse of Gods presence, and this may be referred to Christ in whom belongeth the office of Salvation.
l That is, the people of Israel, being afflicted, called to remembrance Gods benefits, which he had bestowed upon their fathers in times past.
m Meaning, Moses.
n That is, in Moses that he might well governe the people: some referre this giving of the spirit to the people.
o Peaceable and gentle, as an horse is led to his pasture.
p Having declared Gods benefits shewed to their forefathers, he turned himselfe to God by prayer, desiring him to continue the same graces toward them.
q Thy great affection, which thou bearest towards us.
r Meaning, from the whole body of the Church.
s Though Abraham would refuse us to be his children, yet thou wilt not refuse to be our father.
t By taking away the holy Spirit from us, by whom wee were governed: and so for our ingratitude diddest deliver us up to our owne concupiscence, and did'st punish sinne by sinne according to thy iust iudgement.
u Meaning, for the Covenants sake made to Abraham, Izhak, and Iaakobhis servants.

x That is, in respect of the promise, which is perpetuall: albeit they had now possessed the land of Canaan, a thousand and foure hundreth yeeres: and thus they lament, to moove God rather to remember his Covenant, then to punish their sinnes.

sed it, but a little x while: for our adversaries have troden downe thy Sanctuarie.

19 We have bene as they, over whom thou never baredst rule, and upon whome thy name was not called.

CHAP. LXIIII.

1 The Prophet prayeth for the sinnes of the people. 6 Mans righteousnesse is like a filthy cloath.

a The Prophet continueth his prayer, desiring God to declare his Church by miracles, and mighty power, as he did in mount Sinai.
b Meaning, the raine, haile, fire, thunder, and lightnings.
c S. Paul useth the same kinde of admiration, 1. Cor. 2.9. marveiling at Gods great benefite shewed to his Church, by the preaching of the Gospel.
d Thou shewedst favour toward our fathers, when they trusted in thee, and walked after thy Commandements.
e They confidered thy great mercies.
f That is, in thy mercies, which he calleth the wayes of the Lord.
g Thou wilt have pitie upon us.
h We are justly punished and brought into captivitie, because we have provoked thee to anger, and though we would excuse our selves, yet our righteousnes, and best vertues are before thee as vile clouts or (as some reade) like the menstruous cloathes of a woman.

OH, that thou wouldest a breake the heavens, and come downe, and that the mountaines might melt at thy presence!

2 As the melting fire burned, as the fire caused b the waters to boile, (that thou mightest declare thy Name to thine adversaries) the people did tremble at thy presence.

3 When thou diddest terrible things, which we looked not for, thou camest downe, and the mountaines melted at thy presence.

4 For since the beginning of the world, they have not c heard nor understood with the eare, neither hath the eye seene another God beside thee, which doth so to him that waiteth for him.

5 Thou diddest meet him, d that rejoyced in thee, and did justly: they remembred thee in thy e waies: behold, thou art angry, for we have sinned, yet in f them is continuance, and we g shall be saved.

6 But we have all beene as an uncleane thing, and all our h righteousnes is as filthy cloutes, and we all doe fade like a leafe, and our iniquities like the winde have taken us away.

7 And there is none that calleth upon thy Name, neither that stirreth up himselfe to take hold of thee: for thou hast hid thy face from us, and had consumed us because of our iniquities.

8 But now, O Lord, thou art our Father: we are the i clay, and thou art our potter, and we all are the worke of thine hands.

9 Be not angry, O Lord, k above measure, neither remember iniquitie for ever: Loe, we beseech thee, behold, we are all thy people.

10 l Thine holy cities lie waste: Zion is a wilderness, and Ierusalem a desert.

11 The house of our Sanctuarie, and of our glory, m where our fathers praised thee, is burnt up with fire, and all our pleasant things are wasted.

12 Wilt thou holde thy selfe still n at these things, O Lord? wilt thou holde thy peace and afflict us above measure?

i Albeit, O Lord, by thy iust iudgement thou mayest utterly destroy us as the potters may his pot, yet we appeale to thy mercies, whereby it hath pleased thee to adopte us to be thy children. k For so the flesh iudgeth when God doeth not immediately send succour. l Which were dedicated to thy service, and to call upon thy Name. m Wherein wee rejoyced and worshipped thee. n That is, at the contempt of thine owne glorie? though our sinnes have deserved this, yet thou wilt not suffer thy glory thus to be diminished.

CHAP. LXV.

1 The vocation of the Gentiles, and the reiection of the Iewes. 13 The ioy of the elect, and the punishment of the wicked.

a Meaning, the Gentiles which knew not God, should seeke after him, when he had mooved their hearts with his holy Spirit, Rom. 10.20.
b He sheweth the cause of the reiection of the Iewes, because they would not obey him for any admonitions of his Prophets, by whom he called them continually and stretched out his hand to draw them.

I have beene sought of them that a asked not: I was found of them that sought mee not: I sayd, Behold me, behold mee, unto a nation that called not upon my Name.

2 I have b spread out mine handes all the day unto a rebellious people, which walked in a way that was not good, even after their owne c imaginations.

3 A people that provoked mee ever unto my face: that sacrificeth in d gardens, and burneth incense upon e bricks.

4 Which remaine among the f graves, and lodge in the deserts, which eate g swines flesh, and the broth of things pulluted are in their vessels.

5 Which say, h Stand apart, come not neere to me; for I am holier then thou; these are a smoake in my wrath, and a fire that i burneth all the day.

6 Behold, it is k written before me, I will not keepe silence, but will render it and recompense it into their bosome.

7 Your iniquities, and the iniquities of your fathers, shall be l together (saith the Lord) which have burnt incense upon the mountaines, and blasphemed me upon the hilles; therefore will I measure their old worke into their bosome.

8 Thus saith the Lord, As the wine is found in the cluster, and one saith, Destroy it not, for a m blessing is in it, so will I doe for my servants sakes, that I may not destroy them whole.

9 But I will bring a seede out of Iaakob, and out of Iudah that shall inherite my mountaine; and mine elect shall inherite it, and my servants shall dwell there.

10 And n Sharon shallbe a sheepefold, and the valley of Achor shall be a resting place for the cattell of my people, that have sought me.

11 But ye are they that have forsaken the Lord, and forgotten mine holy Mountaine, and have prepared a table for the o multitude, and furnish the drinke offerings unto the number.

12 Therefore will I p number you to the sword, and all you shall bowe downe to the slaughter, because I called, and ye did not answere, I q spake, and ye heard not, but did evill in my sight, and did chuse that thing which I would not.

13 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, my servants shall r eat, and ye shallbe hungry; behold, my servants shall drinke, and ye shall be thirstie; behold, my servants shall rejoyce, and ye shall be ashamed.

14 Behold, my servant shall sing for ioy of heart, and yee shall crie for sorow of heart, and shall howle for vexation of minde.

15 And ye shall leave your name as a curse unto my f chosen; for the Lord God shall slay you, and call his servants by r another name.

16 He that shall bleesse in the u earth, shall bleesse himselfe in the true God; and he that sweareth in the earth, shall sweare by the true God; for the former x troubles are forgotten, and shall surely hide themselves from mine eyes.

17 For loe, I will create y new heavens and a new earth; and the former shall not be remembred nor come into minde.

18 But be you glad and rejoyce for ever in the things that I shall create; for behold, I will create Ierusalem, as a rejoycing, and her people as a ioy.

19 And I will rejoyce in Ierusalem, and ioy in my people, and the voyce of weeping shall be f To consult with spirits, and to conjure devils, which was forbidden, Deut. 18.11.

g Which was contrary to Gods Commandement, Levit. 11.7. deut. 14.8.
h He sheweth that hypocrisie is ever joyned with pride and contempt of others.
i Their punishment shall never have end.
k So that the remembrance thereof cannot be forgotten.
l Sallbe both punished togethers: and this declareth how the children are punished for their fathers faults, to wit, when the same faults or like are found in them.
m That is, it is profitable, meaning, that God will not destroy the faithfull branches of his vineyard, when he destroyeth the rotten stocks, that is, the hypocrites.

21 And they ſhall b build houſes, and inhabite them, and they ſhall plant vineyards, and eate the fruit of them.

22 They ſhall not build, and another inhabite: they ſhall not plant, and another eate: for as the dayes of the tree are the dayes of my people, and mine elect ſhall enioy in olde age the worke their hands.

23 They ſhall not labour in vaine, nor bring forth in feare: for they are the ſeede of the bleſſed of the Lord, and their buds with them.

24 Yea, before they call, I will anſwere, and whiles they ſpeake, I will heare.

25 The c wolfe and the lambe ſhall feede together, and the lion ſhall eate ſtraw like the bullocke: and to the ſerpent duſt ſhallbe his meate. They ſhall no more hurt nor deſtroy in all mine holy Mountaine, ſaith the Lord.

CHAP. LXVI.

1 God dwelleth not in Temples made with hands. 3 He deſpiſeth ſacrifices done without mercy and faith. 5 God comforteth them that are troubled for his ſake. 19 The vocation of the Gentiles. 23 The perpetuall Sabbath. 24 The puniſhment of the wicked is everlaſting.

THus ſayeth the Lord, * The a heaven is my throne, and the earth is my footeſtoole: where is that houſe that ye will build unto me? and where is that place of my reſt?

2 For all theſe things hath mine hand made, b and all theſe things have bene, ſaith the Lord: and to him will I looke, even to him that is poore, and of c a contrite ſpirit, and trembleth at my words.

3 He that killeth a bullocke, is as if he d ſlew a man: he that ſacrificeth a ſheepe, as if he cut off a dogges necke: he that offereth an oblation, as if he offered ſwines blood: he that remembreth incenſe as if he bleſſed an idole: yea, they have choſen their owne wayes, and their ſoule delighteth in their abominations.

4 Therefore will I e chuſe out their deluſions, and I will bring their feare upon them, becauſe I called and none would anſwere: I ſpeake, and they would not heare: but they did evill in my ſight, and choſe the things which I would not.

5 Heare the word of the Lord, all yee that tremble at his f word, Your brethren that hated you, and caſt you out for my Names ſake, ſaid, Let the Lord be glorified: but hee ſhall appeare to your ioy, and they ſhall be aſhamed.

6 g A voyce ſoundeth from the citie, even a voyce from the Temple, the voyce of the Lord, that recompenſeth his enemies fully.

7 Before h ſhe travailed, ſhe brought foorth: and before her paine came, ſhe was delivered of a manchilde.

8 Who hath heard ſuch a thing? who hath ſeene ſuch things? ſhall the earth be brought forth in one i day? or ſhall a nation be borne at once? for aſſoone as Zion traveiled, ſhe brought forth her children.

9 Shall I k cauſe to travell, and not bring foorth? ſhall I cauſe to bring foorth, and ſhalbe barren, ſaith thy God?

10 Reioyce ye with Ieruſalem, and be glad with her, all ye that love her: reioyce for ioy with her, all ye that mourne for her.

11 That ye may ſucke, l and be ſatisfied with the breaſts of her conſolation: that ye may milke out, and be delighted with the brightneſſe of her glory.

12 For thus ſaith the Lord, behold, I will extend m peace over her like a flood, and the glory of the n Gentiles like a flowing ſtreame: then ſhall ye ſucke, ye ſhall be o borne upon her ſides, and be ioyfull upon her knees.

13 As one whom his mother comforteth, ſo will I comforth you, and ye ſhall comforted in Ieruſalem.

14 And when ye ſee this, your hearts ſhall reioyce, and your p bones ſhall flouriſh like an herbe: and the hand of the Lord ſhall be knowen among his ſervants, and his indignation againſt his enemies.

15 For behold, the Lord will come with fire, and his charets like a whirlewinde, that he may q recompenſe his anger with wrath, and his indignation with the flame of fire.

16 For the Lord will iudge with fire, and with his ſword all fleſh, and the ſlame of the Lord ſhall be many,

20 And they ſhall bring all your f brethren for an offering unto the Lord out of all nations, upon g horſes, and in charets, and in horſelitters, and upon mules, and ſwift beaſts, to Ieruſalem mine holy Mountaine, ſaith the Lord, as the children of Iſrael offer in a cleane veſſell in the Houſe of the Lord.

21 And I will take of them for h Prieſts, and for Levites, ſaith the Lord.

e I will diſcover their wickednes and hypocriſie, wherewith they thinke to blind mine eyes, to all the world.

Marke 9.44. m This is the iust recompense for the wicked, which contemning God and his word, shall be by Gods iust iudgement abhorred of all his creatures.

IEREMIAH.

THE ARGUMENT.

THe Prophet Ieremiah borne in the citie of Anathoth in the countrey of Beniamin, vvas the sonne of Hilkiah, vvhom some thinke to be he that found out the booke of the Lavv, and gave it to Iosiah. This Prophet had excellent gifts of God, and most evident revelations of prophecie, so that by the commandement of the Lord he beganne very yong, to prophecie, that is, in the thirteeneth yeere of Iosiah, and continued eightеene yeere vnder the sayd King, and three moneths vnder Iehoahaz, and vnder Iehoiakim eleven yeeres, and three monethe vnder Iehoiachin, and vnder Zedekiah eleven yeeres, unto the time that they vvere caried avvay into Babylon. So that this time amounteth to above fourtie yeere besides the time that he prophecied after the captivitie. In this booke hee declareth vvith teares, and lamentation, the destruction of Ierusalem, and the captivitie of the people, for their idolatrie, covetousnesse, subtilties, crueltie, excesse, rebellion and contempt of Gods vvord, and for the consolation of the Church revealeth the iust time of their deliverance. And here chiefly are to be considered three things. First the rebellion of the vvicked, vvhich, vvaxe more stubborne and obstinate, vvhen the Prophets doe admonish them most plainely of their destruction. Next how the Prophets and Ministers of God ought not to be discouraged in their vocation, though they be persecuted and rigorously handled of the vvicked, for Gods cause. And thirdly though God shevv his iust iudgement against the vvicked, yet vvill hee ever shevv himselfe a preserver of his Church, and vvhen all meanes seeme to mans iudgement to be abolished, then vvill he declare himselfe victorious in preserving his.

CHAP. I.

1 In what time Ieremiah prophecied. 6 Hee acknowledgeth his imperfection, and is strengthened of the Lord. 11 The Lord sheweth him the destruction of Ierusalem. 17 He commandeth him to preach his word without feare.

a That is, the sermons and prophecies.

THe words of Ieremiah the sonne of b Hilkiah one of the Priests that were at c Anathoth in the land of Beniamin.

b which is though to be the booke of the Lavv vnder king Iosiah, 2. King. 22, 8.

c This was a citie about three miles distant from Ierusalem, and belonged to the Priests, the sonnes of Aaron. Iosh. 21, 18.

2 To whom the d word of the Lord came in the dayes of Iosiah the sonne of Amon king of Iudah in the thirteenth yeere of his reigne:

d This is spoken to confirme his vocation and office, forasmuch as he did not presume of himselfe to preach and prophecie, but was called thereunto by God.

3 And also in the dayes of Iehoiakim the e sonne of Iosiah king of Iudah unto the end of the eleventh yeere of Zedekia, the sonne of Iosiah king of Iudah, even unto the carying away of Ierusalem captive in the fifth f moneth.

e Meaning the new hevv of Iosiah: for Iehoahaz was his father, who reigned but three moneths and therefore is not mentioned, no more is Ioachin that reigned no longer.

f Of the eleventh yeere of Zedekiah, who was also called Mattaniah, and at this time the Iewes were caried away into Babyloo by Nebuchadnezzar.

4 Then the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

5 Before I g formed thee in the wombe, I knew thee, and before thou camest out of the wombe, I sanctified thee, and ordeined thee to be a Prophet unto the h nations.

g The scripture vseth this maner of speech, to declare that God hath appointed his ministers to their offices before they were borne, as Isa. 49, 1. Gal. 1, 15.

h For Ieremiah did not onely prophecie against the Iewes, but also against the Egyptians, Babylonians, Moabites, and other nations.

6 Then sayd I, i Oh, Lord God, behold, I can not speake, for I am a childe.

i Considering the great iudgements of God, vvhich according to his threatning should come upon the world, hee was mooved with a certaine compassion on the one side to pitie them that should thus perish, and on the other side by the infirmitie of mans nature, knowing how heard a thing it was to enterprise such a charge, as Isa. 6, 11. Exod. 3, 11. and 4, 11.

7 But the Lord sayd unto me, Say not, I am a childe: for thou shalt goe to all that I shall send thee, and whatsoever I command thee shalt thou speake.

8 Be not afraid of their faces; for I am with thee to deliver thee, saith the Lord.

k which declared that God maketh them meete, and assureth them, whom he calleth to set forth his glory: giving them all meanes necessary for the same. Exod. 4, 12. Isa. 6, 7.

9 Then the Lord stretched out his hand, and k touched my mouth, and the Lord sayd unto me, Behold, I have put my words in thy mouth.

10 Beholde, this day have I set thee over the l nations, and over the kingdomes, to plucke up, and to roote out, and to destroy, and throw downe, to build, and to plant.

l Heer sheweth what is the authoritie of Gods true ministers, which by his word have power to beare downe whatsoever lifteth it selfe up against God: and to plant and assure the humble, and such as give themselves to the obedience of Gods word. 2. Corinth. 10, 4. Hebr. 4, 12. and these are the keyes which Christ hath left to loose, and binde. Mat. 18, 18.

11 After this the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying, Ieremiah, what seest thou? And I sayd, I see a m rod of almond tree.

m He toyneth the signe with the word, for a more ample confirmation: figuifying by the rod of the Almond tree, which first budded, the hastie comming of the Babylonians against the Iewes.

12 Then sayd the Lord unto mee, Thou hast seene aright: for I will hasten my word to performe it.

13 Againe the word of the Lord came unto me the second time, saying, What seest thou? And I sayd, I see a seething n pot looking out of the North.

n Signifying, that the Caldeans, and Assyrians should be as a pot to seethe the Iewes which boiled in their pleasures and lust.

14 Then sayd the Lord unto me, Out of the o North shall a plague be spread upon all the inhabitants of the land.

o Syria and Assyria were Northward in respect of Ierusalem, which were the Caldeans dominion.

15 For loe, I will call all the families of the kingdomes of the North, saith the Lord, and they shall come, and every one shall set this throne in the entring of the gates of Ierusalem, and on all the walles thereof round about, and in all the cities of Iudah.

p I will give them charge and power to execute my vengeance against the idolaters which have forsaken me for their idoles.

16 And I will declare unto them my p iudgements touching all the wickednesse of them that have forsaken mee, and have burnt incense unto other gods, and worshipped the workes of their owne hands.

17 Thou therefore trusse up thy loynes, and raise and speake unto them all that I command thee:

thee: be not afraid of their faces, leaſt I q deſtroy thee before them.

18 For I, behold, I this day have made thee a defenced citie, and an r yron pillar and walles of braſſe againſt the whole land, againſt the Kings of Iudah, and againſt the Princes thereof, againſt the Prieſts thereof, and againſt the people of the land.

19 For they ſhall fight againſt thee, but they ſhall not prevaile againſt thee: for I am with thee to deliver thee, ſayth the Lord.

q Which declareth that Gods vengeance is prepared againſt them, which dare not execute their duety faithfully, either for feare of man, of for any other cauſe, 1. Cor. 9.16.

r Signifying on the one part, that the more that Satan and the world rage againſt Gods Miniſters, the more preſent will he be to helpe them, Ioſh. 1.5. heb. 13.5. and on the other part, that they are vtterly vnmeete to ſerve God in his Church, which are afraid and doe not reſiſt wickedneſſe, whatſoever danger depend thereon, Iſa. 50.7. Ezek. 3.8.

CHAP. II.

2 God rehearſeth his benefits done vnto the Iewes. 9 Againſt the prieſts and falſe prophets. 12 The Iewes are deſtroyed becauſe they forſake God.

MOreover the worde of the Lord came vnto me, ſaying,

2 Goe and cry in the eares of Ieruſalem, ſaying, Thus ſayth the Lord; I remember thee, with the a kindneſſe of thy youth and the love of thy marriage, when thou wenteſt after me in the wildernes b in a land that was not ſowen.

3 Iſrael was as a thing c hallowed vnto the Lord, and his firſt fruits: all they d that eate it, ſhall offend: evill ſhall come vpon them, ſaith the Lord.

4 Heare ye the word of the Lord, O houſe of Iaakob, and all the families of the houſe of Iſrael,

5 Thus ſayth the Lord, What iniquitie have your fathers found in mee, that they are gone e farre from me, and have walked after vanitie, and are become f vaine?

6 For they ſayd not, Where is the Lord that brought vs vp out of the land of Egypt, that led vs through the wilderneſſe, through a deſert, and waſte land, through a drie land and by g the ſhadow of death, by a land that no man paſſed through, and where no man dwelt?

7 And I brought you into a plentifull countrey, to eat the fruit thereof, and the commodities of the ſame: but when ye entred, yee defiled h my land, and made mine heritage an abomination.

8 The Prieſts ſaid not, i Where is the Lord? and they that ſhould miniſter the k Law, knewe me not: the l paſtours alſo offended againſt mee, and the prophets prophecied in m Baal, and went after things that did not profite.

9 Wherefore I will yet n plead with you, ſaith the Lord, and I will plead with your childrens children.

10 For go ye to the yles of o Chittim, and behold, and ſend vnto p Kedar, and take diligent heed, and ſee whether there be ſuch things.

11 Hath any nation changed their gods, which yet are no gods? but my people have changed their q glory, for that which doeth not r profite.

12 O yee ſ heavens, be aſtonied at this: be afraid and vtterly confounded, ſayth the Lord.

13 For my people have committed two evils: they have forſaken mee, the fountaine of living waters, to digge them pits, even broken pits that can holde no water.

14 Is Iſrael a t ſervant, or is hee borne in the houſe? why then is he ſpoiled?

15 The u Lions roared vpon him and yelled, and they have made his land waſte: his cities are burnt without x an inhabitant.

16 Alſo the children of y Noph and Tahapanes have z broken thine head.

17 Haſt not thou procured this vnto thy ſelfe, becauſe thou haſt forſaken the Lord thy God, when he a led thee by the way?

18 And what haſt thou now to doe in the way of b Egypt? to drinke the water of Nilus? or what makeſt thou in the way of Aſſhur? to drinke the water of the c River?

19 Thine owne wickednes ſhall d correct thee, and thy turnings backe ſhall reproove thee: know therefore and behold, that it is an evill thing, and bitter, that thou haſt forſaken the Lord thy God, and that my feare is not in thee, ſaith the Lord God of hoaſtes.

20 For of old time I have broken thy yoke, and burſt thy bonds, and thou ſaiddeſt, e I will no more tranſgreſſe, but like an harlot thou runneſt about vpon all hie hils, and vnder all greene trees.

21 Yet I had planted thee a noble vine, whoſe f plants were all naturall: how then art thou turned vnto me into the plants of a ſtrange vine?

22 Though thou waſh thee with g nitre, and take thee much ſope, yet thine iniquitie is marked before me, ſaith the Lord God.

23 How canſt thou ſay, I am not polluted, neither have I h followed Baalim? behold thy wayes in the valley, and know what thou haſt done: thou art like a ſwift i dromedarie, that runneth by his wayes.

24 And as a wilde k aſſe vſed to the wildernes that ſnuffeth vp the winde by occaſion at her pleaſure: who can turne her backe? all they that ſeeke her, will not wearie themſelves, but will finde her in her l moneth.

25 Keepe thou thy feet from m bareneſſe, and thy throat from thirſt: but thou ſaiddſt deſperately, No, for I have loved ſtrangers, and them will I follow.

26 As the n theefe is aſhamed when he is found, ſo is the houſe of Iſrael aſhamed, they, their kings, their princes and their prieſts, and their prophets.

27 Saying to a tree, Thou art my o father, and to a ſtone, Thou haſt begotten me; for they have turned their backe vnto me, and not their face: but in the time of their trouble they will ſay, Ariſe and helpe vs.

28 But where are thy gods, that thou haſt made thee? let them arise, if they can helpe thee t Signifying, that when men forſake Gods word, which is the fountaine of life, they reiect God himſelfe, and ſo fall to their owne inventions, and vaine confidence, and procure to themſelves deſtruction, Ioua. 2.8. zecha. 10.2.

CHAP. III.

God calleth his people vnto repentance. 14 He promiseth the restitution of his Church. 20 He reproueth Iudah and Israel, comparing them to a woman disobedient to her husband.

a THey a say, If a man put away his wife, and shee goe from him, and become another mans, shall hee returne againe vnto her? shall not this land b be polluted? but thou hast played the harlot with many c louers: yet d turne againe to me, saith the Lord.

2 Lift vp thine eyes vnto the high places, and behold, where thou hast not played the harlot: thou hast sit waiting for them in the wayes, as the e Arabian in the wildernesse: and thou hast polluted the land with thy whoredoms, and with thy malice.

3 Therefore the showres have bene restrained, and the f latter raine came not, and thou haddest a g whores forehead: thou wouldst not be ashamed.

4 Diddest thou not still cry h vnto me, Thou art my father, and the guide of my youth?

5 Will he keepe his anger for ever? will hee reserve it to the end? thus hast thou spoken, but thou doest evill, euen more and more.

6 The Lord said also vnto me, in the dayes of Iosiah the King, Hast thou seene what this rebell i Israel hath done? for shee hath gone vp vpon every hie mountaine, and vnder every greene tree, and there played the harlot.

7 And I sayde, when shee had done all this, Turne thou vnto me: but she returned not, as her rebellious sister Iudah saw.

g Thou wouldest neuer be ashamed of thine actes and repent: and this impudencie is common to idolaters, which will not giue ouer, though they be neuer so manifestly conuicted.

h He sheweth that the wicked in their miseries will cry vnto God and vse outward prayer as the godly doe, but because they turne not from their euill, they are not heard, Isa. 58, 3, 4.

i Meaning, the ten tribes.

8 When I saw, how that by all occasions rebellious Israel had played the harlot, I cast k her away, and gaue her a bill of diuorcement: yet her rebellious sister Iudah was not afrayd, but shee went also and played the harlot.

9 So that for the l lightnes of her whoredome she hath euen defiled the land: for she hath committed fornication with stones and stockes.

10 Neuertheless for all this, her rebellious sister Iudah hath not returned vnto mee with m her whole heart, but fainedly, saith the Lord.

11 And the Lord said vnto mee, The rebellious Israel hath n iustified her selfe more then the rebellious Iudah.

12 Goe and cry these words toward o the North, and say, Thou disobedient Israel, returne, saith the Lord, and I will not let my wrath fall vpon you: for I am mercifull, saith the Lord, and I will not alway keepe mine anger.

13 But know thine iniquitie: for thou hast rebelled against the Lord thy God, and hast p scattered thy wayes to the strange gods vnder every greene tree, but yee would not obey my voyce, saith the Lord.

14 O yee disobedient children, turne againe, saith the Lord, for I am your Lord, and I will take you one of a citie, and two of a tribe, and will bring you to Zion,

15 And I will give you pastours according to mine heart, which shall feed you with knowledge and vnderstanding.

16 Moreover, when yee be increased and multiplied in the land, in those dayes, saith the Lord, they shall say no more, The q Arke of the covenant of the Lord: for it shall come no more to minde, neither shall they remember it, neither shall they visite it, for that shall be no more done.

17 At that time they shall call Ierusalem, r The throne of the Lord, and all the nations shall be gathered vnto it, even to the Name of the Lord in Ierusalem: and thencefoorth they shall followe no more the hardnesse of their wicked heart.

18 In those dayes the house of Iudah shall walke with the house of Israel, and they shall come together out of the land of the s North, into the land that I haue given for an inheritance vnto your fathers.

19 But I said, How did I take thee for children, and give thee a pleasant land, euen the glorious heritage of the armies of the heathen, and say, Thou shall call me, saying, My father, and shall not turne from me?

20 But as a woman rebelleth against her t husband: so haue ye rebelled against me, O house of Israel, saith the Lord.

21 u A voyce was heard vpon the high places weeping, and supplications of the children of Israel: for they have perverted their way, and forgotten the Lord their God.

22 O ye disobedient children, returne, and I will heare your rebellions. x Behold, wee come vnto thee, for thou art the Lord our God.

23 Truely the hope of the hilles is but vaine, nor the multitude of mountaines: but in the Lord our God is the health of Israel.

24 For confusion hath deuoured our y fathers labours, from our youth, their sheepe and their bullockes, their sonnes and their daughters.

25 We lie downe in our confusion, and our shame k And gaue her into the hands of the Assyrians.

l The Ebrew word may either signifie lightnesse, and wantonnesse, or noise and bruit.

m Iudah fained for a time that she did returne, as vnder Iosiah and other good kings, but she was neuer truely touched, or wholly reformed, as appeared when occasion was offered by any wicked prince.

n Israel hath not declared herselfe so wicked as Iudah, which yet hath had more admonitions and examples to call her to repentance.

o Whereas the Israelites were now kept in captiuity by the Assyrians, to whom he promiseth mercy, if they will repent.

p There was no way, which thou diddest not haunt to seeke after the idols, and to trot a pilgrimage.

q This is to be vnderstood of the commiug of Christ, for then they shall not seeke the Lord by ceremonies, and all figures shall cease.

r Meaning, the Church, where the Lord will be present to the worlds end, Matth. 28, 20.

s Where they are now in captiuity.

t The Ebrew word signifieth a friend or companion, and here may be taken for a husband, as it is vsed also, Hos. 3, 1.

u Signifying, that God, whom they had forsaken, would bring their enemies vnto them, who should leade them captiue, and make them to cry and lament x This is spoken in the person of Israel to the shame of Iudah, which stayed so long to turne vnto God.

y For their idolatry Gods vengeance hath light vpon them and their, z They iustifie not themselves, or say that they would follow their fathers, but condemne their wicked doings and desire shame covereth vs: z for we have sinned against the Lord our God, we and our fathers from our youth, even unto this day, and have not obeyed the voyce of the Lord our God.

CHAP. IIII.

1 True repentance. 4 Hee exhorteth to the circumciſion of the heart. 5 The deſtruction of Iudah is prophecied for the malice of their hearts. 19 The Prophet lamenteth it.

a That is, wholly, and without hypocriſie. Io. 2.12. not diſſembling to turne and ſerve God as they doe which ſerve him by halfes, as Hoſe. 7.16.

b Thou ſhalt deteſt the name of idols, Pſal. 16.4. and ſhalt with reverence ſweare by the living God, when thine oath may advance Gods glory, and profite others: and hereby ſwearing hee meaneth the true religion of God.

c He willeth them to plucke up the impietie and wicked affection and worldly reſpects out of their heart, that the true ſeede of Gods word may be ſowen therein. Hoſe 10, 12. and this is the true circumciſion of the heart, Deut 10,16. rom. 2, 29. col. 2, 11.

d He wearneth them of the great dangers that ſhall come upon them by the Caldeans, except they repent and turne to the Lord.

e He ſpeaketh this to admoniſh them of the great danger when every man ſhall prepare to ſave himſelfe, but it ſhall be too late, 2 King. 25.4.

f Meaning, Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babylon. 2 King. 24,1.

g That is, the falſe propher, which ſtill prophecied peace and ſecuritie.

h By the falſe propheis which promiſed peace and tranquilitie: and thus thou haſt puniſhed their rebellious ſtubbornes by cauſing them to hearken unto lies which would not beleeve thy truth, 1. King. 22,23. Ezech. 14,9. 2. Theſſ 2, 11.

i The Northwinde whereby he meaneth Nebuchad-nezzar.

k But to carie away both corne, and chaffe.

l Meaning that Nebuchad-nezzar ſhould come as ſuddenly, as a cloud that is caried with the wind.

m This is ſpoken in the perſon of all the people, who in their affliction ſhould crie thus.

n Which was a city in the vtmoſt border of Iſrael Northward toward Babylon.

o Which was in the mid-way betweene Dan and Ieruſalem.

1 IF Iſrael, if thou returne, a rerurne unto mee, ſaith the Lord: and if thou put away thine abominations out of my ſight, then ſhalt thou not remoove.

2 And thou ſhalt b ſweare, The Lord liveth in trueth, in iudgement and in righteouſneſſe, and the nations ſhall be bleſſed in him, and ſhall glorie in him.

3 For thus ſaith the Lord to the men of Iudah, and to Ieruſalem,

4 Breake up c your fallow ground, and ſow not among the thornes: be circumciſed to the Lord, and take away the foreskins of your hearts, ye men of Iudah, and inhabitants of Ieruſalem, leaſt my wrath come foorth like fire, and burne, that none can quench it, becauſe of the wickedneſſe of your inventions.

5 d Declare in Iudah, and ſhew foorth in Ieruſalem, and ſay, Blow the trumpet in the land: cry, and gather together, and ſay, Aſſemble your ſelves, and let vs goe into ſtrong cities.

6 Set up the ſtandart in Zion: e prepare to flee, and ſtay not: for I will bring a plague from the North, and a great deſtruction.

7 The f lion is come up from his den, and the deſtroyer of the Gentiles is departed, and gone foorth of his place to lay thy land waſte, and thy cities ſhallbe deſtroyed without an inhabitant.

8 Wherefore girde you with ſackcloath: lament, and howle, for the fierce wrath of the Lord is not turned backe from vs.

9 And in that day, ſaith the Lord, the heart of the king ſhall perish, and the heart of the princes and the Prieſts ſhall be aſtoniſhed, and the g Prophets ſhall wonder.

10 Then ſaid I, Ah, Lord God, ſurely thou haſt h deceived this people, and Ieruſalem, ſaying, Ye ſhall have peace, and the ſword pearceth unto the heart.

11 At that time ſhall it be ſaid to this people and to Ieruſalem, A dry i winde in the hie places of the wilderneſſe commeth toward the daughter of my people, but neither k to fan nor to cleanſe, 12 A mightie wind ſhall come unto me from thoſe places, and now will I alſo give ſentence upon them.

13 Behold, hee ſhall come upon the l clouds, and his charets ſhalbe as a tempeſt: his horſes are lighter then eagles. m Woe unto us, for wee are deſtroyed.

14 O Ieruſalem, waſh thine heart from wickedneſſe, that thou mayeſt be ſaved: how long ſhall they wicked thoughts remaine within thee?

15 For a voyce declareth from n Dan, and publiſheth affliction from mount o Ephraim.

16 Make ye mention of the heathen, and publiſh in Ieruſalem, Behold, the ſcoutes come from a farre countrey, and cry out againſt the cities of Iudah.

17 They have compaſſed her about as the watchmen of the p field, becauſe it hath provoked me unto wrath, ſaith the Lord.

18 Thy wayes and thine inventions have procured thee theſe things, ſuch is thy wickednelle; therefore it ſhall be bitter, therefore it ſhall pierce unto thine heart.

19 My belly, my q belly, I am pained, even at the very heart: mine heart is troubled within me: I cannot be ſtill: for my ſoule hath heard the ſound of the trumpet, and the alarme of the battell.

20 Deſtruction upon deſtruction is cryed, for the whole land is waſted, ſuddenly are my r tents deſtroyed, and my curtaines in a moment.

21 How long ſhall I ſee the ſtandart, and heare the ſound of the trumpet?

22 For my people is fooliſh, they have not knowen me: they are fooliſh children, and have none vnderſtanding: ſ they are wiſe to doe evill, but to doe well they have no knowledge.

23 I have looked upon the earth, and loe, it was without forme and t voide: and to the heavens, and they had no light.

24 I behelde the mountaines: and loe, they trembled, and all the hils ſhooke.

25 I beheld, and loe there was no man, and all the birds of the heaven were departed.

26 I beheld, and loe, the fruitfull place was a wilderneſſe, and all the cities thereof were broken downe at the preſence of the Lord, and by his fierce wrath.

27 For thus hath the Lord ſay, The whole land ſhallbe deſolate: yet will I u not make a full ende.

28 Therefore ſhall the earth mourne, and the heavens above ſhall be darkened, becauſe I have pronounced it: I have thought it, and will not repent, neither will I turne backe from it.

29 Thy whole citie ſhall flee, for the noiſe of the horſemen and bowmen: they ſhall goe into thickets, and climbe up upon the rockes: every citie ſhallbe forſaken, and not a man dwell therein.

30 And when thou ſhalt be deſtroyed, what wilt thou doe? Though thee x cloatheſt thy ſelfe with ſcarlet, though thou deckeſt thee with ornaments of golde, though thou painteſt thy face with colours, yet ſhall thou trimme thy ſelfe in vaine: for thy lovers will abhorre thee and ſeeke thy life.

31 For I have heard a noyſe as of a woman travailing, or as one labouring of her firſt child, even the voyce of the daughter Zion that ſigheth and ſtretcheth out her hands: y woe is me now: for my ſoule fainteth becauſe of the murtherers.

p Which keepe the ſiuits ſo ſtraitly, that nothing can come in nor out: ſo ſhould the Babylonians compaſſe Iudah.

q He ſheweth that the true miniſters are lively touched with the calamities of the Church, ſo that all the parts of their body feele the griefe of their heart, albeit with zeale to Gods glory they pronounce his iudgements againſt the people.

r Meaning, the cities, which were as easily caſt downe as a tent.

ſ Their wiſedome and policie tend to their owne deſtruction and pulleth them from God.

t By theſe maner of ſpeeches hee ſheweth the horrible deſtruction that ſhould come upon the land, and alſo condemneth the obſtinacie of the people, who repent not at the feare of theſe terrible things, ſeeing that the inſenſible creatures are mooved therewith, as if the order of nature ſhould be changed, Iſa. 13, 10. and 24.23 Eze. 32.7. Ioel 2.31 and 3.15.

u But for his mercies ſake, he will reſerve himſelfa reſidue to be his Church, and to praiſe him in earth. Iſa. 2 9.

x Neither iby ceremonies nor rich gifts ſhall deliver thee.

y As the prophets were mooved to pitie the deſtruction of their people, ſo they declared it to the people to moove them to repentance, Iſa. 22, 4 Chap. 9, 1.

CHAP. V.

1 In Iudah no righteous man is found, neither among the people nor the rulers. 15 Wherefore Iudah is deſtroyed of the Caldeans.

1 RVnne to and fro by the ſtreets of Ieruſalem, and behold now, and know, and inquire in the open places thereof, if yee can finde a man, or if there be any that executeth iudgement, and ſeeketh the trueth, and I will ſpare a it.

a That is, the citie.

2 For though they ſay, The b Lord liveth, yet doe they ſweare falſly.

b Though they pretend religion and holineſſe, yet all is but hypocriſie: for vnder this kind of ſwearing is contained the true religion.

c Doeth not thou love vprightnesse and faithfull dealing?
d Thou hast oftimes punished them, but all is in vaine, Isa.9.13.

3 O Lord, are not thine eyes vpon the c truth? thou hast d striken them, but they have not sorowed: thou hast consumed them, but they have refused to receive correction: they have made their faces harder then a stone, and have refused to returne.

4 Therefore I sayd, Surely they are poore, they are foolish, for they know not the way of the Lord, nor the iudgement of their God.

e He speaketh this to the reproach of them which should governe and teach others, and yet are farther out of the way then the simple people.
f Meaning, Nebuchad-nezzar and his armie.

5 I will get me vnto the e great men, and will speake vnto them: for they have knowen the way of the Lord, and the iudgement of their God: but these have altogether broken the yoke, and burst the bonds.

6 Wherefore a f lyon out of the forests shall slay them, and a wolfe of the wilderneſſe shall destroy them: a leopard shall watch over their cities: every one that goeth out thence, shall be torne in pieces, because their trespasses are many, and their rebellions are increased.

g He sheweth that to sweare by any thing then by God, is to forsake him.

7 How should I spare thee for this? thy children have forsaken me, and, g sworne by them that are no gods: though I fed them to the full, yet they committed adulterie, and assembled themselves by companies in the harlots houses.

8 They rose up in the morning like fed horses: for every man * neyed after his neighbours wife.

* Ezek.22.11.

9 Shall I not visite for these things, saith the Lord? shall not my soule be avenged on such a nation as this?

h He commandeth the Babylonians and enemies to destroy them.
i Reade Chap 4.27.

10 h Climbe up upon their walles, and destroy them, but make not a full end: i take away their battlements, for they are not the Lords.

11 For the house of Israel, and the house of Iudah have grievously trespassed against me, saith the Lord.

k Because they gave no credit to the words of his Prophets, as Is. 28.15.
l Their words shall be of one effect, but vaine.
m They are not sent of the Lord, and therefore that which they threaten to vs, shall come upon them.

12 They have k denied the Lord, and sayd, It is not thee, neither shall the plague come upon vs, neither shall we see sword nor famine.

13 And the Prophets shalbe as l wind, and the word is m not in them: thus shall it come unto them.

n Meaning Ieremiam.
o To wit, the Babylonians and Caldeans.

14 Wherefore thus sayth the Lord God of hoasts, Because yee speake such words, beholde, I will put my words into n thy mouth, like a fire, and this people shall be as wood, and it shall devoure them.

p Who shall kill many with their arrowes.

15 Loe, I will bring a nation upon you o from farre, O house of Israel, saith the Lord, which is a mightie nation, and an ancient nation, a nation whose language thou knowest not, neither vnderstandest what they say.

16 Whose quiver is as an p open sepulchre: they are all very strong.

17 And they shall eate thine harvest and thy bread: they shall devoure thy sonnes and thy daughters: they shall eate up thy sheepe and thy bullockes: they shall eate thy vines and thy figge-trees: they shall destroy with the sword thy fenced cities, wherein thou diddest trust.

q Here the Lord declareth his vnspeakeable favour toward his Church, as Chap.4.27.
* Chap.16.10.
r Meaning, the Prophet Ieremiah.

18 Nevertheleſſe, at those dayes, saith the Lord, I will not make a full end of q you.

19 And when * yee shall say, Wherefore doth the Lord our God doe these things unto vs? then shalt r thou answere them, Like as yee have forsaken mee and served strange gods in your land, so shall yee serve strangers in a land that is not yours.

20 Declare this in the house of Iaakob, and publish it in Iudah, saying, 21 Heare now this, O foolish people and † without vnderstanding, which have * eyes and see not, which have eares and heare not.

† Ebr. without heart.
* Isa.6.9. matt.13. 14. acts 28.27. Rom.11.8.

22 Feare yee not mee, saith the Lord? or will ye not be afraid at my presence, which have placed the sand for the * bounds of the sea by the perpetuall decree that it cannot passe it, and though the waves thereof rage, yet can they not prevaile, though they roare, yet can they not passe over it?

* Iob.26.10.

23 But this people hath an vnfaithfull rebellious heart: they are departed and gone.

24 For they say not in their heart, Let vs now feare the Lord our God, that giveth raine both early and late in due season: he reserveth unto vs the appointed weekes of the harvest.

25 Yet your s iniquities have turned away these things, and your sinnes have hindred good things from you.

s If there be any stay, there we receive not Gods blessings in abundance, we must consider that it is for our owne iniquities, Isa.59.1.2.

26 For among my people are found wicked persons, that lay waite as hee that setteth snares: they have made a pit, to catch men.

27 As a cage is full of birds, so are their houses full of deceit: thereby they are be come great and waxen rich.

28 They are waxen fat and shining: they doe overpasse the deeds of the wicked: * they execute no iudgement, no not the iudgement of the fatherlesse: yet they t prosper, though they execute no iudgement for the poore.

* Isa.1.23. Ezech.7.9.
t They feele not the plague of God for it.

29 Shall I not visit for these things, saith the Lord? or shall not my soule be avenged on such a nation as this?

30 An horrible and filthy thing is committed in the land.

u Meaning that there could be no thing but disorder, where the ministers were wicked persons and corrupt.

31 The u prophets prophecie lyes, and the priests † receive gifts in their hands, and my people delite therein. What will yee then doe in the end thereof?

† Or, beare rule.

CHAP. VI.

The comming of the Assyrians and Caldeans. 16 Her exhorteth the Iewes to repentance.

a He speaketh to them chiefly because they should take heede by the example of their brethren, the other halfe of their tribe, which were now caried away prisoners.

O Yee children of a Beniamin, prepare to flee out of the middes of Ierusalem, and blow the trumpet in b Teko: set up a standart upon c Beth-haccerem: for a plague appeareth out of the North and great destruction.

b Which was a citie in Iudah, five miles from Bethlehem. 2.Chr.11.6.

2 I have compared the daughter of Zion to d a beautifull and daintie woman.

c Reade Neh.3.14.
d I have intreated her gently, and given her abundance of all things.

3 The Pastors with their flockes e shall come unto her: they shall pitch their tents round about by her, and every one shall feed in his place.

e She shall so destroyed, that the sheepe may be fed in her.

4 f Prepare warre against her: raise, and let vs goe up toward the South: woe unto us: for the day declineth, and the shadowes of the evening are stretched out.

f He speaketh this in the person of the Babylonians, which complaine that the time faileth them before they have brought their enterprises to passe.
